REVEALS HOW NEY SAVED MARSHALL'S LIFE

By United Press.
A Neb. — "The Old man, but never surrendering," Marshal Ney at Waterloo, Napoleon's favorite leader, was killed, but he did not die at the hands of a firing squad, as his biographers, according to Marshall Ney, who claims to be a nephew of the French field Marshal Ney, according to his descendant, escaped to the States, became a school teacher in North Carolina, and in November, 1846, in Italy he used the name S. Ney.

Secretly he had been locked in jail for 100 years," said Ney of Omaha. "At first other people to be proud of the story could not be all long since have died and no further reason for his life."

His death, however," Ney said, "Dr. Matthew his physician, begged him once and for all his identity."

ing himself on his bed with a woman effort, Ney replied, Marshall, N. C. at whose home, she later died."

Carolina history records the name of Peter Ney of a mysterious woman, who remained closeted for many years. This story was told by Mrs. Mary C. Dalton, of Marshall, N. C., who said she heard her father talking with the men glancing at each other at a meeting, but spoke not a word until they were alone, according to Mrs. Dalton. This was in 1835.

man was my father," said she. "My father was a legend down in our family. My father recognized Peter Ney as the man of France. My father America especially for the man who never returned, but who was in this country."

all Michael Ney for many years has been a telegraph operator. The grizzled warrior stood in a firing squad of his own men. After his talk with the men, the Duke of Wellington to Louis XVIII availed himself of the Duke's aid. Shots were actually fired.

According to the Omaha Ney, in what happened: "An Omaha Ney, who spoke in a low voice, 'alm high' his name the plan arranged by Wellington. The Old Guard was quickly covered with a search light and carried inside. A search light supposed buying place after revealed only the empty."

WOMAN WALKS OUT OF PRISON

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—Because no one outside was collecting evidence to keep her husband from hanging, Mrs. Irene McCann walked out of the hospital at the women's prison farm today and escaped.
Less than a mile away her husband, Albert McCann, was held for safe keeping in the state penitentiary, sentenced to death for the murder of a jailer at Carthage, Mo., last spring. His wife was at large in the state trying to collect evidence that, if it saved her husband, must mean her conviction of first degree murder. The woman has declared to other inmates at the prison that her husband is not guilty, that she fired the shot which killed the jailer.

Eastland Gas Hearing Has Been Postponed

By agreement between counsel for both parties in the case, a hearing set for the injunction proceedings whereby the Community Natural Gas Company would enjoin the city of Eastland from interfering with its gas rate has been postponed to a later date. The reason given was that the court was busy this week and the case would probably be late on the docket schedule and attorneys for both sides wanted to be sure of a hearing before making the trip.

DEATH PLOT FOUND BY OFFICERS

SASAKWA, Okla., Nov. 10.—An alleged death plot to collect insurance and destroy the evidence by making it appear the victim was killed in a railroad crossing wreck, has been bared, county officers claimed today.
County Attorney O. H. Presson said he would file murder charges against "Red" Scott and his brother, W. L. Scott, the husband of a woman found clubbed to death in an auto standing on a crossing near here yesterday.
The plot to destroy evidence of murder was thwarted when the Frisco engineer frantically applied the brakes as his train sped toward the crossing. The locomotive stopped.
Investigation disclosed the occupant was a woman who had been clubbed to death several hours before. The motor of the automobile was still warm.

Mystic Predicts Win for Ranger

Professor Gordon, husband of the late Madam Flo LeRoy, mystic marvel who predicted last year that Ranger would defeat Breckinridge but that Ciesco would defeat the Bulldogs in a small score, was in Ranger today and by the same brand of clairvoyance used last year, predicted Ranger would win.
The prediction last year was made from the stage of the Columbia Theatre, where Madam LeRoy was showing at the time.
The prediction of Professor Gordon was made Tuesday afternoon to a representative of The Times. Madam LeRoy, who assisted by her husband in their clairvoyant act, died in Dallas on June 14 and her husband has been continuing their feats of looking into the future.

OIL MEN ASKING A TARIFF

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—A fight for a protective oil tariff was opened today by independent southwest producers as 1,500 producers gathered for the annual American Petroleum Institute meeting.
Tariff was asked by members of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, which announced it would carry its campaign before the December session of congress.
Wirt Franklin, Oklahoma City, leader of the independent oil men, hailed Governor W. H. Murray's shutdown of the Oklahoma field. "Murray saved our lives," Franklin said. He asserted, however, the salvation of the industry was a tariff which would prevent importation of oil which he said prevented re-employment of workers and reduced government taxes derived from oil producers.

Officers said that the two men were caught taking gasoline from the pump and that they had cut the hose away when first seen.

THREE FOUND DEAD ABOUT SAME TIME

ELKHART, Texas, Nov. 10.—Three funerals were planned in this East Texas town today for three high school friends, two boys and a girl, who last night ended their lives within a few hours.
The first to die was Benjamin Clyde Kennedy, 19. He swallowed strychnine at Oakwood where he had been employed in an ice house since leaving school recently. He had bought strychnine earlier in the day "to kill a cat."
Shortly after hearing of his death, Doris McCann, 17, high school student, bought 15 grains of strychnine, "to kill cats." She went into convulsions and died without explaining.
As the girl was dying, relatives found Ernest Miller Jr. shot to death at his parents' home with a pistol at his side. He would have been 19 today. He was a friend of Kennedy and Miss McCann.
The two youths left notes. Kennedy's simply said "Good-bye and good luck to all my friends." Contents of Miller's was not revealed. Miller was a senior in high school. The girl also attended the school.
Authorities were unable to establish any direct connection to the three deaths. They learned Kennedy had been in love with an Oakwood girl and appeared depressed because he was not earning more money.
Kennedy's parents are dead. He is survived by several brothers and sisters, including a Mrs. Gunnell of Sweetwater.

CRIME IS DECREASING IN CHICAGO.

A famous Chicago judge has furnished the reading world the information that crime in that city has been steadily decreasing, especially in the last three years, and the additional information that the population of Chicago has increased 500,000 in the last 10 years. A year ago a Chicago vigilance committee listed 46 citizens of Chicago as social menaces. These menaces operated in the underworld. Now their leaders are on the way to the penitentiary. Many of the lieutenants of the leaders have been planted in graveyards by jealous rivals. Others have been driven out of Chicago and away from Illinois. Give Uncle Sam credit for a lot of the work. He sent the Capones away and now the Capone lieutenants are hiding out in far away places. A reminder "that justice travels with a leaden heel but it strikes mighty hard."

UNIFORM COTTON ACREAGE ACT TO BE SOUGHT.

Governor Harvey Parnell of Arkansas and Governor Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi have issued an invitation to governors of all cotton producing states to meet with committees of their legislatures at a conference in Jackson, Miss., to agree on uniform cotton acreage reduction legislation. Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana will send a delegation to the Mississippi conference. Texas is a banner cotton producing state. Its estimated yield for 1931 is 5,600,000 bales. Its legislature enacted a law that will make a sweeping reduction in acreage planted in cotton in 1932. In bygone years cotton was the new money crop in Texas. More Texans were engaged in the production of cotton, two to one, than in any other state. Seventy per cent of the growers were tenants or croppers. It is a vital issue for Texas and Texas. Planting time will come in the early spring months in many sections of the southwestern empire. All Texans are interested in a uniform cotton acreage act.

David Lloyd George is out of the English picture as the leader of the liberal party. Truth is, the famous war minister of the British empire is a living relic of bygone days. There is no room in Great Britain for a liberal party and a labor party. British journalists, including the foremost political writers of the nation, predict that James Ramsey MacDonald will find himself some day as the spokesman of an organized labor-liberal party that will make interesting history in the years to come.

Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho was not a war minister, but he is walking the stage of action demanding revision of the Versailles treaty and the elimination of the Polish corridor. He is the most talked of man in France and Poland. He is the most unpopular among the French and the Poles. This will not worry Borah. He is chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee. He speaks for a vast number of Americans. Politically, he travels alone except on general election day when he registers a straight republican ballot. He has been a maker of history but he has never been successful in building machines. He is for the cancellation of war debts, if a thorough revision of the Versailles, "doing justice to all peoples of all nations," paves the way for cancellation.

MAYOR MURPHY CONTINUES IN THE PICTURE.

Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit was selected by the largest majority ever given a candidate in the largest of automobile manufacturing cities the world has known. He ran as the friend of the unemployed. He declared that he had fed the hungry last year at a cost of $18,000,000 and would continue to feed the hungry this winter if the voters of Detroit returned him to office. They returned him. They not only returned him but they buried, politically speaking, one of the most popular citizens of Detroit who had the nerve to run against the Samaritan who fed the hungry for a year out of the city treasury. Now he has been elected to do it again.

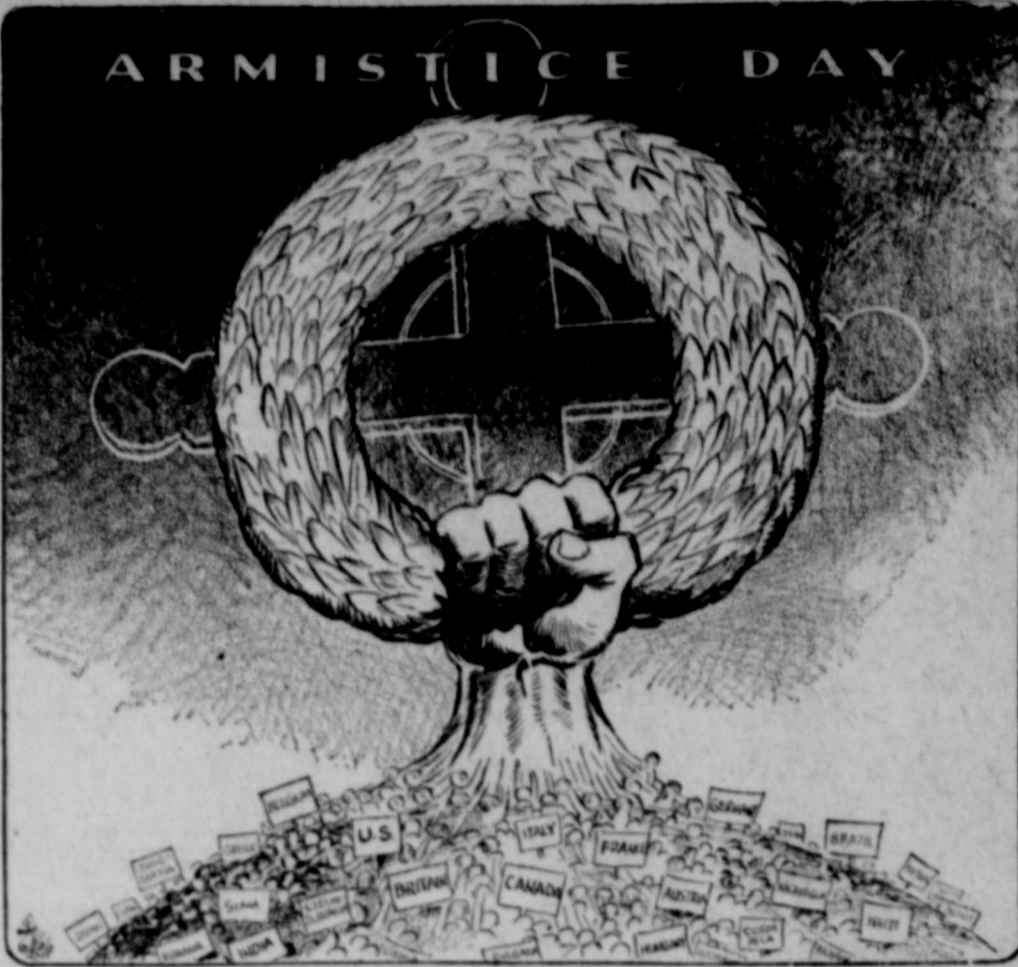

SAYINGS OF GREAT MEN.

Jouett Shouse of Kentucky and Kansas and the United States is chairman of the executive committee of the national democratic committee. After the democrat victories were reported on the morning of Nov. 4, Col. Shouse predicted a sweeping victory for the democratic party in the month of November, 1932. Chmn. Simeon Fess of the national republican committee predicted a sweeping victory for the republican party. He said that there was only one real test in state or congressional elections—"only one where President Hoover's administration was on trial." He picked the first Cincinnati congressional district where a republican was elected as the successor of the late Nicholas Longworth by a majority of 10,000 over his democratic opponent. He never mentioned the Michigan district, a rural district, where a democrat was elected a member of the house the first time in 36 years.

before we had gotten over the range we were floundering in deep and drifting snow. "However, we got over and down in the timber on the edge of Burrows park. There must have been about 30 road hands. This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

In order to synchronize two truths and make them both eligible for use together, I can't resist the temptation to say:

ARMISTICE DAY BANK CLOSED ALL DAY

Monday noon I went to Rotary club. Practically the same gang of mugs that have been knife and fork jugglers here for the last 10 years. Not many of them know or give a damn about it, but I assisted in delivering the charter to the Eastland Rotary club. Anyone present that night may be interested to know that the little blond lady who stood on the counter and sang a song written especially for the occasion is now singing on the Camel hour program under the name of Mary McCoy.

I raised my four bits to go to see "Meet the Wife" last night by the simple performance of collecting a football bet. By the kindness of Neal Day I was saved the tiresome walk out to the high school. And now that I paid for my seat I feel free to say whatever I like about the show. As has been said before, I am probably the best dramatic critic you read after, and probably the only one that ever read after me, but I digress. I DON'T LIKE THE APPROACH TO THE HIGH SCHOOL STEPS. Nothing but a goal post climb that rocky road without twisting an ankle or blowing out a tire.

The show itself was good. I was conscious of a feeling that I'd like to get behind and push at times when it seemed to halt slightly for no good reason. I don't mean to say that it was permitted to drag or become boring, but in places it lacked the snap and positiveness necessary to a fast moving plot. But I got my four bits worth. However, paying to see shows is a bad precedent for a reporter to set and I wouldn't have done it myself, but I suspected they were fixing to pull something that they didn't care to have me know about.

Bill McDonald helped me count my money this morning and was assured that I'd have to postpone my lunch unless something was done. He did that something by taking me up to the Lions club. I don't recall a stirring speech that was followed by round after round of hearty applause. Just as they finished throwing the celery and hens I sat down because my skull will no longer stand the contacts with flying plates it formerly would. The principle sentiment of the meeting was that they are getting as good a meal now for four bits as they used to get for six bits. And I reckon they are.

In the midst of the meal a boy came up with a special delivery letter for me. It supposed some of the members thought it was a frame-up. But it wasn't. It was from Professor Holloway. It contained as fine a pair of season passes to the Ranger football park as I ever see. I opened the letter and the view of everybody as to get full benefit of the obvious glances of Clyde Garrett. I wish John Mouser had been there.

So when the whistle toots today to signal the beginning of the annual tussle between the Bulldogs and the Lobos, you may know that the view of everybody as to get full benefit of the obvious glances of Clyde Garrett. I wish John Mouser had been there.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Difficulty has fallen upon the peace workers. This winter, long and fondly anticipated as bringing the great international disarmament conference at Geneva, now seems sure to be the winter of their greatest discontent.

The peace organizations will continue to fight with the few weapons they have. They will intensify propaganda, raise millions of signatures to peace petitions and din disarmament into the ears of the world's statesmen as often as they can corner them. But the poor prospects for armistice after the Hoover-Laval conference, the unsettled conditions of Europe and the demonstrated impotence of peace treaties in the Manchurian affair have turned hope into dependency.

SOME of the peace leaders, adopting what they consider a realistic attitude, now talk in such terms as the necessity for a "hundred-year educational program." Others, also claiming to be realistic, declare that the strength of the peace movement must be directed at such aims as revision of the Versailles treaty, cancellation of war debts and reparations and Russian recognition, which they must precede any real disarmament. This program, endorsed by Senator Borah, is that of the more radical peace groups. The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom was the first organization in the world to protest the Versailles treaty when it was signed.

The peace workers find no more comfort in America than in Europe of Asia. Ask them how about President Hoover's $40,000,000 slash in our naval budget and they give you the ha-ha.

Don't you know, they say, that last year's naval budget was $350,000,000 and that this year

Funeral Services for Former Resident of Eastland Held

Funeral services for Marvin Burray, 42, former resident of Eastland, who died at his home in Wichita Falls, were held at the First Methodist church at Eastland Tuesday afternoon with Rev. George W. Shearer conducting the services.

The Masonic fraternity took charge of the services at the grave immediately following the church service. A large number of friends from Ranger, Eastland and the surrounding territory, who knew Mr. Burray during his long stay in Eastland county, were present at the services. A large floral offering was presented by many friends.

Among those attending the services from Ranger were Dr. and Mrs. A. K. Wier.

the navy sent in an estimate for $401,000,000? And that when Hoover sent the estimate back to be cut to $340,000,000 it meant no more than a cut of $20,000,000, which is half the cost of a battleship? And that even the $20,000,000 is being taken out largely on navy yards, which congressmen and politicians are sure to protect and save?

THE Inter-Organization Council, representing 60 peace organizations or peace committees of other national organizations, last spring adopted a policy of trying to get this government to urge some such armaments cut as 10 per cent a year for five or 10 years, although "left wing" peace societies separately declared for a 100 per cent disarmament treaty which might cover five or 10 years.

Undersecretary of State William R. Castle recently said that nations would be just as safe as now if they cut down their present military and naval structures by 50 or 75 per cent. Just what program the United States will have at Geneva in February has not been revealed although it is expected to be far more drastic than France will stand for. Peace organizations hope our delegation will be empowered to agree to a combined program of budgetary and direct limitation.

A 25 per cent arms cut which to more than anyone expects, would only put the world back where it was in 1925, as military and naval budgets have increased 27 per cent in the last five years. Peace leaders say their only hope at Geneva lies in a strong manifestation of public opinion. It is hard to believe the manifestation will be strong enough to change the poor results now probable, but petitions bearing several million signatures will be presented. And there will be a couple of million signatures from this country.

LOVED TO EAT, AND NOW SHE CAN!

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands of women like Miss Lilian Ralston have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 1169 Park Avenue, says: "I suffered from headaches and heartburn after meals; couldn't sleep like I should; never felt right. "For five years I experimented with medicines and treatments, until I learned about Pope's Diapepsin. I have used three packages now; have gained five pounds, and feel fine." If you, too, suffer from sourness, gas, belching, nausea, headaches, dizziness, or pain after eating—either regularly or just at times, get a box of Pope's Diapepsin from your druggist. Then you need never worry again about what you eat.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
 By EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Okla.

J. D. Gold, editor of the Wilson (N. C.) Times, says:

That business men of the nation favor some sort of planning to prevent depressions, according to an announcement as a result of a questionnaire sent out by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Depressions can be avoided if the spirit of selfishness at the bottom of all our troubles could be eliminated, but the trouble is that not only selfishness and desire for immediate gain rules humanity but that at this time the world is so large and whatever affects one part of it affects another that it would be difficult to adjust the relations of life sufficiently far to reach all the elements that enter into the conditions that bring about depressions.

Undoubtedly the law of supply and demand control every phase of our existence, and unless that law is obeyed we shall have recurring moments of prosperity and depression. One follows the other because in periods of prosperity there is an over production which backs up on consumption, until the latter is unable to assimilate all that is produced, and then there is a reaction because the production cannot be sold or consumed, and so the wheels of commerce must be stayed until consumption catches up with production.

When a factory can sell its goods or a farmer can sell the products of his farm, there is an inclination to over produce until supplies of all kinds are created, and then unemployment ensues because production must wait for an assimilation of what is produced. As people are thrown out of employment and those who are dependent on them are cut down in their buying, so consumption is diminished. Merchants reduce their stocks, and the factories must wait until they can sell what stocks they have on hand. As the stocks are used up the mills start up and people are employed and the return of prosperity is as rapid as the decline, after it gets well under way as the buying power increases. When it is in full blast factories begin to work day and night to produce, feeling that the volume of goods will increase their profits, when they are accelerating another depression, and so the story of human life and human miscalculation and human mismanagement is told over and over again.

Ten years as a rule, cover a period of depression and prosperity. Seven good years and three not so good, it requiring one and a half years to consume the surplus and one and a half years to build up to the peak. There may be some exceptions, but this is the rule.

 MAINSTEE, Mich.—Basing his hopes on past experiences, George Despres confidently expects to catch a 50-pound muskellunge the next time he tries his luck in Lake Manistee.

On his last try, Despres hooked a muskie which weighed 25 pounds. It was 43 inches long, and Despres played it 15 minutes before he could wear it out. His previous muskie catches weighed 12 1/2 pounds and 6 1/2 pounds. Each catch has been double the weight of the previous.

Texas Doctor Gets Unusual Specimens

WACO, Texas.—Two slandags or gaurs, rare specimens of the bovine family, are to be presented to some American museum by Dr. W. G. Trice here. The strange trophies were killed by Dr. Trice in a big game hunt in southern Asia, Sumatra and Indo-China, from which he just has returned. The only sladang known to be in captivity is at Saigon, French Indo-China. The sladang has a black body, with massive horns, red underbody and white hair on its legs. Dr. Trice also bagged two elephants, three tigers, one lion, two leopards, two barking deer, one water buffalo, one banting, and five monkeys. While in Abyssinia he was the guest of Ras Tassari Makonnen, who claims descent from King Solomon.

BEGIN HERE TODAY. The thief who robs and kills... Mary's fiance, Dirk Ruyter, forbids her to investigate further. They plan to marry at once. Mary meets Bowen in a speakeasy where Bowen says The Fly is hiding...

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV. Two utterly miserable people faced each other down the length of the great Jacobean dinner-table that night... Mr. Jupiter orders his son out. The Fly disappears.

Each was heroically resolved to keep his troubles from the other by the most elaborate means. He had told the tale, even if the loquacious Della had not. "You're looking a little peaked," Jupiter ventured.

Mary raised stricken eyes at the word "Bermuda." "I'm all right," she murmured, politely. Jupiter cleared his throat explosively and set his molten aside untraced.

"Don't know as this is the time to speak of it but I talked to Ruyter about the matter this morning. His voice was still hoarse with emotion. "He's all settled. Makes you my heir. Bruce will be taken care of—enough for a man that lives the rattle-brained life he does.

At her earnest request, he left the almost untouched meal and adjourned to the library, safe from the avid ears of the servants. There, as clearly as she could, Mary saw the facts she already knew were heavy enough.

All this she had to make clear to Mr. Jupiter, as well as her plan to capture the Fly. When she had finished, he asked: "You sure he'll be there?" "It's almost a certainty, Bowen thinks. His horse races at Hialeah on the 16th. He'll show up, all right—he doesn't take the law very easily. So they can't do without the police for notoriety followed when one dealt with the police—she had found that out. And in that one respect, at least, she meant to respect Dirk's wishes.

CHAPTER XXV. Old Mr. Jupiter stared at his son, mixed emotions on his face. "We've got a suggestion, 'so you're back, eh? I thought you'd come to your senses. You can't live on love even in Paris, I understand."

Mary marveled at the change in him. The dreamy brown eyes that had rested so warmly upon the throaty-voiced siren last night were black with anger. The luxuriant dark hair was more awry than before; it stood up in an indignant ruff above the high, bronzed forehead as if five agitated fingers had been run through it. The lean, sensitive fingers that toyed with "Gypsy" were twitched violently. But Bruce's voice was remarkably even.

CISCO LOBOES INVADE RANGER TODAY FOR ANNUAL CLASS

CISCO TEAM IS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY TODAY

Dope Indicates Ranger Has Slight Advantage Over Old Rivals.

Today is the day and the time is 2:30. The Cisco Lobos invade the Bulldog home grounds this afternoon for the annual Armistice day game and, as is often the case, the two teams will be fighting for places among the leaders of the district.

The Lobos are reported to be ready for the game after a week of intensive practice during which the interest has mounted to a pitch never reached this season and are somewhat confident of the outcome of the game today.

The Lobo attack depends largely on a fast-running and deceptive backfield, which may encounter trouble in the form of two of the best ends in the district. Like other teams, they may have trouble in blocking and circling these two men on their end runs and may be somewhat handicapped in that part of their offense.

An aerial attack that is said to be good will probably come in for some service during the encounter, too. In this department it is doubtful if the Lobos can equal the aerial accuracy of the Bulldogs with a splendid passer in Weaver, who is rated as one of the best ball tossers in the district. And with five men who can go down on passes and snare them with uncanny accuracy, Weaver's ability as a passer may be felt by the Lobos should the Bulldogs deem it necessary to resort to the air route to the goal line.

In punting the Bulldogs clearly have the advantage. Roy Stevens, lengthy right end, is by far the best punter in the district and it is due to his uncanny ability that the Bulldogs depend when it becomes necessary to keep the ball out of Ranger territory.

In other respects the two teams may be about on equal terms, though it is doubtful if the plunging Ranger fullback, T. L. Jones, can be surpassed by anything the Lobos can present in this department, though they boast one of the best fullbacks in the district.

On line play the two teams are about on a par with the advantage if any, possibly going to the Bulldogs, which would make the two teams about even in every respect. Cisco claiming the edge on offense with a faster and trickier backfield, with Ranger having the edge

(Continued from page 5) cigarette intently. "Business" he asked, with an insinuating rising inflection. "Business" the old man snapped. And unveiled what to Mary was an unexpected vein of sarcasm. "Business that wouldn't interest you," Mary thought, and she drew her head on the man that maddened your mama. You've got no time for such foolishness. You might miss your exhibit. You better get along about your painting.

Bruce flushed darkly, then paled. That she had hit home, Mary was glad to see that he could be hurt on that score; there must be hope for him. For the first time she softened toward him slightly. "I'm scarcely an expert," Bruce said, "but perhaps I can be of some use to you. My father and I turned 'My old room, father'."

He was off on his plans for the cruise. The man-hunt they were about to embark on superseded everything else in his mind. For the first time she began really to hope that the business might be brought to a successful end, and soon.

Leaving Jupiter cracking orders over the telephone, she went thoughtfully out and up to her room. It was useless to try to reach Dirk—he did not want to be curious about his whereabouts. She could write him at the house and wait for his answer, hard as the waiting would be. If she did not hear from Monday she would call him, for she couldn't go away without seeing him.

Darkest Dirk, (she wrote): I'm sorry I walked away as I did last night—I don't suppose you'd like to forgive me, would you? I should never have mixed you up in all this. It just comes under the head of "unfinished business" that must be attended to before I can marry you, that's all. You remember you worked late at the office last night finishing up some matters that couldn't be left undone. It's the same with me.

Don't worry about it, and above all don't think you must help. I don't expect you to, and I'm not angry about it, really. I am leaving Monday for Florida on the 'Gypsy' with the Juniters. Don't you come and see me before I go. If I don't see you again before I go, though, I make you this promise—that whether this job is finished or not, I will keep my date with you in December. (Or have I one?)

With love, always, MARY.

When she had the letter sealed, stamped and ready to go she had the absurd impulse to run to Dirk with it in her hand. How could she wait until Monday for an answer? Perhaps if she went into the village and mailed it now, it might reach him on the late afternoon delivery.

Impatiently she threw off her clothes, found an old pair of riding breeches and shirt, and donned them. Then she telephoned the boys and asked to have a saddle put on Betsy, the mild little mare that was best to ride when not more gainfully occupied at pulling the lawnmower or the station wagon.

Exhilarated by the prospect of getting out into the crisp autumn air, and by her errand, she went out, whistling happily. Outside her door, she came face to face with Bruce, who had evidently moved into the room across the hall.

He said stiffly, "We are neighbors, it seems. I'm sorry if the proximity annoys you."

All-Star Football Game To Be Played In Eastland on Sun

Playing purely for the love of the game and hoping that the total accumulation of charity horses will not arrest the progress of business and industry on the day following, a football team composed mostly of "E" Association members will meet a similar team from Ranger, the Ranger All Stars, at Maverick Bowl next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

There will be an admission charge of 35 cents to help defray the expenses of tape and liniment, and if every player can induce the team to pay admission, the total receipts will run into dollars because each team will probably use all the players it can summon.

The Eastland boys will rely on "Hidden Ball" Harvey to supply them with the technical direction commonly known as coaching. Harvey waddles around with the confident sincerity of a Rockne, the biting sarcasm of a Chapman and the fundamental knowledge of a Matty Bell. He is generally given credit for originating the idea attempted to be used by Jack Meagher of Rice in the center, which passes the ball to the quarterback slowly and then snatches it fondly to his own bosom and cavorts down the field for touchdowns.

The list of possible players to be used by the ex-Marines like a selection from the roster pages of all issues of the Telegram football news. Various day will no doubt play on wing positions with all the good newspaper copy. Ranger will have great difficulty in lining over his interferences, his way up to the latter to keep his way.

The first casualty of the image period is Neal DeStalwart of erstwhile fame upraised a knee and practice and if it's third of the ball in three yards of he'll probably move over bench.

Other luminaries will include Tom Harris, Tom Ray Morris, Pearl Milton Day, Jimmie King, Matthews, Carl Foster, George Fields, Billy Marshall Watts, Donald Harry Bures and who you can think of.

Little information is concerning the opposition time. But the ex-Bulldog is bristling with talent, and opportunity to participate game they love to well, the song of the occasion will be one more chance.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Jugs, Buckets, Guns

The football season has not been without its terrors. The Little Brown Jug disappeared from the trophy room at the University of Michigan recently. The Old Oaken Bucket was lifted from its resting place in a glass case at the University of Indiana. It wouldn't be greatly surprising should somebody decide to lug a tray that cannot left by George Washington on the campus at dear old Princeton.

The disappearance of the jug and bucket might suggest to the sinister-minded that somebody is planning a party. But surely college students would not perpetrate the prank with this purpose, as only last week several college presidents told me that their entire student bodies had forewarned gazing upon the vin rouge when it is red.

In this connection, however, I have often wondered why some enterprising universities did not establish a club as a trophy, considering that refreshments for at least some of the alumni parties are mixed in that sort of container.

Why Cop a Cannon?

The purpose of stealing the cannon, however, would have to be decorative. You can't do much these days with a cannon of the G. Washington period. It would be very inconvenient even for a Chicago gangster to try to fit a gat of that proportion into a violin case.

The Old Oaken Bucket has disappeared before. It has been in business as a tradition between Indiana and Purdue since 1925 and first was stolen by Purdue students. Purdue finally returned it after Indiana agreed to return the clapper of Purdue's victory bell. There was much ado, even the governor of Indiana taking a hand in the proceedings. Last June the Bucket disappeared at Indiana, and there has been no trace of it.

There were about Navy men and adherents. Rear Admiral was recorded 150 cheers and here is one more 1134 cheer. If you will call it that. "Rab, Phelps!"

Dig It Out of Concrete

THE cannon was for many between the young men of and Princeton. It was as if dent bones of these two sagged in a great game of barked football, with the at New Brunswick and Princeton. Finally Princeton got planted the cannon in a concrete on the campus, and to get some sleep. Underneath Rutgers men, in of the moon, dug it out of crete, loaded it on a wagon took it home. To thwart sallies, the cannon was moved about from cellar and the men of old Nassau could quite catch up with it.

Eventually, the original was returned to Princeton, fers was given another fine its campus. So much for it is in the line of such trans- these that football really brings to intentions. And rivalry are what have a college name what it is.

The DEAD MONTHS that follow FIRE

Commercial buildings are followed by dead months. Trade stops—customers go elsewhere for goods—expenses pile up while the building is being replaced or repaired. It is sound business to insure a continuance of your normal profit—and dividends—during the non-earning period following a fire.

The insurance that gives this guarantee is called Business Interruption (Use and Occu- pancy) insurance. Ask your Stock Fire insurance agent to explain it.

National Wool Week Scheduled Over United States

With the slogan "all wool and a nation wide" as the background of a coast-to-coast campaign, thousands of retail stores, wool growers and wool manufacturers will open National Wool week, Nov. 9 to 14, in a concerted drive to boost their products for six days.

Backed by governors' proclamations, endorsements of senators and full co-operation of merchants and chambers of commerce, as well as wool growers and manufacturers, Wool week will see a determined effort made to educate the public to the virtues of wool.

The program is nation-wide and will be ushered in with banquets, special meetings and style shows in many cities from New York to San Francisco. In New York, Arthur Hyde, secretary of agriculture, and James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, will be speakers Saturday night at a banquet in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. The banquet starts at 7 o'clock E. S. T. and will be broadcast by Station WOR. Mayor James J. Walker of New York city will be presented a taxidermy by manufacturers.

While western cities are launching the final drive before Wool week the event will be brought into the spotlight at Philadelphia with a great parade of floats, a horse and carriage show, and a parade of the nation's stars will give prominence to wool clothing and articles during Wool week. Fashion's decree which dictated that wool shall be worn this fall and winter has brought about many new creations for men and women. Show styles show these and at the same time will conduct educational campaigns with shoppers to tell them of the "no substitute" qualities of wool.

Eastland Little Theatre Play Proves To Be Big Success

By HAMMAN EGGER

Editor's Note: Flattering comments intended to find favor with performers and their friends are the usual custom in dealing with Little Theatre productions.

The Eastland Little Theatre presented "Meet the Wife" Monday evening to a crowd that filled the lower floor of the high school auditorium.

The audience was somewhat stung by their applause during the first half, but toward the end it began to warm up and at the final curtain showed its approval by hearty applause that demanded curtain calls galore for the cast.

Bernice Stephen in the part of Gertrude Lennox (spelled with the double "n") was the nervous type of a socially ambitious woman.

The part called for practically the whole range of dramatic ability including sarcasm, coquetry, temper, hysteria and what not.

Elizabeth Fagg as Doris Bellamy was the young girl just out of college, in love with a reporter but about to be forced into a wedding match made by her mother.

Peggy Porter was Alice, the maid. William Leslie was the butler. These two, as usual in dramatic productions of this kind had comparatively few speaking lines.

The costumes of the show were handled by Mrs. J. M. Armstrong. The butler's suit needed pressing, but it is presumed he was merely

Violin Quartette Furnishes Music At "Meet The Wife"

During the intermissions between acts at the Little Theatre presentation at the high school auditorium Monday evening the audience was entertained by a violin quartette directed by Wilda Dragood and assisted by Misses Katherine, Margaret Hart and Edna Lindsey.

Violin quartettes are rather uncommon these days when the public depends on radio and phonographs for its music. It is a compliment to Eastland that its young people make an effort toward self-entertainment and incidentally improvement.

The audience gave polite applause following unfamiliar numbers, but when "Believe me if all those Endearing Young Charms" was played the listeners gave evidence of having heard something they could carry the tune with and responded with sincere handclaps.

The members of the company have every reason to be proud of the results of their efforts. The next play is announced as "Strangers" and will be presented during the second week in December.

Here's New Vick Plan for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Made Possible by New Vick Product Based on New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Ranger druggists authorized to sell new product on trial to Vick VapoRub users and refund price if Vick Plan does not reduce family's yearly "Cold-Tax."

Mothers are guardians of the family health and directors of their cost. And it is the mothers who especially appreciate the new Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just announced by the makers of Vicks VapoRub.

This Plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. It is a companion product to Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of "treating" colds. That is, they aid and supplement each other.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home: Use Vicks Drops—just a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to be followed by a cold—contact with others having fresh-colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living,

W. M. S. Meets in Circles For Afternoon Study.
 The Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church met in circles Monday afternoon for the observance of the usual study lessons.

Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. Tom Whipple at her home, Pine street, with Mrs. W. A. Lewis leading the devotional, after which "personal service" reports were given. This kind of work is being reported each week by members of the circle.

The study for the day taught by Mrs. C. H. Dunlap was taken from the first chapter of the book, "Lottie Moon," which is an interesting story of the life of a missionary in China. The hostess served refreshments at the close of the hour.

Circle No. 2 met for the lesson which was held in the basement of the church. The meeting was opened in the usual form with a devotional. Mrs. Hugh Russell read the Scripture and Mrs. Nora Williams led in prayer. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to quilting. When this quilt is completed it will be donated to a Baptist institution.

Circle No. 3 met with Mrs. E. C. White hostess at her residence, with Mrs. Nannie Walker reading the devotional. Mrs. Minnie Lovel led in prayer. During the hour several study courses were discussed. No decision was made as to what book would be chosen. Refreshments were served to a large attendance.

Surprise Birthday Dinner Honors Rev. D. W. Nichol.
 One of the most delightful surprise affairs of the season honored the Rev. D. W. Nichol Monday evening when members of the Church of Christ entertained with a surprise dinner at the church, celebrating the birthday of the pastor.

The church auditorium was a mass of chrysanthemums and roses clustered in colorful bouquets, combined with long runners of greenery. Arranged through the center of the church were long tables laid with white Madeira linens and centered with mounds of flowers. Adorning the tables in a manner in which more beauty was revealed stood two* lovely birthday cakes, embossed in harmonizing icing.

A delicious chicken dinner with the full menu of foods was served to an immense group of members and friends.

J. E. Meroney acted as toastmaster for the hour. Mr. Meroney added much enjoyment to the banquet through his pleasing ability as a toastmaster for the elaborate occasion. During the serving of the last course the Rev. Mr. Nichol was presented with an envelope by Mr. Meroney which contained a check from the members.

Following the dinner, a treasure hunt was entered into with Rev. Nichol leader. Reaching their destination the honor guest with his followers found a huge selection of personal gifts, all in wrapping and ties of the colors used in the table's appointments. In addition to the many useful gifts, a pounding was also an added compliment.

Talks during the evening were made by O. G. Lanier and W. M. Myers, two active workers of the church. A touching response was given by the pastor in a sincere manner of true appreciation.

This honorary affair was attended by many out-of-town friends of Rev. and Mrs. Nichol.

Adolphian Class Meets With Mrs. Dorman.
 Mrs. Bill Dorman entertained the Adolphian class of the First Christian church at her home Monday during the mid-afternoon hours. An interesting course of study was observed during the period, followed with a business session.

A cake and coffee course was served at the close of the hour to Meses. B. S. Dudley, S. O. Montgomery, H. C. Anderson, N. L. Perry, H. Vaughn, O. E. Samms, and hostess.

Mrs. Dudley will entertain the class on next Monday afternoon with Mrs. Montgomery announced as study leader.

Ladies' Bible Study Is Organized.
 A Ladies' Bible study has recently been organized at the Church of Christ, with the Rev. D. W. Nichol, pastor of the church, teacher of the course.

The lesson is conducted each Monday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock. Monday's lesson was taken from the second chapter of Genesis. Twenty-two members were present for the study. Any lady in Ranger who is not attending a missionary study course is most heartily invited to join this group of members.

Members of the Ivy Leaf Study club will meet at the Masonic temple at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon for the regular study lesson.

New Books In Eastland Library
 "RED-HEADED WOMAN" by Katherine Brush
 She knew what she wanted and she knew how to get it! You will meet her in thousands of towns all over the United States. Her type in agless. She started as Lil Andrews, daughter of the railroad crossing watchman out at Renwood Falls.

A town which Miss Brush has created in great detail, with flashing humor, with frightening veracity. Renwood is a social microcosm—and how you will recognize it!—but Renwood was too small for a girl like Lil!

"This was what happened then. This was what you got. You were the red-headed Andrews girl from Renwood Falls, from the railroad crossing, and you stole a rich husband, and bought a big house, and a Chinese Buddha and a naked dress, and you tried to crash society in this was what you got. Never mind what you expected, hoped for, this was what you got. This was what society did to you, to make you understand that you couldn't crash it in a million years."

Lillian finds New York City. New York City discovers her. An unconquerable red-head. A girl to be hated, to be feared, to be loved. Miss Brush's shrewdest novel. Her best story.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS"
 Never has the author of Sorrell and Son and Exile written with more tenderness, with finer understanding of life's joys and sorrows, than in this, his latest novel. The story he tells is in itself a perfect expression of that philosophy of love, courage and compassion which has endeared him to hundreds of thousands of readers. Told against a canvas on which the old and the new in this furiously changing world of ours are painted in vivid contrast, it achieves such dramatic power and significance that no one can fail to be deeply moved by it.

It tells of the strange Nicholas Bonthorn, bachelor and wounded ex-soldier, who wanted nothing of

Blistered Heals Heavier Legion Toll Than Liquor

By United Press.
 DETROIT—If the American legionnaires were drinking during their convention here, they held their liquor and didn't need first aid, according to Dr. H. R. Shurley, chairman of the Detroit first aid committee.

Acute alcoholism was conspicuous by its absence, Dr. Shurley said in his report. Only eight of the 1,225 patients treated during the convention were intoxicated, the report shows.

Legionnaires suffered in a list from blistered heels, the report indicates. A total of 147 "blisters" applied for first aid to afflicted feet.

But in this depression if there's less of everything else, there's at least a bumper crop of pictures of football players making funny faces.

RELIGIOUS STUDENT IS 93

 NARA CITY, Japan.—Among some 2,500 students of religious school under the management of Tenrikyo Sect here was a student 93, who just entered the school. He is Jirobei Amatsu, of Onaka. He said he would devote all his time in spreading the principle of the sect.

RIO DE JANEIRO.—Births exceeded deaths in Brazil during 1930, the public health department has announced. During the year 36,956 births were registered, while deaths were 24,949. The deaths of 63 persons of 100 years, or more, were reported.

Al Capone's body guard asked for mercy on the charge that he carried a loaded pistol into court during Al's trial. Maybe he just carried it as a plaything—a rattle.
