WELCOME TO SOUTHWESTERN EDITORS

ALL EXPRESS ONE SENTIMENT FAVORABLE TO FORT WORTH.

They are Here Today in Force to View the Packing Houses and Stockyards, to See the City and Enjoy Hospitality for Which Fort Worth Is Noted Far and Near--Personnel.

A Tour of the North Side, Followed by Speech-Making, Feasting, a Trip to and Through the Great Brewery and Trolley Ride.

Between 150 and 200 editors representing leading cities in Texas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory have been in charge of the Fort Worth stock yards in North Fort Worth since 11 o'clock a. m. and as the afternoon was half over the visitors for their with a large number of local guests, were seated in the grand, short distance north of the temporary exchange building at an open-air banquet.

The stock yards management was somewhat disappointed in the late arrival of the visitors. Several of the railroads reported late trains, and at the noon hour, the editors were still arriving at the North Fort Worth plant.

An incident to the Northern Texas Territory company's plant served also to delay the reception which had been scheduled for as early as 10 o'clock a. m. At 11:30 o'clock 100 or more editors under the guidance of Manager Walters of Swift & Co. and Architect Clark and Traffic Manager Collett of Armour & Co. began a tour of the two big plants in the course of construction. Every detail was exhibited and explained. At 1 p. m. the party was escorted to the exchange building and 45 minutes later, seated in the grove before a meal of chicken, barbecue meat, cold dishes, salads and delicacies.

Mayor T. J. Powell spoke of the fact that he had been at the head of one of the tables as toastmaster, and when the time for speaking arrived he introduced Mayor T. J. Powell who, he said, had been his pursuit of wealth as a newspaper reporter.

Mayor Powell expressed his appreciation of the privilege of being allowed to address the editors and began by saying that the occasion which brought them here, as guests of the Fort Worth Stock Yards company was one of the most important events in the gradual and natural development which had brought the great southwestern country from a sparsely settled frontier to a densely populated cosmopolitan section, blessed with an unrivaled wealth of raw material and vibrant with industrial and commercial energy.

He said that in looking backward over the history of Fort Worth he could see no agency that had helped so much as the newspaper and news paper men. They had been the pioneers in every movement tending to unite men and money to this section. He recalled the old Fort Worth Gazette under the management of Capt. B. B. Padlock and the Lumbered Walter L. Malone, and finally referred to Mr. Malone's efforts in behalf of the great southwest, stating he had written with the pen of prophecy and expressed the belief that the map had not lived to see the consummation of one of his great dreams--the erection of the stock yards and packing houses in Fort Worth.

Mr. Powell spoke of the unselfish work of all newspaper men who, he said, had dedicated years of labor for the benefit of this section. He took up the early history of Fort Worth and showed how, step by step, the big-hearted, big-brained men of the section, some of whom had passed to the other side, had laid foundation for commercial greatness of the southwestern country to be located here, stating that when the time came for the erection of the packing houses the question of their location had already been settled by the big-brained and generous citizenship of Fort Worth. The speaker also called attention to the fact that the citizens of Fort Worth were not bound by local lines, but had labored for the development of the entire section, citing the fact that the first deep water convention calling for a port on the Texas coast was the result of a few of the big-brained and big-hearted men of the town who foresaw that in order the great southwest might reach its ultimate supremacy it was necessary for a Texas port through which its commerce could find an exit over the high seas to countries of the world.

In conclusion Mayor Powell expressed the hope that an enlightened public sentiment would sustain the owners of the stock yards and packing houses and that it was the duty of each citizen of this great section to deal leniently and fairly with these great enterprises which mean so much to all material interests in the country tributary to their location and further expressed the hope that wisdom should control any legislation referring to those great enterprises and others that should follow in their wake.

Farmer Shaw Heard From.

After another dish at the chicken, and a little more of the "meat," Mr. Canty called attention to the editors who are always looking for the maximum rate and introduced Farmer "Bill" Shaw, editor of the Texas Farmer, but on this occasion one of the special staff of writers for Frank Holland's Farm and Ranch. Farmer Shaw, as a member of the last house of representatives introduced what has since been known in history as the maximum rate bill, hence the reference.

Farmer Shaw said he had come to Fort Worth to see where the panther had laid down, and after observing it could appreciate the animal's spirit.

"Anybody who goes against Fort Worth," said he, "must sooner or later lay flat down."

As against Fort Worth and Dallas, the speaker said, he was from Dallas. The two towns were united in one great commercial energy to upland North Texas, and instead of pulling apart, they were in the harness together.

"And I want to say," he continued, "that anybody who is found knocking either town, no matter where he be, it is the duty of every citizen of either place to call him down."

A Prophecy from Dallas.

After Farmer Shaw, Mr. Canty introduced Colonel H. C. Holloway, whose subject was, "The Past, Present and Future of Fort Worth." The toast master said the speaker was the man who had twisted the tail of the panther when the animal laid down. Colonel Holloway gave a bird's eye view of Fort Worth, told of the past and hopes of the future, and drew a picture of what the coming generation could expect of it.

Judge Fred Tucker of Dallas was introduced and took for his subject, "The Packing Houses in North Fort Worth." He gave a prophecy that was loudly applauded when he said: "In three years the packing industries of Fort Worth will rival those of St. Louis and Chicago."

Everything, the speaker said, was big in Texas, and especially the hogs which are larger here than anywhere else.

"The largest I ever saw in Texas," he declared, "was six feet two in his sow."

State Senator Turney of El Paso, Hon. Marion Sansom of Alvarado, and State Senator R. N. Stratford, who had been invited to make addresses were unavoidably absent.

To Handley and the Brewery

After the banquet is over at the works, the visitors will be taken for a walk to Handley and the Brewery, guests of the North Texas Traction company. Returning they inspect the works, guests of the Fort Worth Brewing association.

the northern markets, but now they will be shipped to Fort Worth largely. The distance is so short that but a few hours will be required, and the matter of shrinkage alone will be a great factor in giving the preference to this market.

THEY ALL TALK FOR FT. WORTH

It was a jolly party of veterans that Col. Frank Holland moving spirit of the Texas Farm and Ranch, brought over from Dallas this morning, and had each of them labeled with badges announcing they were associated editors of his great household journal, Colonel Holland was once mayor of Trinity town; has not forgotten how to entertain whether it be during the Dallas fair, or at a meeting of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association. Last March when the Barons of the Plains were in possession of Fort Worth, Colonel Holland won extended applause by appearing on Main street with his staff in an automobile. This time he came in a special car with an increased staff, some of whom would have rivaled the lamented Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas as newspaper writers. The party arrived early this morning on the Texas and Pacific and were entertained at breakfast at the Worth. Among them besides Colonel Holland, were: M. M. Crane, former attorney general of Texas; O. P. Bowser, formerly state senator from Dallas, and leading industrial worker, Judge Fred Tucker, J. W. Maxwell, general superintendent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas of Texas; E. P. Turner, general passenger agent for the Texas and Pacific; Col. "Bill" Shaw, editor of the Texas Farmer, and ex-member of the last house of representatives; C. W. Andrews, Cyrus W. Strain of the Frisco system, C. H. Mullen, A. Cotuna, W. O. Connell, Mark Lowry, W. A. Branch, J. P. Tufts and Kirk Hall.

E. E. M. Cochran, editorial writer for the Terrell, Tex. Transcript, and once attached to the Fort Worth press, was one of the morning's arrivals. Mr. Cochran says his section of the country, while in Dallas territory, hears frequent eulogies on Fort Worth and the packing house and stock yards improvement. Already the farmers in that portion of Texas are talking of the hog industry, and more attention is being paid to what was the agricultural slogan some years ago--"Hog and Hominy."

J. F. Copeland, editor and publisher of the Comanche, I. T. News, one of the leading territory papers, was a late arrival. He came all the way to Fort Worth to see the packing houses and note the magnitude of the North Fort Worth improvement.

"We have heard a great deal about Fort Worth since the packing houses came and the stock yards were rebuilt," said he to the Telegram, "and I can safely predict that the enterprises will receive much attention from the Indian Territory country. Much interest has been manifested in the scheme to plant hogs and while our crop has always been sent to Fort Worth it will be much larger in the next few years. We border on the Comanche country of Oklahoma where people are free in their land possessions and wise to the needs of this market. Cattle and mutton have always gone to the northern markets. Fort Worth, however, is now a claimant for much of the range and pen yield."

L. B. Comer, vice president and superintendent of the Frisco system was in the middle of the bunch, and had much to say about his side line, the Comanche Chief, and "planting Hogs."

Joe H. Simpson, formerly of the Corsicana Morning Times, but now of Tucson, Ariz., the present home of Colonel O'Brien Moore, once a reporter in Fort Worth, and later Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Republic, arrived from Houston this morning. Recently Mr. Simpson has been connected with the Star of Tucson, and is now on his way back to that section.

"Fort Worth and the packing houses," said he to the Telegram, "can rely upon getting anything Arizona does not change. Though we are hundreds of miles away from this point, so are we hundreds of miles away from any other stock point, and recent railroad facilities connecting the whole of Southern Arizona with El Paso, if anything, gives this place a shade of advantage. There are places in the territory where 'hogs could be planted' with profit. While the country runs largely to mining those who control ranges are not idle in using it for anything that will increase trade and revenue."

J. A. Mansell, editor of the Strawn News, and manager of the Southwestern Publishers' syndicate, said: "The immense packing plants of Armour and Swift will not only result in making Fort Worth the leading cat-

The market of the southwest, but will add a stimulus to the raising of fat cattle all over the territory tributary to this market. The Strawn country has now had copious rains which have made good grass crops and plenty of stock water and forage crops are plentiful, which will make the cattle interest highly prosperous, and the establishment of the packing plants at Fort Worth will enable the stockmen to make quick shipments to a near market and get the benefit of freight and shrinkage incurred on shipments to St. Louis or Kansas City.

AS IT IS VIEWED IN GAINESVILLE

The Signal Editor Says the Packing Houses one of the Greatest Industries of Texas--Stock Will Hereafter to Come Here

H. D. Cadwell of the Gainesville Signal remarked that the Stock Yards at Fort Worth and the oil development at Beaumont were the two great enterprises of Texas towards which the eyes of the country are directed, and that while the Beaumont business would spread over a wider influence, perhaps, the packing houses would be of greater direct benefit to the state at large and contiguous territories. "It is a great incentive to hog raising," he said. "In our section a great many have gone into the industry. The failure of the corn crop for the past two seasons has given it a hard blow, however, for many who had begun to raise hogs are selling the young stock because they haven't the corn to feed them. "The oil wells in Gainesville are feeding thousands of cattle every year. Heretofore they have been shipped to

"STAY-AT-HOME" GRAHAM

By DAVID LOWRY
Copyright, 1901, by David Lowry

Dan Graham was the most unhappy young man in Hamilton county. If the bald fact had been announced in as many words, nobody would have questioned the absolute correctness of the statement.

Dolly Worth had taken particular pains to manifest her indifference concerning Dan's actions, his sayings, his likes or dislikes—his future. Nothing that affected Dan Graham could in the slightest manner concern Dolly Worth. And everybody thought that they were engaged!

Finally, when speculation seemed to be exhausted, somebody conceived the idea that the reason why these two had parted was not so much of a mystery after all.

Inside of a week everybody knew that Dolly had discarded her lover because he was a "stay at home." When the Fairview guards marched away to fight in Cuba, among all the enthusiastic beauties who waved their handkerchiefs after the swiftly receding train none was more prominent than Dolly Worth.

Although nobody could summon sufficient courage to inform Dan Graham that people referred to him as a "stay at home," he knew the truth as well as if it had been cried from every housetop. For a time his mother feared that he was in danger of impressions that might prove lasting—impressions which, if permitted to become permanent, would mar his life. But some underlying force, some inbred strength, asserted itself speedily. Dan's demeanor was again the agreeable front presented to all the world, and a very winning demeanor it was.

The air palpitated with war's alarms. People talked of nothing but the war until one day a garrulous old man contrived between his daily doze to inform Dan that he at least did not find any fault with him for not going to the war. That was six or eight months after Dolly Worth had coolly parted from him on the most public thoroughfare in Fairview.

The next day a calamity overtook Fairview. The valley sank in waters gathered in a great storm. Its fields were swept; fresh gleaned harvests were lost; the fences for miles crumbled into the rising waters like the fringe of a doll's dress in a blaze, leaving the valley desolate. The muddy waters pressed through crevices and crannies, filling every cellar in Fairview; then they rose to the first and second floors. A general hegrira was inevitable. Furniture was pulled and hauled and lifted by main strength from floor to floor. Only such articles were left floating as might serve for precarious footing for the drowning rats.

Everybody was wet, dirty, soggy and cold. Night was coming on rapidly when a motley crowd gathered around the immense fire the boys had kindled on the lot in front of the postoffice where the farmers hitched their horses when the flood was not.

Suddenly somebody mentioned old Gabe Somers. Old Gabe was the oldest inhabitant of Fairview. One of Gabe's uncles was captured by the Indians and tortured to death on the island opposite the town. Gabe lived alone in a cabin isolated from his fellows, a rickety affair at best, so old that nobody was able to recall when it was erected.

old Gabe Somers. And they say he's sure to drown." A cold hand was laid upon the postmaster's. He turned around to confront Dolly Worth.

"Can't you help—can't you men do anything? Must he—must they both drown and you standing here looking on?" "There's no boat handy. There's no time to do anything. Gabe's cabin's in the current now."

A supple figure shot away from the crowd, sped swiftly along the shore. Far down, near the breakwater, which jutted out a considerable distance into the river, lay some boats—skiffs that were regarded as worthless, small flats, waterlogged now, at planks with cleats nailed across them by the boys, who used them when hunting crabs.

The swelling crowd on the shore had barely sufficient light now to discern Dan Graham jamming his skiff against Gabe's cabin. Some cried that they saw old Gabe; then darkness swallowed cabin and skiff. The fate of the rescuer and the man for whom he risked his life was in the hands of the Almighty.

If Dan succeeded, he might manage to head his skiff in above the breakwater. It was one chance in a thousand, one in a million. The people on the shore ran headlong toward the breakwater. With the darkness of night settling around him Dan Graham gathered up his strength for one supreme effort.

Old Gabe's cabin was stronger than anybody could have credited. The framework held together amazingly. The floor crumbled and floated away beneath his feet, but the sinews of age still enabled Gabe to grasp with a drowning man's clutch the frame of the window.

In vain Dan urged him to draw himself up and drop into the bow of the skiff. Afterward Gabe told how, seeing the old man either could not or would not loosen his grasp on the window sill, Dan dropped his oars, reached forward and lifted old Gabe by main strength out of the window and deposited him in the bottom of the skiff.

At that moment a tree trunk struck the skiff. The jar almost knocked Dan into the river. He recovered his balance, however, and turned the boat's head shoreward. And now it was a pull for life. The blackness of a cloudy night enveloped him. His sole guide was the light on the lot in front of the postoffice. And how could he gauge distance by that? He might be above, opposite or far below the breakwater. Was he being help way out in the river? Everything depended upon his distance from the shore.

He felt as if every moment must be his last effort. His temples throbbled. His muscles, now so rigid, might relax any moment. Human endurance could not last much longer. Then a voice shouted his name. "Dan! Dan!"

"He dared not answer if he could. All his breath was required to make the breakwater. "Ho-oo-oo, Dan! This way. I'm here—Dolly! Dan!"

Mercury and Potash

ONLY SERVE AS A MASK FOR CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

They hide its repulsive form, and this serpent disease, stupefied by these drugs, lies dormant until the effects have worn off or treatment is discontinued, when it breaks down the mask and becomes as full of life and venom as ever. Mercury and Potash may dry up the sores and eruptions, but at the same time they drive the poison back into the blood and system, where it festers upon the tender tissues, membranes and nerves, finally breaking out in most disgusting sores and even destroying the flesh and bones.

Mercury and Potash cannot accomplish a radical and permanent cure. They have a palliative but not curative effect upon this treacherous snake-like disease. These drugs produce mercurial Rheumatism, destroy the teeth and corrode the membranes of the stomach and bowels, causing indigestion and dyspepsia, nervousness and general derangement of the system.

S. S. S. is a Specific for Contagious Blood Poison, and the only antidote for the peculiar virus that spreads so quickly throughout the system, corrupting the blood and infecting every organ and fibre of the body.

S. S. S. destroys the serpent, and eliminates every atom of poison from the blood, it makes a thorough and radical cure of the disease, and at the same time builds up the general health. S. S. S. contains no minerals of any kind, but is a purely vegetable remedy and we offer $1,000 for proof to the contrary.

Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise without charge. Our home treatment book will be sent free to all who desire it.

WILL MAKE FT. WORTH A CENTER

V. A. Garrison of Thurber Says the Town Will Become an Important Point in the Southwest—Texas Is Benefited nothing else in the history of the state and the greatest trouble in my opinion will be that the demand for hogs and cattle, the former especially, will far exceed the supply. One must see the vastness of these great industries to realize in any measure their extent and the great good that must inevitably result from these enterprises, not only the stock raiser, but the farmer—the man who furnishes the feed for the animals slaughtered—will be immeasurably benefited. These combined industries are destined to make Fort Worth the real business center of Texas and the southwest."

REVIEWS OF AN EAST TEXAN

The Packing Houses Mean Millions of Dollars for Texas Farmers
G. L. Higgins, editor of the Times-Star of Terrell, thus expresses his impressions: "We of East Texas, have not been able to conceive the greatness of the packeries until our visit here today. Fort Worth has taken the initiatory step which will lead, in our opinion, to making her the greatest city in Texas, and will add to the wealth of the state at large. Even in the eastern portion of the state the farmer begins to realize that he will have a market for his stock and that that market will be a home market. It means millions of dollars to Texas which has in the past been carried to the east. And what it means to Fort Worth can hardly be realized."

REV. SID WILLIAMS HAS INVADDED SATAN'S REALM

Pitched Tent Near Sublett and Opened up His Batteries on Sinner and Backslider—Scheduled for Three Weeks

Quite a number of Fort Worth admirers of Rev. Sid Williams went out to Rehoboth school house yesterday to hear the evangelist's attack on Satan. Mr. Williams has pitched his tent here and yesterday and last night preached to a crowd which overflowed the tent's capacity. There were ten conversions as a result of the first day's engagement and Sid announced that to be only a mild starter. He sent word for all his Fort Worth friends to come out and camp with him, and urged that they bring their sinner friends, for he wanted to do them good.

FLOOD NEWS

The Waters in Texas Have Not Yet Gone Down

THE FLOODED SECTION

SOUTHERN AND SOUTHEASTERN PARTS OF STATE COULD STILL FLOAT NOAH'S ARK.

DAMAGE DONE TO COTTON

Where Fields Have Been Overflowed the Plant is Dying—At Some Points Two-thirds of the Land is Still Inundated

(Special to the Telegram.)
Navasota, Tex., Aug. 4.—The Brazos river has reached a standstill here. The steady rise has covered 1000 acres more of land, and planters who estimated that only about one-half of the bottom land would be covered now say that at least two-thirds of the bottom cotton will be killed. The people had not forgotten the overflows of 1899 and 1900, and when the water first began to reach the danger point all stock was removed to higher ground.

Loss About Lyons Great.

Lyons, Tex., Aug. 4.—The flood waters of the Brazos bottom near here are receding. The area of crops totally destroyed is estimated at about 20,000 acres, over a distance of ten miles up the river from the mouth of the Yegua. Capt. Adams, who has a farm in the bottom, thinks $200,000 a fair estimate of the losses of farmers located within the above area.

A cloudburst took place at Caldwell Friday, resulting in an unparalleled downpour of rain, the damage of which has not been ascertained yet. There is much murmuring among the tenants here on account of the absence of the absolute necessities of life in their homes.

The Damage About Hearne.

Hearne, Tex., Aug. 4.—In a conversation with Messrs. C. G. Wood and L. W. Carr, who own several large plantations in the Brazos bottoms adjacent to Hearne, as to the damage done by the recent high water, they place the damage done to cotton alone at 33 1-3 per cent and on many plantations the corn is a total loss.

Inundated Cotton Dying

Bryan, Tex., Aug. 4.—Reports from the flood district in the Brazos bottom, from which the water has receded, show that the cotton which was entirely submerged is turning black and dying. That which was partly under water is turning black and the bolls are rotting as high up as they were covered by the water. The top of the plant looks very well, but there is little or nothing on it at present.

Overflow in Washington County.

Brenham, Tex., Aug. 4.—The overflow in Washington county has grown much worse during the last twenty-four hours. The Yegua continues to rise and the Brazos river also below the point where the Yegua empties into it. All the farms below this point are now six feet under water.

Guadalupe High at Victoria.

Victoria, Tex., Aug. 4.—The Guadalupe has risen seventeen feet in all, lacking just four and a half feet of the high mark reached in April, 1900. It has crept out of its banks in many places below here, and a number of farms are under water. No information has been received from the farms below town.

Hot Sun Kills Boll Worms.

Hillsboro, Tex., Aug. 4.—Farmers report that the hot weather of the last four days has caused the bollworms to let up and that cotton stalks are covered with squares. They think if the fair weather continues there will be a fine crop of cotton yet, though it will be a little late in opening.

Trains Cannot Cross.

Brenham, Tex., Aug. 4.—The flood situation became so serious between Hempstead and the river that the east-bound passenger train on the Central was ordered stopped at Chappel Hill and train service over the bottom for the present declared off.

Colorado Falling at Smithville.

Smithville, Tex., Aug. 4.—There is still a rise of fifteen feet in the Colorado river at this point, but it is falling fast, and the damage to bottoms was less than expected.

GRAVE DIGGERS ON A STRIKE

People Cannot Even Die Now in Chicago Without Permission

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The grave diggers are the latest of the wage earners of Chicago to go out on a strike, and as a result Concordia cemetery is closed. At the entrance to the burial ground, the superintendent has posted a notice which reads: "There will be no more burials at the Concordia cemetery until further notice."

The 25 grave diggers employed at the cemetery are on a strike for higher wages and have succeeded in preventing other laborers from taking their places. Three funeral processions which arrived at the cemetery gates yesterday were turned back because of the strike. It is stated that similar strikes will be inaugurated at the two other cemeteries.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED AT SEA

The new system of wireless telegraphy renders possible the realization of the prediction that newspapers would be published on the ocean liners. They could not, however, be as much up-to-date or effective as those published on land. In this respect they would differ widely from the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, because it has been proven to be just as effective on sea as on land. We would therefore urge everyone contemplating an ocean trip to take a supply with them. It is invaluable as a tonic and preventive of sea-sickness. Those who remain on land should always keep a bottle of it in the house to cure heartburn, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation and malaria. Don't fail to try it.

ANOTHER SERIES OF FRAUDS

A Long Continued Systematic Scheme to Beat the Tariff

New York, Aug. 4.—According to rumors, custom house officials have discovered another series of frauds, says the World. It is said by wholesale dealers in chinaware that a certain firm known throughout the country as importers of fine Dresden and other china wares has been caught in a long continued systematic scheme to defraud the government of its proper tariffs. Government officials are said to be investigating the case in Europe.

FOR BETTER ROADS IN STATE OF TEXAS

A Convention Called to Meet at Dallas, September 30, and Devise Means for the Improvement of the Highways

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Dallas, Aug. 4.—The Commercial club of Dallas and the county commissioners of Dallas county have taken the initiatory step toward better roads in the state. The following appeal has been sent out:

"The question of good public highways is one of transcendental importance to the agricultural and commercial interests of Texas. In rainy weather, when the farmer can not work the soil he could, with good roads, do his marketing, while as it is now, he is imprisoned by impassable highways. To remedy this evil, entailing unknown loss to Texas, the Dallas Commercial club and the county commissioners of Dallas county deem it advisable to hold a good roads convention in Dallas to which the governor of the state, members of both branches of the legislature, county judges and commissioners and all other persons interested in good public highways be and are hereby invited, said convention to be held, Sept. 30, next, when because of the state fair, special rates can be obtained from points anywhere in Texas.

"Hon. James Wilson, secretary of the United States department of agriculture, who takes a very deep interest in good highways, manufacturers of road machinery and others throughout the country, especially interested in the matter of good roads, will be invited to be present, and give the public the benefit of the information.

"The press throughout the state is respectfully requested to publish this call and use its influence to make it effective."

COLONEL FERRIS IS DEAD

He Was the Man Who First Used Petroleum as an Illuminant

New York, Aug. 4.—Col. Andrew Curtis Ferris of Hackensack, N. J., who is credited with having introduced petroleum as an illuminant, is dead at the age of 84.

Storm in Iowa.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Aug. 4.—A severe storm which passed over southern Iowa Sunday did considerable damage to crops in the eastern part of Pottawatomie and Western Cass counties. A strip of country several miles wide was visited by hail and the corn crop was entirely ruined.

At Avoca lightning struck an elevator belonging to the Des Moines Elevator company, and it was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $50,000 on the building and the grain that it contained.

ATTACK FROM AMBUSH

GENERAL GOBIN HAS DECIDED ON STERN MEASURES TO STOP THE ASSAULTS

DRAGGED FROM THEIR CARS

Great Disorder on Sunday Along the Lines of the Camden Interstate Railway in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia

Shenandoah, Aug. 4.—The Eighth regiment had another call to arms last night. The pickets fired at several prowlers seen near the camp and fleeing when halted. They arrested several men who took part in the riots of last week. The funeral of Joseph Beddall who was killed in last week's disorder took place today. Everything is quiet in this region today.

DISORDER CAUSED BY STRIKE

The Governor of West Virginia Has Been Appealed to for Troops

(Special to the Telegram.)

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 4.—There was general disorder Sunday throughout Huntington, Central City and other towns through which the lines of the Camden Interstate railway run, as a result of the general strike order of motormen and conductors, which was to have taken effect Sunday. But few of the motormen and conductors in West Virginia and Kentucky obeyed the order, but every man quit work along the line in towns on the Ohio side of the river.

The lines here were blockaded by the friends of union labor, and the city authorities seemed powerless, or rather made no effort, to preserve order. The sheriff also refused to act, and the company officials have appealed to Gov. White for protection.

Motormen, conductors and passengers were dragged from cars, and the disorder seems on the increase, but cars are still running with non-union labor on this side of the Ohio river.

The Strike in Ohio.

Ironton, O., Aug. 4.—The strike of the employees of the Camden Interstate Electric railway Sunday almost completely tied up the lines from Guyandotte, W. Va., to Hanging Rock, O., and intermediate points.

In seven hours all the non-union men were driven from the cars in this city by violence. Crowds gathered at street intersections hurling fruit, eggs and other missiles at motormen and conductors.

James Sanders, a union man who refused to quit, was taken from his car and dragged towards the Ohio river. On promise not to resume his car he was escorted in a roundabout way to escape the crowds. The conductor on the same car and linemen were taken home in cabs to escape the mobs.

Cars were held up all over the city until noon, when traffic was suspended. The non-union men were afraid to run through the crowds at Colletsburg and Ashland, Ky., and other points on the Kentucky and West Virginia side of the Ohio river.

The Ironton strikers ran cabs and secured more passengers than the street cars, women who chose the ancient mode of conveyance in preference to street cars being cheered by the crowds.

Guards Attacked from Ambush.

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 4.—The entire Eighth regiment was called to arms during Saturday night as a result of three attacks made by a band of men in ambush, who threw stones at the troops now in camp on the plateau outside the town.

These attacks are becoming so frequent that Brigadier General Gobin has decided to adopt stern measures to end them. Sunday night a double guard supplied with ball cartridges surrounded the camp and the sentries had been instructed that if Saturday night's stone throwing was repeated that they must shoot to kill and investigate afterwards.

One of the attacking party, a Lithuanian named William Stoppnitz, is under arrest and is confined in the guard tent. The provost marshal is on the trail of others. It is not known how many were in the crowd, but the officers of the Eighth regiment believe the number to have been more than a dozen.

CHARGED WITH KIDNAPING

A Gang of Gypsies in Jail in Indiana for Child Stealing

Marion, Ind., Aug. 4.—Several members of a band of gypsies are imprisoned in the county jail here, charged with child stealing. The three year old daughter of Henry Herman, a glass manufacturer was stolen yesterday from the home of her grandparents, where her parents had left her while they were enjoying an outing. Gypsies driving past the house kidnaped the child and drove south with her. In South Marion they stopped at a saloon, where the little girl was recognized by Mr. Wilson, a friend of her parents. Mr. Wilson rescued the child from her captors and took her to his own home. Later the gypsies were pursued and arrested.

Charged With Lynching.

Baltimore, Aug. 4.—Harry Nipple was arrested in Frederick upon information furnished by the sheriff of Loudoun county, Virginia, charging him with being implicated in the lynching of Craven at Leesburg, Va., on Thursday night. Nipple was taken before Justice Wood, but was remanded to jail for a further hearing, which, at the request of the Virginia authorities, was postponed. Nipple, it is charged, assisted the mob and was seen wielding one of the sledge hammers which the door of the Craven was smashed in with.

Excursion Train Wrecked.

Cadillac, Mich., Aug. 4.—An excursion train on the Ann Arbor railway, made up of eleven coaches and carrying 700 people was wrecked six miles north of this place Sunday. Only one person was killed, but about a dozen persons were injured, some seriously.

Killing at Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs, Aug. 4.—R. R. Taylor, a pioneer and proprietor of a bookstore here, shot and killed Frank L. Shader a railroad brakeman. Taylor surrendered, but aside from declaring that his act was justified, refused to talk. Shader was his brother-in-law.

Fire in a Kentucky Town.

Lancaster, Ky., Aug. 4.—The Hotel Garrard, the opera-house, W. A. Arnold's livery stable, with nine horses and twelve vehicles; Burnett & Co's shoe and clothing establishment, and F. P. Brishie's drug store, were burned here Sunday. The loss is about $50,000; insurance, $20,000.

Florence, Colo., Aug. 4.—Samuel Ralndall, a cattleman of this town, while on the prairie south of Granada, Colo., found the body of a Mexican sheep herder, who had been murdered. His heart had been cut out and thrust into his mouth. The man's herd of sheep had been scattered. The crime is thought to have been due to the trouble between sheep and cattle owners.

Intense Heat in Kansas.

Kansas City, Aug. 4.—Intense heat prevailed in this part of the southwest Sunday, the temperature averaging near the 100 point, with hot winds in parts of Kansas that caused more or less damage to crops.

At Wellington, Kan., the temperature reached 107 degrees, with 104 at Florence. In Kansas City it was 95, with one prostration reported.

Bread Pool at Mexican Capital.

City of Mexico, Aug. 4.—There is much popular indignation here over the formation of a pool among the bakers of this city to raise the price of bread. This trade is in the hands of half a dozen rich Spaniards from old Spain who have signed an agreement to charge prices mutually agreed on and not in any way to enter into competition as they have done hitherto. The agreement is for two years.

Four Killed in a Wreck.

Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A head on collision between milk trains on the Ontario and Western railroad at Hortons Sunday resulted in the death of four persons, the wrecking of two engines and the ditching of several cars. The dead: Andy Ouel, Norwich, engineer; Robert Reese, this city, fireman; Michael Tully, this city, train man; F. E. Monroe, this city, train man.

Cattle Rustler Killed.

Billings, Mont., Aug. 4.—J. W. Perry, known throughout the eastern Montana range as "Black Perry," a notorious cattle rustler, was shot and killed by James Hayne, foreman of the Hysham Cattle company at Sanders station Saturday. Hayne, who is one of the best known stockmen in the state gave himself up.

Bandit Captured and Drowned.

Manila, Aug. 4.—Pablo Mauras, a bandit who had terrorized the island of Romblon for the past ten years was captured by the native constabulary on the neighboring island of Sibutan. With his arms bound, he was placed in a boat to be conveyed to Romblon, but sprang overboard, in a dash for liberty, and drowned.

WELCOME TO THE EDITORS

Through the generosity of the stock yards company and of other citizens of Fort Worth there is today assembled in the city of Fort Worth a representative body of men, composed of editors and publishers of the great Southwest, which includes not only Texas, but Oklahoma and Indian Territories as well.

The people of Fort Worth value the good opinion of the gentlemen of the country press. They realize the fact that the country press is nearer the people than any other agency.

The serious phase of board of trade gambling is its demoralizing effect upon society. This sudden making and losing of money unsettles not only values but men. It makes steady-going men discontented with their lot in life, and thus is the Chicago juggernaut furnished with its willing victims.

The corrupt use of money to influence legislation is the curse of municipal government in America. It has reached the point in nearly every city in the land that an honest, conscientious, able man hesitates to serve in the capacity of alderman or councilman because of the stigma that goes with the job.

The rattlesnake is honorable and courageous, though one could wish him a little less testy and a little more amiable. Yet even as he is, low-browed and fierce, this creeping serpent is immeasurably superior in the moral scale to the babbling, uneducated, loveless, hypocritical wasps of society.

Notwithstanding the attempt to have a third party convention at Fort Worth soon, everybody knows that the Pop party of Texas has been bottled up too tightly to make a respectable fig.—San Antonio Express.

Ed Farr of Albuquerque, N. M., purchased several carloads of fat cattle at the Fort Worth stock yards for his home market. Mr. Farr states that recent rains have helped New Mexico ranges, and when the Armour and Swift packing plants get under way New Mexico cattlemen will ship their marketable cattle to Fort Worth.—Ranger Record.

John W. Adams, city passenger and ticket agent of the Cotton Belt at Fort Worth, was unanimously re-elected commander of the Texas division, Sons of Confederate Veterans. Mr. Adams has filled out the unexpired term of Commander Stone, elected national commander, and so ably and faithfully he discharged the duties of the office that all wanted to see him in the place for next year.

Go, Get a Record Yourself The Fort Worth Mail-Telegram has lopped off a part of its head—the hyphen. Not much improvement. Its past record still hangs to it.—Mineral Wells Index.

Mean Waco, Do You Not? (Denison Herald) Texas Republicans at Fort Worth yesterday endorsed the administration of President Roosevelt and declared for his renomination. This must have caused a shiver to run down the spinal column of the Honorable John Grant, who wrote an attack on the President because he deposed the marshal of the Eastern district of Texas.

Hats Off to the Rattlesnake The rattlesnake is a gentleman. He never strikes without fair warning.

Now Laugh, Blank You Will the Irrepressible Republicans of Texas ever turn out of the box, whatever that means, they made a bad break. They called their state convention to meet in the village of Fort Worth, when Austin, a wide-awake, progressive city, was just as handy.

The methods of the copperhead (a variety of rattlesnake) sound, bring the bluish of shame to the face of the sneaking social bushwhacker and assassin of character of today.

Senator Culberson will be banqueted at Dallas on Wednesday. James Surrall of Waco, aged 13, was killed by a fall from his pony.

A state good roads convention will be held in Dallas September 30. Thomas Bollings, aged 56, jumped out of a window at Sealy hospital, Galveston, and was killed.

C. W. Gray, aged 77, killed his daughter, Mrs. Earl Johnson, and then himself near Granger, while demented. Death record: Mrs. I. T. Bullock, Roby; Miss Lena Ullrich, 22, San Antonio; Wm Livingston, aged 82, Goldthwaite.

Borlma lost the $50,000 match race Saturday by reason of an accident. Clarence H. Mackay has ordered his trainer, Charles F. Hill, to sell his racing stable.

Warren Johnson and Joseph Bordges of Salina, Cal., were fatally shot by a woman after a quarrel. Alonzo Scarrberry and Faris Castle were struck by lightning and instantly killed during a storm at Inez, Ky.

During a quarrel near Barboursville, Ky., Asa Messer shot and killed William Simpson. Messer was arrested. Dewey Browne, a real estate man, accidentally shot and killed Marion Hart at their camp on Mad creek, near Steamboat Springs, Col.

At Louisville, while in a fit of temporary insanity, D. P. Dye shot and fatally wounded his 11-year-old son and then killed himself. Max Bean of De Witt, Ill., aged 22 years, who prided himself on his good looks, committed suicide by shooting himself with a rifle. He suffered an attack of smallpox last winter, which left a number of pits in his face. Bean brooded over the circumstance and decided that life with a pitted face was unbearable, and left a note to this effect.

Indian and Oklahoma Territories Borers are damaging Waukomis orchards. Prospectors are boring for oil near Mangum. An old soldiers' reunion will be held at Cushing, August 21, 22 and 23. Tahlequah has a bow and arrow club, and Isaac Greece is its champion bowman.

Mrs. Helen M. Nickell died near Salem, Kiowa county, last week. She was 93 years old. A drill outfit from Wagoner, I. T., will be set up at Cushing and explorations made for oil. Judge B. T. Hainer and Mrs. Hainer have gone to Colorado Springs to remain several weeks. G. S. Bailey of Hobart has been elected chairman of the Kiowa county Republican committee.

The whole office force of the Hobart News-Republican is in bed. Somebody "pied" two pages of the "forms." Valuable deposits of shale, suitable for a deep red brick and a light brown brick have been uncovered near Cushing. The redistricting board says that in its deliberations "d. c." or "s. e. z." stand for "due consideration" or something equally as good. Mountain View merchants gave ten beavers to the Kiowa Indians, who ate everything except the bones at two sittings, and then called for more.

A Waukomis buyer caused a stampede in the local wheat market by paying $1 a bushel for a wagon load. He made a mistake in writing his check. Alfalfa growers in Western Beaver county are cutting their second crop. Last year farmers made four cuttings. Something besides vega grass grows in Beaver. J. W. Pewthers showed the editor of the Mountain View Progress a bunch of grapes on which were 77 fine grapes. The editor ate the bunch in one minute and 17 seconds.

The owners of the Norman sanitarium will build a new kitchen in accordance with the report of the committee of physicians who lately inspected the institution. H. E. Stranahan, clerk of Lincoln county, made a gift to the county of his fees for preparing the 1901 tax rolls. Heretofore the county has paid $500 for the work. The taxpayers are calling Stranahan a patriot. Delegates to the school land lessees convention at Oklahoma City who were convened for the school land board, never got any further than the starter's wire. Preparations had been made for the kickers, and they were soon put out of business. William Jackson, a Logan county farmer, took the first corn of the season to the Guthrie market last Tuesday. The ears were large, well filled and well matured. Logan county, as well as Oklahoma in general, will raise the best corn crop this year in its history. Tenderfeet are often of the opinion that the Western cowboy can ride any kind of a horse and never get thrown. A reading of newspapers printed in Beaver and other Western Oklahoma counties shows that the pitching broncho is no less dangerous than an "unloaded" gun. Judge John H. Burford denied the petitions of the "Katy" railroad company to enjoin the Fort Smith and Western from using certain right-of-way east of Guthrie. The Fort Smith and Western had constructed its roadbed, but the "Katy" claimed the land by reason of a prior survey. An untrained broncho of the galloping West got mixed up with the only automobile in Guthrie this week and made the automobile look like a three-legged coyote. The owner of the machine tried to pass a herd of bronchos, when one of the "bronzes" bolted in front of the automobile. George Dodson and George McQuaide, a local newspaper man, were thrown high enough to see the Cimarron river three miles away, while the automobile was turned completely around and was headed for the Cottonwood river bottoms. McQuaide had to be carried home. The "bronz" is looking for another automobile.

D. C. Lewis of Oklahoma City has a redistricting scheme. He said that the fairest plan would be to just have one district and then nominate and elect all the members from this one district-at-large. By this plan the exact political status of the territory could and would be determined and there could be no kicking on account of unfairness.

RAISE HOGS FOR THE PACKERS

(H. M. Taylor in Strawn News.)

In a recent interview in the Fort Worth Telegram, Mr. W. J. Campbell, superintendent of construction for the Armour Packing company, stated that the Armour and Swift packing plants are being constructed as fast as possible and that when completed they will be able to pack 6000 hogs per day. This number of hogs slaughtered daily during the year without counting Sundays would amount to a total of 1,875,000, which if loaded on cars would make a solid train 120 miles in length. In single file this immense number of porkers would make a line 1800 miles in length and if they were all made into link sausage it would make a string that could be stretched from Fort Worth westward around the world with enough to spare to extend to Manila in the Philippines and there would be hard enough left to fry them. At 7 cents per pound the above number of hogs would bring $35,000,000.

The above authoritative statements from the representative of the world's greatest packers indicate the magnitude of their plans for handling cattle and hogs, which are on a scale in harmony with the vast territory tributary to the Fort Worth market.

The new Fort Worth packing houses will be equipped with all of the latest and most modern machinery, and as they have unlimited money to pay for cattle and hogs and have the markets of the world in which to dispose of their products, farmers and stockraisers in the country tributary to the Fort Worth stock yards would consult their best interests by increasing their live stock holdings to the greatest possible extent and fatten them for this profitable market. During average years Texas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory produce surplus crops of corn which have been largely exported through gulf ports to Europe, entailing heavy expense in transportation, which can in the future be saved by feeding the corn to cattle and hogs to be marketed at Fort Worth. The demand for fat hogs by the Fort Worth packing houses will give an impetus to the raising of alfalfa, which has been found to be an economical food for hogs. In Arizona hogs are fattened on alfalfa very successfully, and while alfalfa has been principally raised on irrigated lands, it has been found to thrive in Texas on bottom lands where the roots can obtain needed moisture.

Every farmer can profitably raise a few hogs and cattle, and in the absence of sufficient feed to fatten them for market, the money to purchase feed can be readily obtained at reasonable interest from live stock commission houses doing business at the Fort Worth stock yards.

The demand for fat cattle at the Fort Worth stock yards, by reason of the establishment of the new packing plants, will cause the thousands of cattle below the quarantine line, that have every spring been taken to the northern ranges to be fattened, to be fed at home, thus gaining for producers the money that has heretofore been expended in transporting them north. Owing to its shipping facilities and nearness to tide water, Fort Worth will in the future reap the advantages which her favorable location gives her and cattle and hogs marketed there will net owners more money than could be obtained for them in northern markets, as natural conditions will in time cause fat cattle and hogs to sell in the Fort Worth market for prices equal to those ruling in the markets of Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago, saving hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly to southwestern producers.

PACKING PLANTS TO BE ON A MAMMOTH SCALE

Armour Will Put up Sixteen Separate Structures — Swift's will Bunch Their Departments More Under One Roof, Using Fewer Buildings

Fort Worth as a big packing center does not sound so absurd when one stops to recall the fact that Texas has about 5,000,000 people and 10,000,000 cattle, besides quite 2,500,000 hogs and nearly 4,000,000 sheep, or over 17,000,000 of abattoir stock, says the National Provisioner. In this connection, also, it must be remembered that Texas is a large and cheap grain producing state, and the chief producer of cottonseed cake and meal. Texas as a large producer of cheap range cattle and producer of cheap feedstuffs for finishing hives, holds naturally a strong position for meat production. Fort Worth is in the center of all this favoritism. It is proper, then, that Fort Worth should be the collecting and distributing center for this trade. That is not all. Texans are large consumers of lards and other by-products of the hog, as well as of the beef steers, and the present freight rates from Northern points to points in Texas are high. These will be in favor of a local plant. Besides, Fort Worth is in close shipping proximity to the large consumptive centers of Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. It is also conveniently near the important ports of New Orleans and Galveston. All of these points favor this Texas packing center.

This Armour plant at Fort Worth will have in all, sixteen buildings, as follows: Hog killing building, 64x114 feet, five stories in height, with basement. Cattle killing building, 96x82 feet, five stories and basement. Oleomargarine building, 64x82 feet, three stories in height, with basement. Cooperage shops, 64x114 feet, four stories. Soap factory, 64x114 feet, four stories and basement. Lard refinery, 14x114 feet, four stories and basement. Beef coolers, 118x114 feet, five stories and basement. Freezer, 64x116 feet, five stories and basement. Hog coolers, 140x116 feet, six stories and basement. Ham house, 98x116 feet, six stories and basement. Office buildings, 75x100 feet, two stories in height. Air sheds, 25x75 feet, one story. Car shops and sheds, 40x300 feet, one story. Blacksmith shop and workshop, 30x50 feet, one story. Paint shops, 40x160 feet, one story. The killing capacity of such a plant will be fully 1000 cattle, 2000 hogs and 1500 sheep daily, or a daily packing capacity of about 5000 carcasses. Body Found in the Shade of a Mesquite Bush Where it Had Lain for Three Months—Buried Without an Inquest

FORT WORTH BOY PROMOTED

Cliff D. Bowman to Take Charge of Cotton Belt Office at Tyler

Cliff D. Bowman, for two and a half years assistant city ticket agent for the Cotton Belt in this city, will on August 8, be transferred from Fort Worth to Tyler, there to take charge of the city and depot ticket offices of the Cotton Belt. Mr. Bowman will be succeeded here as assistant to City Ticket Agent John M. Adams, by C. E. Palmer from the general offices.

This announcement will cause congratulations to be extended to Mr. Bowman, who is one among the most popular young men in the railway service, and in which promotion the Cotton Belt officials have recognized merit and ability.

Prior to entering the Cotton Belt service two and a half years ago Mr. Bowman was connected with the Rock Island general offices here. He is an expert telegrapher and stenographer, and this combination peculiarly fits him for the duties of the new position to which he has been promoted.

Joe H. Simpson, who arrived this morning from Southern Arizona by way of Houston, was water bound at Sierra Blanca, in West Texas, one day last week, and relates of assisting in the burial near there, of Frank Bennett, formerly of Galveston and Beaumont.

Bennett died under very peculiar circumstances. He was last seen on March 19 by a cowboy. Bennett was walking through the western wilds. He asked for a tin cup of water from the cowboy's canteen. On June 10, three months afterwards his body was found. It reposed under the shade of his coat, which had been spread over a mesquite bush. There were no marks of violence and the presumption was the young man, in endeavoring to make his way to a distant ranch, was overcome by weakness, lay down to sleep and perished.

In El Paso county coroners are few and far between. The body lay where it was found on June 10 until last Wednesday, awaiting an inquest. Word was finally sent to a coroner, but he sent back word to bury the man, as he did not care to make the trip for the inquest fee. Accordingly the funeral occurred Wednesday, when a number of cowboys, assisted by Mr. Simpson, dug a ditch and buried the mutilated remains. In the pockets of the dead man were letters of recommendation from the Sisters of Charity at Galveston and Beaumont, and one from the Dieu hotel at El Paso.

Residents of the North Side are discussing the movement to incorporate for municipal government soon after the first of next year, and with it they are already casting about for a suitable name.

Property owners residing on this side of the Trinity are anxious that the new name, if change is made from Marina, which is the present postoffice, shall be North Fort Worth, Packerville and Stocktown, either of the names appropriate to the chief business enterprises, have been suggested.

A large amount of mail matter for people residing on the North Side comes addressed to North Fort Worth, Tex.

The Labor Day executive committee and sub-committees held a business meeting yesterday, further perfecting arrangements for the great Labor Day program for September 1. Among other things done, the central committee has sent out invitations to Senators Bailey, Culberson, Governor Sayers of Texas, and Samuel P. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and a number of others. A partial roster of all the unions in Fort Worth was inspected, showing conclusively that Fort Worth has more card men than any other city in the state, and all members are enthusiastic in the undertaking to make this the banner celebration of the kind ever held in Texas.

A park in which to hold the celebration was not decided upon, but as between the two under controversy—Hermann or the Stock Yards—in all probability the former will be selected because of its close proximity to the city.

Mayor Powell will deliver the address of welcome, and other Fort Worth speakers will divide time with the visiting orators.

The parade will be the big feature of the opening, and will eclipse anything of the kind ever yet undertaken here. Aside from the various organizations marching in a body South and North on Main street, there will be decorated floats and many trades represented in actual work, and there will be this the police and sheriff's forces and fire department and bands.

Near by towns will in all probability accept invitations to join in the celebration here.

The three boxes composing the Commissioners' Precinct Vote to Cut Out Intoxicating Liquors—A Very Close Vote

As a result of the prohibition election held in the Arlington precinct last Saturday, prohibition won by a close majority—only four votes to the good. There were three boxes voting, Arlington, Johnson's Station and Little's school house. The vote was 273 for prohibition and 269 against.

At Arlington the ladies worked hard for prohibition, entering into the fray early and remaining steadfast throughout the entire day.

This is One Reason Why Meat is so High But Not the Only Reason by a Jug Full

(Special to the Telegram.)

Washington, Aug. 4.—According to data collected by the treasury bureau of statistics five western stock markets, Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, and St. Joseph, taken as an index of trade generally, report the total receipts of meat producing stock, including cattle, hogs and sheep, between January 1 and June 30, inclusive, at 14,766,855 head. This was 79.233 head less than for the corresponding period in 1901 and 347,692 less than 1900.

Bennett died under very peculiar circumstances. He was last seen on March 19 by a cowboy. Bennett was walking through the western wilds. He asked for a tin cup of water from the cowboy's canteen. On June 10, three months afterwards his body was found. It reposed under the shade of his coat, which had been spread over a mesquite bush. There were no marks of violence and the presumption was the young man, in endeavoring to make his way to a distant ranch, was overcome by weakness, lay down to sleep and perished.

In El Paso county coroners are few and far between. The body lay where it was found on June 10 until last Wednesday, awaiting an inquest. Word was finally sent to a coroner, but he sent back word to bury the man, as he did not care to make the trip for the inquest fee. Accordingly the funeral occurred Wednesday, when a number of cowboys, assisted by Mr. Simpson, dug a ditch and buried the mutilated remains. In the pockets of the dead man were letters of recommendation from the Sisters of Charity at Galveston and Beaumont, and one from the Dieu hotel at El Paso.

Residents of the North Side are discussing the movement to incorporate for municipal government soon after the first of next year, and with it they are already casting about for a suitable name.

Property owners residing on this side of the Trinity are anxious that the new name, if change is made from Marina, which is the present postoffice, shall be North Fort Worth, Packerville and Stocktown, either of the names appropriate to the chief business enterprises, have been suggested.

A large amount of mail matter for people residing on the North Side comes addressed to North Fort Worth, Tex.

The Labor Day executive committee and sub-committees held a business meeting yesterday, further perfecting arrangements for the great Labor Day program for September 1. Among other things done, the central committee has sent out invitations to Senators Bailey, Culberson, Governor Sayers of Texas, and Samuel P. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and a number of others. A partial roster of all the unions in Fort Worth was inspected, showing conclusively that Fort Worth has more card men than any other city in the state, and all members are enthusiastic in the undertaking to make this the banner celebration of the kind ever held in Texas.

A park in which to hold the celebration was not decided upon, but as between the two under controversy—Hermann or the Stock Yards—in all probability the former will be selected because of its close proximity to the city.

Mayor Powell will deliver the address of welcome, and other Fort Worth speakers will divide time with the visiting orators.

The parade will be the big feature of the opening, and will eclipse anything of the kind ever yet undertaken here. Aside from the various organizations marching in a body South and North on Main street, there will be decorated floats and many trades represented in actual work, and there will be this the police and sheriff's forces and fire department and bands.

Near by towns will in all probability accept invitations to join in the celebration here.

The three boxes composing the Commissioners' Precinct Vote to Cut Out Intoxicating Liquors—A Very Close Vote

As a result of the prohibition election held in the Arlington precinct last Saturday, prohibition won by a close majority—only four votes to the good. There were three boxes voting, Arlington, Johnson's Station and Little's school house. The vote was 273 for prohibition and 269 against.

At Arlington the ladies worked hard for prohibition, entering into the fray early and remaining steadfast throughout the entire day.

FORT WORTH BOY PROMOTED

Cliff D. Bowman to Take Charge of Cotton Belt Office at Tyler

Cliff D. Bowman, for two and a half years assistant city ticket agent for the Cotton Belt in this city, will on August 8, be transferred from Fort Worth to Tyler, there to take charge of the city and depot ticket offices of the Cotton Belt. Mr. Bowman will be succeeded here as assistant to City Ticket Agent John M. Adams, by C. E. Palmer from the general offices.

This announcement will cause congratulations to be extended to Mr. Bowman, who is one among the most popular young men in the railway service, and in which promotion the Cotton Belt officials have recognized merit and ability.

Prior to entering the Cotton Belt service two and a half years ago Mr. Bowman was connected with the Rock Island general offices here. He is an expert telegrapher and stenographer, and this combination peculiarly fits him for the duties of the new position to which he has been promoted.

Joe H. Simpson, who arrived this morning from Southern Arizona by way of Houston, was water bound at Sierra Blanca, in West Texas, one day last week, and relates of assisting in the burial near there, of Frank Bennett, formerly of Galveston and Beaumont.

M'DONALD WAS NOT A KILLER

DEAD MAN'S ATTORNEY SAYS "BLACK JACK" NEVER SLEW A MAN HERE

Charles B. Patterson, an attorney of El Paso, who always handled legal business for "Black Jack" McDonald, formerly of Fort Worth who was killed a week ago in a pistol duel in Juarez, Mexico, denies that his former client was a slayer of men and ever killed a man in Fort Worth. The story, he says, of McDonald's striking a man in the neck with his fist one night in the Texas and Pacific yards here and killing him, is not true.

According to Attorney Patterson, the night before "Black Jack" left for El Paso he slugged a man in a saloon fight. From El Paso he went to Magdalena, N. M., and worked in the mines. From the mines he went to Socorro, N. M., and one day while drunk boasted that he was "Black Jack," the train robber. He was arrested, tried and acquitted.

The big estate said to have been left by McDonald has dwindled to about $600, most of which is in Mexico.

Under the laws of Mexico when a foreigner dies or is killed there the court takes charge of the property of the deceased and waits until an heir comes forward to claim it. When such a claimant appears and establishes the validity of his or her claim to the satisfaction of the court, the property is promptly turned over to such claimant, after all indebtedness of the estate is paid off.

Should no claimant or heir come forward, then the local consul of the United States—in case the deceased was an American—takes an inventory of the property, causes it to be sold and after paying off all claims against it, turns over the money left to the United States treasurer.

In case a claimant appears and establishes his or her claim, he or she can invoke the aid of the consul in settling up the estate by having him take an inventory and inspect the claims presented against the estate.

TERRORIZED

There Is No Freedom of the Press in Russia

AN EDITOR DISMISSED

THE LEASE OF THE PAPER, THE ST. PETERSBURG VIEDOMOSTI CANCELED

ALL NEWS MATTER CENSORED

Padding Doesn't Go in Russia's Capital, Nothing But a Mere Skeleton of Facts Being Allowed to be Printed

(Correspondence Associated Press.)

St. Petersburg, July 10.—The progressive terrorizing of the Russian press which characterized the regime of M. Siplagin, the minister of the interior, who was assassinated last April, appears to have been adopted as a settled policy by his successor, M. Von Plehve.

M. Siplagin closed the Northern Courier and the Rossyia. After their extinction the only newspaper in St. Petersburg which maintained an independent attitude towards the government was the St. Petersburg Viedomosti, an old journal which, since it passed into the control of Prince Oukhtomsky, has been characterized by the honorable and straightforward manner in which it was conducted. That it was not a liberal newspaper according to western notions needs scarcely to be emphasized. A liberal newspaper is absolutely impossible where the censorship is as vigilant and exacting as it is in Russia. Owing to the impossibility of expressing its own views on either domestic or foreign affairs, consistently and regularly, the Viedomosti absented, except on rare occasions, from any comment whatever. Its original news articles were also couched in the most guarded and matter of fact language, and were based scrupulously on official data.

It must be explained that outside of St. Petersburg and Moscow, the daily press is subjected to preliminary censorship, that is that no article shall be published which has not been sanctioned by a governmental official assigned especially to review its matter. The press of the two capitals is free to go from these burdens, but may be and is called to a strict accounting by the censorship for any matter that may be found objectionable, but it is regularly warned against handling such subjects at all. It also is a fact that the owners of newspapers under preliminary censorship can be and are severely dealt with and the papers can be suppressed for publishing matter that has not been sanctioned by their particular censor.

In spite of this censorship, the St. Petersburg Viedomosti always has been characterized by its interesting excerpts from the provincial newspapers. It alone of all St. Petersburg newspapers, has attempted to keep its readers informed about what was going on in the interior of Russia. It now appears that this department of Viedomosti has become an eyesore to the government.

Minister Von Plehve summoned Prince Oukhtomsky to him July 12 and lectured him severely on his management of the journal, which is leased from the government. M. Von Plehve told the prince the Viedomosti had become the organ of the liberals and revolutionists, particularly in its provincial departments. He peremptorily demanded the immediate dismissal of the editor of this paper and warned him that after two months his lease of the paper, which had several years yet to run, would be canceled. M. Von Plehve concluded by saying he had seen the czar on July 9 and had received his majesty's permission to take these severe measures.

Prince Oukhtomsky has long enjoyed a measure of imperial favor. After he accompanied the czar, when his apparent, on the prince's famous tour around the world, he was made president of the Russo-Chinese bank and his unrivaled knowledge of China and Chinese affairs has certainly been of great advantage to the government. It is generally understood that heretofore when pressed or threatened by the late minister Siplagin, Prince Oukhtomsky has been able to save himself by a personal appeal to the czar.

M. Stakhovich, who is marshal of the nobility of Orel, was re-elected to this position almost immediately after his famous speech last year on religious liberty, and his election was confirmed. He has recently been active in a movement to procure the participation of the Zemstvos or provincial self-government delegate assemblies in the great agricultural inquiry. He recently held a conference at Moscow with a number of Zemstvo leaders from different provinces, and for this he was summoned before Minister Von Plehve and reprimanded in the presence of the head of the police department. The government is extremely jealous of anything approaching concerted action on the part of Zemstvos, fearing that it might result in some form of representative government for the whole country. M. Stakhovich took the reprimand in poor grace. He called the minister's attention to the fact that he is an elective representative of the nobility of the province and responsible to nobody save to his superior personally. He declared he did not recognize the minister's right to harangue him about his conduct, and that he did not accept the reprimand. He then stalked out of the room.

It Needs a Tonic

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. Smallwood & Anderson, Anderson & Smallwood.

LATE GOSSIP FROM LONDON

Mrs. Mackay III—Morgan's New House—Returning Tourists—Coronation, Etc.

London, Aug. 4.—Mrs. John W. Mackay is suffering severely from the strain of the past few weeks. Twice there has been a consultation of doctors. She is suffering especially from heart trouble and sleeplessness. The doctors have ordered her to see as few people as possible. Possibly she may go to Manheim for treatment. Her mother, Mrs. Hungerford, the latter's sister, Baroness Telfener, and Mrs. Mackay's daughter, Princess Colonna, have left for France and Italy, but Clarence Mackay remains for the present as a great deal of business must be done in connection with the settlement of the large estate of his father.

Pierpont Morgan has just purchased from Georgiana, the Countess of Dudley, her handsome house at No. 53 Grosvenor street. The house stands at the corner of Davies street and is most conveniently situated. Lady Dudley had her house beautifully decorated and finished at a cost of nearly $200,000. Grosvenor street is in the heart of fashionable Mayfair, while Mr. Morgan's present house at No. 13 Princes Gate is merely on the fringe of the smart district. His new house will enable him to display to perfection his great store of exquisite treasures, the decorative possibilities of which are lost at Princes Gate, where they are heaped together, because there is not sufficient room to show them off properly.

Mr. Morgan's purchases recently are said to have reached an enormous sum. The returning tide to the United States of tourists travel is setting in early this season. Both the St. Paul and the Campania will be well filled today. Senator Aldrich and the Chinese princes and envoys are among the most distinguished travelers.

Rehearsals for the coronation ceremony at the Abbey have been resumed and the officials also assert that the procession to and through the Abbey will be conducted without deviation from the original lines. The stalls and seats assigned to the princes and special ambassadors will be occupied by members of the government and high officials of the civil service, who would have been previously crowded out to all the approaches to the Abbey, and the military preparations have been resumed on a large scale. There is no unusual pressure upon the hotel accommodations and there is no evidence that there will be swarms of American tourists in high-priced stands.

CONSUMPTION THREATENED.

"I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption," says C. Unger, 211 Maple St., Champaign, Ill. "I tried a great many remedies and I was under the care of physicians for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Kidney and Bladder Cure and I have not been troubled since." Sold by Reeves' Pharmacy, Ward's Pharmacy, Arlington Drug Co.

TALK OF SALE IS NOT DENIED

NO ANNOUNCEMENT SECURED FROM ROCK ISLAND REGARDING FRISCO PURCHASE

MR. LEEDS WON'T SAY

His Secretary, However, Considers that Purchase has been Completed, Believed Publicity of Sale Would Endanger Some Financial Move Contemplated

(Special to the Telegram.) Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 4.—Still no formal announcement can be forced from the Rock Island directors that they have purchased the Frisco system, says a special to the Star from New York. Why this information is being held back is not known, unless it is that the directors have some financial move in sight that publicity of the purchase might injure. All effort to get President Leeds of the Rock Island to commit himself has failed. It was learned, however, through the president's private secretary that the latter considered the purchase completed. In other ways the sale has been confirmed, President Leeds, when seen, said: "There is nothing yet to announce." He refused to deny that a sale had been made.

REPORTED FRISCO PURCHASE

Said the System Has Taken in Another Northern Line

It was currently reported this morning that the Frisco system had made another purchase, taking in another northern line. No confirmation could be obtained here, but it is known negotiations have been pending for some days involving the transfer of a property as important in the railroad world as is the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

Notes and Personalities.

Captain Hinkley of the Frisco system was an arrival from the Panhandle country last night, and this morning left for St. Louis.

LOOK PLEASANT, PLEASE.

Photographer C. C. Haalan, of Eaton, O., can do so now, though for years he couldn't because he suffered untold agony from the worst form of indigestion. All physicians and medicines failed to help him till he tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for him that he declares they are a godsend to sufferers from dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Unrivaled for diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, they build up and give new life to the whole system. Try them. Only 50c. PENDANT SHOWS PANTHER AWAKE

Stock Yards Souvenir for Visiting Editors Illustrates a Sequel to Part of Fort Worth's History—An Oxidized Star

The stock yards company has a neat souvenir for the editor visitors today in the shape of an oxidized star pendant. On the back of the piece are letters of the word Texas, each occupying a point of the star and surrounding the compliments of the Fort Worth Stock Yards company.

On the front of the pendant is the sequel of the panther legend. It is a historical fact that the panther hunted up a cool spot on what is now Houston street, and laid down, and from the incident sprang the origin of the town.

Secretary Matthews of the stock yards company, conceived a clever idea in showing the panther awake, the five letters of that word occupying the star points. The ancient history, Mr. Matthews says, records that the animal went to sleep; subsequent events have caused it to get up and move.

BAILEY WASN'T INTERVIEWED

Texas Senator Was Not "Wise" to St. Louis Methods

St. Louis Republic.—United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas spent yesterday in St. Louis. He arrived on an early morning train and departed last night for Lexington, Ky., where he will spend several weeks on his stock farm. Senator Bailey refused to discuss the trouble in the United States senate in which he and Senator Beveridge of Indiana were the principals. He took exception to interviews published in the afternoon papers relative to the episode and to statements to the effect that he was stopped and made to show his ticket while at the gate at Union Station, and that he made any remarks about it to anyone.

"I had no conversation with any reporter for an afternoon newspaper," declared Senator Bailey. "I was not interviewed while at breakfast at the Terminal Hotel. I had no intention of leaving St. Louis two hours after I arrived here, and did not attempt to pass through the gate at Union Station. I did not intend to leave until night and had not purchased my ticket."

GEODETIC SURVEY

United States Surveying Corps Now at Work Within Ten Miles of This City

The United States coast and geodetic survey has two corps of engineers working towards Fort Worth, one of which spent Sunday in this city. Two other corps are working in Oklahoma and one in Kansas. The party here yesterday is composed of William H. Burger, engineer in charge; L. Wadsworth, Jr., R. K. Lyons, James E. Babcock, J. Daniel Boon and H. Benton. This corps is engaged in verifying the work of locating the 98th meridian. The meridian has been located and marked with monuments from Bowie to Anthony, Kas., and the party is now working from Bowie towards Shreveport. The 98th meridian forms part of the boundary line between Oklahoma and Indian Territories and it is a matter of considerable importance that it be accurately located. This party has completed its work to about ten miles north of Fort Worth and will spend several days in this vicinity. This party is being followed by a triangulation corps, which started from the Pacific coast some time ago and will arrive here in the course of a few weeks. Triangulation towers are being erected at various points throughout the west and southwest.

VAGRANTS ARE UP AGAINST REAL THING

The Acting Judge of the Corporation Court Opens up in a Strenuous Manner Against Loafers and Idlers

Judge W. W. Wilkinson, acting for Judge Stewart in the corporation court this month, opened court this morning in a manner highly satisfactory to the court officials and police officers.

He demonstrated that he will show no quarter to vagrants and idlers. As an evidence of this he recorded $5 and costs—$12.95—against a number of vagrants who adorned the dock this morning as a result of yesterday's round-up by the police. The old "come to get work at the packing house" story was sprung by a number of white and black, but police evidence brought out the fact that they had been loitering about all night resorts for several days.

The dock was filled to overflowing by blacks and whites who had either been fighting, idling or sleeping in public places, trespassing, etc., and the street working force were materially strengthened by a number of "husky," able-bodied workers.

GRANNY DID IT

Knew the Food That Furnished Power

A grandmother, by studying the proper selection of food, cured herself of stomach trouble and severe headaches. Later on she was able to save her little granddaughter because of her knowledge of food.

She says, "When baby was five months old she was weaned because of the severe illness of her mother. She was put on a prepared baby food but soon lost flesh and color, became hollow eyed and fretful. We changed her food several times but with no permanent benefit. At last her stomach rebelled entirely and threw up nearly everything she took. She would be weak with a cold perspiration after feeding. That is a dangerous condition for a small baby and in this extremity I remembered how beautifully Grape-Nuts had agreed with me, and suggested we try the food for baby."

We began very carefully with it, giving two small teaspoonfuls at a feeding, softened with boiling water and fed in sterilized milk, warmed. The experiment was a perfect success.

She has been on the food for five weeks and can now eat other food, for the change in this brief time is wonderful. She has gained over three pounds in weight, has rosy cheeks, bright eyes, and she has the appearance of a satisfactorily nourished and thriving child.

The reason that Grape-Nuts will agree with adults and babies is that the starch of the cereals has been transformed into grape sugar in the process of manufacture, and when introduced into the stomach it is ready for immediate assimilation and does not tax the powers of the organs of digestion. The result is always beneficial and the food has saved thousands of lives.

Recipes for many easy hot water dishes in each package of Grape-Nuts.

BEVERIDGE IS NOT COMING

REPUBLICANS DON'T RELISH THE IDEA OF HIS CAMPAIGNING IN TEXAS THIS FALL

FEAR BAILEY INCIDENT

Leaders do Not Believe Indiana Man Would do Good in Fifteenth Congressional District Where Party is Making Effort to Win

(Special to the Telegram.) San Antonio, Aug. 4.—From information received here officers of the Republican congressional committee in Washington insist that Senator Beveridge of Indiana is not to speak in the Fifteenth congressional district of Texas during the coming campaign in the interest of John C. Scott, the Republican nominee.

They do not believe that any good could come of such a campaign, inviting, as they believe, it would, the most strenuous activity of Senator Bailey for Judge Garner, the Democratic candidate, and accentuating the differences between Senator Bailey and Senator Beveridge, differences that the leaders of both parties are anxious to have dropped. Senator Beveridge is said to be in California where he will remain until the campaign opens in Indiana.

JUST LOOK AT HER.

Whence came that sprightly step, faultless skin, rich, rosy complexion, smiling face. She looks good, feels good. Here's her secret. She uses Dr. King's New Life Pills. Result.—all organs active, digestion good, no headaches, no chance for "blues." Try them yourself. Only 25c at Guthrie & Guthrie's druggists, 502 Main St.

CORONATION FESTIVAL SERVICE

Special Program at Trinity Church Next Sunday Morning

The rector of Trinity parish has pleasure in announcing that by special request, if King Edward of England should be crowned on Saturday next, a coronation festival service will be held at Trinity church, Pennsylvania avenue and Hemphill street, at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning, August 19, 1902.

All British born residents of Fort Worth are affectionately invited. Proper psalms, lessons and prayers from the ancient office for the king's accession will be used; also at the desire of a friend at a distance, who will be with us in spirit, the beautiful prayer offered at the intercessory service at St. Paul's cathedral on June 26, will be repeated. The British national anthem will be sung by choir and congregation as solo and chorus in the old English style, and Prof. R. G. Lamb will render upon the organ Handel's Hallelujah chorus, all the congregation joining.

The rector will preach a special coronation sermon which will be followed by a celebration of the Holy communion. In consequence of this service, the rector regrets that he must postpone his usual monthly visit to the Mission of the Holy Innocent till the fifth Sunday in August.

We beg to say Dr. G. B. Snigley takes pleasure in recommending Herbine." 50c bottle, at H. T. Pangburn & Co.'s.

A BOLD HOLD-UP PERPETRATED LAST NIGHT

Three Men Entered Livery Stable and Robbed Employee, Whom They Awakened—Gagged Him and Departed

Crickett Kellam, an employe of the stables at the corner of Seventh and Rusk streets, reported to the police last night that he was awakened about 12:30 o'clock this morning by three men, two negroes and one whom he took to be a white man or a mulatto, and robbed of $23.80 which he had in a purse in his pants pocket.

The supposed white man aroused Kellam, pointing a pistol at his head and demanded that no outcry be made. The two negroes then proceeded to ransack the premises, securing the money. Before leaving the three men placed a gag in Kellam's mouth, and it was some minutes after their departure before he could make an outcry or notify a fellow employe who was in another part of the stable washing a buggy. This delay gave the robbers ample time to escape. The police were notified, and at once instituted a search, but as yet nothing has developed leading to an arrest.

Kellam says he could recognize the two negroes, but is not so positive about the man who made the run play.

FORT WORTH TOOK THE SERIES

Corsicana Defeated Yesterday in a Score of 2 to 1

The league series between Fort Worth and Corsicana at Haines park finished yesterday afternoon made three straight the Panthers took from the visitors. Yesterday's game resulted in a close victory, Fort Worth being the winner in a score of 2 to 1.

There were about 800 people in attendance, the exciting situations being numerous, and the playing not unprofessional. Both of Fort Worth's runs were earned.

Two games were played by Dallas and Paris in Dallas yesterday, the first being 3 to 2 in favor of Dallas and the second 9 to 7 in favor of Paris.

GOING TO GALVESTON

County Judge Harris, Clerk Williams and the Entire Commissioners' Court

County Judge Harris, the entire county commissioners' court and Clerk Williams, accompanied by their families, leave tonight for Galveston. They go to attend the annual session of the Texas judges and county commissioners.

The annual session was held in Fort Worth last year and Judge Harris and the commissioners promised them that if it was possible to do so they would attend the Galveston session.

There is much business of vital importance to the state scheduled for consideration, much of which is in the nature of recommendations from the county commissioners to the state legislature.

The session will last two or three days, and aside from the business of the meeting an excursion or two by water has been arranged.

MEXICO ROBBER IS NOT BILL TAYLOR

West, Who Participated in Central Holdup Is W. H. Ingram, Formerly Living Near Hillsboro—Said to Have Once Been State Ranger

Officials of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express have discovered that West, one of the men arrested for robbing the Mexican Central near Bermejo, Mexico, late last month, is not Bill Taylor, who participated in the hold-up of the Santa Fe near Coleman Junction, and the Southern Pacific at Comstock, Tex., but is W. H. Ingram. Ingram was born near Hillsboro, and fourteen months ago went to Mexico to reside, taking West as an assumed name.

Ingram, it is said, was for a number of years connected with the state rangers, and carries a wound in his thigh which, he says, he got while in the service. He is also said to have been in train service in Texas some years ago.

A GOOD ADVERTISEMENT

Is the Work the British Doctors Are Doing in the Dundee Building, 7th and Houston Sts., by Giving Their Services Free of Charge and Thus Demonstrating Their Ability to Cure Many Maladies that are Called Incurable

A staff of eminent physicians and surgeons from the British Medical Institute have, at the urgent solicitation of a large number of patients under their care in this country, established a permanent branch of the Institute in this city, at Rooms 2 and 3, Dundee Building, corner of Seventh and Houston streets.

These eminent gentlemen have decided to give their services entirely free for three months (medicines excepted) to all invalids who call upon them for treatment between now and August 28. These services consist not only of consultation, examination and advice, but also of all minor surgical operations.

The object in pursuing this course is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted, and under no conditions will any charge whatever be made for any services rendered for three months, to all who call before August 28.

The doctors treat all forms of disease and deformities, and guarantee a cure in every case they undertake. At the first interview a thorough examination is made, and, if incurable, you are frankly and kindly told so; also advised against spending your money for useless treatment.

Male and female weakness, catarrh, and catarrhal deafness, also varicocele, rupture, gottle, cancer, the morphia habit, all skin diseases, and all diseases of the rectum, are positively cured by their new treatment.

The chief associate surgeon of the Institute is in personal charge. Hours, 9 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 1.

SPECIAL NOTICE—If you can not call, send stamp for question blank for home treatment.

A Necessary Precaution

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. WASHER BROTHERS

Century Building, Eighth and Main

WHEAT'S ROOF GARDEN

A strong attraction has been secured for this week at this resort, one that will please the "masses" of the people, as it embraces a pleasing variety.

Conspicuous among the entertainers are two members of the Columbia opera company which played an engagement on the roof not long since. These song artists will give choice selections from popular operas, including "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls" and "Then You'll Remember Me" from Bohemian Girl, "The Last Rose of Summer" from Martha and others.

Baby Dorris will appear in songs and dances. She also has appeared in this city before and is a general favorite.

Of the club juggling Gillens nothing in praise need be said to those who saw them at their previous engagement here. Those who did not see them will have an opportunity this week to do so. Their work is exceptionally fine.

There are other features also—all of them strictly first-class, and as a prelude to the whole the band will give a nightly concert in front of the building.

BABY PLACED IN GRIP AND THROWN IN RIVER

Another Find Yesterday Around Which There is a Mystery—Body of Baby Buried as Unknown

Another dead baby was found in the river bottom yesterday, the identity of which is a mystery. This makes the third found within the past 30 days in the same locality. An electrician named Van Cleave made the find yesterday and the body was in a pronounced state of decomposition. It was in a valise, and the valise was weighted down with rocks and placed in the river bed. Justice Terrell was notified and viewed the corpse. He is of the opinion the child was naturally born and perhaps lived several days after birth. There was absolutely nothing aside from the grip by which a possible clue could be had as to the identity of the child. Justice Terrell turned the corpse over to Messrs. Robertson and Witten for internment, and an official investigation was undertaken. The find was made north of town in what is known as the old brewery swimming hole.

FAMILY ENTANGLEMENT BEFORE MULLINS' COURT

Wife Prosecutes Her Husband, Charging Theft—He Was Acquitted—Wife Alleges They Were Divorced

Justice Mullins had a very peculiar family quarrel to untangle Saturday afternoon, brief mention of which was made in Saturday's Telegram.

On July 26, Mrs. William McCracken caused a warrant to be issued charging her husband with stealing two cows from her. Evidence showed that until recently Mr. and Mrs. McCracken resided as man and wife on a place near Forrest Hill, but that Mrs. McCracken left her husband and disposed of the place for $500. Following this Mrs. McCracken took two cows, and because of his having taken them
