

COUSINS' ADDRESS ENDS COMMENCEMENT

Former President of Normal Addresses Graduating Class of 1920 on Friday Morning

Hon. R. B. Cousins delivered the commencement address of the West Texas State Normal College Friday morning. A large audience greeted the former president of the school, composed largely of former students and graduates who had journeyed back to Canyon for the Home Coming events.

After a brief introduction, Mr. Cousins announced his subject in the following words: "I shall ask you to think briefly with me this morning on three several groups of reactions upon excitements by which our lives are hedged about—Physical, Social, Spiritual." Continuing, he said:

"Every child is entitled to be properly born. The congenital cripples, weaklings and deformities that ask alms on every corner of the streets of our cities and add heaviness to hearts in many homes bear convincing testimony against our civilization. These are evidences of violated law, the consequence of man's ignorance rather than God's displeasure.

"Statistics gathered by 'The Children's Bureau at Washington, D. C. show that a quarter of a million children die in the United States each year before they are six weeks old; thirty-three thousand mothers never return from the Valley of Shadows whither they go on life's highest, holiest mission; one-tenth of all children born in America die in infancy. Our government last year spent $47,000,000 through the department of agriculture to aid in the propagation and preservation of domestic animals but it has strangely overlooked the most valuable animals on the ranch—the human child and its mother.

"By reacting on the environment the child becomes a man. This is the epitome of the educational process by which a Gladstone comes from a lump of sentient clay. From the observed relations of 1 and 1 and 2 and 2, the infant crawling on the floor climbs to the place of a Newton who can measure the distance between the stars and weigh the earth and the sun. From Mother Goose to Shakespeare is a long, long way; but it has been traversed. From the timid, stammering school boy in his Friday afternoon effort to a Demosthenes, the distance is like that from earth to a star; but it can be traveled. The distance from the nursery through school to the highest honors in our government is a long road, but an American child from a Presbyterian preacher's home traveled the distance and spoke with authority to a listening world. Young ladies and gentlemen, intellectual life is an achievement, its challenge is a thrill.

Old Idols Overthrown
"The world war and its issues shattered old forms of governments and traditions, dissolved all previous compacts, and reduced men to their original elements. Old idols have been overthrown, and men are walking in the twilight of a new day. National boundary lines have become a tangled skein and a new geography is made with each new moon. Waves from the smitten continent rush over this fair land of ours, leaving us here and there strange 'isms.' Necessities arise almost daily, and new expedients are tried; new principles are proclaimed, and old ones find new applications. Europe is bankrupt materially and spiritually, and America has become the great creditor nation of the world. If American democracy fails, the light will go out in the world and civilization will be obscured in darkness. But it will not fail if the high schools and colleges do not fail in their duty.

The Failure of Peace
"This world has moved backward to old conditions; it has lost a part of its high purpose through America's unpardonable delay in assisting the allies to conserve the fruits of victory. The failure of European statesmen made the world war possible; the failure of American statesmen made peace impossible. American statesmanship has not equaled American chivalry. Dr. George Traett said a few days ago, 'God does not raise up a nation to go strutting and selfish, forgetful of the interest of humanity. Nations can no more live alone than individuals; the nation that walks the path of selfishness will finally be doomed.'

"But I should fail of my purpose and be untrue to you if I should omit upon this occasion the greatest element in human experience, the spiritual life. At a banquet a few nights ago in Houston, Dr. Axson said: 'In the midst of this abundant prosperity we should realize that a nation is great only as it is spiritually great; and in spiritual energy only can a nation be immortal.' Africa's resources and possibilities are beyond computation, and yet Africa has produced nothing great—there is no spiritual life in Africa. Europe is the smallest continent of the earth, but is the richest in the history of human achievement.

"If you would see the fruitage of Jesus of Nazareth, although his religion is as yet imperfectly understood and partially tried, contemplate the Anglo-Saxon, civilization—Europe and America. Every virtue that tends to make men happier and better is a Christian virtue—whether found in the soldier or on the battlefield or in the cloistered saint counting his beads in the cell. Jesus' philosophy of life is the summary of human wisdom."

WILL OFFER PRIZES FOR HEALTH ESSAYS
In view of the splendid results obtained from the Health Essay Contest offered by H. A. Wroe during the winter quarter of the Normal College, the Texas Public Health Association has decided to offer a second contest for students of the summer quarter. A first prize of $15.00 and a second prize of $10.00 will be offered in each of the Normal Colleges, and a grand state prize of $25 will be awarded the author of the best paper from all the Normal Colleges of Texas.

The general rules of the contest will be practically the same as those outlined for the first contest. The papers are to be written by students attending regular summer session. The subject is as follows: "The Modern Health Crusade—A Factor in Health Education." The purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest in the subject of health, to establish correct habits early in life. Since a majority of those attending the summer session will return to the school room in the fall, it is believed that the contest for the summer session will have more immediate results than that offered during the winter quarter.

The following judges have been appointed to conduct the contest for the West Texas State Normal College: Professor H. W. Morelock, Dr. F. M. Wilson and Mrs. A. W. Hamill. The date when this contest is to open will be announced later.

FRANCIS INGRAM CHARMS LARGE NORMAL AUDIENCE
Miss Frances Ingram sang Thursday night at the Normal auditorium to a very large audience. Her program was considered much more pleasing than the one last year. Miss Ingram is heralded as the most beautiful contralto in America, and all who heard her program Thursday night feel that this reputation is well founded.

Wallace R. Clark and Miss Pauline Brigham played her accompaniments in a most pleasing manner.

To Y. M. C. A. Conference
Four students and one instructor in the West Texas State Normal left yesterday for Hollister, Mo., to attend the annual Y. M. C. A. Conference for the Southwest, which includes Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas. The delegation, which is headed by Fred H. Ives, director of the department of agriculture in the Normal includes Gary Simms, D. T. Sanders, Stanley Allen and Harper Allen. The conference will last from June 10 to June 21st.

New Centrifugal Pump
A new centrifugal pump was received Tuesday for the city water works. The new pump will be added to the plant to lift the water to the overhead tank. When the new pump is installed, the city will have two pumps for this work.

Had Operation Monday

TRADES DAY WILL BE HELD NEXT MONDAY

$50.00 IN CASH WILL BE GIVEN AWAY BY BUSINESS HOUSES—ROOSTER DAY IN COUNTY OBSERVED.

Next Monday will be Trades Day in Canyon. The business houses will give away $50.00 in cash on that day, the drawing of numbers to take place on the public square at 4:30 o'clock. Numbers will be given up to 4:00 o'clock.

The money will be divided into seven prizes: First prize, $15.00 cash; second prize $10.00 cash; and five prizes of $5.00 each. This will give seven people a chance at the money rather than only two as was the plan of last Trades Day.

Monday will be rooster day in Canyon. Every old rooster in Randall county is wanted that day. A price of 13 cents per pound will be paid for all old roosters, which is about 25 per cent above the present market price. The farmers should get rid of all old roosters now in order to keep the eggs fertile through the hot weather. To the farmer who brings a rooster the farther distance to Canyon, a prize of $5.00 will be given; to the farmer bringing the largest number of roosters to Canyon will be given another prize of $5.00.

The auction sale in the afternoon will have a large list of good bargains. It is the purpose to advertise the list every month if those having something to sell will notify C. F. Walker. Monday there will be 4 Jersey cows, hogs, 4 mules and much farm machinery and live stock will be offered. J. W. McCrerey of Wayside will be the auctioneer.

Come to Canyon next Monday, Trades Day. It will be worth your while.

LABOR MEETING CALLED SATURDAY

Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce Invites Farmers to Amarillo Saturday, June 12th.

A meeting of great importance has been called by the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce for Saturday of this week at the City Hall in Amarillo.

The question of labor and wage for the harvest season for the Panhandle-Plains will be discussed. It is not to be understood strictly as a price fixing policy from an arbitrary point of view but that uniform and intelligent information may be sent out to secure and properly distribute help.

It is urged that a representative number of farmers from Randall County attend this meeting.

C. F. Walker is looking after the interests of the farmers in Randall county and urges that all who will want extra labor during the harvest to notify him how much labor will be needed, when it will be needed and for how long a time.

Strict co-operation on the part of the farmers of Randall county will do much toward solving the labor shortage this year.

To State Press Association
Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Warwick left yesterday morning for Houston to attend the State Press Association meeting Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

On Monday and Tuesday a convention of Texas printers will be held in Galveston, which they will attend.

City Property Sold
R. C. O'Keefe of Panhandle has bought the J. C. Pipkin home.

Announcements were sent out this week of the marriage of Miss Kathleen Stewart to Marion S. Bisher, which will take place tonight at the home of the bride's father, Dr. D. M. Stewart.

SUMMER NORMAL ATTENDANCE 450

Available Rooming Capacity of Town Being Taxed to Care for Students—Classes Start.

The summer session of the West Texas State Normal College opened Tuesday with an enrollment of 450 up to last night. It looks as if the attendance of the school this summer will break all records of the summer session.

Cousins Hall has put in temporary equipment for the kitchen and dining room and started to give meals yesterday. The Hall is equipped to feed about a hundred students. The dining room is not completed by the contractor, but temporary flooring was put in and this part turned over that the situation might be met.

A large number of new teachers are being used on the faculty this summer, leaves of absence having been granted to a number. A number of changes in the summer normal faculty was made this week when visiting teachers found it impossible to come for the work.

A very fine program of entertainment is being planned for the summer months for the students.

Frieze-Farlow Wedding
Miss Bernice Frieze and Geo. A. Farlow were married Sunday morning at nine o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. S. Frieze, Rev. Ted P. Hollifield officiating.

The bridal couple left immediately for Denver where they will visit for a short time before returning to Canyon to make their home. Both are well known in this city. The bride has been a student in the Normal and later employed in the business houses of the city. Mr. Farlow has been employed in the Kuehn Garage. Their many friends are extending congratulations.

Miss Gladys Satterwhite of Panhandle is visiting at the Goode home this week.

Come to Canyon to live.

LARGE NUMBERS ATTEND COMMERCE MEET THURSDAY

There was a very large attendance Thursday at the annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce when the annual report of Secretary-Manager Frank R. Jamison was presented to the directors. J. W. Reid was elected director from Randall county for the coming year.

President J. A. Hill spoke at the banquet upon the needs of the educational institutions of Texas. After his address a resolution was introduced by Judge Hamlin of Farwell authorizing the secretary to wire members of the legislature that the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce supported the requests of the educational institutions for increased appropriations.

Fred H. Ives, director of the agricultural department of the Normal, told of the proposed expansion of the Normal in order to meet the demands of the Panhandle-Plains section. He urged that the people of this section become better acquainted with their school at Canyon.

Bradford-Black Wedding

Miss Mary Bradford and Will C. Black were married Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bradford, Rev. B. F. Fronbarger officiating. Only the immediate members of the family and a few friends were present at the ceremony.

Both of these young people are well known in Canyon and are highly respected. The bride graduated from the Normal last year and has been one of the successful teachers of the Normal training school during the past year. She is a highly cultured and talented young woman and has always been a leader among the young people of the city. The groom was born and reared in Randall county, being the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Black. For the past number of years he has been connected with the peace departments of the county serving as deputy sheriff and is now city marshal and tax collector. He was one of the first men to go into the service during the war and spent some months in France.

The bridal couple left for a short trip to Dallas. They have the best wishes and the most hearty congratulations from a host of friends in Randall county.

Devereux Players Coming

On June 16th, 17th, and 18th, the Devereux Players will be with us again. Those who saw them last year will be delighted to see them again, and those who have not seen them cannot afford to miss this opportunity. They fill numerous engagements every summer with many of the leading colleges and universities throughout the United States, and the best critics commend them highly wherever they play.

Mr. Devereux believes strongly in the legitimate stage, and he is doing much good in impressing his views upon the public. Several years ago he conceived the idea of bringing high class drama to the people. He started with a small company, but from the beginning he met with phenomenal success. Today he has a company of more than twenty-five people, many of them possessing national reputations.

His repertoire this season comprises three Shakespearian plays (Romeo and Juliet, Twelfth Night, and the Taming of the Shrew), two old English comedies (She Stoops to Conquer and The School for Scandal), and one modern drama. The plays to be given on June 16, 17, and 18, will be selected from this list.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE MEETING HELD MONDAY

Various Matters of Importance Discussed—Day Power Situation Taken Under Adversment

The regular monthly meeting of the Randall County Commercial League was held Monday night at the News office. Besides arrangements being made for the regular monthly Trades Day, many other questions of importance to the welfare of Canyon and Randall county were discussed.

Fred H. Ives reported that the committee on the free camping ground had seen Mr. Hill regarding the use of a portion of the campus for this purpose. This arrangement can be made if no ground closer to the city may be procured. Water will be placed on the ground if this place is accepted. The committee, composed of Mr. Ives, H. W. Gouley and C. D. Lester, was empowered to complete arrangements for the camping ground and raise the necessary money for equipping the ground.

The committees on the Baptist Encampment ground reported progress being made in the selection of a suitable location to be offered to the executive committee.

C. F. Walker again called attention to the necessity of Randall county sending a boy from Randall county on the big live stock special which will visit the various states in the north and Canada. It takes $300 to send the boy who will carry advertising matter from Randall county. C. L. Condrey, O. N. Gamble, J. A. Wilson and J. B. Gamble constitute the committee to raise this money.

Next Monday Mr. Walker will distribute pigs to the twenty members of the pig club if he can get hold of the right kind of pigs for the boys. The pig club members are doing very fine work.

Judge C. R. Fleisher reports that he is investigating mile posts to be placed along the new highways, together with big signs at the entrance to Randall county on these highways.

The proposition of shutting traveling shows out of the city limits was discussed and members of the city council will be interviewed about the matter. It was the sense of the meeting that such shows ought to be prohibited from entering the city limits.

The question of all day power has been under discussion for some time in the city. Manager A. J. Arnold of the Canyon Light & Power Company stated that no one in Canyon would be more glad than he to see 24-hour service in the city. All he needed was a sufficient load to make the run paying and he would start. He had taken up the proposition with the Amarillo plant of running a line to the city. This would cost $30,000 at this time, compared with $18,000 two years ago when he had made another attempt to get the line here. The Amarillo plant would furnish the power, but would take no interest in the line. Discussion by several members centered around the city's using the power at the city water plant. A committee was appointed of C. F. Walker, E. H. Powell and C. H. Jarrett to discuss with the city council the use of the power at the water station in order to give the city the additional service. Mr. Arnold stated his plant was ready to run when he could get a load that would pay expenses.

A Gracious Revival

The revival at the Baptist church is beginning with great promise. The congregation is good, the attention all that could be desired, the preaching is scriptural and appealing. The singing is soul stirring and conscience awakening. The meeting will continue through this week and next.

Why Am I A Teacher

To accomplish anything in life; to make out of this time which is allotted to each of us a life worth while, one must have a definite purpose. One must have an ideal. This ideal should be beyond any possibility of our ever reaching it. Then we are never satisfied because our ideal is along lines that are most befitting to us. If we fit our selves to our ideal, our field of labor is that in which we can see most need of our service. Ideals are as different as individuals. Therefore, our fields of labor are as our ideals. We each choose for ourselves our own labor. To me there is not a greater, or a broader field to work in than teaching. It is a sacred work. Could it be otherwise, when we have the young life that is so easily bent, so easily dented, so easily moulded, given to our hands to fashion into a character that will stand the storms of life? How can anyone work with this human clay less than sacredly? It most surely is not a thing to think of lightly. But it deserves and requires our finest nature and most detailed conscious judgement.

When we think of being makers of home and nation; the directors of religion, government, ethics, and moral principles, we certainly should not think lightly. We must be willing to give the best that is in us to our work. At the close of each day there is an hour in which to retrospect. This is a time to weigh ourselves, and some times we are found wanting.

Why am I a teacher? I can give no better reason than this: being a teacher most nearly satisfies my desire but rather a private by the name of myself. I am not. But in that field of labor I am most happy to work. In being a teacher, my desire to help my fellowman can be more fully realized. In other words, I am a teacher because I love the work. I can come nearer to being and doing my part in life. I can come closer to my ideal.

Why Lose the Time and Money You Have Invested in Your Crops?

Every year hail storms cause enormous losses to growing grain.

Do not forget that the high price for wheat is a very significant fact to every grower of grain.

The farmer who escapes one year may lose the savings of a lifetime the next!

Can you afford to take the risk of losing all you have invested in your crops by a hail storm when you can insure yourself against such a loss for a trifling sum?

I will gladly call and explain to you the policy issued.

Dark horses are the horses of the hour in Chicago. Will the dark horses at San Francisco be ordinary mules or jack asses?

The rains are coming just right in the Panhandle for a big wheat crop. Many farmers are confident that they will make more wheat than last year, and a much better quality.

The soldier bonus bill died in the senate. It was passed for none but political purposes. But it will not get the proponent anything in the coming election.

Sell the old roosters. A big price will be paid for them in Canyon next Monday, Trades Day. The poultry raiser will gain much by cleaning out all the roosters with the coming of hot weather when eggs easily spoil.

About May 1st it looked as if there would be little or no wheat in the Panhandle this year. The weather man got busy, and now there is good prospects for a yield of ten to fifteen bushels. Great is the Panhandle.

More and more it is becoming evident that Thomason is the leader in the race for the governorship of Texas. He is coming clean with the people regarding the issue of the day with neither the attitude of a socialist nor a demagogue.

It is reported that the new census will add about 50 men members to the House of Representatives in Congress, bringing the total number to more than 500. This is altogether too large and unwieldy a body. It should be reduced by half.

The people of Canyon want all day electric service. The people of Canyon are willing to pay the bill. It takes electric consumers to bring this service. The city owns its own water plant. The city needs power to run this plant. The price of electric power is the same as in Amarillo and other big cities of Texas. Possibly it costs a little more for the city to use this power than it does to run an engine. But the people are paying the bill. As long as they are ready and willing to pay the bill, and are anxious for the all day service, why quibble over the small difference in prices of power, which is as low as reasonably could be expected. The city can have the all day service by the use of electric power at the city water station. The citizens are paying the bill. Then why not have this all day service?

Come to Canyon next Monday. The business houses of Canyon will give $50.00 away in cash on that day. The holders of the lucky numbers will get the money.

The Home Coming of the West Texas State Normal College was a great event. It brought back students who have not visited the Alma Mater since their graduation. They noted the great improvements being made in the school. Several expressed their disappointment to the News that they did not see more improvements made in Canyon. Paved streets and more sidewalks are necessary if Canyon is properly to be the home of the great institution that is located here. More and better business houses are needed before the town can grow. A big building and improvement campaign must be started in Canyon at once.

Prevention of Blackleg Losses

This is the season of the year when the cattleman should lay plans for the prevention of loss of calves with blackleg.

Blackleg is a specific infective disease of cattle, characterized by gaseous swellings in the various muscle tissues. The term blackleg is a misnomer, as it implies that this disease is confined to the structure of the legs. As a matter of fact, blackleg of the heart or the muscles between the ribs or the diaphragm is not at all unusual. Blackleg is very prevalent. It has been estimated that the loss of calves from this disease alone exceeds $6,000,000 so that black leg annually causes a loss of approximately $25,000,000 to the cattlemen.

The cause of blackleg is a germ which is universally distributed in soils, particularly pastures, and lots where animals have died of the disease. This germ may be transported for many miles by the agency of carrion animals, such as buzzards, crows, wolves, dogs, etc. This disease also may be introduced onto a premise by means of feed. The germ, occurring in the soil easily can contaminate the feed in particles of dust, and many outbreaks have been investigated where feed apparently has been the source of infection. After blackleg has appeared on a farm, said farm must be considered permanently infected.

This disease may occur at any season of the year, although it is more common in the spring and fall months. It is essentially a disease of calves, although mature animals may die of blackleg. The germs of blackleg gain entrance to the animal body through wounds in the skin, or they may be ingested on foods and pass out into the tissue from the digestive canal.

Blackleg is essentially an acute disease and is of brief duration, the usual cases running a course ranging from one to three days. The dead animal not infrequently is the first evidence of this disease in the herd. The first symptom manifested consists of lack of appetite, dullness, arched back and drooped head; and there may or may not be lameness. Such animals show a rise of temperature of from three to six degrees.

In those cases in which the muscles of the legs are involved, there will be noted a swelling which when touched with the hand will give the impression of the presence of a parchment or paper in the skin. Such animals usually die within 36 to 48 hours after first observance. If the swelling is incised, a frothy, blood-tinged fluid escapes. This fluid has a typical sweetish-sour odor that characterizes blackleg. If the diseased tissue is dissected the muscles will be found to be black and more or less brittle.

This disease is so constantly fatal that treatment of affected animals by the usual methods are not of any value. A blackleg serum that has been prepared and is on the market possesses some curative properties, and it would be advisable for the pure bred breeder to see to it that his veterinarian constantly keeps such serum in stock, as it would not be possible to obtain the serum from the serum plants in time to be of any value to an infected animal.

Various vaccines and other products have been recommended and used more or less extensively in the control of blackleg in calves. The old original powdered blackleg vaccine has been used extensively and apparently with fairly good results, but it has been found in recent years that the powdered blackleg vaccine, the pills and cord vaccine are not as effective and certain in the production of immunity, and therefore protection of the calves, as other products. In recent years blackleg vaccine, blackleg filtrate and blackleg aggrassin have been perfected by various laboratories and approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and, on collecting information from men who have used quantities of these materials, it appears that the most reliable product is the blackleg aggrassin. This product is made from the muscle joints of a calf died of blackleg, and because of the source of the product and the method of preparation it is more effective than any of the other products used in immunizing calves against blackleg. Its reliability makes it pre-eminently the product that should be selected for the immunization of purebred calves.—Dr. A. T. Kinsley in American Hereford Journal.

Realities of Life

After a war people are always disposed to play rather than work. The strain is at an end—or so they think; they are tired; they have, many of them, more money to spend than ever before, and they determine to compensate themselves for the privations and trials and sorrows of the war by having a good time. The frivolity in dress, in entertainment, in expenditure that characterizes life in France and England. Complaints come from Paris that "never have women worn more jewels and more furs; never have men worked harder to dress them, perfume them and bewel them than now when men are scarce and needed more for other work."

Presently people will awaken to the fact that they are pursuing a false idea of happiness. The reaction will probably not carry them to a puritanical extreme, but it is bound to come; it will be forced by economic conditions if not by moral considerations.

What are the fundamental realities of life? Only after people have answered that question can they hope to find the true satisfactions of life. People of course need food, clothing, shelter; they want education for themselves and for their children. Those are the primary requisites for living. When they are attained in a reasonable measure, what further is needed to give men and women satisfaction and contentment? To make to create, to produce, is the most urgent impulse of the human spirit. To acquire a secondary and comparatively unimportant impulse; the desire originates because acquisition of some sore is necessary to creation and production. If the habit of acquisiton finally comes to predominate in a man over the zeal for production or creation, he may become rich, but he will almost certainly be dissatisfied.

The remedy for the waste, the unrest and the disillusionment and everywhere are manifest as a consequence of the war will be applied as soon as men and women everywhere give heed again to the primal impulse that bids them work and create. Primal impulses may be kept in abeyance for a while, but they are never eradicated.

While the officials talk much of a heavier tax, the voter is quietly grinding his ax.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Dairy Cow Stands First

Of all farm animals the cow that gives milk to sustain and develop the human race ranks first in value in the United States. Statistics denote that the total value of cows being milked was $2,022,000,000 January 1, 1920. The total value of all other cattle is not equal to the monetary value of the dairy cow and it is now maintained by such eminent authorities as Dr. McCollum that in introducing food for mankind, no livestock is equal to that which produces milk, butterfat and vitamins.

It is therefore, well that during the past five years the average value of milk cows has increased from $58.25 to $91.95.

The manner in which the dairy cow's importance is being recognized is providing the incentive for breeding better cows, for giving cows a better chance and for eradicating disease from herds.

There is no doubt that the future offers much to him who will breed good dairy cows and provide them with favorable care, feed and management, regardless of what section of the United States he may live in.—Dairy Farmer.

Government Man Kills Large Wolf

R. L. Paulk, predatory animal hunter in the employ of the government, was in Lubbock Thursday morning exhibiting the hide and skull of a noted lobo wolf which he killed April 23, on the S. ranch in the western portion of Cochran county. Some ranchmen claim this wolf has been devastating in the west part of Texas and eastern New Mexico for the last fifteen years. Mr. Paulk was sent to that section on March 1, and equipped with traps, guns, horse and bloodhound, has killed a number of coyotes and other destructive animals, but always seeking this arch enemy of the calves and sheep of that vicinity. He says that to his knowledge, six calves have been killed by this wolf since March 1st, this year. Mr. Paulk rode onto the wolf hiding in the tall sage-grass and after his dog had been knocked out, shot the wolf through with his pistol. The pistol shot only wounded him, however. A 30-30 rifle shot brought him down. The dry hide measures 6 feet and four inches from tip to tip and the animal would have weighed about 100 pounds according to the hunter.

A few of the ranchers near where he killed the big wolf expressed their appreciation by making up a purse for which he says he desires to thank them. Mr. Paulk was on his way to Kent county, where he will spend some time hunting in the vicinity of Clairemont.—Lubbock Avalanche.

ness of Col. Rand. The Private was midnight in the little French cage, Reedy Sur Ource. I lay wide awake on my back in the hay-loft, wondering what was in store for me the future. There was no sound but the occasional shifting of the beam in the stable below and the regular breathing of the fifteen other diars who were quartered in the with me.

Suddenly I was startled by a fear-groan and a series of unintelligible utterances from the occupant of the bunks near the left door. I immediately recognized the voice of my friend and comrade, Colonel Rand. "An officer," did you say? Not at all, but only an ordinary private, with an optimistic nature, a man whom his parents had nicknamed "Colonel", but who was known in our company by his wonderful ability to entertain his fellow-soldiers with an endless stream of jokes, and nonsensical rhymes. The fact that his given name was Colonel gave rise to perplexing situations as we shall presently see.

"Oh, but I do feel tough!" came from Rand. "Oh, why did I get that 'corn-Willie' when it always makes me sick?"

"What the devil is wrong with you over there?" came from our hard-boiled Sergeant Mc—

"Come that unnecessary chatter and quit making everybody up."

Colonel answered by drawing his knees to his chin and releasing a series of unearthly groans such as I had never heard before. Interspersed with these groans I caught several references to the Scripture. (Perhaps was trying to pray.)

"We were all awake now and thoroughly aware that our company commander was an extremely sick fellow. Jones", called the sergeant excitedly, "rush down to the infirmary and get Captain E— quick, and don't fool around about it!"

Jones was off in an instant. He went to the infirmary, a distance of two blocks, succeeded in arousing the captain from a deep slumber, and exclaimed between breaths:

"Captain, Sir, Colonel Rand is about to die and wants you to come quick."

"What's that? Colonel Rand? I don't know him," he answered, jumping out of bed, his face radiant with the prospect that he was called on to administer to a colonel, ill unto death.

"Have a seat", he said, "I'll be ready directly."

"Very well, sir", replied Jones, who seated himself on the edge of a chair and proceeded to watch the preparations of the captain.

In the meantime much was taking place in the hay-loft. A tender-hearted old French lady, who occupied the part of the house adjoining the cow shed, hearing the disturbance beneath the left door, called in a motherly tone:

"Americian soldat zigzag? Beaucoup vin rouge, beaucoup zigzag. Pas bon, Pas bon!"

Rand was provoked at this accusation, for he had not touched a drop of red wine for two days, so he retaliated thus between pains: "No, no, madame, me bacoo' malad, pa zigzag, pa van range, me bacoo' malad."

The old lady evidently understood that he was sick, rather than drunk, for she went into the house and returned shortly with a large bowl containing a concoction of hot milk, herbs, a few drops of Cognac, sugar, and spices which she urged him to drink.

He was at first reluctant to drink the mixture but, letting his optimistic spirit get control of his mind, and not wishing to hurt the feeling of our French mother, he drank the entire contents of the bowl, saying as he did so, "Nothing could make me feel any worse. This might help me; so here goes for a shot of the pesky stuff. Tell the home folks I passed away drinking a French toddy". Immediately his face was distorted into shapes which were awful to look on, and he uttered oaths which I must refrain from repeating. Evidently the preparation was an ill tasting one, to so say the least.

Let us have the patience for a few moments now to return to the room of the Captain. After beginning to dress, he had no further conversation with private Jones. His undivided attention was given to a careful preparation of his toilet. Lest my reader be misled by the actions of the Captain, I must state that he was a man who found little favor among the men of the Company. He was, using the common expression, proud of himself, and was on the alert for a chance of promotion. It was not surprising then that he exercised great care in adjusting the white stock around his neck, brushing his hair and clothes, and finally shining his puttees and shoes. Fully twenty minutes had elapsed when the captain said, after taking one more look at himself in the mirror, "I am ready. Let us hurry!" "Very well, sir", replied Jones, who was only too glad to set out at a lively pace.

Upon reaching the narrow alley that led to our billet, he turned abruptly, saying to the captain, "This way, sir."

"Surely there is no Colonel down in derstood me. There is no sick Colonel there."

"Sir", he replied, "you have misused Colonel Rand."

"What do you mean!" he exclaimed. Before the captain could recover from this they had reached the foot of the ladder leading to the loft. There they were met by Sergeant Mc—, who addressed the captain very quietly: "Sir, I am very sorry to have caused you any inconvenience. Private Colonel Rand, sir, was very sick thirty minutes ago; but after drinking a remedy that French mother gave him, his illness disappeared, and he is now sleeping as peacefully as a child."

This was too much for the captain. He tried to speak, but could not. Then he turned and, without even recognizing the sergeant's salute, slowly made his way back to the infirmary. Needless to state, he did not officially report his midnight call on Colonel Rand, the Private.

Sheep Make 100 Per Cent Profit
A. L. Hurst, of McCoy community, is one of the farmers of Floyd county who realizes good profits annually from a small herd of sheep on the farm. It is his experience that they are even more profitable than hogs.

This month his wool clip has been good, and following the clipping, he shipped a half-car of his herd to the Fort Worth market last week. Anyway you figure it, he declares, the profit was fully 100 per cent. He finished out the car with fat hogs, which also sold at the day's high mark.

He says that even though there was little profit in a small herd of sheep they are worth the keeping just to eat the weeds off the place. Floydada Hesperian.

PLAINS FRUIT CROP WILL BE VERY SHORT

"The fruit crop in the Panhandle-Plains country is very short," declared County Agent Haornm Benton this morning, when asked as to the general condition of the fruit in this section.

Mr. Benton has visited several orchards in this country and states that some of them will produce no apples, no pears, very few peaches and about a half crop of cherries. As a whole the fruit crop is in very bad shape, according to the county agent.

Mr. Benton has just returned from the Tascosa Valley where he was called on official business and returned Wednesday. He stated that his estimate on the apple crop of the valley is only about five per cent production this year. He will make a tour of the Plains country next week and will probably be in position to make a definite statement concerning the fruit conditions of the Panhandle-Plains.—Amarillo Tribune.

Build a Granary

And all the signs point to the slowest movement of small grains in the history of the country. At present with only the tag-end of last year's crop being offered the carriers for hauling, the railways are unable to handle the cars with any certainty of service, and thousands of bushels of grain are standing on sidings of the Santa Fe alone. The railroads are working under the most acute disadvantages. Lack of motive power, lack of suitable cars and lack of labor, are all working against the proper distribution of the crop. The present situation cannot clear itself up in 60 days, when the new crop begins to be offered on the market. Accordingly, we must acknowledge that the railroads will enter the 1926 harvesting season with a shortage of cars and equipment unparalleled even by last year's chaotic condition. Last year half a million dollars worth of grain of various kinds rotted on the ground in Floyd county. Lack of storage facilities had a great deal to do with this condition. This year the loss will be a million dollars unless provision is made beginning now to avoid it. The only feasible way to guarantee against this loss is to provide storage facilities. Every grain grower should provide storage to protect his grain against the elements. Elevators will be 12 months moving this year's crop, even with most favorable conditions. Should conditions grow worse for the carriers, Floyd county farmers may have to carry in their bins a three-million dollar grain crop. Storage will very possibly be the only means of preventing tremendous losses. Begin now to provide against a recurrence of last year's losses. A complete breakdown in the transportation system of the country is not only possible but probable.—Floydada Hesperian.

Sow Sudan

The following letter was received by the News from a large seed house and it is reprinted for the benefit of farmers who are interested in sudan grass.

Gentlemen:

I am not sure of just how this proposition should be put to you. In short—want the farmers in your district to become more interested in sowing sudan grass, for the seed crop, in order that we can buy it from them to supply our demand here in the north.

This crop is a good paying one and should meet with favor throughout the Panhandle district. At present the seed district is confined too greatly to the Lubbock, Texas, and consequently, with our very heavy northern demand, the supply is limited. Last year, the Lubbock district started with a price of 5c per pound to the farmer, and reached at the height of the season, 10c. The average yield is from 600 to 800 pounds, a profit of $30 to $80 per acre. The threshed hay paid practically the cost of threshing and planting of the crop.

It is my suggestion that you investigate the conditions, and if you feel that it is of interest to your readers, give sudan grass seed some editorial space advocating and describing its possibilities and advantages to the farmers.

I suggest, that should this interest you, that you take up the value of sudan grass seed, and get figures from the commercial club of Lubbock, Texas, or any of the agricultural farm papers. It takes from two to three pounds to sow an acre, grows very abundantly and yields from 600 pounds to 800 pounds of seed. Some fields at Lubbock, Texas, last year, went as high as 1400 pounds per acre.

The seed is gathered in the early fall, before other crops, and is sold for cash, which helps the farmers materially to finance his cotton and kaffir crop.

Come to Canyon to live.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

It is quite evident that many believe it the part of economy to buy a Paige Glenbrook even though there are other five-passenger cars that sell for less money.

satisfaction acquired through the ownership of a five-passenger Glenbrook are more to be considered than the few dollars which might be saved through false economy, based on comparative prices rather than on comparative values.

There is no longer any confusion between true economy and false economy. The former takes account of values, while the latter concerns itself only with cheapness of price.

When once you have seen the new Paige Glenbrook and have ridden in it, you will appreciate more fully just what we mean. And you will realize then, we believe, the full truth of our assertion that it is really the part of economy to purchase a Paige Glenbrook if your requirements are for a car of five-passenger size.

Such considerations as beauty, comfort and sturdy dependability far outweigh mere difference in original cost. The lasting enjoyment and enduring

The New School Board

Only a few more days until the school election. In a communication to the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Miss Annie Webb Blanton, State Superintendent of Schools, makes these requests:

1. Carry the amendment removing the limit on the amount of local tax which may be voted for school purposes.
2. Increase the salaries of teachers, as there is already a shortage of 3,000, due to insufficient salaries.
3. Pay sufficient salaries to county superintendent to secure persons of ability and training, furnishing them office assistants and allowing them adequate traveling expenses. Have them elected by a county board and abolish the office of ex officio county superintendent.
4. Put home nursing in all high schools.
5. Spread the doctrine of simple dress for high school girls.

6. GET SOME WOMAN ON ALL SCHOOL BOARDS.

The placing of one or more women on the 8,000 school boards in Texas will be a very new and interesting experiment, one that will require several years to be put to a thorough test. To understand the simple philosophy of such a movement one need only recall the old motto that used to hang in so many of our homes—"What is Home Without a Mother?" How our human hearts ache for little children when the mother in the home is taken away. We hear folks say, "That home will never be the same." "How the children will miss her love, her care, her company, her planning and work for them." And it is all so true, for there is no other being who thinks and works and plans so much for the children as their mother. It is her life to live for them. It is her joy to sacrifice for them. No one will admit that a home is complete without the influence of mother love and without the safeguard of mother instinct.

But when our little children are 9 years old we buy them a primer and a dinner-pail and start them off to their second home—a home where, under normal conditions, they will spend nine months of each of the next eleven years of their lives; a home where their mind, heart and character will be molded for life; a home where their social and moral nature will be made more beautiful—or ruined; a home, the sanitation of which is by far more important than the home in which they dwell at night, for in this home they must sit five hours of every day for 1,980 days, if they complete the high school course. But until this day scarcely a mother has ever been invited or permitted to have any place in this home of her own children. The only parent that has ever had any official capacity, any authority, any control, anything to say about the management of this new home for children, has ever been the father. Father would not think of such a thing as going down town to select a dressmaker or a milliner to design and direct the construction of the children's clothes. He would just naturally say, "Why, I don't know anything about that; I've never had any experience making clothes for children; I don't know what they need."

Yet the average father has had about as much experience in making children's clothes as he has had in educating children. Almost 90 per cent of the teachers in this State have been women. Scattered throughout the length and breadth of our State are women who have taught school in every kind of schoolroom and under every kind of circumstances. They know the social, moral and mental problems of the one-room rural school. They know the temptations that hover around the boys and girls who are verging into manhood and womanhood. They know the trials of the new and inexperienced teachers. They know childhood, boyhood and girlhood as they appear in the different grades, and these teachers of the past could be such a help, such an inspiration, such a comfort to the discouraged beginners in our schools if the voters of Texas would only allow them a place in the affairs of the schools. The most perplexing problems in our public schools are usually kept covered up and quiet until they reach an unbearable state, because our young girl teachers shrink from going to some stern, busy, disinterested school trustee with their troubles. And when she does go to him, he has never been in her place and does not know how to help her. This is just one of the reasons why a woman with real school experience should be on that new school board you are about to elect.—Phebe K. Warner in the Star-Telegram.

Graveling the Roads

Roberts County is seeing some real road work going on this week. The two big army trucks, which haul three yards at a time have been busy the past two days graveling from the pit toward town. They have each been making four loads an hour, and some of the trips being made in as little as seven minutes. At the rate of four loads per hour from each truck, it will mean considerably more than 200 yards of gravel per day put on the road. With the regular gravel dump bed, and the loading pit, graveling roads with our big army trucks is not a very big task.

As soon as the road is gravelled to the bridge, the work will be extended on through town towards Coffeenville. Commissioner Meade states that it is his aim to keep the trucks busy most of the time if road funds hold out, and it is to the interest of every traveler of the public roads that he is furnished with sufficient funds to keep the work going. Graveled roads are practically permanent and we can not spend better money on our roads. This gravel, coming from one of the best gravel beds in the state, located only half mile from town, will make the road almost as hard and smooth as concrete. On with the graveling of the roads.—Miami Chief.

For Fewer Congressmen

The 1920 census will, on the present basis of representation, increase membership in the lower house of Congress to upwards of 500. The present membership is 435. With the ninety-six Senators and the delegates from Alaska, the Philippines and other possessions, we have already six hundred legislators.

Any reasonable man will readily understand that this number is too large to get the best results. There are many reasons why this is true. In the first place, it is difficult to get action when such a large number of members must be consulted and heard from, and with such a large number of representatives in Congress it is certain that many of them will be of mediocre ability. We need fewer and better legislators in Washington.

The better method is to decrease the number of Congressmen, increase the pay and elect more capable men to the office. It is very probable, however, that this will not be done. If Congress increases the basis of representation it means that many of the members will be legislating themselves out of office. Most members of Congress are politicians, and very practical politicians at that, and it is probably asking more than could be expected, to make a demand that the basis of representation be changed so as to reduce the House membership about a third. That is what ought to be done, but certainly we should not have any more Congressmen than we now have.—Amarillo Tribune.

Those Socialists dismissed from the New York legislature are called martyrs. But look what they escaped!—Chicago Daily News.

Good Rain Thursday

A good rain started to fall about nine o'clock Thursday night and continued for several hours. Over half an inch was reported in Canyon, while west of the city the fall amounted to three-fourths of an inch.

The farmers are highly pleased with the rain, as it helped the wheat crop very greatly.

Various kinds of reports are coming in on the wheat. Many farmers have reported during the past week that they would make as much wheat as they did last year. Several believe that their crop will not amount to a great deal. Since the rains started, the moisture has been falling just right for the wheat.

Considerable acreage of row crop has been planted over the county, but many farmers are waiting to kill off the first crop of weeds before planting much.

Clovis Defeats I. O. O. F.

The I. O. O. F. team was defeated by the Clovis Elks Sunday in Clovis by a score of 7 to 0. A mistake on the part of the umpire, which was afterward admitted, gave Clovis four of their score, when a foul ball was called fair.

Memorial Tablet Unveiled

One of the most impressive ceremonies of the Home Coming was the unveiling of the Memorial Tablet Thursday afternoon, dedicated to the seven men from the student body who paid the supreme sacrifice while in the service of their country. Addresses were made by J. W. Reid and President J. A. Hill. The following inscription is found on the Tablet, which is found in the auditorium at the west side of the stage:

"In recognition of the devotion and service of our soldier students who fell during the world war: Virgil A. Brown, Harold Gist, Lawrence Valsen Cox, Archie Eugene Key, Andrew Homer Floyd, James Percy Leggett, Thomas Bart Coopinger.

"Sleep, soldiers! Still in honored rest your truth and valor wearing; enduring in our memory blest your sacrifice and daring."

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH AMERICA?

What's the matter with America these days? Too many diamonds and not enough alarm clocks. Too many silk shirts, not enough blue flannel ones. Too many pointed-toed shoes and not enough square toed ones. Too many serge suits and not enough overalls. Too much décolleté and not enough aprons. Too many satin upholstered limousines and not enough cows. Too many customers and not enough producers. Too many oil stocks and not enough savings accounts. Too much envy of the rich of hard work and too little desire to emulate it. Too many desiring short cuts to wealth and too few willing to pay the price. Too much of the spirit of get while the getting is good and not enough old-fashioned christianity. —J. J. Jordan.

Will Build New Home

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Johnson of Hale Center were here for Commencement and Home Coming, and bought two lots of the Maxwell addition, just east of President Hill's home and will build a home there at once. One son is now in the Normal and they have other children to send to the school.

THE GREAT PLAINS PEOPLE

It is a provision of nature that soft conditions beget soft products. This applies to men, animals and plants. The best animals and plants, and the dominant races of men, all spring from conditions of comparative rigor. Resourcefulness is the child of necessity.

Nature is a great compensator. Within certain limits, disadvantages are offset by proportionate advantages. This is true of the region known as the Great Plains. Life in the short grass country has certain drawbacks apt to discourage many people, and blind them to advantages more in evidence there than anywhere else.

The Great Plains are usually dry. The annual rainfall is from 12 to 30 inches. The evaporation is high. This compels the Plains farmer to dry-farm, and he has thereby developed a tremendously valuable system of soil culture, moisture conservation and plant selection. Sometimes he fails to raise a crop, but his failures are getting fewer. He knows that the rule of averages will pull him out, and that the fertility of his soil is not being leached away by excessive rains. He has little use for fertilizer. Water is his limiting factor in crop production, and he is learning how to keep his priceless supply from being drawn out of his soil by wind and sunlight. His soil is a gold mine. It will last many generations. The crops he produces are higher in feeding value than similar crops grown in humid sections. He lives in as good a live stock country as the sun shines on.

Great Plains conditions are producing a type of people possessing high qualities of resourcefulness, efficiency and stamina. Their mental vision, like their prairies, is wide and level. They correctly value their advantages, which far outweigh their disadvantages. Heat and drought but make for bigger crops when the rain comes. Some days the wind is fierce, the sky is as brass, and the setting sun looks like a spoilt oyster in a bucket of blood. But such days are few, and the law of compensation brings weather incomparably fine; weeks and months of it.

Many of the best farmers to be found anywhere are on the Plains. They are successful because they recognize natural limitations, and take advantage of nature's wise provisions. For nature communes freely with those who seek her secrets for useful purpose, and abundantly rewards all who work with her. Nature is a good partner, but a jealous one. She makes all the rules, which is right, for her partners come and go, while she stays on the job permanently. Obey her mandates and you win, whether in the humid regions or the arid; at sea level or on mountain mesa; in the tropics or the subarctic. Cross her and you lose, regardless of your location, your resources or your determination.—W. I. Drummond in The Agricultural Review.
