REMODELED sanctuary of San Jose Catholic Church in Lockney will be blessed Sunday during a special mass at 4:30 p.m. (Staff Photo)

Catholics To Bless New Sanctuary During Feast Day Observance

The Catholic Church of Lockney will celebrate the annual feast of the patron saint, San Jose de Nazareth, with a special mass at the newly-remodeled sanctuary (altar area) of the church in April at a cost of $15,500. Most of the labor was done by the parishioners.

As the sanctuary (altar area) space was nearly tripled, walls were paneled, carpeting was laid, and new lighting emphasizes the altars.

Built high into an angled wall at the south end of the area is a screen for viewing slides. Two slide projectors high behind the wall beam the pictures onto the screen. A small remote-control board has been installed in the near-by front pew.

Following the mass, a multi-media presentation of the Miracle of Pentecost will be shown using the new screen.

Besides special slide programs, Father Joe Bixenman also uses slides with words of songs. He learned the value of a multi-media program while an associate at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Lubbock. The idea was first used at Littlefield.

A potluck supper will follow the mass and slide program.

About 150 families attend San Jose Church.

Lockney Women Win Trips Because of 4-H Demonstration

Darlene Broseh and Terri Kinard, first in state 4-H competitive demonstration on the Lighthouse Electric Cooperative of Lockney High School, were given a trip to the National Institute on Cooperative Education which was held Aug. 6-9 on the campus of the University of Missouri.

Sponsoring the Lockney women's trip to Columbia, Missouri, were Lighthouse Electric, Lockney Cooperatives, Producers Cooperative of Floydada, Plainview Production and Credit, Floydada office, and Floydada Co-op Gin.

Before leaving for Missouri, they were briefed on area cooperatives. They traveled on a chartered bus with other youth scholars, three Young Farmer couples, and sponsors Billy L. Conner of the Texas Federation of Cooperatives in Austin, Tommy Engelke and Becky Page from the Houston Bank for Cooperatives.

The bus spent the first night in Tulsa, Oklahoma. While on the campus of the University of Missouri, the group stayed in dorms. Activities included entertainment every night and sessions explaining about cooperatives.

Terri and Darlene have been invited in February to present their demonstration before some 4000 people who will be attending the state cooperative meeting. Their trip will be sponsored by the Texas Federation of Cooperatives. Mrs. Buster (Linda) Terrell, their coach, will accompany them to Austin.

Darlene has been a member of 4-H Club since a young child. This was her third year to win at state with a demonstration. Terri joined 4-H last year because of the method demonstration activities. She has won numerous awards in speech tournaments. In a few days, Darlene will enroll as a freshman in West Texas State. Terri began college this summer at Texas Tech University.

What Am I Bid?' Says Young Auctioneer

Earl Broseh carried away with it!" Earl's mother, Juanita Broseh, as she tells of her 12-year-old son's newly-learned auctioneering.

Earl was still 12 years old when he became the youngest student at the auctioneering school there. We thought he was too young then and probably too young even this summer. But his plans since before he began school. "Since he attended his first auction he has been nuts about auctioneering," Earl's mom relates. "One summer before he started school he wanted to go to vacation two weeks in Missouri so he could attend auctioneering school there. We thought he was too young then and probably too young even this summer. But his plans for the summer hadn't worked out and his sister Darlene was taking so many trips, that when this opportunity came up, we decided to let him go."

Students in Gregg's school started on a Friday at 8 a.m., finishing classes that night about 10 o'clock. They kept that same schedule (except for meals and soft-drink breaks) through Saturday of the next week. The students stayed together in Plainview. Earl got started a little slowly with the other students, but in a few days he was accepted by them.

Beth Kropp of Lockney who works with the school said that if Earl was homesick, no one knew it. "Once his Dad came by to leave a message and Earl wanted to know what he was doing there!"

Teachers at the school were Gregg, Cecil Rhodes who was a graduate of Gregg's first school four years ago, and Dr. Bob Kropp of Oklahoma State University in Stillwater who taught animal evaluation.

Earl's class of 16 included several people from South Dakota and New Mexico. The oldest was 40, but most were 19 to 20 years old.

There was one girl, the second for the school.

Besides learning the auctioneering lingo and the chant, the students were taught evaluation and selling of livestock, real estate, automobiles and heavy equipment, antiques, etc. They also learned sales management including the bookkeeping, how to be a "ring man" who takes bids from the buyers, how to make up a sale bill and how to advertise a sale. Laws governing the auction business were discussed.

Otero Scheele Is Herdsman

On the Albert Scheele farm southwest of Providence Mrs. Scheele (Otero) has done everything in the farm operation except run the cotton stripper or combine.

And she says she's not going to learn how! Still, she can be counted on to haul the maize, corn or cotton to the elevator or gin. And she's always on call if help is needed in plowing, cultivating etc.

Until the Scheeles bought their present six-row equipment and a larger tractor she did more of the farming than she presently does. "It was fun planting. I learned how to set the correct depth. It wouldn't be hard to plant with six-row equipment. I just haven't been needed."

Although not as active as a "farmer" as she once was, she still has all the responsibility of the farm animals. Son Ralph helps quite a lot with the animal chores since he has gotten older, but it's still Otero's main farm job.

She raises show lambs, cattle, geese, chickens, rabbits, pheasants, guineas, ducks, goats, dogs and cats, and still keeps a cow that she milks every day.

In the Providence community Otero is called often for advice on medical treatment for cows, sheep and dogs. She does most of the veterinary care for her animals, and helps shear her sheep.

At one time she groomed dogs (two of her daughters learned from her and have run their own grooming services.) and has raised many kinds of dogs to sell. Right now her Shih Tsu is expecting pups, but in past years there have been Pekingese, Chihuahua, collie, poodle, dachshund puppies at the Scheeles.

For the past five years Otero has been a licensed vocational nurse working on the surgical floor at Central Plains Hospital in Plainview. Most weeks she works three or four days and takes leaves of absences occasionally. Once her leaves of absences were because of lambing or harvest, but new grandbabies or illnesses among her children are most often the reason nowadays.

Albert and Otero Scheele have raised six children. Linda has three children and is the wife of a county extension agent in Brenham, David is attending Texas A&M studying to be a veterinarian, Diane lives in Galveston with her husband and son, Becky is in the Dallas area with her husband and two children and is expecting a baby in November, Lisa is married to a farmer in the Perryton area, and Ralph, 15, is the only child still at home.

When Otero isn't farming, taking care of animals or nursing, she cans, freezes vegetables, makes lots of jelly, and makes butter and loaves of bread every week.

At one time she sewed a lot, making Becky's wedding dress and her attendants' dresses. When the girls were in high school she made more than one western suit. The only sewing she has done for Ralph was an Easter suit when he was a little child.

Her hens produce more than enough eggs for the family, and she sells extras to neighbors and fellow hospital employees.

Otero's dad, Ralph Brown who formerly lived at Providence but now resides at Edmonson, heard Otero and friend Esther Brasher talking about buying a grinding mill. He remembered at old stone-grinding mill of his still stored on the Scheele farm, so he hooked it up to a motor. Now Otero makes her own whole wheat flour, and cornmeal.

Her favorite chore costume is a pair of old red coveralls, and on her head she wears either a billed-cap or a surgical cap that does a better job of protecting her hair.

A story is written about Otero Scheele in another few years, this remarkable Floyd County woman will probably have added several more skills to her knowledge.

Labor Day Telethon Even If You Miss A Little, You Miss A Lot.

Floydada Alpha Mu Delta

"Even if you miss a little, you miss a lot" is the theme of the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for Muscular Dystrophy. Alpha Mu Delta members will be assisting with the telethon by answering phones in Floydada and Lockney.

Proceeds from the telethon go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, which sponsors research into the biochemistry and biophysics of normal muscle, as well as clinical studies of muscular dystrophy and its related disorders.

A disease that can begin at any age, but most often appears among women in their 20's and men over 40, myasthenia gravis is characterized by intermittent muscular weakness of variable degree and duration. While any muscles may be involved, those most commonly involved are muscles of eye movement, facial expression, and eyelid elevation, says the Association.

In mild cases muscle function is regained after rest. Severe cases may involve respiratory muscles and chewing and swallowing. Strength may not return even with prolonged rest. There is no known cure for myasthenia gravis, the Association says, but the disease can often be controlled with drug therapy.

WHOZITS . . .

Lockney And Floydada Whozit . . . This fellow should be known in both Lockney and Floydada . . . . .

No one should have any trouble deciding the name of this young man. This picture was made at South Plains in 1942. If you are from Floydada and think this boy looks familiar—he does. He's a graduate of FHS.

Lockney Whozit Pictures Were Of 1938 Parade

No one has called the Beacon to identify the pictures from last week's Whozit. So we called Retha Wofford since we knew she was in one of the pictures. Retha says that the group of women were wearing old-time dresses to be in the Old-Settlers Parade in Lockney in May, 1938. The parade either former or ended at the high school which is in the background of the pictures. The ladies rode in the parade on an open bed truck, loaned by Higginbotham Lumber Yard manager Arthur Barton. In the picture of the three women, Retha Wofford is in the middle. On her right side is Ireta Roberson Vincent; Retha doesn't remember the name of the other woman. In the group picture in the back are Vee Jackson, Leota "Pete" Shelton (dressed like a man) and Gwen Wofford McPherson. The young girl in front is Mary Roberson and her mother Mrs. Ott Roberson is next to her. Retha remembers that Mary Roberson carried a huge lollipop all through the parade, and had smeared egg white on her face that dried making it appear that she had lollipop stickiness on her face.

LAST WEEK'S FLOYDADA WHOZIT

WOULD YOU BELIEVE? No one guessed last week's Floydada Whozit. It was Malvin Jarboe.

Proper Management Key To Profitable Harvest

Techniques and management practices for water conservation in the Texas High Plains area are included in a report just completed as a joint project of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 and the Texas Department of Water Resources. Titled "Summary of Techniques and Management Practices for Profitable Water Conservation on the Texas High Plains," the report provides combinations of physical and managerial practices for High Plains farmers designed to increase water use efficiency in the area, and to protect the productive life of the Ogallala aquifer, as well as offering a possibility for increased farm income. The report examines three major areas of field water conservation. The first, rainfall and moisture utilization, discusses limited and basin tillage practices, terracing and leveling measures, and plays lake water storage. A number of types of irrigation equipment systems and efficiency guidelines are offered, and the report also suggest a variety of management practices to be used by High Plains farmers for improved water use efficiency. Intended to serve, in part, as a "how-to" guide, the report includes information about estimating and comparing energy sources, costs and consumptions of four different systems, and examines efficiency capabilities of side roll, center pivot, and hand moved sprinkler systems, as well as furrow irrigation. Supporting graphs are included to document and illustrate the results of application and conservation techniques for a variety of High Plains crops. Copies of the report may be obtained free of charge from the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock 79403.

THE DEVELOPMENT

The attractive sign on the highway says "Glenview Estates" or something like that. But to folks in the older part of town it is just "the development."

And to the folks who live here it is home! Before the builder completed his development a group of the neighbors got together and built a church here. It's a small church, and it took a lot of financial help from denominational headquarters to build... but it's here!

And now that the developer has left, our little church has become The Developer. It is bringing to life in Glenview Estates or something like that essential ingredients that architects, builders and landscapers cannot provide... the Faith around which to build a home... the Truth by which to raise a family.

In or near every development there is a real Developer. Thank God! And thank also the earnest people who establish, attend, support and serve our churches!

Tips On Controlling White Grubs In Lawns

May or June beetles are emerging from the soil and starting to swarm late in the evening. The females are laying eggs and the white grub worms that hatch will soon be feeding on the roots of bermudagrass in home lawns. Once the grubs begin feeding, control measures should be taken, says Paul Treptow, county entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Treatment time varies with the particular area of the state and ranges from early July in South Texas to mid-August in the Panhandle. Homeowners in Crosby and Floyd counties will need to treat for grubs now. Timing of application is critical for adequate control.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns, notes Treptow. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining all of the roots and soil to a depth of 4 inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for each 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Chemical treatment is needed if there are more than four grubs per square foot of sod.

Diazinon provides adequate control and should be used at the recommended rates given on the chemical container label. The granular form is easier to apply and easier to wash into the soil than the liquid or spray formulations. After using granules, drag the hose with a tow sack or water hose to knock the granules down to the soil. Then apply enough water to soak the granules into the soil.

Apply diazinon sprays at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spray application also helps. Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is dry.

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where the grubs are feeding, emphasizes Treptow.

Further information is provided in the publication, "White Grubs in Texas Turfgrass" which is available at the county Extension office.

Art Exhibit

An exhibit of paintings and drawings strongly influenced by West Texas open spaces and stream beds will open at the Museum of Texas Tech University today.

The public is invited to meet the artist, Jeanette Spehr Cole, at a reception for her from 2-4:30 p.m. at the Museum on the day of the opening.

Cole calls the exhibit "Oval Rocks, Open Spaces," and much of it was inspired, she said, by the flat oval rocks she picked from West Texas stream beds and from the spaciousness of the West Texas landscape.

Further information is provided in the publication, "White Grubs in Texas Turfgrass" which is available at the county Extension office.

The show is Cole's thesis exhibit, a part of the requirements for her master of fine arts degree on which she has been working at Texas Tech University.

In the exhibit are some large oil paintings, watercolors, colored pencil drawings and works using both colored pencils and air brush.

"I like working with illusions," Cole said. She added that she found the rocks and spaces depicted in her works could take on a variety of meanings, depending partly upon the artist's interpretation and also on the viewer's perception.

Her work has been shown in numerous juried exhibitions, and she has won awards in the 1979 Little Rock Drawings and Crafts Exhibition, the 1979 Texas College Art Show and in the 10th annual Southwest Exhibition at the Museum of the Southwest in Midland, 1976.

Tax Information To Assist The Budget

DEDUCT MOVING EXPENSES FROM FEDERAL INCOME TAX

Before moving to a new home, know the tax allowances and limitations related to moving.

If the move meets the necessary requirements, reasonable direct moving expenses are fully deductible and indirect moving expenses are allowable within specific limitations.

What are the requirements?
1) You must be moving to a new principal residence to work as an employee or a self-employed individual at a new principal place of work.

2) The distance between your old home and new place of work must be at least 35 miles greater than the distance between your old home and old place of work.

3) You must work full time for at least 39 weeks during the 12-month period immediately after your arrival in the general location of your new principal place of work (not necessarily with only one employer or for 39 consecutive weeks).

If self-employed, you must perform services on a full-time basis for at least 78 weeks during the 24-month period immediately after your arrival at your new residence.

What is deductible?
1) The cost of moving household goods and personal effects to a new residence is fully deductible. This includes the actual cost of transportation or hauling from your old residence to your new one, the cost of packing and crating, intransit storage up to 30 consecutive days, and insurance.

2) The cost of shipping your automobile is deductible.

3) The cost of transporting household pets (dogs, cats, tropical fish, etc.) is deductible.

4) The cost of moving personal belongings from a place other than your old residence (summer home, relative's home, etc.) can be deducted to the extent that it does not exceed what it would have cost to move them from your old residence.

5) The final family trip to the new residence is considered a direct moving expense and is fully deductible. This includes meals, lodging, gas, oil and repairs incurred on the trip.

6) Indirect moving expenses including pre-move house-hunting trips, temporary quarters, selling and buying your old and new residence and settling an unexpired lease or acquiring a new lease can be deducted within certain limits.

The maximum limit for indirect moving expenses is $3,000 of which more than $1,500 may be for house-hunting trips and temporary quarters.

The deductible cost of selling or acquiring a residence includes all of the fees and expenses paid or incurred in connection with the sale, exchange or purchase of your old and new residence.

Finally, be sure you keep all receipts of all expenses.
8) Remember you may deduct moving expenses whether or not you claim excess itemized deductions.

A word about Quality, Price & Value.

We live by a very simple philosophy. We strive to give you extra value for your food dollar. Not once in awhile, but day in and day out, week in, week out.

We do this with high quality food, competitive prices, friendly, efficient service, and the important extra of S&H Green Stamps. S&H Green Stamps are, in fact, good for both of us. For us, they mean more customers; and the more customers we have, the more food we sell, the lower our prices. And for you, Green Stamps are a genuine extra, a little bonus at the checkout counter that can translate into beautiful S&H gifts.

So, in a very real sense, shopping at our store means day to day savings for you and your family. The solid value of quality food at competitive prices... and S&H Green Stamps, too. In today's economy, that makes a lot of sense.

Sincerely yours,

Conference Studies Effects Of Times On Rural Churches

Rural churches remain a stronghold, "something to cling to," for many rural Texans. But forces of change are at work that are affecting both rural communities and their churches.

Discussions on the nature and extent of these changes will highlight the 34th annual Town and Country Church Conference at Rudder Center, Texas A&M University, Oct. 4-5.

Conference theme will be "New Towns in Old Communities: The Conversion of Rural Texas."

"Church and community leaders are groping for new meaning and direction, and this conference will focus on the latest issues affectin church and community life," points out Dr. Dave Ruesink, sociologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and conference chairman. The Extension Service is sponsoring the annual conference along with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

A highlight of the conference will be the presentation of the Texas Rural Minister of the Year Award by the Progressive Farmer magazine during the final session.

Along with a host of speakers who will address the issue of rural change, the conference will acquaint participants with the many resources available to local communities through Texas A&M University, notes Ruesink.

Headlining the list of speakers will be Calvin Beale, a demographer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, who will discuss national population trends in rural areas. Then Dr. Bob Skrabanek, Texas A&M Demographer will bring the issue closer to home by discussing population changes in rural Texas.

Other speakers the first day will include Lonnie Jones, State Property Tax Practices Board, Austin, and Steve Murdock, Texas A&M rural sociologist, who will talk about "The Consequences of Sudden, Massive Change" on rural communities. Also, Jim Benson, Texas A&M transportation specialist, will discuss "Impacts of the Gasoline Shortage in Rural Areas."

Featured speakers the second day will be Dr. William Kuvlesky, Texas A&M rural sociologist, who will talk on "The Dynamics of Change in Rural Texas Culture" and Robert Greene, director of the Resource Center for Small Churches, Luling, who will talk about "Conflicts Between 'New' and 'Old' Community Members."
