The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

We are just a few days away from some very important elections in Floyd County. In both Floydada and Lockney, elections will be held for places on City Councils and school boards. And before we go any further in discussing the elections, we want to urge our readers to go to the polls and make their wishes known. You will note, we hope, that we urged our readers to go vote. We do not belong to that school of thought that says everyone ought to vote, whether or not they know anything at all about the issues or the people involved in the election at hand. But since we are always going to have a substantial number of voters motivated by factors that have nothing at all to do with the fundamental issues at hand, it is doubly important that those concerned with the welfare of their community show up at the polls.

Our readers will recall that we promised, upon assuming ownership of this newspaper, that we would not attempt to instruct our readers on whom they should vote for in local races, feeling as we did that the folks who have lived here all their lives are in better position than we to weigh the capabilities of their peers. We will probably eat those words someday, but not yet. Our concern now runs more to the issues than the personalities. The fundamental issue facing both Lockney and Floydada, in our view is how they will survive in the shadow of Plainview and Lubbock. I have no doubt at all that we will survive, but the manner of that survival is all important. Will we grow and prosper, will we remain about as we are, or will we shrink to mere bedroom communities for our larger neighbors?

That is the fundamental question that must be addressed, in our view, by the political leadership of both communities. And the decisions they make will go a long way in determining our future. It is always sad, in our own view, to see small communities turned into warring factions over matters that are extraneous to the central issue of who can best lead a community to greater things for the benefit of all its citizens. Perhaps the larger urban areas can afford the luxury of fighting over such things, but smaller communities simply do not have the human resources to waste in such endeavors. If we turn ourselves into political cockpits where every preacher, priest or rabbi feels he must put his favorite rooster in the game, we will see our towns wither and die.

Being the eternal optimist, I believe we will come through the election on Saturday better than we went in. Perhaps the effect will be to shake up some people and convince them that Edmund Burke was right when he said that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, or something like that. And when the election is over we can seriously address ourselves to the real issues we ought to be worried about.

In a way it couldn't come at a better time. I have been over our circulation territory, and I don't care what the naysayers say, there is an awakening spirit of optimism out there in the countryside among our producers. They are not bubbling with excitement, true. But there is a feeling that the worst is over, and that things are going to get better. The terrible overhand of surpluses caused by the grain embargo of a few years ago, combined with a worldwide economic slump, are about to become things of the past. And on top of that it appears we will have at least the beginnings of an excellent crop year. We are not trying to blow smoke. We know things are still rough. We are not benefitting, yet, from the nation's powerful economic recovery. And our merchants will probably not see much improvement until that feeling of optimism on the part of farmers and ranchers is translated into sales at the store. But it is coming, and we may as well prepare for it.

Absentee voting increase noted

94 people had voted absentee for the three positions available on the City Council Jimmie Lou Stewart, secretary for the City Council, told the Hesperian. She said that the number of people voted absentee is a record. She said she thought the reason for increased absentee voting was in this year's elections. The men running for this year's offices are Tino Morales, Eloy Felan, Jr., Leroy Burns, Don Green, and Gary Carthel.

161 turned in absentee votes in the school board election. The number is quite large, but still shy of last year's record of 200. "The school board is hoping for a large amount on election day," stated one of the board members. The five persons who have filed for the two positions to be elected to the school board are: Angelita Cortinas, Bill Orman, Harvey Allen, Kenneth Pitts, and Freddie Morren.

By Tuesday's deadline no one had voted absentee in the Hospital board election. With only two men running and two places to fill the people are "just satisfied with what they have," one source reported. Claude Weathersbee and Aldine Williams are the two incumbent candidates running for reelection.

Judy Allen, president of the Chamber, clothed in typical rural apparel of the early 1900's, welcomed guests and members of the Ladies Division following the salad supper. Special guests introduced were visiting members of Plainview's and Lubbock's Chambers of Commerce. Louise Towery, wife of Hesperian owner Ken Towery, was recognized as the guest who had traveled the greatest distance (all the way from Austin).

Joanne Cagle, arrayed in a quaint turn-of-the-century costume provided by the Floyd County Historical Museum and Nancy Marble, narrated the evening's entertainment. This 75th year celebration, Mrs. Cagle stressed, is an ideal opportunity for Floydada citizens to recall their fine West Texas heritage. Part of this heritage included early twentieth century women. Women have not changed throughout the years.

Approximately two hundred ladies attended, including Mrs. Mike Bishop; Mrs. Bob Muncy and granddaughter, Mrs. Mike Giesecke; and Mrs. Bob Alldredge. One of the turns of the century gowns on a mannequin decorating the stage was made by Mrs. Henry Brewer in 1971. It was a blue and white tennis dress copied from an original costume in the museum at Texas Tech University. Nancy Williams Goodwin, home then from Texas Women's University, modeled the tennis dress in the Old Settlers Style Show in the Floydada Museum in May 1971. It was then placed with the museum costume collection.

Monday morning coffee and socialization time was very nice. We had Ruth Benson's sister, Artie Webb visiting with us. We always enjoy visitors at "Coffee Time". Morning devotions were by Trinity Church. Dartha Westbrook, Shirley Varner, Mildred Thrasher and I sang. I read the scripture and Mildred had prayer with the residents. Also on Thursday afternoon, Ruby Ratjen and Gertrude Smitherman from the Sunshine Class of the First Baptist Church surprised the residents with doughnuts for an afternoon snack. We really do appreciate this. Thank you ladies.

Thursday morning devotions were omitted because the Rev. Earl Blair had to be out of town. Thursday afternoon we made some pretty Spring leaves and lace. The residents like to make these for gifts.

Friday morning Mary Corley brought some pumpkin cake and had morning coffee with us. We enjoyed her company, and also the cake. Morning devotions were by Nettie Adams and Mary Corley. Mary spoke about Jesus saying "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock." Paul and Christy Newberry brought their guitars and sang special music at Devotion time. It was a very nice treat for us. We really did enjoy their ministry in song.

Simpson named assistant

Brad Tooley, publisher of The Canyon News, announces the association of Doug Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Simpson, Jr. of Floydada, as assistant editor of The News.

Simpson, a Floydada native and 1978 graduate of Floydada High School, began duties Monday, March 19, in his new position in Canyon. He resigned as copy desk editor at the Lubbock Avalanche Journal to assume the assistant editor position at The News.

Simpson, 23, brings to The News an extensive background in journalism and newspaper experience. Newspaper background for Simpson ranges from work on twice-weekly Floyd County Hesperian in Floydada where Simpson was reared, to his employment in the sports department of The Dallas Morning News.

The new assistant editor also has a knowledge of Randall County and the area from his employment by the Amarillo Globe as a student intern in the summer of 1981. Simpson's educational and on-the-job background expanded with work as a copy layout editor, sports editor and reporter on The University Daily, official publication of Texas Tech University in Lubbock where he worked on his journalism degree from 1978 to 1983.

In a statement, The News Thursday, Simpson said, "I'm happy to be in Canyon and I'm anxious to begin serving the newspaper and the community. I'm looking forward to meeting and working with the people here."

Commenting on Simpson's position with The News, Tooley said, "It is with a great deal of pride that I announce Doug's position with The News. I have been associated with Doug for many years and know him to be a person of high standards both in his journalism principles as well as his life away from the job. Doug's upbringing in a small West Texas city affords him the special insight that a community journalist needs."

Companions 'n' Caring give Nursing Home 'new look'

Companions 'n' Caring met on March 22 at the Floydada Nursing Home for their monthly business meeting, followed by ice cream party for the residents.

The following officers were elected for the year: president, Dolores Cannon, vice-president, Ruth McIntosh, secretary-treasurer Shirley Varner, scrapbook chairman, Maxine Jarboe. The latest project of the group—that of redecorating the beauty shop at the Home by painting, wallpapering, and adding mirrors and pictures—has been completed. The residents seem to enjoy the "new look" very much, and visitors to the Home are welcome to look in on the improvements at any time.

Dartha Westbrook reported that during 1983, the members of Companions 'n' Caring gave 1809 hours of their time to the Home. It is such a rewarding way of helping people who cannot do for themselves as they once did, and we invite anyone who feels any pull toward this sort of service to join us. We have added three new members in the past few months, Letha Mulder, Ola Smith and Mae Emert—and we hope to add others in the months ahead.

On April 17 we will bring pies to the Home and have a Easter party for the residents, and on April 26 at 2:00 p.m. we will have our regular business meeting.

Wally's business has expenses ... so does ours.

When Wally's milk shake business expenses are less than his sales, he earns a profit. At the end of the day, he counts his money and subtracts his costs. If his expenses for ice cream, milk, syrup, cups and straws are less than his total income from sales, he earns money. Otherwise, he loses money.

When you pay Southwestern Public Service Company for your electric service each month, you help pay the expenses of making and delivering electricity. Two-thirds of this money helps pay the expenses of running the power plants that use coal and natural gas as boiler fuel to make your electricity, and the expenses of getting the power to you. Other expenses are taxes, interest and any earnings which help build the power plants, transmission and distribution systems for your electric future and which pay stockholders and other investors for the use of their money. Letting you know how your payment is spent is another way we're ...

Park Avenue has always meant comfort and luxury. Ample room for six. A smooth ride. And a quiet interior. It still does. It achieves all of those, however, in an entirely new manner, through the generous application of refined engineering and the latest technology. Now, advanced aerodynamics adds to the quiet. A four-wheel independent suspension system smooths the ride. Multi-port Fuel Injection provides the response. Front-wheel drive allows a trimmer Park Avenue to offer interior dimensions within an inch or so of previous Park Avenues. Discover all this and more for

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with rules and orders promulgated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of a public hearing to begin at 10 a.m. on Monday, May 14, 1984, in the offices of the Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, concerning proposals made by the company to add three optional services and delete two services from the list of local exchange services available to its Texas customers.

Proposed additions to the local exchange tariffs include an optional Local Measured Service under which all residence customers and single-line business customers could pay monthly rates less than flat rate for one-party service, with an additional charge for each completed outgoing call, to be determined by the time of day, distance and duration of each call; and a subsidized LIFELINE local service to be made available to qualified individuals, as determined by the Public Utility Commission. The monthly rate for LIFELINE service would include an allowance of 25 outgoing calls per month, plus a charge for each additional call.

Proposed for deletion from the local exchange tariffs are one-element measured service offerings for residence customers and single-line business customers, but current customers would not be affected.

The company does not anticipate that these additional services will result in an increase in revenue to Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso al Publico

Por medio del presente aviso y en conformidad con las reglas y dictámenes de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, la compañía Southwestern Bell Telephone anuncia la audiencia pública que se llevará a cabo a partir de las 10 de la mañana del día lunes 14 de mayo de 1984 en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas, con respecto a la propuesta de la compañía, que consiste en agregar tres servicios opcionales y suprimir dos servicios de la lista de servicios telefónicos locales a disposición del usuario en Texas.

Las adiciones propuestas al arancel del servicio telefónico local incluyen un Servicio Medido Local opcional según el cual todos los clientes residenciales y los clientes comerciales con línea única pagarían tarifas mensuales menores que la tarifa fija para servicios de línea única, con un cargo adicional por cada llamada completa efectuada desde ese teléfono, establecido según la hora, la distancia y la duración de cada llamada; así como un servicio local subvencionado de LIFELINE que estaría disponible para determinadas personas, según lo establezca la Comisión de Servicios Públicos. La tarifa mensual para el servicio de LIFELINE incluiría 25 llamadas mensuales con un cargo adicional por cada llamada en exceso de 25.

Se propone suprimir del arancel del servicio telefónico local las opciones de servicio medido de un elemento para clientes residenciales y clientes comerciales con línea única, pero esto no afectaría a los clientes actuales.

La compañía no espera que estos servicios adicionales produzcan un aumento de ingresos para Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Las solicitudes de intervención, participación o información deben dirigirse a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757.

Para obtener mayor información debe llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223 o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para sordos.

Mayo elected PCG director

Thursday morning the Floyd County cotton producers and agribusinessmen met at Strickland's Restaurant to elect a new business director to represent Floyd County in Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., in Lubbock. Darrell Mayo of Floydada was elected as the new director. Mayo, presently manager of Scott Gin, will serve a two year term as the Floyd County agribusinessman director.

Mayo will serve with Kenneth Wofford of Lockney who is presently the producer director from Floyd County. Wofford's term will expire in 1985.

Mayor replaced Ray Ferguson of Floydada who has been the agribusinessman for the past 10 years.

The breakfast meeting was attended by 30 businessmen and producers from Floyd County. Breakfast was sponsored by the outgoing director, Roy Henderson, and Floydada Coop.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. is a cotton producer organization that served 25 counties. Some of their past projects have been to halt the boll weevils at the Caprock and to keep them from spreading into the fields above the cap. They have also worked to get grey spotted cotton on green cards which has enabled producers to get more for the cotton that fell in between white and spotted.

Plains Cotton Growers will be having its Annual Meeting April 19 at 2:00 p.m. in the Lubbock Civic Center. Everyone is invited to this annual meeting.

PROTECT TREES FROM BULLDOZER BLIGHT

The time to protect trees in an area of new construction is before actual construction begins. Once a choice tree starts to decline because of "bulldozer blight", there's not much you can do.

Most plant injury is due to mechanical damage from trucks and other vehicles; however, soil compaction caused by the movement of heavy equipment over a tree's root zone will also damage the tree.

A barricade around existing trees will keep the soil from being disturbed and prevent mechanical injury to the trunk and branches of the trees.

Changes in the level of the soil upset the air and moisture relationship in the soil, causing the tree's functional root hairs to die from lack of oxygen. As little as 3 inches of heavy soil placed over the root zone of an oak tree will provide the essential air exchange necessary for normal root growth and development. The system must also allow excess moisture to drain away from the root zone.

Terracing can provide satisfactory protection if the grade has to be lowered. If you don't have enough space for a broad terrace, a retaining wall between the tree and the lower grade is effective. Be sure to provide weep holes at the base of the retaining wall to allow drainage of excess moisture.

Trenching operations which install new utility services can also be detrimental to existing trees. If a trench must pass near a tree, be sure to observe the following precautions: Cut as few roots as possible. If the root must be served, make a clean cut with a saw or pruning instrument. If a large number of roots have been cut or removed, thin out the top of the tree to compensate for the lost roots. Be sure to make all cuts back to a lateral branch and don't stub back major limbs, which will only cause future problems. Finally, backfill the trench as soon as possible to prevent excessive drying of exposed roots.

Educational program conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serves people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Judging teams compete in Invitational

The Floyd County 4-H Jr. Horse and Sr. Livestock teams participated in the Big Spring Invitational Judging Contest on March 31. The Senior Livestock team members were Jason Brown, Keith Hancock, and Chad Edwards. There were fifty-three teams entered in the contest and the Floyd County 4-H team was 7th high-team. Keith Hancock scored 430 out of a possible 450 and received the plaque for 3rd high individual in the entire contest. The other team members did an outstanding job also.

The Junior 4-H Horse Judging Team consisted of Misty Lobban, Branda Breed, Tiffany Bennett, and Kerrie Pitts. This team did a good job for their first Judging contest.

FLOYD COUNTY MEN take a preview look of the surge irrigation system, which will be discussed Friday, April 6 at the G.L. Fawver farm, during a day-long demonstration.

Family of local residents given Horticulture Award

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Daniel of Floydada recently returned from Weatherford, Texas, where they had been visiting with their son and family, the Dale Redd's. While in Weatherford, the Daniel's had the honor of attending the 64th annual Weatherford Chamber of Commerce Banquet on Saturday, March 31, when their son and daughter-in-law were presented with the Horticulture Award for 1983-84.

Mrs. Redd is the former Carol Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lawson.

Maintaining a busy year long schedule to insure an efficient operation, participating in community affairs, 4-H, and raising quality horses led to the selection of the Redd family for this year's award.

Three years ago, Dale and Carol Redd purchased the Cowles Peach Orchard on the Greenwood Cut-off Road. They are beginning their fourth season of growing quality peaches, other fruits, and vegetables. They are assisted by daughter Cherri, a student at Tarleton State University, and son Brad, a ninth grader at Weatherford High School.

Since their arrival in Parker County from Colorado, where another daughter still lives, they have taken an active role in their community. Dale serves on the Parker County Extension Planning Committee and is chairman of the 4-H Horse Committee. Both are active with their children in 4-H. In addition to growing peaches, the Redds raise and show registered paint horses.

Other activities Redd is involved with include being vice chairman of the Parker County Extension Planning Committee, and chairman of the Parker County Extension Horticulture Committee for the past two years. He is also a member and past director of American Paint Horse Association, in which he served nine years on the APHA National Youth Committee, serving two years as vice chairman.

Mrs. Redd's other activities also include being a member of the Greenwood Home Demonstration Club, where she has served as treasurer and is currently acting as vice president.

With 50 acres of their own, plus another 35 acres of leased land, the Redds have about 1800 peach trees, including about 400 replacement trees this year, 150 pecan trees, 50 plum trees, and fig and apricot trees. This 85 acres includes about five acres used for growing vegetables. All of their fruits and vegetables are sold through their market at the Redd Peach Ranch.

SWCD announces winners

The Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District announced the winners of the senior division of the SWCD essay contest Monday. The contest is part of the Texas Conservation Awards Program.

The first place ribbon and $25 cash went to Karen Lloyd. The second place ribbon and $15 went to Cindy Mulder while Teresa Gentry won the third place ribbon and $10.

Presenting the awards were Les Nixon, chairman of the Floyd County SWCD, and Jon LaBaume, district conservationist with the Floyd County SCS.

The top three essay have been sent to the regional contest which covers 51 counties in the Panhandle and South Plains area.

The district directors wish to thank Mrs. Fred Thayer for her involvement in emphasizing conservation of natural resources, assisting with the essay contest, and having a special study on problems and answers within Floyd County.

Swine course slated

Show pig production and a discussion of important factors in buying and selling boars will highlight the annual Texas A&M University Swine Short Course for producers on the High and Rolling Plains. The course, April 11, will be at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, just east of I-27 on FM 1294, at the Shallowater exit.

Demonstration of surge irrigation system set

Interested in surge irrigation? The Floyd County Soil Conservation Service in conjunction with the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 will conduct a day-long surge irrigation demonstration at the Gilbert L. Fawver farm located seven miles east and three miles south of Floydada in Floyd County, Texas on April 6, 1984. Jon J. LaBaume, SCS District Conservationist, and his staff will be running an actual field application test and evaluation of a surge irrigation system on Mr. Fawver's farm.

Surge irrigation is a method of furrow watering through the use of a surge time control system which applies water in a series of controlled pulses alternating between two sets of furrows. The first surge (or pulse) waters one set of furrows for a specified time period. The surge time control box then automatically alternates the water to wet the second set of furrows on the opposite side of the valve. Upon completion of the second set watering for the specified time period, the control box then automatically switches the water back to the first set of furrows. The first set of furrows has by this time sealed over, due to swelling clays in the soil, and when the water is switched back to the first set of furrows, the water will flow past the previously wetted area reaching the dry part of the furrows. This pattern automatically repeats itself at whatever time interval the producer has selected until the entire field has been wet. Then the time interval between surge sets is reduced and surging continues until the needed amount of water has been applied to the entire length of the two sets of furrows.

Mr. LaBaume explains that the Floyd County SCS office personnel performed nine surge trials last year and indicates that use of the surge time control system saved time, water and/or tailwater on certain sites. Jon states, "It provides a more even and better penetration of the water into the plant root zone area. Results have not been as great on tighter soils as it has on sandier soils, but I still think it is going to be beneficial."

In addition to the demonstration of surge irrigation, water management techniques and equipment such as: soil moisture monitoring, pump plant efficiency testing, irrigation application efficiency testing, and metering of wells will be demonstrated at this event. The SCS personnel will explain their use of the mini mobile field water conservation labs and the Water District staff will explain procedures for conducting a pump plant energy use efficiency test at this location.

The demonstration will take place from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. at the Fawver farm located seven miles east of Floydada on the Matador Highway and then three miles south (turn south at the Producers Coop. Boothe-Spur Elevator) on the Baker Highway in Floyd County, Texas. All persons interested in seeing an actual field application of surge irrigation are invited to come by and visit with the SCS and Water District personnel any time during the day.

Center News

By Mrs. J.E. Green

April:

Sunday was a cold, rainy day. Dinner was scheduled at the Calvary Baptist Church. We had the Lord's supper first.

Half an hour ago I had a good chat with my son at Big Spring. They had no rain yet today.

Early this morning we had quite a shower. The Revival at First Baptist Church closed Friday night.

Clyde informs me that the whole Albuquerque area is in a Revival. The Baptist churches in an area seat 18,000. The preacher is John Bisagno from Houston.

And when school is out there will be Vacation Bible School. They are nice. Mrs. Carpenter had company Sunday.

Most people are staying in since Sunday and we still have wind.

Mrs. Clay Muncy is home but not feeling too well.

Mrs. Bobby Rogers is home from Lubbock and some hospitalization. Welcome home.

Alma Ruth is still in the Rest Home and we hope is still feeling well.
