CARING FOR MILK IS TRADES DAY FEATURE

November Trades Day Will be a Great Feature for the People of County Who Handle Milk.

The proper care in handling of milk and questions involved in successfully handling milk and dairy cows will be featured on November 8, which will be the regular monthly Trades Day.

Miss Jessie E. Rambo, head of the Home Economics Department of the West Texas State Normal College, will have charge of this Trades Day feature. She will have a number of speakers who will discuss the question from different angles, all of which will be of vital importance to the people of this county.

The proper feeding of children will be discussed in the program. The milk diet for the sick will be another subject. The relation of milk to the diet of the grown person will be discussed. These questions will be in addition to the proper methods of handling of milk from the time it leaves the cow until it is ready for use.

Fred H. Ives will talk about the dairy cow on the farm, discussing the profitable and unprofitable cow, how to find out whether she is profitable or not.

Randall county is fast becoming a dairy county. A few years ago there were few milk cows. Today nearly every farmer is going into the dairy business on a more or less extensive scale. Practical ideas and suggestions will be discussed at the meeting next month, and a special effort will be made to bring all families to Canyon who are interested in the proper handling of the dairy and its products.

FOUR POLL TAX RECEIPTS ISSUED UNDER NEW LAW

Tax Collector Worth A. Jennings reports that he has issued four tax receipts to women under the new law which was passed by the recent special session of the legislature.

Under this law receipts may be issued to those who did not pay their poll tax before February 1st, 1920, which receipts will allow the holder to vote in all elections up to February 1, 1921.

A number of other women have asked concerning the issuance of the receipts.

Plenty of Cars

Reports are now common of plenty of box cars being available all over the country, but at the same time the coal situation does not seem to improve.

It is reported that cars are being stored along the sidings in Randall county, and yet the coal dealers state that the mines are not shipping coal on account of the car shortage.

An investigation of the condition is needed at once. There are many homes in Canyon without coal, and bad weather may be expected at any time.

Blaine Returning to Canyon

H. W. Blaine has resigned as secretary-manager of the Amarillo Automobile Association and will remove his family to Canyon. His health has been very bad the past few months and the doctors advised him to quit office work in order to be out of doors. The friends of Mr. Blaine in this city regret very much to hear of his ill health.

Garner Strike Gas Well

Word comes from Plainview that M. P. and Flake Garner have struck a big gas well at Santa Anna where they have been drilling for the past few months. They will not go deeper for oil at the present time as there is need of the gas in that section for commercial purposes.

The Garner brothers are former Canyon boys, sons of W. L. Garner, and their many friends are pleased to hear of their good luck.

PULLED TULIA HERALD OUT OF HOLE LAST THURSDAY

The linotype is one of the most workable machines ever invented when it is working, and one of the most unworkable machines the mind of man ever conceived when it gets tired. It is worse than some men.

The Tulia Herald has a good linotype and the owners think a lot of it. It has run beautifully for the past five years, but Wednesday night it became very, very tired. Editor O'Bryan "talked" to it and worked with it. Being a good Baptist, we're sure the machine did not become insulted at any language he might have used. But she refused to go. "She" usually pays no attention to a mere newspaper man.

Thursday morning the Herald sent out the S. O. S., and do it quick. Dan K. Usery, the linotype genius of the Randall County News, being of a very accommodating disposition and not being hampered with so strict connection with the Baptist church as Editor O'Bryan, caught a service car Thursday noon and spent the next twenty-four hours in dissection and eliminating the troubles. Last reports from the south were that the machine was doing beautifully. There is a lot in knowing how to "talk" to 'em. Dan knows how.

NORMAL WILL PLAY THE HEREFORD TEAM SATURDAY

The Normal football team will open the season Saturday morning in Hereford with a game with the Hereford town team. The Normal had a game scheduled with Vega for last Saturday, but the Vega team cancelled Friday night.

The Normal team this year is light, but is showing considerable speed in the practices.

The team goes to Plainview a week from Saturday to play the first game with Wayland.

PETITION ASKS THAT J. H. MESSIMER BE GIVEN PARDON

A petition is being circulated in Randall, Swisher, Deaf Smith and Castro counties asking that J. H. Messimer be pardoned from serving his sentence in the penitentiary for killing George Ward. The case was tried in Randall county two years ago and resulted in a mistrial. Mr. Messimer was given a five years sentence a few weeks ago in the Potter County Court, and has now been in the penitentiary for a month.

A large number of signatures have been secured on the petition.

ELECTION ORDERED ON HOSPITAL BONDS

November 20th Day Set by Commissioners for Voters to Settle Hospital Question.

At the meeting of the Commissioners Court Monday, a petition bearing the names of one hundred forty-six tax paying citizens of Randall county was presented to the court calling for an election to be held for the purpose of issuing bonds in the sum of $30,000 to build a hospital in Randall county. The election was ordered for November 20th.

Since the discussion of the hospital was started a few weeks ago, great interest is being manifested in the proposition. The very great need of the hospital is being discussed and judging from the enthusiastic reception the petition received, there is no doubt that the voters will approve the bond issue when the election is held next month.

EXHIBIT TO DALLAS MAKES GOOD TIME STATES WALKER

Word has been received from C. F. Walker from Dallas stating that he reached there on Tuesday of last week. He started with the Randall County exhibit on Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Mr. Walker states that everything went through in fine condition. His hogs were in good shape after the trip. He stated there were more than 200 entered in the class with his pigs. John Knight's big boar, which Mr. Walker took, will have to show against but a very small number in the Fair.

A large number of Randall County people are considering making the trip to the Fair during the next week.

Oliver-Johnson Wedding

Miss Mary Lou Oliver and Robert Barto Johnson were united in marriage Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Oliver, Rev. Simeon Shaw officiating. The members of the immediate families together with a few friends witnessed the ceremony. Preceding the wedding march played by Misses Carmen and Grace Brewer, Miss Bonnie Bassett sang, "I Love You Truly."

After hearty congratulations the wedding cake was cut and punch served.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Oliver. The family moved here last summer from Dumas. She is a very popular member of the younger set of Canyon and has a very large circle of friends. The groom is the son of Prof. and Mrs. M. B. Johnson. He is well known to the people of this community, the family having lived here for a number of years. The young people will make their future home in this city.

Cemetery Sexton Employed

A petition was presented Monday to the Commissioners Court to employ a sexton for the cemetery. W. H. McCorgle accepted the position at $35 per month and will receive $5 for digging each grave.

Frank Giles of Hereford visited friends here Sunday.

Announcement

TO MY FRIENDS:

I wish to announce to the friends of the Randall County News that I have bought all of the stock of the company and am now in charge of the business.

Ten years ago the first day of August I came to Canyon and took charge of the paper. The policy of the paper has been exclusively in my hands during this period. The men who have owned stock in the plant have seldom been together, nor have had little to say as to the business or editorial policy of the News. What the paper has stood for in the past will be its policies in the future.

I sold all my property in Canyon a few weeks ago with the intention of leaving. No man can be ungrateful to his friends or pass unheeding the urgent requests that he remain in the community. A few months ago it was impossible to buy control of this paper, but since the stockholders agreed to sell, I could not think of leaving the paper that has meant so much to me during the past ten years. I have been in correspondence with probably two hundred papers during the past few months, but none looked half so good to me as the Randall County News, nor did any town appeal to me half so strongly as does Canyon.

This paper is at your service. What has been accomplished in the past ten years is only a small percent of the dream that has ever been my guiding star. I am here to be commanded in anything that will make Canyon a better place to live and Randall county the best county in Northwest Texas.

To those who have been so greatly interested in the Randall County News and who have been a part of the progress that it has made in the past, I wish to take this opportunity to express my great appreciation.

To the business men of Canyon who have loyally supported the paper, I must acknowledge my appreciation. The life of a newspaper depends upon the support of the local merchant, and its right to live depends upon the service it renders to the business man and to the community. That the News has always enjoyed a big patronage is a testimony of the fact that it has always given service and stood for the best in Canyon and Randall County.

To those loyal correspondents who have worked hard to get the News their weekly messages, I am very grateful.

A more loyal force of men and women have never worked together than those employed in the production of the Randall County News. I count each and every person connected with this paper as my personal friend, and take this opportunity of thanking them for the efficiency of their labor in the past which has made this paper a success, and their expressed satisfaction when it was announced that I was to remain with the News.

I would indeed be ungrateful were I not to express publicly my gratitude to the former stockholders of the Randall County News who have sold their stock. I have never worked for or with more agreeable directors than those who have been interested in this paper. C. O. Keiser was owner of the business when I came to Canyon ten years ago. A year later he sold me one-fourth interest in the plant. In 1913 the business was incorporated and when the plant was sold Monday, stock was held by C. O. Keiser, Mrs. C. O. Keiser, Oscar Hunt, J. W. Reid and myself.

I assure the readers of the Randall County News that it is a very genuine pleasure that this announcement is being made, and that I shall remain in this good community and with this paper which has meant more to me than any of you might suspect.

C. W. WARWICK.

A LECTURE ENTITLED Christian Science

The Science of Right Living By Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B. Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

When we consider the unsettled conditions and turmoil prevalent in the world today, thought naturally reaches out for both their causes and their solution. The world is an aggregation of individuals, hence its condition, the quality of its thinking, the character of its activities, are a composite of these factors in its constituents. In other words, world conditions are the product of the lives and mentalities of its people, their habits of thought, their ethics, their ambitions, and their resultant conduct. If the members of a community live rightly, that community will be measurably harmonious, healthy, happy, peaceable; if they live wrongly, are selfish, immoral and vicious, the community can but be correspondingly discordant, unhealthy, unhappy.

Right Desire Essential Let us then inquire into the Science of right living, what is the Principle and law involved. Most people want to live rightly and to do right, but many do not know what right is, and therefore cannot grasp the advantages of righteous living. They really do not choose to do wrong but mistakenly they think there is some advantage in it. The allurements of sin and ill-gotten gain is seen only from a selfish viewpoint. People often do wrong because they do not believe in life after death and do not recognize that their thoughts and acts here and now make or mar their individual character, which outlasts the so-called pleasures of evil indulgence and determines their environment in life, wherever that may be.

The influence of belief in heredity, environment and education is responsible for our habits of thought as well as our desires but it is generally admitted that what is wrong in all these can be corrected through right moral education and the appeal to reason. When people realize that indulgence in evil is a distinct disadvantage to them and that it results in inevitable suffering, and further when they see that the practice of good, right, and justice results in real benefit, they will be more careful of their thoughts and acts. The so-called pleasure of sin and the suffering of disease enter experience because they present themselves to thought in a way which appeals to human belief.

Recipe in the Bible St. Paul writes: "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." (Rom. 8: 2).

The Bible contains many clear and definite statements of the healing law of the gospel and its relation to every form of evil thinking and living, and it shows that God heals not only sin but also sickness, through the application of the Principle embodied in this law. Christ Jesus demonstrated this conclusively, and yet there have always been many who disbelieved in the practical application of his teachings, because they never really understood them. From the inception of Christianity, however, some have striven to obey his teachings and to manifest the Christ spirit which brings salvation from both sickness and sin. This spirit was strongly in evidence in the healing works which characterized the early church, until the time when Christianity was engulfed in formalism and its vital spirit quenched.

Today many thinking people are beginning to see as they have not seen before, that the healing work of the early church is yet possible, although this healing work, besides the generally accepted supremacy of material law. They perceive that there is such a thing as spiritual law, a law apart from physics; that this divine law is and should be sovereign over all so-called physical law; that it has dominion over what is termed matter; and all this in spite of the bias of materialistic thought which declares that any existence apart from the material cannot be conceived. It is encouraging that Christian people are beginning to awake out of their sleep and to assert their right to the freedom and harmony of the children of God.

Healing Principle Available When men realize that there is a Principle underlying all existence, which operates according to divine law, and quite regardless of time and place, they will see that the physical changes accompanying spiritual healing are due to the operation of this Principle in accordance with law; and that such Principle, law and operation constitute Science.

It is evident that Christ Jesus considered this healing work a very essential factor of his ministry; indeed he made it a test of Christian discipleship, for he said, "He that believeth on me, the works I do shall he do also"; which means that he who is a Christian will be able to heal spiritually. Surely every Christian must desire to believe in and to practice that spiritual healing, which accomplishes so much more than can drugs, surgery and an impotent faith. Recognition of the healing power of divine Truth heals men without involving the fear, pain and risk of death which so often attend surgical operations and the use of nostrums.

Most right-minded persons, too, would like to overcome evil with good if they only knew how; most of them would like to overcome their failings, and to do right by their neighbor, but, because of their faulty religious education, they have not known that the ability to accomplish these things naturally follows the knowledge that good has more power than evil. How few in all the world today realize that the logical and inevitable sequence of an understanding of the Master's teachings, together with strict obedience thereto, would be a cessation of all sorrow, sickness and wrong living. Those who admit that Christian healing is even desirable in the attainment of right living, will welcome a consideration of what it involves, and what it depends upon.

We need then to consider first the nature of human existence in order that we can clearly understand what constitutes consciousness and apprehend what is involved in demonstrating the Science of right living.

Nature of Human Sense It is very evident that our existence is our consciousness. To each one of us there is no existence except that of which we are conscious. Acquired knowledge—simply enlarged human consciousness. The objects cognized by the physical senses are the effects of materially mental activity. These effects in turn impress one, become a part of the human consciousness, though their nature and relations remain hidden. For example, when we believe we see an object, we really become conscious of a mental impression which we accept as the object's existence.

Further, it is evident that the character of human existence depends largely upon the character of human sense. We cannot avoid this conclusion when we consider existing differences in personal characteristics, in educational bias, environment, association and experience, and see what a widely varying sense of existence these differences produce in different individuals. In every day experience we learn that no two members of any group of persons, if asked their impression of any incident appealing to the material senses will give similar accounts. Each one can give only his own mental impression. Sense phenomena are, therefore, not to be accepted as absolute because they depend upon the quality of the perceptive faculties, both native and educated. For example, let a tree be viewed by a botanist, and artist and a lumberman. The botanist views it from the standpoint of his botanical knowledge. He sees its botanical make-up and structure, the character of leaf, flower, bark, etc. The artist views it mainly from a purely artistic standpoint. He notes the color and form of the tree, and the way it relates itself to the background. Coincidentally with this he analyzes his impression of it and thinks perchance of the combination of pigments he must use to reproduce it upon canvas. The lumberman sees the tree as so much available building material. To him a beautiful branch means a knot in the board which reduces its value. His estimate of its worth is not in terms of botany or beauty but in board feet.

Furthermore, the so-called characteristics of the objective universe such as size, shape, distance and color, do not seem the same to any two persons, for since the lines of the eye vary, and the resulting mental impressions are necessarily different, all of which shows that human perception is not absolute but variable.

Mental Nature of Matter Physical science does not explain nor account for anything beyond sense testimony; therefore, in order to analyze causation, we must go beyond the realm of the senses, and interpret and correct our mental impressions in order to gain a knowledge of the facts. When we look at a plant, for example, we experience an impression said to be due to vibration called light, which produces a certain mental effect which we objectify as a plant. It is not necessary for the plant actually to exist outside of our consciousness if we can but get a mental impression which we identify as a plant. In fact, all that mortals experience is the impinging of different forms of vibration which are variously interpreted and objectified. To illustrate, the markings on the record of the phonograph are merely wavy lines. When the needle of the phonograph follows these lines, the listener is impressed by a multitude of intricate air waves in which he detects the tone qualities of the orchestral instruments and of the human voice which were thus recorded. In a similar way, it is not necessary to have anything more than these or kindred vibrations to impress upon consciousness any sense experience, and possibly we can thus see that the human consciousness includes simple mental conceptions which comprise what seems to be our individual universe, and that matter is mental phenomenon.

Matter Not Substance One of the difficulties in accepting the statement of the mental nature of matter is the belief that matter is the fundamental property of substance is substantiality, which is defined as being that which is lasting, that which has actual perpetual existence, that which is real and not illusory. This means that substance is indestructible and permanent, and matter therefore cannot be real substance, since it is both destructible and transitory; it is a mental concept and not a substantive actuality outside of consciousness.

Substance is that of which anything is constituted, its body, its structure. Hence whatever really exists must have substance and this must be indestructible. To illustrate, a mathematical idea, because true, has substance. This substance is not material, it is not the visible figures nor the chalk nor ink with which they have been made, since these can be destroyed. Its substance is its truth, a right idea which can never be destroyed. It is unchanging, permanent, it has the power to remain itself. The substance of all real things is not seen physically but mentally. Matter, therefore, is not substance since it is not substantive. It has only been named substance by physical sense. In the analysis of being it is extremely important to perceive that there is substance apart from what is commonly called matter. This substance exists solely in the realm of Mind and is constituted of purely metaphysical, for thus only can the substantiality of Truth and Spirit be seen, and that which St. Paul refers to as "the substance of things hoped for" be realized.

Another difficulty in getting away from the material sense of things is the dimensional concept of existence. Physical sense can perceive only finite or physical things. For example, the dimensional concept which the senses have of mathematical ideas is projected as finite, concrete figures or quantities, but it is not the mathematical truth which these senses see, for this truth is not in the figures. It is in mind and is cognized mentally through mathematical understanding. Physical things are but misconceptions of realities. The ideas which they imperfectly express are not limited to the physical expression but exist everywhere. Every truth is unlimited, that is, infinite, for it is everywhere and indestructible. There is but one idea six and that six is everywhere, can be known and used by everyone, has its own individuality, can never be altered, exhausted, nor destroyed, and consequently in that sense is infinite.

Matter Not Life All this leads to the perception that there is no life in matter, since one of the fundamental characteristics of life is continuity of existence, which, as we have seen, cannot be predicted of matter. We cannot affect mathematical truth by anything which may be done to the figures, nor can we affect the real life of anything by what we may do to its material appearing or symbol. When figures are written down at random without regard to law, they have no meaning, no power. It is only when they are correctly used that they express truth or life. So too, when human thought conceives of ideas as fragmentary, discordant, temporary, without Principle or law, this concept is without substance, truth, life or power.

It is thus seen that there is neither substance nor life in matter, material phenomena; that existence is not material but mental, a state of consciousness, and that truth and life can be conceived of only metaphysically. On this plane alone can we analyze existence logically and intelligently, and solve its problems.

Body is Mental Having seen that all the phenomena of nature are mental, the projection of imperfect human sense, we see that disease is mental and must be healed mentally, and therefore it is essential for us to see clearly that body is mental.

Matter being recognized as a mental phenomenon, a state of mortal consciousness, we logically conclude that the so-called material body is mental. It is evident that this body is not the man since the is not lessened though he lose a limb. A mortal's selfhood or individuality is in consciousness, and this is obviously the embodiment and externalization of his mentality, conscious and unconscious. Of a mortal, the Scriptures say, "As he thinketh in his heart, so he is." The appearance as well as the actions of a man express his individuality and partake of the nature and quality of his mentality. Therefore, thoughts of sin and disease, together with fear, anger, and grief, will externalize diseased conditions. This is admitted very generally by physicians and can readily be proved.

A man does not live in a body nor can he be controlled by it any more than mathematical truth lives in figures or is controlled by them. The body of a man is but an outward sign or means of human identification, and to encourage us to think of existence as apart from the material body, St. Paul tells us that it is better to be absent with the Lord, and to be present with the Lord.

Remember, therefore, that discordant conditions of the body are in fact due to discordant conditions of human sense, a sense which is not always expressed as conscious thought, but which is nevertheless a part of the mentality that constructs and governs things of which we are not conscious. For example, we are not conscious of the circulation of the blood nor of the assimilation of food, nor of the growth of tissues, yet these processes are all the manifestations of mentality, and would instantly cease were mentality removed.

Healing a Mental Process A wrong thought, a fear may cause a disturbance in organic or functional action, and then we become conscious of some inharmonious. In other words, as a man is an individual consciousness, and as the body is an externalization of human consciousness, of which discordant conditions are but a state, healing can result only as a change or transformation of this consciousness is brought about, and this must evidently be accomplished mentally, thru some action of thought, since only in this way can the quality of human consciousness be changed, the morbid conditions and their causes be eliminated, and a normal harmonious state be established.

Having thus come to see that so-called human existence and all that it includes is mental, we can begin to grasp the logic of the conclusion that the healing of both evil and disease is a mental process. We are thus in a position to examine into the method by which Christian Science healing is scientifically demonstrated. According to the Scriptural accounts, the healing wrought by the Master and his disciples, was accomplished through mental or spiritual means, alone, that is through some action of thought. Christian Science healing is brought about in the same way. In both the healing Principle and law are mental, and knowing this, we are led to examine into the nature of Mind and mind action.

Truth. This infinite actuality means boundlessness, without beginning or end, without quantitative dimensions; it means immutability, perfection, indestructibility; it means omnipresence, omniscience, omnipotence; it means oneness, the all-embracing, self-existing, eternal being.

Since the human sense of mind is externalized as material discord, it is manifestly evil, and it becomes necessary to make a clear distinction between the Mind which is Truth and wholly good, and the consciousness which embraces both truth and error, good and evil.

Real Versus Unreal First a distinction needs to be very clearly drawn between that which is actually real and that which only seems to be so. To become conscious of a sense appearance, furnishes no evidence of the truth of the appearance, as for example, the apparent converging of railroad tracks. In order to determine what is real and what is unreal in any case, we have to consider whether it is absolute or merely relative. That which is absolute exists by and of itself, is independent of all else. That which is called relative appears real only by virtue of our belief in it. A thing is therefore absolutely true or unreal when it is actual and does not depend upon human sense. A thing is said to be relatively true or phenomenal when it depends upon, or is the projection of imperfect sense.

Furthermore, that which is true has no dimensional limitations. As for example, there is no place where two times two do not make four, nor is there any limit to the application of this rule. Truth is fundamentally infinite in quality, in quantity, in presence and in power. Therefore, all that is real and true is indestructible, everywhere and eternally perfect. Human sense concepts resulting from matter and mortal belief involve limitation, uncertainty, discord, decay and death. This illustrates the difference between the actual and the seeming.

Again, the infinite is not an aggregation of the finite, it is not composed of an aggregation of finite quantities. Infinity can never be obtained by adding deminimal particles. The result is always finite. Neither can the infinite be divided into finite particles, or be expressed in finite quantities. The quantity two is not a finite quantity, but an infinite mathematical idea, existing everywhere and forever present and attainable. When represented by a figure, the finite numeral is not the idea but only an imperfect unstable symbol, which gives no correct concept of the quantitative mathematical value everywhere present. Thus, since reality is infinite and matter is finite, matter is unreal.

Divine Mind and Mortal Mind We can thus distinguish between the real Mind, the infinite, spiritual immortal consciousness which expresses itself in perfect, indestructible harmonious ideas, and the mind which includes the belief in matter, evil, limitation, disease and death. This latter therefore is not real Mind, but a false concept of mind, the Adam dream which St. Paul terms "the carnal mind which is enmity against God," in other words, God's unlikeness or opposite. Paul also writes, "To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." This carnal mind Christian Science further defines as "mortal mind," since it includes all that is sick, sinning, discordant and mortal. It is the inversion of counterfeits of the immortal divine Mind, and its betraying characteristic is finity as opposed to infinity; therefore, since all that is real is infinite, all that is finite is unreal, and these unreal beliefs of the carnal mind have neither place, presence, nor power; any more than has the schoolboy's erroneous belief that two times two make five. It is simply a false concept. It has no existence.

Human Consciousness Here we need to consider the human consciousness which according to belief includes a sense of materiality and evil as well as of spirituality and good. It conceives of matter, of discord, of death, and yet can conceive of Spirit, of harmony, of Life, can know God. It includes a sense of both right and wrong, both truth and error.

Mrs. Eddy writes: "The heavens and earth to one human consciousness, that consciousness which God bestows, are spiritual, while to another, the unillumined human mind, the vision is material." (S. & H. p 573.) "She also writes: "... sin and disease lose their reality in human consciousness and disappear as naturally and as necessarily as darkness gives place to light when the sun is reformation. Now, as then, these mighty works are not supernatural, but supremely natural. They are the sign of Immanuel, or 'God with us'—a divine influence ever present in human consciousness." (S. & H. p XI) "This is the consciousness of 'the man on the street' which enables him to feel that he may be healed by the 'renewing of the mind' by putting off the old man and putting on the new, by being awakened by the Christ Truth; therefore, it is the consciousness wherein reformation and regeneration take place and to which Jesus appealed in his healing and teaching. Here salvation is to be worked out; here good can be brought to bear upon evil to destroy it; here Truth can meet and correct it; it is the consciousness which can begin to know God. When all evil, all error, is destroyed in the human consciousness, by Truth asserting itself, then nothing remains but the knowledge of God, and the real divine consciousness of the real man is attained and our salvation is worked out,—we have demonstrated our at-one-ment with the Father.

Mrs. Eddy's supreme declaration is this, that there is one infinite Mind which is wholly good, perfect, indestructible, immortal. This infinite, absolute, omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent Being is the incorporeal Father-Mother God whose true nature is revealed through Christian Science. This divine actuality is the scientific basis on which all Christian Science healing is demonstrated, the divine Principle whose everpresence is utilized in the overcoming of sin and sickness, through the available transforming power of the Christ, coming to the human consciousness.

The Universe and Man From this it follows that the real universe and the real man are the expression or manifestation of this infinite Mind and that they partake of the spiritual nature and quality of this Mind. Hence, all the ideas of God are perfect, incorporeal, eternal and harmonious, they live, move and their being in God, in divine Mind.

The real man is the image and likeness of God as he is defined in the first chapter of Genesis, the expression of Mind, Spirit, Soul, Life, Truth and Love. Mortal man is but a human corporeal concept of the mortal or carnal mind. "The physical universe expresses the conscious and unconscious thoughts of mortals" writes Mrs. Eddy. (S. & H. p. 484) It is the counterfeits of the divine universe which is embraced in the consciousness of the real man. So also the "natural man" as St. Paul names him, is a counterfeit of the spiritual idea, a product of physical sense, which originated in and is dependent upon materiality.

Christian Science explains the true nature of the divinely created man, as not the man created of the dust of the ground but as the image and likeness of God, the man whom God pronounced good and to whom He gave dominion over the earth.

The perfect nature of God and the real man was revealed to Mrs. Eddy. The Scriptures spiritually understood reveal this truth, and Mrs. Eddy first stated it in scientific and metaphysical terms which, when understood, make it possible for anyone to begin to demonstrate it. The creative Principle operates positively through divine law, it embraces and supports all real existence,—perfect God, perfect man and perfect universe.

Discrimination Necessary But if all reality is spiritual and perfect, there arises the question "What of evil, material, discordant conditions?" Here Christian Science explains that because Spirit, the absolute good, is infinite, everywhere there can be no place for either evil or matter, and it therefore classifies all phenomena and all experiences which are unlike perfect God, as false concepts projected by erroneous human sense, as untrue beliefs; and it sustains this contention by destroying these conditions,—thus proving them untrue, for Truth is indestructible.

Human thought has always believed the objects of sense to be real, but now that the true nature of reality has been revealed, a clear distinction can be drawn between what is actual and what is merely an appearance. This is an essential element in the practice of Christian Science healing and must be clearly understood for the reason that so long as we believe an appearance or condition to be real and attempt to deal with it as a reality and at its own valuation we can make no progress in mastering it. A mathematical mistake cannot be corrected until it is recognized as such. Even so, discordant human conditions cannot be scientifically healed until they are recognized as errors and divine Truth is applied to their elimination. Christian Science teaches that because God or good is the only presence, substance and power, there is no place for evil to be, no space for matter to occupy, no discord for mortal mind to experience except as a false concept.

When we look at an object through bent glass we see a distorted object, not because the object is distorted, but because the medium through which it is perceived makes it seem so. The distortion exists only as a belief, an illusion, and we do not accept the appearance as real because we know it is not. Similarly existence appears to us in a material, finite evil form, not because it is so, but because mortal mind so presents it.

Christian Science by revealing to us the nature of real existence, together with the illusive character of material sense testimony, enables us to distinguish at any time between what is real and what is unreal, to recognize material error to be error, and thereby to begin to free ourselves and others from the bondage and fear attending it. The more clearly we make the distinction between the actual and the seeming, the more effective will be our efforts in healing.

Healing a Correcting Process It should be clearly seen that although Christian Science denies matter by revealing its unreality, it does not destroy the sense of existence. The denial of matter does not produce a blank, for matter cannot be effectually denied until the substance of Spirit has been clearly apprehended. The metaphysical process involves a realization of Truth and a corresponding denial of error, a recognition of what is real and actual, and a resulting perception of the illusion of material appearance. This brings about a change in the human consciousness, and this improved quality of thought produces a more harmonious sense of existence.

Evil habits, depraved appetites, lustful passions, all forms of sinful desire, activity, and wrong living, no part of the real man, God's idea, and they must be clearly separated from him. Sin cannot be removed by fastening it upon the sinner. It must be seen as the mortal mind lie about man. Knowing that sin is not real and that God's man has no sinful appetites, is not the slave of passion, nor the victim of vice, but that God is the idea of God, reflecting divine Love and governed by divine Principle,—this heals the sick. St. Paul puts it, "the word of God (Truth) is quick and powerful." (Eph. 4:12).

perience that the declaration and realization of Truth will establish harmony in thought and heal all aches and pains. They also know that this takes place because discord is error which the knowing of Truth corrects. This action in the metaphysical realm is paralleled in the mathematical realm.

By its very nature Truth is individual, since it has its own distinctive, complete, indivisible character which identifies it. Therefore it can express only itself, its own nature and character, namely that which is true and truthful. Truth being infinite Principle, it is power and expresses itself with power, and since there is no power in error, error cannot resist the power of Truth. A mathematical truth corrects a mathematical error to which the truth is applied because of this essential quality and property of Truth, by which it always expresses itself and identifies itself, manifesting its own being in truthfulness.

In a similar way, a metaphysical or spiritual Truth applied to a human error, corrects that error because of the self-expressing property of Truth, whereby it always identifies itself when it is brought into action.

There is, therefore, no difference in the action of a silent treatment given to a person nearby or far away. In both cases the truth of the treatment reaches the latent thought and corrects the error. In the case of an audible treatment the truth may reach the patient's mentality through his conscious thought.

In both an audible treatment and in listening to the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science services the conscious thought recognizing the truth and good of what is heard or read, opens to this truth which then acts upon the unconscious mentality, and by its essential property of self-identification, it corrects error and establishes what is true and harmonious.

Divine Love the Real Healer Right spiritual knowing is real thinking, and expression or activity of Truth in consciousness. The knowing of God is the appearing of Christ in us. This healing consciousness comforts the sorrowing, brings hope to the unbelieving, awakens the sinner, and heals the afflicted by destroying the darkness of error with the light of Christ, Truth.

A Christian Science treatment or the scientific application of divine Principle, consists fundamentally of the clear knowing of the nature of God and the real man, and the consequent perception of the unreality of matter and evil. It involves an analysis of that which is to be treated, a spiritual discernment of the mental causes of the trouble, and a correct application of the antidoting divine Truth which corrects and removes these causes. This is not a mere repetition of words, but the reflection of divine Love through spiritual consciousness which demonstrates the healing through right knowing and right living.

Christian Science healing brings about not merely a physical change, but improves the patient morally, mentally, and spiritually. It brings a man nearer to God and changes his standpoint from a material to a spiritual basis. It uplifts thought, gives him power over evil, and improves his whole being in the degree that he can grasp its truth.

Christian Scientists know that "With God all things are possible" and that Christian Science can show forth all the wonders of infinite Mind. Hence they are striving day by day to have in them more of the Mind that was in Christ, that they may demonstrate this healing power more and more effectually. They are deeply grateful for the good that has already come to them and the good that they have been able to do for others, especially that they have learned to know the unreality of evil and are thus able to defend themselves against every temptation or assault of evil mind, animal magnetism. They are grateful to know that there is a perfect and compassionate God who will guide them and sustain them, "a very present help in trouble."

Principle and Personality Christian Science clearly shows that Principle and personality are opposites. To be governed by personality means to be influenced and controlled by the thoughts and opinions of some finite human being; whereas to be governed by Principle means obedience to the infinite, divine law of right, of justice, of Truth, and of Love. We may be wrong when governed or influenced by personality since personal characteristics play so large a part in human opinion; but man who is governed by Principle can never be wrong, since Principle is God, the infinite, divine Love.

In order to approximate government by Principle, therefore, it is necessary to know that God, divine Love, is the only Mind, Life and power, and we then know that there is no mortal or personal thought which can deceive or influence us. This consciousness of the oneness of Mind and the powerlessness of its opposite, makes it possible for us to be guided rightly, and prevents us from being influenced wrongly by human will, by personal opinions, or by hypnotism.

Principle should not be thought to be cold, abstract, or severe, since the vital elements of Principle is thereby missed. Principle is Love, and without Love there is no Principle. Therefore, we are obedient to Principle only in the degree that we are obedient to infinite divine Love, and endeavor to act in accordance with the Mind that was of Christ.

World Healing The fact that Christian Science heals can readily be determined by any sincere investigator, and the supporting evidence reveals its coincidence with spiritual healing, thus proving this healing to be true and possible today, and establishing the fact that Christian Science is Messianic. Christian Science healing, being contrary to the teachings of physical sciences, the thinker finds that it can- (Continued on page 9)

VOLUNTEER REVIVAL

AT THE

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

BEGINNING

SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 17, 11 O'CLOCK

It has been named a Volunteer Meeting. That is what it is going to be from every angle imaginable. The Pastor of the local Presbyterian Church has volunteered to do the preaching. Mrs. C. C. Newton of Clovis has volunteered to conduct the singing. And if any other person does one thing for the good of this meeting that person will volunteer his or her services. The Whip-Cord of Duty will not be cracked over your head. We want volunteer expressions of Love for God and Man to be the ruling sentiments of this entire meeting.

WANTED—NEEDED

Volunteers—Regardless of Creed or Order—to pack jam full the Presbyterian Church at every service:—Men and Women to sing in the Choir:—Men and Women to join pastor in Intercession for the full manifestation of the Holy Spirit's Presence and Power in this meeting:—Men and Women to announce publicly their purpose to stand in Canyon for Christ and His Church.

MUSIC—A FEATURE

The musical programs are going to please you. Mrs. Newton is a splendid vocalist and choir director. There will be solos, duets, quartettes, obligatos, instrumental music—a special every service. By Faith a full choir is promised which will delight all who come with a Gospel service in song.

TIME ANNOUNCEMENT

This meeting will begin with the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning and continue through the week. There will be no day services on week days, but every night at 7:30 and on Sunday night at 7:00.

Plan to make this week a week of prayer—set apart for God and His Church.

AN EXPERIMENT

The Pastor is going to work along the theory in which he has long believed—True Christian men and women do not have to be brow-beaten into line when their church or their Lord calls them to service. Some evangelists and some preachers often work as if this theory is not true. But this preacher is going to give his theory a thorough trial in this meeting. "Faith is the Beginning of the Christian Life—Love is its Fruit" and Love has its fullest expression in Service—Service to our Master and Service to the ones for whom our Master died—MEN.

AN ADDED EXPERIMENT

In this meeting the pastor is going to work along another theory which has been advanced—People generally know whether they want to be Christians. There are many people who do not want to be and there are many who will never be. In this meeting every person is going to be allowed the unhampered privilege of deciding whether he or she will be or will not be a Christian.

All personal work to be done in this meeting is going to be done outside the Church—if done at all—none inside the church during services. Christ will be presented—You will have the privilege of accepting or rejecting Him. This may be different, but we are not afraid of being different once.

Randall county is in a cattle country. The cattle business was the first industry badly crippled by the price adjustment. Did the men who were hurt by the decline of the business burn stock yards and packing houses? Hardly. These are needed to make the cattle business go. Down in the cotton belt the farmers were making big money while the cattle business was on the bum. Then the bottom fell out of the cotton market. Hoodlums then began burning gins and compresses. These things are absolutely essential to the life of the cotton business. Their destruction will not restore the abnormal price of cotton. Level headed men are needed in the country today more than at any other stage of America's history.

The Childress Index has been sued for libel by the Vernon Chamber of Commerce on account of an editorial published last month regarding the effects of the oil boom on Vernon. It seems from the outside that the editorial was prompted by mere jealousy existing between the two towns. Pride for one's town is a fine thing whether expressed by a newspaper or an individual, but simply to exaggerate conditions in a rival town will be of no benefit to the transgressor or detriment to the object of the criticism.

Senator Harding has fully repudiated the League of Nations as upheld by President Wilson. That is immaterial. The people of America don't give a rap whether there is a League or not. The funny side of the whole performance is to watch the sidestepping of William Howard Taft in order to always be exactly behind the republican candidate. Taft can always be counted upon as a regular party man regardless.

Speaking from a personal standpoint, the best news we print in today's issue of this paper is the announcement on the first page—that we are going to stay in Canyon. There are bigger towns in the country of ours, but after extensive search for more than three months, we have not found a better one.

Owing to the rush work of the season there was only a small number of people in Canyon on Monday—Trades Day. The next Trades Day will be a great feature, and one that every farmer in the county should be highly interested in. All phases of the dairy and milk handling will be discussed. Let there be a big crowd in Canyon that day.

The biggest row crop in the history of Randall county is being cut very fast, and now the farmers would like to see a little rain to sprout the wheat. There is plenty of deep moisture to keep the wheat growing when once it gets started.

Vote for the school amendment on November 2. This proposition must be carried in order to save the schools of Texas.

The special election for the paving of Canyon's public square will be held on October 30th. Help pull Canyon out of the mud by your vote on that day.

The trouble with most of the reductions in prices these days is the fact that its on paper rather than on the goods.

Boy's Special Refund Coming
E. H. Powell has received notice that a refund of $33 will come to Randall County from the money sent to the Texas Chamber of Commerce on account of the Texas Boys' Special, on which train Randall County sent Robert Hester as its representative. The county was assessed $300 and this refund is being made on account of the extensive entertainment accorded the boys during the trip.

We want all to know that we most heartily invite them to enter into these services with the assurance that they are welcome. OUR PLAINS COLLEGE.

The Plains country boasts but one State institution and that is our West Texas State Normal College at Canyon. This school has steadily grown and improved under the influence of President J. A. Hill until now, the boys and girls of the Plains have, at their very doors, a school second to none in the State.

With untiring zeal both for the success of the school and the welfare of the young people of the Plains, President Hill has assembled about him a corps of instructors of which any college might well be proud. Through his indefatigable efforts, ably seconded by the Board of Regents and Representative Lee Satterwhite, various appropriations have been made providing for the improvement and increased efficiency of the school.

This year a new dormitory for girls, costing $135,000, has been added, also a fireproof boiler and machine shop. The new dormitory, Cousins Hall, is a fireproof structure provided with every modern convenience and will accommodate ninety people. The rooms are comfortably furnished and excellent taste has been displayed in the selection of the handsome furniture for the parlor, it being the policy of the administration to purchase nothing but the best. The management considers itself particularly fortunate in having been able to secure Mrs. Marion Witt, formerly with the Texas Woman's College at Fort Worth, as matron of the new dormitory.

The new boiler house and machine shops were erected at a cost of $30,000 and a new seventy-five horse power engine was installed which furnishes light for the entire school plant, power for the Manual Training shops and for pumping the school's water supply, also electricity for the stoves in the Domestic Science department. All of the equipment purchased for the school has been the best approved and most modern obtainable and the boys and girls have right here at home, as good educational facilities as can be found anywhere.

COWS AND PROSPERITY

A few days ago two young men drove 80 miles, through a section of Iowa where livestock farming is practiced almost to the exclusion of what is properly called grain farming. The two men studied the surrounding country as they drove along, both were well informed and had traveled far and wide during this post-war year of 1920 A. D. For instance, one of the pair, Chelsey Jenness, who is secretary of the Iowa Holstein Breeders' Association, had just returned from a trip through New England, journeying down along the Atlantic coast and returning through the section of country drained by the Delaware and Ohio rivers.

As they drove along, the two men discussed the present-day and future opportunities in dairy farming and steer feeding. What chance had a young man? Where would a man be at 45? Which was the safest and best—growing meat or making milk?

The answer was graphically spread before them along both sides of the 80-mile road. Wherever a fine farmstead, consisting of a modern home, up-to-date garage, big business-like barns and a well-kept barn-lot, spread before them in a distant panorama, closer examination, four times out of five, revealed it was the home of a dairy farmer milking good cows and feeding skim-milk to good hogs and purebred fowls.

Pure bred herds of beef cattle and numerous feed-lots filled with thick, blocky-type steers were seen. Silos were everywhere in evidence on both the dairy and feeding farms. From the appearance of the fields there was not much choice between the two types of farms. Apparently the average farmer in that section was a good manager. It was the cattle he worked with that made the difference.

Where will a man be at 45? Which route leads to greatest prosperity—beef "critters" or good milk cows?

—There was the answer along both sides of the road—80 miles of it.

The prosperity which followed the use of purebred dairy sires deeply impressed the travelers. The lesson of that 80-mile trip remains indelibly stamped on their minds—so much so, in fact, that Mr. Jenness' companion asked the editor to pass along to other young men the lesson he had learned; had seen.—The Dairy Farmer.

THE CREAM OF TEXAS

It is a well known fact, after examining the country weeklies of Texas, that those of the Panhandle and South Plains are the cream of the State. Merchants are live wires and believe in the spreading of printer's ink. Seems that the best printers are employed in the Panhandle. Papers have bigger circulations in the Panhandle. In fact, we think we have a better class of people to deal with and work among. When a fellow feels that way he can naturally put more pep into his work.—Iowa Park Herald.

Be Careful and Systematic

People who pay their bills by check get a reputation for being careful and systematic in their business dealings. Such a reputation means much in the establishment of credit. It costs no more to pay your money out by check than it does to use the hard cash, and you have the advantage of having it in a place that is absolutely safe.

To have money in the bank is itself a valuable asset in the establishment of credit. And it is possible to practically everyone without one cent of cost. It takes no more money to do business by the checking method than it does by the cash-in-hand method.

We invite you to open a checking account with us. We will help you to make your account a real convenience.

High School Notes
The first month of the 1920-21 school year is over and the second is finding every one with a new resolution to raise their grades to the limit.

At 3:30 Thursday afternoon of last week an initial game of football was played between the second teams of the Training School and the High School. It was as clean a game as Canyon ever saw and a good one at that. The final score was 12 to 0 in favor of the High School.

A game is being planned with the Tulia Junior High School soon, and another will soon be played with the Amarillo Junior High. Other games are hoped for and extensive plans are being made to capture them for the home team.

On Saturday, Sept. 2, a group of young musicians from the intermediate grades gave a pleasing recital in chapel consisting of piano solos and violin solos. This is the first of the series of chapel entertainments being planned for the year. Last year the different grades did splendidly well in entertaining during the chapel period.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 5, a meeting was called of all girls interested in a campfire patrol. The meeting was quite a success. Zela Wood was elected leader and Miss Loretta Wiggins chaperon. Some interesting camping trips are being planned.

A chorus club has been organized and books have been ordered. It is intended to put on a few entertainments for the benefit of the public later.

The result of the organization of the classes are:

Eighth grade:
Alton Key.....President
May Hollifield.....Vice President
Anna May McClure.....Secretary

Ninth grade:
Cecll Faust.....President
Francis Hicks.....Vice President
Momie Williams.....Secretary

Tenth grade:
Donald Campbell.....President
Ruth Burnette.....Vice President
Amelia Hazelwood.....Sec.-Treas.

On Saturday, Oct. 9, the first team High School played a mixed team of the Training school. The result was 36 to 6. This, however, is not counted as a victory by the High School as the Training School were unable to play their sub-freshmen and were forced to substitute second team men in their places. This game was wonderful practice for both teams and we expect many more such friendly contests.

West Wind Camp Fire
The girls of the ninth and tenth grades of the Public School have organized the West Wind Camp Fire under the leadership of Miss Zela Wood, guardian, and Miss Loretta Wiggins, assistant guardian and chaperon. They had their first hike Monday afternoon, out to the creek on Mr. McReynold's ranch.

The girls are very enthusiastic about this new work. They feel that this organization offers them much opportunity for service as well as

Your Human Body Mr. Reader is a Machine

Yes, it is the most wonderful machine in existence and to you, it is the most valuable mechanism in existence.

Like any machine, it is subject to mechanical laws. With one or more parts out of proper relation, no machine, yours included, can operate efficiently.

If parts of your automobile engine are out of proper relation, you have "engine trouble." If parts of your bodily machine are out of proper relation, you have a "diseased condition."

A person who has mastered automobile mechanisms can put all parts of your engine in proper relation—and that engine will operate as satisfactorily as when new. The person who mastered human mechanism can put the parts of your bodily machinery in proper relation—and your body will thus be given, by the aid of nature and the different professions and sciences, opportunity to function naturally and painlessly.

Scientific Physical Culture, the proper Dietetic Measures, knowledge of Health Efficiency, Massotherapy, Scientific Massage and Manipulations, coupled with the great resources of modern Surgical and Medicinal Masters—with all of these, does it not appeal to reason that you can have health, efficiency and happiness?

Why do you not consult with some authority about that impaired condition? Why? Because you think you can put it off "until some other time." But were your car to stop working properly you would immediately consult an authority. Why treat your car better than your body? Which is worth more to you?

Let's all get busy and make health contagious in Canyon. Let's all quit "grumbling" and having the appearance of having the hook-worm. Let's breathe deeply and step out with "pep," heads up and a sparkle in our eye and we will soon have a growing, going, healthy, happy and harmonious little city.

This is a little plain talk to you, trying to cause you to think a little more about health and what health can mean to you.

I am a mechanic of the human body, not a physician.

If you decide that you need the services and knowledge of Massotherapy, Dietetics, Scientific Physical Culture or Health Efficiency, consult someone who is an authority in these lines.

Sincerely yours for health and success,

H. ACKLEY BROWN,
Massotherapist.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

not be interpreted on a physical basis, that it can be understood only as he gains a metaphysical or spiritual viewpoint. To him Mrs. Eddy makes it entirely clear that material existence is not real existence; that matter is not what it seems to be, and that he cannot safely trust the evidence of physical senses. Her writings lead thought into the realm of the immaterial and divine, they show us that we must look beyond physics into metaphysics for causation and truth. The world is now beginning to respond to this demand. Inquiry into the mental nature of things is becoming more general, and the call is for an intelligent interpretation of experience, of physical phenomena, and of the nature of the human consciousness. Many of the points for which Mrs. Eddy contended are today finding corroboration as a result of the advance in physical science and in psychology.

Christian Science heals through the operation of divine law, the law whose Principle is infinite Spirit, Life, and Love, and anyone who will apply this law of God exactly and honestly can heal himself and others through Christian Science.

Mrs. Eddy and Her Revealed Word
Mrs. Eddy's one objective through many years was to know God, to find the infinite source of good, to understand the true nature of being, that healing might come to burden-bearing humanity. Her single-mindedness, untempted by the world, undismayed by the weakness of the flesh, undaunted by the enmity of evil, held her true to her ideal and brought her to the longed-for goal, the demonstrable working understanding of the Christ-method, with unmistakable signs, following.

Her human consciousness allied to God by simple goodness, perceived divine reality, the nature of spiritual being, and this vision of perfect God and perfect man made Mrs. Eddy the discoverer of the hitherto unknown Science underlying all existence.

This "divine event" in the eternal, unbroken plan of salvation, is perpetually maintained and sustained by scientific rule and procedure, by which, through half a century of practice and proof, the fact has been established that Mrs. Eddy is also the founder of Christian Science. The marvel of these modern times is not the phenomenal rapidity and variety of material development, but the spiritual appearing to the transparent thought of one pure minded woman, of the Christ Truth, revealing the universe of infinite Mind and its ever-present reflection.

This revelation coming not through human reason and contradicting human experience and knowledge, is yet so irresistible in its appeal and so glorious in its effects that its written statement in Mrs. Eddy's book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, readily reaches and convinces those who hunger and thirst for better things.

Recognizing Mrs. Eddy as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science—and that the revelation came to her because of her preparedness, Christian Scientists earnestly strive to become acquainted with her teachings as she has given them in her writings. They study them very carefully in order to obtain her own interpretation from her own words, and thereby avoid the danger of misinterpretation.

Efficient Prayer
The spiritual thought which apprehends divine Truth clearly, communes with God, or divine Principle, Love, and this communion is true Christian Science prayer. This prayer recognizes the falsity of evil human sense, and includes the deep, earnest, conscientious desire to know God and do His will; it rests upon the absolute conviction of the power of perfect Principle and the forever operation of the immutable divine law, the of Spirit, not of matter; it involves absolute dependence upon Him for all that is good and right, recognition of His supremacy, the acknowledgment of Him in all our ways, and the exercise of perfect trust in Him, together with a clear understanding of the character and mission of Christ Jesus and obedience to his teachings. This is what St. James calls "the prayer of faith" which shall save the sick and which Mrs. Eddy explains in her masterly elucidation of prayer in Chapter One of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

In this book she writes:
"Only through radical reliance on Truth can scientific healing power be realized." (Page 167.)

A mixed thought, or one in which the real and unreal, the spiritual and the material, the divine and the human, are not accurately differentiated, does not reflect spiritual truth clearly, for Truth is Spirit, and Spirit is reflected only by knowing Truth.

Indeed, Christian Science teaches that the recognition of the evil thought or mental cause which is back of a disease or disturbance, is an essential factor in successful and instantaneous healing. Disease may possibly be due sometimes to purely material causes, so-called, either chemical or mechanical, but more frequently disease is due to the indulgence of sin or evil thought, or to belief of malicious arguments. In such a case, when the evil is detected and cast out, the sufferer is healed of the effects of the indulgence in wrong thoughts or acts, and is protected from hypnotic influence.

Thus we see why Christian Science is truly the Science of right living. It involves the knowing of divine Truth and the Principle of correct living, it recognizes the deceptive character of evil which is the cause of wrong living, and through the operation of divine law, it makes the healing of this evil tendency possible. It not only heals sin but it uplifts thought to higher ideals by revealing the true nature of God and the real man, thus inspiring a stronger sense of right, of honesty, of justice, of purity, of spirituality. It enriches human nature, develops and enlarges its latent capacities for good, enables character, establishes moral and physical health, incites a true love for God and man, and bestows the blessing resulting from Christian living.

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think of these things." (Phil. 4:8.)

Skin Sufferers Do Not Want Mere Temporary Relief

Of course, if you are content to have only temporary relief from the terrifying itching and burning of fiery, flaming skin diseases, then you are satisfied to remain a slave to ointments, lotions and other local remedies applied to the surface of the skin.
Real genuine relief from eczema, tetter, scaly eruptions or any other form of skin irritations cannot be expected until you free your blood of the germs which cause these disorders. And for this purpose there is no remedy that gives more satisfactory results than S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that goes down to the source of every blood disorder and routs out the germs which cause the trouble.
S.S.S. is sold by all druggists. Begin taking it today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice without charge. Address: Chief Medical Adviser, 155 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.
