DENY THE NECESSITY TO "THROTTLE MR. BRYAN."

Democratic Leaders at Hot Springs Say the Report in New York is Unfounded.

Hot Springs, Mar. 18.—Chairman Norman E. Mack of the National Democratic Committee and Charles F. Murphy, Tammany chief, both denied tonight the report that the councils of Democratic party leaders held here are for the purpose of "freeing Bryan followers out of party affair." The statement has been made in the press under a New York date line and the authority given was "friends of Boss Murphy."

"There is absolutely nothing to the story" said Mr. Mack. Then he explained that Mr. Bryan had made his position so plain not to again attempt party leadership that any alleged attempt to throttle Mr. Bryan's influence would be unnecessary.

"There is nothing to the report," briefly answered Boss Murphy, who had just enveloped himself in evening dress for the big St. Patrick's ball at his hotel. That was all Murphy had to say about any thing. When he first arrived he only said: "I came here for my wife's health."

Tonight, as they mingled with the ball party, appearance did not confirm his original excuse for rushing here where Chairman Mack was holding caucuses with Southern Democrats, but Murphy is not given to explanations. The New York story stated that if the conferences held here resulted satisfactorily to Murphy, Mack and Richard O'Connor, the Bryan element would be a hopeless minority in the next convention. Mr. Mack answered this by saying there would be no minority of consequences in the next convention. He believed the Democrats of the country were a unit in wanting only the strongest man for leadership and that when it became apparent as to which was the best man, the Democrats of the North, East, South and West would unite in his support.

WHEN PLATT WAS TALKATIVE.

Thomas Wilson of New York Tells Anecdote of Former Leader.

"What's doing in New York? That is a rather exceptional inquiry. Just now politics, governmental investigations and some other things," said Thomas Wilson of the metropolis at the St. Anthony Hotel last night.

"Reminds me of the late Senator Thomas C. Platt," said he. "Conditions in the Empire State were then as they are now—rather warm in a political way, only at that time the fight was centered in Brooklyn."

"Well, the city editor of one of the afternoon papers in New York sent his star reporter out to see Platt, and when the reporter reached his office his superior asked: 'Did you see Platt?'"

"'You bet I did,' said the reporter. 'Right then he wrote two columns of the political situation, of which Mr. Platt knew nothing until he read the paper the next day.'"

"That afternoon Mr. Platt met the reporter in the lobby of one of the big hotels of the metropolis."

"'I guess I was talkative yesterday,' said Mr. Platt to him."

Mr. Wilson left last night for the City of Mexico. He will be there for the next three or four weeks and hopes to return to San Antonio in time for the spring carnival.—San Antonio Express.

Belvidere Brooks.

Bel Brooks, a Texas boy, has been promoted to the general management of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Mr. Brooks began his telegraphic career as a messenger boy in the office at Bremont, thirty-odd years ago, penniless and barefooted, and has steadily worked his way up from the bottom to the top, and his career might well be used as an object lesson to boys who usually succeed.—Mexico Herald.

When he was a messenger boy it was all right, indeed perfectly proper to address him by the diminutive name of 'Bel.' A one-syllable first name is enough for any boy, but when he grows up and gets to be a leading citizen, a dignified party with heavy responsibilities resting upon him, he is entitled to the benefit of his full baptismal appellation. Let us, therefore hereafter refer to the general manager of the Western Union as Belvidere Brooks—all of which he is. Not only so, but let us not overlook the fact that there are more ways than one to get an education in this country.—Dallas News.

Ohio Senatorial Contest.

Columbus, O., Mar. 18.—Two months hence the Republican voters of Ohio will take part in a general primary to decide the question of a successor to United States Senator Dick, whose term will expire next March. The primary will not be legally binding upon Republican legislators, but morally it will hold them to the carrying out of the verdict of the people, according to political view.

Not in a decade or more have the Republicans of the Buckeye State appeared to be as completely "up in the air" as they are at present. With the senatorial contest soon to be decided and the gubernatorial election but a year distant it may be said that as yet practically nothing has been decided on in regard to candidates or campaign issues. The Democrats, on the other hand, are ready for the battle to begin. There is to be no contest for the governorship on their side; for there will be no opposition, to the renomination of Governor Harmon. The senatorship is not bothering them at present. The party leaders believe that if they succeed in capturing the legislature there will be an abundance of good material from which to choose a senator.

The result of the coming legislative elections cannot be foretold now with any degree of certainty. The existing conditions are so badly mixed that the best informed men of both parties do not know what to expect. If the campaign were to be fought out on national issues the Republicans would feel confident of success. But as the liquor question promises to predominate over all other issues the party leaders hesitate to predict the result of the contest.

Senator Dick has announced his candidacy for re-election and appears to be confident of success. Mr. Dick has for twenty years conducted campaigns in Ohio and is thoroughly familiar with every twist and turn of the political game in this state. He has many warm personal friends in every quarter and they are said to feel encouraged over the outlook. There is undeniably an element in the Republican party that would prefer the election of ex-Governor Myron Herrick or Harry Daugherty, both of whom are regarded as candidates for the toga, to the re-election of Mr. Dick. But after all, the activity of the Democrats is the real menace, and when the proper time arrives it is expected the rival factions among the Republicans will patch up their differences and work together to elect their candidate, whoever he may be.

President Taft is clearly neutral in the senatorial contest. He has so informed his friends here. If his brother, Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, were to enter the contest the President naturally would like to see him win. The understanding is general, however, that Mr. Taft will not enter the senatorial fight, but, on the other hand, will use his influence to have the successful candidate elected by the legislature, if that body is Republican.

It is interesting that there is at this time no symptoms of a rehabilitation of the political fortunes of former Senator Joseph B. Foraker. After he left Washington a year ago, he returned to his home in Cincinnati, and there is now no prospect he will be called out of his retirement.

PRESIDENT NEEDS PRESS AGENT.

He Does Not Get Due Credit For Accomplishments.

WANTED—A press agent. Address William H. Taft, White House, Washington, D. C.

The Record-Herald prints this advertisement without consulting Mr. Taft and without reflecting on the many able correspondents who are acquitting themselves nobly at Washington.

Its purpose is to express a common feeling that the president, who might profit by the advice of a brutal friend, might profit also by the assistance of an expert in displaying his wares to the public.

Take the tariff, for example. We all know that the president used his influence with congress to improve the work of the tariff revisers. He might have said afterward with perfect propriety that an effort had been made while the tariff bill was under discussion to secure concessions to that part of the public known as the ultimate consumer, that certain concessions had been gained, that some approach had been made to a fulfillment of party pledges. The result was not satisfactory, but it was very difficult to get exact justice where there was so much log-rolling, in which democrats as well as republicans participated.

He might have made a leading feature of the concessions that had been won for the Philippines after a severe struggle, and shown that they were of great importance because of their effect on the public sentiment of the islands. The tariff modifications would not only encourage trade between the Philippines and the United States, but were desirable as a matter of policy, since they would bring about a more friendly feeling toward this government on the part of the Philippines.

Taking up this theme the press agent could have seen to it that the president had all due credit both for pressing the consumers' demands upon congress and for his splendid service in behalf of the the Philippines, services that were long continued and persistent in the face of much bitter opposition.

Then it could have been pointed out that the practical thing to do now was for all supporters of the Roosevelt policies to get together with the determination to obtain a fulfillment of the promises concerning them. Thus no scores would have been caused, the emphasis would have been put in the right place, the president would have had the people with him and would have escaped the embarrassment that has come from his unnecessary and too vigorous endorsement of the unpopular tariff law, and his unwise challenge to the progressive.

As it is he has only made the situation worse by his speeches. He needs the press agent, and the brutal friend might do him a good turn by telling him so.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Houston Post has come out squarely in support of O. B. Colquitt for governor. Gradually the newspapers are coming out from the dazed condition in which the gubernatorial muddle and its perplexities have placed them, and are announcing their preference. This would indicate that the idea is about to settle upon the fraternity that there will be no more sidestepping, that the present entries will stay in to a finish and that a choice must be made from the quartette now claiming the attention of the people. CONSTRUCTIVE LEGISLATION.
The Commoner.

One newspaper writer complains that democrats do not advocate any "constructive legislation," that their energies are devoted to criticism of republican administration. It may be that that depends upon what one calls "constructive legislation." Just now it would seem that the most important service that a political party render to the people is to aid in the prevention of destructive legislation as contemplated in the republican program. And it may be said that the very prevention of this form of legislation, involving as it does the life of the republic, is the highest form of constructive legislation.

The special interests have, under the republican party, become so thoroughly entrenched in power in this government that the most painstaking, patriotic effort will be required before they are dislodged. Mr. Taft's national incorporation plan would destroy our system of government, leaving the states mere helpless provinces and the people subject to the whims of cooperation magnates; the railroad bill with its court of commerce would centralize railroad authority at Washington, making it inconvenient for shippers to make effective protest; the ship subsidy bill would take from the pockets of the many for the benefit of the few; the central bank would vest absolute control over the money of the country in the hands of a coterie of men; the republican party's tariff policy would continue the system of "seeking to tax people rich" which, in reality, is a tax upon consumption for the benefit of generous contributors to republican campaign funds.

Does the democratic party wage war against federal incorporation, insisting that the rights of state government, as well as the rights surrendered to the federal government, shall be preserved intact? Does it insist that the state's authority over corporations shall be retained for the benefit of the people whom corporations are presumed to serve? Does it object to a system of railroad law that would centralize authority over railroads at a point practically inaccessible to the shipper? Does it object to ship subsidy or any other form of subsidy because "equal rights to all and special privileges to none" provides the rule for the public servant? Does it object to the central bank because to give such an institution life would give its managers a power over the people too great for human beings to have? Does it insist upon a tariff revision made downward for the consumers? Does it fight Aldrichism and Cannonism in the capital building, Taftism in the White House, Ballingerism in the departments? Does it insist that the house of representatives shall be restored to its representative position so that it shall voice, in some degree, the will of the people? Does it insist upon the election of senators by the people rather than by the special interests? Does it demand the enforcement of the criminal clauses of the anti-Sherman law against the chief magnates of the trusts, requiring those persistent violators of law to wear the prison stripes? Does it stand for the restoration of this government as the fathers intended to the position of a government of, by, and for the people, rather than a government of, by and for the trusts?

If the democratic party does stand for these things, if its platforms are written in unmistakable terms and its candidates are of such character that they may reasonably be trusted to do the people's will, then the democratic party has a great constructive policy. Some men may sneer when they are told that the republican party has gone so far in its plutocratic policy that it has actually imperiled popular government. But more and more thoughtful men are coming to recognize this as a solemn fact.

"But soberly it is now no child's play to save the principles of Jefferson from total overthrow in this nation." The democratic party has the fundamental principles essential to this great work of salvation. If it shall remain true to those principles, true to the spirit in which Jefferson and Jackson served the public interests, it will be given the task of restoring the American nation, and the opportunity to dedicate it anew to the real service of the people.

A settlement of the controversy between the firemen and the railroads, thus averting a strike, will save probably millions of dollars to the people in the sections affected. After all, whether or not these strikes are justifiable, the people pay the bills in the suspension of business in nearly every line.

The best advertising medium is the newspaper which reaches the largest number of purchasers. The Times covers the field in and around Wichita Falls and has a larger circulation than any other medium in this territory. Advertisers can verify this statement by an investigation on their own account.

When a city has all the attributes and appurtenances of a city of twenty thousand population and has an actual population of only half that much, she can look the census man in the eye and tell him to do his damnedest.

We wish John Kendrick Bangs, who wrote the little piece about "three cheers for the mud" could come to Wichita Falls after a rain. We have a peculiarly inspiring and enduring brand of mud here.

Tom Flint, Jr., who used to blush and stand first on one foot and then the other when introduced to a lady, has gotten to be a regular ladies man. We understand the Dallas suffragettes were responsible for the change.

And when the campaign gets under way and Mr. Colquitt is at work among those East Texas towns, he will appreciate more than ever what a good town he selected for his opening.

Judging from the painful and prolonged silence of Messieurs Rankin and Colquitt they must have meant it when they cried quits.—Amarillo Herald.

When the Times spoke so proudly of the high-priced Wichita county hogs a few days ago, it referred to the four-footed kind.

If Mr. Colquitt takes the rain with him wherever he goes, his election is assured. He brought it to Wichita Falls.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Dr. Rankin should have said the reason why he likes to live in Dallas is that it is the center of the political cauldron.—Beaumont Journal.

The Bonham News is opposed to Davidson, yet it admits that the present situation points to him as the next Governor of Texas.—The Waxahachie Light.

With four strong candidates in the field for governor, and with the Bailey question as the chief issue, the question is why not eliminate the surplus and draw the line straight?—Weatherford Herald.

In a few more days won't Mr. Politician be as busy as busy can be, fixing up platform demands to be in readiness for the meeting of the political conventions of all parties next summer?—Laredo Times.

The announcement that A. B. Davidson would again be a candidate for lieutenant governor promises to give Senator Thomas and Judge Hawkins a little more uneasiness as to final results.—Kosse Cyclone.

The Rising Star X-Ray can see the best interest of the people of Texas subserved by the election of Colquitt for governor. Possibly so, but certainly nothing of the kind is discernible with the naked eye.—The Waxahachie Light.

The Waco Times-Herald thinks that the indications now point to the election of Davidson as Governor of Texas. As the T. H. is viewing the race from the grand stand and has no special interest in the betting ring, its guess is worth something.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Brother Rankin says he will be for Colquitt should the latter get the nomination. Isn't that getting perilously near the camp of the chap who got up a flirtation with Mother Eve, speaking, of course, from the good doctor's standpoint?—Waco Times-Herald.

It's like meeting old friends and talking over bygone days to pick up a Denison Herald or a Texarkana paper these days and read the anti-prohibition arguments; every one of which was worked to the limit here in Lamar County, and every one of which has been proved absolutely worthless by the experience of this county.—Paris News.

Cone Johnson has very emphatically informed the Poindexter people that they must get the Bailey question from under cover. In other words, he has served notice that the Bailey issue cannot be applied to Poindexter exclusively as the candidate of the Bailey people. He intends, evidently, to force the fighting on the Bailey issue.—Weatherford Herald.

The esteemed Denison Herald labored hard to reply to some statements made in a recent issue of the Democrat, and finally concluded that "veracity" was all there was to the difference of opinion on the prohibition question, but failed to answer the simple question: "Why is the Denison police force about half the size it was six years ago?"—Sherman Democrat.

After diligent review of the material offered as willing successors to the mantle to be let fall by our Thomas M. Campbell, we are yet at a loss to discover any greatly added lustre to the dignity the office of Governor of Texas should enjoy. It seems to be a powwow of politics in which only politicians know and play the game. May the smoothest gambler win!—Taylor Democrat.

Frank Putnam, always interesting when he writes in the Houston Chronicle about Texas politics, concludes that Senator Bailey's stand for Poindexter will be a hard blow for Colquitt's gubernatorial aspirations and a marked advance for Davidson. We hope so. De print Mr. Putnam's article in this issue of the Tribune.—Waco Tribune.

Sterling P. Strong has served notice on Clarence Onaley that he is not a partisan, but a patriot and willing to "sacrifice all my political friends" to bring about state-wide prohibition. How about his personal friend, the Tyler Adonis and Cleero? Colonel Strong has been a practical politician and officeholder all his life, but he isn't telling it to the Danes now.—Dallas Times-Herald.

It is reported that Judge Poindexter advises the voters, in the event they will not vote for him, to vote for Johnson. Not on your tinfole, Judge, and if you persist in this kind of a racket, there will be a lot of Poindexter supporters now who will not be Poindexter supporters when the primary comes around. Better let Johnson saddle his own "jolly" boat.—Galveston Register.

COTTOLENE

Shortens your food--Lengthens your life

Cottolene is a wholesome product. It is made from Cotton Seed Oil in a thoroughly modern and hygienic manner, and is just as pure as olive oil. It is a clean product because its source is clean. From Cottonfield to Kitchen—human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made.

Cottolene makes a palatable, digestible, healthful food, which will agree with the most delicate stomach. Lard food, on the contrary, is indigestible, and will cause trouble sooner or later.

Cottolene is a product of nature. Warmed into life by the Sun on Southern Cotton Fields, nurtured by rain and dew, the cotton plant finally concentrates in its seed that life-giving and life-sustaining quality which is the basis of Cottolene.

There is no substitute for Cottolene, because there is no other shortening so good.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk Cottolene is packed in pails with an air-tight top to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

TRICKS OF THE AUCTIONEER.

He is a Rare Psychologist, a Fluent Talker and Great Tactician.

There are many tricks in the auctioneering game, even as it is practiced in the city. Of course the gentleman with the harsh voice who "cries" the sale will inform you, not without a show of being indignant, that there are no tricks in his profession, that it is as straight and above board as any other business. But, without impugning the honesty of the man of leather lungs, it may be said that his success depends upon his mastery of the tricks of the business.

Does he not take in your weakness at a glance, does he not catch you with his subtle appeal, does not get you to bid and then bid again just to show somebody else that you are "game" and are determined to get what you came there to bid for? If he doesn't appeal to your "spunk" perhaps it's your sense of humor that he arouses, until you find yourself mentally inebriated and under his spell to the extent of becoming a bidder. A rare psychologist is the gentleman on the chair, a fluent talker, an orator if need be, a humorist, a sympathizer, an optimist, a man of wonderful imagination, a rare tactician, and, above all, he knows the "tricks". All this is questioning his honesty. In fact, if he does not establish a reputation for square dealing he does not long survive. He must have the confidence of his patrons.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are the busiest days of this salesman of many talents. People are too busy the latter part of the week to bother about auction sales. Usually the red flag is to be found in front of a home in the more respectable part of the city. An auction anywhere else does not draw a class of patrons who possess ready money, and therefore does not prove profitable as a business venture.—Indianapolis Star.

Labor Troubles.

Union labor leaders claim that there are 150,000 men out in the strike in Philadelphia. In one day three persons were shot, one a young girl fatally, and many other persons were severely clubbed by the police.

All over the country there is unrest among working men and in many sections indications of sympathy strikes. The conductors and trainmen of the Baltimore and Ohio are demanding increase in wages, which the railroad officials say they are powerless to grant.

The International Paper Company at Glenn Falls, N. Y., has a strike on its hands and in that city several hundred men are out of work. At Corinth, N. Y., the employees of the paper mill are out on a strike and the militia has been called out.

At Cincinnati, O., conferences are being held between coal miners and operators in an effort to adjust the wage scale.

At Cleveland, Ohio, 3,000 garment workers went out on a strike for higher wages.

Agricultural and Industrial Education.
St. Paul, Minn., Mar. 18.—"Agricultural and Industrial Education" was the general topic of discussion at this morning's session of the Minnesota conservation congress. College professors and public school superintendents of Minnesota were the speakers.

The program for the afternoon session provided for a symposium discussion on the subjects of pure food, public health and sanitation. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the Department of Agriculture was the chief speaker. He took as his subject, "Pure Food in Its Relation to Public Health and Conservation." Other speakers heard at the afternoon session were Dr. John P. Fulton, president of the Association Charities of New York City, and Dr. F. F. Westbrook, dean of the college of medicine of the University of Minnesota.

Tomorrow's sessions will bring the congress to a close. The feature of the day is expected to be the address of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, who is to speak on the subject of forest conservation.

Cheese vs. Pork

Most of us can't even look at pork now—$11.00 for his majesty, King Pork! Whew! Well, what of that? Cheese hasn't gone up and when you figure it out, a pound of cheese is worth just about four times as much as a pound of pork, in any form, and costs only a few pennies more per pound than even the cheaper cuts of pork.

Our Burnham Cream Cheese is rich, mild and ripe; very appetizing, very wholesome and very satisfying. No waste; you eat it all; requires no cooking (unless you wish to combine with it something else) and contains more condensed goodness per pound than any other meat substitute known.

Eat more cheese at 25c per pound—that's the best solution to the high meat problem.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Governor Campbell has formally been made an Odd Fellow. A good many people have been charging that against him all along.—Beeville Bee.

Every man who sees stars is not an astronomer, neither is it always positive that a star is a comet because some person saw a tail on it. A great deal depends upon the time of the night and the condition of the gazer.—El Paso Herald.

The Peoria preacher who quit his flock to become umpire of a baseball league no doubt thinks he is going to a great field of labor. It is true that nothing but a Christian could act as umpire without cursing, or talking back, to say the least.—El Campo Citizen.

Here's hoping the fruit crop is yet safe. East Texas has missed it for five years about, and the time has come when we need a bumper yield. The cold last night was a little biting, but the belief is that the crop outlook is as good as ever.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

It is amazing how Texas towns and cities are growing. It is a factory one day, a creamery the next, packing-house here, new electric line there, public building, sky-scrapers, irrigating plants, new railway lines, dairy farms, mills, etc. Hundreds of carloads of building material machinery are used daily in construction and we are just beginning to get busy.—Sherman Democrat.

The cotton gambler has no more interest in the farmer than has the spinner. He is in the game for gain and to feed the gambling fire that's in the blood. What would it profit him if the farmer gained the whole world of 20-cent cotton and he lost his own soul of a cornered market? The worst of it is that on the exchange the same animal wears hoofs today and claws tomorrow.—Belton Journal-Reporter.

Kingsville is destined to be the leading trading point for Central South Texas. San Antonio, which sooner or later will be built, will place Kingsville in the heart of the trading section. Even now, with its large mercantile stores, banks, good schools, nicely laid out streets, modern homes and hospitable people, it is an inviting place to visit—be it on business or social call. Keep your eye on Kingsville.—Kingsville Gulf Coats Record.

Easter comes early this year—March 27. Sherman rabbits are getting their dye stuffs ready to illuminate Easter eggs and the chic milliner dreams about the big hat bills.—Sherman Democrat. Which the ladies of Sherman will regard in the light of a pleasing variation from the ordinary run of paragraph copy about politics, road building, truck farming and topics alongside, that dream of Easter beauty, the Resurrection hat, which is a veritable flower garden in a background of Texas azure against which an Italian sky never did begin to compare. Then, there is a dream beneath the hat to be thought of, ravishing in a frock of white, snow white, filmy gauze—a moving picture of loveliness that needs resetting only once in every seven years. What did you say?—Houston Post.

Stomach Dead—Man Still Lives
People who suffer from sour stomach, fermentation of food, distress after eating and desire relief in large chunks of artificial digestors, are killing their stomach by inaction just as surely as the victim of morphine is deadening and injuring beyond repair every nerve in his body.

What the stomach of every sufferer from indigestion needs is a good prescription that will build up his stomach, put energy, strength and elasticity into it, and make it sturdy enough to digest a hearty meal without artificial aid.

The best prescription for indigestion ever written is sold by druggists everywhere and by The Weak's Drug Co., and is rigidly guaranteed to build up the stomach and cure indigestion, or money back.

This prescription is named Mi-o-na, and is sold in small tablet form in large boxes for 50 cents. Remember the name, Mi-o-na stomach tablets. They never fail.

Booth's Pills, best for liver, bowels and constipation, 25c.

Dr. E. M. Wiggs, who has been attending the Chicago Veterinary college for the past six months, desires to announce that he will be back in Wichita Falls about the 20th of March and again engage in the practice of his profession. He will be located at 808 Lamar. 249-tfc—

Three of the leaders of the Philadelphia trolley men in the great strike which called out in sympathy practically all of the union men of the city are W. D. ### WOMEN URGE CLEAN STREETS.

They Purpose to Take One Philadelphia Block and Keep it Spotless. The women of Philadelphia are working for cleaner streets.

Throughout the city women are keenly alive to the fact that the streets are not only in a state which is a disgrace to any municipality, but are a constant menace through their filthy and unsanitary condition.

So interested are the women of Philadelphia in the need of cleaner streets that the Civic Club, the largest organization of women working for the public welfare in the city, has petitioned the city for the right to take charge of one city block, and keep it clean.

In this block the club wishes to experiment with the various methods of street cleaning until it finds what is at once most efficient, speedy and inexpensive.

The members of the club are eager to make one block in the heart of the city a model, to keep it absolutely clean and to see that it remains in a condition which is all that a street ought to be. The women have no intention of going out themselves with brooms and buckets, but they are anxious to have one block of the city streets placed in their hands and they will hire men who are competent to keep the street clean, under their strict personal supervision.

It has not been possible for the club to take any definite action because the permission to act has not yet been received and may never be. None the less, the club is eager to try its hand at street cleaning and is ready to go ahead as soon as permission is given.—Philadelphia Times.

To the Young People of Wichita Falls:

PREPARATION is the golden key that unlocks the door of opportunity and enables you to rise, step by step, up to the coveted heights of ambition. And this preparation lies within the reach of the poorest boy or girl. There never has been a time in the world's history when greater opportunities were offered to ladies in the broad field of business activity than now. There has never been a time when a higher premium was offered for honest, clean, capable young men than now.

A practical knowledge of bookkeeping has opened the career of thousands of our business men of today. Everybody should know bookkeeping; not perhaps to keep books as a business, but learn bookkeeping for the same reason you study arithmetic, grammar or history. Bookkeeping is an indispensable part of a business education. It is easier to teach and simpler to learn, perhaps, than any other science. Life is a business proposition. See my ad in another column of this paper. You can turn this proposition down, but is it to your best interest to do so? Ask for testimonials and see what my pupils, the press and prominent people say of me. J. B. SHERRILL. —264-1tc

BLAMES ARREST ON CAT.

This Man Expected Disaster on Seeing Cross-eyed Feline.

When Detectives Armstrong, Atkinson and Lancaster of headquarters arrested Guy C. Wolfe early this morning and charged him with attempting to pass a bogus check for $10.75 on the Eutaw House they were unconsciously paving the way for two more important captures. Wolfe felt the hands of the detectives on his shoulders as he was walking on Baltimore street, near Howard, and was accompanying the plain clothes men to headquarters when another man stepped up to the quartet and exclaimed: "Hello, Wolfe; how's things in Pittsburg?"

"Do you know this man?" Detective Atkinson asked Wolfe.

"Sure," replied the alleged bogus check man. "He's a friend of mine, W. W. Hunter, whom I used to know in Pittsburg, and he can go with us and identify me."

"I don't think I'll go," replied Hunter of Pittsburg; "I've got an important engagement and must hurry along. I'll see you later."

"Just wait a minute," said Detective Armstrong, as he gripped his arm; "you'll go, too, because you're wanted by the Pittsburg authorities on the charge of larceny; we've had a circular about you."

"Oh!—," exclaimed Hunter of Pittsburg. "I might have got a hunch something queer was coming my way. I met a cross-eyed cat this morning and didn't spit over my left shoulder, and I saw three pins and didn't pick 'em up; ain't it — to be unlucky."

After Hunter arrived at headquarters he admitted that the Pittsburg authorities had shown a disposition to find his whereabouts and that they wanted him to explain some matters relative to a larceny charge. Then the detectives flitted to 103 West Conway street, where they arrested Lloyd P. Allen, a companion of Wolfe and Hunter, whom the Pittsburg police are also anxious to interview.

The bogus check that Wolfe attempted to pass upon the Eutaw House was drawn upon the National Bank, and purported to be signed by B. C. Reynolds. Hunter and Allen were held by Justice Grannan for the Pittsburg authorities, and Wolfe was committed for the action of the Criminal Court by Justice Grannan of the Central District.—Baltimore News.

Washington After Big Regatta.
New York, March 18.—When the executive committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen meet at the New York Athletic Club tomorrow a decision will probably be reached in regard to the date and place for holding the next annual regatta of the association. As this regatta is to be to America what the Henley is to England, it attracts large crowds from all sections of the United States and Canada, inasmuch as it is a contest in which the winners in other regattas meet during the last week in July or the first week in August. The Potomac Boat Club of Washington, D. C., is making a determined fight to secure the event for that city.
