Several Eastland Counties will be among the 190 who'll receive degrees from Hardin - Simmons University, Abilene, at the summer commencement program to be held Monday on the Hardin-Simmons campus at 8 p.m. Among the Eastlanders: Donald Norris and Carlos R. Martinez of Ranger, Mary Ann Clayborn, J. Weldon Bailey and Dorothy N. Shook of Rising Star, Dora Fay Brewer of Carbon, Flora B. Singleton of Desdemona, Bryan L. Butler of Carbon, and Donald Lewis Kincaid of Eastland. Hearty congratulations to all. . . . Monologue: Conversation between a man and his mother-in-law. . . . Total U. S. productive capacity is now 50 per cent greater than in 1945, about 80 per cent greater than in 1941. This year it is expected to be double what it was before we entered World War II. . . . Mrs. Dorna Griffin, 1502 Leggett St., Cisco, became Cisco's first polo victim in 1953 when she was admitted to the Taylor County Polio Center at Hendricks Memorial Hospital in Abilene Tuesday night for treatment. She was rushed to Abilene via ambulance after Cisco medics recommended observation. Specialists at Abilene diagnosed the case definitively as polio. . . . Special attention, all you draft-age papas: Selective Service officials warned that Aug. 25 is the deadline for draft registrants to prove they are entitled to exemption because of fatherhood. . . . The registrants must have notified their local boards by that date that they are, or are about to be, fathers. President Eisenhower, by executive order last month, ended fatherhood, as such, as ground for deferment, effective Aug. 25. The only exception is proven hardship and privation. . . . Alvis Wood launched the Ranger Quarterback Club's ticket sale for the Quackers big coming "Kickoff Barbecue" (to be held at the Ranger Country Club on Tuesday, Sept. 1) with a bang Friday. The tickets are priced at only a quarter. Morris Newnam, bless that guy's big heart, is furnishing all the food for the event. . . . Wife the other day when arrested: "I just shot him for fun—the fun he was having with other women!"

We think most of our audience will be interested in these paragraphs from the Thursday edition of The Cisco Press. We're quoting the Press top hand and clever columnist, Jerry Sutton, tonight:

A headline in the Fort Worth newspaper the other day read as follows: "Thomas W. Mendenhall, colorful oil figure, dies." The story then reported that Tom Mendenhall, 75, retired head of the Mendenhall Torpedo Company at Wichita Falls and one of the most colorful figures in early North Texas oil field history, died Aug. 11.

Mr. Mendenhall was reported to be the first man to bring in an oil well with nitroglycerin, shooting a well near Spencerville, Ohio, in 1911, to bring in a successful production. He shot the first Texas well in the Jurkburnett pool in 1912.

He was a brother of the late Luc Mendenhall of Cisco, and the latter's widow attended the final rites. She gave us a clipping for a 1938 Wichita Falls newspaper that contained some interesting notes on the life of Tom Mendenhall, who had a number of friends in Cisco.

The paper noted that Mr. Mendenhall started in the business at Lawrenceville, Ill., in 1895. It told of a number of humorous experiences, including the time when he lighted the fuse to set off some nitroglycerin on a mountain. When he got safely away, he looked back and saw an old sow and

Oil Activity Is Brisk In Palo Pinto County

Area oil activity Saturday was highlighted with the announcement of several new projects for neighboring Palo Pinto County.

An Eastland County wildcat venture has been abandoned. Missouri Valley Dredging Company's No. 1 Effie Lewis, located three and one-half miles northwest of Rising Star, was plugged at 1,600 feet. The abandoned wildcat is located in Section 15, Block 2, ETRR Survey.

Potential test was due at KLB Drilling Company's No. 1 Albert Wood, six miles southwest of Cisco in Eastland County.

Pump gauge of four barrels of oil daily had been reported from open hole between 2,980 and 3,000 feet in the Caddo lime.

Location is in Section 102, Block 3, H&TC Survey.

E. J. Muth, Dallas, staked a regular field project five miles southeast of Brad. Contracted for 1,500 feet with cable tools, it is located 670 feet from the south and 860 feet from the west lines of Section 41, Block 2, T&P Survey. It is the No. 1 Marion Graham.

Stirone & Ross, Graham, No. 4 W. C. Bridges is a Hines-Strawn Field project five miles southeast of Grafrod. Site for the 1,800-foot rotary project is 2,196 feet from the northwest lines of the 252 acre lease in J. F. Smith Survey.

In the Loyd Dalton 1,700 Sand Field, 11 miles west of Grafrod, Dr. L. J. Hartnett staked two locations, both contracted for 1,800 feet with rotary.

Site for his No. 4 E. P. Costello is 5,450 feet from the southwest and 2,450 feet from the southeast lines of Peter Miller Survey, A-312.

No. 5 E. P. Costello spots 4,410 feet from the southwest and 3,230 feet from the southeast lines of that same survey.

In that same field, Ernest Loyd of Fort Worth No. 5 Mrs. V. D. LaNeve is a 1,800-foot cable tool project. Drillite is 937 feet from the southeast and 1,600 feet from the northeast lines of that same survey.

A wildcat was plugged at 2,000 feet in the area four miles southwest of Palo Pinto. It was Pete Hall Drilling Co., Wichita Falls, No. 1 Ross Watson, Section 37, Block 2, T&P Survey.

INTRODUCING . . . THE 1953 RANGERS

This is another in a series of pre-season newspaper sketches of members of the premier 1953 football squad of Ranger Junior College.

Ed B. Polston

One of the big blocks for the rock-rick forward wall of Coach Dick Henderson's 1953 Ranger Junior College Rangers, Pioneer Conference title contender this autumn, will be Edward Bruce Polston.

Polston, a former Ranger High footballer who was a member of Coach O. C. (Stubby) Warden's Maroon & White prep school crew during the championship seasons of 1949 and 1950, two bright years in the annals of Bulldogdom, is a husky and hefty tackle candidate for the '53 Rangers.

Polston, who was born in Mineral Wells and attended ward and junior high school at Grafrod prior to coming to Ranger several years ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Polston of Route 3, tips the beam at a solid 220 pounds. He's exactly six feet tall.

Reminding All Motorists—

Auto Inspection Law In Effect Next Week

A new motor vehicle inspection law will take effect Wednesday. So far as motorists are concerned, there is nothing to worry about until Sept. 15, when new inspections will begin. But the owners of 3,500 inspection stations must close down operation under the old law at midnight Tuesday and get ready to look at cars and trucks under the new law on Sept. 15.

Before Sept. 15, the Department of Public Safety will pick up the old inspection forms and regulations and issue new ones.

"We're not expecting any bottleneck this time," reported Capt. John Hollyfield of DPS. "We expect to have 3,000 stations licensed for operation on Sept. 15. That should give plenty of time for everybody to get vehicles checked before the deadline of April 15, 1954."

About 3,500,000 vehicles must be inspected for proper brakes, lights, horns, mirrors and windshield wipers. It will no longer be necessary to check steering gear, windshields and exhaust systems.

A shortage of licensed stations caused much commotion when the original inspection law went into effect last year. Its enforcement was postponed until the Legislature met again to advise state police what changes it wanted made.

The new law also does away with the controversial—and never-enforced—provision for every vehicle to pass safety tests before it can be licensed or sold.

Many legislators ran for election last summer on a platform of repealing the law, but the majority chose to modify it.

The revised act is among more than 100 new laws which take effect Wednesday. These were the bills which the Legislature delayed putting into operation until ninety days after its session ended. Most laws apply just as soon as the Governor signs them.

Nearly a dozen of the delayed action bills affect highway travel. These include: Permitting longer (40-foot) buses on Texas roads. Allowing car-and-house trailer combinations up to fifty-five feet long. Providing that vehicles with mobile radio transmitters may obtain special license plates showing their call letters.

Letting cities regulate ambulances as well as other emergency vehicles.

Reducing from twenty-one years to seventeen the minimum age for school bus drivers. A new school bus safety law. This permits flashing warning signals on buses. When the bus stops, it requires approaching vehicles to stop also, but they may pass the bus at a speed not over ten miles an hour.

Requiring operators of trucks caught carrying more than their licensed load to register at the nearest county tax office the weight actually carried, up to the legal limit. This will mean more revenue for the Highway Department as well as some counties.

A new drunk driving law, whose constitutionality is now being questioned by some lawyers. It provides for a mandatory jail sentence of three days to two years and fines of $50 to $500, but authorizing the judge to commute the jail term for six months or longer.

The Texas Turnpike Authority with a Dallas-Fort Worth toll road as its first project, also comes into legal existence next Wednesday.

Gov. Allan Shivers is expected to announce his six appointees to direct the state-wide agency. The three State Highway Commissioners will serve with them.

Another new law permits the Highway Commission to regulate speed and signal lights on highways through towns of less than 2,500 population.

The highway planning bill for Dallas and Tarrant Counties also becomes law Wednesday. It authorizes commissioners to designate routes they plan to develop into main thoroughfares within years. Any building in the proposed 300-foot wide right of way during that period would have to be removed at the owner's expense if the road actually is developed.

The deceased is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. U. L. Lowry of Putnam; three grand children and three great grand children, and three brothers, Jess of Carbon, Sam of Cisco, and Emmett of Loraine.

Funeral services for William Alexander Hale were held at Pleasant Hill on Wednesday afternoon at the Pleasant Hill Baptist Church with Rev. Lee Fields officiating.

Mr. Hale passed away at his home on Tuesday.

CHURCH NEWS

'Christian Perfection' Will Be First Christian Sermon Subject

"Christian Perfection" will be the sermon subject for the 11:00 a.m. Morning Worship and Communion Service at the Ranger First Christian church this Sunday, Rev. A. Lynn Robbins, pastor of the local church, will base his message upon the statement by Martin Luther concerning this important Biblical subject. At the present time many people are puzzled about what the Bible and the church teach concerning this theme, and the sermon will be an attempt to give a clear and understanding meaning that will be of value in everyday living. The service will center around the scriptural weekly observance of the Lord's Supper to which all people are invited regardless of church affiliation.

At the 8:00 p.m. Evening Service the pastor will preach on the topic: "Life Everlasting." This service features a time of informal fellowship singing of the hymns and gospel songs that are dear to the hearts of church people. Holy Communion will also be offered to those unable to attend any of the morning church services in the Community.

The Church School, with classes for all ages, will assemble promptly at 10:00 a.m.; and the Christian Youth Fellowship will meet at the church at 7:30 p.m.

You and your entire family are extended a most cordial welcome to attend these and any of the services at the First Christian church, a small, friendly church serving your community in the spirit of Christian cooperation. Remember to attend the church of your choice this Lord's Day.

Oakley Services Are Announced

Sunday school and Worship Services will be held at the Oakley School house Sunday morning August 23 at 10 a.m., 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The New Hope No. 3 Baptist church has been conducting services at this place on Tuesday evenings for several months, as a mission of their church. The new endeavor will continue to be a mission of the New Hope Church of which Rev. Bill Hogue is pastor.

The new Sunday school and preaching services will be under the direction of Charles Massengee of Ranger, who is a senior in the high school and a ministerial student. He will bring the messages at both worship services.

Well qualified teachers have been secured to teach the classes in Sunday school and a special invitation is extended to the residents of the Oakley and surrounding communities to attend these services.

THIS SUMMER IT'S SALMON in a cool, refreshing salmon salad, loaded with nutrition, with body building protein and with that appetizing appealing salmon flavor. Canned salmon is a treat to use in hot summer weather because it's ready to serve as it comes from the can. The succulent chunks make delicious eating served plain or with lemon or lime juice. Or combine with fresh garden vegetables as in this salad platter.

'Leadership of Good Shepherd' Topic of Rev. Perkins' Sermon

The morning worship at the First Baptist will begin at 9:45 Sunday morning with the entire Sunday School assembled in their respective departments. The entire Sunday School will be asked to join in the city-wide religious census that will begin at 12:45 Sunday.

The eleven o'clock worship hour will find Mr. Bill Bullock directing the music, and bringing the special music. The pastor will deliver the morning sermon, using the theme, "The Leadership of the Great Shepherd." This message will be based on the 23rd Psalm and the 10th chapter of John.

The people of Ranger will find a spiritual need met in the discussion from these two great chapters of the Holy Bible. The need of today is not a new religion, but a new vision of the Christian Religion, speaking in the broad sense of the multitudes who do not worship the Lord Jesus Christ. The Training Union hour begins at 7:00 with each department assembled for their programs and union periods. T. U. has during the month of August shown an increased attendance over the previous three months.

Evening worship hour will find a guest speaker, Chaplain Charlie Hargrave, of the U. S. Army, and a graduate of Ranger high school, Hardin-Simmons University, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. Chaplain Hargrave is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hargrave of Ranger.

The membership is entering in a big way the religious census and the prayer meeting periods that are coming up during the week. The census should be completed in a very short time.

The prayer meetings will be held Aug. 26, 27, and Sept. 1 and 2, at 7:30. Everyone of all faiths are invited to attend the prayer meeting in your area. We want the people of Ranger praying for the revival, and according to the pastor, "when Ranger prays for a revival the power of God will come in a mighty way to provide the spiritual blessings."

JUST as he pulled himself up to the rock-ledge, he heard a sudden rattle, and felt a prick of fangs. Automatically he jerked back his right hand; turning his head, he saw the snake, coiled and menacing.

"Don't waste time by killing the snake," he remembered.

He sat down from the ledge, sucking the bite. At the bottom he saw the hammer lying where he had left it. For a moment he thought he would go on and leave it there. That seemed like panic; so he stooped and picked it up with his left hand, and went on down the rough trail.

With the aid of a twig he twisted his handkerchief into a crude tourniquet.

At the side of the road, in full view, lay the body of a fully clothed man.

Walking on, he felt himself recovering from his panic. As he considered the situation, he was not greatly afraid. He was a young man, vigorous and healthy. Such a bite would hardly be fatal, even though he was by himself and without good means of treatment.

Now he saw the cabin ahead of him. His hand felt stiff. Just before he got to the cabin, he stopped and loosened the tourniquet, as he had read should be done, and let the blood circulate in the hand. Then he tightened it again.

He pushed open the door, dropping the hammer on the floor as he did so.

He looked into the drawer of the table and found his snake-bite outfit, which he should have been carrying with him on this day of all days. Quickly he followed the directions, slicing with the razor blade a neat little cross over the mark of the fangs, applying the rubber suction-pump. Then he lay on his bunk watching the rubber bulb slowly expand, as it sucked the blood out.

Although nobody lived within five miles of his cabin, during the summer hardly a day passed without some fisherman coming by, driving his car up the rocky road or merely following the stream.

Yet, come to think of it, when had he last seen a fisherman? Not in the past week certainly. He could not actually remember whether he had seen one in the two weeks that he had been living by himself in the cabin.

The afternoon wore on. He did not feel like eating anything when it came toward supper time, but he made himself a pot of coffee on the gasoline stove, and drank several cups. He was in much pain, but in spite of the pain and in spite of the coffee he became sleepy.

By the middle of the afternoon he was really frightened. Lying in his bunk, he composed a note, thinking that he should leave a record of what had happened. It would not be very long of course before someone would find him, his parents would certainly telephone Johnson's in a few days now, if they did not hear anything. Scrawling with his left hand, he managed to get the words onto paper. He signed merely Ish. It was too much work to write out his full name of Isherwood Williams, and everybody knew him by his nickname.

When he awoke in the middle of the next morning, he felt a sudden sense of pleasure. He was not choking any more, and his hand felt cooler. The swelling had gone down. On the preceding day he had felt so bad, from whatever other trouble had struck him, that he had had no time to think about the hand. Now both the hand and the illness seemed better, as if the one had stopped the other and they had both receded.

He did not bother to pack up everything. He took his precious notebooks and his camera. At the last moment also, as if by some kind of compulsion, he picked up the hammer, carried it to the car, and threw it in on the floor by his feet. He drove off slowly, using his right hand as little as possible.

At Johnson's everything was quiet. He let the car roll to a stop at the gasoline pump. Nobody came out to fill his tank, but that was not peculiar, because the Johnson pump, like so many in the mountains, was tended on a haphazard basis. He blew the horn, and waited again. After another minute he got out, and went up the rickety steps. He went in, but there was nobody there.

The pump was unlocked, and so he helped himself to gas and with difficulty scrawled a check which he left on the counter along with a note: "Found you all way. Took 10 gal. Ish."

As he drove down the road, he had suddenly a slight sense of uneasiness—the Johnsons gone on a week day, the door unlocked, no fishermen, and (most of all) those men who had run away when they had seen another man lying sick in his bunk in a lonely mountain cabin. By the time he came to Black Creek Powerhouse, he felt normal in his mind again also.

At the powerhouse everything looked as usual. He heard the whir of the big generators, and saw the streams of foaming water still bursting out from beneath. A light was burning on the bridge. He thought to himself, "I suppose nobody bothers ever to turn that out. They have so much electricity that they don't need to economize."

He considered going across the bridge to the powerhouse, just to see somebody and allay the strange fears which he had begun to feel. But the sight and sound of everything running normally were reassuring, signs that after all the powerhouse was working as usual, even though he saw no people. The process was so nearly automatic that only a few men were employed there.

HE came over the rise, and saw Hutsonville, and just as he started to slide down the grade, out of the corner of his eye, he caught sight of something which turned him inwardly cold. Automatically he tramped hard on the brake. He walked back, scarcely believing that he had really seen it. Just there at the side of the road, in full view, lay the body of a fully clothed man. The body must have lain there a day or two at least. He did not look closely or long, obviously the thing to do was to get into Hutsonville, and tell the corner as soon as possible. He hurried back to the car.

Yet as he started again, he had a deep feeling inside him somewhere, strangely, that this was not a case for the corner, and that possibly there would even be no corner. He had seen no one at the Johnson's or at the powerhouse, and he had not met a single car on the road. The only things that seemed real from all the old life had been the light burning at the powerhouse and the quiet hum of the great generators at their work.

Then, as he came to the first houses, he suddenly breathed more easily, for there on a vacant lot a hen was quietly scratching in the dust, a half-dozen chickens beside her, and a little farther on, a black-and-white cat wandered across the sidewalk as unconcernedly as it would have done upon any other June day.

The heat of the afternoon lay heavy on the street, and he saw no one. He came to the business center, stopped the car by the curb, and got out. There was nobody.

He tried the door of a little restaurant. It was open. He went in. "Hi!" he yelled.

Nobody came. Not even an echo spoke back to reassure him.

Christian Science

"Mind" is the subject of today's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon. It will be brought out that our concept of God determines our holiness, health, and happiness.

The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," expresses this idea in these words: "The understanding that the Ego is Mind, and that there is but one Mind of intelligence, begins at once to destroy the errors of mortal sense and to supply the truth of immortal sense. The understanding makes the body harmonious; it makes the nerves, bones, brain, etc., servants, instead of masters. If man is governed by the law of divine Mind, his body is in submission to everlasting Life and Truth and Love" (p. 214).

Paul said of the Word of God that it "is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12).

About 40 per cent of Southwestern Bell's employees work in Texas, so presumably the major share of the total wage increase—when there is a settlement—would go into Texas.

Speaking for Bell operators in Texas, C. L. That would be necessary to determine how much rate increase we would seek, where we would seek them or whether we would ask any increase at all. Each city would be judged on its own figures and merits."

Telephone service was proceeding with supervisors manning the switchboards. Some delay was reported on some calls that involved operators, but the 122 cities with

2. Helps peace of mind.
3. Helps you raise better children.
4. Helps turn enemies into friends.
5. Helps prevent crime, juvenile delinquency, suicide, neuroses and insanity.

The Harvard Center has studied everything from sinners to saints. It is interested in any drive or impulse that unites people and causes them to feel friendly and helpful toward each other instead of hostile or at odds. In four out of five cases both friendship and enmity tend to develop gradually rather than suddenly. One of the Centers' recent experiments indicates that it's not really difficult to turn enemies into friends by having them do small favors for each other.

"But you can't convert people with words," says Professor Sorokin.

kin. "Nag at an offender all day long and you're only wasting your breath. But praise him for what you'd like to see him become and chances are good that he'll work hard to deserve your approval."

The Harvard Center is now concentrating on trying to discover what must be changed in our existing culture, social institutions, and kinds of personality if future wars and catastrophes are to be prevented and a more creative and harmonious social order built. In the past, we have tended to look on love, like the weather, as something we could do little about.

Now, according to the Harvard study, we are finding out that love can be deliberately produced by human beings. "If enough ordinary mortals would simply cut their hateful daily actions in half and double their good deeds," asserts Professor Sorokin, "love and altruism would increase appreciably—and might prove sufficient to prevent the outbreak of another war."

In fact, The Golden Rule, taken out of moth balls and put into everyday practice, is man's great—and perhaps only—hope of survival.
