Today is what you were looking forward to yesterday. Make every minute count so tomorrow will be as pleasant as its yesterday!

One of the good signs in religious circles is co-operation and friendliness among the different denominations.

But it has not always been that way in Texas, according to Prof. Ross Phares, researcher who's a member of the faculty of East-Texas Baptist College at Marshall.

The Baptists and Methodists were particularly strong rivals in the early days, and in the light of current better understanding, some of their bickerings appear most amusing now.

Dr. J. W. Dawson, in "The Spiritual Conquest of the Southwest," quotes from a letter written by an itinerant Methodist after a visit to Waco in 1854: "Methodism received a fresh impetus here, and I think it is so well established that nothing can move it now—not even the combined powers of the Baptists and the devil."

Dr. Dawson told of a backwoods Baptist Church during the days following the Civil War: When a candidate for membership approached, the pastor would ask: "Are you a Democrat?" The candidate would promptly answer "Yes." Then the pastor would ask: "Do you believe that all Methodists are going to hell?" Upon the candidate's affirmation that he did, the motion would pass unanimously that he be received!

"Well, my son, what did you learn in Sunday School today?"

"We learned about a cross-eyed bear."

"About... what?"

Churches Back Battle Against Polio Crippler

For the third successive year, churches and synagogues throughout the nation are holding special services and taking offerings in behalf of the March of Dimes and the fight against polio, Mrs. J. A. Bates, county chairman of the 1953 fund-raising drive, reports.

Among clergymen of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths who urged support for the special drive was Rabbi Abba Hiller Silver of Cleveland who said: "The March of Dimes is a vital and urgent service which should recommend itself to the compassion and intelligence of the American people."

Rabbi Silver was joined by the Rev. Shirley Greene, Agricultural Relations Secretary of the Congregational Christian Church and by Roman Catholic Bishops William Gilmore of the Diocese of Dallas and William J. Papp of the Diocese of Great Falls, Mont.

Our support of March of Dimes, Rabbi Silver said, "will offer us again this year an opportunity to turn our thoughts and the thoughts of our fellow-citizens to the blessed work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in marshalling all the forces of scientific research... to protect our people against the scourge of polio. This disease, whose victims are particularly children, has unfortunately increased in recent years, bringing tragedy into many lives and many homes."

Mr. Greene, an outstanding Christian leader among the nation's farm families, said, "The March of Dimes is a practical illustration of a central Christian teaching: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

"Infantile Paralysis is one of life's tragedies for which the victims is never prepared. This is especially true of low-income rural families of which America still has millions. March of Dimes contributions reflect our Christian understanding that every suffering human being is my neighbor. I regard it a privilege to endorse the March of Dimes."

His joint statement, their Excellencies, Bishops Gilmore and Condon pointed out that infantile paralysis during the past five years has attacked more Americans than the number stricken during previous decades. As a consequence, the 1953 March of Dimes will seek redoubled contributions to match the redoubled efforts on behalf of our boys and girls.

"May I urge each and every one of you... to give with unstinting generosity to this fine cause. All may rest assured that God will indeed not with benign satisfaction whatever you may do to assist polio patients and to help speed the conquest of a cruel disease."

Hawaii as 49th State? NATION'S LAWMAKERS DEBATE TALENTS OF HULA DANCER

By IZZY DIZZY
The Roving Reporter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—There is a great deal of new speculation here in the nation's capital regarding the long-discussed idea of making Hawaii the 49th state of the union.

Relative to that important issue, some lawmakers have expressed alarm over the possibility that in event of statehood Hawaiian voters might elect a hula dancer to the dignified Senate or to the House.

One Senator, who declined to have his name quoted, said he feared the possible motions that such a legislator might put before the House or Senate. A member of an important agricultural committee also declared that "she might upset farm legislation—since she'd be such an expert at rotating her crops."

Meanwhile, another congressman expressed the opinion that a Hawaiian hula dancer might be a perfect politician—and finding fault with such a legislator might be like trying to find a needle in a haystack.

A young lawmaker in the informal hula room caucus said he'd feel very sorry for the husband—'he'd get up every morning with the shakes!'

A veteran Senator present, however, wasn't prone to agree with his fellow solons. "What if a Hawaiian hula dancer were to be elected to office and turned out to be a flop?" he boomed, grinning broadly. "It wouldn't be the first bust in Congress!"

After a week here in the busy nation's capital, this correspondent is of the frank opinion that there is no such thing as a cheap politician. And they lead rugged lives—staying ahead of several crowds

Here's—Hic—a Hint To The Wise; Be Sober When 'Helping' a Pal

If you ever have a pal in the bottle and he sends word for you to arrange for his bond, be sure you are sober when you attend the details regarding same. Otherwise, you may be needing a bondsman yourself.

That was proved in Eastland this week.

A man from a nearby city visited the county seat. His mission—to get a friend out of the Eastland County jail.

It was night, so the visitor called Sheriff Frank Tucker who, in turn, told the man to go to the county jail where he'd find the necessary papers.

A few minutes later the sheriff's telephone jingled again. The visitor told Sheriff Tucker that he'd visited the jail, but that the jailer had refused to handle the papers.

What the man didn't tell Tucker, however, was that he was in a stronger-than-mild state of intoxication and that the county jailer had warned him to go find a bed and return later to transact his business.

The persistent inebriated citizen was determined, however, and returned a second time to "reason" with the jailer.

He found himself behind bars. And the next morning he paid off a fine for drunkenness.

Mothers To Stage Big Polio Push This Week

History's greatest mass action against infantile paralysis is being launched this week by more than 2,000,000 mothers in over 55,000 American communities.

The activity in each town will take the form of a one-hour Mothers' March of Polio as a climax to the 1953 March of Dimes campaign—following the worst polio epidemic in history last year.

The Mothers' Marches—in which men and children will join the action by becoming "mothers for a night"—is expected to double last year's effort and will constitute the most intensive one-hour fund-raising campaign in history.

Officials of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said most of the events would be held on Thursday night, Jan. 29. Some communities, however, will hold their Marches on other nights to fit local conditions.

In Greater New York and Washington, D.C., mothers will visit apartment houses and dwellings on Wednesday evening, Jan. 28.

In most areas, the symbol for the Mothers' March will be a lighted porchlight—signifying that the occupants are inviting a volunteer mother to pick up a March of Dimes contribution.

Where apartment house dwellings prevail, handkerchiefs tied to door knobs or shoes left outside of doorways will constitute welcome signals for volunteers.

Most of the Mothers' Marches are scheduled to take place during the early evening hours when most families are at home.

Approximately 1,000,000 mothers took part in the Marches last year. The National Foundation reported. Marches were held on schedule despite rain, snow and floods in many parts of the country. In one flooded area, men manned the oars as women called on homes in rowboats during the event.

The tremendous popularity of the event has spread over the country and as a result the number of communities holding Mothers' Marches this week is more than double last year's total. More than twice as many volunteers have come forward this year to join the army of mothers in the unique fund-raising project.

Sunny And Mild Over Weekend

The slight cold spell which filtered into the Eastland County area Thursday night followed the pattern of a similar wintery assault of a week ago—it was of short duration.

Clear and bright skies and a beaming, warm sun Saturday morning heralded the return of mid-winter's unusual "June in January" weather.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted fair and mild for Eastland County Saturday and Sunday, promising residents a pleasant and somewhat balmy weekend.

Saturday's high temperature was forecast for around 70 degrees, with the Saturday night low due to be registered around 40—considerably above the 32-degree freezing level.

Sunday afternoon's high, weather men said, would be around 70.

BULLDOGS WIN OVER JACKETS 47-39, FRIDAY

A dogfight between the Ranger High Bulldogs and the Comanche High Indians for the 1953 District 10-AA schoolboy cage title loomed Saturday morning as both teams posted Friday night victories to lead the four-team circuit.

At Comanche, the Indians maintained their perfect record, stretching it to two wins when they out-scored the hapless Cisco High Lobos, losers for a third straight time, 48-44.

Here in Ranger on the hardwoods of the Recreation Bldg. Friday night, Coach Sam Aille's Ranger High Bulldogs increased their percentage from .500 to .666 (now two victories against a lone defeat) as they dribbled and canned out a 47-39 triumph over the Stephenville High Yellow Jackets.

Tommy Hinds, long 7'4" lean sharpshooting center of the Maroons & White crew, was the "man of the night" as his accurate shots whistled through the mesh for a total of 23 points. Forward Chico Mendoza was next high point maker for the Ranger quint, canning eight tallies.

For the losing Jackets, Forward Erick led the Stephenville point parade, chalking up 15 during the night. Clayton was next high with nine.

A very slim crowd was on hand to watch the Bulldogs play a head-up court game to hold command all the way. At the end of the first period, the Aillians held a six-point margin, 15-9. The visitors fared better in the second canto, scoring 12 tallies to pull to a 21 at the mid-way intermission when the Rangeries were still in control, 25-21. At the end of the third quarter, the RHSers continued out front, 33-29.

The District 10-AA standings:

Team	W	L	Pct
Comanche	2	0	1.000
Ranger	2	1	.666
Stephenville	1	1	.500
Cisco	0	3	.000

TAX LIEN SLAPPED ON WEST TEXAS PROPERTY OF GAMBLER

An income tax lien for $288,161.17 was filed in Abilene this week against a man described as the "most influential underworld figure in the country."

Object of the lien, reports the Abilene Reporter-News, is Frank Costello of New York, reputed gambling and crime overlord. Costello now is serving an 18-month term for refusing to answer questions by the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

H. C. Broadbent, chief of the Abilene division, Bureau of Internal Revenue, filed the action in Abilene with the U. S. deputy district clerk. It involves income tax for the years, 1941, 1942, 1944 and 1945.

Eastland Grand Jury To Meet Monday, Feb. 2

The Eastland County Jury Commission has completed the selection of a list of names from which the grand and petit jurors for the coming February term of District Court will be chosen.

The new grand jury will convene Monday, Feb. 2, and petit jurors will be asked to report one week later—on Monday, Feb. 9.

While there are many old cases on the docket, and several of them are expected to be tried during coming sessions, only a few new cases are due to be added. A few prisoners, now held in the county jail, are facing criminal charges, and if indicted by the grand jury, they will be tried during the February term of court.

Several DWI cases have been disposed of during recent weeks. When an offender enters a plea of guilty for driving while intoxicated, it is a misdemeanor and becomes a county court case. If trial is demanded it automatically becomes a felony, and thus must be tried in District Court.

Having a just God to turn to mankind can confidently expect to have safety from evil. This point is brought out in the Golden Text of the Christian Science Lesson Sermon entitled "Truth" which will be read next Sunday: "O Lord God of hosts, who is a strong Lord like unto thee? or to thy faithful ones round about thee? ... Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne; mercy and truth shall go before thy face" (Psalms 89:9, 14).

ever is learned through material sense must be lost because such so-called knowledge is reversed by the spiritual forces of being in Science. That which material sense calls intangible, is found to be substance. What to material sense seems substance, becomes nothingness, as the sense-dream vanishes and reality appears" (p. 312).

Rev. Paul Bell To Preach At First Baptist

Excellent teachers presenting a Bible related S. S. lesson, to eager folk, in well heated and ventilated rooms is one reason for attending Sunday school, another is that Christ is the center of all he teaching activities. Christ, and Christ only as the Saviour. Still another reason is that our teachers and pupils and people alike are interested in men and women, boys and girls and this Christian atmosphere makes every one feel at home. There are many other reasons, for example, Sunday is the Lord's Day and should be used for worship. Following Sunday school, the morning worship in the main auditorium that is centrally heated with the proper temperatures, and with the correct mixture, and with pure air circulating throughout the entire building offers to each family a safety precaution at all times that guarantees the greatest protection.

The spiritual blessing that comes from congregational and choral singing, scripture reading, prayer, and preaching of the word of God is even a greater assurance than all of the physical comforts, both together gives a working congregation.

The Rev. Paul Bell, Seminary student, pastor of the Baptist Mexican Mission, and Missionary appointee will bring both the morning and evening messages. Rev. Bell is the son of a missionary and will serve in the same area that his father served in for some 27 years.

Supt. Guesz and Director Arterburn have made adequate provision for both their departments. Special music will be furnished by the choir and Mr. Bullock. The pastor is preaching in the church in Bryan where he formerly served as pastor.

I. E. Gates, in "Watching the World Go By," tells of a conversation between the noted Methodist evangelist, Sam Jones, and the outstanding Baptist minister, Rufus C. Burleson.

Sam Jones: "Bless you, Dr. Burleson, you will soon be in heaven. You are ripening for glory ... I want you to tell Jesus when you get there that Sam Jones is coming."

Dr. Burleson replied: "I'm sorry, Sam, that I can't do it."

"Well, you might fall from grace and go to hell, and I would be turned out of heaven for lying."

Reverend Gates reports another exchange between a Methodist and a Baptist. A Methodist friend said to Dr. J. B. Gambrell: "Doctor, you Baptists remind me of an ox on a hot day in July, every time you see a little water you run and drink it."

Dr. Gambrell replied: "Yes, my jump into it."

The subject of baptism probably brought on more religious arguments than anything else—and brought also some of the oddest logic. Olmstead in "A Journey Through Texas" tells of an "old Negro of Victoria, the only Baptist of the neighborhood," sticking up for his religion. His argument:

"You kin read, now, keant you?" "Yes."

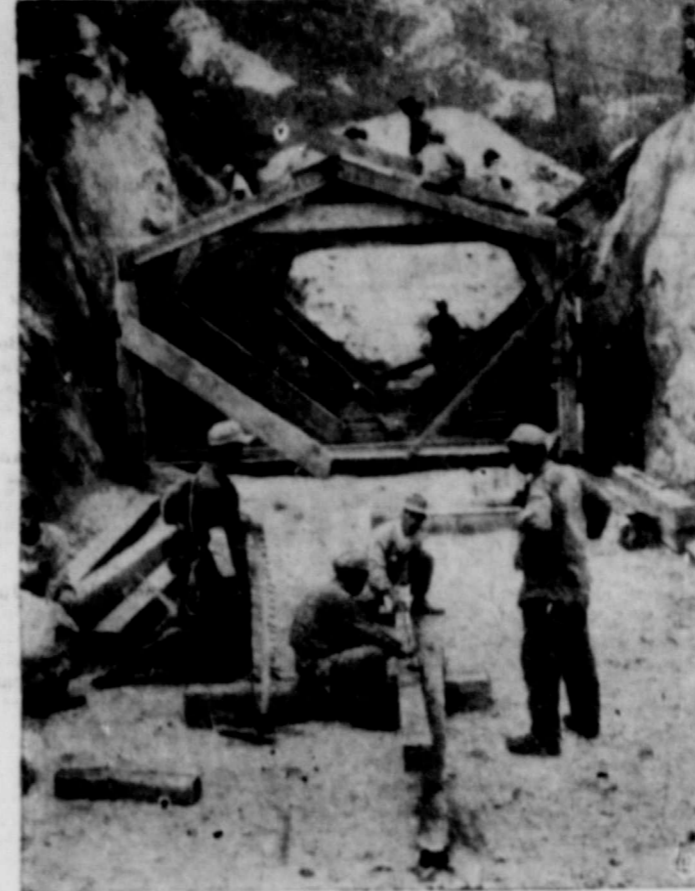

"You read 'bout John de Baptist, haint you?" "Yes."

"Well, you never read 'bout any John de Methodist, did you? You see, I has de Bible on my side, den."

If competition is conducive to progress in religion, as many churchmen contend, certainly the Baptists and Methodists owe a lot to each other in Texas.

Methodists Will Emphasize Total Abstinence At Sunday Rites

Sunday, January 25th is "Commitment Day" in Methodism across the world. Wherever there is a Methodist Church or congregation the cause of "Total Abstinence" will be given special emphasis by pastors and laymen. Commitment cards, furnished by the Board of Temperance, will be available for each person, young and old, to register his or her conviction concerning public enemy, "Number one"—alcoholic liquors and beverages. "It was a real source of joy to know that the entire Intermediate Department under the supervision of Shelby Farnell, signed their cards to total abstinence on last Sunday morning.

Church of Christ Young People's Meet Is Set

Beginning this Sunday the young people of the Church of Christ meeting at 225 South Rusk Street will meet at 6:45. If need arises still another class of young ones will be started in the near future. This necessitates moving the men's training class to Monday evening at 7:30 each week. Twenty-six ladies of the congregation began a ladies Bible study class last Wednesday morning. That class will meet at 2:00 p.m. hereafter on Wednesdays.

The work of this church is growing in every needed way. The spiritual strength is greater as the weeks go by and our friends and neighbors find it profitable to be with us at all services. Last Wednesday evening ninety-five were present for an interesting and edifying Bible lesson.

Services on Sunday begin at 9:45 with Bible study for all age groups. The regular worship services begin at 10:45 with communion at approximately 11:45. The young people's meeting at 6:00 and regular services begin at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday evening services with songs, prayers and Bible study begin at 7:30. Come and enjoy the sincere friendship of these people.

During the month of February the theme around which the programs will be built is "The Meaning of Sin" and there will be four programs dealing with every phase of life that separates "man from God." The un-churched need to know this in order that they may be saved, and the church member ought to understand it thoroughly in order that they may properly witness for their Christ.

This planning is of utmost importance in the growth of the T. U. department. The T. U. is so graded that there is a union and a department for each group. Everyone is invited to Training Union.

The Peacock Path

THE STORY: Ames Warburton, one of the partners of Cravath & Company, stockbroker, is found dead on rocks below the elms that border Peacock Path, and Jim Orth, private detective who is posing as a former guest of Marjory Cravath at Cravath's estate, is convinced the death was not an accident. Orth had been invited to Windover as Cravath's guest after two attempts had been made on Marjory's life. Searching for clues, Orth is knocked out by Cravath's niece, who was gashwinded by meeting him on the path in darkness.

on the last two words, I thought I had to stop myself from shooting a surprised glance at her. "What about this morning?" I said. "Is it different from any other?"

"I understand, from my husband, that we're one less today."

"The words themselves might have been callous. But Dolly Dumont's tone wasn't exactly. There was a trace of softness, even of pity, in it.

"Yes," I said cautiously. "Didn't like to mention it before, because I didn't know if you knew about it. But there has been a bad accident."

"Accident?" said Dolly. "Who am I to argue? All I know is that that poor kid, Ames, had no business here under the—the circumstances. If he'd played ball in his own league, as they say, this mightn't have happened."

"I hadn't an earthly of what she was driving at. But I wanted her to talk.

"I don't get it," I said encouragingly. "What circumstances?"

She ignored that completely. "Listen, Jim! You're a nice kid but, after all, just a kid. So you'd better take some advice, even if it does come from a raddled old hag. Pack up and get out of here! This was a bad business for Ames Warburton. Could be for you too."

"She went out of the room, none too steadily. I swore into coffee dregs. A cleverer guy would have kept her there and learned something. I'd learned nothing in particular. Except, possibly, that Dolly Dumont was neither as drunk nor as dumb as she advertised herself to be.

"I found Marston Cravath on his putting green, a miniature replica of an actual golf course, some holes short, others long, and little red flags with white numbers marking the holes. Such was Cravath's absorption that I was able up to Thee." The young people will furnish the choir for the evening service. The male quartet will bring the special music. The sermon topics for the day will be: "Making our Foundations Secure" and "A Love that is Alive."

A very cordial reception awaits you at the First Methodist Church for the various worship services.

Baptist Circles Meet Monday

The Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church will meet Monday afternoon by circles. While these meetings are in progress, the Sunbeams will meet at the church.

The Ann Margrett Circle will meet in the home of Mrs. Dava Fawcett on Spring Road.

The Marion Wolfe Circle will meet with Mrs. P. C. Long, 218 South Austin.

The Carolyn Bell Circle will meet in the home of Mrs. Jimmie Jones, at the Premier camp.

The Doreen Hawkins Circle will meet in the home of Mrs. C. B. Pruett, 621 Breckenridge Road.

The continued growth and interest of the women of the church in this great program gives ample opportunity for service in the Lord's vineyard. Mrs. J. Lloyd Clem, local president, urges all the local women to attend these meetings.

"I said, then, 'hope I'm not disturbing you, Mr. Cravath.' "Oh, Orth! No, certainly not. I was just amusing myself. Did you finally get some sleep?"

"Plenty," I lied. He stroked his chin. "Well, that's more than I can say. I hate to admit it, but this thing's got me down. I can't get over young Ames."

"In line with that," I said, "I'd like to have a little talk. If we can manage it without being too conspicuous."

"Shouldn't think we could. I don't know where the others are. Except that I've got Sladen busy in the house. Suppose we walk a bit?"

"That was as good as any. We started on an aimless ramble through the grounds, Cravath carrying his putter and swiping at weeds with it occasionally.

"Anything special on your mind?" he asked presently. "No-oo. Only it might be smart to go to the police."

"His forehead creased. 'What have we got to go on? Two attacks on me, but nothing except my word for it that the attacks were actually made. Or that they were attacks. And nothing but Ring's word that Ames didn't fall over the cliff, or else throw himself over it. Pretty thin from the police viewpoint.'

"I'll grant that," I said. "But what else are we going to do? Just sit back and wait for the murderer to take another move in his own good time?"

"He swung the putter at the filmy gammer of a long-burnt-out dandelion almost savagely. 'Okay. We get the police swarming in here. Then what happens? Doesn't this killer of yours simply fade out of the picture until a— a better day?'

"He hadn't made any particular effort, so far as I could see. But in some subtle way, perhaps, he'd practically got me seeing eye to eye with him."
