A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

COMSTOCK AS FINANCIAL DICTATOR

This is a swift moving age. Gov. William A. Comstock may be made financial dictator of Michigan by his state legislature. This is to solve the banking problems of Michigan and to open, at least partially, normal channels of commerce soon after the present eight-day moratorium ends this week. Governor Comstock is a democrat, less than two months in office. If the legislative proposal goes over, in his hands would be placed the most far reaching powers ever vested in a state executive under legislation. He has been on the job.

He has let it be known that "developments alone will determine whether a full or a semi-moratorium will be continued after Feb. 23. First agreement among the bankers of Michigan must be obtained. There are 900,000 depositors whose billion and one-half dollars are tied up in the 530 banks effected. In Detroit, bankers were offered nearly $30,000,000 for emergency purposes. They withdrew about 30 per cent of that amount. The state over banks generally remained closed in accordance with the moratorium proclamation.

Action of the Michigan legislature thus far has been significant. Without a dissenting vote the state senate passed a resolution placing the financial dictatorship in the governor's hands. In the house one member requested time for consideration. Well, if the bankers fail to agree as to what should be done, Governor Comstock has bluntly stated it may be necessary for him to order another mandatory holiday "until such agreement can be reached." And now Michiganans are asking "where do we go from here?" Governor Comstock knows where he is going. He is going the limit for the protection of the depositors and to prevent wild runs on the financial institutions of his state. Really, the mass mind is a timid mind—perhaps a cowardly mind. It runs amuck at times "without rhyme or reason."

ARKANSAS LAWMAKERS FOR FAIR ELECTIONS

Arkansas lawmakers passed a bill to restore the republican party the right to representation at the polls. In other words, under the bill enacted by the house it establishes the right of the minority party to choose two of the five election officials in each precinct. In 1929 such an act was passed but it was repealed in 1931. Another bill passed gave an eight hour day to workers employed by any firm or individual engaged in drilling oil or gas wells, in oil refineries, power and light and water companies, and stone quarries and coal mines.

Lawmakers of Arkansas appear to be coming out of the ancient trance. Texas has a very cumbersome election law. Texas is in need of a statewide registration law. Affidavit voting should be discontinued by statutory law in this empire commonwealth. There should be an honest ballot and a quick count in Texas through the coming years. There should be a square and a fair deal for all voters regardless of political affiliation.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

ERNEST L. PETERSON, Publisher of the Santa Maria (Calif.) Daily Times, says:

THAT competition is keener than ever before due to present economic conditions and for that reason alone, if for no other, the man who goes out after business is the one who gets it.

There are several methods of "going out after it." You can stand on the street corner like any hawker and cry your wares. If 500 people pass by your store every day, perhaps one-tenth of them may enter at your request. But what about the hundreds and thousands of others who do NOT pass by on that particular day? They, too, are prospective buyers of your commodities. But you will wear out your lungs shouting from day to day. And imagine the uproar if every merchant started the same hullabaloo every morning!

The only adequate, inexpensive and effective substitute for your voice is newspaper advertising. Instead of attracting only the attention of a minority, it will be read by the vast majority of your customers. It will sell them your product in their own homes where the decision to buy or not to buy is really made.

Follow the lead of those who have tried it. Consistent advertising in your home town newspaper will bring you returns far larger than those obtained by any other medium.

State Feeds Needy At 40 Cents a Day

By United Press
 Written by GIFFORD PINCHOT,
 Governor of Pennsylvania,
 for United Press
 HARRISBURG, Pa.—Individuals cared for at community markets maintained by the state emergency relief board are fed a whole week, and well fed, for a fraction more than 49 cents.

That is one reason why the state emergency relief board has established these markets. Its dollars go further.
 The market at York feeds 12,000 persons a week. If these individuals were buying their own supplies, they would patronize stores over a widely scattered area. Each grocer would insist on a profit. But when the head of the community market tells grocery jobbers that he wants supplies for 12,000 people, he gets a remarkably low rate—lower a fact than the average grocery store can get.

Even in good times, prices depend on the volume of business. The more you buy the less it costs. And these days manufacturers are glad to take orders for shoes, or groceries, or clothing at cost. The people generally are amazed at the surprisingly low cost of food distributed at community markets.
 Take the weekly food ration for a child two to eight years old. It includes 3 1/2 quarts of whole milk, four eggs, 3 1/2 pounds of flour, a pound of oatmeal, one-half pound of butter or oleomargarine, one-fourth pound of sugar; two pounds of potatoes, one-half pound of cabbage, one pound of carrots, two whole oranges, one-half pound of prunes, an ounce of cod liver oil, three-eighths ounce of yeast, one-fourth pound of cocoa, and 3 1/2 quarts of milk for various cooking purposes. The total cost is about 49 cents. The average cost per day is a trifle more than seven cents.

At each community market a public health nurse is found, who is glad to tell housewives and others the way to get everything possible out of the foods, and the way to make the foods more palatable. In times like these, men and women learn to do things that they did not think of doing in good times. It is a little hard to endure some of the things that must be endured, but when times get better again, and until men and women get careless again, we will all know more than we ever did about saving money.

Miners Made Only 40 Cents a Day In Gold Rush

By United Press
 SACRAMENTO, Calif.—California's newest "gold rush," the result of the depression, returned approximately 40 cents a day each to 10,000 miners, according to a report of Walter W. Bradley, state mineralogist.

"Unemployed who have taken to panning for gold have in a few cases received rich reward," Bradley said. "The average per day of 40 cents, however, shows that it is not an easy living."

MODERN NOISES BOOST NATIONS HEART DISEASE

By United Press
 LOS ANGELES.—If Americans would live longer, let them softer noises of their cities. Shocks from modern noises, radios, automobiles, street cars and telephones—the whole crashing crescendo of a day in a modern city—are responsible for the tremendous increase in heart disease. These were the contentions of Dr. Franz M. Groedel, German heart specialist of Bad Nauheim, professor of cardiac treatment in the medical school of the University of Frankfurt.

Strain of these noises and resultant nerve shock caused hardening of the arteries and all the kindred ills which followed, Dr. Groedel said. The German specialist offered his panacea for heart trouble. "Eat often, but not too much at a time; smoke as much as you wish, but avoid strong tobacco; mild and good alcoholic liquors are relatively harmless. Take a siesta of half an hour to an hour in the middle of the day's work. Rest two full days a week. Don't worry. Don't hurry. Don't force yourself beyond your powers."

HOW MODERN WOMEN LOSE FAT SAFELY

Gain Physical Vigor—Youthfulness With Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health
 Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses. Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Get bottle of Kruschen Salts—the cost is trifling and it lasts 4 weeks. If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned. But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world.

Death Rate Low In U. S. Hospital

By United Press
 PARIS.—The death rate at the American hospital here for 1932 was 3 per cent, according to figures just compiled. This rate is lower than that registered by a number of Grade A hospitals in the United States in 1931. Deaths at the hospital were fewer than the previous year, when the rate was 3.2 per cent. The figures in the United States for 1931 were: Average for all classes of hospitals, 5 per cent; average for Grade A hospitals, 3.23 per cent. The American hospital operates under far from normal conditions, a great number of its patients being American travelers from hotels, and a death rate of only 3 per cent for 1,877 patients admitted in 1932 is regarded as unusually good. Of the patients treated in 1932, 666 were surgical cases, 883 medical, 113 obstetrical. Births were 116, representing a decrease of 10 per cent over 1931. Minor building operations also have been carried on, the bed capacity having been increased from 120 to 162, all the new beds being offered to Americans and non-Americans at prices consistent with world conditions, according to the hospital's announcement.

DERRICK IN SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

It was bad enough when bankers and lawyers went about rolling and unrolling a wooden ball on a piece of twine. We called it the yo yo rage. It was also bad enough when doctors and firemen spent their office hours in the spell of a crazy picture cut up in silly pieces. We called it the jig-saw puzzle craze . . . and tried to look intelligent.

But yesterday I passed a prominent merchant walking slowly down the street, absorbed in batting a rubber ball around with a wooden paddle . . . and doging his own rebound. They call it a rick-rack . . . the whys and whithers of the game remaining a deep, dark secret.

If we twiddled our fingers and wiggled our ears in greeting and opened our business conference with batting eyes and wagging heads, the world would no doubt call us mad. Seeing the present state of mental affairs to which we have settled since there's no money to worry over, we wonder how gravity and attitude remain intact.

There's a lot of talk about dukes and duchesses and barons and what-not lately. All the debutantes seem to be aspiring toward a title. The papers give us visions of some who manage if they do have to go around the world in the chase . . . and bring home a bewhiskered, be-moecled victim.

Some of us like our sour grapes enough to be glad we're in the homeland instead of hanging in mid-air by a title. Ruins of famous castles and hamlets and things are nice as snappers, but the prospect of sleeping on a stone floor amid ghosts of departed ancestors is a cold, cold story.

It's all right when a newspaper man gets down in the dumps with his readers and thinks it's clever for one to pick up an original phrase now and then, but when the tender staff starts flowing from a press man's pen things begin to look dark for the public.

I read a tale the other day of a man of lead letters who suddenly found himself listed among the fathers of the land. He almost brought his readers to tears with adoring accounts of how cunning the infant was . . . his type positively coed.

Not that we do not admire young fathers. It just seemed a little mixed up to mingle a baby girl with a North Dakota kidnapping, an Alabama murder, and a good old Texas political gag.

If there is one piece of unnecessary furniture in the modern home we would name it the what-not in the corner. Who could have thought up the idea of baby elephants and dogs and sheep plustered around their china mamas is yet to be discovered.

You know, when you start thinking about all the foolish things people do and have and want, it's appalling to find how human we all are. The angels must get a big kick out of this little old ant hill down here. The more you see people the funnier they get, and the funnier they get the more you see them . . . the thing can go on forever.

Every new month brings a couple of sighs: relief that another one is over, hope that this one will turn a few clouds inside out. Here's the windy one. Since everything else has turned around and surprised us since '29, let's hope the breezes blow us something besides sand and a new president.

Sign of the Cross Seen Today By Ranger Ministers

A special screening of the famous Cecil B. DeMille production, "The Sign of the Cross," was held at the Arcadia theatre this morning which was witnessed by newspaper men, ministers and various heads of women's organizations.

The picture will have its regular showing here Sunday, March 12, according to an announcement this morning following the screening by B. E. Garner, city manager of the Paschall-Texas interests.

The picture is easily the most outstanding production of the year and is sure to take its place alongside other famous Biblical pictures such as "The King of Kings," "Ben Hur," and "The Ten Commandments."

Among those attending the screening this morning were Rev. and Mrs. Gid J. Bryan of the Methodist church, Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Nichol of the Church of Christ, Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Gray of the Presbyterian church, Rev. H. B. Johnson of the Christian, Father M. Collins of the Catholic church, and Mmes. O. G. Lanier, E. O. Samms, Clyde H. Davis and B. A. Tunnell.

200,000 Turkeys Raised in County

CUERO, Texas.—If all the turkeys produced in Dewitt county in 1932 were one great turkey, the huge bird would provide a dinner for every person living in Chicago and Los Angeles.

This would be a total of 4,608,890 persons. There would be enough left to make hash to feed the combined populations of Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth, the largest cities in Texas.

The figures were compiled by local statisticians, who said the county produced 200,000 turkeys in 1932, marketing a total slightly in excess of 177,000 birds.

Olds Is Oldest Hollywood Car

HOLLYWOOD.—The oldest automobile under the 1933 registration in Hollywood, is a two-cylinder Olds built in 1902, according to the latest automobile census of the United States.

The car is owned by A. E. MacDonald, who runs a filling station. He bought it for $800 in 1902 and still operates it.

Next on Hollywood's "oldest car list," according to the automobile census, is a four-cylinder 1911 Cadillac roadster owned by Charles O. Gragg.

The old model T Ford takes two third places with a 1912 roadster registered under the name of Robert R. Bertrand and a 1913 Ford touring owned by H. W. Kelly. A 1913 six-cylinder Buick owned by M. W. Satterless is fourth.

Further figures in the census, furnished by the Reuben H. Donnelly corporation, reveal that of the automobiles owned by Hollywood film stars, comparatively few late models are represented.

Clara Bow owns a 1931 Rolls Royce sedan, a 1928 Cadillac sedan, a 1929 Packard touring car, a 1926 Kissel sedan and a 1931 Chevrolet roadster.

Will Rogers has two Fords. Douglas Fairbanks owns a 1931 Cadillac coupe, a 1931 Rolls Royce sedan, a 1930 Cadillac sedan, a 1929 Ford sedan, and a 1929 La Salle coupe. Charlie Chaplin owns a Cadillac 1928 sedan, a Ford 1928 sedan, and a Buick touring.

Texas Grapefruit To Be Advertised

M'ALLEN, Texas.—Texas grown grapefruit and by-products, juice and canned fruit, will be widely marketed in continental Europe this year, it was announced here today.

Thousands of gallons of grapefruit juice, several large shipments of fresh grapefruit and many thousand cans of grapefruit and grapefruit hearts will go to the European markets this year.

Four major shipping and packing companies in the lower Rio Grande valley, two of which are co-operative organizations, will equip at least one of its packing units with canning facilities before the opening of the 1933-34 season, it was announced.

Other plant improvements and enlargements are anticipated.

Sharp Products company, headed by John H. Sharp, Mission, president of the Texas Citrus Fruit Growers exchange, will distribute its products throughout the continent, according to Major C. Ross Palmer, company official.

The concern has a plant with a capacity of 9,000 cases of grapefruit juice daily and was operated during the past season.

Don B. Webb, head of the Webb Marketing company, announced his concern has orders for 100,000 gallons of grapefruit juice for delivery to England, France and Germany during the next season.

The company will install special machinery in its Mission packing plant this summer, Webb said, and will be ready for operation by Oct. 1. Specifications call for 15 gallons of grapefruit pulp to each 35 gallons of juice, he said.

The product will be used in England in the manufacturing of a British carbonated drink known as "grapefruit squash," Webb said. He estimated his plant will have a daily production of 500 to 1,000 gallons of juice daily.

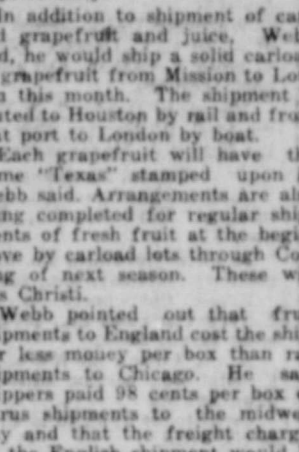

In addition to shipment of canned grapefruit and juice, Webb said, he would ship a solid carload of grapefruit from Mission to London this month. The shipment is to be routed to Houston by rail and from that port to London by boat.

Each grapefruit will have the name "Texas" stamped upon it, Webb said. Arrangements are also being completed for regular shipments of fresh fruit at the beginning of the next season.

Webb pointed out that fruit shipments to England cost the shipper less money per box than rail shipments to Chicago. He said shippers paid 95 cents per box on citrus shipments to the midwest city and that the freight charges on the English shipment would be 83 cents per box.

The most important effect of the new juice-canning industry will be the use of cull and undesirable fruit, packers pointed out. It will rid the market of cull and second-grade fruit which sold in competition with fine fruit from the same section.

Huge Nose Sent Owner To Jail
BUFFALO, N. Y.—Isaac Briesacher has a nose that would compare favorably with the famous "schnozzle" of Jimmy Durante, screen and stage star.
But while Durante's nose brought him fame and fortune, Briesacher's sent him to jail, because a nurse in the home of two aged sisters who were robbed here said the man that took the money "had a big nose."
Briesacher and another man were subsequently arrested in connection with the theft of $1,423 from a messenger boy, who was taking the money to a bank.
The messenger boy identified Briesacher as one of the men who hold him up, and police, attracted by the man's nose, acted on a hunch and called the nurse, who identified both Briesacher and his companion, Joseph Scinta, as two of the six men who previously had robbed the home where she was employed and escaped with $101 and a safe.

HERE... AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Today is Texas Day and the state, famed in adventure and for its colorful class of painters, writers, poets and musicians, celebrates its 75th birthday with the rising sun.

Ninety-seven years ago today the Republic of Texas was born. The history of Texas under six presidents is as thrilling as the most adventurous tale sung in Arabian nights and is one fraught with hardships, struggle for supremacy and political ambition.

When the constitution of the new Republic was drawn up, R. S. Cramble, the grand father of Mrs. McGlamery of Eastland City was the secretary for the constitutional convention.

The State with its present divisions into 254 counties, was first a vast sweep of prairie land. The land grants were given by Spain to Stephen S. Austin.

Under the Mexican regime these land grants gradually formed into colonies, and with the coming and settling of the Anglo-Saxon race, the county form of division developed.

Through the years the counties gradually increased in number until the present sum. The State is huge that there has been much discussion as to the advisability of dividing Texas, a proposition that causes the ire of countless citizens of the State on the one hand, and worked for by the citizens of the State on the other hand.

Texas has lived, pleased and suffered under six flags, that have moved over her in token of sovereignty of France, of Spain and of the Mexican Republic.

Then of the Republic of Texas, the Stars and Bars of the Confederate States of America, and last our Stars and Stripes of the United States.

The Texans declared independence from Mexico on March 2, 1836, and when Santa Anna surrendered at San Jacinto, the Independence became a reality.

It is the natural outcome of loyalty of Texans to their State that they should plan for a Centennial, commemorating the 100th Anniversary of Texas, and to be held in the year 1936. With this end in view those vitally interested in the history of the State and of the coming century, fought for the passage of an amendment to the State constitution that would authorize this Texas Centennial.

Vigorous plans are now in the working under the able direction of Will H. Mayes of Austin the executive vice president of the Texas Centennial committee which is composed of patriotic men and women of the State, of twenty-

MEET HERE TODAY

JANET HILL is engaged to ROLF CARLYLE but they do not have enough money to marry. Janet is secretary for BERT E. HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rolf works for the Atlas Advertising Co. Janet insists they must have $500 in a savings account before they can be married.

She hurries home from the office one Saturday to prepare a surprise birthday dinner for Rolf. On the way she sees a couple entering the fashionable Riverside Hotel coffee shop and at first thinks the young man is Rolf. Afterward she decides she was mistaken.

The dinner party is a success. Rolf tells Janet he cannot see her next day because he is entertaining an out-of-town friend. Sunday proves to be a gloomy day. Janet visits with MOLLIE LAMBIERT, who lives across the hall. Returning to her room, she encounters a young man she has never seen before. He introduces himself as a new roomer in the rooming house and says his name is GRANT.

Rolf takes Janet to lunch and later breaks a dinner engagement. That same night Mollie tells Janet she saw Rolf entering a theater with another girl. Janet tries to convince herself Mollie was mistaken. She meets Rolf the next day after work and tells him what Mollie has said. Rolf explains angrily, "What of it? You know our engagement doesn't mean anything."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

JANET did not seem to hear what he was saying. "Then it's true!" she repeated. "Oh, Rolf—you were there?"

"Well, I'm not denying it. I don't see that it's anything to make such a fuss about, though. Is there anything wrong in going to see a show once in a while? For Lord sake, Janet, what's the use of pretending? Things can't go on this way—"

"No," she agreed. "They can't go on this way."

He looked at her, surprised at the quiet tone. Rolf hated scenes as do all men. Was Janet really going to be sensible about this?

"Listen," he said more kindly. "I know I said I was going to the wrestling match. Shouldn't have said that, I suppose. But I didn't want to—well, to hurt your feelings. Don't you see, Janet? You know as well as I do that our engagement doesn't mean anything. You don't want to get married. If you did you'd have been married months ago. You think more of that job of yours than you do of me."

She was listening now. He saw that her eyes had filled with tears. "How can you say that?" she interrupted. There was hysteria mingled with the protest in her voice. "It isn't true, Rolf! Oh, you know it isn't!"

So there was to be a scene after all. The young man frowned.

"I don't know anything of the sort," he said shortly. "But I guess you were right about it. I can see how you'd never have made a go of it. You and I are different, Janet. We don't even like the same things!"

The girl started to speak but whatever she meant to say was lost in a half-escaping sob.

"You never care if you're having a good time or not," Rolf went on. "Well, I do. I like to get out and go places, see things, and know what's going on. Sitting around home evenings gives me the creeps! Work all day and save your money—that's all you think about. Well, what's the use? We've tried it for almost a year now and it doesn't work. It never will! We could go on this way for years and we'd never be any nearer getting married than we are today. It's because you don't really want to marry me."

"I wouldn't marry you now—not for anything!" Janet exclaimed.

"That's not true. I mean—"

"Don't try to tell me what you mean! And don't go on trying to explain, either. I wouldn't believe you, no matter what you said! Why should I? After the lies you've told me—"

"Aren't you making yourself rather ridiculous? Do you want the whole street to hear you?"

"I DON'T care who hears what I'm saying!" White-faced, chin raised defiantly, Janet met his eyes. "I don't care if the whole world knows! I wouldn't marry you now—not for anything! Not after the things you've said, after the things you've done. I—oh, I never want to see you again! Never! As long as I live!"

As suddenly as her anger had come it spent itself. Tenderness swept over her face. "Oh, Rolf!" she cried in a voice that was low-pitched, frightened. "Oh, Rolf!"

The young man's tone was frigid. "If that's the way you feel about it," he said with exaggerated politeness, "I guess I'd better say good night. You can get your car at the corner here."

They were in front of an eating place. It was a restaurant Janet had never entered, quite an ordinary looking place. Food was the last thing in the world that she wanted then but the pretext would serve as well as any other to get away. She must get away from Rolf! This hideous quarrel couldn't go on. She wanted to get away, yet with her whole soul she wanted to stay, too. Not with the cold-eyed, unsmiling Rolf who was looking at her but with that other Rolf who had been affectionate and adoring. Couldn't he see she hadn't meant those terrible things she had said? Wouldn't he understand this was all a mistake?

He was speaking again. "Then, I'll leave you," he said. It might have been any stranger using that clipped, formal tone.

For just the fraction of a second the young man paused. For just the fraction of a second Janet's eyes raised hopefully. Then with a quick gesture Rolf touched his hat brim. "Good night," he said, and was gone.

SHE stood where he had left her for several moments. She put one hand to her face and brushed away the tears. She did the same thing again without realizing that she had done it. A man and a girl were coming toward her and Janet saw that the girl looked at her curiously. Why not? People didn't stand in the middle of the sidewalk on Lombard street wiping tears from their eyes. People who were sensible didn't do such things. No wonder that girl was staring at her.

Pressing her lips together tightly, Janet turned and entered the restaurant. She found a seat at the side of the room. A waitress, short and stout and with very pink cheeks, handed her a menu card.

"Would you like the special dinner?" the waitress asked glibly. "Veal steak with hashed brown potatoes, string beans, combustion salad and choice of dessert."

Janet nodded. "Yes," she said. "That will be all right."

"Coffee to drink?"

"Yes, Coffee."

The waitress disappeared and returned with the food. Fifteen minutes later she was back again. "Is there anything wrong with the steak?" she asked. "Don't you like it?"

Janet looked down at her plate. She had not eaten so much as a mouthful. "There's nothing wrong with it," she said. "I'm—just not hungry."

She raised the cup of coffee to her lips and drank some. It was cold and tasted bitter.

"If you don't like it I can get you something else," the waitress volunteered.

"No. It's all right."

No. A few minutes later Janet paid her check and went out into the street. She had not been in the restaurant more than 20 minutes but in that time night had descended. The street was as dark as it would be hours later. It was cold, too. Janet pulled her coat collar more closely about her throat.

There, almost where she was standing, was the place Rolf had stood. It was there he had said those terrible things. "You don't want to marry me. You care more for your job! We'd never make a go of it—"

There were no tears in Janet's eyes now but her hand rose as though to brush away the memory of that scene. She had said terrible things, too. She had told Rolf she never wanted to see him again. She had said she wouldn't marry him. Well, he had gone. Their engagement was ended. It was all over. Everything!

She walked to the corner, turned into Center avenue and headed toward the safety zone where street cars stopped. She had almost reached it when she passed "Janet," she heard someone calling. "Oh, Janet—"

Expedition Got Rockefeller Aid
By United Press
AN NARBOR, Mich.—One of the greatest archaeological explorations ever conceived is nearer fruition with the announcement that the Rockefeller Foundation of New York has donated $35,000 toward the completion of the University of Michigan's excavations at Kom Aushim, the site of the old Graeco-Roman city of Karanis in Egypt.

Started in 1924 by the now deceased Prof. Francis W. Kelsey, the ruins are being unearthed under the supervision of J. L. Starkey, Enoch E. Peterson and Prof. A. E. R. Hoak, of the university staff.

As the ruins have been laid bare for the past nine years, the university has kept a record so complete that a history of the city may be written from its founding in the second century B. C. to its abandonment in the fifth century A. D.

Imitation may be the sincerest of flattery, but a $10,000 extortion note would have its points for most of us.
