BETWEEN US...
Heavy opines that the trouble with American movies today is that they don't put enough butter on their popcorn.

Two men met on the street down in front of Bill Whittle's Ben Franklin Store the other day.

One of them, an eavesdropper reports, had a terrible toothache and was moaning with agony. "What in the world can I do to relieve this dreadful pain?"

"I know what I do," replied the other. "When I have a toothache or pain of any kind, I go over to my wife, and she puts her arms around me and kisses me and caresses me and comforts me until I forget all about the pain."

His friend brightened up considerably. "Gee, that's wonderful!" he exclaimed. "Is she at home now?"

Cute young lady—
Ardent swimmer—
Careless question—
Ball and chain!

Confucius say man with bald head who play golf in sun come hooded with baked bean... If you're looking for something to do Friday night about dark, drive out to Bulldog Stadium and see the extra-squad game of Ranger High's 1953 grid machine. Coaches O. C. (Stubby) Warden and Boone Yarbrough are pretty happy about prospects next fall and invite you out to witness Friday night's tussle. Kickoff time, 8 p.m. And the weather promises to be just right. No admission charge. It's all free. But you can make a donation to the athletic fund, if you wish—and many will. Yes, and as an added attraction—the popular Ranger High Band will be on hand to add plenty of color and entertainment. Remember: That's Friday night—8 p.m.—at Bulldog Stadium... One for the books, fans: Only one pitcher in the history of organized baseball has struck out 27 men in a single game. He's Ron Neccial, a 21-year-old minor league twirler who played for the Bristol Twins last season. Ron tossed a no-hitter, striking out 27 timber-welders. Only two men reached first—one by a base on balls and the other when the catcher dropped a third strike...

George Washington was the first president who really knew how far a dollar would go... In a nice "thank you" note to City Manager Lester Crossley, Mayor Price Crawley of T. V. Oltmann, mayor of the village of Brilliant, Ohio—staging a fund-raising campaign to finance a swimming pool for the communities youngsters—said that 600 replies and donations had been received. Letters soliciting funds were mailed to 5,400 mayors over the United States...

A lot of money is tainted these days. 'Tain't yours and 'tain't mine!

The average Ranger family spends about $1,000 a year for food, according to an estimate of a family economics bureau of a national life insurance company. In other words, the city's total food bill for 1953 will be around one billion dollars! Of this amount farmers will get about $470,000—nearly half—and $830,000 will go for processing and distribution.

From 70 to 75 per cent of the costs of food processing and distribution are wages, the report says; these operations include slaughtering, dressing, packaging, refrigeration, canning, deep-freezing, shipping, warehousing, storage, operation, and curing.

There has been a vast increase in the past half century in the amount of processing and distribution services demanded by the American family, says the report. For example, at the turn of the century 95 per cent of all the bread consumed on American tables was baked in home kitchens by housewives. Today the housewife bakes only 5 per cent of our bread; the remaining 95 per cent comes from commercial bakeries.

Starting lineups will appear in Thursday's Times.

Shonuff—Again! Weather Men Predict Rain

Eastland County acres were still thirsty Wednesday morning.

The weathermen's predictions that the area would get badly-needed moisture Monday—and Tuesday—proved slightly incorrect.

And this morning—again—the U. S. Weather Bureau saw "a slight chance for showers" late Wednesday.

The forecast calls for cloudy and continued warm weather. This afternoon's high is slated around a torrid 90 degrees, and the night's low—about 60.

For Thursday, the weather men predicted "partly cloudy with afternoon showers." The Thursday afternoon maximum mercury reading is scheduled to be around 85 degrees.

The West Texas outlook: "Partly cloudy and mild Wednesday and Thursday. A few thundershowers in the Pecos Valley Wednesday."

North Central Texas: "Partly cloudy and mild Wednesday and Thursday."

May Complete Jury For Brown Trial Today

Seven Veniremen Selected By State, Defense Counsel During Monday, Tuesday

The slow process of selecting a jury to hear the bizarre murder trial of Donald Hawkins Brown, 24-year-old Dallasite charged with the sadistic gun-torch slaying of Joe Campbell, 25-year-old Dallas finance collector formerly of Ranger, was expected to be completed in Judge Henry King's Criminal District Court in Dallas late this afternoon.

District Attorney Henry Wade, spearheading the prosecution, and Harvey Lindsay, chief of the defense counsel, had agreed upon seven jurors when Judge King recessed the court late yesterday afternoon.

Two jurors were chosen Monday and five more were added to the roster Tuesday.

The selection of five more veniremen today would complete the jury and make it possible for the trial to get underway Thursday morning.

Most prospective jurors were disqualified during the Monday and Tuesday sessions by claiming that they would not give the death penalty. Others declared they could not vote death on the basis of circumstantial evidence.

The state, during the two-day questionings of veniremen, exercised two of its 15 allotted preemptory challenges on jurors. The defense has used six of its 15. Very few prospective jurors were disqualified on grounds that they had formed opinions about the case.

District Attorney Wade's case for the state, as thus far bare, is based wholly on circumstantial evidence.

Chief exhibit will be a pair of blood-stained bus driver's trousers, bearing Brown's name, an empty auto key case, the property of the defendant, and other items which Dallas detectives found at a South Dallas rooming house where Brown, his wife, and their two small children made their home until moving a few hours after the slaying which took place only about a block away.

In addition, the prosecution will introduce the testimony of about 50 witnesses who will offer circumstantial remarks.

District Attorney Wade will ask that Brown be found guilty and sentenced to die in the electric chair at Huntsville.

Brown's defense, according to his counsel, will be based on an alibi which will prove, they assert, that Brown was "somewhere else" on New Year's Eve and thus could not have committed the brutal crime.

The victim had been beaten, shot four times in the head with a .25-caliber revolver, his body drenched with gasoline and set afire in a blazing automobile across the street from a funeral home in South Dallas New Year's Eve about 10 p.m.

The defense will ask for a suspended sentence for the fiery-fledged accused slayer who was arrested 14 days after the brutal murder at a Fort Worth taxidermist establishment. At the time of his arrest, he was living in Fort Worth with his wife and children under an assumed name.

SURVIVOR—Her face, hair and clothing still covered with oil, plane stewardess Beverly Nelson of San Jose, Calif., sits in an ambulance at the Alameda Naval Air Station after being removed from the wreckage of a Western Airlines plane that crashed in San Francisco Monday night. Eight persons died in the crash. Shortly before the crash 30 passengers were discharged at San Francisco.

Peace Pilgrim County Visitor

A New Jersey woman, nameless except for her title, "Peace Pilgrim," visited Eastland County Sunday in her walking trip from coast to coast in an effort to bring peace to the world.

She came to Cisco, Eastland and Ranger from Abilene.

The pilgrim carries a message that she asks people everywhere to send to the United Nations, "of to whomsoever you believe has the power to end the war in Korea."

The message follows:
Peace Pilgrim's Three Petitions
Peace Pilgrim's Plea for Peace in Korea

Let the killing in Korea cease! Let deal with this conflict situation according to the only principles which can solve it—overcome evil with good, and falsehood with truth, and hatred with love!

Peace Pilgrim's Plea for a Peace Department:
To the President of the United States and National Leaders: This is the way to peace—overcome evil with good, and falsehood with truth, and hatred with love. We plead for the establishment of a Peace Department, with a Secretary of Peace who accepts these principles—all conflict situations at home or abroad to be referred to this Peace Department.

Peace Pilgrim's Plea for World Disarmament and Reconstruction:
To the United Nations and World Leaders: If you would find the way to peace you must overcome evil with good and falsehood with truth, and hatred with love. We plead with you to free us from the crushing burden of armaments—to free us from hatred and fear. So that we may feed our hungry ones, mend our broken cities, and experience a richness of life which can only come in a world that is unarmed and fed.

The woman began her coast-to-coast junkie in Los Angeles on Jan. 1 and hopes to complete her 5,000-mile foot journey at United Nations headquarters in New York. She says she has averaged about 25 miles a day.

Community Chest Funds On Increase

NEW YORK — Community Chest campaigns have already collected almost 10 per cent more than last year's record donations, according to Ralph H. Blanchard, executive director of the Community Chests and Councils of America.

Receipts of 1,500 community funds last year totalled $340,929, 229, 13.6 per cent above 1951 receipts. Blanchard said 875 campaigns have reported a total of $246,795,991 received this year. Final receipts are expected to be about $260,000,000, he said.

Control Program To Stop Flies Is Urged By Medic

Early spring is the best time for a community to start a fly control program, declared Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer. That is before the fly population has a chance to multiply. It is estimated that one pair of flies, under favorable conditions, could have countless ancestors before winter.

Every time you kill a fly early in the season, and destroy breeding places, you stop whole colonies of flies before they can start. The most effective way of preventing swarms of flies is to destroy or make inaccessible to flies the organic material which attract flies by their odors, and which are essential to them as food and breeding places.

Individual householders should make it their responsibility to clean up their own back yards. Garbage cans should have a tight fitting lid and they should be leak-proof. Inadequate facilities for storage of garbage and refuse usually result in widespread fly breeding. Uncovered or partially covered garbage containers produce odors that attract a large number of flies. Good window screens will do a lot to keep flies out of buildings, thereby protecting food from contamination by fly-borne disease organisms.

250-Lb. Clock Is Hobby Result

T. M. Bruce wanted something a little heavier in his hands than those tiny parts he worked with every day in his watchmaker's shop.

He decided to carve a few enlarged watch parts, for use as models to show his customers what was wrong with their timepieces.

Now, 15 months later, Bruce has a plywood clock that weighs 250 pounds, is wound with a crank and rope and keeps the proper "hair-spring" tension with an 80-pound weight.

Bruce said that he just decided to keep going, and ended up with the complete works for a clock. Only a few parts are not made of wood—such as "jewels" which once were glass watch crystals, a hairspring which was the main-spring of an eight-day clock, and a bottle on which the handshaft pivots.

When he turns the crank and a rope and which lift the weight, Bruce gives the clock enough power to run for eight hours.

They grow so fast...

But you can keep their cherubic babyhood through the years in professional photographs. After-naptime appointments at your convenience.

Big Redemption Rock Is Given To Public Body

An enormous boulder, at which were held ransoming negotiations that resulted in the freeing of a minister's wife from the Indians 277 years ago, has been donated to the Trustees of Public Reservations at Princeton, Mass.

Redemption Rock, 30 feet high and 50 feet broad, bears this inscription:

"On this rock, March the 2nd, 1676, an agreement was made for the redemption of Mrs. Mary Rowlandson of Lancaster between John Hoar of Concord and the Indians

The 1653 donors, John Hoar and John Hoar Jr., of Epping, N. H., are descendants of the arbitrator who arranged Mrs. Rowlandson's ransom of "20 pounds in goods and money."

The kidnapping, Feb. 10, 1676, was the result of an Indian attack led by King Philip, whose pride was wounded by the treachery of whites whom he earlier had befriended.

Rev. Joseph Rowlandson, unable to redeem his wife, who was serving as a slave to Philip's sister-in-law, enlisted the aid of John Hoar, who had won the Indian's confidence.

The Trustees of Public Reservations, new owners of Redemption Rock, is a privately supported organization that preserves beauty spots and historic shrines throughout Massachusetts.

'Coffee Break' Aids Business

Memo to the boss: When your secretary knocks off at mid-morning and mid-afternoon for a cup of coffee, don't get mad. Be glad. She'll be able to work faster and longer after the coffee break, according to Dr. Waldemar Schweisheimer of Rye, N.Y.

In an article in Tea and Coffee Trade Journal, Dr. Schweisheimer reported that studies have shown that the caffeine in coffee "increases in human beings the capacity for muscular work in rest periods as well as in the fatigued." Furthermore, it increases the rate of recovery from exhaustion.

In spite of the increase in services demanded and delivered, the proportion of the consumer's dollar spent on these costs is still about the same, due to the increased efficiency of the American industrial machine, says the report.

Incidentally meat, cheese, milk, poultry and eggs are among the foods costing least for processing.

With remarkable uniformity, the American family spends from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent of its disposable income for red meats, national figures show.

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

Murder she yelled

THE STORY: Al Kemmer, owner of High Hill Lodge, moved a murdered man's body to protect the reputation of his vacation resort. Then someone blackmailed Al who decided to pay part of the $1000 demanded and say he can't raise the rest.

HEALEY introduced the newcomer to met Corporal Dillon, criminal identification expert, from the State Police squadron headquarters at Wyoming, Padillon, a dark stocky man with professional silver-rimmed specs, immediately started setting up a tripod camera at the office door.

Healey took me out to the mail cage to get out of the way. We sat down on the counter. There was only a dim light there. It was almost peaceful, for the moment.

"Well, come on, give me something. Who was sore at these guys?"

There was another name I couldn't rule out so easily. "G. O. Griscumb," I said.

Murder she yelled

Nobody seemed to mind being investigated at 5 o'clock in the morning. The guests all seemed to think this was the most exciting thing they'd been in since V-J Day on Times Square.

I walked back toward the office. I was still burned up at those two absentees. They didn't have any business wandering around at 5 in the morning.

IN a moment I was on the steps of Al's place. I put my ear to the door. I didn't hear anything.

There was movement in the bedroom. Whispers. I reached for the doorknob. The light went out—the door yanked away from me.

Murder she yelled

THE STORY: Al Kemmer, owner of High Hill Lodge, was being blackmailed because he moved the body of a murdered racketeer without reporting it to police. Next there is a mysterious note, a man at Al and Eddie's, a man's entrance at the lodge, and Al dies—wounds inflicted with an ax. Eddie survives with a concussion.

I SLAMMED out my left blindly then swung my right, everything—everything I had, an open, wide-swinging book—and caught him, plunk! on the side of the jaw.

I made sure he wasn't holding anything; then I let go. I stood up, took Midge's arm and forced her back into the bedroom.

There was a maple kneehole desk near the window. The drawers were open. There were papers all over the top.

Sheepman Tends Flocks By Air

Charles W. Stoddard, who lives near the shores of Great Salt Lake is the only known sheepman who tends his flocks from an airplane.

Stoddard got the idea for his one-man aerial "lift" to feed sheep three years ago when the government aided sheepmen with "Aeration haylift" because of the severe winter.

After taking flying lessons, Stoddard installed a hopper in a two-seated Cub plane. The pilot can push a lever and release concentrated food pellets to the sheep below.

In only 45 minutes, Stoddard can feed 1,000 head of Sheep on Fremont Island in Great Salt Lake, flying at an altitude of 80 to 100 feet.
