It's Not Easy

BY CAROL LEA CLARK

Next life I may come back as a man because men have more power and because it takes less time for a man to become socially acceptable in the morning.

My husband can be ready for work in fifteen minutes easily or he is really in a rush.

My husband runs a comb through his hair with the clothes. Then he goes to drink his coffee and read the newspaper until time to go.

It is a different story. I open the door at a time in the morning, while he is still under the bed for my husband.

I bathe and spend fifteen minutes cooking my hair under a blow dryer.

It is better than when I was in the morning and spent a hour every day in the shower. I wonder how I did it.

My husband forgot the eye make up or the shoes. Which shoes shall I wear today? It is pants or a dress today?

My husband gave up cooking breakfast on weekends. There is never a time when I cook and get dressed. So, I have cornflakes with my toddler.

My husband is the two year old wonder to me. My husband is still reading the newspaper and I am running around with the shoe trying to dress my toddler and locate the shoe the dog took.

My husband we all make it to the door. I know why I feel that I must go to work in an hour ritual every morning.

My husband makes me do it, but I'm a mess. Still, I think true sex appeal is that extra forty-five minutes every day.

The worst part is that I never get to see the morning paper until I come in the afternoon.

County groups seek revenue sharing money

A number of representatives from special interest groups met with the county court Friday afternoon to vie for revenue sharing funds.

The largest delegation was from the Senior Citizens. Menard Field as spokesman for the group said that there were 1600 people in the area who qualified by age to be in that group. He said that 70% of them live below the poverty level.

He asked the commissioners for funds to put a nutritional program into effect at the Senior Citizens building.

They want to serve hot lunches that can be purchased at a reduced fee. Though the program would be open to anyone, it is aimed especially at the older people who live alone and do not or cannot cook for themselves as they should.

The meals would be nutritionally planned and available for the needy elderly. They would be cooked under the supervision of a diet specialist.

Such a plan is in effect at Crosbyton according to Field and underwritten by both the county and city.

A letter read on behalf of the group stated that three times the senior citizens have come before the commissioners and asked for a share of the revenue sharing funds and "three times we have lost out."

They asked for $4000. This amount would allow them to put some type of walk from the street to their building, "across that muddy strip of land."

It would also underwrite the cost of hiring a cook and getting the lunch program through the first month. Volunteers would probably work as helpers at first, but a permanent helper would be hired later.

Field said that based on what other counties are doing they would be operating on their own 100%.

He said that government funds have not been made available.

There are 168 members of Seniors Citizens and they have people in attendance from all over the county.

Jim Word in a letter from the Historical Committee said the organization is active and that the Floyd County Museum is, "well on the road."

They would now like to start a project of marking places of historical interest in the county.

They asked for $750 and felt that the project could be spaced over "a few years."

Friends of the Library president, Janice Lloyd, read a letter asking for $1000 construction fund for the library.

The group would like to have an outside book drop installed near the curb.

County Judge Choise Smith presented a proposal to have an elevator installed in the courthouse.

He cited the many elderly and disabled people who have difficulties getting up to the district court room and motor vehicle license office as well as to the library on second floor.

Also the flight of steps at the building entry is difficult for some people. The elevator could be used from ground level.

He said that he would like to propose using the funds for the elevator.

Floyd County will receive an estimated $86,784 in revenue sharing funds for the fiscal year of October 1, 1980 through September 30, 1981.

Computer crash slows taxes

A "computer crash" has been blamed for the latest delay in completing the county tax roll for 1980. The date for mailing statements has now been set at March 1.

County commissioners have extended the 3% discount on taxes until March 31. That is the last date by law that a tax discount may be given.

At the regular commissioners court session on Monday, February 9, the tax assessor-collector, Jonelle Fawver, was asked to appear and give reason for the delay in the tax billing.

Fawver said that a computer breakdown had occurred recently when the Floyd County tax rolls were being completed in Plainview.

Because of this, mistakes would appear. It was then necessary for the county tax office to check another proof roll against records for accuracy. This process has already been done once this year, and the tax office was already long overdue in completing the tax rolls.

Commissioner Bob Jarrett acted as chairman of the meeting in the absence of County Judge Choise Smith.

Jarrett asked Fawver when the statements would be sent out.

"It will be when we get those errors corrected and they give us the (completed) tax rolls," she said.

She then went on to say that she thought it would be close to the first of March before the statements would be mailed.

The commissioners then discussed rescinding the motion made at the December 8 court session to give a 3% discount in January, a 2% in February and a 1% in March.

Sam Spence moved that the motion be rescinded. Thomas Warren made the motion that the discount of 3% be carried through until March 31, the last allowable tax discount date. Motion carried.

Fawver said that those few who had come in and paid taxes during this first week of February and only received a 2% discount would be corrected to receive the 3%.

Jarrett then asked Fawver if there was anything in the way of personnel or equipment that they could get for her "to help her along in completing this tax roll". Jarrett had also pledged this support on behalf of the court at their December session.

"Court will be more than willing to do whatever it takes," Jarrett said.

The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

What do Warren Burger, and eighth grade history class, and Lou Grant have in common?

No, this is not a trivia quiz. There really is an answer.

All three, within the space of a week, made some comment on rights.

Justice Burger wondered aloud whether we had given to much attention to the rights of criminals.

The eighth grade history class I was in discussed capital punishment, the rights of criminals and jurors, and Lou Grant stood in his boss's office and heard Charlie prattle about the rights of adoptive children and their parents.

While no one wants to see the kind of totalitarian state a dictatorship brings about, we are in a crisis in this country because of our view of rights and how they should be protected.

Everyone seems to be demanding his/her rights. Invariably, those demands come into conflict. The first amendment now finds itself in conflict with people's right to privacy, for instance, and the rights of movie theater owners find themselves in conflict with the right of home owners to not have movies shown for free in their neighborhood. The list goes on and on.

What, then, shall we do? "Think Hebrew," as the pin of one Bible study program declares.

The ancient Hebrew, as well as most of the rest of the near east, held to a corporate view rather than an individualistic rule. The idea is that the good of the community was paramount. If the community were sound and properly functioning, then the individuals within that community would be all right. It was understood that God laid out the rules which governed that community, and if the individual found that he could not always do what he wished to do, it was also understood that he would yield his "rights" for the good of the community.

Thus, one did not have the right of free speech, because that person might lead the people away from God's teaching, which would be bad for them. And Paul could easily tell the Corinthian church to toss out their trouble makers, because the church would suffer. What we are talking about goes beyond the maxim, "My rights end where your freedom begins."

Instead, what we are talking about here is the idea of being submissive, one to another. The whole biblical concept of submission is the voluntary yielding of one's personal interests and rights, to serve the best interests of the other person, even if sometimes we get the raw end of the deal. This does not do away with the laws of the land, and the necessity of their enforcement, or the attempt to insure that justice served. Instead, it does away with a lot of the petty squabbling that we engage in in the name of protecting our "rights."

Essentially, then, I am saying what Paul did many years ago. We must have the mind of Christ, who did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped. He voluntarily yielded His rights to serve our best interest.

We need to learn to do the same.

LHS students inducted into Honor Society

Twelve students at Lockney High School have been inducted into the National Honor Society in a ceremony at the school.

LHS chapter sponsor Mrs. Kay Williams directed the ceremony. Inducted were seniors Sharon Spencer and Dawn Clark; juniors Patricia Torres, Tyke Dipprey, Ralph Scheele, Wade Jackson, Criss Carthel, Gary Cawley, Chris Cooper, Karl Race, Ernest Galvan and Jeffrey McCormick.

Membership in National Honor Society is for juniors and seniors with a 90 percent and above scholastic average, who exemplify the qualities of character, leadership and service.

Other members of the chapter include seniors Julie Ferguson, president; John Cummings, Jill Whitfill, Cindy Michelson, Dwight Jackson, Adrian Ramirez, Tonya Nance and Moises Ramirez.

It's no yolk!

Pupils become eggs-pert parents

BY LAURA DAVIS
Have you ever been a parent to an egg for three days? Well if you were in Mrs. Treena Aston's home and family class at Lockney High School you could have been. It was part of a study of parenthood.

We used our imaginations and pretended the eggs were our babies. In that way we used markers, yarn, and glue to distinguish the sex of it, giving them a name (rule number one) and we also had some special babies with special problems.

For example, Tonya Nance was the parent of an adorable premature baby boy named Rudy Joe. Eddie Kinard was the parent of a chubby, dark headed Mongoloid named Jennifer Ann. And last, there was Jerri Lynn with a club foot who was the son of Irene Araujo. Irene learned right away that Jerri, being an egg, fragile like a baby, that you can't go around punching little ones in the eye with your senior ring.

From this learning experience some of the kids found out they were not, and would not be, ready to become a parent for quite sometime.

Especially Roxanne Ford who turned a corner in her car too fast and her perfectly normal child fell off the dash and demolished it's little face, which broke rule number two. (minus 10 points, oops!)

Roxanne muttered to herself, after the accident happened, "Where are all the king's horses and all the king's men when I need them?"

Also because of the fact the students thought that being a parent would tie them down from other things they wanted to do. But regardless of what the parent wanted to do the baby had to be with their parent at all times or break rule number three. (Good grief, minus 10 more points). Of course you could have a baby-sitter, but you had to take your baby egg to class with you for the call of egg roll.

It was a fun and new experience being a parent to an egg, but just remember babies, being fragile, small, and helpless need a good parent like an egg needs a good chicken.

South Plains students build new field cleaner

(LEVELLAND) — What's green and weighs 1,000 pounds? It's no joke to the five advanced welding students from South Plains College who spent an entire semester building a prototype of a half-ton field cleaner. The machine, which cleans cotton as it is being stripped, was dubbed an extractovator by its inventor, farmer and businessman from Enochs, Texas, D.J. Cox.

When Cox first brought them the plans he'd drafted for the contraption, they were mystified.

"I used to farm with my dad and I'd never seen anything like it before," said Ralph Grasso of Hale Center. Fellow student Catarino "Cat" Soto of Meadow laughed, "I haven't been around farming too much, and I sure haven't seen anything like it."

"They were real hesitant about it at first," agreed their instructor, Odell Simmons, who assigned three others to work on the project as well -- Bob Smith of Lockney, Mark Willis of Brownfield and Kevin Bird of Lorenzo. "They were halfway through the project before they knew what it was going to look like."

But the five plunged ahead anyway, using three full sheets of sheet metal (each is 180x40 feet), a variety of welding techniques and gallons of green paint to complete the cleaner, which fits onto the stripper.

Cox says his invention is able to remove about 30% of the dust and trash from the cotton as it is stripped, saving the farmer an estimated $10-$15 a bale at the gin.

It works something like this: The cleaner's saw drum, which is larger than those found in cotton gins, is loaded with cotton by air and rotates from bottom to top. A sling-off action from the drum expels sticks, burrs and other trash from the cotton bolls, while a brush and fan combination transfers the cotton to a stripper basket.

The main saw cylinder gets out the initial burrs, a reclaiming unit takes the cotton through the same process again, and a kicker unit blows the cotton into the basket, explained Simmons.

"The machines was so large it couldn't be turned but had to be welded as is," said Simmons, including the awkward overhead position.

Perhaps the hardest part was the precision required.

"It was a real slow process," said Soto, "because the bearings had to be mounted just right, like a 32nd of an inch so the cleaner wouldn't be lopsided."

For Mark Willis, it was "riveting the gin saws on the cylinder just right, so the saws won't hit the walls."

The machine includes two gin saws and 12 brushes, which are part of the kicking unit.

"But there weren't that many problems, though, for it was pretty well drawn up," explained Bob Smith, a 1979 graduate of Lockney High School and the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Smith of Lockney.

When the young welders had completed the massive project, they were still skeptical. They didn't know if it would work.

But they switched it on, and yes, it worked.

"That's what's so beautiful with welding," said Soto. "When you're finished, it works."

Cox displayed the extractovator last fall at the Panhandle South Plains Fair and used it on his cotton stripper as well. He plans to go into production this year in Levelland.

"I was real pleased with the cooperation I had at the College and the work the kids did on it."

Soto, who knew he was going to be a welder when he struck his first arc as a sophomore in high school, plans to go into underwater welding for awhile after graduation from SPC's welding program.

So does Ralph Grasso. "It's really dangerous work; the average life expectancy is a year and a half, but you can make $75 an hour," he explained. Much of the welding is done on oil rig platforms in the oceans.

"Two welders went underwater for 157 days, came up and retired for life," he noted.

There are about as many branches of welding as there are branches sprouting from trees.

FLOYD COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Now is the time to start thinking about what you're going to plant in this year's garden and how much to plant for your size of family. Whatever the size garden you intend to have, think in terms of four basic requirements. First of all, you need sunlight because all vegetables need some sunlight. And, believe it or not, most vegetables must have full sunlight for highest yields of quality produce. Unless you are concentrating on leaf or bulb crops like broccoli, collards, spinach or onions, your crops need every ray of sunshine that is available.

The next thing to consider is closeness of your garden. Put it as near to the back door as possible. Make bringing home the fruits of your labor a pleasant and enjoyable chore. The out-of-sight, out-of-mind principle applies here. A garden does not demand constant care and attention, but it will thrive and do better if you visit it about once a day. If you do not check it regularly, many insects and diseases which are a problem in Floyd County or maybe even lack of water can destroy your garden in a short period of time. So put the garden close to the house where watching it will not be a hassle.

Next, consider the soil. Realistically, there is not much you can do about changing the type of soil you have in your yard. But, ideally, the soil should be fertile and easy to till, with just the right texture -- a loose, well-drained, loamy soil. If your backyard soil does not meet those specifications 100 percent -- and let's face it, not many soils in Floyd County do -- don't panic. You can work it into shape without breaking your back. Existing plant nutrient levels in the soil should be determined by having your soil analyzed. Soil samples can be taken to the County Extension Office for testing with very little expense involved.

Avoid areas heavily infested with Johnsongrass, nutgrass and other weeds. Don't put your garden on a rocky ledge or in a poorly drained area. All of these things make gardening more difficult.

The next thing to consider is availability of water. Your garden should be near a spigot or at least easily reached with a garden hose. After the scorching, dry summer experienced in this region last year, I think everyone will agree that it doesn't always rain in Floyd County when it's needed. In a typical year, your garden will need watering about once a week.

After considering all of these things and you still want to grow a garden, now you are ready for the planting stage. The first step in planning is selecting vegetables you want to grow. Plant vegetables you like to eat. Avoid those that your family doesn't usually buy on trips to the local grocery store. With a few exceptions, you can plant almost anything in your garden you want.

If you are undecided about what to grow, give our office a call. We'll be glad to help you with information on what vegetables grow best here.

After you have made the decisions in step one, then step two is the tough part, but it's worth it. Make a rough diagram or drawing of your garden. Indicate the number of rows and vegetables you wish to plant. Also show the desired location of each crop in your garden, number of plants or feet of row you want to plant, and the best time to plant.

You will find the plan will help you make deadlines you would otherwise put off until it's too late, help you make decisions on what you need to buy at the local garden center or nursery, and put some order into your expected gardening activities.

Next week, I'll be discussing some important, money-saving tips on vegetable gardening in Floyd County.

All the rice in China may be going to buy U.S. wheat. When the final figures are in, U.S.D.A. experts who predict that China may "nudge" its way into the top ten U.S. markets for farm goods may have predictably red faces. It seems that China may well end up the third or fourth leading market for U.S. goods, with the October signing of the first grain trade agreement between the U.S. and China adding a tremendous leap to the upward climbing graph. Six to nine million tons of U.S. wheat are part of that bargain with China, which experienced a considerable crop shortfall in 1980 due to dry planting weather and below normal temperatures. That estimate places China's wheat production down 5.5 million tons from its 1979 mark of 60.5 million tons. A government plan for gradual expansion of livestock and poultry production to increase domestic consumption of meats has added additional pressure to China's grain needs. Any move in this direction could mean larger Chinese grain imports in the future.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor,

Last week I attended the Constitution seminar in Plainview. I knew the Constitution had been carefully put together, but I never understood how much study, research, time, tears, sweat and prayers actually went into the making of this document. It is not out of date as some folks say. The Founding Fathers even predicted us a nation with two or three million population.

It was interesting to learn about different kinds of Socialism. All of them are built on a failure formula. Nobody ever told me in so many words, but I was made sad to see the type of Socialism the United States has one arm around and is trying very hard to totally embrace.

How silly we are not to take the time to learn and appreciate our great heritage. However, if we spend much time in learning and protecting our wonderful heritage, we might miss a little of the "REAL THING."

Like Coca Cola — and the Friday night game!

Sincerely,
Wayne Bramlet

Shoe care guidelines

Shoe care pays off, especially if you've invested in quality to begin with, says Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist.

Here are her "just-a-minute" shoe-care guidelines:

After each wearing brush or wipe shoes with a clean cloth or remove soil. Dust or grit left on shoes, especially leather ones, works its way into the finish, dulling and marring it.

Polish shoes after every five or six wearings to keep the color rich and the leather supple. Use a matching color or a neutral polish and buff to get a good shine.

Insert shoe trees into shoes to prevent toes from curling and wrinkling—and to allow free air circulation.

For boots, use boot trees or rolled newspapers.

Alternate shoes instead of wearing the same pair every day. This will make shoes last longer, since it allows each pair to dry thoroughly before the next wearing.

Ease on shoes carefully. Use a shoehorn if needed to avoid breaking down the back of the shoe.

When heels begin to wear down, replace them right away. Once the leather itself is worn off the bottom, the shoe cannot be restored to its original appearance.

Fructose, also known as fruit sugar or levulose, offers food manufacturers an alternative to standard sweeteners. Most of the fructose manufactured in America is derived from corn syrup, making it a low-cost sweetener. Honey contains about 40 percent fructose while most fruits contain about five percent.

Fructose is approximately one-third sweeter than sucrose or table sugar. However, the relative sweetness of fructose depends on the type of food to which it is added. Fructose is sweetest when the temperature is decreased and acidity is increased. Because it is sweeter than sucrose, less is required for an equivalent amount of sweetness. Thus fewer calories are added than with sucrose.

Absorbed slowly from the gastrointestinal tract, fructose can be converted by the liver to glucose for utilization as energy. Therefore, it is important that diabetics calculate foods sweetened with fructose into the diet.

Fructose will probably not significantly change the incidence of caries or tooth decay. Bacteria in the oral cavity can utilize fructose just as they do sucrose.

ESTATE PLANNING — WHY A WILL?

Many people put off thinking about a will because they don't like thinking about death, but that can mean trouble and major expenses for heirs. It can also mean the courts will dole out the property according to state law. Even in Texas, a community-property state, there is a need for a will — and an estate plan.

Inflation alone should be enough reason for people to write a will and plan their estate. Your estate may be much larger than you think thanks to inflation, more corporate fringe benefits and retirement programs, and the increasing value of homes and other real estate. If you don't say how you want all of this distributed, you can create a lot of trouble and expense for your heirs.

It generally costs more money to die without a will than it does if there is one. Delays in estate administration that result from "no will" require extra attorney services along with an increased fee. Also, court costs and other administration fees often are major expense items for the "no-will" estate. On the other hand, a will makes it possible to cut out many of the legal steps that would otherwise be required.

A "no-will" situation also leaves the heirs vulnerable to the full impact of estate and inheritance taxes. Of course, the exact amount of death tax levied upon a particular estate is dependent upon the amount of money involved and the manner in which the estate is distributed, but a will can lessen the heavy impact of this taxation.

Making and continually revising an estate plan can lessen the tax amount even more. The Tax Reform Acts of 1976 and 1978 made significant changes in federal tax laws applicable to estates and trusts. An attorney familiar with estate planning can help you take advantage of the provisions that these laws offer. While estate planning and a will may not be the complete solution to the problems faced by survivors, it is a giant step in the right direction. You spend considerable time accumulating assets, so it's a "must" that you spend considerable time in planning the distribution of those assets to minimize the anxieties of your survivors.

table, don't buy it -
it. But first, let your agination run a little wild, specially where the table top concerned. For example, make a handsome top a sawbuck table. Simple to make, after the lumber is cut to the right length, it can be joined or chamfered.
other striking table top can be constructed from tongue-strips, for an unusual and prisingly easy-to-build table.

There is virtually no end to looks which can be had can even try unusual tile course, in most cases, the result is in the finish. The

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Notice is hereby given of a public hearing before the Texas Water Commission to consider the application of PLAINS WEATHER IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION, INC., P. O. This hearing is mandated by §18.081 (b), Texas Water Code.

Applicant, holder of Weather Modification License No. 81-3, filed its application in March, 1980, which set forth the proposed operation and described the area of intended operation to be within Castro County Election Precincts 6, 7, 10, 11 and 16; Lamb County Election Precincts 1, 2, 3, 6, 9, 12, 13, 15 and 16; Hale County Election Precincts 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 12, 14, 15 and 17; and, Floyd County Election Precincts 3, 4, 7, 16 and 18. As a result of Special Elections held on June 11, 1980, the area within the following election precincts must be excluded from coverage if a permit is issued: Castro County Precinct 11; Lamb County Precinct 3; Hale County Precincts 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 10 and 15; and Floyd County Precincts 3, 7, 16 and 18.

A Hearings examiner from the Texas Water Commission will hold a public hearing on this application beginning at 10:00 a.m. on March 11, 1981 at the American Legion Building Post 260, 111 Ash Street, Plainview, Texas to receive evidence on the application, the feasibility of the operation and the conditions under which a permit may be issued. Those persons desiring to participate in the hearing should appear prepared to proceed.

Any person who intends to offer prepared testimony at the public hearing shall prefile the testimony with the Chief Clerk of the Commission not less than five days prior to the hearing, and shall serve copies of prepared testimony on the applicant, the Executive Director and Public Interest Advocate of the Department of Water Resources and all other persons who have filed written protests or written requests not less than eight days prior to the hearing. The Commission may authorize the late filing of prepared testimony upon a showing of good cause and extenuating circumstances. Any person who desires to receive prepared testimony shall file a written protest or written request with the Commission not less than eight days prior to the hearing.

Those persons opposing the granting of this application may appear at the hearing and/or, not less than eight days before the hearing date, may file written protests with the Commission and serve copies on the applicant and all designated parties, if any, with proof of service to be provided to the Commission. Written protests shall contain the name and address of the protestant, an identification of the pending application, the basis of the protestant's interest with allegations of any relevant facts and conclusions, a description of the protestant's property relative to the application and any amendments or adjustments to the application which would result in a withdrawal of the protest. The written protest will be noted by the Examiner but will not be considered as evidence since the right to cross-examine is absent. No protestant will be admitted as a party to the proceeding unless the protestant complies with Commission Rule 155.04.00.001 which requires a justifiable interest and actual or representative presence at the hearing. Due to the technical nature of the hearing, it may be advisable for the protestant to have an expert witness available at the hearing.

After the hearing, a written proposal for decision will be prepared prior to submission of the application to the Commission for final decision. A copy of the proposal for decision will be mailed to all parties and to any other person who has made a written request for a copy. Parties may file exceptions to the findings and recommendations in the Examiner's proposal.

Further information concerning any aspect of the application may be obtained by contacting Donald Walker, Staff Attorney, P. O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 475-7841.

INSUR-MATION

Floyd County Insurance Agency Jerry Cooper

A friend and I have had a long-standing argument. He refuses to consider buying life insurance because, in his mind, it is nothing more than "death insurance", and feels it is a very negative way of thinking. What would you say to him? It has been said, and said quite well, that no one buys life insurance because he or she will die. One buys life insurance, instead, because someone else, who they love, will live afterward. Life insurance is an attempt to ease the financial burden on that person. Another interesting - and positive - aspect to the entire issue of life insurance is the fact that in 1971, the last year for which figures are available, 63.7 percent of all the money paid out by life insurance companies was paid for living purposes, such as low cost loans, retirement income or dividends.

Twin wins close season for LHS

The 1980-81 Lockney varsity basketball season came to an end with twin victories as the Lady Horns defeated Idalou 49-42 while the Longhorns defeated the Idalou Boys, 70-61.

The win gave the Lady Horns an 8-2 mark in district 3-3A competition. The Lady Horns, who had been after their third consecutive district crown, finished second behind Abernathy which finished out its season with a 78-36 triumph over Floyd and a perfect 10-0 season record. The Lady Horns' only two defeats came at the hands of Abernathy.

The Longhorns, meantime, finished the year with a 3-7 record in district 3-3A competition and a 13-16 record overall. The Lady Horns jumped off to an 11-9 first quarter lead over Idalou, and they held a narrow 23-22 lead at halftime. The third quarter proved the difference in the game as the Lady Horns outscored Idalou 17-10 in the period and moved out to a 40-32 lead after three quarters.

Penny Sterling was high scorer for Lockney with 14 points while Rebecca Evans had 13.

The Longhorns, behind the hot shooting of John Cummings, took an over Idalou after Lockney led 33-28 and 47-43 after periods.

Cummings was high scorer while Tye Dippert for the Longhorns.

Over 100 high school students from Texas and New Mexico are expected to begin living on the Wayland campus Thursday evening for the annual activities. Wayland students are invited to give a taste of campus life.

Farrell and Farrell, a husband-wife contemporary Christian music duo, will be featured during this year's concert which was adapted from the previous Big Weekend. The concert will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Auditorium and is sponsored by Phi Mu Phi Sinfonia. Tickets are for reserved seats and $4 general admission and are available from 1-7 p.m. at the office (293-3515).

Changes in the "weekend" format have been made since last year's because of the many changes currently taking place at Wayland, according to foundation spokesman Begin.

It is felt that since we're moving to university status (Wayland Baptist University will become official June 1), we needed to make a special emphasis on those lines," said Begin, a sophomore from Clovis, New Mexico who is serving as co-chairman of the university "Discovery" program with Hale Center sophomore Brenda Faus.

"We also feel that it will be a discovery, not only for the freshmen but for the current student body as well." Begin added.

Activities will get under way at 7 a.m. Friday with registration in the lobby of Hall, women's dormitory. Visitors will meet with

LEGISLATIVE STANDSTILL

One member of the liberal element in the House of Representatives is now attempting to get pledges from other members to in order to suspend the four-fifths rule on how and when bills can be heard in committees and on the floor of the House.

Now several of the conservative members have switched sides and are refusing to join with them. The conservatives are getting the governor to designate their bills an emergency ensuring that the bill will be brought up.

The governor's crime package is also being placed on the top shelf. No doubt this legislative slow down will drastically reduce the chances that a good bill will get passed this session.

Ross Perot Drug Program
The five bill package of bills Ross Perot's lay committee are sponsoring on control of drugs got excellent publicity last week at a scheduled new conference.

None of these bills have any thing in them with regard to wire tap. We think these five bills will all pass and will have a tremendous affect in slowing down the drug traffic.

Governor Clements will follow with another package of bills. One of them does contain a wire tap bill, which will face tough opposition in the House.

Rubose, Hooten and Herrera named student standouts

Shockey, Dean of Plains College at New Regional Occupational Center has announced student standouts for the month of January. They are Ruby Dubose of office occupations; Vivian Herrera of Floydada, development and Tina Hooten of Lockney, licensed nursing program.

College. Among her accomplishments is the acquisition of skill in operating the IBM Electronic Typewriter 75, a computerized system of storing and retrieval of letters and other typed material, capable of typing 75-100 pages per hour.

Vivian Herrera is the director of a child care-giving facility in Floydada for the Texas Migrant Council. She supervises the care-giving activities of fifteen employees in the delivery of children's services to families of seasonal agricultural workers.

Tina Hooten is now serving her clinical practice at the Central Plains Regional Hospital, presently working 24 hours per week, delivering the services of a licensed vocational nurse trainee under the supervision of Kathleen Turner and Faye Dickens, South Plains instructors.

"Student Standouts" are selected monthly from each of the vocational education and training programs at the college. Students are chosen for recognition based on their progress in the program, on-the-job performance, dependability, overall attitude in class and with peers, and their representation of the purpose and spirit of the school.

Silverton young farmers attend convention

Texas Young Farmers 27th Annual Convention was held in the Waco Convention Center in Waco January 23-24.

The opening session began at 9:30 a.m. with the presentation of colors and the pledge to the flag. Guest speaker for the morning session was Coach Grant Teaff. His topic was "Being Successful in Human Life." Winning is important but one can be a winner or loser by the ability to use what you have (what God gave you free) not by just winning or losing.

The traits in this successfulness are (1) loyalty which is the foundation on which we build our family, community, school, and nation — loyalty to all. It will enhance us.

(2) Attitude is yours to control and one of the most important qualities of your life. Basically input equals output. The human mind is most powerful source of strength God gave us and all for free! The sad fact is no one usually uses more than 15% of this strength! One should have a positive attitude such as put only good positive things in and good will come back out. But alas, human nature is to be negative — so get that positive attitude from sharing, caring, the Holy Scripture, talking and music.

One must remember you can't always score but we can contribute what we have. Find out what you're capable of doing and DO IT. You can do it, ought to do it, and by God's grace do it!

(3) Goal setting is the final trait. To reach high goals, one must do nitty, gritty everyday goals and work toward the high goals.

Mr. Timberlake started his program out with the statement "Whether you think

The second session began at 1:30 p.m. with Lewis Timberlake as guest speaker. You can or you can't — you are right!" Fear is holding a mental picture of what you don't want to happen while faith is acting like it is when it isn't. One can change the way he looks at himself and change the way he behaves.

Four reasons for failure are (1) looking for failure (2) it's someone else's fault (3) surrender to fear instead of faith (the greatest problem!) and (4) no goal lines.

Success can be achieved by understanding why people fail and by doing what unsuccessful ones won't do!

Mr. Timberlake concluded his speech with "God loves you and so do I. Remember everyone has a right to be!"

The Awards Banquet took place Friday evening with several Area I Young Farmers clubs and members entered in competition.

Winning Outstanding Chapter was Cen-Tex Young Farmers. New chapter was captured by Crawford Young Farmers Chapter. Star Young Farmers went to Gary Odom, Sulphur Springs.

Receiving trophies for being Area I award winners were Calvin Shelton, Outstanding Associate member, while his club, the Silverton Young Farmer Chapter received trophies for Outstanding Chapter and Publicity.

The final session of the convention was held on Saturday with the election of president and business conducted. Thomas Bowden of Cherokee was elected to preside over the organization for the coming year.

Veneta Chappell, Calvin Shelton, and Betty Stephens won door prizes during the convention.

Attending from the Silverton chapter were voting delegates Clinton Dickerson, Tobie Riddell, Donnie Perkins, Calvin Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Chappell and Mr. and Mrs. Wavne Stephens.

It finally happened!

BY MARGIE SAVAGE

It finally happened! I always knew it would, sooner or later. I dreaded the day. I briefly wondered what would happen when it did. I didn't dwell on the possibility—or certainly—because it provoked such agonizing thoughts.

But, this morning, as I was carefully spreading diet margarine on a thin slice of grain bread, ready to place it in the already hot toaster oven, I heard a faint bump at the front door.

Being the first to arise on this cold, windy, winter morn, and still somewhat half clinging to the memory of sleep in a warm bed, I attributed the soft sound to the blustery wind.

Soon the sound became louder and a distinct cry was heard, a mew-like sound, followed by a stronger scratching sound. I became alert! The noise became louder! A great yowl filled the air! A great yowl filled with indignity—perhaps from the cold, perhaps from obvious neglect on my part. Again! A great howling yowl accompanied by a great heavy pulling, scratching sound.

I registered! It was the cat wanting in from the cold and wanting to be fed.

At once, leaving the task at hand, I went to the cabinet in search of the food. I keep an ample supply of canned cat food on hand for such emergencies. With today's inflationary food prices, there is hardly any table scraps left for man or beast. I intended to get the food and have it opened before I let the ravenous cat into the house.

The can with its angelic, smiling cat picture was there, ready to be opened. That's when I realized that it had happened.

I had done the dreaded, feared thing I had most wanted to avoid in all of my years of housekeeping—I had lost my can opener!

The yowling had now turned into a pleading cry. I frantically searched. The can opener was no where in sight.

My daughter, awakened from her sleep by the noisy cat, innocently opened the front door.

A black streak zoomed into the kitchen. Immediately the pitiful cry turned into a happy, excited purr. The cat was quite confident that he would soon be eating his salmon-flavored Puss & Boots.

In desperation, I grabbed a paring knife, the oldest, dullest and apparently weakest one in the house, and stabbed the top of the unrelenting can. The knife broke. The cat meowed. I yowled!

The cat, no longer purring, was rubbing up against my leg. I knew it was just a matter of time before he began to climb. I pulled my long robe tighter and hoped for the best.

I grabbed another knife and began pounding on the top of the can with the blade.

Success—sweet aromatic salmon juice flew all over the front of my long robe. The cat, crazed by the fishy smell, jumped onto my robe and began climbing. He reached my waist and jumped onto the counter top, landing with two paws in my buttered bread and two paws on the hot toaster.

He yelped! I jumped! The now-opened can fell on my beautifully - just - vacuumed tile - before carpet.

The cat, with his little buttery, burned paws flew after it.

I breathed a sign of relief for having opened the can and having escaped any further injury from a ferocious animal. I laid my elbow on the kitchen counter, moving the loaf of bread.

There in plain sight was my beloved can opener; in all its "silver" glory, its little cutting wheel fairly shining. I swept it up in a fond embrace, vowing never to be without it again.

My daughter, who had been silently watching the whole episode, and who knows what I tell her to do when she loses something, proudly handed me a string; which I fastened to the prized can opener and immediately made a very fashionable necklace.

I think maybe, perhaps tomorrow, I might purchase an electric can opener, the kind that firmly attaches itself to the kitchen counter.

But, on the other hand, it might be a little too heavy to wear around one's neck.

It's Not Easy

CAROL LEA CLARK

It never happened to paper clothes? I remember reading years ago that we all be wearing disposable paper clothes the 70's were over.

I bundle up my laundry in that barely fits in the trunk of my car. I think of that optimistic forecast. I drive down the street the back of my car is full of shirts, and mismatched socks. I throw about half of it away, but would have to do laundry twice as course, I never have enough on me to wash everything, so I take it home again until the next day. I had recently in Redbook or Good Housekeeping that you should go through your closet once a year and get rid of anything that you haven't worn in a year.

Now, that dress you bought to wear to Aunt Sadie's wedding that never wear again, or those satin shorts you got for Christmas are two sizes too small.

I don't have to worry about going through my closet. I could just go through the laundry hamper and throw out all those things that haven't been worn in a year.

Most every night I guiltily watch all those T.V. commercials about washing clothes in hot water and that in cold. I had the hard way that if you wash clothes in cold water that stray navy sock won't ruin all the white clothes.

I see those cute commercials that ring around the collar. I could cope if I had to worry about ring around the collar. My husband just has to take more baths. Any rings are his.

Clean clothes never seem to last one wash to the next. About the middle of the week I have to ration and wash out baby socks by hand. I'm not really sure that it would help much if we had a washer and dryer in our house. We tried that once, but it was a washer or moving it to the dryer. It was ruled by that washer and dryer. It was there so I had no excuse not washing clothes.
