Co-Op Manager Assumes Duties

Gail Kring went to work full time for Plains Co-op Oil Mill in Lubbock and had been employed there ever since, until Monday morning, when he began his duties at the Lockney co-op. Kring had worked for the Lubbock co-op part-time ("only about 50 or so hours a week," he jokes) while attending Tech.

A native of Houston, Kring grew up in Abilene and was graduated from Abilene High School in 1957. He received a BBA degree in Industrial Management from Tech.

Kring and his family — his wife Mary Ann and daughter Amy, who's nearly seven years old — plan to move into the co-op manager's residence about August 21, after former manager Rainey Davis and his family move out. Davis will remain in Lockney until about August 20 to help with Kring's orientation period.

Kring's hobbies are horses and team roping, and both he and his wife taught in the youth division of the First Baptist Church Sunday School at Lubbock.

Mrs. Kring was active in Junior League in Lubbock and last year was chairman of the Junior League Museum Committee which arranged tours by school children of the Texas Tech Museum and Ranching Heritage Center.

Bandits Strike Allsup's In Floydada

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department late this week continued to investigate the Monday morning holdup at Allsup's Convenience Store, 102 E. Houston St.

Two easy-money-boys held the store's manager and assistant manager at knifepoint at approximately 11 a.m. Monday and made off with the cash. Unconfirmed reports put the loot at more than $500.

Ophelia Arellano, the assistant manager, received a cut on her upper lip from one of the assailants when she tried to prevent him from coming behind the counter, according to manager Elaine Nelson.

"One of the men came in first and asked to use the restroom," Mrs. Nelson said Monday. "We told him there was no public restroom and he left. A minute later he came back with another man and walked behind the counter where I was getting the deposit and change fund."

"One man grabbed the money,"

Mrs. Nelson related and the other pulled a knife and said "This is a robbery. Don't move and you won't get hurt."

The manager said Mrs. Arellano's wound was more of a reflex action than any deliberate attempt to harm the two women.

"Ophelia grabbed the one coming behind the counter with the knife," she said. When the man made a menacing gesture with the weapon, the assistant manager apparently leaned forward into the path of the blade. She received five stitches in her lip at Caprock Hospital.

Mrs. Nelson described the knife as an ordinary kitchen butcher knife.

The two men then ran out the door and across the street, ducking into an alley. Mrs. Nelson followed but found that one tire on each of the employees' cars had been slashed to delay pursuit.

When the Sheriff's Department received the call for help from the store, they found that one patrol car parked

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis) County Extension Agent

FURNITURE ARRANGEMENT - Part 3
Three "do's" put the finishing touch on a furniture arrangement plan - they include proper scale, balance and a focal point.

PROPER SCALE
Keep furniture in proper scale with the rest of the room.

For small rooms, use a loveseat rather than a long sofa, for example. Also, use small-scale tables and other furnishings in small rooms.

On the other hand, a very large room may require two large sofas - along with several occasional chairs in conversational groupings - to give it a well-furnished look.

CREATE BALANCE
Create a sense of balance in each room by distributing furniture masses so they don't weigh down one side and leave the other side empty.

For example, in a room that holds a combined mass of major seating items, make sure there is a complementary mass of major seating.

For example, in a room that holds a combined mass of major seating items, make sure there is a complementary mass in another part of the space.

Sometimes the architecture itself provides this - with a bank of bay windows or a staircase, for example.

Also, a secondary seating group, a grand piano or a wall of bookshelves will achieve the same effect.

USE FOCAL POINT
Design your interior around a focal point - that one special thing in a room that catches the eye at first glance.

It could be a fireplace or a "good view," for example. Make sure the sofa faces the focal point.

If the room lacks a natural focal point, create one - with a sizable work of art or a wall of mirrors or an etagere (Standing whatnot shelf).

Travel expenses for charity are tax deductible at the rate of seven cents a mile, plus tolls and parking.

Process the okra for 2 minutes. Start to count processing time as soon as the jars are placed in active boiling water. Remove jars and place on rack to cool out of a draft. The next day after processing, remove rings. Wash and dry jars and store in cool place.

Note: The okra will be shriveled immediately after removal from the water bath but after several days will absorb the liquid and become plump once again.

Conserving Water At Home

Station - Washon begins at Nancy Granov... used less water in bath tub - washed car less often

A conscious effort is required to change water-use habits, but repairing leaks and drips saves water without changing habits, the specialist continues. Consider the toilet. Each toilet flush uses from five to seven gallons of water.

Check the toilet to see water leaks after flushing. Two hundred gallons a day can seep from tank to bowl there is a leak. To check for a leak, put small amount of food coloring into the tank. If the color trickles into the bowl, there is a leak that needs repairing.

In buying a new toilet, look for a "low volume" model she recommends.

Reduce the amount of water used in an older toilet by placing a plastic milk detergent bottle filled with water and extra weight in the tank. The amount of water saved will be the same as the volume displaced by the plastic container.

Bricks do not displace much water, and brick pavers can seriously damage valves. Or, save water by adjusting the float level of the toilet so the tank fills with water, or place a two-outlet lead weight on the lift just above the tank ball.

This last procedure for the tank ball to seat more quickly than it normally would, thus allowing water to leave the tank. M. Granovsky adds.

outside the courthouse had similar damage. Sheriff Fred Cardinal speculated that the same men punctured the patrol car tire in preparation for the assault on the store.

As Mrs. Nelson tried to track the bandits, Les Hair, an inventory specialist from the Allsup's main offices, happened to arrive. He and Mrs. Nelson drove around the area trying to spot the men, but with no success.

The store manager traveled to Plainview Monday afternoon to describe the robbery for a police artist to make a composite sketch.

Sheriff Cardinal would not discuss the investigation on the record, but admitted that the department did have a few leads. He said his department would actively pursue the case until they solved it.

The suspects were described as being between 15 and 20 years old and of Hispanic descent. One wore a white T-shirt, blue jeans and a red bandana around his forehead.

The other man wore brown pants and a brown shirt. Both had collar-length hair and were described as being "clean and neat."

"The biggest thing I noticed about them was the knife," Mrs. Nelson remembered.

Monday's incident reportedly was the first time Allsup's in Floydada had ever been robbed.

Three units of the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department rushed to South Plains Sunday evening to battle a house fire. The blaze did moderate damage to a house owned by Leighton Teepel, according to department spokesman Jimmy Owens.

A room occupied by a farmhand, a closet and a hallway were damaged, Owens said. There was no immediate information on the fire's origin and no one was injured.

Owens said eight men responded to the alarm. They were out approximately two hours before returning to the station.

Sunday's fire was the first reported in Floyd County during August.

Smith Asks Clements To Declare County Crop Disaster Area

Predicting that more than 75 percent of the farmers in Floyd County would suffer losses from bad weather and crop disease, County Judge Choise Smith this week asked Gov. Bill Clements to declare Floyd County a crop disaster area.

A cool September or an early freeze, Judge Smith noted in his letter to the governor, could drive the losses even higher.

If Smith's request was granted, area farmers would become eligible for small-business loans and Federal Home Administration loans at a lower rate of interest to tide them over until the next crop.

Between seeding disease and the adverse weather, according to the judge, Floyd County lost almost half its cotton crop for this season. Many fields had to be replanted two or three times.

In the stands that remained after the last two months, rain and maturity was delayed several weeks.

"At this point," the judge said, "it is too late to plant any other crop. In late June, a severe drought damaged or destroyed approximately 25,000 acres of cotton and soybeans. July 30, a severe hail and wind practically wiped out an additional 15,000 acres.

Judge Smith said that the area farmers would have preferred to fill out the applications to plant their next season's crop.

Floyd Philosopher Doesn't See Much Prospect For Windmills As An Answer To Those OPEC Guys

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on White River examines a new government windmill this week, from a distance.

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper the other day and have been thinking about ever since, the government has built an experimental windmill atop a 4000-foot mountain to see how much electricity it can generate.

What caught my attention was not whether a windmill will work; I firmly believe it will, based on the 2000-year history of the invention, but I can understand Washington's not wanting to go off half-cocked. Furthermore, I believe a windmill will generate electricity if you hook it up to a generator and the wind is blowing. Washington's on sound ground there.

But what did catch my attention was the price. It cost $3,500,000. I suppose the government is the only organization in the world that requires three and a half million dollars to build one windmill. However you've got to remember it may have taken two years or more to complete an expensive environmental impact study on the effects of blades on honey bees that fly up in the area. And how about horses? Have you thought about that?

The government estimates the mill will generate enough electricity to power at least 300 families, when conditions are ideal. Some people say the weather was ideal for six months back in 1923, but I have never heard of this.

The energy officials who built the windmill said it may be a step of our answer to OPEC. Some people figure, if it costs $3,500,000 to serve 300 families except on all that means the windmill would be $11,666. For the 500 families in this country, that would be $583,300,000. If zeroes were forever confuse you, the figure pronounced 583 billion, 300 million dollars.

OPEC must be shaking in its boots now. I am.

MY OBITUARY By Annie Carr Written 1965

Annie Almeda Allen was born July 14, 1886 in Coryell Co., Texas near Levita in the log cabin of my grandparents Mr. and Mrs. L.R. Haynes. My parents, George L. and Ollie J. Allen, lived in Gatesville at the time. They moved to Greer County, Oklahoma, while I was just a baby, one mile north of Mangum in a dugout.

We lived in the dugout for three years, then my father built a house. He sold this place to George Edwards and moved back to Mangum in a two room house. He bought another farm southwest of where Granite, Oklahoma is now (no Granite then) from my mother's brother-in-law, D.W. (Dave) Jaye. This dwelling was another dugout, of course they all had fire places.

at the time and was later named Carr's Chapel for W.H. Carr. I have been a member of the Methodist church since I was twelve years old. Have lived on this place, except for 5 years when we moved to Floydada in 1924 and back to the farm in 1929. We moved to Floydada to send the children to school.

My husband, Mather Carr, died November 23, 1959 here in the home. I have lived alone since that time. The funeral for Mather was held at Carr's Chapel, Wednesday, November 25, 1959 and he was buried in Carr's Chapel Cemetery.

I attend church most every Sunday. I love my church, my family, and everybody, especially my neighbors. I hope I am able to live here the rest of my life.

The above obituary was written by Mrs. Carr because she liked detailed information and she had such a brilliant memory of events and happenings. Fortunately she was able to continue to live in her home until about eighteen months ago when she had major surgery and was no longer able to care for herself. She moved to the Floydada Nursing Home where she died August 4, 1979.

Annie Carr's survivors include a son, Horace Carr of Floydada; a daughter, Mrs. Chioma Williams, Harmony; three grandchildren, Charles and Bill Carr of Harmony and Sue Williams, Floydada and nine great-grandchildren. A son, Wesley, died in 1976.

The funeral service, conducted by Moore Rose Funeral Home, was in the Carr's Chapel Church, August 6, with burial in Carr's Chapel Cemetery beside her husband, Lee Crouch of Vernon (former pastor) and Robert Brown, pastor, conducted the memorial service. Special music was rendered by Gail Trowbridge and Tony Gregory of Petersburg.

Pallbearers were Ronnie Hopper, Steve Trowbridge, Elmer Dean Williams, Phil Dunavant, Allen Groce, Don Ramsey, Buddy Smith and Charlie Reid.

Out of town relatives and friends attending were: Petersburg, Mr. and Mrs. O.H. Heard, Shirley Groce, Mr.

work with utilities. If properly managed, solar energy systems that are compatible with conventional power supplies could realize savings for both users and utilities.

Among the energy-conserving options being studied in this experiment conducted by the Electric Power Research Institute in cooperation with building contractors and utilities are load managing—a system that shifts demands of electricity to periods of low use—and heat pumps. A heat pump is a device that can extract energy from relatively low-temperature thermal sources, such as outside air, and convert it to a higher, more usable temperature for heating homes.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

By allowing American products to compete fairly in world markets, prices may be held down, and American jobs and our national security may be protected. In this article, taken from his testimony to a Congressional Subcommittee on Trade, a leading American industrialist discusses conditions in international trade which discriminate against American business and hurt the American consumer.

By G. C. Hurbert
Competitive opportunities for U.S. exports to the developed countries of the world are not equal to the opportunities offered them in U.S. markets. Unfortunately, the results of the Multinational Trade Negotiations may give foreign producers a disproportionately larger entry into the U.S. market than they already enjoy while American producers continue to be denied access to major markets overseas.

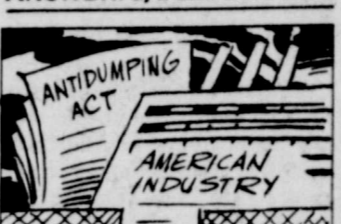

Nationalistic practices in the European countries and Japan prevent them from buying American equipment, while, on the other hand, utilities in the U.S. have purchased several hundred million dollars worth of large electrical equipment from European and Japanese manufacturers.

American equipment manufacturers were not the only losers: we have had to reduce employment in our turbine generator facilities alone by several thousand people.

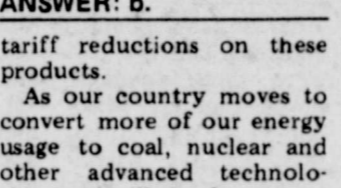

Until European nations and Japan agree to open their markets for large electrical equipment to American and other foreign bidders, the U.S. should increase the "Buy American" differential and make no Foreign governments are extremely protective of their own interests. Utilities and some manufacturing industries are either owned by the government or are mandated to carry out social responsibilities and to maintain employment. These governments support their industries in the need to export—even at marginal prices.

Cedar Hill News

by Grace Lemons

The weather has been good since last week's rains and the farmers are back in the fields.

Robert and Guen Conner, Holly and Robin, of Amarillo had dinner and spent the afternoon visiting Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Conner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robin Fortenberry are the proud great-grandparents of a baby boy, Travis Jay Sanders, born to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sanders in Van Horn July 31. He weighed 7 pounds and 11 ounces and is welcomed by his three year old sister, Monica.

Durrel and Latricia Fortenberry are entertaining their grandson, Chad Fortenberry of Amarillo, this week in their home. Chad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Fortenberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Tucker spent the week in the home of Frances and Evelyn Tucker in Lubbock and attended the Camp meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. Vance Mitchell and girls, Sandra and Virginia, spent from Wednesday till Friday night in Lubbock attending the camp meeting. The missionette service was very impressive Thursday night. Sandra was among those who have completed the requirements to be crowned an honor star. They wore capes and were presented a certificate and a trophy as an award.

Others that attended the West Texas District Camp Meeting for the Assembly of God Churches from Cedar Hill were Edna Gilly, Imogene Fortenberry, Ruth Fortenberry, Ernestine Gilly, Ruth Hill and Clara Redd and Gladys Fortenberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Breckenridge and daughter of Plainview spent Saturday night and Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Durrel Fortenberry.

Steve Fortenberry, Hereford, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Fortenberry is recovering satisfactorily after undergoing an appendectomy recently in the Central Plains Hospital in Plainview.

Mr. W.T. Cooper, father of Linda Lemons, is recuperating at home after spending several days last week in Lockney General Hospital.

Tom and Gladys Fortenberry spent Tuesday night in Lubbock with their daughter Patsy and Lafayette Boone and Danita.

Azalee Beachamp of Rankin and her granddaughter, Renee Phillips arrived Friday night in the home of Mrs. Tom Fortenberry. They spent several days in the home of Mrs. Claude Plainview Saturday afternoon visiting Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Conner.
