CAPTAIN ADOPTS THE HOOVER PLAN

Oil Men Put Their Hopes in Extra Session

near the fad was sitting in an excusable because it taken part in by a bunch of who had nothing in particular during their vacation year there has started inexcusable and senseless that even the children are more sense than to it is being taken up by there. Not all of them, of this average preacher has been some preacher in reached for 20 hours and wanted publicity. Now in Louisiana says going to break that record from exhaustion. The preachers who are in these uncalled for of endurance are the kind of mediocre that they are and their popularity is wanted to such a point have to resort to cheap publicity stunts in or to enough of a crowd to give.

PAUL COLE EXECUTED IN OKLA.

M'ALESTER, Okla., July 10.—Paul D. Cole, banker and real estate man, died in the electric chair at the state penitentiary here early today insisting he did not kill Ernest Irby, manager of a drug store Cole owned, in Wewoka.

Cole and Irby had been charged with selling liquor at the drug store. Irby promised he would turn state's evidence and disappeared. His body was found in 1929 in a lake near Wewoka. Frank Hunt, an oil man, was arrested with Cole and accused of the murder. Hunt received a life sentence on a guilty plea.

Before going to the chair Cole sang hymns with the Rev. Fred Tucker of Oklahoma City, with whom he had attended the University of Oklahoma.

Wayne C. Hickey, captain of Texas national guard, tents for the Oil Belt when they go to Camp on a 10-day encampment on river from July 16 to 26 years the scouts forced to rent tents at the encampment and the saving a considerable action on the part of national guard company.

CRUDE PRICES TUMBLE OVER TEXAS AGAIN

Six Cents is Posted Price in Yates Pool by Shell Company.

AUSTIN, July 10.—The inevitable having occurred, mid-continent oil men might find a way of rescuing the industry from its sorry position.

Confronted on all sides by unprecedented low prices—in East Texas no prices at all—the oil men were hopeful the lawmakers meeting at the behest of Governor Ross Sterling, would enact conservation laws to check the rampaging East Texas field, cause of the industry's grief.

Today was probably the gloomiest in the industry's history which has been none too bright recently. It was climax when the Shell Petroleum said it would pay six cents a barrel from the Yates pool of West Texas. If producers sell their crude at this price it will be the lowest paid for Texas oil since 1904, when crude from the Spindletop field was sold at three cents a barrel. This, however, was when the scarcity of automobiles made gasoline an unneeded commodity.

In West Texas water was more expensive than oil. Water haulers from Pecos to remote points sold for 50 cents a barrel. The high gravity oil produced in that section could be bought for 25 cents a barrel at the wells.

Many oil men particularly those connected with major communities were telling each other "I told you so." They had foreseen just such a debacle as has occurred because East Texas insisted upon making hay while the sun shone after years of coaxing cotton crops from grinding areas.

Others cursed the luck of C. M. (Dad) Joiner, who back in December, 1930, discovered a lake of oil under East Texas after major company geologists had insisted for years none was there.

The industry leaders were unanimous in blaming East Texas for the collapse of the price structure. R. R. Penn, Dallas, vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, estimated the collapse was costing the industry about $2,000,000 a day.

Members of the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion will go to Strawn tonight to aid in the installation of officers and the presentation of the charter to the newly organized post in that little city.

It is planned to take the members of the Tickville band along to furnish entertainment, though it was not known this morning whether the members of this justly popular musical organization would be able to get off on such short notice.

The members will assemble at the office of the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 o'clock tonight and make the trip together. All members who can get off are urged to report at that time, ready to go.

Directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce have been called to meet at the office of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday evening, July 13, at 8 o'clock.

All members of the board of directors who can possibly do so have been urged to be present as there are many matters that are to come up for action at that time.

Missing Stage Beauty

Evelyn Wilson, above, Broadway show girl, walked out of her sister's home to go to a drug store an hour after midnight—and she didn't return. Police found her purse in a gutter in uptown New York. That was the only clue. Relatives said she had feared being kidnapped. Her father, Harry Wilson, sent word from Chicago that she had written him that she was despondent because she could not marry the man she loved.

Cotton Farmers Should Demand Cotton Content Bagging for Wrapping, Says Knox Farmer

MUNDAY, Tex. — In recent years there has been much agitation in the South for an increase in the consumption of cotton. Doubtless many thousands of bales of the South's principal money crop has been consumed as a result of this agitation, but there still remains a surplus, and with this surplus the cotton farmer is going about his work of producing another crop with the depressed feeling that he will realize but little for his labor and investment, and he is wondering what can be done about it—if anything.

Cotton farmers have faced this situation before and having looked on from the sidelines with hearty approval of the various movements advanced with a view of consuming part of this surplus, but with never an idea that they themselves could do anything that would materially aid in the movement.

But Peter Loran, a Knox county farmer, and member of the executive committee of the Farmers Co-operative and Educational Union of Texas, has been watching with keen interest the agitation from farmers advocating the use of cotton bagging, but has observed that going throughout his section continue the use of jute bagging, despite the low price of cotton, and being of a curious turn of mind he began some investigations of his own.

Among other things he found that all-cotton bagging was not practical for the reason that if it were made sufficiently heavy to withstand the rough handling to which cotton is subjected the cost would be prohibitive. However he (Continued on page 6)

Mother Indicted As Poison Killer

Sitting stolidly and silent in her cell at Lebanon, Ind., Mrs. Carrie Simmons, above, showed no sign of emotion when a sheriff read to her murder indictments charging her with poisoning her two daughters, Alice Jean, 10, and Virginia, 14, at a family picnic near Greenwood. She is alleged to have inserted strychnine capsules into sandwiches carried to the picnic.

JONES AND ROBBINS TO TRY AGAIN

NOME, Alaska, July 10.—"Sure, we hope to try it again."

Those words expressed the only plans Reg Robbins and Harold Jones have for the future as far as flying is concerned.

When they climbed out of their Lockheed-Vega monoplane, the "Fort Wind," after being forced by wind, rain and fog to abandon their proposed Seattle-Tokyo flight, the two fliers were weary and disappointed but had vague plans already forming for another try in the near future.

The fliers are expected to remain here for the next few days before starting south.

National Guard Unit To Have a Full Day's Drill

Company I, Texas national guard, are to have an all-day drill and hike on Sunday, July 19, in preparation for the annual encampment, which is to be held from July 31 to Aug. 16, inclusive.

The guardsmen are to leave the armory in Ranger with full packs, hike to the rifle range and pitch shelter halves and display equipment in the regulation manner. While at the rifle range the new members will be instructed in target practice and extended order drills, which they are unable to get in the drills held in the armory.

Many of the boys have not had any practice in this kind of work and as it is one of the main items on the program at the camp each year they are to receive instructions in order that they may make a creditable showing.

Bandits Rob a Nebraska Bank

MAX, Neb., July 10.—Three unmasked bandits entered the Max State Bank here today and looted the bank of $2,000.

Denies Charge Of Bank Plot

Clarence Bliss, above, receiver of 300 state banks in Nebraska, has denied the charge of Governor Charles W. Bryan, who said he had "discovered a plot" to remove receivership records from the state house. Bliss said his troubles with the governor were due to his refusal to appoint Democratic friends of Bryan as attorneys.

DELEGATES TO VISIT FT. WORTH

A delegation of officials and citizens from Eastland and Ranger, accompanied by delegations from Breckenridge, Cisco, Strawn, Albany and possibly Graham and Mineral Wells will call upon the city commission of Fort Worth at the meeting next Wednesday morning and present a petition and arguments to show why the city of Fort Worth should continue the use of gas from the oil belt.

Plans are under way at Fort Worth to discontinue using gas from this section of the country and pipe gas from Oklahoma and the Panhandle. As this would deprive this entire section of much of its business the chambers of commerce from the towns have made an appointment with the commission for 10 o'clock Wednesday, when the arguments for the oil belt will be presented.

It is expected that three or four men from each of the towns will make the trip in an effort to have the city continue using the gas as at present and not make the contemplated change.

Prisoner Shot To Death By A Policeman

TEMPLE, July 10.—Billie Bryan, 25, under arrest, was shot five times and killed at 2 a. m. today in front of the city jail where he was being taken for the filing of drunk charges.

Policeman Frank Bouldin waved examining trial and was released on $500 bond. Bouldin and J. A. Andrews were taking Bryan to jail.

The officer said he had objected to arrest and made a thrust at him with a knife.

Doherty Files Suit on Paper

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 10.—Henry L. Doherty, head of the billion-dollar Cities Service organization, struck back today at the Kansas City Star with a $12,000, 000 libel suit.

The suit was filed in the Jackson county circuit court, naming the Kansas City Star company, George Longan, publisher; Roy A. Roberts, managing editor, and Fred C. Trigg, Kansas state editor, as defendants.

60 Passengers Resume Journey

EL PASO, July 10.—Sixty passengers on the west-bound Sunset Limited continued their journey today after being marooned all night on a lonely spot east of here because bridges were washed out on the Texas and New Orleans division of the Southern Pacific.

CONFERENCE IS PLANNED AT LONDON

Bank is Notified Reparations Payment is Not Expected.

LONDON, July 10.—The British government announced that the Hoover moratorium plan was effective today so far as Great Britain is concerned.

Great Britain sent a letter to the Bank for International Settlement at Basle, announcing that in view of the Hoover plan it would not expect the reparations installment due from Germany next Wednesday.

Great Britain, it was announced, had issued invitations to the United States, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Germany to attend a conference in London beginning next Friday to coordinate the Hoover plan and the Young plan.

Citizens Urged To Join Fight On Mosquitoes

The city management of Eastland wishes to solicit the assistance of the citizenship in helping to control mosquitoes. All sloughs, creeks, up-ground tanks, cisterns, and other breeding places have been treated and ridged of larvae and wiggle-tails, in fact, all the breeding places that have not been treated are those at private homes and have not yet been located by the men in charge of this work.

If each family would kindly make a survey of their premises and report any water leak, rain barrel, unused cistern, or other breeding place that might be located on their property, the city management will immediately treat that place and rid it of mosquitoes.

The few scattered bunches of mosquitoes that remain in the city are breeding from these places at private residences and can only be controlled by the citizenship reporting them in a majority of the instances.

Ranger to Invade Thurber Sunday

Members of the Ranger Country club will invade Thurber Sunday for a scheduled match of the Oil Belt Golf Association.

Thurber has announced that she will have from 20 to 25 players ready for the Ranger date and members of the Ranger club have been urged to be prepared to make the trip in order that enough players will be on hand to provide matches for all.

Although Thurber has not made as good a record so far this year as has the Ranger club there are a number of good players and the match may be close.

Rev. K. C. Edmonds to Preach Sunday

Rev. K. C. Edmonds will fill the pulpit of the Central Baptist church of Ranger on Sunday at both the morning and evening services. It was announced today.

Rev. Mr. Edmonds is a capable preacher and has a message to bring to the congregation at each of the services that will appeal to those who attend.

Rev. K. C. Edmonds will fill the pulpit of the Central Baptist church of Ranger on Sunday at both the morning and evening services. It was announced today.

IS THERE MONEY IN OIL?

An Oklahoma City newspaper correspondent tells the readers of his paper that the lure of easy money in oil still wins the dollars of investors despite the bogies of over production and proration and price cut; the promotions go merrily on despite the receiverships and other legal angles; that a recent survey shows that $15,000 to $20,000 of "sucker" money rolls daily into the hands of Oklahoma City stock promoters; that losses today are estimated upwards of $5,000,000; that the ranks of Oklahoma City promoters have been thinned by the newer attraction of the fertile fields of East Texas. This Oklahoma City news hawk is a fair player. He admits not all oil promoters are considered unethical but that it is difficult "for the average citizen to choose oil well units with the best judgment." A half century ago, Barnum, the most noted showman of his period, immortalized himself by saying "There is a sucker born every minute." Now there must be fifty suckers born every minute under the flag of Old Glory.

NEFF FLOUTS THE PRORATION ORDER.

Former Governor Pat Morris Neff, now state railroad commissioner, brushed aside the oil proration order signed by Railroad Commissioner Terrell and Smith and gave to the public his reasons for the flouting. He declared it to be unethical, impractical, inefficient and otherwise useless as an effective agency for the conservation of oil and gas in the fields of Texas. More business for the lawyers; rich pickings for the followers of Coke and Blackstone; new wells coming in daily; wildcatters as busy as beavers in spring-time; low price levels are now listed as hot news by the managing editors of the molders of public thought and the disseminators of all the news fit to print.

Just now the moratorium baby holds the center of the stage and the statesmen of the world appear to be as muddled in their brain pans as the oil oracles of the United States and foreign nations are muddled in their actions.

SPLAWN AS A POWER SURVEYOR.

Former President Walter Splawn of the Texas university is out of the state picture and in the national gallery. He made a survey of the holding companies of American railroads last year for the government and submitted his report to the congress. He recommended drastic legislation. A lame duck congress throttled his recommendations. Now he is to make a survey of the power industry of the United States and has been ordered to cover the ground and make his report educative as well as accurate. There is a new congress coming in December. Perhaps the former railroad commissioner, former university president at the present time famous among the rail and power economists of America will fare better at the hands of the national solons this winter than he did last year. It is a long journey from a little farm in Wise county to a place in the national picture gallery. Walter Splawn made the journey.

BUSINESS EDITORS ARE VERY OPTIMISTIC.

One hundred and fifty-five business paper editors and associated business papers recite the belief that overhead burdens from prosperity days have cleared away. They made known their views in the eighth semi-annual survey on the business outlook released by Stanley A. Dennis, of New York, president of the conference. Speaking of cotton, the survey says the textile industry has shown remarkable progress in the development of promotional selling finding new uses for goods and otherwise bringing up to date an industry that has heretofore emphasized the production rather than the selling end of its business. They believe also that in the main inventories of raw materials and finished products are now so depleted that replacement buying cannot be postponed much longer. Indeed gains have been made in all the leading industries of America.

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES UNDER ONE ROOF.

There are more branches of federal services in Denver than in any other city in the United States with the exception of Washington, and now 800 workers are housed in the new Federal building which was recently erected in Denver at a cost of one million dollars. Uncle Sam has turned economist. He has appeared in many roles. For years he has been the Western Shylock of Eastern Europe. Now he is figuring as god father for all creation. There is hope in the hearts of the peoples of all nations. Now jobs for the jobless and foreign markets for the farm staples of America as well as the manufacturers of America.

RED BUGS DESTROYERS OF HAY FEVER.

It is said that the male cedar is the most deadly of the species. As for the female cedar she must be a thing of joy forever. It is said the male is responsible for hay fever everywhere in the cedar brakes of Texas. Now the male is doomed; the red bug is on his trail. The fierce little insect saps the life out of the tree and then nature takes its course. Why is it that victims of hay fever are found in sections of America where the cedar is not in evidence? Perhaps the scientist will explain the reason why.

PANTAGES SEPARATED FROM MILLIONS.

Alexander Pantages of Los Angeles admits that it has cost him between two and three million dollars for court expenses and lawyer fees since he became entangled with the gold coast diggers. Alexander is a man of many millions. He needs a bodyguard. There is a Mrs. Pantages but she does not appear to be able to keep the feet of Alexander out of the finely spun web of the gay adventurers and adventures of the silver strand country.

A BIG BOOST FOR CORPUS CHRISTI.

James C. Kennedy, president and backer of the Southern Alkali Corporation now pushing construction of a ten million dollar plant at Corpus Christi has estimated that the new project would add more than 1500 families to the population of the gulf coast city. Regardless of depression clouds there is a Building Texas that is ever on the forward movement.

Over the Top, 1931!

Letters From Our Readers

SCRIP.

The headline word above carries with its meaning a sinister effect upon the morale of a city. Mr. Webster has analyzed it as a "provisional document certifying that the holder is entitled to something else." Just what that might be, he does not state definitely in that we presume he did not have the opportunity of attempting to cash one. With all due respect to Mr. Webster, as having assembled a wonderful book, we are bound to admit he does not fully comprehend that this cannot always be done as exemplified in the immediate vicinity of Ranger, Texas.

Our fair city has been issuing scrip for some time and we suddenly awake to the fact that where we used to receive 100 cents on the dollar on these scraps of paper we now find that they do not have a bit more value than the paper they are written on. I do not attempt to say that they will always be worthless but at the present I wish I did not have mine. At this writing the scrip is worth just what you may get a sucker to take it for. Every time one of these pieces of paper is passed off on someone for just any amount one can get, the lucky passer gets out on the street as soon as possible and yells Texas Guinan's famous advice: "Holla Sucker."

We are aware now that most all of our city's employes are working for from 50 cents on the dollar up to not more than 80 cents. It is deplorable that we should ask firemen, policemen and others to take a piece of paper covering a salary of $100 per month and then ask them to make the best of it in trying to trade it for the necessities of life at what they are offered. There does not seem to be a plan of relief anywhere in the offing, and it does not seem possible that the city will be able to make good its obligations relative to cancellation of this scrip any way soon. Its only use seems to be that it can be used to pay taxes. Many merchants are buying this at big discounts and I don't blame them a bit, but if this form of payment was not in circulation this action would not be possible and the hard cash would be passing over the counter at the city hall. Some will say, yes, but how much? The fact remains that certainly some would.

The hard cash that is being paid in seems to find its way to the bondholders of our fair city. Is there any reason in the world why all of it should go there? How many of you readers have taken a ride in the depression? All of you have in some form or other suffered a setback financially. Then just why should the bond holders be guaranteed 100 cents on the dollar?

Our obligations to our home folks comes first in any situation and cannot be passed up in any respect. If the people of Ranger continue to accept scrip as payment of account for all services, just how long will it be until we start printing our own money. We can do it but we would have to stay home at all times because we feel sure that the world at large would not be interested in our system of finance.

We might take a lesson from our sister city of Cisco who in our estimation has seen a wonderful light by telling the bond holders to take a dip in Lake Cisco while they pay their own first-hand expenses of city government and then they might come out of the water, dry off, and take what is left. You would be surprised at the wonderful results. They have a bank balance at all times that would give our city commissioner a full night's sleep if they had the same. I want to say right here that the citizens of Ranger appreciate the position of the city commissioners and would like very much to help them in any way possible, but that they are not in the least interested in paying bond holders funds that are necessary to the life of Ranger. Without citizens who are well fed and cared for or who feel that they shouldn't pay their taxes because they are afraid they are throwing their money to the four winds, I see one reason why we should not give it to the Indians and start somewhere anew. The bond

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Mr. Ben Marsh, the tall, gray veteran radical who displays more activity and gets more newspaper space than anyone else among the numerous persons in Washington who devote themselves to furthering social "causes," dashed into this office with eyes agleam.

At last, Mr. Marsh averred, he had found himself affiliated with a mass movement and this remarkable discovery had given him the keenest pleasure. Mr. Marsh is sometimes thought to hold a world's record for being in the minority.

Occasionally, in fact, Mr. Marsh has been a minority by himself. One of the things that has kept him busiest for years has been his attempts to persuade progressive senators to pass measures and programs which have frequently been regarded by senators as two or three hundred thousand years ahead of the times.

"Panacea" Promoter
 It is also believed that Mr. Marsh for many years has held the championship for organizing petitions presented to and completely ignored by officials in high authority, especially presidents. Very often he has been supported by the signatures of widely known and respected persons, but the ideas and the proposals above the signatures have been enough to horrify such conservatives as Republicans, Democrats and sometimes even most progressives. Mr. Marsh, in short, is our most persistent and perhaps most advanced promoter of what are contemptuously referred to by President Hoover as "panaceas."

Nevertheless, everybody knows Ben Marsh and most people like him. Even the progressives, with whom he is generally disgusted because of their conservatism and who keep complaining that Ben spoils the appearance of their parade by dashing out 20 or 30 faces in front.

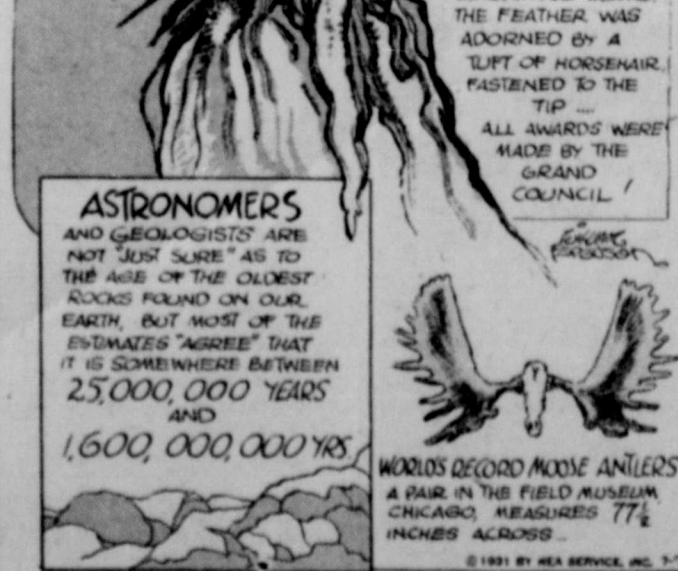

Ben is 54 years old now and, as Mother Jones used to say of herself, the longer he lives the more radical he gets. His background includes lengthy public service as an expert on distribution of population and its congestion in New York state and as a charity worker with special reference to children.

For several years he has been secretary and almost the entire works of an organization here known as the People's Lobby, the president of which is Professor John Dewey.

Seeks Jobless Relief
 Getting back to that gleam in Mr. Marsh's eyes and his boast of really being in on a mass movement at last—he says that a majority of the American people want a special session of Congress to enact a program of unemployment relief. Otherwise he explains, he would not now be able to produce a memorial to the president and members of Congress signed by "twelve hundred mayors, economists, labor leaders, educators, preachers, priests, rabbis, Salvation Army officers, sociologists, publicists, community chest directors, Red Cross workers and other social workers."

The petition is an impressive record of sentiment, but on behalf of 6,000,000 unemployed who are virtually starving and who face acute distress, it urges federal appropriations of $2,500,000,000 for public works, $250,000,000 for direct relief and $250,000,000 for subvention of state unemployment insurance systems. No one really expects President Hoover to comply.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

holders will not guarantee you the necessities of life, so why guarantee them anything. I perfectly understand the importance of an obligation and living up to it but not when it effects an entire city's future content and happiness, to say nothing of finances. Anyway, just what are they going to do about it, in the event that we don't pay them any more than what is left after our obligations are taken out. Think this over and let's hear from you. D. W. JOHNSON. GROVETON—60 cars tomatoes shipped from here up to recent date.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Okla.

Howard Edward Silberstein, advertising manager of the Catskill (N. Y.) Daily Mail, says: "That unfavorable publicity may eventually cast a favorable impression."

The beautiful Catskill Mountain region of New York state has figured prominently during recent months in the press of the entire nation. Not because it is the home of Jack "Legs" Diamond, racket chief of the eastern seaboard.

His exploits and hair-breadth escapes have caused millions to gape—the deeds laid at his door have made millions shudder. Newspapers engaged in writing these stories have painted an accurate picture of the locale from which Diamond operated. They pointed out the beauty and rustic simplicity of the area and disseminated their praises in an abundance which surpasses the efforts of Washington Irving.

Now with the gang broken, business people are convinced that the

NEGRO IS HANGED FOR OLD CRIME

By United Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 10.—Felix Duhart, 40-year-old negro, paid with his life today for the double murder of his common law wife and a negro youth here today. Duhart fell through the trap at 12:18 p. m. but was not pronounced dead until 12:35. He was the first negro to be put to death in Bossier Parish for the murder of another negro. He also was the first person to be hanged in the new courthouse. Duhart died for a crime committed in December, 1929, when he shot and killed Calhoun, a negro, who had been living and working with chicken pie execution. He contended that while in a drunken stupor he described as the most der in Caddo Parish.

efforts will be most favorable. At first they were inclined to believe that no good could come from "Gangster stories." But with the early season influx of tourists and vacationists, they know that Jack Diamond has done much to publicize the Catskills.

Might we suggest that he turn his efforts to publicity.

ES PLANS
GAGO FAIR
TRIP IN 1933

By United Press.
The Prince of Wales is expected to visit the United States and the Chicago Exposition in 1933. The United Press has learned that the visit probably will be a short break in a lengthy sojourn. The view of people in active positions. They believe the Prince's next trip to Canada, where he owns the holdings. It has been since he visited the States and his last visit was made in 1927 when accompanied by Princess and Stanley Baldwin and...

Official Report
There was no official confirmation of the Prince's proposed trip was not improbable that he certainly will visit the States again. It was understood that Wales will have an official invitation to the Chicago Exposition and Ambassador Chas. G. Dawes will extend the invitation. Ambassador Dawes and the Prince are close friends. In the past year the Prince has said on several occasions he would like to visit the States again.

Canadian Trip
to Canada would, no doubt, result in increased British trade and a visit to the States would strengthen the growing closeness between the United States and the United Kingdom.

Where Ford Pays Farmers $5 Per Eight-Hour Day

These pictures show scenes on the 3000-acre "agricultural laboratory" in Lenawee county, southern Michigan, where Henry Ford is putting into effect a $5 per eight-hour day for farm labor, an almost unheard of work day and wage in agriculture. Above, workmen are shown improving ground near an old farmhouse, school and store. Below, left, is a closeup of the old stone school, which Ford plans to restore and re-establish as it was 100 years ago. The old farmhouse is to be rebuilt and used as a museum for antiques from the neighborhood. At the right below, is the foreman's home, an old house, being restored. One hundred men already are employed on the novel farm.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: Acts 4:1-14. And as they spoke unto the people, the priests, and the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them.

Being grieved that they taught the people, and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead.

And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold unto the next day; for it was now eventide.

Howbeit many of them which heard the word believed; and the number of the men was about five thousand.

And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and elders, and scribes.

And Annas the high priest and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest were gathered together at Jerusalem.

And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, By what power, or by what name, have ye done this?

Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel.

If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole?

Is it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole?

This is the stone which was set at naught of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.

Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, which they had been with Jesus.

And beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 12, The Preaching of the Apostles. Acts 4:1-14.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist.

The golden text for this lesson, "We ought to obey God rather than men," links it up very closely with recent events, particularly with the decision of the supreme court denying American citizenship to Professor D. C. Macintosh of Yale university on the ground that Professor Macintosh would not assert his willingness to fight in a war under every conceivable circumstance in which his country might order him to do so.

The ground of Professor Macintosh's conscientious scruples was precisely that of the Apostles in this ancient conflict with authority. Professor Macintosh was not a pacifist in the ordinary sense of the term. He did not take the Quaker position of being unwilling to fight under any circumstances. He had, as a matter of fact, served as a chaplain at the front during the World War. He was willing to act as a good citizen of the United States, and his high character and intelligence assured the fact that he would be a desirable citizen. But there was a point at which he felt a crisis might arise in which if he were ordered to participate in a war that he believed to be unjust, he would feel that he ought to obey God rather than the government.

Attitude Not New. We are interested here in the ethical and spiritual aspects of such an attitude rather than in its legal side. But it ought to be pointed out that Professor Macintosh's attitude is not at all new in history. It has been virtually the attitude toward law of the great

Baptist body to which Professor Macintosh has belonged, and of various other free Christian groups who have repeatedly in history suffered for conscience sake where they were asked to obey laws that they could not conscientiously obey or to refrain from courses that they felt were a matter of Christian privilege. This was true of the Pilgrim Fathers, who went first of all from England to Holland because of their conflicts with the law in England, and who came to this country seeking to establish a home in America where they could have religious freedom.

Such a Christian attitude is not inconsistent with the highest conception of citizenship. It is, in fact, where citizens have a strict and keen sense of right that there can be in general a high response to duty, and it is only somewhere at that margin line where Christian and non-Christian interests conflict that conscientious scruples would be likely to operate.

Conflicting Principles. However, whatever one thinks of such a case, we are being compelled anew to consider the nature and obligations of the Christian life in such the same way that these early Christians had to consider above all things their duty toward God. Here in our lesson we find the Christian church growing up under adverse conditions of authority. The church is inherently in conflict with the Roman empire because it represents a different principle—a principle of love instead of the principle of force. The church is in conflict with the religious authorities of the time because it represents a free movement of religion in which earnest men are acting according to the dictates of their conscience and not in formal obedience to ecclesiastical authority seeking to impose its will regardless of inherent right.

Under these conditions the Christian church was founded in conviction and courage. Something always happens in the world when men dare to open their minds and hearts to God and then dare to follow in the way in which his spirit leads them. Christianity in its reality was a vital force in the ancient world, and it is always a vital force wherever its reality is brought to bear upon any life or any environment. To assume that Christianity had power to change the ancient world but that it will

CAMP FIRE GIRLS MET WEDNESDAY

The Camp Fire Girls of Eastland met at the Methodist church at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Tom Harrell explained the purpose and plan of their count books. She then appointed a committee, which consisted of Mrs. Johnson, Jean Kiley, Jo Earl Uitz and Elizabeth Ann Harrell to draft a constitution and by-laws for the group of this city. Next, she discussed the group, going out and camping for a day and night. They will probably not do this for several weeks however, since they prefer moonlight nights and the moon is so late in rising now. The picnic committee consisting of Carolyn Cox, Earline Harver, Edith Meek and Mrs. Johnson will attend to getting and supplying of food for the group while camping.

Cotton Farmers

(Continued from page 1) has succeeded in finding a bagging made 60 per cent of cotton and 40 per cent of jute that meets all of the requirements of cotton factors and transportation companies.

The use of this bagging through the cotton growing states would cost the farmer a total of 3,000 patterns, which order alone will consume more than 40 bales of cotton.

While the cotton-jute bagging offered is just a little higher in price than the jute bagging, Mr. Loran believes that it will be to the interest of the farmer to pay the small additional cost in order to consume the heavy surplus, which in turn will stimulate the price of cotton more than the slight additional cost of the jute.

"Farmers," says Mr. Loran, "have for a number of years watched the various agitators for the use of more cotton without interesting themselves in the movement to any great extent, and it is high time for farmers to take a hand—indeed they can take the lead, for this movement will consume more surplus cotton than all of the other moves that have been started, and we should awaken to the fact that our own cotton is being wrapped in jute, an imported product, and with concerted action on the part of cotton farmers several thousands of bales of this surplus cotton can be consumed in manufacturing bagging for this year's crop."

"Farmers, bankers, civic clubs, oil mills, ginners and others of the South interested in the welfare of the country have shown a sincere interest in this new cotton bagging, and farmers are urged to demand it of their ginners," says Mr. Loran.

In advocating the use of this cotton-jute bagging Mr. Loran has the support of the Farmers Union of Texas, of which he is an active member, being a member of the executive committee of the state organization. He has been farming in Knox county for more than 40 years and is of the opinion that it is time for farmers to demand something that will help in consuming the great surplus of cotton which is pointed out as the primary cause for existing low prices.

Mr. Loran plans to make an extensive trip over West Texas to advocate the use of this cotton-jute bagging, and will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to its use. His address is Peter Loran, Route 2, Munday, Texas.

procedure agreed upon by merchants and credit men in a community. The failure to cooperate in the establishment of a community credit policy is due to a great extent to the fact that it is difficult to enforce a set of cooperative rules of any kind unless they are carried out by all the cooperating stores. If one store becomes lax in enforcing them, then the others must do the same or lose business. The eagerness of the stores to serve the customer makes it necessary for each store to give the same privileges that are available in other stores.

HOCKEY AND SLIDES Henry L. Farrell

South Cutting Used To New Golf Ball. CARL DILLON, sports editor of the Miami Daily News, sends along a letter with the following interesting information about the new golf ball:

"The nation-wide poll being taken to determine whether or not the new golf ball is suitable to the average player interests me very much and I have been reading your comments daily. We are not taking part in the poll for the simple reason that the new ball has been in play here since January and the players have become accustomed to it that there is no complaint about the new ball nor a demand for the return of the smaller and heavier golf ball."

"Several opponents of the new ball, I note, speak of its misbehavior in the wind. No one should know better than a Miami about its conduct in the face of a heavy breeze as there is always a stiff ocean wind sweeping across our courses. Yet I have found no one who believes the new ball acts unfavorably in the face of a wind."

Hit It Right! "A NOTHER opponent of the new ball wrote that it penalizes partly hit shots. Why shouldn't it? All our leading golf players will tell you that every shot should be hit with a full swing. A partly hit shot should be penalized just as much as a kick in football that clips off the side of the punter's foot or as much as a teeble roller to the infield in baseball."

"Northern players have not given the new ball a fair break. Why not wait until the end of the season before taking a poll? The result might be much different than the general opinion here seems to be that the U. S. G. A. never will go back to the old ball, though there is a possibility that the governing body may agree to the new size with the old weight."

Survey Shows Reason 1,768 People Failed To Pay Bills In Austin

AUSTIN, June 26.—Men are less to be depended upon for payment of their credit accounts than women, and married persons are less dependable than single ones, if a recent credit survey made of 54 retail credit firms in Austin is typical of the universal credit situation. Arthur H. Hert, of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has examined 1,768 accounts in Austin firms which were charged off to profit and loss in 1935. The results of this survey Mr. Hert incorporated in an address which he delivered before the annual convention of the National Retail Credit Association at St. Louis, Mo., recently.

"However, the fact that 66.4 per cent of the accounts were those of men and 33.6 per cent were accounts of women, and that 62.1 per cent belonged to married persons and 37.9 per cent to single persons, indicates a close relationship between the marital status and the sex of the persons whose accounts were uncollectible, Mr. Hert declared.

"It has been estimated by many store executives that women do as much as 75 per cent of the shopping for the family, yet the husband is responsible for his debts as well as those of his wife and family when they are necessary for herself and children," he said. "Consequently, the majority of accounts were in the husband's name even though they were used most of the time by the wife."

incurred in 1929, while the remaining 20.4 per cent were incurred from 1921 to 1928. This 20.4 per cent of the accounts incurred in the period from 1921 to 1928 is distinctly a reflection upon credit management as no account should be retained on the books if a payment to apply has not been made within six months of the fiscal closing year.

"The reasons why the 1,768 accounts were charged off to profit and loss are quite important as well as interesting. The most surprising result of this analysis is the fact that 40.4 per cent of the accounts were charged off because they were dead beats—people who could actually be located and who were employed—but who simply refused to pay their debts for no good reason other than the lack of desire to do so. Paying debts can become an obsession. It is habit-forming and a person is just as liable to develop the habit of paying debts as he is to form the habit of neglecting debts, and the worst thing that might happen to a customer is to learn that an account may actually be neglected with impunity. It would seem that the merchants throughout the country would grasp the psychology of this circumstance and either permit or instruct their credit managers to operate credit departments strictly adhering to the enforcement of terms, regardless of what those terms may be. The merchant should awaken to the realization that both paying and neglecting to pay bills is a matter of habit and that the habit will be formed in one direction or the other, according to the influence that the merchant or credit manager bears on his customers. It also appears from this analysis, which reflects a loss of 20.5 per cent of sales, that a concerted action should be taken on the part of the National Retail Credit Association to influence its locals into fostering the moving van laws which would eliminate the possibility of the great majority of debts which are a source of distress to credit departments in general.

"The answer to the question of how to refuse credit losses, as I see it, is in cooperation. Co-operation, first, between the merchants and the credit bureau, and second, cooperation between the merchants and the credit bureau, and second, cooperation between the merchants themselves. This type of cooperation is the basis of the community credit policy. The policy is a system of coordinated effort established by all merchants for the purpose of maintaining interlocking credit control of customer credit in a community. In other words, it means a scientific

Heart of Liane by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Liane Barrett, just out of the convent, is delighted when her mother, Cass Barrett, an actress, goes to play summer stock in a fashionable Long Island colony. Previous to this Liane had been terrified by becoming involved, quite innocently, in a speakeasy shooting. Shane McDermid, policeman in charge, releases Liane. That night a mysterious stranger calls the girl by name at the theater and she feels the flutter of first love.

Shane McDermid tells her the speakeasy victim is recovering, much to Liane's relief. Elsie Minter, the ingenue, introduces Liane to Clive Cleespaugh, Muriel Ladd, debutante, invites Liane to a party and there she meets the handsome stranger, Van Robard. When Cass hears his name she begs the girl never to see him again.

Van ignores Liane for a bit. Later he shows affection for her. She goes with him one night searching for Muriel and Chuck Desmond, reporter, who are believed to have eloped. This proves untrue. Later Liane hears gossip about Robard and Mrs. Ladd. Cass mystifies Liane by her silence about her sister, Luisa, whose picture the girl discovers in an old trunk. Liane goes to stay with the Cleespaugh and encounters Robard again. She hears he is engaged to Muriel Ladd and is heart-broken.

Then she receives a telegram saying her mother is desperately ill in a Philadelphia hospital. Clive takes her to the train. At the hospital Liane is told Cass's condition is grave.

As World Flyers Visited Capital

Here the how Wiley Post, right, and Harold Gatty, world flyers, received the cheers of thousands as they rode down Washington's historic Pennsylvania avenue to the White House to receive from President Hoover the nation's official congratulations. The flyers came from New York where they recently completed their globe girdling flight in eight and one-half days.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

She searched the faces of the nurses and doctors for a sign. "They're monsters, all of them," she thought stonily. Young as she was, untried, she thought their cheerfulness in the face of this certain defeat too horrible. She did not realize they grappled daily with that enemy, Death. And sometimes won.

Poor child, thought the tall nurse, as she moved briskly, capable about. Poor child, she has a lot to learn. Aloud she said in a low voice which Liane resented for its matter-of-factness. "You must go out now and get some lunch. Can't have another patient, you know." She even smiled.

Liane shuddered at the thought of food. Food when her darling mother was so removed from the urgencies and necessities of daily living! Never!

"Oh, God—oh, dear God," she prayed wildly, bitterly. "Prepare her to me this time, at least. I'll be so good, so awfully, awfully good. What you want of me, I'll do. I've been vain, selfish. I've not given her what she ought to have. Give me another chance to show her that I love her!"

Miss Nesbit persisted, gently firm. "Go out and eat now, child. A bowl of soup. Anything."

Liane looked at the sturdy watch on the nurse's round white wrist. It was 1 o'clock. She dragged herself out of the chair.

"I'll fly," she said tonelessly. "Just around the corner."

Agony, agony. It was all agony. There was no relief. Even the pavements were unfriendly. The fall day seemed ominous with the hush of unshed tears. She found a little restaurant, one in which the day before she had wept unashamedly into a bitter cup of tea. She did not weep now. Even that was beyond her.

She saw, as one sees flashes in a cinema, pictures of her life and her mother's. Herself at 12, in blue serge, being brought to the convent. Her mother's mobile, eager face. Sister Blanche. "She's a dear child, Mrs. Barrett, and we'll take good care of her." That was the year's mother had gone on tour with the Shakespearean company.

Liane wondered numbly what life would have been like for both of them if Tom Barrett had lived. He had died when she was 6. She had vague memories of a tall, brown-haired man who carried her on his shoulders. How she had envied girls who spoke of "my father" at school. She longed for her father now, for someone to keep this fearful vigil with her.

Somehow Liane swallowed the hot, salty broth, crumbled a cracker and left it unattended. Then she fairly ran the short block to the hospital in a fever lest she had stayed too long. Something—anything—might have happened.

She was afraid to open the door. Dread had swept over her again like a searing flame. But Miss Nesbit sat, quiet and relaxed, watching the sufferer, listening to the labored breathing.

must pack you off south as soon as you feel like traveling. Or perhaps California. You're not to struggle with this wretched winter climate. I've made up my mind about that."

Cass protested, feebly but earnestly. "I've got to get back to my work—to the company. Vernon's keeping my place open."

"Nonsense!"

"But I'm so frightfully in debt to you already. I shouldn't feel right until I get on my feet again and can begin to pay you back."

Mrs. Cleespaugh flicked her fingers delicately against an imaginary obstacle.

"My dear," she said with great distinctness. "You are being a bit absurd, aren't you? You came very close to death's door. You were miraculously spared to this dear child here. Now you speak of jeopardizing your health again. Let me manage all this. It is a great delight to be able to do it."

Cass closed her eyes.

"As you wish," she said faintly. She was still so weak it was easier to be quiescent. And she was very grateful.

Liane came in from her morning errands in the village, all rosy and sparkling. "What's all this?" she asked.

"It's a conference," Mrs. Cleespaugh informed her, "but it's ended now." She swept out of the room.

Liane sat down, regarded her mother with a fond and anxious gaze. Cass opened her eyes once more.

"Tell me, darling," she asked quickly, irrelevantly, "did I talk a lot of nonsense when I had the fever?"

"Oh, just a lot of gibberish," Liane said with great carelessness. "Why?"

"I just wondered," Cass looked relieved. "I—oh, I seemed to have the most frightful dreams all that time."

"Isn't it time for your milk?" Liane wanted to know.

"Miss Wilson has gone down for it."

"Don't talk then. Just rest until she comes. The doctor said you weren't to tire yourself."

Liane sat there, quietly companionable, until the nurse came back.

A little later Cass fell asleep again, in the middle of her drink, like a child. As Liane tiptoed out she thought uneasily of the small fib she had told. "Because of course she did say something distinct—something that I remembered," she thought. And how odd it had been, too. "I've earned her. My little girl." What had Liane done to do with her? Or perhaps her mother hadn't meant Liane at all. Anyhow it was puzzling, although probably not at all important.

"I can ask her about it when she's perfectly well," Liane thought, dismissing the matter. Nothing mattered now—nothing except the fact that Cass Barrett was mending, little by little. The first days she had begun to look up and to smile had been sheer ecstasy. The first cup of broth she had been coaxed to take had been held in Liane's firm hands. The girl was thinking of that now as she came down into the big hall.

"You look happy anyhow," said a quiet voice at her elbow.

Clive stood there in his riding things, his hair tumbled as usual. There was a dog at his heels. He brought with him the odor of wood smoke and stables.

"Oh, I am!" said Liane, stretching out her arms and laughing aloud for the sheer, unmitigated joy of being alive.

 ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."
 Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.
 You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.
 Two tablespoonsfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.
 ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Drouth is More Serious Than Ever For Waterfowl

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The serious decrease in the number of ducks noted throughout the United States during the shooting season of 1930-31 has caused general alarm among sportsmen, conservationists, and others interested in these valuable birds. For several years drouth conditions in the breeding season of the birds have been unfavorable in the northern plains states and the Prairie provinces of Canada, and officials of the biological survey, United States department of agriculture, are cooperating with provincial and dominion officials in Canada in studying actual conditions in the heart of the breeding range of some of our most important species of ducks. Preliminary results of the study now in progress indicate that this year's hatch of waterfowl will prove to be the smallest on record.
 Canadian officials have reported recently that conditions in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan and parts of Manitoba are even less favorable for the breeding of wild fowl than they were last year. Recent rains in these areas can have no effect on this year's hatch of young ducks, because the peak of the breeding season had passed before the drought broke.
 The serious drought conditions in the breeding grounds of the birds in the spring and early summer this year have accentuated the critical conditions facing the waterfowl. Concern for the safety of the birds is increased by announcements from the Weather Bureau that the extreme deficiency in moisture that was experienced in 1930 followed similar conditions in the Northwest dating back to 1922.
 Early this year Secretary Hyde, of the department of Agriculture, recognizing the need for additional protection for wild fowl, authorized amendments to the regulations under the migratory-bird treaty act. These amendments will reduce the open seasons on waterfowl by two weeks in each of the states the coming fall and winter. He also adopted other restrictions to reduce the annual kill of wild fowl, including a reduction in the number of live-goose decoys that may hereafter be used at any gunning stand.
 The biological survey has been observing the drought conditions in the breeding grounds of the wild fowl, particularly in the Plains States and Prairie provinces. A large part of the wild fowl that spend the fall and winter months in cooperation with Canadian conservation officials will be awaited with interest, it is believed, by sportsmen and conservationists of both countries, since it is generally recognized that the conditions now confronting the wild fowl of North America are the most serious in our history.

Blankets Needed By Air Passengers Over Big Desert

DALLAS, July 10.—They didn't want to be frost-bitten or suffer chilblains, so passengers traveling on American Airways planes crossing the Arizona desert demanded blankets, or, if unavailable during the present summer weather, insisted that at least the heat should be turned on.

 While the desert temperature attains a torrid 140 degrees, American Airways ships flying over it and the Rocky Mountains from Phoenix to Los Angeles have been reaching the rarified and chilly altitude of 10,000 feet.
 In order that none of the passengers be endangered with pneumonia, J. K. Lyles, of Dallas, general traffic manager of the southern division, has instructed the pilots to fly at lower altitudes.

They came! They saw! They bought
