SECRETARY OF WAR STIMSON PRAISES WORK OF AMERICAN FORCES IN NORTH AFRICA

Enemy Forces Were Not Broken By German Attacks

WASHINGTON — American troops took everything the battle hardened Germans could throw at them in Tunisia, and after suffering substantial losses, "counter-attacked with great vigor" to administer a clean cut repulse of the enemy, Sec. of War Henry Stimson said today. He said American planes and troops were inflicting increasing punishment on retreating German forces. He praised the reaction of untried U. S. soldiers to their first taste of fighting against the enemy's finest veterans. "Our forces were not broken by the Germans and counter-attacked with vigor," he said, adding that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had reported them "thoroughly mad and ready to fight". American "beta" in the past 10 days have been heavy, but probably "alpha" as first expected, Stimson said.

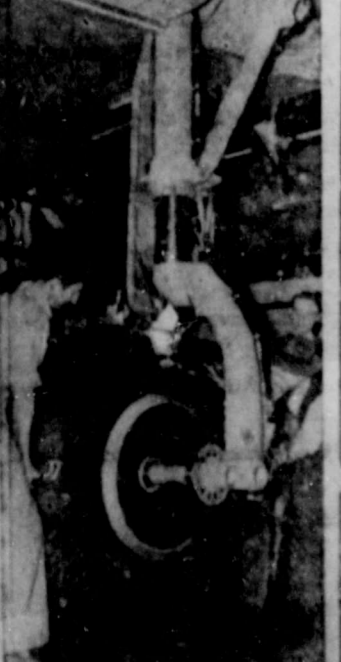

SHIP BATTLED OWN SHADOW 10 MINUTES

By WILLIAM F. TYREE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH U. S. FLEET IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (Delayed) (UP) — This was the battle of the Shadow, now that I've caught my breath and quieted my shaking knees, it can be told. On a moonless night recently in this South Pacific war I accompanied one of our ships on a bombardment mission into Japanese waters north of Guadalcanal. The communique recorded only half of what happened that night, because during the second phase of the mission—the withdrawal—one of the war's strangest things happened. For 10 frightful minutes we battled our shadow as we ran at high speed through a Japanese controlled group of islands. It wasn't a real battle, of course. But to every last man in our crew, ready to fight at the drop of a hat and expecting anything from the Japanese. It was as actual as the warm sea swirling and slapping about the ship. I don't intend to ridicule, I saw the phantom warship myself. Funny as it may seem, it wasn't so comical at that moment when the warships—the real and its shadow—locked in deadly combat. We had made out firing run close to shore against Japanese ground installations and swung away in a sharp 90-degree turn. Great black clouds spread brokenly across the sky, and heat lightning flashed in jagged streaks every few seconds. Our ship was frequently silhouetted as it knifed along. We watched cautiously for opposition. Then it came. A second ship went on the firing line. Its main batteries exploded in continuous salvos, belching red-hot death straight at the Japanese. The glow of the firing outlined us in the distance and cast a shadow of our own ship against a particularly low cloud. We experienced the eerie sight of another ship, presumably an enemy, on a parallel course and much too close for comfort. Our guns on that side cut loose in a terrific din. Every man accepted the grim possibility of getting hit in the return fire, but resolved that we'd be in there swinging in the battle. Someone yelled, "Let 'em have it!" I pulled a fireproof hood over my head and ducked around on the exposed side of the bridge to have a look. Our shells were ripping into the other "ship". Another form appeared in the water, and an officer guessed it might be a Japanese motor torpedo boat. Our small weapons took up the fight against another "shadow." I can't imagine where it came from, but I saw it too. We waited for the crash of a torpedo. Nothing hit us. The shadowy opposition melted away as we turned onto another course. We pulled our tensed nerves together and enjoyed a laugh at our own expense. It became obvious we had been the victim of a freak occurrence. A sailor mopping the sweat from his face, had the only appropriate comment: "Take me out, coach and send in the bench."

Click Arrives Safely At Field Aboard A Truck

GEORGE FIELD, Ill. (UP) — There is never a startled eyebrow lifted when a formidable Flying Fortress alights magnificently up on the airport's apron, or a sleek P-39 circles the tower here; but a cargo glider of the CG-4 class evoked quite a wave of interest when it stopped for a visit. The glider's arrival was both unscheduled and unusual. It was carried here provisionally on the back of a truck. While being towed behind a transport plane, sixty miles northwest of here, the big blunt-nosed whale broke loose and made an emergency landing in a field at Hazel Dell, Ind. After being disassembled to facilitate transportation, it was brought here. A Waco product, the flying freight car can contain six men and a truck. Fitted to accommodate a pilot assistant pilot, the glider is equipped with a radio, like any modern power-driven ship, but the instrument board is limited to an altimeter, and air-speed indicator, rate of climb and turn-bank indicator, and a compass.

Amour, Inc. Offers Unique Service to Soldiers in Alaska

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP) — Soldiers stationed at Fort Greeley, Kodiak, Alaska, who do not know just how to write that "certain" letter back home can now turn to the expert facilities of Amour, Inc. reports the Kodiak Bear, camp newspaper. The newly established "incorporation" is a letter-writing service which proudly promises: "A letter for any occasion, from anniversary to flirtation; writing tears or cash by mail—Amour methods never fail." Identifying the two enlisted men proprietors only as "Ken" and "Buck" a circular advertising the vital service assures prospective customers that "if your line is rough and words come slow—we'll write that letter and she'll never know." Rates for the various types of letters have been classified thus: "To an old love, 25 cents; to someone you've never met, 75 cents; to a movie star, $1; grounds-for-divorce letter to wife, -1.10; super lovey-dovey sweetheart, special, 50cents." According to The Bear names of the customers are a "military secret."

B. C. and T Gas Card Tire Inspection Due

Holders of B, C and T gasoline rationing books were advised Wednesday that Feb. 28 is the last day for compulsory tire inspection for the first ration period. Those holding these books who have had a renewal of their gasoline ration, effective Feb. 22 or 23 without a tire inspection will not be eligible for tires during the next six-day period unless they get the inspections this week. The board said, quoting the Office of Price Administration,

JAP VESSELS ARE HIT HARD AT RABAU

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Feb. 25 (Thursday), (UP) — Heavy Allied bombers scored damaging near misses on two Japanese warships, drove a third onto a reef when it tried to escape, and hit a 10,000-ton cargo vessel Wednesday in a second successive heavy raid on enemy shipping at Rabaul, New Britain Island, the United Nations command announced Thursday. The noon communique issued by Gen. Douglas MacArthur also reported that Allied medium bombers hit again at the Lae area in Northeast New Guinea, starting fires visible for twenty miles. The raid on Rabaul, was made before dawn and the large cargo vessel was blasted by a direct hit delivered from extremely low level. Several damaging near misses were planted within twenty feet of two small warships, the communique said. A larger warship southeast of Cape Gazelle, which is sixteen miles southeast of Rabaul, was attacked. "In violent efforts to escape it ran aground on a reef," the communique said. As on Tuesday, when three direct hits were scored on a cruiser or large destroyer and damaging near misses were landed against a 7,000-ton cargo vessel, Wednesday raiders encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire and dense searchlight screens. But all planes returned. A headquarters spokesman said that the raiders were American Flying Fortresses. Shipping Hit Elsewhere. Shipping was also hit in other areas. At Powell Point, New Britain a heavy bomber, attacking a small Japanese cargo vessel was intercepted by three Japanese fighters but shot down one of them. At Cape St. George, on the southeastern tip of New Ireland Island near Rabaul, a heavy Allied bomber attacked enemy shipping off the coast. At Open Bay, on the north coast of New Britain, a lone Liberator bomber, on a reconnaissance flight, was attacked by thirteen Japanese fighters. It shot down four in flames and returned safely to base.

REPORT SAYS 10 DANES ARE IMPRISONED

LONDON — Radio Copenhagen's report that 10 Danes have been sentenced to prison for aiding parachutists "in the service of a foreign state" spotlighted news of increasing unrest in occupied Europe today. The conspirators plans were aided by Christmas Moeller, former leader of the Danish conservative people party, the broadcast said. Fifteen other patriotic Danes were reported sentenced from two months to two and a half years on charges of publishing an illegal paper.

Action Delayed On 'Phone Booth Bill' By House

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 23 (UP) — Rep. George Parkhouse has a designation of his own for some bills. In a recent committee hearing, Parkhouse protested consideration of a labor bill at the time set for deliberation, Parkhouse wanted action postponed, and explained. "This is one of those 'phone booth bills,'" he said. "My people must have just found out about it, because they've kept me so long in phone booths talking about the bill to them back in Dallas, that I haven't had time to read all of it myself." Consideration was postponed.

Home Nursing Class Registration To Be Friday Afternoon

Women who are interested in joining the night class in Home Nursing, being taught by a registered nurse who is approved by the Red Cross, are asked to register at the surgical dressings room on Main Street Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Classes will be held each Monday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock and text books for the course may be purchased from Mrs. W. C. Palmer and are payable in advance. The course will last six weeks.

Navy Will Enlist 17-Year-Old Boys In Naval Aviation

ABILENE, Feb. 25—For the first time in the history of the United States Navy's Air Arm it is now possible for 17-year old boys to enlist for Naval Aviation Cadet Training, the Navy Department has announced. Three Classes of 17-year-old boys may now apply for Naval Aviation Cadet Training. Class One consists of 17-year-old seniors in high school or secondary school. Class Two is made up of 17-year old graduates from high or secondary schools who are not enrolled at the present time in college. Class Three includes 17-year-olds in accredited colleges. Seniors must present evidence from schools now attended that they will graduate in the upper half of the class; and college boys must present evidence that they will be in and will remain in the upper two-thirds of the class. Boys who meet the educational requirements and can be vouched for by a committee of faculty members as to moral character and leadership qualities may begin their flight examination in Naval Aviation. These boys will be enrolled immediately as Apprentice Seaman, and upon completion of their year's schooling will be transferred to the status of Naval Aviation Cadet. A limited number will be ordered to the New College Program as soon as it is put to work. "These boys meeting educational and character standards are urged to send their names to the U. S. Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, Allen Building, Dallas, Texas, and give the name of the school being attended or attended. Certain papers will be sent to the respective schools, and upon receipt of the completed papers, the Selection Board will forward the application government transcription to and from Dallas for the purpose of having the applicant take his flight examination. Speed in obtaining proper papers from the boys' school was urged since a traveling Aviation Cadet Selection group will be in Abilene from March 5 through 9 to assist applicants in preparation for the final examinations in Dallas. However, it was stressed that applications may be made directly to Dallas at any time by mail.

Soldiers Begin Their Own Food Saving Program

FORT ORD, Calif., Feb. 24 (UP) — Soldiers Wednesday night started a campaign to Remember the Folks Back Home by conserving food. A survey showed 10 per cent of the food allotted to this Army camp could be saved by eliminating waste and issuing rations to soldiers on a day-to-day basis for the number of soldiers actually eating each meal in mess halls, instead of the previous system of issuing food for the number of men in each company. The new plan would eliminate allotting food to men who are absent from the mess because of illness or furlough. Major William C. Ross, mess supervisor, proclaimed: "It is up to us to see that the folks back home do not make excessive sacrifices to supply the soldiers with food." Again, when the places of male dock workers in many foreign ports were taken by women, supplies had to be packaged so that women could handle them. The containers themselves, once they have been emptied, are made to serve other purposes. Thus, gasoline cans become water containers, and are even used in the building of sheds, dugouts and other structures. Filled with sand they become convenient building blocks. Walls of these cans are said to be excellent protection against bomb splinters. Platforms Make Shelters. When 25,000,000 pounds of soap was shipped recently, the space saved was 19 per cent less than that occupied by shipments of the same volume before the war. Dehydrated foods are the greatest space savers. By June 30, the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts will have bought 18,000,000 pounds of dehydrated soups, 7,000,000 pounds of potatoes, 2,000,000 pounds of apples, a million pounds each of onions and cabbages and 600,000 pounds of cranberries, to say nothing of half a million pounds of carrots and a similar amount of turnips.

Name Is Omitted From Red Cross Committee List

By oversight one name was omitted from the list of Red Cross committees appearing in Wednesday's issue of this newspaper. Heading the committee for Hodges Oak Park school is Mrs. George Rogers. By error the Lone Star Producing company was listed as the Lone Star Products Company.

PUNISHING BLOWS ARE BEING DEALT ROMMEL'S RETREATING KORPS BY BRITISH, AMERICANS

Stockholm dispatch says that Soviet unit with U. S. tanks exclusively had attacked Smolensk-Moscow highway

LONDON, Eng. Feb. 25. (UP) — Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps was tumbling back through Kasserine Pass today under the punishing Allied blows by air and land, his short-lived success in Central Tunisia giving way to headlong retreat. American and British forces were hammering the broken end of Rommel's spearhead back into the vital gap, while light bombers and fighters raked the corridor with bullets and explosives. When and where Rommel could undertake a stand was not clear, but African reports made it evident that the big battle for Central Tunisia would not be fought west of Kasserine Pass. With the Germans on the run, Allied patrols felt out the German positions in the Siba area north west of Kasserine while the British armies skirmished before the Mareth line in gathering threat to Rommel's flank. In Russia the Red Army was reported to have thrown American and British-made tanks into the battle for Orel. A Stockholm dispatch said a Soviet unit using U. S. tanks exclusively had attacked the Smolensk-Moscow highway on the central front. The RAF carried out its fourth big raid this month on Wilhelmshaven, Nazi naval base again plastering the shipping installations with block-buster bombs. Meanwhile, the tone of Hitler's proclamation to the Nazi party was believed to reflect a growing appreciation of the task facing his armed forces as the Allied offensive expanded.

NAVY EVOLVES NEW WAYS TO SHIP SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON (UP) — Total war has drastically changed the way in which supplies are shipped, handled and prepared for our armed forces. A special organization of about 100 persons has been created by the Navy to develop new containers and packaging methods for speeding the greatest volume of goods in the shortest possible time. It early became apparent that Iceland, the Solomon and North Africa as destinations for millions of tons of supplies where places whose climate and dock facilities were different, demanding that naval shippers evolve new methods of transporting and packing fighting supplies. In Guadalcanal, for example, a shipment of canned goods was dunked in the surf, washing the labels from the cans. As a result, unhappy Marines ate canned corn for five successive days. But this monotonous diet will not be repeated. Contents of the cans are now revealed by an embossed legend printed directly on the can. Are Floated Ashore. When docking facilities are lacking unloading of supplies is usually a hasty affair, carried on at night and involving the throwing of supplies overboard so that they can float ashore. Ordinary wooden boxes and cardboard cartons were unsatisfactory because they disintegrated. The Navy found the answer to this problem. It developed what is known as V-board, which resists rough handling much better than standard container material. Again, when the places of male dock workers in many foreign ports were taken by women, supplies had to be packaged so that women could handle them. The containers themselves, once they have been emptied, are made to serve other purposes. Thus, gasoline cans become water containers, and are even used in the building of sheds, dugouts and other structures. Filled with sand they become convenient building blocks. Walls of these cans are said to be excellent protection against bomb splinters. Platforms Make Shelters. When 25,000,000 pounds of soap was shipped recently, the space saved was 19 per cent less than that occupied by shipments of the same volume before the war. Dehydrated foods are the greatest space savers. By June 30, the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts will have bought 18,000,000 pounds of dehydrated soups, 7,000,000 pounds of potatoes, 2,000,000 pounds of apples, a million pounds each of onions and cabbages and 600,000 pounds of cranberries, to say nothing of half a million pounds of carrots and a similar amount of turnips.

Parents Asked Not To Bring Children To Registration

Officials in charge of the registration for Ration Book No. 2 asked today that parents please refrain from bringing children with them when they register. It was explained that the work is rather tedious and that workers have no time to be distracted by the children. Since the children cannot be of any assistance it is suggested that they be left elsewhere while parents register.

SERIAL STORY

THE TERRIBLE EYE

BY EDWIN RUTT

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Jonah Logan is being chased by Henry L. Channing, the multi-millionaire eccentric king...

FATHER IS PREJUDICED

CHAPTER VII THE "Taj Mahal" stood near one extreme edge of the Channing property. It was hidden from the main house by huge shade trees...

Jonah blinked at it. "You could make a fortune with this on Highway Number One."

"I know it's dreadful," Hildy said apologetically. "But Aunt Meg loved it. She used to come here and commune. Aunt Meg went in for spiritualism."

"And a jolly little number it is to commune in, too," Jonah said warmly.

He stopped abruptly. The Taj Mahal might look like a glorified kiosk, but it was private and secluded. Not at all a bad place in which to inform a girl that you loved her.

"Come, come, Jonah," Hildy said. "What's wrong?"

"I don't want to appear to rush things, Hildy," he said, by way of kicking off, "but you and I have been through a lot together. We've faced a common danger and..."

travels gently up the spine in alternating hot and cold waves and finally expends itself in a kind of electric prickling at the roots of the hair."

"I hadn't noticed anything like that. But now you mention it, the air does feel a bit tingly. Shouldn't be surprised if we had a thunderstorm."

"Hildy," said Jonah, persevering, "you don't catch. I'll put it another way. Do you or do you not feel as if great events are just around the corner?"

"Why, yes," Hildy said surprisingly. "I do."

Jonah's heart did a rumba. "I knew it. It's in the cards. All of time, all of history, has been pointing toward just this one thing. He looked at her with melting eyes. "You do believe, don't you, Hildy, that something wonderful and glorious and—and spectacular is about to happen?"

"Jonah," said Hildy, "it's funny you should say that. Because it's precisely how I feel."

"Ah," Jonah breathed. "And it's funny too," said Hildy, "that you should use just those words. Wonderful! Glorious! Spectacular! They're the very words I would have used myself."

Suddenly she raised herself on tiptoe, flung out her arms and took a deep breath. She looked like a poster for a youth movement. "Oh, Jonah, I've just got to tell somebody. He is wonderful. The most wonderful, glorious and spectacular guy in the whole U. S. A. His name is Chet Saxon and on Saturday night, with your help, I'm going to elope with him."

ONCE in his youth, Jonah Logan, playing end on the third team of the Dellford Academy for Boys, had blocked a punt. Wherefore he knew how it felt to be practically kicked in the stomach. He resented now just as he had on that former, and more glorious, occasion.

"Oof," he said. Hildy was doing another youth movement, facing the sun.

"Really, Jonah," she said, "he is marvelous. He's an aviator. Jonah stared himself. This hideous thing had happened to him in the prime of life, as it were, searing and yellowing his soul. He felt suddenly decrepit, a withered hulk. The withered hulk managed speech.

"Here," he said, gulping hollowly, "let's get this straight! You say you're going to elope? Saturday night? With an aviator? Name of Saxon?"

"That's right. You pick things up quickly, Jonah."

Jonah shook off the first effect of the haymaker. "You mention my assistance," he said bleakly. "What makes you think I'd be a party to a—fantastic scheme like that?"

Hildy's eyes widened. "Why, Jonah! A moment ago you said you'd help me."

Jonah frowned. "I know," he said, somewhat lamely. "But that was before this punk Saxon got in the picture."

"He is not, either, a punk." "I choose," said Jonah loftily, "to consider him a punk. A definite jerk."

"You disappoint me, Jonah," said Hildy. "When you told me your plans with respect to father, I didn't expect, did I? No. I offered to help you, without reservation. And now, when I want a very small favor, you backfire on me."

Jonah kicked turf. The girl had a point.

"Okay," he said grudgingly. "What do you want me to do?"

"That's more like it. Well, just to put you straight, father is going all-out to keep Chet and me apart. That's what the fight's about."

JONAH pricked up his ears. In spite of that gentleman's recent reception of himself, he began to feel a warm personal friendship for Henry L. Channing.

"Is that a fact?" he said. "Or—hand, I wouldn't have credited your father with so much intelligence. What has he got against this drip?"

"Watch your language, Jonah. Father is prejudiced, that's all. You see, when Chet first began to pay attention to me, father took an instant dislike to him. So he had him looked up. And he says he got a bad report. According to father, Chet is a never-do-well. Father goes further. He calls him an aviation bum."

"Naturally," said Jonah. "Don't interrupt, please. Anyhow, father has forbidden me to see Chet. And he says that if I disobey him, he'll cut me off without a cent."

"Well, gosh," Jonah said, "you'd better not elope, then. You'll lose your shirt!"

Jonah was stalling for time and ideas. His inventive mind told him there must be a way to forestall Hildy's elopement. But how?

Well, Edison didn't let obstacles stand in his way. Where would the telephone be now if Alexander Graham Bell had given up hope? The Logan brain would have to work on all cylinders. There must be a way.

(To Be Continued)

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

HERE is a cheery note for managers of professional baseball clubs concerned about conditioning athletes indoors. John Kobs, who speaks from 18 years of experience, says the careful preparation of pitchers' arms indoors beats early outdoor drills. His fingers have never had lame arms, are able to go the route in opening games.

Kobs, coach of Michigan State College, even contends that batting in unnatural light sharpens the eyes of hitters.

Reason for winter workouts within the confines of Demonstration Hall at East Lansing is that the Michigan State team has annually played a southern schedule with teams prepared under natural conditions. Because of travel restrictions, this is the first year since 1924 that the Spartans are passing up a spring vacation tour of Dixie.

ALMOST without exception, the State squad has gone south for its first engagement without ever having caught or batted a baseball in the open.

Yet State has a winning percentage in these games over the years, which is something in the way of proof that the hothouse preparation is a little more than all right.

Joe Lapchick of Brooklyn St. John's said early in the season that his six-foot nine-inch sophomore, Harry Boykoff, would be the greatest player in the history of basketball.

That was quite a hunk of statement for a coach, especially one who performed with the Original Celtics, but Boykoff is rapidly making Lapchick look better than ever as a judge of talent.

Harry the Horse's house-wrecking 45 points against a first-rate Philadelphia St. Joseph's combination at Madison Square Garden recently is a classic example.

LAPCHICK explains that Boykoff is a large scorer because he makes the pivot shot as did Dutch Dehnert, and that Original Celtic was so accomplished at this particular maneuver that they had to change the rules. Lapchick was no slouch himself on the pivot shot.

"The difference," stresses Joe Lapchick, "is that Harry Boykoff was not born that way. He has put in long hours of monotonous practice."

Hard work may not be able to do everything, but it takes a fellow a long way.

OUT OUR WAY

BY WILLIAMS

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

PERHAPS he got his idea from selective service, but at any rate, the National Semi-Pro Congress on March 27 expects to sign up no fewer than 500,000 boys and men to play baseball the coming season.

Officials have named the date National-Wide Registration Day. Those who desire to play American Legion, semi-professional or amateur baseball will register at any one of 8000 sporting goods stores. Registration blanks will be sent to schools and factories. Players residing on farms and in towns which do not have a sporting goods store may mail the information.

Sponsors of clubs in search of material also will register on March 27.

THE point is to bring players and sponsors together, to place all who want to play.

Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Congress, believes the registration lists will increase the number of teams 25 per cent over last year. War activity has scoured semi-pro ball, service and war work teams taking part.

Grass will not grow on America's sandlots in 1943, or as long as Ray Dumont is among those present.

Commissioner Londs and Ford Frick and W.H. Harridge, major league presidents, discussed plans for arranging games for the benefit of service organizations.

Capt. Jack Springer, young athletic officer, recalls how the team representing Camp Lee, Va., met the Norfolk Naval Training Station outfit 11 times last season, with Bob Feller on the mound for the sailors four times.

Freddie Hutchinson also pitched for the gobs, who had Vincent Smith behind the bat, Ace Parker at second base and Sam Chapman in center field.

PORTER VAUGHAN and Hank Nowak pitched for Camp Lee, Jack Sanford played first base and Soup Campbell was in center field. Camp Lee and the Norfolk Training Station clubs played to 18,000 spectators in Richmond and 20,000 in Washington.

Lieut.-Comdr. Mickey Cochran's Great Lakes club was star-studded, played to large crowds all the way along the line.

Service clubs will be stronger this year. The Norfolk Naval Training Station, for example, has Phil Buzzato, among other new hands.

It may be that the heads of service teams will have to discuss plans for the benefit of the major leagues.

Buy War Bonds

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

American fighter planes are giving us air superiority on the fighting front. For the job it has to do, the Curtiss P-40 is unsurpassed. It has its Allison liquid-cooled motor, armor-plated fuselage and its tremendous speed, our air pilots find it to their liking.

These planes cost about $51,000 each. We need more and more of them as we take the offensive against the Axis. Your purchase of War Bonds every payday, investing at least ten percent of your income will help pay for them.

G. I. Haircut No Better to Private

SAVOY, Tex., Feb. 23 (UP)—Pvt. Glendon Moore isn't worrying about his G. I. haircut anymore.

Pvt. Moore's father is a barber and before he went in the service no one but his father had cut the soldier's hair.

The Savoy youth was inducted into the army and transferred from Camp Walters to Camp Howze.

When he turned up for his first G. I. trim, Pvt. Moore found his father, C. H. Moore, doing the clipping.

Neither knew the other had arrived at Camp Howze.

Once again, civilian barber Moore is handling the clippers on his soldier son.

Gives Up Marriage License Rather

Health Certificate

ABILENE, Tex., Feb. 23 (UP)—An Abilene woman evidently thinks more of her prospective husband's health certificate than she does of the prospective husband.

When she applied at the county clerk's office for a marriage license, the deputy clerk told the woman she would have to leave the health certificate.

The woman refused. The deputy clerk explained that under Texas law she had no choice. In applying for the marriage license, she would have to leave the health certificate.

The woman thought it over, picked up the health certificate and walked out. The deputy clerk was left holding the license.

OFFICIAL TABLE OF POINT VALUES FOR PROCESSED FOODS

No. 1—Effective March 1, 1943

Pursuant to Ration Order Number 13

FLUIDS 1 pint = 1 pound 1 quart = 2 pounds

Table with columns for weight (Over 0, 4 oz., 7 oz., 10 oz., 14 oz., 1 lb. 2 oz., 1 lb. 6 oz., 1 lb. 11 oz., 2 lb., 2 lb. 4 oz., 2 lb. 8 oz., 2 lb. 12 oz., 3 lb., 3 lb. 4 oz., 3 lb. 8 oz., 3 lb. 12 oz.) and rows for various food categories like Fruits and Fruit Juices, Vegetables and Vegetable Juices, and Other Processed Foods.

THE FOLLOWING ITEMS ARE NOT INCLUDED: Candied Fruits, Chili con Carne, Fruit Cakes, Fruit Puddings, Jams—Jellies, Olives, Pickles, Potato Salad, Preserves, Relishes, Meat Stews containing some Vegetables, Paste Products—such as Spaghetti, Macaroni, Noodles, whether or not they are packed with added Vegetable Sauces, Vegetable Juices in containers over one gallon, By-products of fruits or vegetables such as soya bean oil, soya bean milk, fruit and vegetable dyes, and similar products.

INSTRUCTIONS.—To find the Point Value of an item: 1. Find out the net weight of the contents (from the label, if any). 2. In the line across the top of the chart, showing the weight in ounces and pounds, find the column in which this weight belongs. 3. Find the item in the listing of items in the column to the left. 4. The POINT VALUE of the item appears on the same line as the item and in the column listing the correct weight. All Point Values must be determined by weights. If no weight is marked on the item, the item must be weighed. In finding the Point Value of a container where contents are given in fluid ounces, consider the fluid ounce to be the same as the avoirdupois weight ounce. One pint is one pound; one quart is two pounds.

The Point Value of any item weighing over four (4) pounds shall be arrived at by multiplying the number of pounds of that item by the Point Value per pound of that item as given in the "Per Pound" column. Fractions of a pound should be figured in quarter-pounds. Fractions of a quarter-pound should be figured to the next higher quarter-pound. Thus, an item weighing 4 pounds 9 ounces would be considered as weighing 4 pounds 12 ounces for the purpose of getting the Point Value of the item.

That Extra Something!
...You can spot it every time

A game has to possess an extra something to have such widespread popularity as bowling. That's true of a soft drink. Coca-Cola had to be good to become the best-liked soft drink on earth.

Choosing ingredients and finished art in its making produce in Coca-Cola a drink that stands apart. Notice how you never tire of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its taste never fails to please. And Coca-Cola more than quenches thirst, it adds refreshment. Makes any res-pause, the pause that refreshes. Enjoy it whenever you can.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Both mean the same thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

Youth rates Coca-Cola high in its schedule of recreation. Pure, wholesome, unadulterated refreshment, it's the "soft-drink" companion for games and social gatherings.

Yes dear...that used to be a gas range

Your dependable friend, the Gas Range, that each day serves you faithfully in preparing the food that you and your family eat, may well be old fashioned tomorrow. That's why American Women everywhere are looking to the future... looking to the end of the war when they may be the proud owner of a new Certified Performance Gas Range that's designed for tomorrow... built by tomorrow's standards for tomorrow's requirements of beauty, performance and economy.

Is there such a CP Gas Range? Of course there is! Not in our showrooms, perhaps... but it's being born right this minute in the laboratories of the great American Gas Industry.

And when tomorrow arrives... you'll want to enjoy the convenience and economy of the new Certified Performance Gas Range in your home. So plan today for the "paid-in-full" comfort and convenience that the CP Gas Range will bring to you.

ON THE MARCH
Ceaselessly onward go science and engineering in their search to better our way of living. In war new ideas, new materials, new methods are born—to be given to the world when the peace is won.
That your future may be brighter with new freedom, these sciences are dedicating themselves to the development of the CP Gas Range of tomorrow.

Happiness...Paid in Full with your War Bonds
Let your dollars do double duty. Each War Bond you buy will preserve the American way of life... and will also enable you to enjoy tomorrow's way of living. Buy War Stamps and Bonds regularly and hold them for the purchase of tomorrow's Certified Performance Gas Range.
