MINISTER BOWEN AT CARACAS REPORTS SITUATION

SACKING GOING ON

BARCELONA IN THE HANDS OF VANDALS WHO ARE DESTROYING PROPERTY

ARE TO ASK RECOGNITION

Revolutionists Emboldened by Success Appoint a Committee to Ask Foreign Countries That They Be Recognized as Belligerents

Washington, Aug. 14.—Under date of August 13, Minister Bowen, at Caracas, reports to the state department that the situation there is very critical. At the time of filing his dispatch he had heard nothing from the Cincinnati or Marietta. He says the sacking of Barcelona continues and much valuable property is being destroyed.

Revolutionists Strengthening New York, Aug. 14.—Cabling from the Port of Spain, Trinidad, the Herald correspondent says: The fall of Barcelona into the hands of the Venezuelan revolutionists has put renewed strength into their campaign.

The committee here having in charge the interests of the Matos party is enthusiastic of this new success.

The revolutionists now hold the custom ports Ciudad de Bolivar, Guafria, Cano, Colorado, Coro, Carubano and Barcelona. It is probable that Cumana will be captured Thursday.

In view of this situation the committee proposes to address at once a memorandum to foreign nations asking that the revolutionists be recognized as belligerents.

It is generally understood that Great Britain and one other nation have intimated that they favor granting the request even in advance of its presentation.

SHE IS AFTER GENERAL CHAFFEE WITH A GUN

THE WIDOW OF A DISCHARGED SOLDIER HAS BLOOD IN HER EYE

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Prepared to take the law into her own hands, Mrs. Annie White, of Verde, Arizona, is on her way to New York, where she expects to have a settlement with Gen. Chaffee, which he arrives from the Philippines says the Tribune's El Paso, Texas, correspondent. She is the widow of a discharged soldier of the Eighth Infantry.

On his death bed her husband exacted a pledge that she would protect charges against Gen. Chaffee for alleged cruel treatment at Camp McDowell, a post near the San Carlos reservation, Arizona.

Mrs. White charges that Gen. Chaffee, then a major, sent soldiers to their home, which was just outside the reservation, burned their house, and drove off all their cattle. When seen at El Paso she said:

"I am going to New York to meet Gen. Chaffee, and if he doesn't give me satisfaction I'll shoot him dead in his tracks. I have preferred charges, but he prevented them from getting before Congress. I have told Gen. Miles about it and he says for me to wait. I have waited long enough. I want a settlement and I am going to have it. I'll have his life or satisfactory reparation."

A NEW OIL FIELD IS TAPPED

Woodville Excited Over Discovery of a Well Driller

Denison, Tex., Aug. 14.—Woodville, on the line of the Frisco, fourteen miles north of here, is greatly excited over the discovery of oil. While digging a well the driller struck a flow of petroleum at a depth of 240 feet. When the drill struck the oil strata and the men discovered that it was petroleum, they immediately drew it out and the oil rose in the well to the surface of the ground. The oil was taken out and tested. It is black and those who have seen it and have seen other petroleum in the southwest declare it to be a fine illuminating oil. It is estimated that the well will produce about five barrels a day at the rate it is flowing now. Occasionally it rises to the top of the ground.

Dr. Gordon H. Dennis, Buck Perry and R. F. McAdams went out and investigated the phenomenon this morning. ## WHOLE FAMILY STRICKEN DOWN

Mysterious Ailment Decimates Household of Prof. E. E. Howe

The three children are dead and Mrs. Howe is ill of the same sickness which killed them.

Two days later Dorothy, the oldest child, who was ten years old, was stricken with the same ailment. Two days later the only son, Cyril, eight years old was stricken with the same ailment. Thursday last little Dorothy died, and now Cyril is dead and Mrs. Howe very ill.

STOWAWAY BOY KILLED BY TRAIN

ATTEMPTED TO STEAL RIDE UNDER ENGINE'S PILOT

Lifeless Body Found Hanging to Frame When Stop Was Made in Arlington—He Lived in Brenham

Willie Joe Cline, aged 16, whose home was in Brenham met death in a peculiar manner near Arlington last night. The boy was a stow-away on a Texas and Pacific freight train and was endeavoring to return home.
It is supposed that young Cline boarded the train in Fort Worth intending to go to Dallas. When the train stopped at the Arlington depot the trainmen found his lifeless body hanging to some of the engine frames. The only mutilation was to the head, that being crushed. It is believed he endeavored to steal a ride under the engine pilot, and before being located the train started throwing his body back and under the engine machinery.
On the body was found a letter from the boy's mother who resides in Brenham.

NOW ONLY AWAITING J. P. MORGAN'S RETURN

MANAGEMENT OF NEW STEAMSHIP COMBINATION BEING ARRANGED

New York, Aug. 14.—With the arrival here next week from Europe of J. P. Morgan and President Griscom of the International Navigation company, conferences are expected to begin to arrange the details of management for the new steamship combination as far as this side is concerned, the details abroad being virtually completed.
The present plan, it is understood, is to operate the separate lines as at present until Mr. Morgan and his associates secure out and out control of the properties.

In England the head office will be in London. It is understood that the Right Hon. W. J. Pirbright will be chairman of the British central board. After Jan. 1, it is the present intention, according to a reliable source of information, to abolish the separate boards and to manage the entire British business of all the lines through the executive officers under the direction of the central board.
It is expected that the British arrangement will be duplicated to a very large extent on this side with Mr. Griscom as chairman of the central board.
Spirit of Unrest.

New York, Aug. 14.—The resignation of the Duke of Devonshire from the council has not yet been announced but is expected with confidence by well informed politicians before October, says the London correspondent of the Tribune.

The king may have urged him to remain office at a special audience previous to the meeting of the council, but it has been understood in inner circles of the government supporters for a fortnight that he was bent upon following Lord Salisbury and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach into the retirement.
If this resignation occurs Mr. Balfour's cabinet will lose with the exception of Joseph Chamberlain, almost the only member possessing great influence in the country.
The more closely the new cabinet is studied, the more artificial and temporary appears the series of political compromises effected. It may succeed in carrying the educational bill in October by a reduced majority, but it lacks the political authority required for retaining the confidence of the country.
There is little in the suggestion that Mr. Balfour is riding for a fall. The new prime minister is not likely to attempt to break off his career before it has fairly begun.
There is no ground whatever for the suspicion that Mr. Chamberlain is disloyal to Mr. Balfour, and seeking to take his place when the present unstable cabinet is exhausted. A shrewd forecast, which is made by one of the most prominent and best informed men in parliament is that Mr. Chamberlain will be prime minister within three years by virtue of the principle of the survival of the fittest, and the education bill with which he is not identified may bring about this result at an early period.
There are no less than 3,262 different species of fish inhabiting the waters of America north of the isthmus of Panama.
The oldest man in the Indian Territory lives near Fort Gibson, and his name is Edwin Berry. He is 108 years old.
The shadow of the moon which falls on the earth during an eclipse of the sun is usually 50 miles in diameter.
Sydney zoological gardens have been closed to the public since plague broke out among the animals there.

NEW POSTAL CARDS ARRIVE

EXPECTED FOR A LONG TIME—THEY REACHED OFFICE YESTERDAY

After many months, during which they were expected from the government printing office, the new McKinley postal cards arrived at the Fort Worth office and were placed on sale today.
The new cards were to have been issued earlier in the year, but the first design submitted was not satisfactory and another was ordered. This has, of course, caused delay.
The new card is of exactly the same size as the one now in use, but is, on the whole, an improvement over the old issue. It is to be of better quality of paper, although it is somewhat thinner, and will therefore give a better writing surface. The printing on the address side is better arranged and presents a plainer and more business-like appearance.
On the old card there is considerable scroll work around the portrait of Jefferson. There is merely a plain line around that of McKinley and the words, "Postage one cent. 1843—McKinley 1901." This is printed in plain type outside of the line around the portrait.
Just opposite the portrait of McKinley in the upper left hand corner is the seal of the United States, also with a plain line around it, with the words, "United States" above and "of America" just below and outside the line. Printed in large letters between the lower ends of the two are the words "Postal Card." Just above is printed, "The space below is reserved for postmark," and below in type a little darker, "The space below is for the address only."
All of this printing is a little above the center of the card and leaves an open space for the postmark. Nearly all of the wavy cancellation lines will pass across the portrait of McKinley but the name of the mailing office, dates and other marks will appear on the blank between that and the seal. This is an improvement over the old card, as on that the legibility of the postmarks is interfered with by the heavy black field for the words "United States of America."

FAMINE IS IMMINENT

STOCK OF ANTHRACITE COAL AT ROCK BOTTOM

Prices go Higher and Higher and Supply Gets Lower and Lower—Many Railroads Close Their Local Agencies

New York, Aug. 14.—Inquiries have been made by the Tribune as to the stock of Anthracite coal on hand at several cities in the east with the following result:

New York city dealers say the supply here has been practically exhausted for weeks. The railroad companies have been able to deliver only a few thousand tons a day recently, and much of it is known as Jersey coal.

Retail price of coal in Jersey City is $9 a ton, delivered or $8 at the yards and orders are taken only conditionally. The dealers have agents out purchasing wherever they can find coal. None is coming in by the cars. Some have a meagre reserve supply, but this is kept for customers with whom they have contracts. Orders for thousands of tons have been pigeonholed because they cannot be filled.

Boston reports that no distress has yet been felt, although the margin of the coal supply is not a pleasant object of contemplation. One authority said three days ago that there are perhaps 26,000 tons of coal within the city limits. The dealers are doing out their supplies a ton here or two tons there.

Stock Very Low at Baltimore
From Baltimore the report is that coal dealers estimate the stock of anthracite here at 100,000 tons. This includes all in the local yards. The supply is so low that at a meeting of the retail dealers' association it was decided not to make an advance. The price remains $7.50 for regular size and $6.25 for pea coal. A famine is imminent.

Buffalo Supply Limited
Buffalo, N. Y., reports that the Erie Railroad's Hillside is the only anthracite that can be bought there at present. It sells for $6.55 a ton, and is not the best quality of hard coal. The Philadelphia and Reading, the Lehigh, the Delaware and Hudson, and the Delaware and Lackawanna and Western railroads have all stopped the sale of anthracite at their trestles and have closed their local agencies, thereby putting an absolute stop to their coal business. The railroads are maintaining the utmost secrecy regarding their supplies and even the Erie officials refuse to say how much they have on hand. All the leading coal dealers say the supply is exceedingly limited.

At Albany, N. Y., the retail dealers have in stock not to exceed 2,000 tons of anthracite, which they are selling at $6 to $6.25 a ton. The Delaware and Hudson company has about 1,000 tons in reserve at Delanson. This, with 300 tons held by a wholesale dealer is all that can be counted on for Albany. It is known says the Albany correspondent that the Delaware and Hudson has considerable coal, estimated as high as 50,000 tons, on sidings along its Susquehanna division.

The Wilkesbarre, Pa., correspondent says there is no general supply of anthracite on hand at any point in the coal region. That what is being sold is some that the companies are producing in their washeries and some that is obtained by individual concerns from small coal pickings. The regular dealers have none and can get none.

"A FAIR FACE MAY PROVE A FOUL BAR-GAIN." MARRY A PLAIN GIRL IF SHE USES

SAPOLIO

The following simplified method for the restoration of drowning persons and of those who have lost consciousness through asphyxia or any other cause was developed by Dr. J. V. Laborde of the School of Anthropology, in Paris. It has proved efficacious in many cases. In one cited, of a child who had been submerged for nearly fifteen minutes, the return of breathing was accomplished in ten minutes. A translation given by Harper's Weekly is from a leaflet which Dr. Laborde distributes among his pupils, and its publication now, when accidents in the water are common, is believed to be timely.

- As soon as the drowning man has been taken from the water force open his mouth. If the teeth are clinched, separate them with the fingers or by means of any hard object—e. g., a piece of wood, the end of a cane, the handle of a knife, of a spoon or of a fork.
- Firmly seize between the thumb and the first finger of the right hand the end of the tongue, using your handkerchief or any piece of linen to prevent the tongue from slipping; then repeatedly, rhythmically and with decision pull it from the mouth and relax it alternately, at the rate of at least twenty times a minute, imitating the cadenced movements of expiration and inspiration.
- At the same time introduce far back into the throat the first finger of the left hand, pressing upon the base of the tongue, so as to induce vomiting, and thus free the stomach of the water or food which incumbers it.
- This treatment, the most efficacious known method of bringing back the respiration, must be begun without the slightest delay and persistently continued for a half hour, an hour or more. At the same time all the usual remedies must be applied. Most important are the removal of the clothing, friction over the whole body, pressure upon the anterior part of the chest, the restoration of the bodily heat and, where it is possible, the application upon the region of the heart of compresses of very hot water. The same method may and should be applied, in the same manner, in all cases of asphyxia and of syncope (loss of consciousness), from whatever cause.

WAS DEEP IN DEBT

To Free Himself from Further Worry He Makes a Deal Whereby He Agrees to Be the Slave of a Knoxville Man

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 14.—In a peculiar way a story has come to light here which has no equal recorded since the day slavery was abolished. For this sum he agrees in a written contract to serve and obey Stuart as his legal master from now until the time of his death.

Logan was a slave, is sixty years of age and has many friends among the whites of the old regime.

MURDERS BEING CLEARED

Chicago Police Get Valuable Clues That Leads to Arrests.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The police obtained their first clew of value in the Bartholin case Wednesday and developments that will go far toward solving the mystery are expected within twenty-four hours.

Inspector Hunt found a woman who declared that at daybreak on the morning following the night on which Minnie Mitchell disappeared in company with W. A. Bartholin she saw a driver for a laundry company, who is now held in custody by the police, and the barn boss of the same concern and a man wearing a Panama hat and a dark sack coat at the corner of Forty-Eighth and State streets, where Minnie Mitchell's body was found. They were going back and forth in the weeds and acting in a suspicious manner.

While the police have always contended that the laundry driver, who was a boarder in the house of Mrs. Bartholin, had knowledge of her death, they had not suspected that he was in any way connected with the murder of Minnie Mitchell. The woman, however, was positive in her statement that she saw these two in company with the third man at the time and place mentioned. She knew both of them and declared that there was no chance of her being mistaken. The description of the third man, as far as it describes anybody, is a description of Bartholin the night he was last seen with the Mitchell girl.

IMPORTANT OPINION.

Machinery and Supplies for Panama Canal Can Be Purchased Here.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—D. M. Parry, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has received an opinion from Sullivan & Cromwell, New York City, general counsel in America of the new Panama Canal company, which means much to manufacturers in the United States. The opinion is to the effect that every dollar's worth of machinery and supplies necessary for the construction of the canal may be purchased in the United States without restraint in the operation of the French laws under which the company was originally chartered. American manufacturers have been considerably agitated over the provisions of the law governing the French company, and it has been feared that the purchases of machinery and supplies would have to be made in France.

Keep Your Insides Cool!

Here's a man who thinks he has heart disease, and is scared half to death. His face is all drawn out of shape from fear and agony. Every time he eats, his heart "palpitates"—that simply means that his stomach is swelled up with gases from fermenting undigested food, and his heart thumps against his diaphragm. Nothing the matter with his heart. In the summer, time, this gas distention is much worse, his whole body and blood get over-heated, and his heart and lungs get so crowded for room, that he gasps for breath. There he is, look at him! Every minute he expects to drop dead. As a matter of fact, all he needs is to stop that souring and gas forming in his stomach and bowels, help his digestion along, and keep cool inside. You all know that whenever something rots or decays, heat develops. Same in the body. Keep cool inside! Take a candy cathartic CASCARET every night at bed-time. It will work while you sleep, clean up and cool your insides, give you a regular, comfortable movement in the morning, and you'll be feeling fine all day every day. Heart Disease! Fudge!

KITCHENER'S WAR METHODS

How the Famous General Disposed of Some Champagne.

Lord Kitchener's return to England has revived the British interest in the personality of the soldier, and many new and amusing stories are being told of him, says the Philadelphia Press. An instance of his determination to rid the British army in Africa of the needless luxuries with which the richer officers were burdening the baggage trains occurred, it is said, shortly after Kitchener's arrival at the front as Lord Roberts' chief of staff. One of his first trips away from Cape Town, the base of supplies, took him to the railway junction at De Aar, where he found the depot platform cumbered with a lot of boxes on their way to Methuen's headquarters.

"What are these?" asked Kitchener, kicking one of them with his heavy shod foot.

"Cases of champagne for the —th regiment of the — guards," replied the station agent. "They're going up to the Modder."

"Not yet," retorted Kitchener. "They are going to the hospitals."

Her majesty the queen also signed, so that this handkerchief is now, perhaps, one of the most historical mementos of the war, bearing as it does the autograph of their majesties, the Prince of Wales, Earl Roberts, Viscount Kitchener and the British generals who were present next morning to receive the surrender of the city."

FORT WORTH, TEX., AUG. 14, 1902.

The Dallas Times-Herald means well at all events. But it seems to have a fruitless task ahead in a constant agitation for paved streets.

The Dallas Times-Herald says: "Hades is paved with good intentions. So is Dallas." Yes, the step from one place to the other is a rather short one.

It certainly looks as though Fort Worth will have to push out her boundaries if we are to give due accommodation to everybody who will be coming our way between this date and August 14, 1903.

The Fort Worth Telegram now issues a fine 16-page Sunday morning number, omitting the Saturday evening paper. The Telegram is taking on new life under the change of management.—Sherman Democrat.

The Denison Herald comes about as near being a rattling, good, new newspaper as anyone could make it and a whole lot better than most publishers could accomplish. The Herald is the ideal small town newspaper.

The Chicago Live Stock World says: "Rain has rejuvenated Texas. What a grand state Texas would be did it but possess the humid climate of Illinois!" Great scott! Texas' troubles are not so many but it doesn't want to be burdened with the sun-stroke charged atmosphere of Illinois.

An exchange says that the striking telephone girls are said to have stimulated inventors in the work of finding some mechanical device which can be successfully substituted for the hello girls. That's all well enough, but what would be the use of further living if we were not to hear that angelic voice any more, "Line's busy. Call again."

This seems truly to be the age of consolidation. The Philadelphia Times and the Ledger of the same place, have been merged. Both were owned by Adolph Ochs, likewise the owner of the Chattanooga Times, and as each was being conducted along the same lines merging was inevitable. The new paper will become a powerful factor in eastern journalism.

An experienced advertiser tells the Milwaukee Sentinel that "any business enterprise, without exception, can increase its business (by advertising) to an extent that will warrant a continued advertising expenditure." This is merely to say, comments the Philadelphia Press, that it pays to let the people know that you are in business, and that there are reasons why they should trade with you.

MR. CARNEGIE'S SAFE ADVICE.

The collected essays of Andrew Carnegie, put out in book form recently, contain words that every thinker should read. Nowhere else can one find a higher grade of good advice, sound and sensible, than what is presented by the iron king. Samuel Smiles in his popular series of books makes a god of thrift. One rises from a perusal of them thoroughly impregnated with the idea that life without thrift is a barren waste. But, after all, there is something sordid about his philosophy. Mere money is made entirely too much of and one is never lifted to higher planes.

Carnegie, a man to whom Fort Worth will never be able to repay its debt of gratitude, on the contrary, preaches a gospel to which the world may subscribe to its own betterment. Poverty he rightly regards as the greatest of all blessings. He advises all young business men to avoid drink, or if they cannot bring themselves to total abstinence, to drink liquor only at their meals, and never to enter a saloon; to avoid speculation and indulging for friends except, if they will indulge, to the extent of the actual cash which they have in the bank over and above all their indebtedness, and to concentrate themselves upon one line of business. He distinctly does not make a god of money and places its value not in mere possession, but in the good that may be done with it. No young man can fail to be influenced for the good by what he has to say and no one who gives Mr. Carnegie's words an intelligent perusal can fail to be benefited by his sage advice and worthy counsels.

IRRIGATION IN TEXAS.

The last bulletin issued by Director Meriam of the census devotes considerable matter to the subject of Irrigation. While irrigation has been used in America as far back as the time of the old Pueblo tribes in New Mexico and Arizona, the public is still learning something of this wonderful aid to nature's rainfall by means of which arid regions have been transformed to oases and thousands of acres worthless without water, have been made valuable and flourishing with abundant vegetation.

The beginning of irrigation in this country by English-speaking people was contemporaneous with the beginning of rice growing in the Carolinas in 1700. For 150 years irrigation was confined to rice growing and its use confined to the regions of the rice field in the southeastern part of the country.

But to the much-berated Mormons do we owe the first systematic application of irrigation in the West. Driven by persecution from Illinois and Missouri, they hurried westward like a frightened flock and finally huddling on the shores of the great Salt Lake, found a stopping place. But the soil was so barren that their scanty crops would not grow till at last with starvation threatened them, they turned the waters of the little canyon streams upon the ground where Salt Lake City now stands.

About the same time, the gold miners of California were building ditches for placer mining and were beginning to use water from these ditches for irrigation. The epoch-making act in irrigation's history was the founding of the Greeley colony at the Colorado town of that name. There the wonderful success attained by ready irrigation's aid, brought the possibilities of this new form of cultivation to the country's notice, from which it has never since withdrawn. The Mormons entered Salt Lake Valley in 1847, and from a few hundred acres irrigated at that time by Indians, Mexicans and at California Missions, the amount of irrigated lands has grown to more than 7,000,000 acres in the United States in 1899. The value of crops produced from this irrigated land in 1899 was $86,860,491, while the total cost of constructing (not maintaining) the system that yielded these results, was but $67,770,942. While these figures of results in the arid states and territories are more graphic, the work in Texas is not the least interesting.

In 1889 there were a little over 1500 irrigators in Texas. In 1899 the number has grown to nearly 5000. In 1889 the total acreage irrigated in the state was 66,265. In 1899, the acreage had grown to 273,117, of which 264,561 acres were irrigated from streams and 8,556 acres from wells. The value of irrigated crops in 1899 was $2,000,248, and the cost of constructing the systems was $3,192,660, figures which show how quickly irrigation pays for itself, instead of merely paying interest on the investment.

Among rice-growing states in which irrigation is practiced, Texas ranks third with 8,700 acres under irrigation and producing 7,184,461 pounds of rice, the entire cost of the systems being $326,629. In states like California where at an original cost of $10.30 per acre for installing the system, and a yearly cost for maintenance of 60 cents per acre, the land has been made to give an average yield valued at $28.47 per acre, the most striking results of irrigation are seen. Similar wonderful results are gotten in Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Washington, but there is a future for irrigation in Texas.

The wonderfully rich soil, the wells of artesian water, may yet be made to help out nature during the "dry spells" of year, so that the great state may become not only the fairest, but the most productive and richest in the Union. Now the government is at work in the western part of the state, and the next report of the department will be even more interesting to the people of the Lone Star State who believe in a wonderful future before the great Southwest.

THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

Picking my way through a crowd in the street the other day I brushed against a woman, carrying in one arm an infant and leading by the other a little child. Something in the trio—I could not at first tell just what attracted me, and I turned to take another look. Then came the reason for my interest. It was the woman's eyes.

Thin, pale and worn, alike as to clothes and countenance, she had something in the look about her eyes which reminded me of the saints and madonnas of the old masters. Her queer, skewed raiment; her botch of a bonnet; her ungainly gait and the very drooping of her shoulders seemed only to accentuate the beauty in her eyes. And as she threaded a slow way through the hurrying masses, and guided the little one beside her in safety, it all came to me of a sudden what that look was. It was the mother in her.

Through frowning clouds of work and worry; through days of labor and nights of pain, there shone that light which when all the other lamps of earth are lighted, still sheds its beam above the beaming whole. You see it everywhere. Go where you will, in narrow street or flowered park, in pen or palace, it is at hand, a light that lightens the world. Crowd about it all the adverse circumstances that man and fate can devise and it seems only to shine the stronger. There is nothing like it on earth; it is a part of heaven.

And after all, when you have taken your eyes from the kaleidoscope of life, wherein you saw the countless colors and changes, the myriad beauties and the ill-matched combinations, what have you that equals the mother-light? Is there aught in the sky above or the earth beneath so full and fair? Is there anything so brave, so noble, so beautiful? No. It is the great gem in the bracelet of the world. If our swift turning globe shines in the sight of other worlds, it is because of the light in the mother's eyes. THE IDLER.

CASE 113 By... Emile Gaboriau

Synopsis. The discovery that 300,000 francs, ($70,000), has been stolen from the vaults of the bank of Andre Fauvel, throws suspicion on the cashier, Prosper Bertomy, who along with M. Fauvel knows the secret word of the combination lock which opens the safe. While the commissary of police with M. Fauvel, examines the latter's private office, the morning after the robbery, a detective, M. Fanferlot, over-sees a passionate scene between Bertomy, and Madeleine, niece of M. Fauvel, and suspecting that Bertomy loves her against Fauvel's wishes, has been made the victim of a plot by the latter, who robs the safe himself and throws the blame on the cashier. After the investigation, while the cashier and detective are waiting in a room of the bank, Bertomy writes a note, tosses it to his friend, Cavallion Detective Fanferlot secures the note addressed to Mme. Nina Gypsy advising her where to establish herself, taking with her all of Bertomy's possessions. Fanferlot recommends to her the Hotel Archange, where Mme. Nina goes. Meantime Prosper, thrust into prison, and believing himself alone, storms and rages in his cell.

In the evening when the jailer brought him his supper he found him lying on his pallet, with his face buried in the pillow, weeping bitter tears. He was not hungry. Now that he was alone, he fed upon his own bitter thoughts. He sank from a state of frenzy into one of stupefying despair. The night was long and terrible, and for the first time he had nothing to count the hours by as they slowly dragged on but the measured tread of the patrol who came to relieve the sentinels. He suffered agony. In the morning he dropped into a sleep, from which he was awakened by the rough voice of the jailer.

"Come, monsieur," he said, "to the judge of instruction." "Let us go," said Prosper, without stopping to repair his disordered toilet. During the passage the jailer said, "You are very fortunate in having your case brought before an honest man."

The jailer was right. Endowed with remarkable penetration, firm, unbiased, equally free from false pity and excessive severity, M. Patrigent possessed in an eminent degree all the qualities necessary for the delicate and difficult office of judge of instruction.

Prosper was escorted along a corridor, through a room full of policemen, down a flight of steps, across a kind of cellar and then up a steep staircase which seemed to have no end. Finally he reached a long, narrow gallery, upon which opened many doors bearing different numbers. Summoning all his courage, he placed his hand on the doorknob and was about to enter when the jailer stopped him.

"Don't be in such haste," he said. "Sit down here, and when your turn comes you will be called." The wretched man obeyed, and his keeper took a seat beside him. Presently a little old man dressed in black, wearing the insignia of his office, a steel chain, cried out: "Prosper Bertomy!"

Prosper arose and, without knowing how, found himself in the office of the judge of instruction.

M. Patrigent's homely face, with its irregular outline and short red whiskers, lit up by a pair of bright, intelligent eyes and a kindly expression, was calculated to impress one favorably at first sight.

"Well, he said abruptly, "you are accused of having robbed M. Fauvel of 300,000 francs. What have you to answer?"

"That I am innocent, monsieur; I swear that I am innocent."

"I hope you are," said M. Patrigent, "and you may count upon me to assist you to the extent of my ability in proving your innocence. Have you anything to say in your defense?"

"Ah, monsieur, what can I say when I cannot understand this dreadful business myself? I can only refer you to my past life."

The judge interrupted him with an impatient gesture.

"Let us be specific. The robbery was committed under circumstances that prevent suspicion from falling upon any one but M. Fauvel and yourself. Do you suspect any one else?"

"No, monsieur."

"You declare yourself to be innocent; therefore the guilty party must be M. Fauvel."

Prosper did not answer.

"Have you," persisted the judge, "any cause for believing that M. Fauvel robbed himself? If you have, say so."

The prisoner preserved a rigid silence.

"I see, monsieur," said the judge, "that you need time for reflection. Listen to the reading of your examination, and after signing it you will return to prison."

"Number three!" Witness No. 3, who was awaiting his turn and answered the call, was M. Fauvel.

Although he had very slightly examined Prosper, the judge was now scrupulously attentive and particular in having every question answered.

"Did you ever suspect your cashier of being dishonest?" he asked.

"Certainly not. Yet there were a thousand reasons which should have made me distrustful."

"What reasons?" "M. Bertomy gambled. I have known of his spending whole nights at the gaming table and losing immense sums of money. He was intimate with a bad set. Once he was mixed up with one of my clients, M. de Clameran, in a scandalous gambling affair."

"You must confess, monsieur," interrupted the judge, "that you were very imprudent, not to say culpable, to have intrusted your safe to such a man."

"Ah, monsieur, Prosper was not always thus. Until the past year he was a model of goodness. He was received into my house as one of my family. He spent all of his evenings with us and was the bosom friend of my eldest son, Lucien. Then suddenly he left us and never came to the house again. Yet I had every reason to believe him attached to my niece Madeleine."

"Then you can see no motive for your cashier's conduct?" "The banker paused to reflect.

"It is impossible for me to account for it. I have, however, always supposed that Prosper was led astray by a young man whom he met at my house about this time, M. Raul de Lagors."

"Ah! And who is this young man?" "A relative of my wife, a charming fellow, but somewhat wild, though rich enough to pay his way."

The judge listened attentively to this, then wrote the name Lagors at the bottom of an already long list of his memoranda.

"Now," he said, "we are coming to the point. You are sure that the robbery was not committed by any in your house?"

"Quite sure, monsieur."

"You always kept your key?" "Usually I carried it about on my person, and whenever I left it at home I put it in the secretary drawer in my bed chamber."

"Where was it the evening of the robbery?" "In my secretary."

"But then—" "Pardon me for interrupting you," said M. Fauvel, "and permit me to tell you that to a safe like mine the key is of no importance. In the first place, one must know the word upon which the five movable buttons turn. With the word one can open it without the key; but without the word—"

"And this word you never told to any one?"

"To no one in the world, monsieur, and sometimes I would have been puzzled to know myself with what word the safe had been shut."

"Had you forgotten it on the day of the theft?" "No; the word had been changed the day before, and its peculiarity struck me."

"What was it?" "Gipsy-G-l-p-s-y," said the banker, spelling the name.

M. Patrigent wrote down the name.

"One more question, monsieur. Were you at home the evening before the robbery?"

"No; I dined and spent the evening with a friend. When I returned home about 11 o'clock, my wife was in bed, and I went to bed immediately."

"And you were ignorant of what sum there was in the safe?" "Absolutely. After my positive orders I could only suppose that a small sum had been left there over night. I stated this fact to the commissary in M. Bertomy's presence, and he acknowledged it to be the case."

"That will do, monsieur." M. Patrigent was well informed of the high standing of the banker and knew almost as much of his affairs as did M. Fauvel himself. He asked him to sign his testimony and then escorted him to the door of his office, a rare favor on his part.

uneasy. To follow the Bertomy case alone it required a double play that might be discovered at any moment. To manage at once the cause of justice and his own ambition he took great risks, the least of which was the losing his place.

"I have had a great deal to do," he said to excuse himself, "and have not lost any time."

And he began to give a detailed account of his movements. He was embarrassed, for he spoke with all sorts of restrictions, picking out what was to be said and avoiding what was to be left unsaid. Thus he gave the history of Cavallion's letter, which he handed to the judge, but he did not breathe a word of Madeleine. On the other hand, he gave biographical details, very minute indeed, of Prosper and Mme. Gipsy, which he had collected from various quarters. As he heard the story M. Patrigent's convictions were strengthened.

"The young man is evidently guilty," he said.

Fanferlot did not reply. His opinion was different, but he was delighted that the judge was on the wrong track, thinking that his own glory would thereby be the greater when he discovered the real culprit. The fact was that this grand discovery was as far off as it had ever been.

After hearing all he had to tell, the judge dismissed Fanferlot, telling him to return in the morning.

"Above all," he said as Fanferlot left the room, "do not lose sight of the girl Gipsy. She must know where the money is and can put us on the track."

Fanferlot smiled knowingly.

"You may rest easy about that, monsieur. The lady is in good hands."

Left to himself, although the evening was far advanced, M. Patrigent continued to busy himself with the case and to arrange that the rest of the depositions should be made. This case had actually taken possession of his mind. It was at the same time puzzling and attractive. It seemed to be surrounded by a cloud of mystery, which he determined to penetrate.

The next morning he was in his office much earlier than usual. On this day he examined Mme. Gipsy, called Cavallion and sent again for M. Fauvel. For several days he displayed the same activity. Of all the witnesses subpoenaed only two failed to appear. The first was the office boy sent by Prosper to bring the money from the bank. He was ill from a fall. The second was M. Raul de Lagors. But their absence did not prevent the file of papers relating to Prosper's case from growing, and on the ensuing Monday, five days after the robbery, M. Patrigent thought he held in his hands enough moral proof to crush the accused.

A number of the roads have made "bookings" and a large number of sleeper reservations for Saturday's business.

Interurban Has Killed Nine Since the Road Opened

The time has come for the town cow to do about. A statement comes from the headquarters of the Northern Texas Traction company that since the line has been open between Fort Worth and Dallas nine animals have been dispatched.

The main trouble seems to be in Arlington and Oak Cliff, where the beef runs at large and at will. As for the road's operation standard rules are in use, and the schedule is fast.

A Noted Medical Specialist Speaks for the Benefit of Hot Weather Sufferers.

He Maintains That PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND Is a Banisher of Disease and a Restorer of Health.

A noted medical specialist—a physician possessing ample wealth—ever ready to acknowledge worth and merit, speaks of Paine's Celery Compound, as follows:

"In summer time, when strength fails, when that tired, listless feeling is experienced from day to day, when the digestive organs are not doing their work properly, when constipation is poisoning the blood, when disease with iron hand takes possession of the body, Paine's Celery Compound will be found a marvelous banisher of disease and a true health restorer."

This strong statement should influence all weak, rundown, and half sick men and women during the hot August weather. This remarkable indorsement of Paine's Celery Compound by an acknowledged specialist should at once convince the suffering, and diseased that Dr. Phelps' great medical discovery is what they need to restore perfect health. The thousands of lives fast wearing away can be saved and made happy and useful to families and friends. May Heaven speedily convince the doubting and despondent, and direct them to that un-failing life giver—Paine's Celery Compound.

THE FRISCO WILL APPLY

TO ASK LEGISLATURE FOR CONSOLIDATION OF LINES

HAS BEEN THE POLICY

Another Merger, Railroad Circles Say, Will Be the Southern Pacific Lines in Texas—No Opposition Two Years Ago

The troubles of the Frisco system in Texas of consolidating its four Texas lines under one management will probably be brought to an end upon the convening of the next legislature. Application was made to the railroad commissioner for authority to lease the short lines under the existing law, with the approval of that body, which, it is understood, was at one time granted, and later revoked. It is believed the request of the legal department which is to be made of the next legislature to consolidate the four lines in Texas under one head located in Fort Worth, will be granted without measured opposition, unless the 28th assembly reverses the attitude of former legislatures. The lines sought to be brought together are in no sense parallel or competing, but rather one a continuation of the other. The story given circulation yesterday that the Texas Midland would assume the management of the Paris and Great Northern is said to be without the slightest foundation.

Another consolidation which is being talked of liberally in railroad circles is that of what is known as the Huntington lines or Southern Pacific system. This does not include the Houston and Texas Central. The lines mentioned are the Houston, East and West Texas, the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio, the Gulf, West Texas and Pacific, the Texas and New Orleans, and feeder lines in South Texas. The matter of this consolidation was mentioned around the state capitol two years ago, and it was the opinion then that a concession would be granted.

One Way Settlers' Rate on Soon Transcontinental lines have announced this year they will offer a settler's rate to the territory of New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California. The rate is only applied in one direction, and will be $25 during the months of September and October. Rates do not apply to any points in Texas.

REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS

DENISON MAN ENGAGES ROOMS AT THE DELAWARE

Luitweiler Is Supporter of Cecil Lyon for State Chairman—He, Hawley, Terrell, Green and Others at the Worth

Judge E. H. Luitweiler of Denison yesterday engaged headquarters at the Delaware for the Republican State convention next month. He is a supporter of Cecil Lyon for re-election as state chairman, although his home town has a candidate in the person of Dr. A. W. Acheson.

Chairman Lyon will have headquarters at the Worth, and with him will be United States District Attorney Atwell, both of Dallas; Federal Judge Waller Burns of Houston, and a score of others.

Terrell of San Antonio, whose chief support is said to come from the following of former Congressman Hawley, will also be at the Worth.

Green is understood not to be a candidate for the chairmanship, and will give what support he can muster to Lyon. Terrell is making a great bid for the vote of the West Texas delegations, and his friends in El Paso have begun an organization.

A Lyon supporter said today it was believed the Tarrant county convention Saturday would endorse Lyon.

The next indictment embraced the names of the mayor, Fred Ames, Norbeck and Gardner. The date of this conspiracy was fixed at Oct. 1, 1901, at which time the persons named are accused of having conspired to commit the crimes of extortion and bribery. It is claimed that there were thirty-five women who were to pay between $15 and $30 per month for protection.

What is regarded as an achievement of the twentieth century has been reported in the reduction works of the Lake Superior Power company of Sault Ste. Marie. It is the manufacture of sulphurous gas—which is taken from nickel ore—into liquid or sulphuric acid. This has never before been done in commercial quantities. The product also is of a quality much superior to that made in the ordinary way, being marketable at $100 per ton, while the other is worth only $30.

The process by which it is made is one of compression and expansion, the invention of E. A. Sjosted, the chief metallurgist of the company, and he has been working on it ever since the reduction works were first built.

Thirty tons of the liquid were made, it is said, in one day. When the same company found a process by which the sulphur separated from the nickel ore could be saved, it solved the problem which had long baffled the leading scientists of the world, and the Soo plant is now the only one in the world where that natural product is not wasted in separation.

The gas taken from nickel in the roasting furnaces is used in the sulphite mill, where, with steam, it is turned into the digesters and used in "cooking" the pulp chips in the manufacture of sulphite pulp.

In Search of Biggest Bird.

Scientists are interested in a German expedition which is on its way to Africa. The party has set out on a search for a mammoth bird which, it is rumored, may be in existence in the heart of Madagascar. Epyornis is the name which has been given the creature, from the Greek "alpy," tall, and "ornis," bird. It is believed that the creature approaches in size the great prehistoric birds, and yet it is believed to have lived in large numbers within fairly recent times on the island of Madagascar.

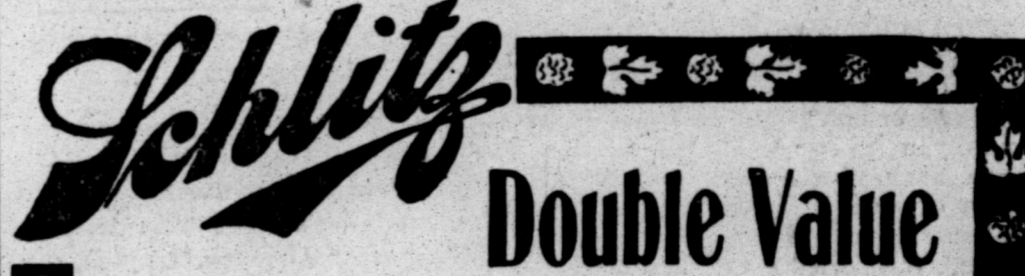

Effect of Lights on Eyes.

It will be interesting to hear that a Russian specialist has decided that the electric light has less damaging effect on the eyes than other forms of artificial light. Taking as his basis of deduction the number of times the patient closed the lids of his eyes, he found that the electric light was even less affective than the sunlight. To give the actual figures, the lids closed 6.8 times in a minute with candlelight, 2.8 times with gaslight, 2.2 times with sunlight and 1.8 times with the electric light.

HER MAJESTY

By Zoe A. Hutchings

Copyright, 1901, by Z. A. Hutchings

The prime minister mopped his forehead and the duchess dried her eyes. They had just been through a trying ordeal with her majesty the queen, who "would not marry the Duke Renard and would not marry the Prince Corray, state reasons or no state reasons." The minister and the duchess, the young queen's mother, had yielded and had sent her highness, triumphant, into the garden to make her proposal to her favored subject, the Earl of Norwood.

Queen Marie wandered along the garden paths until she espied Lord Norwood, and then she began plucking roses in embarrassment at his approach.

"Ah, my queen!" he said, bending his knee and pressing her hand to his lips. "You will hurt these tender hands with the cruel thorns. I shall break the roses for you."

"I have to tell you something," she said, with averted eyes.

"Do you really care? Have they consented? Oh, my queen, I never dared hope—"

"Consented to what, pray?" she said coldly. "I haven't told you anything."

"N-no," he stammered.

They walked on in silence between the rows of blooming azalea bushes. Suddenly she said, with an impatient movement of her hands:

"I wish I were a dairymaid."

"Why, your majesty?" he exclaimed, stopping short in amazement.

"Yes, I wish I were a dairymaid," she continued, "and I should be milking a good old cow, and then the farmer's lad would chase along, and he would look at me as if he were not afraid of me, and he would say: 'Oh, Marie—I mean, 'Oh, Tilly—I love you better than my wealth, better than my title—I mean, better than—than my plow. Will you be my wife? And I would say—I might say, 'Yes, if— if he would beg hard enough.'"

The queen hung her head and blushed.

"Would you say that?" Lord Norwood cried eagerly, seizing her hand. Then, remembering, he dropped it.

"I wish I were a farmer's lad!" he muttered impatiently. After an embarrassing pause, "You see, your majesty, we are slaves to custom, slaves to a sometimes annoying and severe master called etiquette and ceremony, and more abject slaves to our own miserable cowardice."

"Now, you will have to yield me the victory in the argument we had last night!" she said gleefully. "Confess that I was right when I said that people in humble life are happier than we of pomp and ceremony. At last you will have to say that I am right and you are wrong." And she laughed triumphantly, clapping her hands and pelting him with azalea blossoms.

"YOUR HUMBLE SERVANT AWAITS YOUR PLEASURE," HE ANSWERED.

"Say you are wrong quickly!" she ordered, seizing the sword from his scabbard and holding it above his head.

"No, I will not say it, not even to my queen," he answered, fascinated by her change of humor.

"What! Will not acknowledge you are in the wrong? Oh, fie!"

"But I'm not in the wrong. It is the way in which we look at things whether our environments need order our happiness or not."

"Ah, you are cornered! Did you not say a moment ago that we are the slaves of custom, which amounts to the same thing?"

"Well, then, we'll set custom aside," he said, a trifle piqued at being caught. "We'll suppose you to be a dairymaid, for you know you really are no better, being a mortal, and only elevated by swell," said she by the chance of custom."

"Indeed!" she said icily, tossing her head. "If so you consider me, we may as well discontinue any further acquaintance!" And she turned about and walked toward the castle. He was not prepared for this development and was for a moment too stunned to do anything but stare after her. Recovering himself, he sprang to her side.

"Your majesty," he cried, "forgive me! I did not think—I would not have vexed you for the world. It was only for the sake of argument, you know."

"Then say you have lost the argument," she said petulantly.

"No, I haven't lost it, because you would not hear me out!"

She started away again, but came back and said haughtily:

"Since you do not seem to understand my rank, I shall take the opportunity to let you know it and your own infernal—your own rank."

"Your humble servant awaits your most royal highness' pleasure," he answered, bowing coldly.

She seemed disconcerted, and, plucking some flowers, turned around at least three times.

"You must know—of course you know—it stands to reason that you know—I mean that you have always known how a queen must—it's the custom for her to—instead of the man—Why do you keep looking at me so? I don't believe you've winked your eyes once!"

The queen was almost in tears. "I shall look at that tree," he said, turning his head in another direction.

"Well, you know a queen has to, has always had to—oh, you do distract me so! Go behind that bush, where I can't see you."

He disappeared behind a tall bush, and she continued:

"It is supposed to be a great honor for a queen to bestow on a man, but sometimes the queen doesn't think it so. Sometimes the queen feels honored and would prefer to be asked. Can you see me?"

"Yes!" huskily.

"Look over the other way. But it is," she continued. "I must—oh, I cannot say it!" she cried, wringing her hands.

He rushed from behind the green foliage.

"Oh, my own: yes, you can! Just say it!" he pleaded. "Why, I could, easily!"

"Why don't you, then?" covering her face with her hands.

"Why—because—I—why, just say—just say—just anything!"

"Well, go back again, then," she said weakly. But when he disappeared she burst into angry tears.

"I'll not do it!" she cried, stamping her foot. "I'll never, never, never do it!" And she fled to the house.

The prime minister thought he had never seen quite so perverse and intractable a queen, while the duchess pleaded and commanded in vain.

"No; I'll not do the proposing! I'll stay an old maid!"

"We will allow her six months to make up her mind," said the minister wearily.

"Allow! Allow! Since when did you become queen? What! Six months, indeed! I'll be married this very minute!" And then the queen ran from the room in a passion, down the steps, into the garden.

"Where are you going?" asked the Earl of Norwood, meeting her.

"I'm going down to the village to marry the blacksmith!" she answered, hurrying past him. He ran after her and caught her hands.

"Oh, my queen! Oh, Marie! I love you, I love you better than my wealth, better than my title! Say that you love me! Say it quickly!"

He held her in his arms.

"I am as happy as a dairymaid!" she whispered.

"And I as a farmer's lad!"

"Waken, Lords and Ladies Gay, On the Mountain Dawns the Day."—Scott.

The sleeping-car that leaves Fort Worth on our night train is ready to receive passengers at NINE o'clock, each evening, and this car is set out at Colorado Springs for guests to vacate at their leisure. The place where the car waits is only about six miles from the mountains, and a beautiful sight greets the wakers from that long, refreshing Colorado sleep—under blankets.

This night train also has a sleeper that goes into Denver, reaching there at a comfortable rising time. Both of our daily THRU TRAINS have those sleepers with "Large, Ladies' Dressing rooms," also meals served in our own Cafe Dining cars,—a la carte service, 25c and up per individual. These special features of distinguishing excellence are among the characteristics that have, now for some time, made appropriate the "Only-One-Road" — and "You-Don't-Have-to-Apologize" verdict of persons who are capable of appreciating good service and making distinctions.

WANT TO GO TO CLOUDCROFT? Well, we have the best and shortest line there, too.

Just call up phone 561, or drop into our office at the Hotel Worth.

SOME FIGURES TAKEN FROM BANKRUPTCY RECORDS

Less Than Three Hundred Applications Filed Since Establishment of Court—List of Counties for Each District

During the filing of a bankruptcy application in the deputy United States district court clerk's office this morning, an attorney, the deputy clerk and a Telegram representative did a little figuring which resulted in obtaining some information which may be of interest, at any rate, it shows a most favorable condition of affairs with reference to bankruptcy matters. Presuming that every man, firm or corporation who is in position to need the protection of the bankruptcy law has taken advantage of it, the conclusion is naturally drawn that Texas people are in better circumstances in this particular than they are in many of the older states. As an evidence of the fact that this district is in fairly good condition so far as business interests are indicated by the bankruptcy court, there have been only 285 cases in bankruptcy filed in this district since the establishment of the court on July 1, 1898. The first case was filed on August 4, 1898, just four years ago—an average of less than 6 per month for 48 counties returnable to Fort Worth. Since July of the present year, by reason of the redistricting, there have been 51 counties. The counties returnable to Fort Worth are: Comanche, Hood, Erath, Tarrant, Parker, Palo Pinto, Wise, Clay, Jack, Young, Archer, Wichita, Wilbarger, Baylor, Bailey, Hardeman, Cottle, Motley, Briscoe, Childress, Collingsworth, Donley, Armstrong, Randall, Deaf Smith, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Wheeler, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts, Hutchinson, Hansford, Sherman, Moore, Hartley, Dallam, Foard, Farmer, Swisher, Castro, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Dawson and Hockley.

The Dallas district has only seven, as follows: Navarro, Johnson, Ellis, Kaufman, Dallas, Rockwall and Hunt.

The Abilene district is represented by Eastman, Stephens, Throckmorton, Shackelford, Callahan, Taylor, Jones, Haskell, Knox, Nolan, Fisher, Stone-wall, Kent, Dickens, King, Crosby, Garza, Lubbock, Gaines, Andrews, Mitchell, Scurry, Borden, Howard, Martin, Midland, Yoakum, Terry and Lynn counties.

Counties returnable to San Angelo are: Glascock, Sterling, Tom Green, Crockett, Schleicher, Sutton, Irion, Mills, Runnels, Coleman, Concho, Menard, Brown and Upton.

Following are the dates of convening of the United States district courts for Fort Worth, Dallas, Abilene and San Angelo:

Fort Worth—First Monday in November. Second Monday in March.

Dallas—Second Monday in January. First Monday in May.

Abilene—First Monday in October. Second Monday in April.

San Angelo—Third Monday in October. Fourth Monday in April.

Of the 285 cases filed here, all but very few of them have been finally settled, and the petitioners are free to enter into the active paths of business life again.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by N. E. Grammer, Druggist.

THE PACKERS ARE INDIFFERENT

Said to Be Pruning Down for Regular Packing Season

Drovers' Journal: "This is the time of the year," said a hog man, "when packers are always indifferent. They are getting ready to prune things down before the regular packing season opens October 1. They see ahead a big corn crop, which means that hogs will be made later on 30-cent corn instead of that which costs 50 and 60 cents. All things point to lower prices, and as packers have a light demand for fresh meat, it is probable that they will continue their berish tactics."

TELLS OF TRIP TO FORT WORTH

Cleburne Review's Story of Recent Visit to Packing Plants

The Cleburne Review prints an extended and well written story of the editor's trip to Fort Worth on the occasion of the Stock Yards company's invitation and draws a general conclusion in the following terms: "Now, going through all this, The Review representatives were compelled ed to acquiesce in the philosophy of the old negro and say, 'De world do move.' This description is not complete. There are thousands of things that might be mentioned, but these few remarks will show the Johnson county farmer that there is now a market for all his live stock, if fat. The packeries want fat live stock. They do not want 'canners,' for 'the poor we always have with us.' Poor cattle are not very salable. The packeries are going to double the price of land in Johnson county in a few years. They have got to have the live stock and a perpetual market is thus established for everything from a fat hen to a fat steer. The Review here and now advises the farmers to get in line and heaves to reap a part of this rich harvest. Lead the procession; do not follow."

ALL YE THAT ARE HEAVY LADEN

An Invitation to Gather under the Tent of the People's Party.

The Allied People's Party has issued the following invitation to the voters at large to come into the People's party fold:

"Whereas, in view of the fact that the masses have received little or no recognition from the powers that be looking to an amelioration of their slavish condition, the Allied Reform party of Texas hereby resolves to extend an earnest and cordial invitation to all who toil to come with us to the end that all may be benefited by the efforts of all, and be it further

"Resolved, that we believe the principles, both political and economical, embodied in the platform are but the ethics of Christ applied to questions of governmental policy."

RURAL MAIL ROUTES IN SIGHT FOR HERE

POSTMASTER BURROUGHS LOOKS FOR INSPECTION OF LOCAL TERRITORY

Rural Mail Route Inspector Colclazer has promised Postmaster Burroughs to come to Fort Worth and look over the territory covered by the petitions for farmers wanting free delivery routes. The promise was made a short time ago in Dallas where Postmaster Burroughs met Mr. Colclazer, and the latter said that he intended coming to Fort Worth this week to look over the territory. He is expected daily, but he has sent no further word of his coming. At the time he made the promise to come here, Mr. Colclazer mentioned having received from Washington one petition from Fort Worth, but at least three petitions have been sent in and it is likely that he will go over all three routes at the time of his visit.

The star route running from this city to Birdville has almost been transferred into a rural free delivery route and the carrier is having a great deal more trouble in delivery than he anticipated when he made his contract. Farmers along the six miles of the route, sent in petitions to have mail delivered to them and the department at Washington backed up their requests with the information that they must be granted. So instead of carrying the mail to Birdville alone, the carrier has to leave mail all along the route. As the carrier drives back to Fort Worth over the same road on which he goes out a little change could make the star route into a rural free delivery one.

THE RAILWAY POSTAL CLERKS

TWO NATIONAL CONVENTIONS WILL MEET NEXT MONTH

Local Delegates Will Leave About September 10—Session Convened in Buffalo, N. Y., for Three Days

Interest among railway postal clerks is centered in the two national conventions of the two most prominent organizations, which meet September 16-19 in Buffalo, N. Y.

The two organizations are the United States Railway Mail Service Mutual Benefit association and the National Association of Railway Postal Clerks. Both have large memberships throughout the country, and nearly every mail clerk running out of Fort Worth is in either one or the other.

The delegates to the convention of the Mutual Benefit association from the territory over which the branch of the service having headquarters in the Federal building, has jurisdiction, are as follows: W. M. Waddell, Denton; J. P. Smith, San Antonio; H. C. Crouch, McNeil, Ark., and J. T. Emmett, St. Louis.

The Association of Railway Postal Clerks in this territory are: Ed McTae of Fort Worth and H. B. Myers, New Orleans.

There is also much interest in the ladies' auxiliary to the last named organization, Mrs. C. J. Taylor of Fort Worth, being the delegate to the convention and Mrs. S. M. Gaines of Fort Worth, alternate.

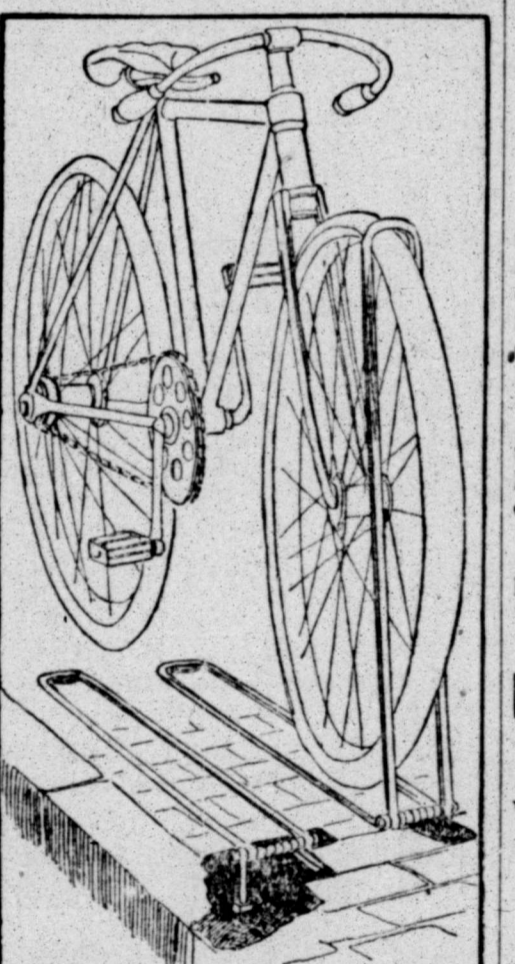

The conventions will be of interest to all railway postal clerks in the country, several thousand in number, and matters of interest pertaining to their work, will be discussed. W. P. Craig of Handley, who has a mail run out of Fort Worth, is vice president of the Mutual Benefit Association for the Eleventh division. Officers of the National Association of Railway Postal Clerks in this division are Ed Rutledge of San Antonio, who is vice president of the national association, and Sol E. Washburn of Houston, who is division president.

The delegates expect to leave about September 10 or 12. Many will visit Niagara Falls and other points of interest while in the east and try to forget the rocking of swaying mail cars while they enjoy themselves.

NEW BICYCLE STAND.

Convenient Device For Use on Sidewalks. Most bicycle stands now used on sidewalks are bulky contrivances, occupying considerable space and presenting annoying obstructions to pedestrians. Herewith is shown a stand of very simple construction which when not in use folds down automatically into the sidewalk, thus offering no obstacle to foot travel. The stand consists merely of a rod bent to an elongated U shape and designed to engage the sides and upper surface of a bicycle wheel. The two legs of this stand are coiled at their lower ends about a bar secured in a recess in the sidewalk. The sidewalk is also provided with a channel for receiving the device when folded.

The ends of the rod extend outward, continues the Scientific American, and form anchors to prevent the device from swinging too far rearward. These ends may be brazed together, and when the device is turned up in operative position the ends will engage a metal plate secured to the wall of the recess, thus holding the stand at a slight forward incline, so that when the wheel is removed it will fall by gravity to its position in the sidewalk.

The channel can be easily formed in a wooden or stone sidewalk by the use of suitable tools, or if a concrete walk is used the simplest way of forming the channel is to press the rod into the concrete while the material is still wet. The inventor of this simple stand is Mr. Louis H. Knoche of San Jose, Cal.

If You Have Pain in Your Back

Do Not Be Deceived. You Have Kidney Trouble, and You Do Not Need a Physician to Tell You So.

Let us give you a piece of advice: Pain in the back is an almost infallible sign of kidney disease; a sure sign is the condition of your urine. If you have a pain in the back then look to the condition of your urine. It is easily done. Take a glass tumbler and fill it with urine, after it has stood 24 hours. If it has a sediment, if it is milky or cloudy, if it is pale or discolored, stringy orropy, your kidneys and bladder are in a dangerous condition and need immediate attention, or the consequences may prove fatal.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the one medicine that really cures all diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation, and it will take you but a short trial to convince yourself of its wonderful curative power.

G. F. Sammer of No. 409 Tioga street, Syracuse, N. Y., in a recent letter says: "I was afflicted for years with severe pains in my back and kidneys. I tried many doctors and many medicines, but got no relief; for over two years I scarcely had a good night's rest on account of backache in a most distressing form. I bought a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and commenced to use it, and I must say I never imagined I should find such a wonderful cure. Why I feel like a young man again in spite of my 59 years."

All druggists sell Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in the new 50 cent size and the regular $1.00 size bottles. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y.

LUMBER CHEAP, SAYS DEALER

Building Material Now Lower Than It Has Been in Several Months

"Lumber is now cheaper than it has been for five or six months," said a local dealer this morning. But while the price is lower, the contractors have considerable trouble in figuring deals. There are several prospective buildings, work on which is delayed because the contractors cannot arrive at figures satisfactory to the prospective builders. That lumber is lower instead of higher, is a somewhat unusual condition, and it will doubtless be taken advantage of.

FREE PLANTING

It is too early to plant trees now, but a good time to decide upon what to plant. We grow our own trees and can deliver them and plant them a few hours after being dug. These are far superior to trees shipped from a distance which have been out of the ground several days or weeks. Call at our nursery at Riverside and pick out the trees or leave word at our store, 415 Houston street, and we will call and make estimate on the job. If our trees do not grow you know where to find us. BAKER BROS.

Weather Cool in Eureka Springs

FORT WORTH CITIZENS

Will Be Interested in What Dr. J. W. McIntosh Has to Say.

Editor Telegram: "During the past year I have treated in Fort Worth and vicinity many hundreds of patients suffering from chronic diseases of nearly every variety, and not in a single instance have I failed to effect a cure where my advice has been followed to the end. This leads me to believe nearly all chronic maladies can be cured. So well satisfied am I of this fact that I will give a written guarantee of a positive cure to every patient I treat, or in case of failure I will forfeit the entire fee. To those who are ailing and whose cases have baffled others, this will be glad news, so I would be pleased to see it published in your columns.

"The maladies which prevail in this section and which I am most often called upon to treat are catarrh and catarrhal deafness, male and female weakness, varicocele, blood and skin diseases, gonor, cancer, rupture and all diseases of the rectum, also the opium habit. Scores of representative citizens who have been cured by me will bear evidence of this fact."

J. W. McIntosh is the chief consulting associate physician of the British Medical Institute, located at rooms 2 and 3 Dundee Building. He makes no charge for examination, and should he find you incurable, he will frankly tell you so. Hours 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sundays 10 to 1.
