NORTHEAST STORM DID MUCH DAMAGE

NEW ENGLAND, NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA CITIES SUFFER FROM BLIZZARD.

TRAFFIC IS HELD UP

Schooner Goes to Pieces Off Massachusetts Coast—Many Lives Reported Lost.

By Associated Press. Boston, Mass., Dec. 27.—Masses of wreckage, believed to be from the schooner Palmer of Boston, were found on the beach at Hull today. It is thought the schooner went to pieces in yesterday's storm, with a loss of twelve men.

Five million dollars is the loss estimated today of the havoc wrought in and around Boston by the blizzard as it swept through New England and drove a record tide over the coast.

The storm was the greatest New England has experienced in eleven years.

No other land fatalities other than the four which occurred yesterday when the tidal wave burst over the dyke in Chelsea are reported.

The Christmas blizzard, the most severe storm experienced in the east in twenty years, is this morning causing traffic to be tied up in cities from Pennsylvania to Maine and has badly disarranged train schedules throughout half a dozen states. Five persons in Philadelphia and a dozen or more in New York have met death by exposure. Final reports of fatalities in New England are not at hand.

By Associated Press. Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 27.—Philadelphia is still today in the grasp of the blizzard which descended upon this section Christmas Day. General business is tied up worse than for many years and the prospects are that it will be several days before conditions are again normal. Railroad and street car traffic are in bad condition. The snow fall was one of the greatest in the history of the weather bureau. Reports today show that five persons lost their lives during the storm in each case death being due to exhaustion.

By Associated Press. New York, Dec. 27.—Hard work by thousands of men on the city's streets broke the tie-up which was caused by the greatest December storm in years in this vicinity. Incoming trains are still delayed and surface car traffic is not yet normal.

Eighteen persons in and near New York perished in the Christmas blizzard or from accidents caused by it. Six died from exposure after being caught in snow drifts. Others were drowned and several were killed by trains.

Mr. D. E. Thomas and Miss C. H. LaBron were married at the Presbyterian manse yesterday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. J. L. McKee, pastor of the church officiating. The pastor and his family and Miss Mabel Garrison a friend of the bride were the only witnesses.

Immediately after the ceremony, the newly married couple were driven to the groom's country home, three miles east of the city where they will spend their honeymoon and settle down to housekeeping.

The bride for the past several years has been with the Pennington dry goods company, and has a host of friends, all of whom will be glad to learn of her happy marriage.

Mr. Thomas is a progressive farmer and stock raiser, and is at present serving as county commissioner of precinct No. 1. He is to be congratulated on securing for his bride such a most excellent lady.

The Times joins with other friends in wishing for the newly married couple much joy and happiness.

COLONEL JAMES GORDAN SUCCEEDS M'LAURIN

By Associated Press. Jackson, Miss., Dec. 27.—Governor Noel today announced the appointment of Colonel James Gordon of Okolona, to be United States Senator from Mississippi to succeed the late Senator McLaurin. This appointment is temporary until the legislature can select a Senator for the unexpired term of three years and three months and it was made with the understanding that Senator Gordon would not be a candidate for the unexpired term.

Colonel Gordon is seventy-six years of age and a native of Mississippi, and served with distinction in the Confederate army. He served a four-year term in the State Senate during the Vardaman administration. One of Governor Noel's principal motives in appointing Gordon was to convey a compliment to the soldiers of the Confederacy.

SIXTEEN WEDDINGS IN THIS CITY LAST WEEK

Sixteen marriage licenses issued during the last day or two of last week indicates many weddings in this city and Wichita Falls sustained her reputation as Cupid's headquarters for this section. The following licenses were issued late Friday and Saturday:

Grover Curington and Miss Rhoda Tucker, both of Charlie, Tex.

Laurence Gregory Thuet of Olney and Miss Myrtle Almedia Rea of Chillicothe.

Garfield Eversole and Miss Eva K. Taylor, both of Grandfield, Okla.

Harvey Huffstetter and Miss Lee Pharris, both of this city.

Miles J. Gupton and Miss Mable Millican, both of this city.

J. N. Boleman of San Gabriel and Miss Callie Gabbert of Iowa Park.

Walter Blankenship of Burk Burnett and Miss Jessie May Barton of Iowa Park.

Blackburn-Manley—A. M. Blackburn and Miss Vesta Manley surprised their many friends by the quiet marriage ceremony in which they were the principals. It took place Christmas Day, at the parsonage of the Christian church, Rev. R. R. Hamlin officiating. Following the ceremony, a very enjoyable supper was tendered them by a few friends at their home, 1307 Burnett Avenue, where they will reside.

BEHAVED HERSELF DURING HOLIDAYS

WICHITA FALLS ON HER GOOD BEHAVIOR DURING CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION.

ONE SHOOTING SCRAPE EXPECT DECISION SOON

That Was the Only Serious Disorder Reported—Number of Drunks Was Small.

One shooting scrape, one burglary, one fight and a few drunks constituted the total wickedness of this city during the three days of Christmas observance. The number of cases of intoxication has been agreeably small, and the other offenders have been in proportion. The showing is much better than last year.

The only trouble that appeared at all serious occurred last night near the round house, in a negro cabin, where Ed Johnson was shot twice and badly injured by another negro, Ed Davis. Davis was arrested a few minutes later by Deputy Sheriff Jernigan and locked up. The negroes in whose home the shooting took place says that she and Johnson were sitting in a room talking when Davis rushed in, jerked her out of the way and fired. One bullet took effect in Johnson's lung and the other grazed his neck. It is not believed that the injuries will prove fatal. After the shooting Davis attempted to disguise himself and get out of town, running squarely in Jernigan in his efforts to escape.

The Patterson Produce Company was burglarized yesterday morning, five cases of eggs being stolen. Three of them have been recovered and two white men are under arrest charged with the burglary. One of them has admitted his guilt.

Of the array of drunks who faced Judge Rye this morning, practically all were from other towns, having come here to celebrate Christmas. One fist fight was reported and the combatants arrested, but neither was hurt.

A number of small boys got into the toils for falling to be particular enough about where they shot fire crackers, but none of them were locked up. On the whole, the Christmas behavior of Wichita Falls was better than usual and indicates that it is not nearly as wicked as she is sometimes painted.

The Wichita Hardware Company has the thanks of the Times for two of its very pretty 1910 calendars. They have a quantity for distribution to their patrons and those calling within the next day or so can secure one.

EXTENSION'S FATE IS DECIDED SOON

REPRESENTATIVES OF HOLLIS AND WELLINGTON COFFERING HERE THIS MORNING.

EXPECT DECISION SOON

Three or Four Towns Along Proposed New Line Believed to Be Ready With Bonuses.

A delegation from Hollis, Okla., and Wellington, Tex., is in the city today to confer with the officials of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern regarding the proposed line from Altus to Wellington, by way of Hollis. While nothing was given out regarding the result of the conference, which was held this morning, it is understood that both Wellington and Hollis are ready to do their part. Upon what Altus does is understood to rest the decision about the construction of the line.

There are four towns along the line and the Northwestern is asking a bonus of $25,000 from each—Altus, Duke, Hollis and Wellington—a total bonus of $100,000 being required. Some agency seems to exist at Altus regarding the line and unless she wakes up and shows some inclination to do her part, Mangum may get the new line instead, as it is much closer and much more convenient in every way to the new territory.

Hollis is represented here today by G. T. Mottley, W. L. Hollis, J. E. Jones and G. W. Gilliland. Wellington is represented by M. W. Davenport and H. C. Wills. These gentlemen were in consultation with the officials of the Northwestern this morning, returning on this afternoon's trains. The Northwestern's option expires next Friday and whatever is to be done by the towns must be done by that time.

Death of W. L. Jennings.

W. L. Jennings, a citizen of Electra, died at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon of typhoid fever. Deceased was about 45 years of age, and leaves surviving him a wife and five children. Texas News Service Special. Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 27.—R. E. L. Handsome Christmas Present.

Mr. I. H. Roberts, the cement contractor, is the recipient of a very handsome Christmas present in the shape of an open-face gold watch, engraved on the back in monogram style, with his initials, 'I. H. R.'

The watch was presented to Mr. Roberts on Christmas morning by his employees, which they gave as a slight evidence of esteem for their employer. He is very proud of the gift, not so much on account of its worth, but because of the spirit which prompted its giving.

CORNER IN ROCK ISLAND IS THOUGHT TO EXIST

By Associated Press. New York, Dec. 27.—The common stock of the Rock Island sold up to eighty dollars a share within five minutes of the opening of the Stock Exchange this morning, after closing at forty-nine and a half Friday. Floor traders believe there is a corner in this stock. The high figure reached on the sales was twenty thousand shares. A sudden relapse to sixty one then occurred.

The stock settled back again, after heavy trading, to fifty. The Rock Island officials disclaim all knowledge of the cause of the advance. Other stocks were affected, including Southern Pacific, which ran off four points below Friday.

The episode was a general subject for discussion in the financial district. It is estimated that it will probably be made a matter for investigation by the governors' of the stock exchange.

A report is current that a clerk handling an order of four thousand shares made an error and made it read forty thousand.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS ARE SUNK IN QUICKSAND

A wagon load of household goods, including a fine organ and a trunk containing $275 in money, lies at the bottom of the Red River near the Burk Burnett crossing, as the result of the mishap of L. Lassiter of Walters, Oklahoma. Mr. Lassiter was moving to Texas to occupy a farm about three miles from this city and had all his household furniture and chattels on a wagon, drawn by a pair of mules. About half way across the river the mules bogged in the quicksand and in spite of the best efforts of the driver, they were soon caught. It was necessary to abandon the wagon, entirely, the mules being gotten out safely.

Mr. Lassiter's total loss will exceed a thousand dollars. A valuable organ was included in the household goods, in addition to the trunk. The latter is believed to have been stolen after the wagon had been abandoned. There is still some possibility that some of the goods may be recovered, as they are not entirely submerged in the sand.

NEW KING OF THE BELGIUM PEOPLE

HE IS DIFFERENT IN VERY MANY WAYS FROM HIS PREDECESSOR.

EDUCATED IN GERMANY

Political Tendencies are Socialistic, Which is Doing Much to Make Him Popular.

Brussels, Dec. 27.—Albert the new king of the Belgians, who succeeds automatically to the throne because of the failure of the late king to designate a successor from among the princes of Europe satisfactory to the powers who have guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium, is the son of King Leopold's brother, Prince Philippe, count of Flanders.

Prince Philippe, the new king's father, was born in 1837, was married in 1867 to Princess Marie of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, and had three children—Princess Henriette, who was married to the Duc de Vendome; Princess Josephine, who wedded Prince Karl Anton of Hohenzollern, and the present king of Belgium.

Albert's father was heir apparent in the absence of the male offspring of the late king, and his succession became certain, or at least his rights to it became certain, when Leopold let it be definitely known that he would let the succession go to the neutral heir instead of using his privilege of designating a successor from among princes outside the royal family of Belgium.

With these rights as a certainty, Prince Philippe decided to withdraw them in favor of his son, Prince Albert, Prince Philippe, for many years preceding his death in 1905, was by no means a well man. He was deaf and otherwise incapacitated for an active life. Once sure he would be protected in his hopes of the succession, he stepped aside for his son, and the young Albert was brought up with the kingship in view.

Leopold was ten years in the throne when Albert was born in 1875 so that Albert, on his accession, is four years older than was his uncle when the latter became king.

Albert was married on October 2, 1900 to Princess Elisabeth of Bavaria, and the offspring from this well-made match are three—Prince Leopold, born

November 3, 1901; Prince Charles, born October 10, 1903, and Princess Marie Jose, born August 4, 1906. The existence of at least two sons, barring death and royal whims, which do not frequently take the form of giving up a throne, safeguards the succession to the house of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

The new king Albert appears to the public view in two characters, seemingly somewhat diverse. One of these paints him a loving husband and father, the very opposite in all respects to his much advertised uncle. It is said that he and his wife, who is now his queen, have never had a contrary word between them; that in his children the new king finds the comfort and delight traditionally found only in the cotter's home; that father and mother are closely knit in their affection for each other and for their children, and finally, that the young monarch is wholly wanting to his uncle's characteristic love of money. Incidentally it may be said that he also lacks his uncle's shrewd business head and innate turn for successful financiering if not for the careful and successful management of national thrift, which came naturally to him from his ancestry on the other side of the Rhine.

The reverse of this cozy picture is not by any means so pretty. There are some who say that the new king has not been able to get along with his wife at all; or that his wife is not able to get along with him. Recently the wind of gossip has been blowing fresh and strong about this royal pair, pointing out that her royal highness has been on the verge of getting a divorce or a separation a number of times, and has been withheld only by the near prospects of becoming a queen with the death of her uncle by marriage. How far this is true there is no telling at this distance. The general opinion, however, seems to be favorable to the first characterization of the young king and his family.

Albert's education has been drawn more after the German plan than was that of his predecessor. He was given a rather thorough understanding in a practical way of the art of war, although there is small prospect of its ever being of the slightest use to him as a monarch whose neutrality is "guaranteed" for virtually all time by parties most concerned and amply able to do it. But his education in other respects has not been overlooked. He has learned something about farming, intensive and other; he has studied practical economics, and no little about art and the sciences, especially about the technical branches, of which the late king was so fond. He comes to the throne fully qualified to uphold the reputation for generous patronage to science and art which his uncle and granduncle long ago established for the little kingdom of Belgium.

King Albert is one of the few monarchs of Europe who have visited America. On two occasions he has come to these shores and has seen something of American hospitality and of the regal style in which things can be done at Newport when there is reason.

Two facts concerning King Albert are specially worthy of mention. The first is his undoubted and tremendous popularity. In a larger kingdom this popularity and its cause would be deeply significant of the 'trend of the times.' In a kingdom even as small as Belgium it is significant enough. This new king is the first young man of his kind who has won popularity because of his decidedly socialistic tendencies. He is a king who, if reports current in Europe are to be credited, is as far removed from the divine right theory as it is possible for a king to be.

The second fact about him is his intention—if reports are true—to be independent of the church. The merits of the clerical and the anti-clerical disputes in certain monarchies of Europe are not to be appreciated or well understood by Americans, but this phase of the new king's political convictions will be sure to be made much of by those who contend that the facts as they are have a meaning that can be stretched to take in a larger and more important countries such as Spain and Austria.

Personally the young king is tall, strong and good looking. In his childhood he was sickly and anything but promising for a soldier, but his military instructors took care that he was given the right sort of work to cure these defects. He is an ardent automobilist, another distinctly modern tendency, and does not care for horses at all. He is interested in the mechanical structure of the machines he uses, and has even gone as far as watching the manufacture of them in the factories. He has taken a few flights in dirigible balloons.

But, above all other considerations, is the fact that he ascends the throne with the best wishes and the intense love of the people he has been called to rule.

Frenchmen regarded Leopold as a man of brains rather than of heart, and pay comparatively little attention to his painful domestic relations with his three daughters. King Albert, in the opinion of those who knew him well, is a man of strong character, without being a man of brilliant talents, and has a great deal of common sense.

One prominent French statesman said today: 'King Albert has one hobby, and that is to create a large and well-equipped commercial marine for Belgium, which will enable his thrifty subjects to get the full benefit of trade with the Congo. King Albert will continue his uncle's work as the sovereign of the Congo Independent State, and will develop it as a grand business enterprise. Nevertheless, during his recent visit to the Congo country he became painfully impressed with the need of reforms of a humanitarian nature, and these he will certainly take in hand at the earliest practicable moment.'

'King Albert is especially alive to the necessity of modifying the conditions of rubber exploitation in the Congo which is being carried on with enormous profits.'

FARES ON AIRSHIP LINES.

Experts Figure That Passengers Will Pay From $5 to $7.50 an Hour.

A committee, formed in Germany, of five aeronautical experts, has worked out estimates on the cost of working aerial passenger lines. The figures reveal clearly enough that travel in the air will for some time come as a luxury in which only wealthy persons can indulge. The well-known investor, Major Von Parseval, is the chairman of the committee and the members are Herr Rettig, Professors Flarm and Romberg and Lieutenant Moderbeek. They find that the cost of constructing an airship of approximately 282,500 cubic feet capacity, together with a shed for its accommodations and other accessories, would be about $100,000. Major Von Parseval undertakes to build an airship of this size and at this price which would be capable of carrying eighteen passengers besides the crew.

Taking it that ascents could be made on 200 days in the year, the annual working expenses are estimated at $75,000, or $375 each working day. Even should the airship carry a full complement of passengers on each trip, which is highly improbable, it is clear that every passenger would have to pay more than $25 for a day's trip in order to cover the working expenses and yield a small margin of profit. Assuming that, instead of undertaking all day trips, the airships were able to make half a dozen ascents a day, the fares would still have to be fixed at from $5 to $7.50 an hour.—London Letter to New York Sun.

GROWING FEDERAL OFFICES.

An official register just published shows that the total number of Federal employes now on the pay rolls is three hundred and seventy thousand—an increase of over sixty thousand in two years. In the District of Columbia alone there are about twenty thousand minor officeholders, drawing more than thirty-one millions annually in salaries.

The free rural delivery services, scattered throughout the country, beginning on a modest scale a few years ago, now employes some forty thousand carriers. In virtually every branch of the public service the expansion has been constant. Rapidly as the population has grown, the official army which draws its livelihood from the treasury has grown still faster.

Nobody expects this array to be materially diminished. Probably it will continue to be reinforced, no matter how strongly the champions of economy may urge their claims at Washington. But this tendency adds an argument to the armory of those citizens who insist that the country cannot afford to depart from the sound doctrine that the States themselves shall be vigilant in dealing with abuses and that their authorities shall endeavor to establish a reasonably uniform standard of legislation on vital questions.

The theory that all responsibility shall be trust on the central government implies that Federal offices must be multiplied indefinitely.

The average mind will find it hard to believe that Dr. Cook deliberately lied when he said he discovered the North Pole. It seems inconceivable that a man could have nerve enough to perpetrate such a monumental fake on the world and there is little doubt that he really believes he was the first to reach the North Pole.

We may be a little early, but we feel safe in predicting that the 1910 crop of brides will break all previous records in Wichita Falls.

We have some splendid New Year's resolutions made out for signing by the members of the city council if they will call at this office.

Chinamen cannot vote; neither can infants or lunatics. The man who fails to pay his poll tax puts himself in a class with these.

A week from today the New Year's resolution will have suffered its usual fate.

Those Philadelphians who got that four thousand dollars worth of turkey Wichita Falls shipped up there will enjoy them more than we would, because we are used to such things.

Eight hundred thousand dollars in improvements, or just about double the 1908 showing, is Wichita Falls' record for this year, and we're going to double her up again in 1910.

No, Inquisitive, that man wearing the green peckle with the yellow spots on it is not a tobacco salesman; he is merely trying to avoid hurting his wife's feelings.

It generally turns out that the best New Year's resolutions are those we never make.

THE FRIENDLY KANSAS WAY.

Governor Stubbs' Neighborly Cook-stove Will Have Place in History. The folks down in Kansas were never of that suspicious and skeptical disposition which has made their Missouri neighbors famous. While the people across the state line cautiously demand to be shown, the truthful Kansans are willing to open their hearts to anyone that comes along; hence the slogan, "What's the matter with Kansas?" Humanitarianism is in blossom all the year 'round. Kindliness perfumes the ambient atmosphere. Benevolence beams from every eye, and most of the stranger's time is taken up in shaking hands and answering questions about his family's health.

A beautiful example of this generous spirit has just been afforded in Topeka, the state capital, by no less a personage than Governor Stubbs himself. The blizzard which is causing the country to shiver did not leave the genial Kansans unscathed. It had the same effect, moreover, as in localities where the Golden Rule is less honored—it brought with it a shortage of natural gas. Whereupon Governor Stubbs threw open his kitchen to his neighbors and told them to come in and fry their steaks and chops upon his coal stove. So many took advantage of his kind offer that numbered checks had to be issued to avoid disputes about precedence, and women stood in line waiting for the word "next" like men in a barber shop.

The Golden Rule mayors of the Jones and Whitlock type and the Golden Rule chiefs of police like Kohler, who have brought renown to the Buckeye state, have never done anything to compare with this. Kansas is truly the native heath of altruism, the home of the beatitudes, the one warm spot in a cold, cold world. Governor Stubbs is a shining example unto all men. His trustfulness may have been abused; someone may have carried off his coal tongs or the nickel-plated alarm clock on the kitchen mantel, but secure in the consciousness of his own charity and proud of having lived up to the state's best traditions, he need not regret these untoward happenings. He will go down in history along with the Good Samaritan and the model parent of the prodigal son.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

In another column will be found the announcement of John Robertson for county tax assessor. In asking for this office, the candidate makes the frank and open statement that "I ask no man's vote on account of being a cripple." This is commendable. In the opinion of this paper, too many people take advantage of their misfortunes to ask for public office, and it is often that the average voter will allow his sympathies to govern his better judgment and vote to place in public office men whom he knows to be not only incompetent, but sometimes unworthy. This is not the case with John. He is a Wichita Falls boy, and a graduate of our high school, and has always lived an upright life, making his living and assisting in the support of those dependent upon him. He is both mentally and physically qualified to fill the office which he seeks, and is perfectly willing to submit his claims for this office against those of any other able bodied, able-minded man in the county, and abide the result. He is a democrat of the Senator Joe Bailey type and the Times has, at least on one occasion, been forced to admit that of all the able defenders of the distinguished Senator in this city and county, the reasoning put forth by John Robertson has been the hardest to combat. But the Bailey question no more than other state questions, should cut any figure in the selection of our county officers. All the people of the county should ask: Is he qualified to fill the office which he seeks, and is he an honest and upright citizen. To which the Times can unhesitatingly subscribe in the case of John Robertson.

PROTECTION OF FORESTS AND WATER POWER WILL NO BE ANY EASY MATTER.

INTERESTS ARE AT WORK

No Effort is Being Spared to Hinder Government's Work in this Field.

By Associated Press. New York, Dec. 27.—Special interests have made repeated attacks upon the United States Forest Service and those attacks have increased in violence just in proportion as the service has offered effective opposition to predatory wealth, said Gifford Pinchot, Chief of the United States Forest Service, in a speech today at Rochelle, N. Y. Mr. Pinchot took as his subject for his speech at the People's Forum, 'Conservation and Equal Opportunity.' Mr. Pinchot said:

'The American people have evidently made up their minds that our natural resources must be conserved. That is good, but it settles only half of the question. For whose benefit shall they be conserved—for the benefit of the many, or for the use and profit of the few? The great conflict now being fought will decide. There is no other question before us that begins to be so important, or that will be so difficult to straddle, as the great question between special interests and equal opportunity; between the privileges of the few and the rights of the many; between government by men for human welfare and government by money for profit; between the men who stand for the Roosevelt policies and the men who stand against them. This is the essence of the conservation problem today.

'The conservation issue is a moral issue. When a few men get possession of one of the necessities of life, either through ownership of a natural resource or through unfair business methods, and use that control to extort undue profits, as in the recent cases of the Sugar Trust and the beef packers, they injure the average man without good reason, and they are guilty of a moral wrong.

'I believe in one form of government and I believe in the Golden Rule. But we must face the truth that monopoly of the sources of production makes it impossible for vast numbers of men and women to earn a fair living. Right here the conservation question teaches the daily life of the great body of our people, who pay the cost of special privileges. And the price is heavy. That price may be the chance to save the boys from saloons and the corner gang, and the girls from worse, and to make good citizens of them instead of bad; for an appalling proportion of the tragedies of life spring directly from the lack of a little money. Thousands of daughters of the poor fell into the hands of the white slave traders because their poverty leaves them without protection. Thousands of families, as the Pittsburgh survey has shown us, lead lives of brutalizing and the more dangerous these attacks have become. A favorite one is to assert that the forest service, in its zeal for the public welfare, has played ducks and drakes with the acts of congress.

'The fact is, on the contrary, that the service has had warrant of law for everything it has done; not once since it was created has any charge of illegality, despite the most searching investigation and the most bitter attack, ever led to reversal or reproof by either house of congress or by any congressional committee.

'Another, and unusually plausible, form of attack is to demand that all land now bearing trees shall be thrown out of the national forests.

'Still another attack, nearly successful two years ago, was an attempt to prevent the Forest Service from telling the people, through the press, that it is accomplishing for them, and how much this nation needs the forest.

'Since the Forest Service called public attention to the rapid absorption of the water power sites and the threatening growth of a great water power monopoly, the attacks upon it have increased with marked rapidity. I anticipate that they will continue to do so. Still greater opposition is promised in the near future. There is but one protection, a man awakened public opinion. That is why I give you the facts.'

centage of .989 for 128 games.

Bridwell of New York, with 145 games to his credit, and Hans Wagner of Pittsburgh, with 135, are tied with .940 per cent in the fielding averages for shortstops.

Humei of Brooklyn, played a perfect score in 17 games as outfielder, but Captain Clarke of Pittsburgh, has probably the best average, with 152 games played and a percentage of .987. Gibson, of Pittsburgh, caught 150 games, more than any other catcher, and had a fielding average of .983.

Pittsburg won in club fielding, with a score of .964, with the following ranking as they read: Chicago, .961; Philadelphia, .961; Brooklyn, .956; New York, .954; Cincinnati, .952; St. Louis, .951, and Boston, .947.

Cannitz of Pittsburgh, has probably the best pitching record, with 41 games played and a percentage of .306. Mathewson, of New York, has the same average, with 37 games played.

STORY OF THE RECENT OIL STRIKE AT ELECTRA

The Texas Oil Company have moved their derrick timber and drilling machinery to the field and are preparing to begin the drilling of oil well No. 7, and have machinery on the road for well No. 8, which will be located near the other wells on their lease. There are several more oil rigs on the road for the drilling of wells by some local parties and other oil concerns. These wells will be sunk on land north and east of town and will be well enough distributed to get some idea as to the extent of the field. There have been some geologists looking over the field and they pronounce this the best undeveloped oil field in the south. In fact, they say that there is a large field here and that Electra is right in the center of the geological survey. The local companies are preparing to sink wells on their lands and lands they have leases upon.

There has been an impression for many years that oil existed in paying quantities in and around Electra, and some eight or ten years ago, Mr. Waggoner had some wells drilled here trying to locate artesian water, but instead of striking water, he struck oil. Most all of his land was covered by oil leases at that time and he pulled the casing and plugged the holes up and left the exact extent of his oil find unknown. After considerable ranging in the courts over the oil leases, he won his case and obtained a release from the leases and started a well on his own land west of town, which well has proven to be a paying investment. He sold the well, together with leases on a large portion of his land, to the Texas Oil Company, but bound said company to develop the field or forfeit their leases. The company is now rushing the development of their new field and in the near future will be bringing in some very fine wells. They have some of their most experienced oil men in the field locating wells, taking geological surveys and transacting their other business matters. In the meantime, local parties have been securing leases on lands near the present oil wells and have formed companies with sufficient capital to develop their leases. Other large oil companies have purchased leases and are preparing to get in on the ground floor.

The oil situation has had a telling effect on the town already, as new residences are being erected, lots are changing hands rapidly and there are several businesses figuring on locating here.—Electra News.

SHOW GIRLS IN "THE GIRL QUESTION."

AMUSEMENTS

"The Girl Question."
 Pretty girls and catchy songs and dances which are marvels of grace and action, a cast of strutting players and above all a play with a plot of intense human interest are found in "The Girl Question," the entrancing musical play which comes to the Wichita Theatre Wednesday night. The play is along the lines, and is, in fact, a successor to "The Time, the Place and the Girl," the musical play which has jammed every theatre in which it has played since its run of 463 performances in Chicago.

The fifteen prettiest chorus girls who have been seen in one show are found in "The Girl Question" as are also the famous $1000 Beauty Brollers, the latter being the ten little girls who dance with an abandon of emotion and enthusiasm and an amount of ginger which has never been equaled.

The plot of "The Girl Question" reveals a story of every day life which is of real human interest though broken up in its development at moments to allow for introduction of songs and dances. The production was staged by that past master in the exploitation of dramatic scenes, beautiful stage pictures and graceful dances, George Marlon, the producer of the "Merry Widow," "A Stubborn Cinderella," "The Prince of Pilsen," etc. The songs include "Good-Bye Pal," "I Hate to Work on Monday," "O, Gee, Be Sweet to Me Kid," "Waltz Me Around Till I'm Dreamy," "When Eyes Like Yours Look Into Eyes Like Mine," "The Old Buck and Wing," and "Do Something."

"The Girl Question" is the latest of a series of unique musical comedy entertainments which Adams, Hough and Howard have furnished the La Salle Theatre, Chicago. It is a rustling, bustling, jolly unconventional sort of play with snap and action in every line and situation and those who have enjoyed its predecessors, "The Time, the Place and the Girl" will surely be pleased with it. The sale of seats opened today.

"Babes in Toyland."
 The stupendous musical extravaganza, "Babes in Toyland," will be presented at the Wichita Theatre, New Years' day, matinee and night.

"Babes in Toyland" will be found altogether superb from a spectacular point of view. It fairly bubbles with tuneful hilarity and comedy, and one event of interest follows so closely on the heels of its predecessor that the audience is kept on the quiver. Glen MacDonough and Victor Herbert composed the music, there being no less than twenty numbers.

"Babes in Toyland" enjoyed a run of over 450 nights in New York and one year in Chicago. This long run for a musical play is not at all surprising when it is taken into consideration that "Babes in Toyland" is one of the most elaborate and gorgeously staged musical extravaganzas that ever has been seen on the stage. Theatre-goers are frequently told that they are to see a complete production in its entirety and this occasion proves to be true. More often it is the other way. The forthcoming engagement of "Babes in Toyland" will be one of the occasions when it is true; following its long run in New York the entire production will be brought here. This includes all the magnificent scenery, expensive costumes and a cast in point of strength which it would be hard to equal. The company numbers over fifty people, including a beautiful chorus of pretty girls.

To All Who May Read This—Greeting:
 Let us sit down and reason together for a minute. Suppose you had a case in court, and we will say for instance, that you were plaintiff and that the defendant proposed to act in the capacity of trial judge; and dispose of the case on its merits? Wouldn't it jar you? Wouldn't it make you laugh?

Suppose you wanted to build a house and paid for first class material; and the contractor said he knew you would get it; because he would furnish the material out of his own lumber yard. If you stopped to think, wouldn't it make you smile? Can a duck swim?

The trouble is, there are a whole lot of people who don't think. You know what P. T. Barnum said about the American people dearly loving to be humbugged? Well, many of them are, whether they love it or not.

But we have more serious business than theorizing; for we want to announce that we have a large stock of first class lumber and other building material that we are going to sell and all quick; at prices that will move it; for we must sell; and we challenge any firm to meet our prices on the same grades of stock. Nearly every customer we have had since the yard opened for business has said: "Well there is no use getting prices anywhere else, load my wagon. Do you believe it? Come and see; and if you are a heathen, we will make a Christian out of you."
