HEARST'S MEN VISIT AT THE STATE HOUSE

They Come in the Interest of His Candidacy for the Nomination for President

SEEM TO BE SATISFIED WITH THEIR SUCCESS

Sec. Hearst Represents a Compromise Between Bryanism and Clevelandism

AUSTIN, Texas, March 31.—(Special.)—Judge Charles C. Walsh, secretary of the democratic national committee, and Colonel M. F. Ihmsen of New York, secretary of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, were two distinguished visitors to the state house yesterday.

The gentlemen have only recently visited the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Arkansas in the interest of Mr. Hearst, a candidate for the presidency.

Asked as to what Mr. Hearst would make the leading issue in his campaign before the convention for the nomination, Colonel Ihmsen replied with seriousness and much emphasis: "The anti-trust principle."

BRINGS UP THE ICE TRUST. Continuing, he said: "The ice trust in New York presented the same conditions. In the crowded tenement districts of that city ice was as much of a necessity to the people during the period of extreme heat as bread."

AGAINST HILL. Figures show the weakness of the Up-State Leader of Democrats. NEW YORK, March 31.—The democratic primaries and conventions which are now being held throughout the state of New York show that every county where the democrat vote is strong, the caucuses and conventions are against Hill.

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, March 31.—The receipts of cattle by railroads today were less than 700 head, but with a good liberal supply of the best-in-stuff, the total run was increased to close around 1,050 head.

A large percentage of the offering consisted of steers, which sold strong and active at $3.30@3.55, with a top of $2.70 for a good string of heavy fed steers, averaging 1,225 pounds, driven in from the feed lots near the yards and marketed by M. Sansom.

Cows were scarce with all qualities offered. One small sale of three cows, averaging 1,012 pounds, was made at $3.05, with the bulk of ordinary stuff at $1.50@2.20.

Calves and bulls sold steady at unchanged prices.

A supply of 1,300 hogs constituted the day's supply for trading and, with discouraging reports of bad weather in the northern markets, the local market, although lullied by the competition of California buyers, broke at 5c to 10c lower from yesterday's price heavy hogs averaging 261 pounds, sold to the local packers at $5.07 1/2, with a top of $5.10 for good quality medium weight packing hogs, weighing around 180 to 225 pounds.

Pigs lights and ordinary quality stuff has, as a rule, for the past few days suffered more than the heavy killing grades, and in each case where a decline is noticeable, this end of the run shows the heaviest loss.

The general movement continues to hold up moderately well, with anything like decent conditions in the north, salesmen predict values to hover around the $5 mark for the next few weeks.

IN THE COURTS

NEED JURY TIMBER.—An official connected with the district court today thought a plea against the methods employed by a great many people to evade jury service. The gentleman said that it has been demonstrated that there exists an aversion against sitting on juries, and in order to avoid this service many are not paying their taxes. The law provides that all those who fail to pay taxes are not eligible as jurors.

"It is a shame to force farmers and others who live in the country to neglect their crops, etc., and come to town to act as jurors in both the district and county courts, but this is being done during nearly every term of court," said the court official. He further said that he knew of twenty business men who were keeping off juries by not settling their taxes.

NORTH SIDE AND ROSEN HEIGHTS

People Want Main Street Improved as Agreed by the Traction Company.

Nash Furniture Company.

North Side residents who have occasion to use Main street between Exchange avenue and Twentieth street are very desirous of having the street improved. The Northern Texas Traction Company in regard to its fulfilling of its agreement with the city in the matter of improving this portion of the street, as was specified in the franchise granting the company a double track privilege.

In consideration of a franchise for a double track the Traction Company agreed to widen the street so that heavy traffic would not be seriously inconvenienced by the street cars. This has practically nothing been done toward the improvement of the street. The recent heavy rain badly damaged the street near Marine creek, the overflow of the creek washing away a part of the high embankment carrying off the ballast beneath the car tracks. The Traction Company in remedying this matter did not improve the street further than placing the dirt and ballast back as it was.

In view of the fact that the franchise of the Rosen Heights line on this part of Main street the people think that the Traction Company should put the street in good condition, as agreed at the time of receiving their franchise.

POLITICAL SITUATION.—All is quiet along the Potomac of political feeling and further than an active canvass by the various candidates no new party has been formed. The question of voting the county school district which embraces North Fort Worth under municipal jurisdiction is still receiving some encouragement, but the matter is too premature for a definite decision to be made at the forthcoming election. This question must be decided by a general election which, if conducted separately, will involve a heavy expense to the city.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.—Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Eastham entertained informally a few friends at their home on Rosen Heights last night.

George L. Deupree, who was painfully injured by a steer yesterday morning at the stock yards, is much better today, and will be able shortly to resume his work at the yards.

T. W. Houston of South Texas was a visitor on the North Side today. Mr. Houston is looking at residence property with a view of locating here.

VLADIVOSTOK, March 31.—Concern is felt here that the Lord of 3,000 reindeer, the last specimens of that animal, now on Askold island, which is within range of the Japanese guns, shall be destroyed. The herd is valued at a half million dollars. The horns of the reindeer are very valuable. They are used by the Chinese as medicine.

COUNTRY IN STATE OF SEIGE.—PORT ARTHUR, March 31.—A proclamation has been made by Lieutenant General Stoessel, commanding here, declaring the Japanese merchantmen in a state of siege and forbidding all unauthorized persons to approach the fortifications and batteries and announcing that the sentries have been ordered to shoot any one who fails to obey the order. Police measures adopted at Port Arthur are excellent and perfect order is maintained.

PRIZE MONEY FOR RUSSIANS.—PETERSBURG, March 31.—For sinking the Japanese merchantman, the El Sungari Straits at the opening of the war $75,000 has been distributed in prize money to the crews of the four cruisers of the Vladivostok squadron. Invalid Rear Admiral, concludes General Mishchenko reports that the Japanese are continuing their concentration and are gradually advancing on their way to Wiju, the advance guard being at Kail San and the outposts ten miles further north. The admiral declines to predict the future phases of the Japanese advances upon Yalu.

In connection with the activity of the Chinese along the Shan Hai Kwan Railroad, the Bourge Gazette warns the powers of the unreliability of Chinese neutrality and it believes they are making a serious mistake, declaring that the Celestials are going to astonish the world when the world least expects it.

The Gazette further declares it is the duty of the powers to take collective action to strengthen the pressure at Peking in order to compel the non-participation of China in the war, and concludes: "Russia can not forever play the flight of a dog to the civilisation in the Far East."

Novoe Vremya advises the government to protest against the violation of the Geneva convention in hoisting the Red Cross to protect Japanese troops in the fight at Chong Ju, Russia thinks that Marine Minister Yamamoto's speech Tuesday last before a Japanese parliament about the difficulty encountered at Port Arthur was designed to throw the Russians off guard and believes that the Japanese will do every thing in their power to take Port Arthur, because if they fail the Japanese will be reduced solely to a land campaign in Korea.

WEATHER FORECAST

Every water cooler looked like a department store bargain counter on Monday, as puffing, perspiring humanity crowded around and begged like the rich man in the parable. "Hot; isn't it?" was heard on every side, but in reality it was not hot, the thermometer only reaching 69 this morning, but what the thermometer didn't do general humidity did, and to the man mopping his brow with his handkerchief it was the same. Showers and cooler weather, however, are promised to relieve the present conditions, and tomorrow will be pleasant and generally fair.

FORECAST.—The forecast for Texas issued at New Orleans, is as follows:

North—Tonight probably showers; colder; Friday fair; colder in west portion; showers, colder in the east portion.

South—Tonight and Friday unsettled weather and probably showers; colder in west portion tonight; colder Friday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—Forecasters George Reeder issued the following statement of weather conditions this morning:

"The storm area has remained nearly stationary, and while it has filled up somewhat the center, which is in Oklahoma, is more conspicuously developed; the tendency is to move east-north-east. Thunder storm showers are quite well distributed in front of the center, including Eastern Kansas, Missouri and Illinois, but no precipitation occurred in Texas or the lower valley, although under the storm's influence. Moderate showers fell over portions of the wheat belt, including Nebraska and the Dakotas; snow is falling in Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, the result of a cold wave, which is drifting southward in the rear of the low."

THE CITY ELECTION

During the closing days of the campaign the socialists and the republicans are making an effort to bring out votes for their tickets against the democratic nominees. The democratic ticket is headed by Thomas J. Powell, whose service as mayor has been satisfactory to the people. Mayor Powell and the council have built the viaduct, have put in a fine water system by which artesian water is supplied to the entire city at a comparatively small cost, streets have been paved, and the fixed charge of interest has been reduced. This has been done without the issue of bonds. Against this ticket is offered the theories of the socialists who appeal to the workman to support them because they will give him the earth, while it is a matter of record that the greatest labor organization in the world—the American Federation of Labor—has failed to see in socialism that which will benefit the workman and has on every occasion turned down a resolution of endorsement which is annually offered. The socialists admit that to bring about the changes they desire will be to work a revolution in government affairs. Neither the country or the city is prepared for such a revolution, and the voters of Fort Worth will not be led by the glittering generalities which are offered by the imported speaker who comes in this campaign to talk for those on the ticket who cannot talk for themselves.

The republican offering is less worthy of notice than the socialists. Dr. Broiles was at one time mayor of this city, and the city is today paying interest on bonds which were issued to take up the floating indebtedness contracted by the credit system which he carried on in city affairs. The candidates for aldermen have offered not a single reason why the democrats should be displaced and the positions given to them. They claim to be making the race simply on personal popularity. Therefore, if anything the socialist has the better claim for a hearing because he does offer to make a change in city affairs, and it is up to the voter to decide whether that change will be a beneficial one. The Telegram does not think it will.

The democrats promise a continuance of the good government which has been the policy of the administration. Since Mayor Powell and the aldermen now in the council took charge the policy has been one of progress and improvement, considering at all times the cost to the people of the advancement made. Where it has been worth it, the council has made the improvement, and where it has not been worth it the improvement has been delayed. The schools have been bettered from year to year; the streets have been improved and the council has made an effort to keep pace in city affairs with the constantly growing population which is here to be provided with a safe and stable government.

Next Tuesday is the day of the election, and when it arrives every democrat who has a poll tax receipt should go to the polls. The opposition to the democratic ticket is making an effort to bring out all their votes, and it is the duty of the democratic voters to attend the election and support the ticket which was nominated in January. The working people will not be drawn from the Powell ticket by the appeals made to them, as the record of Mayor Powell throughout his four years of office has been to do for them as they asked. He refused to promise them before he was elected, but since he has had the office he has never turned down a request they have made to him.

RURAL ROUTE CARRIERS

The postoffice department of the government has never been disposed to treat fairly the newspapers of the country, and now the ruling genius of that branch has succeeded in enlisting the members of congress in the war. The house of representatives in discussing the postoffice appropriation bill has incorporated a provision which absolutely prohibits the rural free delivery carrier from acting as agent of the newspapers with which he may be in touch by reason of his location. It has been a custom from time immemorial for the country postmaster to act as a subscription agent for any newspaper. It gives him an opportunity to make not only a small amount in commissions and it is a convenience to the patrons of his office, as it saves them the trouble and expense of correspondence. When the rural free delivery system was established the people of the country saw in this an opportunity for the rural residents to get the daily newspapers much earlier than through the ordinary course of mail. For instance, a carrier leaving a postoffice at 3 o'clock in the afternoon would drive by a newspaper office and get the papers for subscribers along his route. These papers would be weighed and the postage paid to the government, and they would reach the subscribers upon the day of publication, keeping the rural resident in close touch with the happenings of the world. If it is required that these papers be sent through the postoffice they would not reach the subscriber until twenty-four hours old, in which event they are useless.

The matter was up for general debate in committee of the whole house a few days ago, and Mr. Foster of Vermont said: "Many of the people of my district take the New York Sun; it is their political bible. The fast paper train leaves New York at 3 o'clock in the morning, the minute the papers come from the presses, and they can not be rolled up in individual envelopes. These bundles go to Troy on this fast train and thence to my district. The letter carriers then take these papers and distribute them along their routes. The result is that the farmers in the southern part of my district have the New York Sun delivered to them in the afternoon of the day it is printed, when, if they were required to be sent through the mails, as the postmaster general asks, they could not get them until the next day.

Such conveniences have made the rural free delivery service valuable to the people of the outlying sections, and to emancipate it so that it will not have that value, the house of representatives has passed the measure which is prohibitory of such a convenience. It is no longer to be allowed, unless in some way the senate can be persuaded to incorporate the matter in the bill when it reaches that body, and force it over the house, over the protests of the presiding genius of the postoffice department.

The Telegram had some correspondence with a member from Texas on this subject and he has written back that rural carriers use the privilege to urge the people to subscribe to republican newspapers. Suppose he does. The democratic carrier will put forward the democratic newspaper, and as for the partisanship, there is no objection. If a subscriber wants a republican newspaper, let him take it, but let the rural carrier be the same accommodation to the rural resident as the country postmaster has been before the rural carrier forced him out of business.

The White Company by A. Conan Doyle

SYNOPSIS.

Alleyne Edricson, who has been raised in a monastery, at the age of 20 leaves and goes to seek his brother, the Scoman of Minstead. At an inn he meets Hordie John, a renegade brother from the monastery. To the inn comes Sam Alyward, a soldier fresh from the French wars, who tells of the glory and wealth to be gained there. Hordie John enlists with Alyward, who is on his way with a message to Sir Nigel Loring, asking him to take command of the White Company for the invasion of Spain. Alleyne, with Alyward and John journeys towards Minstead. They try to induce Alleyne to join them and go to France. Nearing Minstead, Alleyne sees a man and a woman walking towards the castle. Alleyne rescues a young lady from his brother's unsought embraces, and is driven from the house with dogs. After leaving the young lady, Alleyne starts to overtake his former companions. He joins them, goes to Sir Nigel's castle, where Alyward presents his letter. Alyward meets an old companion in arms and takes up an old quarrel.

"We have seen good work together, old war-dog," quoth Alyward, "and by my hit! we may hope to see more ere we die. But, comrade, it is in my mind that there is some smaller matter of dispute still open between us."

"Fore God, it is sooth!" cried the other; "I had forgot it. The provost-marshal and his men tore us apart when last we met."

"On which, friend, we vowed that we should settle the point when next we came together. Hast thy sword,

"Not I, in troth," replied the other. "I have had other things to think of. There was some sort of bickering over dice, or wine, or was it a woman, coz?"

"Pasques Dieu! but you have nicked it," cried Alyward. "It was indeed about a woman, for I am still of the same mind as before." "What of the woman, then?" asked Simon. "May the murrain strike me if I can call to mind aught about her."

"It was La Blanche Rose, at Limoges. Bless her pretty heart! Why, I loved her."

"So did a many," quoth Simon. "I call her to mind now. On the very day that we fought over the little hussy, she went off with a long-legged Welsh daggman. They have a hostel of their own now, somewhere on the banks of the Garonne."

"So ends our quarrel, then," said Alyward, sheathing his sword. "The old soldiers and Hordie John strode off together in all good fellowship. Alleyne had turned to follow them, when he felt a touch upon his shoulder and found a young page by his side.

"The Lord Loring commands," said the boy, "that you will follow me to the great chamber and await him there."

Alleyne followed the messenger to the east end of the courtyard, where a broad flight of steps led up to the doorway of the main hall. Up the broad steps Alleyne went, still following his boyish guide, until the latter paused and ushered him into the main hall of the castle.

On entering the room the clerk looked round, but seeing no one, he continued to stand, his cap in his hand, examining with the greatest interest a chamber which was so different to any to which he was accustomed.

In the great stone fireplace a log even as he hesitated, the mirror was whirled in and a tall and stately young lady swept out from behind the oaken screen. Alleyne started with astonishment as he recognized the very maiden who had suffered from his brother's violence in the forest. She no longer wore her gay riding dress, but was attired in a long, sweeping robe of black velvet of Burges, with delicate tracery of white lace at neck and at wrist. Beautiful as she had seemed to him before, the little charm of her figure and the proud free grace of her bearing were enhanced now by the rich simplicity of her attire.

"Ah, you start," said she, "and I cannot marvel at it. Didst not look to see the distressed damsel again. Oh, that I were a minstrel that I might put it into rhyme, with the whole romance—the luckless maid, the wicked Soeman and the virtuous clerk!"

"What I did," said Alleyne, "was too small a thing for thanks, and yet, if I may say it without offence, it was too grave and near a matter for mirth and rallery. It is a joy to me to see you again, lady, and to know that you have reached home in safety, if this be indeed your home."

"Yes, in sooth, Castle Twynham is my home, and Sir Nigel Loring my father. Oh, dear, but it was brave to see you!" she cried, bursting out laughing once more. "You drew back and came forward with your eyes upon my book there, like the mouse who sniffs the cheese and yet dreads the trap."

"I take shame," said Alleyne, "that I should have touched it." "Nay, it warmed my very heart to see it. So glad was I that I laughed for very pleasure. My fine preacher can himself be tempted then, thought I; he is not made of another clay to the rest of us."

Sir Nigel entered the room with a silvery-haired old lady upon his arm. "Alleyne Edricson," he said, "I would have a word with you, for I would fain that you should take service under me. And here in good time comes my lady, without whose counsel it is not my wont to decide aught of import; but, indeed, it was her own thought that you should come."

"For I have formed a good opinion of you and can see that you are one who may be trusted," said the Lady Loring. "And my dear lord hath need of such a one by his side. You have seen the cloisters; it were well that you should see the world, too, ere you make choice for life between them."

"It was for that very reason that my father willed that I should come forth into the world at my 20th year," said Alleyne.

"Then your father was a man of good counsel," said she. "You can ride?" asked Sir Nigel. "Yes, I have ridden much at the abbey."

"Yet there is a difference betwixt a friar's hack and a warrior's dretler. You can sing and play?" "On citrele, flute and rebek."

"Good! You can read blazonry?" "Indifferently well."

"I trust that you are lowly and serviceable. 'I have served all my life, my lord.' 'Canst carve, too?' 'I have carved two days a week for the brethren.' 'A model, truly! Wilt make a squire of squires. But tell me, I pray, canst curl hair?'"

"No, my lord, but I could learn." "It is of import," said he, "for I love to keep my hair well ordered, seeing that the weight of my helmet for thirty years hath in some degree frayed it upon the top." He pulled off his velvet cap as he spoke and displayed a pate which was as bald as an egg. "You see," said he, whisking round, and showing one little strip of scattered hairs, "these locks need some little oiling and curling, for I doubt not that if you look slantwise at my head, when the light is good, you will yourself perceive that there are places where the hair is sparse."

"It is for you also to bear the purse," said the lady; "for my lord is so free and gracious that he would give it to the first who asked alms of him. All these things, with the grace and hardihood and courtesy which are proper at your age, will make you a fit squire for Sir Nigel Loring!"

"Alas! lady," Alleyne answered, "I know well the great honor that you have done me in deeming me worthy to wait upon so renowned a knight, yet I am so conscious of my own weakness that I scarce dare incur duties which I might be so ill-fitted to fulfill."

"Modesty and a humble mind," said she, "are the very first and rarest gifts in page or squire. Your words prove that you have these, and all the rest is but the work of use and time. But there is no call for haste. Rest upon it for the night. We know your father well and would fain help his son, though we have small cause to love your brother, the Scoman."

"We can scarce hope," said Nigel, "to have all ready for our start before the feast of St. Luke, for there is much to be done in the time. You will have leisure, therefore, if it please you to take service under me, in which to learn."

"And I have one favor to crave from you," added the lady, as Alleyne turned to leave. "You have, as I understand, much learning which you have acquired at Beaulieu."

"Little enough, lady, compared with those who were my teachers."

"Yet enough for my purpose, I doubt not. For I would have you give an hour or two a day whilst you are with us in discoursing with my daughter,

"IT IS IN SOME DEGREE FRAYED UPON THE TOP."

I see, and the moon throws glimmer enough for such old night-birds as we. On guard! I have not heard the clink of steel this month or more."

"Out from the shadow then," said the other, drawing his sword. "A vow is a vow and not lightly to be broken."

"A vow to the saints," cried Alleyne, "is indeed not to be set aside, but this is a devil's vow, and simple clerk as I am, I say that it were mortal sin to fight on such a quarrel. What! shall two grown men carry malice for years and fly like snarling curs at each other's throats?"

"No malice, my young clerk, no malice," quoth Black Simon. "I have not a bitter drop in my heart for mine old comrade, but the quarrel, as he hath told you, is still open and unsettled. Fall on, Alyward."

"Not whilst I can stand between you," cried Alleyne, springing before the bowman.

"And what is more," said Hordie John, "if either raise a sword I shall flatten him like a Shrovetide pancake. By the black hood! I shall drive him into the earth, like a nail into a door, rather than see you do scatch to each other."

"Fore God, this is a strange way of preaching peace," cried Black Simon. "You must find the scatch yourself, my lusty friend, if you raise your great cudgel to me. I had as lief have the castle drawbridge drop upon my pate."

He was sputtering and crackling. Above was a wreathwork of blazonry, while on either side stood high canopied chairs. The walls were hung with most elaborate and brightly colored tapestry. The floor was of polished tiles and many settees, cushions, folding chairs and carved benches littered all over it. At the further end was a long black buffet or dresser, thickly covered with gold cups, silver salvers and other such valuables. All this Alleyne examined with curious eyes, but the most interesting of all to him was a small ebony table on which there lay an open manuscript written in a right clerly hand and set forth with brave flourishes and devices along the margins. In vain Alleyne bethought him of where he was; those colored capitals and black, even lines drew his hand down to them, until, almost before he knew it, he was standing with the romance of Garin de Montyland before his eyes, so absorbed in its contents as to be completely oblivious both of where he was and why he had come there.

He was brought to himself, however, by a sudden little ripple of feminine laughter. Aghast, he dropped the manuscript among the chessmen and stared in bewilderment round the room. It was as empty and as still as ever. Again he stretched his hand out to the romance and again came that roguish burst of merriment. He looked up at the ceiling, back at the closed door and round at the stiff folds of motionless tapestry. Of a sudden, however, he caught a quick shimmer from the corner of a high-backed banquette in front of him, and, shifting a pace or two to the side, saw a white, slender hand, which held a mirror of polished silver in such a way that the concealed observer could see without being seen. He stood irresolute, but, ter, the Lady Maude, for she is somewhat backward, I fear. I would have you do what you can with her, and with Agatha, my young tire-woman, and with Dorothy Pierpont."

CHAPTER IX How Alleyne Learned More Than He Could Teach

And now there came a time of stir and bustle, of furnishing of arms and clang of hammer. Fast spread the tidings that the old game was afoot once more, and the lions and lilies to be in the field with the early spring. Great news this for that fierce old country, whose trade for a generation had been war, her exports archers and her imports prisoners. The old soldiers of Crecy, of Nogent, and of Pöitiers were glad to think that they might hear the war-trumpet once more, and gladder still were the hot youth who had chafed for years under the martial tales of their sires. From sea to sea there was strinking of bows in the cottage and clang of steel in the castle.

Nor did it take long for every stronghold to pour forth its cavalry, and every hamlet its footmen. In the ancient and populous county of Hampshire there was no lack of leaders or of soldiers. Greatest of all the musters was that of Twynham castle, for the name and the fame of Sir Nigel Loring drew towards him the keenest and boldest spirits, all eager to serve under so valiant a leader. The letter which Alyward had brought him gave him power which he was not slow to use. If it Sir Claude Latour, the Gascon tenant of the White Company, assured him that there remained in his keeping enough to fit out 10 archers and 20 men-at-arms, which joined to the 300 veteran companions already in France, would make a force which any leader might be proud to command.

The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Gentlemen—Something like a year ago my daughter was taken with a bad cough. It seemed to grow worse, and after trying all the different cough medicines we consulted a physician, who pronounced it consumption. We consulted other physicians and they all claimed my daughter's lungs were badly affected and seemed to hold out no hope for her. Finally, hearing of Milk's Emulsion, we sent for some and it gave her immediate relief. We were delighted and as she continued its use we could see her grow strong and well again. It was a godsend to us and we cannot speak too highly of it. Yours respectfully, J. MAGEE, Conneaut, Ohio, February 10, 1903.

The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Gentlemen—Last winter when in a very bad condition with a cold on my lungs some friend recommended Milk's Emulsion. I tried it and was surprised at the results. It cures coughs and colds almost immediately. It is very fine for throat trouble and I do not hesitate to highly recommend it to anyone suffering from colds, coughs or throat trouble. Yours truly, CARL STANL, of Stahl, Urban & Co., Terre Haute, Ind., October 31, 1903.

The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Gentlemen—Some time ago my daughter, aged 14, took a violent cold and we were very much alarmed about her. We tried several remedies, but no good resulted. One day your "ad" was thrown on our porch and, from the reading of it, I became interested and that same day I got a jar of your Milk's Emulsion. Well, the result was magical. After taking only two doses, she seemed better, breathing free and easy. We followed it up for two days only, and she was as well as ever. I have such great faith in your Emulsion, myself, that when my neighbor's baby had the croup, and it immediately stopped the croup, and the baby was all right next morning. I shall always speak a good word for Milk's Emulsion. You can refer anyone to me. I shall always speak a good word for Milk's Emulsion. Yours truly, W. L. FORMER CAPTAIN SALVATION ARMY WORKING ALONE

Maxey Preaches on the Street and Captain Cumbie Interrupts the Service to Denounce Him

TELLS THE TELEGRAM STORY OF HIS WORK

There Is a Conflict Between a Former Officer and Present Captain in Charge

"I left the Salvation Army simply because I was starved out," said W. E. Maxey to a Telegram reporter this morning. "They do not treat us fairly and after standing it just as long as I could I quit." Maxey was formerly a captain in the Salvation Army, but several days ago he and his wife and family, together with W. M. Nelson and wife, left the army and began working independently. Night before last as this little band held a meeting in front of the Delaware hotel Captain Cumbie of the Salvation Army broke through the crowd and standing on the curb shouted that they were frauds and impostors and told the people not to help them. Maxey, however, continued his speech and after defending himself and followers collected over $1 from the bystanders. A Telegram reporter interviewed Maxey

FOR WEAK WOMEN

A Discovery of Priceless Value WHAT GIVES ONE WOMAN ADVANTAGE OVER ANOTHER?

How to Be Master of Yourself and Look Your Best

Shakespeare says: "He jests at scars that never felt a wound." How often it happens that weak, nervous, suffering women are the subjects of ridicule by friends, who, being well themselves, can not understand such feelings in others. Yet there is no more terrible suffering than that resulting from nervousness, and it is the most prevalent of all complaints. The most frightful tortures haunt the mind; the person is in constant dread of impending evil; sleep refuses to come, and the merest trifles cause worry and anxiety. The system of the body develops, and the poor sufferer feels weak, tired and unable to do anything. There are sometimes faintness and sinking at the stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue and lack of interest in society and daily affairs. Female weakness, with pains in the side, back or abdomen are often present. Mrs. S. Taylor, residing at 251 West Seventeenth St., New York City, says:

"I have been sick for years with female weaknesses, general debility, nervousness, sleeplessness, coldness of feet and limbs and suppression of the menses. I was unable to attend to my household duties, and in fact was good for nothing. I have been under the doctor's care but got no better. I took many remedies but they did me no good. I have suffered this way for over six years. By the advice of a friend, who had been cured by it, I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It commenced at once to get better, and in a short time was entirely cured of every one of my troubles. My female weaknesses were perfectly cured and my menses returned. My nervousness, sleeplessness, coldness and other troubles all left me and my health was perfect. Today I am a different woman, thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is a wonderful medicine. I strongly advise every woman to use it."

To look well and feel well you want strong nerves and good blood. They are quickly, surely and permanently made by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is doing wonderful work among the sick and suffering. It will cure you also. You need just such a remedy. It is the discovery of Dr. Greene of 101 Fifth Ave., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. You can consult him free, personally or by letter. Recommended and for sale by all druggists.

FOR THE CURE OF BILIOUSNESS & CONSTIPATION

this morning. He said: "Six months ago while in Mobile, Ala., I asked for a six months' furlough. I had to do this, for my wife and family were sick at the time. I wanted to get back to Texas, but not having the money, I worked as motor-man on a street car for a while. After raising funds I went to Houston, Texas, and being very needy, I borrowed $5 from a furniture man whom I knew. I finally left Houston and came to Fort Worth. I helped Captain Cumbie with the Christmas dinner here. I was sent to Chickasha to open up a corps. I landed in Chickasha, myself and little son, with just sixty-five cents in my pocket, and the day after I got there I was taken sick. Due to the kindness of the people, I managed to get along and as soon as I was able to get around I sent for my wife and family. I also sent for a young man named Bennett and his wife to help us in the work. "We went to the Kansas City headquarters of the army for $10 to open the corps, but they ignored our letter—we were left entirely on our own resources. It was just in the middle of our work that young Bennett was taken sick and died. We had to bury him, but due to the kindness of the gamblers and saloon men of the city we finally raised funds. "After this we continued our Salvation Army work and everything progressed nicely. I put my children in school—the first time in a year, and for a while it looked as things were going to come out all right. "Such was not the case, however, for soon after I received a notice to come to Dallas and explain why I borrowed the money in Houston. Of course I had to leave; we owed $100 to Chickasha and when we left we suddenly got a check for the amount that we were due here. "Instead of going to Dallas, I came to Fort Worth and was told by the army authorities to wait until I should hear from headquarters regarding the matter. Here I was waiting, my children out of school and all my work in Chickasha in vain. It was on account of all these things that I left the army and began working independently. "Mr. Maxey did not say anything against the army and said that he simply defended himself when he spoke in front of the Delaware. "They starved us," he said, in ending, "and as long as we can get we are at it. Twice a year these different corps send about $5,000 to the headquarters in New York and also 10 per cent of all our earnings must be sent to them. These corps are entirely self-supporting, and each branch is self-supporting, so what becomes of all the money we send to New York?" "Maxey was at one time in charge of the Fort Worth corps of the army. He says the army people have never asked for his commission to be returned. "CAPTAIN CUMBIE'S STATEMENT "Captain Cumbie was asked about the sensation he created when he interrupted the meeting in front of the Delaware and denounced the people. He says: "I have instructions from the divisional officer that Maxey is no longer with the army, and that he is not working with any organization, as long as he is working independently this way, we want the people to know that the army is getting nothing from their work and they are not working under the army direction."

Link Lowe is said to be slated for the position of the Senators. Detroit is getting trimmed once in a while by Shreveport. The young man in the Pirates' list is said to be a great lot. Lush, one of the Phillies' twirlers, is showing up like a comet. Pittsburgh shows every indication of being the one to stick by its hammer. If Roscoe Miller should become a star under Fred Clarke, one McGraw would feel like kicking himself for letting the ex-Detroiters go. Gus Danton is doing great work at second for Comiskey's team. Bill Phyle is said to be slated for short at Toledo. Every day proves to Griffith that he secured a bargain when he took Kleibow from Toledo last fall. With Ames and Witte in the box for them, the Giant club defeated the regulars 1 to 0. Christy Mathewson was knocked down by a batted ball that struck him on the wrist. Fortunately the injury is temporary. McCormick of the Giants is laid up with a strained tendon. During a blitzed at Spartanburg the Athletics did stunts in a gymnasium. The Giants play Memphis Tuesday. Lajoie continues to slam the ball around in great style. Reseman, the new fiddler signed by Cleveland, is performing phenomenal stunts daily, if correspondents are to be believed. Hess and Abbott of the Cleveland team claim to be the only history of United States regulars in the game. Both served an enlistment in the regular service and both were stationed at San Antonio, where the team is now training. Ban Johnson will personally conduct the fight between the national stars to come between the Highlanders and Giants this spring. The Giants promise to excel in base running this summer, even if their swatting averages are high as they should be with such a bunch of alleged sluggers.

DASHIEL WAIVES EXAMINATION ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Mental Condition of the Defendant Is Cause for Failure to Go Into the Investigation

The examining trial of Frank Dashiell, who is accused of making an assault on Mrs. Kate Ryman a night or so ago, and also against whom are two charges of forgery, was again postponed this morning in Justice C. T. Rowland's court. The postponement was asked by the state's attorney because of the prosecuting witness not being able to be in court today.

Scraper Hanger, one of the attorneys for Dashiell, asked the court that on account of the unfortunate condition of the defendant, the preliminary hearing be waived. Similar action was taken in the two forgery cases. It was finally decided that the hearing take place later, when Mrs. Ryman would be able to attend court. It was agreed that the bond in the assault to murder case be fixed at $750 and that half in the two forgery cases be placed at $200 each. It is charged that on the 27th and the 28th of the present month Dashiell forged the name of C. W. Chock to two checks made payable to himself, in the sums of $200 and $100.

Per M. Terrell and Senator Hanger have been retained to defend Dashiell. Speaking of Dashiell and his former civil suit against the Texas and Pacific Railroad company, Mr. Terrell said to the Telegram today: "On the 24th of December, 1900, Dashiell was a conductor on a Texas and Pacific freight train, and between Cisco and Ranger his train was moving eastward when another freight train which had left Cisco and was running in the same direction, but backward with the engine on the wrong end of the train, collided with Dashiell's train. The engine was with such force that both engines were demolished with the exception of the floors Dashiell and other employees were caught in the wreck and Dashiell received certain injuries about the head. "About eighteen months later I brought suit against the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company in the federal court at Fort Worth, in which damages were sought for injuries to me (Dashiell) and my family. On the trial of the case so much evidence was introduced showing the loss and impairment of his moral and intellectual faculties of mind that the jury returned a verdict for $7,500. Judge E. R. Meek, on a motion for a new trial, overruled the motion and the company took the case to the United States circuit court at New Orleans. On February 2, 1901, this court, in an opinion rendered by Judge Meek, unanimously affirmed the verdict. The Texas and Pacific Company has applied for a writ of error to the supreme court of the United States from the affirmance. "Six months ago Senator Hanger represented Dashiell in the corporation court of Fort Worth on a charge against him. He entered a plea of insanity. Mr. Hanger introduced considerable evidence showing his deranged mental condition and the court discharged Dashiell because of 'insane mind'."

Mr. Terrell states that Dashiell of late has manifested on several occasions a disposition of violence and especially when ever he is crossed in his own opinion. "Miss Ryman, the injured woman, is reported very much better today and unable to take breakfast at the table. It is now thought that she will recover."

ARDMORE, I. T., March 31.—(Special)—Unknown persons dynamited a negro restaurant in Ada last night, injuring an aged negro, and there is great excitement among the negroes there. DIPPING VAT IS TO BE READY IN MIDDLE OF MAY

Its Operation Will Work a Radical Change in Shipment of Cattle to Points Above the Line

The dipping vat which is to be put in at the stock yards by the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company and which is to be under the supervision of the federal government, is to be completed and ready for use by May 15. The government will place Dr. Klein, the federal live stock inspector at the yards, in control of the vat and its practical operations.

The completion of this vat will be welcome news to the stockmen and cattle raisers in Texas, and will work a radical change in the shipment of Texas cattle to points above the quarantine line. Heretofore cattle from below the line could only be shipped north during certain periods of the year, at time when cattle were the least profitable, but under the new regime cattle from the infected districts below the line, when dipped in the government vat, can be shipped anywhere in the United States.

Another vat is to be used at San Antonio. This will be for the accommodation of the cattlemen in that part of the state. Speaking of this matter, Ireland Hampton said last night that this vat will really be of more benefit to the tier of counties just above the quarantine line than it will be to sections below the line, as heretofore the cattle from that section have never been available for feeding purposes, but now they can be dipped by the government and made immune from fever and all danger. Cattle have, on the other hand, been badly handicapped from going north. In fact, cattle near the line on either side have been under suspicion, hence not available for shipping purposes, but when dipped at Fort Worth by the government inspector they can be sent anywhere.

As an illustration of the good this new order of things will be the fact that buyers from Iowa, for instance, can now come to Texas and get cattle from Coleman or any other county, and after having them dipped at Fort Worth, can take them to Iowa without interference of any kind. Heretofore cattle could not be moved from that section of Texas to north of the line under any consideration, except during the month of December, which would be very late. The dipping of cattle by the government here will make possible the sale of Texas or Southern cattle below the line that otherwise could not be made for transportation to the north.

It will mean hundreds of thousands of dollars to the cattle raisers in this state. Not only will the stockman benefit by this new order, but the commission man and the stock yards company will also be benefited, as the northern buyers will now be permitted to come direct to Fort Worth or San Antonio to buy their feeders. Formerly, the buyers have gone to the northern stock markets to purchase their feeders.

After May 15 next there will be a new condition of affairs in live stock circles in Texas. It will be one that will be welcome to all concerned in the cattle industry. Texas has taken most of the prizes offered by the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago during the past two or three years on feeders, and as a result Texas feeders have gained quite a reputation. With the quarantine bar raised through the operation of the government vat, buyers will have nothing to prevent their transporting cattle from this state to northern feeding lots.

JAPS IDOLIZE THEIR EMPRESS

She Gives Up Private Fortune, Jewels and Bodyguard to Nation's Cause

BY W. B. COLVER, Special Commissioner of the Newspaper Enterprise Association in Far East.

TOKIO, March 5.—The empress of Japan is as much of a popular idol as her imperial husband. The emperor is a wonderful man. It was he who as a young man, less than forty years ago, wrested the power of government from the Shogun government and made himself absolute ruler. The old nobles, used to practically hold the emperor prisoner while they administered all affairs of state.

No sooner had the emperor made himself as absolute a ruler as the czar of Russia, than he proceeded to educate his people, and as soon as they were capable he gave them constitutional liberty, guaranteed by a written constitution, and permitted them to elect a parliament. At first only the higher classes were allowed to vote, but the right is being steadily extended as the poorer and less educated people show themselves competent to be trusted with ballots. The present government is nearly as liberal as that of Germany, and all this popular liberty has been almost actually forced upon the people by their emperor.

But to return to the empress. Yesterday she summoned Major O'Brien, who has long served her as the commander of her own military bodyguard, and told him that she wanted him to go to war. She gave him a handsome present and he was the cause of depriving Japan of the services in the field of so gallant an officer at this time. The major is, therefore, on the way to the front.

The empress next notified the war office that she wished all the rest of her bodyguard to be assigned to regiments going to the front, and said that in this hour she needed no one to guard her, for she was "surrounded" at all times by loyal and patriotic sons and daughters of Japan, who would protect her from danger.

Having thus set an example to the people in the way of cheerfully sending soldiers to war, the empress gave a hint to those who can furnish money. She notified the Bank of Japan, which is raising the war loan, that she would place in its hands a great portion of all her private valuables, such as jewelry, diamonds and gold bullion. The members of the imperial household at once followed suit and the result was a great amount of gold, precious stones, works of art, etc., are pouring into the bank.

The empress is most active in her interest in two societies, which are now exceedingly active. The one is "The Ladies' Benevolent Nurse Society," which is affiliated with the Red Cross Society, and the other is "The Ladies' Society for the Relief of Soldiers at the Front."

Both these organizations are led by the titled women of Japan. Princesses and countesses vie with commoners in raising funds. The American and English women of Japan are also prominent in the work. Well-equipped field hospitals with doctors and trained nurses of both sexes are being sent forward. The Red Cross societies all over the world have offered supplies, nurses and money and all have been accepted, though the nurses who come from Europe and America will probably find themselves outclassed in the field by their Japanese sisters. These sturdy little women, hardened by their national customs of living almost out of doors all the time, are far better able to endure the hardships of Korea and Manchuria than will be the white volunteers.

GUN CLUB HAS AN EXPERT AT FIRST SHOOT

Wallace Miller Made an Excellent Record at the Club Grounds Yesterday Afternoon

The first shoot of the Fort Worth Gun Club took place on the club grounds north of the city yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large number of those interested in such sport. The occasion was complimentary to Wallace Miller, who represents the Peters' Cartridge Company of Cincinnati, and a shooter of national reputation, having taken part in nearly all of the American handicap meets.

Mr. Miller is an expert and yesterday killed twenty straight, blue rocks being used. Out of a possible seventy-five Mr. Miller broke seventy-one. Among those who tried their skill were C. W. Childress, S. C. Moore, J. H. Miller, N. E. Grammer, J. E. Childers, J. Anderson, H. Buchanan, C. A. Wood, Thomas McDowell and Robert Grammer, the 16-year-old son of N. E. Grammer, who made the remarkable record of breaking nine out of ten blue rocks.

The resolutions by each of the shooters are as follows: Childress, 58 out of 65; Moore, 51 out of 65; Tjiler, 47 out of 65; McDowell, 20 out of 30; Anderson, 25 out of 40; Robert Grammer, 9 out of 10; N. E. Grammer, 24 out of 40; Buchanan, 26 out of 40; Ulander, 27 out of 45; Miller, 71 out of 75; Wood, 14 out of 20.

Considering the blustery weather the above score is considered a very good one among shooters. Had the wind not been so strong the score would no doubt have been much better.

Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the club will meet again on the grounds, at which time the club will be reorganized for the present season, which those present will enjoy a second shoot. It is expected that the Fort Worth Club will have a membership of 500 this year and will be the largest club of the kind in the state.

WOOL CANNOT BE MIXED

United States Denies Right to Secure Lower Duty in This Way. NEW YORK, March 21.—A decision has been delivered by the board of United States general appraisers denying a protest from a Boston importer and raising the question as to whether wool can be mixed in grades so as to obtain a lower rate of duty. The board decided against the mixture in the Boston case, which was brought as a test.

The shipment was made from equal quantities of white and gray Iceland wool of the third class, valued respectively above and below twelve cents per pound which in the trade are customarily packed separately, and bought and sold at different prices, and which, if separated were respectively dutiable at the rate of seven cents and four cents a pound. They were designedly packed in one bale so as to reduce the average aggregate value below twelve cents a pound, and the rate of duty on all to four cents. The appraisers held that such packing was such a change in condition for the purpose of evading the duty as to subject the entire contents of the bale to twice the duty to which it would otherwise be subjected.

It is stated that the Russian officers are without good maps of Manchuria and Korea. The Japanese are well provided with them.

PLAN FOR THE AUDITORIUM IS NOW AGREED ON

Committee Recommends That Property Owners Be First Asked to Buy Shares of the Stock

The committee appointed some time ago by President Washer of the Fort Worth Board of Trade, composed of bankers of the city, whose duty it is to formulate a plan for the final construction of an auditorium hall in Fort Worth, met yesterday afternoon at the Board of Trade rooms for the purpose of outlining a plan to be pursued. There was a good attendance of the committee, which, after discussing the proposition, adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this committee, having had the matter under careful consideration, recommends to the Board of Trade of Fort Worth the organization of a stock company, with a capital of $100,000, for the purpose of building an auditorium. That said capital consist of 100,000 shares at $1 each. That to raise such capital the Board of Trade appoint a committee to canvass among the owners of real estate in the city other than home-owners, for subscriptions to said stock, based upon the assessed value of such

NOT DEAD BUT IN AUSTRALIA

New York Lawyer Disappears Two Years Ago and Insurance Money Is Paid

NEW YORK, March 31.—Lawyer Max Josephs, whose disappearance from his office two years ago baffled the police, is said by the rumor to be alive and well in Australia, although he was long ago given up and insurance on his life collected from the Royal Arcanum.

Josephs had an office in Wall street and lived in "Brooklyn with his wife and child. Two years ago Mrs. Josephs received a note from him saying he had been called to Mount Vernon on business. Another letter from that place the following day said he had been detained. His failure to come back led to an immediate search, but all trace of the lawyer was lost in Mount Vernon, and after the Hudson had been dragged and watched for several weeks he was given up.

The letter to his father made no explanation of Josephs' action.

THE SOCIALIST SPEAKING

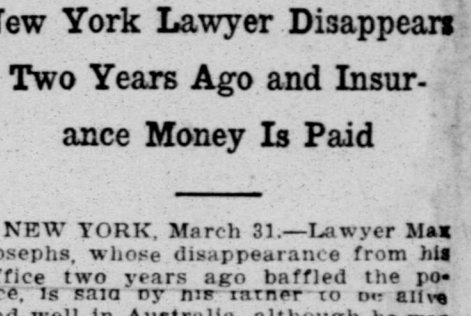

The socialist city campaign closed in this city last night, with an open air meeting at Seventh and Main streets. It had been rumored during the day that Mayor Powell would be present at the meeting and quite a large crowd was gathered at the corner when the speaking began.

Stanley J. Clarke of Ardmore, I. T., who has addressed all the meetings during the campaign, spoke again last night, and soon put a traveling book auctioneer who was operating across the street temporarily out of business. The oil trust and later municipal affairs received his attention last night, and, as usual, a number of questions were asked from the audience and answered.

At the close of the meeting, I. D. Schurmann, majority candidate on the ticket, expressed himself as being satisfied with the educational campaign just concluded.

on to the next stop and try it again. Take another day for your explorations if the first brings no results. When the right place is found it will be a source of wonderment to see how readily it adapts itself to beautification. Vines, flowers, water and nature will do the rest. The desolate tumble-down shanty will become a bower of loveliness before mid-summer. Rent a patch of ground, have it plowed and plant potatoes, peas, beans, sweet corn and other vegetables. They will considerably reduce the cost of living. Rent from the city as little furniture as possible. The more you take with you the more freight you will have to pay and the more work your wife will have to do. The little tumble-down cottage is not worth renting. It is a possibility. All that is needed is for you to begin the search.

MARRIAGE IN KOREA The American woman has something to be thankful for even if she has a husband who beats her or one that swears at her—she married him with her eyes open and if he abuses her she can tell him what she thinks of him. Not so with the wife of Korea. If she has seen her husband before the marriage vows have been solemnized it is because she has done so without the knowledge of her elders, who arrange the marriage according to their own and their ancestors' ideas of weddings. The bride's face is carefully hidden from the bridegroom until after the ceremony; he is never allowed even a glimpse of her. Her face is prepared for first view by being thickly covered with white powder and heathenishly daubed with splashes of red and her eyelids are glued together. For months she is not allowed to speak a word. Even when her long silence has been broken her speech must be brief and infrequent. No one in Korea ever heard of such a thing as the rebellion of either bride or

HOW TO SPEND YOUR SUMMER IN THE COUNTRY

Somewhere out in the country there is a little house, deserted, falling to ruin, desolate, just waiting for you to come along and promise the owner that you will fix it up for the sake of living in it during the summer. The resourceful man can easily find an accessible place in the country where his family can spend the entire summer removed from the dust and smoke of the city, and where he, after hours, can join them in breathing the fresh air and gazing into an unobstructed sky.

Why, with the electric lines and the steam roads making a net work over the country, and with bicycles and automobiles within reach of the man who is willing to sacrifice something for his own and his family's happiness, a summer in the country need not remain a dream. Too expensive? It is cheaper than boarding, and many families are boarding. It is cheaper than paying flat rent, too.

Some spring day, when the sun proves too tempting to be resisted, take your family and ride out beyond the city limits, looking for a vacant shanty. Get off at the first stop which looks attractive. The chances are you will find some little, unpainted house, unattractive enough in itself, but possessing great possibilities, with a little labor expended, in nailing on a few boards, setting up a few posts and planting a few vines.

If you find no such retreat at the first stop, or if the owner proves unobliging, go room against carrying out this unusual proceeding. Neither ever refuses to marry the other.

SHEEP, SLEEP AND SCIENCE Science seems determined to take all the pleasure out of living. There is to be no more counting sheep jumping through a gap, no more repeating the Lord's prayer backward. Science has given us something that will nullify all sleep without any such moral exercise.

We have come to expect a germ to pop up like a mushroom, but we haven't been looking for a scientific sleep producer. But we have one, two, even three such devices before we have become accustomed to the idea.

One of these devices is called the "alouette." It is a tiny mahogany box, small enough to be carried in the coat pocket, and it contains clockwork that causes to revolve simultaneously and in opposite directions two panels of ebony, each studded on either side with seven round, bright, but tiny mirrors. The sleepless patient glues his eyes to the "alouette." The light, with the exception of a single ray which must strike the little machine, is excluded from the room. Sixty times a minute the eye sees this rapidly changing reflection, which appears like a firebrand in the hands of an automatic juggler. He sees, he yawns, he sleeps.

There are already several varieties of the "alouette."

hertha. The sleeves below the elbow are like the yoke and collar. A plain but pretty pique suit is shown. The only trimming is the open work insertion about the yoke and down the front. The belt is a simple stretched band of pique, the end run under a plain guard.

CYNTHIA GREY.

Another method of inducing sleep, which is judged by science as more effective than sheep counting, is the reflected ray of light. An electric light is placed back of the patient and reflected by a disc at his feet directly into his eyes. When it stares him out of countenance he falls asleep.

A huge, staring eye, at which the patient must gaze unflinchingly, has been recommended by some hypnotists as more effective than other devices. It seems that the sheep must go.

NICK NAMES FOR ALL TRACKS ON THE DEPOT YARD

Railroad Men Do Not Follow the Regular Designation Which Is Given Places Where They Work

CHAPEL CAR NAMES THE GOSPEL TRACK

There Is of Course "Hoodoo" Track, and Others Have Appropriate Names

Working in the hot sun, dodging shunting cars, getting your eyes filled with cinders and all the time standing a chance of a terrible death, would not seem to be conducive to great pleasure, and yet the railroad men in the yards are the jolliest set of fellows to be found in the city.

A strange characteristic of the men is their fondness for nick names and there are few things coming in the regular routine of their lives for which they have not provided a more suitable name than that provided in the ordinary nomenclature of the world. As a result of this leaning there are few of the tracks in the big freight yards outside of the numbered tracks running into the passenger shed which are known among the men by their official names, and a car, instead of being shifted into No. 20 and so is relegated to the "Gospel track," "the hoodoo" or "the pig."

An investigation will show that all these tracks have received their names from the occurrence of some event which suggested to the fertile brain of a yardman an appropriate title and which being approved by his comrades will last as long as the rails, and even longer, for many old employes will tell the history of the naming of a track long since passed out of existence.

For instance, "the gospel track," which the initiated will be glad to learn is the short track running into the passenger station and stopping at the wall of the express offices, received its name from the fact that the first special car sent in on it to lay over was the "Gospel car," "Good Will," in which Rev. B. O. Rogers makes his tours of the country.

The track above it that branches at Front street, sending forks into the wholesale houses along Rusk and California streets, has earned for itself the name of "the express track," and simply from the fact that in earlier days a cotton compress to which the track led was located on the site now occupied by the Waples-Platter Company.

Of course every yard must have a "hoodoo track," and the Texas and Pacific yard is no exception. This track was formerly the one which ran in front of the building used for the construction of bridge timbers and gained its name from being the favorite rendezvous of the tramps, the blood enemies of the railroad men. "Hoodoo," however, is not a name to pass away readily and when the track disappeared the name was by common consent transferred to another pair of rails, which seemed to be proof against good flying switches.

The "pig track" got its name from the fact that it was at one time the principal outlet from a pork packery which has since been torn down.

The christening of another track as the "slate track" can be readily traced as due to the fact that it was upon this one that the engines were run to coal, and the car sent in on the "slate track" by all the laws of railroad lore is doomed to a long and weary stay before taking up another journey.

The "bridge track" is the one running parallel to the main line Katy track.

The "rip track" has a duplicate in the west end of the yards, which also boasts a "caboose track," naturally lying close to the supply house.

Several men, too, have been honored by having their names applied to certain tracks from their connection with the building of them or other similar events, as the "Watson track," named after the former yard master, and the "Dohman track," which ran into the old refrigerating plant.

Thus it runs, everything gets a nickname, and it is safe to venture that the only thing in the yards today without such a title is the interlocking plant, and as many months' work yet remain to be done before the plant is put in operation, no doubt a short and suitable abbreviation will be found for the structure by the time the first lever is pulled.

SHORT TIME NOTES

Statistics just compiled show that the railroads of the country have borrowed $100,000,000 on short-term notes during the past twelve months, and the question in financial circles is how are the roads to meet these obligations. This represents money borrowed without the issue of bonds. The roads which have made these loans are as follows, the amounts being after the different lines:

Seaboard, $5,000,000; Burlington, $2,000,000; Pennsylvania, $5,000,000; Hoekling Valley, $7,000,000; Great Northern, $7,500,000; Frisco, $2,148,000; Union Pacific, $10,000,000; Missouri Pacific, $6,000,000; New York Central, $5,000,000.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE POWERS

The bill which Representative W. R. Hearst has introduced in congress to regulate interstate commerce has sixteen clauses. It proposes the establishment of "The Court of Interstate Commerce," to consist of three justices, to receive a salary of $100,000 a year each, and a secretary to receive $5,000 a year. The court is to sit usually at Washington, but may hold sessions in any part of the United States. It shall have exclusive jurisdiction in matters brought by, or on the request of, the interstate commerce commission under the act of February 1903 (the Elkins bill), and enforce all necessary jurisdiction to enforce the interstate commerce law. Orders of the interstate commerce commission may, within thirty days, be brought before this court for review. The decisions of the court shall be final, unless the court itself, or the supreme court, shall decide that there is a constitutional question which ought to be decided by the supreme court. The court may be applied to by the commission to enforce obedience to its subpoenas.

Section 15 of the act makes it the duty of the interstate commerce commission to proceed expeditiously in trying cases before it, and to render a decision within sixty days. The rest of this bill contains the provision which has been laid before congress at previous sessions, empowering the interstate commerce commission, where existing rates have been found unreasonable, to fix rates for the future; also a clause requiring changes in tariffs to be published thirty days in advance, unless, on special application, the commission permits shorter notice.

DOMINION-GULF ROUTE

An agreement between the Kansas Central, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad has just been filed with the secretary of Oklahoma at Guthrie, changing the name of the line to the Dominion and Gulf, and increasing the capital stock from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. The chartered northern terminus is Winnipeg, with New Orleans as the southern end of the road.

As chartered originally, the road is to be 2,000 miles long from Winnipeg south to the Gulf of Mexico, through the Dakotas and Nebraska via Hutchinson, Kan., to Enid, Okla., and thence southeasterly through Oklahoma and Texas to New Orleans.

It is believed this is a plan to extend the Denver, Enid and Gulf to New Orleans as a Union Pacific extension.

THE CHOCTAW ABSORPTION

Tomorrow, April 1, the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad Company will cease to exist as an independent system and will no longer be known as a railroad, but a corporation. On that date the Choctaw will become an integral part of the Rock Island system by lease and will be operated as the Choctaw division of the Rock Island.

All the stationery now being used by that company has been changed to read as the "Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific," and all cars and locomotives will be relettered and renumbered, bearing the Rock Island trade mark.

Towns on the line of the Choctaw will in the future have been facilitated, as by the change through connections will be afforded to St. Louis, Chicago and all points in the east.

MEXICAN NATIONAL EXTENSION

A report from the republic states that more than sixty miles of the new branch line which the National Railroad Company of Mexico is building from Monterey to a connection with its isolated Matamoros line at San Miguel have been completed.

The work of widening the gauge of the Matamoros branch is now in progress. It is said that a bridge will be built across the Rio Grande river at a point above Brownsville and that connection will be made with both the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico and the San Antonio and Aransas Pass roads.

MR. ANDERSON DENIES

While in New Orleans a few days ago, General Passenger Agent T. J. Anderson of the Southern Pacific denied the report that he was to become passenger traffic manager of the Rock Island system.

THE EL PASO UNION DEPOT

It is understood here that the contract for the construction of the union station at El Paso will be awarded soon without a meeting of the directors being held. The contract has been let, but the lucky bidders have not yet been made public, but are believed to be C. Everett Clark & Co. of Chicago. Another report is to the effect that the contract is to be given to McCarthy Brothers, also of Chicago.

MOVEMENT OF CATTLE

The railroads out of Mexico are busy in the yards and the answer will at once be "Dock Overstreet. The word oldest, however, does not imply in this sense greatest age, but greatest length of service, and this claim is universally accorded him, his figure, with a clear never in protruding from his mouth, having been a familiar one about the yards for the past twenty-five years.

CAR CLEANING PLANT

The car cleaning headquarters being erected immediately south of the passenger station in the Texas and Pacific yards has been about completed and will likely be ready for service Friday morning, when the new health regulations become effective. The building, a frame structure, is being stained in a shade of green, and is set for natural wood shingles. The building will be inclosed from the street by a similarly colored fence. The railroad men will probably name this the "bug house" or "microbe joint."

FRISCO MAY BUY ANOTHER ROAD

It is reported from St. Louis that the Frisco may become the owner of the Tennessee Central railroad. The Frisco, by building about seventy-five miles of track, could connect the Tennessee Central with the Illinois Central, thus giving that system its own tracks from Nashville to Chicago, also to St. Louis and the west.

TRAINS IN NORTH SOUTHEAST

While trains on the northern roads are being blasted out of the ice and snow blockades, the railroad companies in the south are compelled to use their trains to keep the perishable shipments from spoiling from heat. A few days ago two trains on the Northern Pacific were forced to battle with the snow and ice before being able to continue their journey on St. Paul. Rotary plows and dynamite were used to clear the tracks.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL

All the prominent railroad officials stationed in this city went over to Dallas this morning to attend the funeral of Superintendent E. W. Campbell. Four extra coaches were added to the regular number of cars run over on the train, leaving this city at 8:10 a. m., and it is estimated that fully 300 of the local railway men left on that train. Word was also received in this city that a special train of four cars had been run from Dallas to the funeral of the men there wishing to attend the funeral.

LABOR NOTES

The program for the second of the series of union rallies being held in the city was completed this morning, showing a good list of speakers for the meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Labor Temple.

National Organizer C. C. Ross of the Laborers' International Protective Association, whose home, as he puts it, is wherever he happens to be, reached this city this morning and will probably remain for tomorrow night's session, in which event he will also be called upon for a short talk.

It has also been rumored that at this meeting certain steps of political import will be taken looking toward the calling of a union voter's meeting before election day.

The official program as announced is: Opening address, H. A. Massey, secretary; P. M. Callaghan, treasurer; Address, A. C. Palmer, carpenter; U. M. Lee, cigar makers; Eugene Stevens, electrical workers; G. W. Cole, cattle butchers; W. E. Thacher, plumbers; song, A. J. Shanahan, cooks and waiters; addresses, John Patzner, stationary firemen; J. A. Dinkins, laborers; No. 8012; R. A. Massey, clerks; T. O. Walker, printers; J. W. Stine, hack drivers; Jack Thompson, team drivers and C. W. Woodman, State Federation of Labor.

WOMAN'S LABEL LEAGUE

The Woman's Label League met in regular session Wednesday night. Two applications for membership were accepted and the candidates initiated. They were Mrs. Lewis English and Miss Dinkins.

The committee appointed at the last meeting to await on the grocery stores in behalf of the "broom makers' label" reported work done. The committee was continued.

The league decided to give an open meeting and entertainment Wednesday night, April 13, after the regular order of business has been attended to. The committee to arrange for it is Mrs. Illias, Mrs. Ready, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Holley and Jack Thompson.

Messrs. Massey and Price of the Trades Assembly called and stated the Trades Assembly would give the second rally Friday, April 1.

GRAVES WILL SPEAK

J. S. Graves, who has been advertised to speak on the street next Sunday morning on the "Hope of the Workingman," will speak at the Catholic church at 10 o'clock that morning instead, on the subject announced. Ladies are especially invited. Church goers will have ample time to attend the churches after the meeting which will last one hour.

GIVES HEALTH, VIGOR AND TONE

Herbina is a boon for sufferers from anemia. By its use the blood is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shirel, Middleborough, Ill., writes: "I have been troubled with liver complaint and other ailments, but have found nothing to benefit me like Herbina. I hope nothing to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's lifetime." 50c. Sold by H. T. Pangburn & Co.

these days carrying cattle out of the republic. Sixty cars were brought out of the Casas Grandes country Tuesday en route to Canada, where the cattle are to be placed on pasturage. A great many of the cattle from Mexico are being taken to California, where they will be placed on the ranges and when fat will be sold to the packers of that state.

Reports from El Paso say there will also be a lively movement of cattle from West Texas points for New Mexico and Arizona during the next few weeks.

The United States representative of the bureau of animal industry at El Paso has been notified that there will be quite a large movement of cattle from the Alpine country for pastures in Arizona and New Mexico. This movement will continue about two months.

The new contract between the trainmen and the Texas and Pacific road entered into a conference held at Dallas several weeks ago will become effective tonight at midnight.

Under this contract, which is generally agreed among the trainmen to be the best from their point of view in effect west of the Mississippi river, the same wage scale as paid by the other roads is maintained, several changes in regard to regulations, however, making it more desirable. The most important of these is the one governing the calling of the men to go out on runs. Under the old regulations they are required to report for duty an hour before the time scheduled for departure, for which time they received no compensation. Under the new contract, however, they report only at time of departure, and if the departure is delayed they receive compensation for the time spent in waiting.

GOOD FRIDAY IS TO BE OBSERVED AT THE CHURCHES

Services to Be Held in the Various Parishes of This City Tomorrow Commemorating Death on the Cross

Tomorrow the Episcopal and Catholic churches will have services commemorating the crucifixion. The churches will be hung in black, significant of the period of mourning because of the death upon the cross.

At St. Andrews parish house there will be services, consisting of morning prayer, by Rev. Barlow B. Ramage, rector of the parish. Commencing at 12 o'clock there will be the regular three hours devotion, commemorating the hours on the cross. The devotions will consist of meditation on each of the seven words spoken on the cross, hymns, silent prayer and special prayers. At exactly 3 o'clock, when all are still kneeling, the Nicene creed will be said and there will be prayers for those in all the world who are at that moment passing away, those who are in trouble and for the peace of the souls and bodies of those who are present. Mr. Ramage invites all who desire to come to this service. It is not required that a person shall remain during the entire time of the three hours, but it is requested that those who attend and must leave do so during the singing of a hymn.

AT TRINITY CHURCH

Trinity church, Hemphill street and Pennsylvania avenue, morning service at 10 o'clock, consisting of morning prayer, liturgy, penitential office, antiphonal psalm and sermon. Night service is at 8 o'clock. Evening prayer and sermon, followed by "The Reproache," a musical setting of Redhead's melody, edited by the Rev. J. H. Hopkins, D. D., which will be rendered by an augmented choir. "The Reproache" was formerly sung in place of the "Introit" on Good Friday, but now generally forms a solemn separate service on that day.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

The Good Friday service at St. Patrick's Catholic church will begin tomorrow morning with a service at 8 a. m. Another service will be held at 7:30 p. m., at which time a sermon on the "Passion" will be delivered. Services will be held at the same hour Saturday and on Easter day mass will be celebrated at 7:30 a. m. and high mass at 10 o'clock. The evening service will be held at 7:30 a. m., the sermon being delivered by Father Byrne.
