U.S. AGENT SLAIN IN BATTLE WITH SMUGGLERS

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES
Ho, hum, and another year has rolled around. That means that we must, once more, take up the task of choosing an all-district team. And, when we do, we are probably in for our yearly assortment of roasts for picking this player and letting that player remain on the bench, or wherever it is players remain when they are not selected.

SMALL TOWN'S LIGHTING PLANT IS PROFITABLE

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Ind., Dec. 7.—A municipally owned electric plant is carrying the major portion of this city's fight against depression. Primarily, the revenue from the electric plant, rates of which are among the lowest in the state, has permitted reduction of the city tax rate from $1.12 on $100 property valuation to 11 cents, in three years.

Times to Receive Score On Bulldog Game at Temple

Friday afternoon the Ranger Bulldogs will be playing their last game of the season with the powerful Temple Wildcats. The game is called for 3 o'clock at Temple. The Times has made arrangements to have the score telegraphed to its office at the end of each quarter. The first report should arrive around 3:45 and a report should be received about every 30 minutes thereafter. Anyone wishing to learn the score can call 224 and the latest report on the game will be given.

BULLDOGS ON WAY TO SCENE OF LAST GAME

The Ranger Bulldogs left this morning at 9:30 for Temple, where they will play the Temple Wildcats Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The entire squad made the trip to Temple and they expected to rest there tonight after taking a light workout after their trip. A number of fans from Ranger will make the trip to Temple Friday by automobile to see the game between the two teams, which has created a lot of interest in District 11, which the Wildcats were leading until they were forfeited the games they had won because of ineligibility of two players, who had been in school eight semesters.

Army's New Judge Advocate General

Here is a recent posed picture of Colonel Arthur W. Brown who succeeded Vice Major General Blanton Winship as Judge Advocate General of the Army. He will serve with the rank of major general for a term of four years.

DEFENCE TELLS OF FINDING OF WOMAN'S BODY

DALLAS, Dec. 7.—The jury trying Toy G. Woolley in the shotgun slaying of his 20-year-old wife, had before it today the testimony of a defense witness which contradicted the state contention that Dorothy Woolley was shot to death in her sleep. J. V. Lindquist, one of the first persons to enter the bedroom where Mrs. Woolley died, testified the position of the girl's body convinced him she was not asleep when death struck. Mrs. J. V. Lindquist, a neighbor, today said she went to the Woolley home a few minutes after the shooting. She said Woolley was lying on a bed in the front room crying. "Can't you do something?"

Wynekoop Trial Judge Named

Judge Joseph E. David, above, Chicago criminal court judge, will preside during the trial of Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop, charged with murder in the slaying of her daughter-in-law, Rheta. Trial has been set for Jan. 4.

TWO MEXICANS ARE KILLED BY OFFICERS' FIRE

Two Others Thought to Have Fallen in Rio Grande During Battle. EL PASO, Dec. 7.—A United States border patrolman and two Mexican smugglers were killed in a run battle between six federal officers and 16 liquor runners here today. The dead are Patrolman D. C. Melton, 31; and two Mexican—both of Juarez, Mexico. The bodies of two more smugglers are believed to have fallen in the river. Patrolmen seized 150 gallons of liquor after the five minute gun battle. The fight started when Melton and fellow officers challenged smugglers as they waded out of the river. A blaze of gunfire met the command to surrender. Melton fell, shot through the heart. Officers returned the fire and the smugglers retreated to Mexico. During the battle a sniper on the American side took shots at the officers. The battle is the second within two weeks in which federal officers were slain. Rollin Nichols, customs inspector, was killed by smugglers east of El Paso.

The left end position is easy to lose. It would naturally go to Rankin Britt again this year, just as it unannouncedly did last year, if you get our rather mixed sentence construction. The other end position could go to Angel, the big No. 20 of the Brownwood Lions or to Rutledge, equally big No. 4 on the Cisco Lobos. But the one time we saw the Lions in action Angel did better than rather well, while Rutledge did not live up to press notices, in fact he was outplayed by his substitute, Johnson, if we remember right, and Pace, who played on the other end of the line. Therefore that leaves Mr. Rutledge out by a small margin in our selection and we have Angel left by a process of elimination.

Enthusiasm over the successful operation of the electric plant, the city has purchased its own water-works and street railway system. All surplus water revenue is being used to pay for the $600,000 plant bought last year. After the debt is retired, in about 10 or 15 years, the surplus revenue from the two utilities is expected to operate the city's government without a tax levy. The street railway system makes no profit but is operated for convenience. The electric plant was bought by the city in 1909 at a nominal cost. Since then improvements have been made and it now has an investment value of $600,000. The tax reductions were made possible by using $40,000 annually from the light plant for the general fund. This year, $90,000 was transferred from the light plant to the general fund. Despite the depression revenue from the plant has continued to increase. Profit last year was $121,000. As a result city officials have secured permission to reduce electricity rates by approximately $20,000 annually next year.

Eastland County People Allotted 46 Canner Cows

The Eastland county allotment of canner cows to be purchased at the Abilene emergency relief canneries to be sold are to be issued by the county agent. The cows will be delivered at the slaughter pens at Abilene by producers when notified of date animals are desired. Government buyers at Abilene reserve the right to reject any cows too poor in flesh or crippled or diseased animals. Fort Worth prices will be paid, minimum being $1.75 and the top $2.50 per hundred. Farmers who wish to deliver cutter cows at Abilene under these conditions should apply to the county agent for permit. It has not been indicated just when the cows will be wanted but it is understood that the canning plan will be in operation at once with a capacity of 12 cows per day.

Junior Band Is Organization at a Meeting Tuesday

The Ranger High school band held its first meeting Tuesday night, with 20 enrolled at the first meeting. Prospects are very good for an excellent junior band, R. L. Maddox, director, stated today. Instruments at the band hall will be furnished for about three students of unusual ability. The high school band had an average of 40 members this year. Several of these will drop out and their places will need to be filled. A band of about 35 is expected to be formed as a junior band, from which selections will be made for the high school band. The students will be taught the basic principles of music, including time, tone, notes and the playing of all hand instruments. The Little Symphony orchestra, selected from members of the band, had its first practice Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

ROLPH NOT TO ANSWER TALK BY ROOSEVELT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—A polite tolerance to President Roosevelt's views on lynchings was assumed today by Gov. James Rolph, who two weeks ago precipitated a storm of criticism and praise when he condoned the lynchings of two confessed kidnap slayers at San Jose. The California governor refused to be drawn into a controversy with the President, who last night condemned lynchings before a church group at Washington. "I have no desire to start a controversy with our President, for I hold him in too high esteem and respect," Rolph told the United Press. "Undoubtedly we cannot all think the same, but I know anything President Roosevelt has said comes from his heart after the deepest consideration."

Fort Worth Banker Drops Dead On Eve of Hearing

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7.—William Smallwood, 70, former chairman of the board of the Texas National bank, dropped dead in the corridor of a hospital today where he had gone to visit a sick friend. Doctors said death was due to heart failure. Smallwood had been associated with his son in an investment company here since 1930, following failure of the Texas National bank. At the time of his death he was awaiting outcome of an appeal from a three-year sentence on charges growing out of failure of the bank. Federal Judge James C. Wilson was to hear Smallwood's application for a suspended sentence tomorrow.

Billion Dollars In Securities Offered By Government

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—American investors were asked by the government today to buy nearly a billion dollars worth of securities to provide funds for the recovery drive. Acting Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau said, "Preliminary reports show an excellent reception on the part of investors to the new $950,000,000 one-year, two and one quarter per cent certificates offered today. Successful sale of the current issue would wipe the government slate clear of important impending maturities and pave the way for a more aggressive gold buying program than recently."

Clyde Barrow Is Thought to Be Out of State Hiding

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7.—Fort Worth officers today believed Clyde Barrow, widely sought fugitive, had abandoned Texas until the search for him in this area subsided. Their theory was supported by identification of an automobile found near Miami, Okla., yesterday as that allegedly taken by Barrow in escaping after a gun battle with Dallas officers near Grand Junction, Texas, two weeks ago. Officers believed Barrow may have fled to familiar haunts in Missouri to recover from wounds or in the hope the intense search for him in Texas would soon die down.

So far so good, but the tackle positions are still harder. Despite this we would pick Walsh, who alternated at end on the defense and tackle on the offense. It was chiefly his going down under punts, along with Britt, that kept the Bulldogs in the enemy end of the field as much as they were. We carried on his assignment regularly and 25 times showed up better than one would expect. He got the tackle position from us. Robert of Abilene showed up well in the Eastland game and came in for considerable consideration. Lindsey at the other Abilene tackle position looked equally as good, maybe better. This was another case up and there was not so much process of elimination on which we had as there were no other ekles as far as we could see. And, Prexy Anderson, who lives in the same town with both Robert and Lindsey, picked the latter, and must have been a little more insistent throughout the season. We might as well pick him. If lack of Abilene and Latch of Cisco had not been ineligible they could probably have solved our problem easily.

LIONS URGE HIGHWAY ON RAILWAY AVE.

In the absence of the program chairman, the Lions club meeting resolved itself into a discussion of the re-location of Highway No. 1 through the city of Ranger and the club voted unanimously as being in favor of securing the right-of-way along Railroad avenue. The resolutions committee drew up the following resolution showing the attitude of the club in advocating Railroad avenue: "To the Honorable Mayor and City Commissioners of the City of Ranger, Texas. The Ranger Lions club in regular session, Thursday noon, Dec. 7, 1933, unanimously passed the following resolution: "Whereas the city officials have received notice from Mr. Leo Ehlinger, division engineer of the state highway department, that action must be taken immediately relating to the designation and right-of-way for the re-routing of State Highway No. 1 through our city, and the fact being that notification has been received that the highway will be routed across the west side of the T. & P. railway tracks. "Be it resolved that the Ranger Lions club hereby commends your untiring efforts in attempting to secure this highway through the business district of our city. But after all efforts to obtain this routing have failed, we urge that you take immediate steps towards obtaining right-of-way along Railroad avenue in order that work can be started in the immediate future and this project be completed."

Louisiana Will Hold An Election

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—The Huey P. Long political machine today gave in to a voter's rebellion in the sixth congressional district and agreed to call a new election to choose a successor to the late Representative Bolivar Kemp. Governor Allen, member of the Long machine, said he was willing to call the new election.

C. W. A. MAY BUY MATERIAL FOR PROJECTS

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—Civil works administration funds in a "limited amount" will become available for purchase of materials as well as for wages, Dec. 11, the project committee of the Texas Relief Commission notified counties today. Each application for expenditure in purchasing material will be considered on individual merits, it was announced. Merit is to be determined on six factors. They are: 1. Availability of eligible workmen. 2. Usefulness of projects. 3. Extent to which local community is contributing to the project commensurate with its ability. 4. Extent to which the community has cooperated on former projects. 5. Length of time required for the work. 6. General compliance with former requirements.

Dr. E. D. Townsend, Wife to Observe 50th Anniversary

Dr. E. D. Townsend and wife, of Eastland, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home on South Connelley street next Sunday. Friends are invited to call between the hours of 3 and 5, Sunday afternoon.

Oil Regulation Agreement Made

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—An agreement by the oil industry for self-regulation has been reached, Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, said today. Ickes said, however, that the agreement had not yet reached his desk and he did not know all of its terms or whether it would be acceptable. The oil industry had been given until this week to agree on a management plan or submit to price-fixing hearings.

T. C. U. Professor On N. R. A. Board

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7.—Dr. Edwin A. Elliott, head of the economic department at T. C. U., today accepted an appointment as assistant deputy administrator in the fourth division of the NRA organization at Washington, D. C. Dr. Elliott was granted a leave of absence today from the university for three to four months and will leave tomorrow to join Administrator Hugh Johnson's staff. The department to which he was appointed is devoted to wholesale and retail codes.

Gas Company to Accept Gate Rate

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—The United Gas Public Service company, supplying fuel to more than 120 communities in East and South Texas, today announced its qualified acceptance of the state railroad commission order fixing its gate rates for gas. STILL HAS GAS LIGHTS BOSTON.—The old Hollis theatre, scene of many famous plays for generations, still has the gas footlight jets that were in the theater before the electric light was invented.

Our first choice as a guard was Herbert Love, who, though he did not stand out sensationally, played smooth, consistent game on the fence, doing a good job at blocking. On the defense he worked as a line backer and did it just as consistently. He broke up a number of attempts to pass and got a good share of the tackles. That's him in. We have very little in which to choose the other guard. Smith of Brownwood did all against the Bulldogs and we don't really believe the only guard in the district who made a touchdown in season in the Oil Belt. Blackie Cisco was fair, somewhat rugged. Neither Smith, and probably not Cisco, had not been ineligible they could probably have solved our problem easily.

R. F. C. Director In Wiggins Deal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Harvey Couch, now a director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was revealed today by senate stock market investigators to have been one of the famous legion who paid boom-time tribute to Albert Wiggins' personally owned Sherman corporation. An exchange of letters between Couch and Wiggins in 1929 revealed a transaction in Wiggins' favor, similar to the bargain stock offerings of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Coke Stevenson to Run For Governor

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—Coke Stevenson of Junction, Texas, speaker of the Texas house of representatives, virtually announced he will be a candidate for governor, while here today. He said he expected to make a formal announcement 90 days before the democratic primary. The primary is on the last Saturday in July.

PARTRIDES AID TO FARMERS

MONTREAL.—Conclusive evidence that Hungarian partridges are an asset, not a curse, to the prairie wheat farmers is offered by M. H. Rowe, Saskatchewan farmer. A dispatch reaching here reveals that upon examining two dead "Huns" recently, Rowe found their crops stuffed with grasshopper eggs, with just three or four kernels of wheat. It had been previously thought that the birds fed mainly on wheat and were destroying crops.

SPEAKING OF CHRISTMAS SHOPPING FOR BUYERS

This is Thanksgiving day. All the American world should give thanks. All the American world from the cottage to the palace should thank their creator that the people and their government are coming out of the greatest economic crisis in the history of the western world. A year ago the American world was on the brink of anarchy. On this Thanksgiving day of 1933 throughout the American world fear has fled from the hearts of the many and courage has taken its place. This has been the record made throughout all the years since George Washington became the first president of the United States. This is a remarkable Thanksgiving. In the year that is ebbing out, 1933 has seen many unusual happenings in all branches of business and in the government of the republic. Speaking for the home folks and all Texans, that is not all. It is a reminder that 1933 witnesses Thanksgiving falling on the last day of November, which has not occurred since 1922. It is important that this should not be overlooked. This makes the shopping season for Christmas buyers unusually short.

There is the reason why: Only 20 shopping days in which to select and purchase Christmas presents that are to gladden many a heart. There is an ancient slogan. It was shouted in the days of prosperity: BUY EARLY. BUY NOW. Shelves of the merchants are loaded with Christmas offerings. Prices are within the reach of all. This should be the real buying season of the year. It has been the observation of many that Christmas shopping, like amusement receipts, are often affected adversely in times of pinch and in times of fear. Fear has been driven from the hearts of Americans. They are out of the ditch. They are facing the future. They have confidence in the republic of the fathers and its flag and its constitution and bill of rights.

Long ago "the peep of dawn" came for recovery from the crash of 1929. Long ago the timid and the fear-stricken crawled out of the ditch and joined the onward movement for the restoration of confidence and recovery and the marching order with its vast processions in 48 commonwealths is on the high road to the top of the hill. Texas today is a bright spot on the map of America. In July of this year the taxpayers of the commonwealth voted out of their pockets $20,000,000 to see to it that no worthy person should go hungry or shelterless or in rags "when winter comes." More than $100,000,000 of government aid, speaking of all the projects and all the building activities, was turned loose in this commonwealth of Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston. Dollar for dollar the federal government is matching the dollars of the great floating of state relief bonds. Heads of more than 100,000 families, speaking for 300,000 human atoms, have been placed in paying jobs and in all of the 254 counties of Texas setups have been made to find jobs for the jobless, to provide food for the hungry, shelter for the homeless, medicinal aid for the sick or disabled, always remembering "THE GREATEST OF THESE IS CHARITY."

Well, there is a short shopping season on, here are hundreds of thousands of wage earners on full time and part time. There has been government aid extended to the cotton growers, the wool and the mohair producers, those who are interested in the livestock and all other industries and the Christmas holiday season of 1933 should be one of joy and happiness and not of fear or of deprecation. President Roosevelt sent forth a Thanksgiving message that should have been read in all households and framed in all as coming from a man whose patriotism has never been questioned, whose character is of the highest, whose humanitarianism leads all the rest. Then the governor of this commonwealth, speaking direct to the people of Texas, called for a Thanksgiving day of meditation and prayer and good cheer with the hope that "the poor who are ever with us" should not be overlooked and that the Empire commonwealth should continue on its march until sometime in the near future the great procession should reach the top of the Hill of Prosperity.

Shoppers, now is the time to buy. Shoppers, the shelves of the merchants are loaded with the offerings of Christmas and bargain prices are the rule of the hour. Buy now. Buy to the extent of the ability of your pocket. Place the coin in circulation and join in prayer and thanks to that Creator who has a heart of love, a soul of justive and spreads His blessings over all alike, saint and sinner, as the morning dew spreads its favors on the plant life of the world.

Many governments in the world are holding conferences in some form or other most of the time. Conferences, however, can be other than what they seem. Many of them discuss subjects which are not broadcast to the public. Maybe that is well, for the people would, no doubt, consider them of little importance and question the expense involved.

SPEAKING OF RECONSTRUCTION

OUT OUR WAY

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Edgar G. Harris, publisher of the West Point (Miss.) Times-Leader, a successful daily newspaper in a city of less than 5,000 population, believes that the trade of a city follows the circulation of its local newspaper, and that the collective value of store advertising is even more valuable than the direct returns the individual merchant receives from his investment. Mr. Harris says:

Any good merchant can increase his sales and raise the standard of his store by the intelligent use of the advertising columns of his local newspaper.

"Advertising is a cumulative force, increasing its pulling power with the days and years. In the case of a merchant, advertising is a promise to sell an article of established quality at a fair price, and every time a satisfactory sale is made under these circumstances, a pleased customer is added to the selling force of the store.

"In a small city, like ours, where we must compete for business with several neighboring towns of equal size, the collective value of store advertising even transcends the direct benefits realized by the store which pays for the ad. Customers brought to town by one advertiser naturally buy things from others—and even from those who do not advertise at all.

"A live local newspaper, carrying a representative showing of store advertising, is a tremendous factor in the development of the trade radius of any town or city, and I have often thought that the secretary of the local chamber of commerce might even devote his spare time to soliciting advertising for the home paper with good results, though the average publisher does not expect such cooperation."

There seems to be a few disgruntled people in this world whose circumstances in life depend entirely upon their ability to play on the minds of the ignorant and the amount of mud they can produce from the troubled waters in which they fish. But why worry about them? They are heard today and forgotten tomorrow.

No matter how conscientious the peace officer may be or how he tries to enforce safety laws, he usually gets little co-operation on the part of the average citizen.

NOTICE COTTON GROWERS

Press articles have indicated that cotton producers who took part in the plow-up campaign and accepted the option plan will be paid $20 per bale for optioned cotton by the government. Just as soon as the necessary papers have been received each option holder will be advised by mail what steps are to be taken by him in order to obtain this four cents per pound advance on his option cotton. No disposition of the option may be made until the option blank is received and at that time the money will be available.

Sanitation Man Will Aid Schools Over the County

Fleming A. Watters of the state health department has been designated as supervisor of sanitation for Eastland county and is now in the county with headquarters in the Judia building at Cisco.

The civil works administration has set aside some $15,000 for construction work in this county. School officials may have the labor furnished for the construction of sanitary pit toilets on the school grounds. Private individuals may also have this work done. It will be necessary for both trustees and individuals to furnish the materials for the construction work. In most cases materials may be salvaged from old buildings in the neighborhood that will be used in construction of the toilets. The average cost of the material should be very small.

Labor will be supplied from the local community where at all possible. Schools desiring this service should get in touch with County Superintendent B. E. McGlamery and individuals should communicate with Mr. Watters at Cisco.

In addition to the above work, Mr. Watters has on his staff two trained nurses who are available for health inspection work in the schools of the county. Some work is being done in the rural schools this week. This is a mighty good time to stamp out communicable diseases in the county, Mr. Watters points out, and a careful inspection of the children with suitable recommendations to parents for the care of the children will go a long way toward doing this very thing. Similar work done in one community of the county during the month of October checked what might have been a typhoid epidemic in just a few days.

Within a few days a deputy supervisor of sanitation will call at the various schools in the county and it is urged that he or she be given the fullest co-operation

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The formal explanation of Ambassador Bullitt's immediate trip to Russia is flimsier than the usual official pretext.

No one is concerned seriously about the coming housing situation when it comes to selecting an American embassy. The Russians have some swell buildings and virtually would give us the pick of the town. Bullitt knows those buildings.

Those on the inside see several reasons for the quick jump. Both Roosevelt and Bullitt wanted an envoy in Moscow to begin functioning at once. Debt and trade negotiations are pending and are expected to pead until Bullitt has discussed them with Soviet top dogs.

Roosevelt wants to get the "feel" of official Russia as it is now. Bullitt, though no one would admit it, also will discuss the Far Eastern situation with Stalin.

On top of all that, there's the youthful enthusiasm of Bill Bullitt. He didn't see why he should wait around for a lot of organizational details.

THAT gay, youthful spirit that pervades the White House these days sometimes is tough on Sittle and Burzie Dall, the Roosevelt grandchildren.

Recently they were handed a big Japanese picture book—sent to the Junior Red Cross by Tokio school children—in the hope that

DAVID BANNISTER undertakes to find out who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his hotel room. Bannister, an author and former newspaper man, works on the murder case with GAINES, star reporter for the Post.

Among those suspected of the crime are JULIET FRANCE, blond and pretty, known to have visited King shortly before his death; HERMAN SCHLACH who wrote King a threatening letter; and JOE FABRIO, hoodlum and underworld actor. It is also known that MELBA HOLISTER, middle-aged spinster, had quarreled with King recently.

King was engaged to wealthy DENISE LANG, MATTHEW HOLISTER, Melvina's brother, tells Bannister he believes his sister knows something she is keeping from the police. Later Bannister on his way to police headquarters, takes a short cut through a dark alley.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

BANNISTER did not know it, but turning into that alley changed his plans completely. The alley was dark and totally deserted. Bannister hurried along with no thought for the darkness. He emerged on Fifth street, turned left, but had not taken more than a dozen steps before he halted.

A large, low-swing roadster had drawn up to the curb. The man at the wheel was leaning forward, smiling. Bannister recognized Parker Coleman.

"Hop in!" Coleman invited. "I'll take you wherever you're going."

"Thanks," Bannister told him, "but it's only a step or two. I'm on my way to police headquarters."

Coleman nodded. "Might as well ride," he urged, and Bannister stepped into the roadster.

He settled back comfortably in the luxuriously cushioned seat. It was pleasant indeed riding in a car like that. He liked young Coleman, too; was glad to have this opportunity to talk with him.

"Anything new on the murder?" Coleman asked.

looking for someone to go with me when I met you. There's a place out there where we can get a first rate dinner."

"There's nothing I'd like better," Bannister agreed. A drive into the country would be just the thing. It would clear the cobwebs out of his brain. And he knew those roadside eating places. Fried chicken, hot biscuit, home-made pickles and preserves—they would almost certainly be on the menu, together with a host of other delicacies. Perhaps after such a ride and such a meal he would be able to make something of the notions that were tormenting him. They were notions he couldn't arrange into a pattern so that they meant anything and yet that would not leave him alone.

The two men climbed into the roadster. Coleman touched the starter and the quiet, deep-throated throbbing of the motor began. Neither spoke until they had left the congested downtown streets behind. Bannister found it pleasant to sit back and feel the cold air whipping against his face.

A large building that was new to him came in sight as he noted what it was. Coleman told him it was a branch of a manufacturing company, recently established in Tremont.

Presently they were on a country road. Coleman, who had been driving rapidly and expertly, increased the car's speed. They fairly shot over the pavement. The wind struck Bannister's face with a sharper lash now. Cold, biting wind that made the blood leap in his veins. It was refreshing, exhilarating.

Coleman turned, smiling, and called out something Bannister could not hear because of the rush of the wind. He leaned nearer, understood the other was telling him something about the highway.

"There was nothing for Bannister to do but nod and smile. The wind took the words from his throat.

For 30, perhaps 40 minutes they rode thus. Then Coleman slowed the car. Ahead lights were twinkling and Bannister could make out the outlines of a building.

"This is the place," Coleman explained. They call it The White Cottage but it's not such a tea room as that sounds. Good food and plenty of it."

THEY left the car and went inside. Warm air, lights and the odor of appetizing foods blended invitingly. The room they entered had evidently once been an ordinary cottage living room. There was a fireplace at one end in which logs were burning. Six or seven tables, spotlessly white, filled the space.

A woman came to meet them and led them to a table near the fireplace. When the orders were given Coleman drew a cigar case from his pocket and extended it.

"Have one," he said.

It was ten minutes later, over the plates of fried chicken and sweet potatoes and delicious golden corn, that Bannister had his inspiration. He broke open a hot, flaky biscuit, buttered it and spoke slowly.

"Do you know Matthew and Melvina Hollister?"

Coleman thought a moment. "Why, yes," he said. "Brother and sister, aren't they? Used to own them at church. He passed, going. 'That's been some time.' I admit. I'm not exactly regular about church attendance these days. But I used to go. I was a kid. Mother insisted it. And I used to see that coat there, always together. Matt and Melvina. Swell pair of nuts, isn't it?"

Bannister said, "I was interested with Matthew today. Maybe he didn't know that the Hollister apartment directly below the one where Tracy King was killed, was by Parker Coleman took his cigar from his lips. "No, I didn't know that," he said.

"Well, they do. McNeal and I were out there the other evening but we didn't get much from them. I was more interested in what Matthew told me today." He repeated the story, adding that Bro had learned before about Melvina, an orange bird.

"I've been wondering what Parker Hale, Bannister went on to say. "There's no use in my trying to talk to the woman. She'd shut like a clam. McNeal couldn't anything out of her either. I was who's made up her mind, for reason, not to have anything to do with the police."

"But if you know her, Coleman, why don't you talk to her? She'd tell you what it was she thought the other night—or if she says anything."

"YOU mean," Parker Coleman said slowly, "you want to go to see Melvina Hollister?" You want me to ask her questions? Oh, but I don't really know me as a "You know her better than I do of the rest of us," Bannister said firmly. "And what's more, I know you. Everyone in Tremont knows who the Coleman's are."

It wasn't easy convincing him, but finally Bannister had him. Parker Coleman agreed that on the next day or two he would also Melvina Hollister and try to get out what he could learn from her.

"But it won't do any good," warned Bannister. "Honesty, don't know anything about this business. As a detective I don't wash-out."

"You'd like to have the murder case solved, wouldn't you?" "Sure I would!" "Then this is your chance."

They finished the meal and talked for an hour longer and then said, "Let's go back and see McNeal. Never can tell what have happened in an hour. Back on the highway Coleman shot the motor to 45. It reached 55, wavered, and made 60. There it lingered. Bannister glanced at his count was reassured. Parker Coleman enjoyed speed but he drove confidence and skill.

Overhead the night was there was only the rick white pavement stretching them and here and there, on from the road, a lighted Bannister, lost in thought, noticed when the roadster for a winding incline. He was aware of the dark object he saw on their right until he Coleman's cry.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
 NEARLY everyone has a sweet tooth and during the holiday season it's all too easy to eat too much candy. Although candy is an excellent food when eaten in moderation, too much of it tends to satiate the appetite while furnishing only one body need—fuel.

Consequently you will find a few confections made with dried fruits delicious and entirely satisfactory to mix with the usual Christmas candies. Dates, figs, raisins, prunes, apricots and peaches all can be used to make inviting "sweetmeats."

are concerned, only one possible selection—Littlepage of Cisco. Although we did not see Littlepage in action we did see Caffrey, who substituted for him and we have Benny Butler's word for it that Littlepage is the better of the two as Caffrey is really a fullback who filled in at center from necessity. Caffrey was better than any other center in the district, so Littlepage should have the nomination.

The halfbacks could be chosen from Barker of Cisco, Taylor of Breckenridge and Gray and Briley of Abilene. Because he gained more ground than the others in every game in which he played we would select Gray, though Briley because of his speed and defensive ability should not be left off. But Cogdell of Abilene, because of all this and because he is an excellent blocking half, would fill the other position, making our selection Gray and Cogdell. For quarter Harrison of Cisco, Taylor of Breckenridge and Brookshire of Abilene would be the standouts, with Brookshire having the edge because of all-round ability, probably outshining Harrison and Taylor by a shade.

That makes our selection look as follows:
 Britt, Ranger, end.
 Walsh, Ranger, tackle.
 Blackburn, Cisco, guard.
 Littlepage, Cisco, center.
 Love, Ranger, guard.
 Lindsey, Abilene, tackle.
 Angel, Brownwood, end.
 Brookshire, Abilene, quarter.
 Cogdell, Abilene, right half.
 Anderson, Ranger, fullback.

Although we tried hard to do so we would not find a single man from Eastland who rated a place and though Taylor was good in the backfield at Breckenridge he had entirely too much competition. Eastland and Breckenridge were the only two teams in the district that did not break into our lineup, which will probably break their hearts.

Now the critics can find fault with that team, if they want to, but we believe it would do as well as any other.
