EAST LAKE FILL TO BE MADE BY DENVER

IS TO BE BROUGHT UP TO A LEVEL WITH THE ADJOINING PROPERTY.

WILL EXTEND YARDS THERE

Will Bring Dirt For Fill From the Valley Right-of-Way and Start at Once.

The Fort Worth and Denver will begin work shortly on filling up the southern part of the old "east lake" across the railroad tracks, it being the intention to extend the yards and trackage there to relieve the congestion which is such a disagreeable feature at present. The arrangements for the fill have been completed and all of the depression south of 7th street will be brought to the level of the adjacent property.

The earth for this fill is to be brought from the Byers branch of the Wichita Valley. Thousands of yards of suitable dirt are available there and will be used in making this fill. Two dirt trains are to be run daily and it is hoped to be able to put down a line a day until the work is completed. A track will be run from the main line to a point suitable for the dumping. The new property thus created will be used for yards and additional tracks and will be very helpful to the Denver in taking care of local traffic. The section to be filled in is about half a mile in length and from fifty to one hundred yards wide, and adjacent as it is to the business section and the railroad tracks, will make very valuable property.

The Denver already has a force at work on a fill near the railroad bridge extending towards the depot. This fill is to be used for the construction of three additional tracks, which will enable the north and south bound trains to pass each other here without the delays which have heretofore prevailed.

Several reports of minor questions which were adopted Saturday were reconsidered, and re-committed; many telegrams and letters were read urging the Conference to grant the woman's petitions for laymen's rights. A telegraph greeting from Bishop Fitzgerald who is too ill to attend was read.

The report of the Revision Committee against the proposition that Stewards be selected by the Church Conference instead of by Ministers precipitated a spirited debate. The report of the committee was sustained and the old system retained. The Conference then adjourned until tomorrow.

The Wichita Regin Cotton Company, with a paid up capital stock of $12,000, was organized this morning in the office of R. P. Webb & Son, and the usual steps to have the company incorporated have been taken.

The purpose of this company will be to buy and work over all kinds of unclean and unmarketable cotton, putting it through a machine which takes the dirt and trash from it and makes a comparatively good sample of low grade cotton.

A building in which the machinery for the new company is to be installed, is to be erected on lots in the neighborhood of the Wichita Press, and this will be done within the next few weeks.

The incorporators of the Wichita Regin Cotton Company are R. P. Webb, Ed Orr, C. E. Minnick, J. T. Montgomery, J. C. Tandy, and others. Jas. C. Garner, inventor and salesman for the machinery which is necessary to do the kind of work in which this company will engage, was here at the organization of the new company, which is the second one of its kind in the state.

Tomorrow the voters will decide whether a blacksmith or a banker shall be the first mayor. A year ago the village of Elmhurst decided by one vote to become a city. The banker candidate for mayor is H. C. Shumacher, heading the "progressives," who favored the city form of government. F. H. Goltzman, representing the "standpaters," or those opposed to changing the village into a city, is the blacksmith candidate. Both sides are fighting hard, as the new administration will have the settling of such questions as the division of the city into wards, the purchase of the present water company's plant and the annexation of numerous subdivisions adjoining Elmhurst.

TRY TO GET 1911 FIREMENS MEETING

REPRESENTATIVES OF LOCAL DEPARTMENT LEFT TODAY FOR TEMPLE.

SUCCESS SEEMS LIKELY

Hillsboro and Austin Considered the Strongest Rivals For 1911 Convention.

Five members of the Wichita Falls fire department left today for Temple, Texas, determined to land the 1911 convention of the Texas Firemen's Association, which convenes there tomorrow morning, for a three days' session. The department and Chamber of Commerce have been at work for some time to bring the next year's meeting here and there is every reason to believe they will be successful.

Wichita Falls is represented at the meeting by Fire Chief Vic Stampfl, James Bachman, William Bachman, A. K. Collins and Fred Smith. They were armed with badges and literature, determined to make as strenuous a fight as possible for the 1911 meeting. They are assured of the support of every department in West Texas and most of those in North Texas. Their rivals are Hillsboro and Austin. The latter city entertained the firemen in 1904 and it is believed that this fact will eliminate them, leaving Hillsboro for Wichita Falls to defeat.

The firemen's convention would bring at least three thousand visitors to this city and would be very beneficial to Wichita Falls as a whole. All local organizations have been cooperating with the fire department in their effort to bring the 1911 meeting here.

Papers on the dead man indicate that he was George Miller, a fireman on the Mexican Central Railroad.

GLIDDEN TOUR MAY COME TO WICHITA

NOT YET DETERMINED THAT THIS CITY WILL BE LEFT OUT OF OFFICIAL ROUTE.

CROSSING NOW PROVIDED

This Was Principal Objection Raised By Official Pathfinder to Coming This Way.

In spite of the fact that the official Pathfinder of the Glidden automobile tour did not visit this city, Wichita Falls was included in the official route of that tour according to an article published yesterday in several state papers, and which seemed to bear the marks of authenticity. From this, it is believed that the tour will come to this city from Fort Worth.

The principal objection to Wichita Falls lay in the fact that when the "scout" car went through there was no suitable crossing over Red River. This objection, however, has since been obviated by the construction of the bridge at the Burk Burnett crossing, which would enable the automobilists to pass over without difficulty. Local automobile enthusiasts made an effort to bring this tour this way, but considered that they had been unsuccessful when the official path-finding car failed to come to this city. It is possible that the route was changed after the decision not to come by way of Wichita Falls had been made and there is good reason to believe that this city will yet be included in the official route of the tour.

This tour would bring from three to five automobilists to this city and would be immensely valuable to Wichita Falls as an advertisement alone, regardless of the numerous benefits to be derived.

WANTS MORE VOLUNTEERS TO WORK ON THE CENSUS BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

The following call for volunteer census takers was issued today by President Huff of the Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of making one more united effort to see that every resident is enumerated:

To the Citizens of Wichita Falls, Texas:
We are very anxious to have a completed and correct census of the city taken. To that end we wish to assist the enumerators in every way possible. There are so many houses in town that there are two families living in, and also so many where there are roomers, that we fear a great many will be overlooked.

The Chamber of Commerce desires to have a volunteer of each residence block in the city, who will take the census of these parties and report to us by Thursday night the names of all who reside in the block; that is, who sleep there.
Please report at once to me if you will agree to take the census in your particular block, and I will give you additional instructions. This is very important.
R. E. HUFF,
Pres. Chamber Commerce.

Yesterday's game seemed won until the ninth inning, when the home team batted out two runs and a victory.

"The Perfect Woman"
 PROVERBS XXI.

"Mothers' Day" services were held in all the churches in the city yesterday, and at each church interesting programs were carried out. At the First Presbyterian church Mrs. M. M. Adickes presided over the meeting, while Mrs. H. B. Patterson stated the objects and aims of "Mothers' Day," and Mrs. R. A. Thompson read the 31st chapter of Proverbs. Able addresses were delivered by Judge A. H. Carrigan and Mrs. J. L. McKee. White carnations was the flower most in evidence. The subject of Mrs. McKee's address was "The Perfect Woman," and is as follows:

The Perfect Woman.
 —Prov. xxi.
 Most Bible interpreters think that Lemuel and Solomon are the same person in the 4th chapter of Proverbs. Solomon tells us what his father taught him and here he gives his mother's teaching. It is supposed that Lemuel was a pot name by which his mother called him. Its meaning is "for God" or "devoted to God."

Mothers were regarded with great veneration in the East. The mothers of kings were treated with great distinction and called "queen mother." This is the queen-mother's teaching; and full of wisdom it is. She knew that it was her duty to teach her child what is good that he might do it, and what is evil that he might avoid it. When children are young and tender they are most under the mother's eye and she has an opportunity of molding their lives which she should not let slip. The queen mother realized this she began her teaching by telling him that she had given him to God. "You are the son of my vows." Then she cautions him against two destroying sins—uncleanliness and drunkenness. And then follows the most wonderful picture of a perfect woman that ever was penned. It is a question as to whether the queen mother was the author of this poem or quoted it. I like to think of it as her own. No doubt she was thinking of the time coming when the king must choose a wife and she placed the ideal woman before him.

"Who can find a virtuous woman. A woman of strength," full of truth, fearing God, able to command her own spirit, a woman of resolution, who, having good principles is firm and steady in them, not frightened from any duty, one "who would dare to be in the right with 2 or 3." She is indeed rare, difficult to find—but her value is far above rubies. The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her—she always conducts herself with propriety, never does anything questionable. Her husband can trust her conduct and also her judgment. She is faithful to him and all his interests, never betrays his counsels, never tells his faults. When he leaves home to attend to the affairs of the public, he can trust to her the management of the home.

He has no need of spoil so well does she manage the home that he does not have to steal to pay the bills. Then he is so happy in his home and her affections that he does not envy those who have more wealth than he. She makes it her business to do him good and not evil all the days of her life. Industrious—she worketh willingly with her hands and eateth not the bread of idleness. She was a woman of considerable means and she did not have to work to supply her needs, but she hated idleness and so works day and night. "Her candle goeth not out." she rises early, while it is yet dark, in order to have a good breakfast for her household. She is not like many modern women, whose husbands get their own breakfast or take it down town. I think early rising was one of the secrets of this woman's success. When we get an early start everything seems to go right all day.

Another thing, she knows how to do the work herself, and so can better direct her servants; "she layeth her hands to the spindle." We are beginning to find out that it and selletth it and delivers girdles to counts but what one can do, so we are introducing manual training in our schools which is a great step forward. What can you do? What can you do? That is the question. Business Woman: She works in wool and flax; she maketh fine linen and selletth it and delivers girdles to the merchant. She considers a field out of her own earnings. Some people think that when a woman marries she must give up all idea of ever making money and forever be dependent. It is not so taught here. Because a woman makes money is no sign she will neglect her family, the family of a business woman is generally better cared for than the family of a society woman.

Physically Strong—Takes care to be strong physically. "She girded her loins with strength and strengthened her arms." No one can be a perfect woman who is not strong. Many a woman has been a failure in life because she failed to take proper exercise and proper care of herself. Charitable—She is not unkindful of the poor around her; ministers to them with her own hands. Neither does she forget the poor far away. She "reached forth her hand to the needy." She is interested in getting, but it is in order that she may have plenty to give. Beautifies her home, provides well for her household, dresses well. Dresses appropriately, her husband is a senator and it is proper for her to dress in silk and purple. Her husband is well known, has a reputation and she must dress well on his account. Educated—She openeth her mouth with wisdom; when she talks she has something to say and in her tongue is the law of kindness. She does not gossip, criticize or say unkind things about people. Children well trained—if they were not they would not rise up to call her blessed. Her husband is a success, how could he be otherwise with such a wife, such a home. There is an old saying "he that will thrive must ask his wife's leave." That is largely true; a peevish discontented woman will take heart out of any man. Happy—She has learned that "true happiness if understood consists in being and doing good."

Godly Woman—Fearing the Lord, she has not neglected the one thing needful and this is the secret of all her strength of head, hand and heart. She is as George Eliot says "a woman mixed of such fine elements that were all virtue and religion dead she'd make them new, being what she was." I grant you this is a very high ideal, but in the ideal we see what we may become. The higher we place our standard the higher we will reach. Let us as women, as wives, as mothers put our standards high, "not failure but low aim is criminal," and ever follow after "Perfection" and may it be our joy to hear the Saviour say "she has done what she could."

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS

Fads and Fashions.
New York, May 7.—Some of the new materials displayed in the fashionable shops are exquisitely beautiful and their variety is bewildering. Voile de sole and cashmere de sole, chiffon, broadcloth, liberty satin, satin charmeuse, satin crape de Chine, all these and many more are shown as suitable for the summer gowns. Foulard, tussah, royal pongee and rajah are shown in such an endless selection of color, weave and weight that it is difficult to select understandingly. The choice must necessarily depend upon the purpose of the gown for which the material is intended.

The afternoon reception gown, suitable for luncheon or card party, is this season elaborate in design and the transparent materials are the best for it, especially voile de sole. The veiling of one material with another, and one color with another, produces most charming effects and dressmakers vie with one another to be original in inventing combinations.

A charming gown of figured chiffon or crepe is veiled with a loose tunic coat or drapery of black; a fascinating snuff-brown chiffon, with border of yellow roses, is veiled with a loose coat tunic of the more transparent voile de sole of the same shade, and the effect produced by these two transparent materials is extremely pretty. A more elaborate style of gown, suitable for dinners or the theatre, is of liberty satin in a charming shade of gray. This is veiled in voile de sole a shade lighter or darker, the voile put on to form long flat pleats. The effect gained is far softer than if the entire gown were of the satin and besides is more up to date.

The liberty satin, crepe de Chine and the cashmere de sole gowns made on the absolutely simple draped design are most attractive and becoming, and are conspicuous for their almost exaggerated simplicity in contrast with the overelaboration, intricate and exaggerated fashions that so challenge attention this season. A perfect figure has every detail of its perfection exhibited in the draped gown with long skirt and surplice-draped waist. The girdele of striped silk or satin, with the long ends finished with tassels, is not essential, but is rather a novel touch that some like and others dislike. It is not a gown suitable to every figure, and yet it is astonishing how in the hands of an expert this model can be so carried out that instead of revealing defects it conceals them.

Cashmere de sole is a most exquisite material that is becoming more and more fashionable of late. It has been made up in three piece costumes, skirt, waist and coat to match, and for that purpose has been proved without a rival for summer wear. It comes in all grades, all designs and colors and the shades of colors are endless. In black it has a sheen and finish that make it appear like the softest satin, but with a body that the softest satin lacks and which makes it possible for street wear.

The mania for veiling effects is steadily growing and the French makers are in love with the idea of very simple veiling of chiffon, marquisette, tulle or silk muslin, the elaboration of the frock being bestowed upon the under robe or foundation. The results are admirable, for beautiful embroideries, laces and other trimmings, some of which would be somewhat too gorgeous or pretentious, take on a subtle refinement when seen through a cloudy veiling. With the aid of veiling two colors otherwise too voyant or vivid for general wear are toned down to becoming softness, and the artist designers accomplish marvels in the subduing of materials beautiful but too pronounced and trying for successful frocks.

Wonderful cashmere silks are veiled in black or plain one-tone sheer stuffs, but better effects are obtained with the cashmere chiffons and mousseline de sole, sometimes veiled, sometimes veiling a plain foundation and relieved by plain color, sometimes merely used as a trimming or for part of a frock. The cashmere borders on plain chiffons and mousselines are cleverly used, but they demand cleverness, for they are not easily handled with success. Narrow borders are much more easily managed than deep affairs, and the narrow borders on some of the season's best foulards have enabled the designers to obtain admirable results in ways comparatively simple.

Selvages are often used quite as if they were borders, and with good results. Some of the sheer materials have inch-wide, heavily ribbed or plain silk selvages in self-color, which make an excellent finish for the thin material, and selvages in contrasting colors, particularly in black or white, have delightful possibilities. This use of the selvaige does away with the necessity of a hem, which is often thick and clumsy from the present modish point of view. Facing with chiffon which extends into a lining throughout is a device by which the thickness of a hem is sometimes avoided where it would interfere with the other limpness and suppleness desired.

The mingling of lingerie materials with silks, heavy or transparent, is not new, but more models of the class are to be seen this season than ever before, and most of them are uncommonly attractive. A lingerie frock beautifully embroidered and made up on the simplest lines has a skirt of the linen very slightly fluted and with deep embroidered points at the bottom, running down upon a band of cerise mousseline de sole, which reaches almost to the knees and forms the bottom of the skirt. On the simple embroidered collarless corsage a scarf of the cerise mousseline starts under an embroidery epaulette on each shoulder. The draped scarfs cross below the bust line in front and are carried around in girdele fashion to the back, where they fall in short sash ends.

Every variation of the wide-brimmed hat will be seen during the coming season. Crowns are round or square and trimmings vary from the simple quill or ribbon bow to clouds of maline and veritable gardens of roses. Their variations introduce us to lace which is veiled with maline and to small beds of blossoms studded with larger roses. Brims vary in shape and method of their rolling. Some of them turned sharply up once, twice or even three times, others are flat, with crowns of extreme lowness and the merest bit of embroidered ribbon as trimming. Flowers are hand-made and so are leaves, and the simplest wreath of roses is considered ample decoration for the very flat hat which is becoming to those who cannot wear the rolling brims.

Hats faced with black are holding their own for becoming reasons. Shapes and sizes have never been more flexible. Trimming has never been more unique, and so long as the distinctive hat is produced it may take on whatever lines and colors proves most becoming.

The latest hostery shows more elaborate patterns in the higher-priced designs and many beautiful innovations. Those beaded across the instep and up the ankle are, perhaps, the most novel, while others embroidered in vinelike designs appear more graceful than those with the decorations scattered indiscriminately in and all over or loose pattern.

A design accentuating a circle just above the instep is new, and there are innumerable drop-stitch effects in the weave that will have ready sale for several past seasons. The colors are unusually varied and can be found to match any gown. Some are of a most beautiful changeable silk, while others are so closely embroidered that they have the two-toned effect without being actually woven in that way.—Florence Fairbanks.

The $25.00 is now on display in my window, and will be given to the ladies who bake the four best cakes. The lady that bakes the first best cake will receive $10.00 in cash; the next 3 ladies baking the next three best cakes from Calumet Baking Powder will receive $5.00 each. Now let's all get busy and bake plenty of cakes, for these cakes will be sold to the highest bidder, and the proceeds will go to help our Fireman's Fund.

Novelist's Library on Sale.
London, May 9.—The sale was begun at Southey's today of the large library which adorned the home of the late F. Marlon Crawford near Naples. Almost every volume in the library contains the pictorial book plate of the well known American novelist, probably the most notable item in the collection is "The Charter Granted by His Majesty, King Charles II. to the Governor and Company of the English Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations in New England, in America, Containing the Acts and Laws of the Colony." This work is a folio printed at Newport, R. I., in 1774.

Novelist Barrie 50 Years Old.
London, May 9.—In the modest little flat near the Thames Embankment where he has lived ever since he separated from his wife, James M. Barrie, the noted novelist and playwright, received the personal congratulations from a number of his intimate friends today on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday. Scores of letters and telegrams from far and near attested to the deep sympathy felt for the celebrated novelist in his martial troubles and the public admiration for the generous manner in which he dealt with his divorced wife.

The democratic state committee of Mississippi has declared that there shall be no primary for the election of a United States senator to settle the row between Percy and Vardaman. THE MAN WITH THE GUN.

There are some features connected with the deplorable tragedy at the Brazos hotel Wednesday night that require comment, and we trust comment can be made without affecting the rights of the slayer or of the long-suffering public of a community which has suffered from the blighting of the man with the gun. What we wish to comment upon has only to do with Houston's efficient police department—efficient, we believe, far beyond the unpretentious limitations of perfection. Sometime ago when the deputy chief of police was shot down in this city, it was observed that the man who committed the deed practically arrested himself. Surrounded by a group of officers, he discussed the situation with them at his own pleasure, all the time retaining his pistol, and some twenty or thirty minutes afterward, at his own pleasure, walked to the police station and surrendered his gun. When the killing took place Wednesday night, we are told that the killer surrendered and went to the police station in a carriage. The woman who hadn't killed anybody or tried to kill anybody, was with the usual ceremony taken to the station in a patrol wagon. All of which showed the discretion of the police who were handling the case. Of course, the armed slayer, who surrendered was a law-abiding, peaceful citizen. The woman, panopied for war with a powder puff or a piece of chamoise skin in her satchel, was a dangerous character. The police braved the danger nobly and, thanks to their selfpossession, got their capture to the station without serious results, thus preserving the safety of the city and the dignity of the State. Whatever captious critics may say of the Houston police department, nobody can ever say it doesn't entertain the profoundest respect for a man with a gun, nor can anybody ever say it is afraid of a woman armed with a powder puff. It is this dizzy altitude of discretion that compels the universal opinion that the Houston police department has in its super-efficiency beaten perfection to a frazzle and made all the accepted standards of intrepidity seem as the timorous and affrighted mein of the frail lily trembling in the wild fury of the storm. —Houston Post.

The contest for the republican nomination in one of the Kentucky congressional districts between Congressman Edwards and Caleb Powers has aroused a great deal of feeling in republican circles all over the state of Kentucky, and lately this has been increased owing to the return of former Governor Taylor to the state to take part in the campaign in behalf of Powers. This is the first visit of Taylor to that state since the murder of Goebel. The democrats of that district feel hopeful that the row among the republicans will result in the election of a democrat to the house.

And now they have started an investigation in the legislature of Illinois which promises some sensational disclosures in the election of United States Senator Lorimer. It is charged that a good deal of money was paid out in the campaign to members of the legislature.

WOMAN SAVED THE ALAMO.

Credit is Given Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, a Daughter of Texas.
The Texas Club of New York recently celebrated San Jacinto Day, an anniversary of the great victory wherein was avenged the slaughter of the Alamo, which made the names of Davy Crockett, Bowie, Travis, Bonham and the other heroes of the Alamo famous.

It was to the efforts of Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, now president of the Texas Club of New York, that the Alamo was saved to the state and the other synonymous with bravery of the San Jacinto Day likewise commemorates the other event, says the New York Herald.

Mrs. Sevier is credited with paying fully out of her own pocket in her fight to save the Alamo when it was threatened with destruction. As Clara Driscoll, daughter of Robert Driscoll, who owns thousands of acres of ranches in the Lone Star state, she began the campaign to obtain the site of the historic battle. She first organized the Alamo Relief Fund Organization, got an option on the property, made a deposit of $500 on the purchase price of $75,000 and then began to interest business men in the venture. Her option ended in 30 days and at the conclusion of that time she was obliged to pay $4,500 out of her own pocket to retain the option for the year. Public interest became aroused and $3,000 was raised. Next year the owner wanted a payment of $20,000, with the balance in short time notes. Again Mrs. Driscoll gave her own note. Eventually the state acquired the property and reimbursed her for her expenditures.

Mrs. Sevier has the free blood of the Texas rangers in her veins, the courage born of frontier life, so that whatever she puts her hand to generally goes through. She ranks with the best hunters among the men and can shoot a deer, a wolf, or a wildcat quite as easily as she can win at bridge. Her own apartments on the east side of Madison Square shows many trophies of her success as a sportswoman.

Personally Mrs. Sevier is charmingly feminine, with dark hair and eyes and an attractive manner of speech. Although she gives up much of her time to society, she is essentially a home woman. She declares promptly that she is neither a suffragette nor a club woman.

Palo Alto ranch, Mrs. Sevier's home, to which she hires herself for a visit with her dear "dad" and a hunting excursion when the excitement of New York begins to pall, is in southwestern Texas. There she owns 400 acres of ranch land and from the veranda of the ranch home is a view of more than 20 miles.

"No one knows how I love that country," remarked Mrs. Sevier recently. "I love the wildness of it and the freedom that makes New York seem at times so narrow in comparison."

Mrs. Sevier was at one time a deputy sheriff and held up a pair of cattle thieves and desperadoes. Many picturesque sides of Texas life have been put into book form by Mrs. Sevier and among her writings are "The Girl of Gloria," named after one of her ranches; "In the Shadow of the Alamo," and "Mexicana," a musical play that was produced several years ago.

CATARRH GOES

So Does Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Croup and Asthma.
You can easily tell by reading the symptoms below, whether you have catarrh or not:

Offensive breath, frequent sneezing, discharge from the nose, stoppage of the nose, huskiness of the voice, tickling in throat, droppings in throat, a cough, pain in chest, loss of strength, variable appetite, spasms of coughing, low spirited at times, raising of mucus, difficulty in breathing, loss of vital force.

The Weeks Drug Co. has a sensible remedy (money back if it fails) for catarrh, called Hyomel (pronounced High-o-mel) which is a vaporized air, so antiseptic that when it is breathed over the inflamed and germ-infested membrane, it kills all germ life, gives relief in two minutes and cures catarrh.

The price, including hard rubber inhaler, is only $1.00. The hard rubber pocket inhaler will last a lifetime, so that should you need a second bottle of Hyomel, you can get it for 50 cents.

What Are You Willing to Pay for Coffee

29, 35, 40c per lb.—you, of course, don't want anything cheaper than 20c and in the range quoted we have the very best coffee that can be produced for the price.

Continental at 20c and Concord at 25c are, of course, the most popular, because of the price.

"Lexington" is a new grade we have just added; it is 35c, while "Revere" is the top notch of coffee perfection, at 40c.

Now let us give you a coffee secret: When you pay 25, 35 or 40c per lb. for either Concord, Lexington or Revere you are not extravagant in the least, for you get enough additional strength for each 5c extra that you pay to make that many more cups of better coffee in each case for each step up in price you naturally get better flavor and more of it.

Give Lexington or Revere a try out on our recommendation.

Taft Opens Big Charity Bazaar.
New York, May 8.—Standing in the little Court of Honor erected in the center of the spacious Seventy-five Regiment Armory and surrounded by probably the largest gathering of stage folk ever assembled at one time, President Taft delivered a graceful little speech this afternoon to mark the formal opening of the great Actors' Fund Fair. The dedication of the big charity bazaar was a gala occasion for the members of the theatrical profession and they turned out in full force that their presence might add to the public interest in the event. It is estimated that nearly 2,000 actors and actresses, many of them eminent stars in their profession, joined in the applause that greeted President Taft's dedication address. In addition to the players there were many famous managers, playwrights, musicians and others connected with the stage. The ubiquitous press agent was very much in evidence, while the chorus girls and the humble gentlemen whose services are indispensable in the mob scenes were also on hand.

The big bazaar, which is to last through the entire week, is the most elaborate affair of its kind ever given in New York. Occupying the great drill room of the armory are over a hundred booths, each of which is strikingly different in its exhibits. In the Players' Club booth, where the relics of famous actors and actresses have been collected, the bust which the president allowed Robert Altshuler to make for the fair is exhibited. Here, too, are the candy, the Twelfth Night, Frocks and Frills, the novelty and the millinery booths. Beside the electric fountain which splashes before the Court of Honor, is the voting platform where the contest for the most popular actress will be waged. A diamond chain and pendant designed expressly for the contest is the prize.

Another attractive booth is the Doll's house, in which are gathered the beauties of doll-dom, resplendent in dresses made by the well known women of the stage. Practically every actress of prominence has a doll dressed in the role that she has made famous. Farther down the hall is the booth in charge of the Actors' Home. Here are placed all the souvenirs of old-time actors and actresses—books from the library of the elder Wallack and other equally famous collections, swords used by Edwin Keene, dresses worn by Fannie Davenport, the jewels of Helen Fawcett and other mementoes of the early American stage.

One of the most interesting booths is that arranged by Miss Charlotte Walker and Mrs. Paul Forester to represent the south. In the background is the front of an ante-bellum mansion and a pretty display of magnolias, gardenias and southern moses. Inside the booth is an old negro mammy to dispense coffee and Creole delicacies. In appreciation of his courtesy in attending the opening of the fair, President Taft was presented with a gold medal designed especially for the occasion. The face of the medal portrays Charity coming forward with comedy and tragedy on either side and stretching forth her arms in an appeal for aid. On the reverse side in bas-relief are the comic and tragic masks. William H. Crane, the dean of American actors, made the address of presentation.

Memorials in Marble, Granite and Bronze.

Did you ever wander through a beautiful well-kept cemetery, where the hand of man had been displaced in beautiful landscape and monumental decoration, and as you wandered through that silent garden of beauty and solemnity did there not come stealing over you a deep sense of pride for the city, the nation or the individual, as the case may be?

Whether you were in the private, public or national burial grounds, and even though you had no one near and dear to you sleeping within their silent confines you felt a deep sense of pleasure and satisfaction, because you are a human being, and seeing such you have all the attributes that the word human being composes, such as a soul, a strong sympathetic nature, an artistic temperament, a strong regard for the beautiful and artistic, and greatest of all there is awakened that ever present desire within the human breast to perpetuate by beautiful and impressive reminders, the virtues of those we love.

It is not given to all of us to see within reach of us a deep feeling of pride and tender thoughts for the nation or the individual that commemorates, and perpetuates, the virtues and good deeds of their heroes and departed loved ones.

Show me a nation that perpetuates the memory of their statesmen, soldiers and citizens and who try to keep fresh the memory of their lives of virtue and usefulness, and I will show among the leaders of the world.

This strong development of our better, truer natures has been one of the means towards, the wonderful advances of the human race. The desire for self-preservation comes first in the category of natural laws; the desire to perpetuate in word and deed the virtues of those we love comes next. This desire caused even the less enlightened races to erect monuments in token of their appreciation or in memory of their departed dead. As we advanced, and during the glory of huge granite shafts were erected to the memory of their heroes and ideals, and but for the invasion of savages, and the terrible ravages of many wars these would be standing today to fulfill the purpose for which they were erected. Who doubts from the slight glimpse we get of this beauty and grandeur, but that it has been the means of great advancement?

The reason this strong desire in the human heart to perpetuate the memory of our departed loved ones is so strong a factor in the advancement of the human race, is, because it calls for retrospection and introspection on the part of the individual.

In our retrospective moods, we think only of the virtues, the last best, and requests of those we loved in life; then this calls for introspection concerning our own life; our faults, etc., and in thinking of these we strive toward our own advancement, and betterment.

There are only three kinds of material that will withstand the ravages of time successfully, and being true material calls for imitations, I would advise those purchasing memorials to beware of cheap grade goods, and imitations. The something just as good. These goods when left exposed to the onslaught of time will crumble and melt in an unalloyed mass, the name whose memory you erected them will be lost, and blotted out forever. The three materials above mentioned that you will make no mistake in buying are Marble, Granite and Bronze. A suitable and lasting memorial need not be expensive, if you go to the right dealer and talk the matter over carefully he can supply you with what you want and at the same time keep within your means.
