Ira Wolford on visiting the Community Library Wednesday, noted the absence of tiny-tot chairs to go with the tables al-ready there, and which will be if plans carry, during a children's story hour. He asked a few questions, then came up with this. Why not ask people with tiny chairs which have been outgrown . to donnte them to the Library.

Good going, we'd say. And herewith is an appeal to the public to do that very thing. Stuck back somewhere in the attic or the cellar is that little, almost forgotten chair. Maybe you'd thought of keeping it for sentiment but when it can be used to such good advantage, it seems it would be worth sacrificing the sentiment. Too, we can imagine a man or woman pointing with pride to one of those little chair in the library and saying "that belonged to my child." ...

Incidentally, while speaking of the library, don't forget the big open house which will be held easion you will have the opportunity to have a look at the library as well as the remainder of the club house.

Plans for the open house are underway and more details will be announced in the near future.

WASHINGTON-(NEA)-When the Polish motorship Batory cleared New York harbor recently, it carried, among other cargo, 900 pounds of pencils, notebooks, school supplies, books and clothing. It was bound for the Co-Operative High School of Warsaw, Poland. It was collected at the Long Branch, N. J., high school at the suggestion of the biology and chem-

FOUR SPECIAL OFFERS MADE TO VETERANS

The U. S. Army today offers four special opportunities to vet-erans of any of the Armed Services, according to S-Sgt. James Hendrick of the Eastland Recruiting Station.

These opportunities are: Former servicemen with overseas service may enlist directly in one of 8 Army units stationed in the United States, and be guaranteed 3 years of service with the unit. Veterans who join these units will help build up the de fensive strength of the Army within the Zone of the Interior and will help train new recruits 2. Veterans with or withou
