Bergland Tours South Plains

Standing in the middle of a hail-ravaged cotton field north of Levelland Thursday, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland called the damage "horrendus," and pledged to do everything in his power to help South Plains farmers recover from their losses.

The secretary was in the South Plains to see for himself the damage caused by the rain and hail last month that extended across 18 West Texas counties, including Floyd. "Seeing is believing," Bergland said as he stepped, with Reps. Charles Stenholm and Kent Hance, into the almost-bare fields on Highway 385. "And I'm here to see firsthand the devastation.'

And the secretary got an eyeful. As far as he could see were rows upon rows of decimated cotton and corn.

'The economic losses are self-evident," Bergland commented as he walked amid the rows of torn-up cotton plants. "The loss here is total." Addressing himself to the farmers who accompanied the tour of the disaster area, as well as those who stopped their tractors and pickups beside the road, Bergland promised that no one would be forced from his land because of the crop damage. "We're not going to foreclose on

The secretary also promised disaster payments without limit. "We have the authority and intend to use it to help anyone who wants to stay on the farms," he said. When pressed for specifics, Bergland said that any final decisions would have to be made after a full field report had been filed by inspection teams. "I'm here now to see what we can do to tailor farm programs to local needs,' he said, "We're looking at writing new programs region by region instead of treating all regions the same, as in the 'What we're doing now is looking at all kinds of facilities to see what can be

While assuring the farmers that credit would be forthcoming for next year's planting, Bergland noted that

'credit is no substitute for income."

He also said that the bumper cotton what prices the farmers could get for the cotton they salvaged would not be further depressed. "The estimate will be revised to reflect the lower supply," he said, adding that the revisions would be completed within "a matter of days."

Bergland also took time to plug the revised crop insurance bill that passed the Senate last week. Including a provision for extending disaster payments for another two years that the defeated House bill did not contain, the Senate bill must now go to the House for "The new programs will be tailored for each region and will go a long way toward providing the benefits that farmers need," he said, adding that the insurance would certainly be affordable to farmers.

When asked about the rumored phase-out of price supports, Bergland replied that the supports would conti-

The wheat target prices would be raised also, Bergland said, but by how much was still in doubt.

'We plan to calculate the production costs on a rolling five year average yield," he said, "instead of one year at

"We can't just go changing from year to year. We need to stabilize the system," he said.

Some onlookers noted that many area farmers had suffered losses in the production for several years ago and were already in debt for crop loans.

"We can't forgive old loans," Bergland said, "but we can extend and renegotiate the payments.'

'The state Farmers Home Administration directors can also approve disaster loans to the fringe areas that were not declared official disaster areas," Bergland said. "We're not going to clamp down on anybody."

The secretary said all relief would come through the FmHA, and the Small Business Administration would have no part in the farm program. 'We tried that two years ago," he said. "and it was an administrative disaster in itself. The Farmers Home Administration will run the disaster credit program exclusively.'

Rep. Stenholm Pleased With Sec. Bergland's Visit To Area

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, accompanying agriculture secretary Bob Bergland on his tour of the hail-torn areas of the South Plains Thursday, said he was pleased with the secretary's reaction to what the group saw in the fields.

As far as promoting understanding of local farmers' problems this year, Stenholm said "It's been a very good day. The Secretary said he was very glad he made this trip."

"It never hurts to have public officials informed and aware of agricultural problems," the congressman said. 'He's here now, and what better place is there to get the facts?"

"The farmers have never had a year like this," Stenholm added, commenting on the need for the secretary's visit. 'they need someone to see what it's really like."

"This makes me sick to see," he said. 'I'm a farmer, too, and I've never experienced anything like it." Stenholm added that he did lose one entire corn crop several years ago to hail so, even though he didn't lose his complete production, he knew what the stricken farmers were feeling.

"I think there's a better understanding lately in Congress for agricultural problems," he said, "especially from the urban representatives.

Many farmers were worried about the proposed phase-out of the disaster program in favor of the crop insurance program," Stenholm said. "I think Sec. Bergland has been impressed with the need for the disaster program today."

Stenholm said the Senate bill was much better than the House bill that he and Rep. Kent Hance helped defeat.

"But it still has some problem areas that need to be worked out," he said.

I was brought up through it, and I got to meet a tremendous number of people. I probably wouldn't be where I am today if it wasn't for the 4-H and FFA programs. I got to travel all across the United States and see a lot of things.

The article about Dr. Kropp discusses his preferences in stock show steers. He is quoted about his description of the ideal show steer. "He'd be a steer with a large frame, long body, a lot of eye-appeal, balance, very correct on his feet and legs and clean in his front end. Also he'd have depth of ribs, some capacity and volume, .3 to .4 cover, thickness up over his top, and be well-made and thick from behind. He would grade choice and would be acceptable from a standpoint of yield grade. When I select a grand champion steer that's choice grade and acceptable as a carcass steer, then I've done my job, because there are other things involved in a show steer than carcass animal in structure and balance. I don't care what color the ideal show steer is." Punt, Pass, Kick Contest Sept. 29

Lockney Methodist Church Fall Harvest Festival Saturd

Members of First United Methodist Church of Lockney are putting the finishing touches on items they will donate for the first Harvest Festival to be held Saturday, Sept.29.

Paintings, quilts, afghans, a deacon's bench, a wooden planter, tool caddy and small wishing well, large plants, tole painted articles and wall hangings are among the items already given to the auction sale which will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

A turkey and dressing meal, cooked by ladies of the church, will be served from 11:30 a.m. until the auction. Menu will also include green beans, candied sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, tomatoes, and pecan or pumpkin pie. Tickets are $3.50 for adults and children over 10 years old, and $2.50 for younger children.

In addition, a "Country Store" for smaller items and plants and possible Christmas decorations will be open. A "Sweet Shop" will offer for sale baked goods, jellies, etc.

The youth of the church will conduct a car wash from 9 to 11 a.m. at the church with proceeds to be donated to the narvest Festival fund. The public is invited to attend and share this first Harvest Festival with the congregation of First United Methodist Church of

'Horns Outscore Olton

Olton eighth-graders defeated the eighth-grade Shorthorns 20-8 in a football game Thursday at Olton, but the seventh-grade 'Horns outscored the Mustang Colts 18-6 in a "scrimmagetype" contest.

EIGHTH GRADE Olton took advantage of several Shorthorn fumbles early in the game and had two touchdowns on the scoreboard before the 'Horns got untracked.

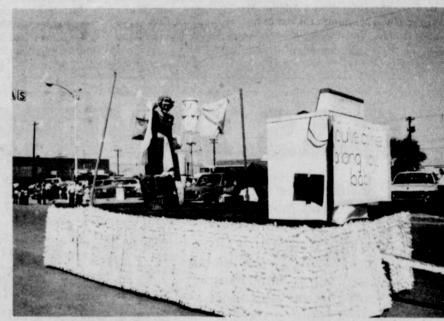

It was a pretty even match after that, with each team scoring a touchdown. The Shorthorns were able to move the ball well, but those early turnovers decided the game outcome, Coach bootleg carry by quarterback Jackie Cunyus. The Shorthorns added two points when they recovered an Olton punt snap in the end zone for a safety. Cunyus completed several passes to his wide receivers and had a good passing game going in the second half.

SEVENTH GRADE

The Lockney seventh-graders looked 'very impressive" even though their contest Thursday was a scrimmage-type situation. (The Olton team was not prepared for a kicking game.)

The Shorthorns won 18-6. They gained lot of vards on offense and, after Olton's first possession, when they scored their lone TD, the Shorthorn defense pretty well shut down the Colts. high teams wil raising for muscular distrophy an annual affair. The officers placed collection jars in local businesses early in August. The main effort this year was a "teen dance" Sept. 1, held at the fair grounds. The dance featured Chuck Walker from KCBD-TV in Lubbock. Muscular Distrophy T-shirts were do-nated by Coca Cola Bottling in Plainview and were sold at the door for $2 each. The dance cleared $243 for "Jerry's Kids." In addition to these efforts the FHA Officers (dressed in muscular distrophy T-shirts and jeans) made collections door to door on Sunday evening Sept. 2. Following the collecting the girls met at the home of Mrs. Trena Aston for a slumber party. While watching the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, the girls made further plans for 1979-80.

Monday morning, September 3, Miss Cynthia Dyer and Mrs. Trena Aston accompanied the girls to Lubbock to present their collection totaling over $400 to "Jerry's Kids" on the Channel 13 telethon broadcast. Floydada Nursing Home Honor Summer days are ending And fall is coming on.... So, it's time to have a party And sing a cheerful song!

Now Mrs. Docia Manning Has had her "special" day. The first one in September. A "special" time to "play.

Mr. Alma Eubanks Counts back to '99.... Which brings his years to eighty With memories back through time.

Mrs. Audrey Barnard has joined And WELCOME to her we say....
May her days be bright and happy
And pleasant in EVERY way!

That cheerful song we mentioned.
Is the good old birthday tune... Let's sing it for these people And NOW won't be too soon!

Our Mr. Hughes we honor..
...He counts from 1904....
And with the luck he is having He'll count a WHOLE bunch more.

Mrs. Effie Smith is with us
....Her years are 93....
She is a very lovely lady
With a smile for you and me.

I was a guest recently at the home of a young couple. They had been blessed with three beautiful children in less than 21/2 years. The second delivery brought them twins, a boy and a girl. The young wife had hardly gotten used to motherhood when she had three babies to manage. The twins are now 18 months old and the mother has adjusted to her new life and is enjoying it. But it wasn't that way at first. She had been raised in relative comfort, an average American teenager. She loved her sleep and boasted of needing nine hours a night just to function. After the first child she was exhausted. The demands of her infant seemed overwhelming, and she dreamed of getting out, finding a parttime job. She loved her child but resented the absolute demands he made upon her. After the twins arrived she was on the verge of collapse, and thought of running away. But she hung in there and did her job. Now she's very happy she did. She speaks of the normal joys of motherhood and tells me she can see the difference between the neighborhood children whose mothers work and those whose mothers stay at home. The children of working mothers, she says, seem difficult to manage, demanding of attention, and even aggressive at times. Her own play together for a time and once in a while one or another will come over to her, hug her leg and run off. They need the occasional reassurance of her presence. She wonders what the children would feel if she weren't there. She said, "I'm glad I didn't go out to work. I find it easier now with the three than it was when I had only

That young woman has discovered something about herself. Even though she is now averaging only five to six hours sleep a night, she is happy. The old ways of doing exactly what she wanted to do, when she wanted to do it, are a thing of the past. Now she has grown up, and is meeting the challenge of With three beautiful children growing up in a loving atmosphere, she has found peace and a heightened sense of self-respect. She is constantly bolstered by all sorts of gifts of love from her children and her husband. Marriage can be difficult and irksome at times but "love can make it easy, perfect love can make it a joy," as one marriage rite proclaims.

"Working mothers" are "real mothers," too, says a family life education specialist, Diane Welch.

Families often benefit from a mother's outside employment, she says. Mrs. Welch is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. According to recent studies, a "working mother" provides her family with several major benefits directrelated to her outside

In addition to material benefits, families in many cases become closer as they share responsibilities. Also, family members' abilities to think through and

Tye Company Employees Attend Blue Print Course

A basic blue print reading course was conducted re-cently for employees of The Tye Company. One-hour-classes were held on Tuesdays and Thursdays for five weeks. Instructor for the course was David Low. The program, introduc-tion of basic concepts, inclu-ded a slide/sound program, motion picture presentation, and workbook.

Areas covered by the course included print reading, multiview drawings, isometric drawings, types of lines used on prints, repre-senting surfaces on prints, auxiliary views, sectionviews, zero plane dimensioning, external feature dimensions and tolerances, and internal feature dimensions and tolerances. Tye Company employees attending the course and receiving certificates of completion were Charles Minick, Leroy Thompson, Mike Dietrich, Mauro Martinez, and Ubaldo Ochoa. A second course will offered at a later date.

Ranch Management Conference To Be Held October 5 At Vernon

A wide range of ranching issues from fencing to computers will be discussed at the 17th Annual Ranch Management Conference at Vernon Regional Junior College in Vernon, Texas, on Oct. 5.

More than 350 area ranchers and ranch managers are expected to attend the meeting which will feature 20 speakers, including university researchers, federal officials and industry representatives.

The event is sponsored by Texas Tech for cotton, wheat, feed grains, and rice. The current disaster program expires at the end of the 1979 crop year. The House is expected to take up a similar bill as early as mid-October. The chief difference in the House bill is its extension of the disaster program only for 1980 and under cotton industry. The court asked

OSHA to let it know when the study is the Pitchfork Ranch, Guthrie, while Gary Mathis, assistant manager of the Swenson Ranches Partnership, Stamford, will preside in the afternoon. The first speaker will be Dr. W.J.

over by Jim Humphreys, manager of (Dub) Waldrip, general manager, Spade Ranches, Lubbock. He will discuss methods of reducing cost and maintenance in fencing. Texas Tech speakers at the conference will include BEv Herndon, research associate in range and wildlife at Quanah; Dr. C. Reed Richardson, assistant professor of animal science; and Dr. Willie L. Ulich, professor of agricultural engineering. The three will talk on the impact of shredding frequency on mesquite control, use of mesquite as a feed source and harvesting mesquite.

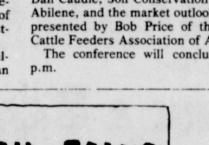

Participants from the Texas Agricultural Extension service will be Norman Brints, area economist, and Dr. Whitney Rounds, area livestock specialist, both of Vernon; Dr. Ray Sammons, are economist, Amarillo; andDr. Dennis White, area livestock specialist, Dallas. Brints will talk on benefits of improved ranch management, Rounds and Sammons on the use of mini-computers on the ranch, and White on ways to save on supplemental feed.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station will be represented by Dr. Rod Heitschmidt, who will discuss economical beef production. Texas A&M will send Dr. Bob Whitson, who will talk on management and profits in ranch operations.

Two West Texas ranchers, Stanton Brown of the League Ranch near Benjamin, and Lawrence Harmel, Seymour, will speak during the conference. Brown will talk on keeping good production records and Harmel on the use of accounting records on the ranch.

The cause of winter losses in Kleingrass production will be discussed by Dan Caudle, Soil Conservation Service, Abilene, and the market outlook will be presented by Bob Price of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association of Amarillo.

The conference will conclude at 4

DUST RESEARCH STRESSED: A plan for increased funding of cotton dust research was outlined to National Cotton Council directors at their meeting in Little Rock this week. Dr. Phillip J. Wakelyn, staff manager of safety and health technology, said an intensive short-term research effort is needed to eliminate the source of byssinosis.

He outlined a program calling for $4 million to $6.5 million over and above current expenditures. Dr. Wakelyn said, "There is every reason to believe that a crash research effort over 18 to 24 months would identify a practical means of elimilnating or deactivating the causative agent.

Directors also were brought up to date on: farm fuel supplies-tight and expensive; cotton economy—sagging in recession but still bright because of consumer demand for denim, corduroy, and other tectile favorites; and exports of U.S. cotton-going strong. Other reports covered legislative developments concerning the reclamation law and croop insurance, clean air regulations, and the Council's campaign for regulatory reform.

OFFICIAL OPENING SET: Cotton Council International President Fred Deans announced this week that CCI's Hong Kong office will officially open

Oct. 9. "Having a base for operations in the Far East demonstrates our commitment to improved service and future development in these important U.S. cotton's major overseas market and the potential for increasing U.S. mardet share makes the Hong Kong office a top priority for CCI. In 1978-79, the U.S. shipped more than 5 millions bales to the Far East. Thlis represents almost half of the cotton imported by these countries.

John Maguire, director of the new office, said personal contacts will be maintained from Hong Kong with textile leaders and government officials throughout Asia. "By locating here, we can concentrate on even better service to maintain this hilghly competitive market for U.S. cotton," he EXPORTS REPORTED: New cotton export sales of 96,700 running bales were reported for the week ended Aug. 26. Chief buyers were China - 25,300; Japan - 12,300; Zaire - 9,600; and Israel — 8,800. The sales brought total commitments thus far to 4,049,100, or 70% of USDA's projection of 5,700,000 for the season.

AND COTTON YESTERDAY: In 1849, Texas was producing a little over 58,000 bales of cotton. By 1920, however, about one-fifth of the world's cotton was Texas-grown.

Cotton producers on the High Plains who have cotton severely damaged by hail are weighing the pros and cons of two basic choices. They can harvest what's there and hope for a price to make it worthwhile or they can destroy the crop and collect a disaster payment based on zero yield.

Harvesting is out of the question for some of the worst fields, notes Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, but in marginal cases the decision is not so simple.'

Essentially the question is whether the price of the cotton that can be salvaged will cover harvesting and ginning costs plus the difference between two levels of disaster payments, Johnson notes.

Under the disaster program, producers who have complied with all program requirements and who gather their crop will be eligible for a payment of 19.2 cents per pound times the difference between actual yield and 75 percent of the farm's projected yield.

For example, a farmer who has a projected yield of 500 pounds per acre and harvests 100 pounds will be eligible for a disaster payment on 300 pounds, 75 percent of the 400-pound shortfall below his projected yield.

A program ruling secured last year provides that if the farmer in this example elects not to harvest, and agrees to mechanically destroy the crop, he will be eligible for a payment on 75 percent of his entire projected yield. or on 375 pounds. Thus if he harvests 100 pounds his disaster payment will come to $57.60 per acre. Not harvesting would result in a payment of $72.00 per acre, a difference of $14.40 Therefore if harvesting is to be economically advisable, the 100 pounds of harvested cotton and its seed must sell for at least enough to cover the $14.40 payment differential plus the cost of harvesting and ginning.

If one assumes that seed value will pay ginning costs, it will make economic sense to harvest if the expected lint yield times the expected price exceeds the payment difference plus the cost of

In the example above if harvesting cost is $20.00 per acre, the break-even price on the 100 pounds of lint harvested would be 34.4 cents per pound ($20.00 +$14.40=$34.4+ by 100=34.4 cents per pound.)

A lower cost figure or a price above 34.4 cents per pound would tilt the economic scale in favor of harvesting.

Yields, turnouts, seed value, ginning charges and availability of equipment and labor will vary from farm to farm and will alter the figures used here. So each producer would need to make his own calculations, Johnson says. Johnson also cautions that each producer should check carefully with his ASCS office to make sure he does not violate the terms of his agreement to mechanically destroy the crop or otherwise render himself ineligible for pay-
