JUDGE REFUSES TO SENTENCE CAPONE

A New York magistrate suggests that gangsters be hanged from lamp posts. That would be letting them off lightly.

ABOUT THIS AND THAT.....

W. L. Garner, editor and owner of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, lost his glasses on the streets here the other day. Being a newspaperman he couldn't afford to lose his glasses or anything else, but being a newspaperman he knew just exactly what to do when he did lose them. He came to this office and had a little want ad inserted. The result was that the next morning, which was Sunday, he had his glasses back in time to read the Sunday paper.

Being a newspaperman Mr. Garner likes to give credit where credit is due, so he wrote us the following letter:

"Gentlemen: Just want to say a word for your want ad department. Saturday night at 8 o'clock I lost my glasses on the streets of St. Louis. I placed a 34-cent want ad in your paper and received the glasses the next morning. I am telling all my friends what wonders your want ads will bring. Hoping I lose nothing else in your fair city, I am,

"Yours truly,

"W. L. GARNER,
"Editor Tribune."

We know nothing about building political drafts, but today we received a draft of one that is being sponsored by the League for Economic Democracy—whatever that is—that we believe could be improved upon. In fact any old platform would be an improvement over theirs, as we see it.

In the first place they would do away with everything and every one who had over a million dollars or would do away with all over the million, we couldn't tell which. They would issue a lot of money and put it in circulation so everyone would have a hard time buying anything because money would be so cheap. That is not their idea in issuing the extra money but the way it would probably work out. The next step they would take would be to fix the price of cotton at 30 cents a pound by law, the price of wheat at $2 a bushel by law and force the banks to lend money to anyone at "not exceeding 2 per cent per annum, without outrageous collateral."

They intend to accomplish all these wonders through a few laws raising the tariff. They don't explain just how they are going to raise the prices by a tariff when it is the general impression right now that the tariff is partly to blame for everything from the price of crude oil to low price of railroad stocks.

We forgot to mention that they would prohibit anyone from owning more than 160 acres of land and the government would take over all land above that amount that an individual owned.

As we said, we never wrote a platform, but we fall to see where taking everything away from everyone would help to increase the wealth. Maybe it would, but we rather it be tried on the other fellow.

Those who did not get by the big horned frog market yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock missed a treat. Kids from all over the county were present with all the way from one to 100 horned frogs after it was announced that the Carl Barnes post would pay five cents each for the first 400. At 4:15 there were 549 frogs by actual count and by 5 o'clock it was estimated there were 3,000 on hand. Only 400 were purchased as that is the number to be run in the big horned frog derby on Saturday night.

The 400 frogs that are to be used are now on display in the window of the Oil City pharmacy.

Recently the Lone Star Gas company wanted 75 terrapins. It was doubtful if there were that many in the county, but they left it up to the kids to find them at 15 cents each. About 400 were brought in for sale. No one knows where they all came from or where they went after they were turned out after the 75 had been selected.

COL. BALL INDICTED AT HOUSTON

By United Press.
HOUSTON, July 30.—Colonel Thomas H. Ball, counsel for the Harris County Navigation district, was indicted by the grand jury today for felony theft.

The 72-year-old attorney's indictment involved the sale of 484 acres of land to the navigation district for $222,966.76 in 1927.

The title to the land is alleged to be clouded.

Colonel Ball has been prominent in political and governmental circles for many years. He has been mayor of Houston, congressman, a lifelong battler for prohibition, a successful candidate for governor and many times a delegate to state and national conventions.

Farmer Makes $125 From 1 Acre Of Watermelons

Several weeks ago an article was carried in this paper about the new melons for this section of the country that were being raised by E. C. Shipp, truck farmer, who lives a short distance southeast of Ranger.

Yesterday a visit to his farm revealed that he had planted one acre in watermelons, which is not producing anything this year on account of the late freeze, a good vineyard and raises enough truck crops on his 18 acres to pay a good profit, better, in fact, than could realize from a much larger farm planted to staple crops.

He has canned a large quantity of produce, including 37 chickens, and has put away enough vegetables and meat to last him for more than a year.

ROOSEVELT URGED FOR PRESIDENT

By United Press.
DALLAS, July 30.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was described today by T. White Davidson, former lieutenant governor of Texas, at a Roosevelt-for-president luncheon, as an Alexander who can bring harmony in the ranks of the democratic Greeks and inhibit the republican Persians.

Democrats from all parts of Texas were present and Roosevelt was invited to attend the State fair here this fall as part of a campaign to secure the state's support for his nomination.

No Arrests Are Made in Attempt To Rob Grocery

No arrests had been made today in connection with the attempted robbery of the Waples-Platter Grocery company in Ranger on Tuesday night, police said today.

The robbery was attempted Tuesday and after the thieves had carried a large quantity of merchandise to the back door preparatory to loading it on a truck, they were frightened away, presumably by the appearance of one of the night patrolmen on his rounds.

Clues to the attempted robbery were meager and police are still looking for the culprits.

EDISON'S FAMOUS QUESTION IS ANSWERED IN REAL LIFE

By United Press.
NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, July 30.—Four unmarked graves in the blistering wastes and three men who raced madly to a Sonora hospital provided a real and tragic answer today to Thomas A. Edison's famous question as to what a group of assorted travelers would do if marooned in a desert with limited supplies of food and water.

Edison's question was imaginary. This tragedy was real. There were other slight differences. Edison named a group of five. In this group were seven, including a 16-year-old mother and her 15-day-old baby.

The party set out from Nogales to Mexicali in a desert stage, July 20. Five days ago the stage broke down, 250 miles from the nearest town.

Besides the mother and her baby, others of the party were all men.

POLICEMEN ARE CHARGED IN MURDER

By United Press.
AMARILLO, July 30.—Police Patrolmen Everett R. Murr and Sid Harper were charged with murder today in the fatal shooting of Cecil Marion Elston, 25-year-old Panhandle surveyor and son of Judge Frank Elston of Carson county.

The officers were allowed bond of $5,000 each and suspended from duty.

Elston was shot in the back of the head Sunday night as he fled from officers who had gone to a dance hall to arrest him on charges of assaulting a young girl. He died Wednesday.

Both policemen denied having fired the fatal shot.

FLIERS ARE SUCCESSFUL IN TRANS-OCEAN FLIGHTS

By United Press.
ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 30.—Successfully completing their non-stop long-distance flight from New York, Russell Boardman and John Polando landed their Bellanca monoplane here at 1:16 p. m. local time.

The Boardman-Polando plane "Cape Cod" took off at 3:59 a. m. CST, Tuesday, and was not positively identified at any point of its flight. The fliers had forecast that they would arrive in approximately 50 hours' flying time, which would have been 4 a. m. CST. The time of their arrival was 5:16 a. m. CST.

Most of the trip appears to have been through fog, as was the case with the Pangborn-Herdon plane, which accounted for difficulty in following their progress.

PLANES BATTLE TIMBER WORMS FOR FORESTERS

By United Press.
OLYMPIA, Wash.—Aviation man's ingenuity combined in the state's latest drive to eradicate the ravaging hemlock looper of Pacific country, Washington.

The experiment is the first ever attempted in the United States, according to state officials. The work will cover a 5,400 acre tract of forest lying near the Pacific Ocean and will cost approximately $18,000.

Two special airplanes, costing $11,000 each, are being used. Each plane is equipped with special compartments with agitators to force a supply of calcium arsenate through openings in the fuselage floor. On each trip 1,000 pounds of the powdered poison will be carried.

Pilots will fly about 40 feet above the infested areas and dust the tree tops. The planes are kept under perfect control, following closely the timber tops in windrows.

A base of supply and landing field was established on the ocean beach. The work is costing the state and private owners $79 an hour. More than 50 tons of powder will be spread.

Slowly but surely the dust will kill the pests, according to state officials. The looper's attack is nearly always confined to uppermost branches of trees. Some of the worms die within a few hours while others may survive the withering blast for several days, depending on weather conditions and uniformity of the dust spray.

Because the looper confines his attack to the new tender needles through which trees "breathe," attempts to exterminate it with ground equipment proved futile. The worms were able to climb out of range of the deadly acids. It was found.

SINCLAIR TO TESTIFY IN SENATE

By United Press.
AUSTIN, July 30.—Claude C. Wild of Fort Worth testified before the Texas senate that "Charles Rosser, a member of the emergency oil committee told me he and his associates had rather have chaos in East Texas for another 60 days than put the Crandall plan into operation."

Wild, who is executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum association of Texas and one of the backers of the Crandall plan, said Rosser had told him he and his associates wanted the East Texas crisis settled by legislation.

Harry F. Sinclair is expected to arrive from Tulsa by airplane to take the stand at 2 p. m., the opening hour of the senate's afternoon session.

His appearance was requested by Senator Pollard.

Vatican and Fascists Battle For Right To Train Youth of Italy

EDITH'S NOTE.—This is the first of a series of ten articles on the recent dispute between Pope Pius XI and Premier Benito Mussolini. The first story treats the causes and history behind the dispute. The second will describe the events leading up to the break and the present position of the two disputing parties.—United Press Association.

By STEWART BROWN, United Press Staff Correspondent.

ROME.—After two years of comparative peace, friction has broken out again between the Roman Catholic church and the Italian government.

The dispute has brought into direct conflict two of the world's most dominant personalities, Pope Pius XI and Premier Benito Mussolini. Both are determined to have their own way.

Pope Pius, temporal sovereign of a state containing only 108 acres, but directing the religious life of 350,000,000 persons, has pitted his strength against Premier Mussolini, dictator in a land of 42 million citizens encompassing 119 thousand square miles.

Battle Not Unequal.

Are they fighting an unequal battle? It appears not, for what one lacks in domestic physical strength is compensated by the moral support of Catholic sympathy throughout the world. Mussolini is matching internal unity and force against the pope's international strength.

Their quarrel results from directly conflicting desires. The pope, following the historic custom of the church, demands that the church be allowed to supervise the moral, social and physical training of Italian youth through long-existing church organizations. Mussolini, developing the fascist theory that every Italian child, woman and man belongs to the state and must be trained in all but religion by the state, insists that Italian children must be instructed by fascist organizations.

This difference of opinion is fundamental and strikes at the vital forces of the two systems. Just as fascism is determined to control the cultural and physical education of the youth, so is the Catholic church. The church, having its seat in the midst of the Italian kingdom, feels it has a right to the moral training of Italian youth.

Important Concession.

The church did make one important concession to fascism when, shortly before the signing of the Lateran treaties in 1929, it disbanded the Catholic Boy Scouts throughout Italy. But Mussolini was not satisfied and the existence of Catholic youth organizations throughout Italy was an irritation which he could not abide. When the occasion arrived, he was determined, once for all, to disband the Catholic youth clubs and force the children into fascist youth associations.

There was not only a question as to which would train the youth of Italy but also in what manner and by what methods. The church has several times charged that fascist military training for boys and the reverence of guns and physical forces was inspiring hatred and irreverence in the hearts of Italian children. The two systems of education it is true, differ basically and to continue his fascist regeneration of Italy it was necessary for Il Duce to remove the Catholic clubs from the field.

The second and an important cause of friction, corollary upon the first, was the alleged political activities of the Azione Cattolica (Continued on page two.)

GUILT PLEA WITHDRAWAL CONSIDERED

By United Press.
CHICAGO, July 30.—Federal Judge James H. Wilker today refused to sentence Al Capone under a compromise agreement and took a motion to withdraw the gang leader's pleas of guilty under advisement until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

By A. B. LARSON, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Al Capone's trip to the Leavenworth penitentiary marks the eclipse—for a number of years, at least—of the "world's worst gangster."

Capone's passing brought a sigh of relief to Chicago and its law enforcement agents, for it removed the gangster, who in 10 years had become a Frankenstein monster, threatening to overwhelm the nation's second largest city.

For years to come, perhaps, mention of Chicago in far places of the world will excite reference to "Scarface Al," but his going to prison gives the nation's second largest city strong hope of removing that tarnish from its reputation.

Power May Pass On.

None the less, there is apprehension that his power may pass, in part, to his successors—gangsters who have been intimately associated with him in his organization of a gigantic syndicate controlling liquor and vice enterprises. Behind this apprehension is the picture of what happened in Chicago after Capone came here (Continued on page two.)

Hero Unable to Get Help to Buy A Wooden Leg

By United Press.
PARY, Ind.—George Stark, who literally broke his leg, is bemoaning the fact that, although the loss was suffered in a valiant rescue effort, no one appears willing to pay him for a new one.

Hobbling on crutches, he has made the rounds of city and county offices and charitable institutions, but after scanning statutes and by-laws, none was able to find specifications for providing aid to men with splintered wooden legs.

Stark even went to the Pennsylvania Railroad company, in whose interest, he said, he shattered his artificial leg. He pointed out that when he saw an auto bearing three men roll onto the tracks at a crossing near here, he waved his arms, shouted and jumped up and down so violently in an effort to attract their attention, his leg splintered under the strain.

The fact that the men were killed, Stark contended, did not minimize his valiant attempt to save their lives and protect the railroad's interests.

The railroad officials readily admitted that his service merited some recompense, but pointed out that since he had served as a valuable witness for the railroad during the inquest, it would appear too much like payment for influential testimony if they pay him for a new leg.

Relics of Caddo Indians Excavated Near Marshall

By United Press.
MARSHALL, Tex.—Crude, fashioned objects that adorned Caddo Indian wigwams four centuries ago are being excavated from the burying ground of a long-extinct tribe that frequented the area about Harleton, Harrison county.

The research work is being conducted by expeditionists from the anthropology department of the University of Texas, headed by A. T. Jackson, departmental field foreman. Findings of the party will form the basis of a forthcoming book by Dr. J. E. Pearce, head of the anthropology department.

Their discoveries have included innumerable articles and arrowheads, all of which were found inched in dusty graves where Indian corpses had deteriorated.

MANAGUA RISES FROM RUINS OF FIRE AND QUAKE

By United Press.
MANAGUA. — General Jose Moncada, president of Nicaragua, is concentrating on rebuilding Managua, which was destroyed by the earthquake and fire last March. In spite of the continued activities of bandits in northern Nicaragua, President Moncada maintains that the reconstruction and rehabilitation of the capital is his greatest problem.

Pending the rebuilding of the presidential palace on the hill overlooking Managua, President Moncada occupies modest quarters in the town, a block away from the camp where the 900 officers and men of the fifth regiment of United States marines are quartered. Across from the executive offices, where the president works, eats and sleeps, is the camp of the presidential guard of the guardia nacional, the force organized and still, in the main, officered by U. S. marines. Surrounding the presidential quarters are heavily armed guardsmen with rifles, sub-machine guns and riot guns.

President Moncada, a sturdy man in his late fifties, is reserved and calm. He expresses complete confidence in the ability of his country to build a new Managua. He is satisfied with the spirit of labor shown by his people after the earthquake and fire, and he feels that the real problem of rebuilding is an economic one.

The government must continue in strong, firm hands," he said. "Without desiring to seem immodest, I do not hesitate to say that my government has administered the financial affairs of the country with care, practicing economies and succeeding in servicing our foreign indebtedness and in substantially reducing the principal. That is why Nicaragua is a solvent nation."

The president, although deeply concerned over the effect of the world wide economic depression on his country, feels that Nicaragua is less unfortunate than several of its near neighbors.

He, naturally, has little time for recreation, but he manages to keep fit, he says, on his week-end trips to a country place. He spends these holidays on the lake, swimming and fishing.

Planetarium Is New Chicago Tourist Magnet

By United Press.
CHICAGO. — Under the gray dome of Chicago's new Adler planetarium the heavenly bodies may be seen daily. The first American planetarium has proved so popular that during its first 14 months nearly a million persons have visited it and witnessed demonstrations of the number of visitors for the first year—731,000—was 251,000 in excess of the number which the directors estimated would call during that time.

The planetarium and institutions of its kind are held responsible for the changing trend of interest evinced by visitors to Chicago. The once popular trip to the stockyards, slums or to some spot to which a violent crime had given the name of "death corner," is waning in its appeal to the stranger. Civic leaders declare that the planetarium is becoming definitely associated with Chicago and outsiders are not so apt to think most packing town, or a city famed for its crime.

Virtually all distinguished visitors to Chicago have wanted to see the planetarium, Director Philip Fox stated. And it is not alone the stranger who is attracted. Chicagoans have flocked by the thousands to hear the lectures and to see the planetary movements depicted.

Many scientists from all parts of the country have made use of the planetarium in their researches. Prof. H. I. Schlessinger, of the University of Chicago, said he hoped the university would be able to use the planetarium and similar institutions as substitute laboratories for work in physical science under the new plan of education to be inaugurated by the university.

Arizona Heat Fails To Take Death Toll

By United Press.
PHOENIX, Ariz.—Although it has led the nation in high temperatures on numerous occasions this summer, there hasn't been a heat prostration or sun strike death in Arizona.

Temperatures ranging from 105 to 115 degrees are common in the southern part and on occasion the mercury shoots past the 120 mark. The highest temperature ever recorded in the state by the U. S. Weather Bureau is 129 degrees.

Experts explain that the lack of humidity in the air saves lives during the hot spells but Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen insist that common sense practice in dress and the fact that most Arizonans virtually live out doors has a lot to do with it. Southern Arizona men, for instance, never wear coats in the summer. The presence of a coat is a sure sign of a stranger.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Rodney Dutcher, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON. — Regardless of who may have conceived the latest plan for saving Germany and irrespective of whether the plan is anything to brag about it is obvious that the astute Undersecretary of State William R. Castle attempted to put over some splendid publicity for the administration and that the attempt was gummied up by none other than Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

His Other "Bulls"

Without choosing sides between Stimson and Castle, it should be admitted that the incident has recalled some of Stimson's previous "bulls" to the obscurity of his time at the London naval conference when Hoover was issuing a statement condemning the consultative pact idea while Stimson in London was explaining the kind of a consultative pact this country would accept.

Dividing the Honors

Castle was here working with Hoover throughout the save-Germany negotiations and handling the publicity. Stimson arrived to represent us at Paris and London after France, through haggling, had accepted the debt moratorium plan.

One of Stimson's Strongest Points has been considered his implicit obedience to Hoover, but Castle has been much more active in promoting the president's interests and advancing his own cause at the same time.

It was Castle who, when the story was widely current that Young, Morrow, Dawes and various New York bankers had sold the debt moratorium to Hoover after long and desperate pleading, issued a timetable to demonstrate how, day by day for many weeks, Hoover had worked out the moratorium idea all by himself.

given by the French to their own M. Moret, governor of the Bank of France.

But the point is that this government wanted that plan to be known as a "Hoover plan" pushed forward at a critical moment to save the situation. Stimson spoiled the effect and all good friends of Mr. Hoover are pretty sore. It is impossible to say whether Stimson merely didn't get the point of the Castle announcement and didn't realize the importance of giving the president full credit or whether he was sincere in thinking that the credit should be divided.

To Aid White Russians

The actual purpose of the organization is to create, within the laws of any country, an organization capable of looking after the interests of White Russians in connection with the activities of the secret police of the soviets. Such events as the kidnaping and probable murder of General Koupteff, a White Russian leader, has made his political adherents apprehensive for the safety of other leaders.

Two Types Preferred

Preference has been given to both classes in view of their presumed previous training and ability. Colonel Mikhail Felkikhine, former underprefect of Odessa and head of the police of Riga, is in charge of the school.

Police organization, as demonstrated in France, will be the model of instruction in the school, however. Instruction will be given in the latest police methods of the surete generale, the French Scotland Yard. In addition, there will be classes in routine police work which will include handling of crowds, breaking up of street fights, disarming of criminals and general gymnastic work.

'Crippled' Birds Lure Golfers From Nests

CHICAGO. — At this time of the year a golfer, who walks into the rough to locate a golf ball that has strayed from the fairway, may be startled by seeing a pair of crippled "snipe" flopping around on the ground. These poor cripples must not be taken too seriously because they are quite apt to be killers and their inability to fly is a fraud. In recent years these interesting birds have been increasing on golf courses which have one or more water hazards.

The sharp cries of the birds and their antics in displaying "broken" wings are merely invitations to play hide and go seek, because they have a nest of young nearby and they are doing their best to lure the golfer away from the family.

APPLE ORCHARD PRAYER AIDED CARRIE NATION

By United Press.
MONTGOMERY, Mo.—A fervent prayer in an apple orchard and the fact that liquor caused her to lose her reason led Carrie Nation into her fight against alcoholic beverages and the licensed saloon, her former manager, Harry C. Turner, has revealed.

A dogged determination—her will was personified by her initials "C. A. N."—carried the woman through her struggle, a struggle that started agitation for passage of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead, Act Turner said. He now is a newspaper man working here.

Her Story

Turner recalled the following story regarding the crusader: "I lost all the hopes of my young life through drink," Turner quoted the famous woman as saying. "I felt desperate and took it to the Lord in prayer on June 5, 1899, at my home, 1212 E. 12th St., Kansas City. I went behind my home and prayed in the apple orchard.

"The next day, I heard a voice: 'Go to Kiowa. Go to Kiowa, take something in your hands and smash every place that is selling liquor.'"

Turner revealed that, contrary to popular belief, Carrie Nation did not use a hatchet in her first anti-saloon raids. Rather, he said, she used bricks and rocks wrapped in paper to resemble packages.

"I broke three saloons my first day," Turner said Mrs. Nation recalled when telling in later years of her experiences. "I broke the windows on the outside, smashed all the bottles I could find and threw bricks through the mirrors. By this time a crowd had gathered. I took advantage of the spectators to tell them of the work I was determined to do—do away with the remaining saloons in Kansas and spread the gospel of temperance throughout the nation."

Mrs. Nation sometimes was discouraged, especially when faced with prosecution, Turner said, but she always exhibited a bull-dog determination and carried on for her cause until her death 20 years ago.

White Russians Teach Refugees Police Work

By United Press.
PARIS.—A school to train Russian refugees in police work has been started in Paris. Although the White Russians are ousted from their country by the soviets, many never have anything to police, a number of their leaders are determined that they shall be prepared to assume control of their country if the occasion arises.

The school, which already numbers about 300 men, will grant diplomas after the manner of the detective schools that advertise in magazines of the United States. The school is sponsored by an organization with the considerable name of "The Direction General of the Association of Former Functionaries of the Urban and Rural Communities of the Russian Empire and Abroad." The name, which was pronounced in Russian, would cause any criminal to halt and throw up his hands.

To Aid White Russians

The actual purpose of the organization is to create, within the laws of any country, an organization capable of looking after the interests of White Russians in connection with the activities of the secret police of the soviets. Such events as the kidnaping and probable murder of General Koupteff, a White Russian leader, has made his political adherents apprehensive for the safety of other leaders.

Two Types Preferred

Preference has been given to both classes in view of their presumed previous training and ability. Colonel Mikhail Felkikhine, former underprefect of Odessa and head of the police of Riga, is in charge of the school.

Police organization, as demonstrated in France, will be the model of instruction in the school, however. Instruction will be given in the latest police methods of the surete generale, the French Scotland Yard. In addition, there will be classes in routine police work which will include handling of crowds, breaking up of street fights, disarming of criminals and general gymnastic work.

J. D. Connor Companion in the Morrison Extortion Case Gave Police Long Chase Before Caught

Eastland county people who have followed the amazing career of J. D. Connor, erstwhile Rising Star and Rochelle school teacher, now in the state penitentiary at Huntsville, will be interested in learning about the chase given police by Nyal Wright, accused with Connor, and T. R. Edmonston of Rising Star in a plot whereby $75,000 was extorted from R. W. Morrison, San Antonio financier and president of the Gulf & West Texas railroad. Wright is in Bexar county jail after a chase lasting nearly a year, and which extended to the Pacific coast and back across the United States to the Atlantic coast. He finally voluntarily surrendered at Atlanta, Ga., Connor is serving a 20-year sentence for the Morrison affair and for several robberies by assault with firearms counts. Edmonston turned state's evidence and has not been tried for his part in the extortion case.

Had Been on Island

The sheriff said that Wright confided to him that he had been living unsuspected on a small island called Bimini, off the keys of Southern Florida, and that he was taken to an Atlanta hospital after breaking his arm while cranking a boat. Wright has bought and traded 25 automobiles in less than a year to cover his trail. The trail led through San Francisco, Miami and New York.

Wright was jovial while being fingerprinted and photographed at police headquarters. He said, "I was standing across the street from the hotel and saw them arrest Edmonston and Connor that time at Mason. I also saw two San Antonio detectives who were searching for me at Mineral Wells eight weeks ago."

Wright Surrendered

Wright surrendered willingly to Sheriff Wilbert Hattner in the outskirts of Atlanta, Ga. The fugitive had tired of being hunted and sent notice to the sheriff that he would surrender.

On seeing the sheriff, Wright extended his hand and said, "Hello, sheriff, I'm glad to meet you. I've heard a lot about you."

He waived extradition papers and was taken to San Antonio by train.

Wright is a well groomed young giant of 23, weighing 200 pounds.

He was not talkative in the death cell on the fourth floor of the jail Monday. His greeting to newspaper men was, "You'd—news-papers have had too much about me now."

He revealed, however, that his wife and 5-year-old daughter had been with him during his chase with the law. They are now at his father's home in Atascosa county, Wright said.

Not a Single Definite Clue

Not a single definite clue about the whereabouts of William Quinn, only remaining one of the five at large, is professed by officers. He is known to have left Connor, Powell, Martin and Pitts the second day after their escape. They were then in New Mexico.

DRY chewing gum, often carried indoors on the soles of shoes, is easily removed from carpets and rugs by putting on a few drops of gasoline. The gum will crumble and can be brushed off.

Serving a sherbet with the meat course adds a novelty touch to the dinner. It is not only delicious in itself but gives a pleasant contrasting flavor to heavier dishes. Another all-important point for the busy housewife is that sherbets are easily and quickly prepared.

Co-ed Cowgirl Rules Rodeo

Introducing Miss Dorothy Barber, five-gallon hat, gauntlets and all, selected to reign over the whoopee-making city of Salinas, Calif., during a rodeo week. The charming cowgirl is 24, a University of California co-ed, an accomplished athlete and hails from King City, Calif.

It happened just a short distance out of the village? Liane nodded. The old lady looked annoyed. "I shall have to reprimand Kelly. He must have disregarded my orders about overhauling the car yesterday."

It was on the tip of Liane's tongue to say, "Van took me to luncheon," but she refrained. She scarcely knew why.

At dinner that night Tressa was unusually gay. Liane had not known she could be so cheerful, so amusing. "I think I'll push off for Aiken next week, Eva," Tressa said affably over the coffee cups.

Mrs. Cleeppaugh looked at her benevolently. Evidently Tressa had won her way back into her hostess's affections since the coolest night of the ball.

"If you must," the older woman said, "but I did hope you might dress? I am so anxious to see it."

"It's perfect," Liane said honestly. "Scarcely anything was wrong. Oh, the sleeves were not quite tight enough. Miss Lilly says it will be ready next week."

"The notices are ready for the papers," she had broken down and Mr. Robard came along. He drove me into town for my appointment. I was just in time."

"How fortunate," Mrs. Cleeppaugh said warmly. "How is the dress? I am so anxious to see it."

Prof. Specimens Pickled In Whiskey
By United Press
MARIETTA, O. — Prof. H. R. Eggleston, Marietta college biologist, recently went about the business of putting a collection of preserved snakes and beetles in new containers. When the task was completed, Professor Eggleston was the owner of five gallons of an tincture species of American drink — whiskey.

The specimens were put up in 1849. It was liquor more than 80 years old.

The professor said he had attributed the peculiar color of the preserving fluid to distintegration because of extreme age of the specimens.

"I have read old biological reports in which field men registered a keg of whiskey for preservative, since it was cheaper than alcohol then," the professor said, "but until now I had been skeptical about the contents of these kegs."

Belled Buzzards To Float Over Ohio

By United Press.

LANCASTER, O.—A buzzard which soared and dipped to the tinkle of a small bell around its neck became a legend in Fairfield county. It disappeared and news came that an Indiana farmer had killed the "belled" bird.

Now three Lancaster boys propose to restore the "belled" buzzard to the county's list of unusual phenomena. The boys trapped two mated buzzards, placed bells around their necks and released them. They then discovered a buzzard nest with four young buzzards, which they are guarding and will "bell" before the birds are old enough to fly away.
