

RUDOLPH GIVES OLD NEWSPAPERS TO COLLECTION

EARLY PUBLISHER ISSUED TEN PAPERS FROM ONE OFFICE

Historical Society Gets Valued Gift in Connection With History of Early Day.

C. F. Rudolph of Stratford has made a valuable gift to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society in the form of fifteen copies of early editions of newspapers which he published in the Panhandle country. Mr. Rudolph published the first newspaper in Amarillo, called "Amarillo Northwest." This paper was issued weekly, excepting for a short period when he published it daily. The paper was discontinued when Amarillo moved location, and Mr. Rudolph moved back to a location near where Channing now stands. It was there that Mr. Rudolph published ten weekly newspapers, his office being in a dug-out ten miles from town. With the exception of the Hartley County paper, these papers were published only when there was legal notices to be run, and about the only difference in the papers of the different counties was the heading of the papers.

The following papers were issued from this one office: Hansford County News, Ochiltree County News, Dimmit Weekly Signal, Texline Weekly Topics, LaPlata Weekly Star (Deaf Smith County), Mobeetie Panhandle, Tascosa Pioneer, Hartley County Citizen, Sherman County Citizen, and Dumas Weekly Headlight.

In the early days Mr. Rudolph was one of the best known publishers in Texas, but has not been connected with the newspaper game of late years. While publishing the Amarillo paper, he also published a weekly newspaper at Tascosa and Texline.

In looking over these early issues, the names of L. G. Conner, "founder of the new town of Canyon City," and Henry Shuebarger, "dairyman of Canyon City," is often seen.

We find the following Official Directory of Randall County published in the Amarillo Northwest on Nov. 6, 1889:

Judge—M. M. McGee.
Clerk—W. F. Heller.
Sheriff—Sam Wise.
Assessor—J. T. Atkinson.
Treasurer—Alex George.
Commissioners—W. C. Baird, F. P. Varner, W. Roper, M. V. Kinney.
Justice—Precinct No. 1, J. W. Turner; No. 2, J. W. Davidson.
Constable—No. 1, A. Gage.
Mr. Rudolph is well known in Canyon. He is the father of Mrs. Dan K. Casey and Miss Esther Rudolph, a teacher in the public schools.

W. L. GARNER IMPROVING

Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Winstead were in Plainview Tuesday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Garner, and report that Mr. Garner is improving very nicely from his recent operation. He was able to leave the hospital Tuesday, and at supper time went to the table to eat his meal. This is the first time he has been able to sit at the table for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Garner hope to come back to their home in Canyon about the first of next week. Mr. and Mrs. Mack Garner, who have been in Plainview since Mr. Garner was taken ill will also return home at that time.

VACATION PERIOD ENDING

The schools of the city will open again next week. The Normal will open the winter quarter on Monday. The public schools open Tuesday morning.

Ford Steering Device Made by Kuehn is Attracting Attention

W. W. Kuehn recently procured the patent upon a steering device which is especially adapted for use on the Ford car but which may be applied to many other make of cars.

Mr. Kuehn has a model of the device which he has shown to numbers of automobile men passing thru the city, and all agree that it will be of great benefit to cars in general and to the Ford in particular.

Mr. Kuehn has been asked to put a price upon his patent, and has been considering the same. Yesterday he made a trip to Cleburne to show his device to parties interested.

TWO TURKEYS MORE VALUABLE 5000 LBS. MAIZE

TURKEYS PROVE HIGHLY PROFITABLE THIS YEAR.

Woman Receives $17.30 for Fowls, Which is Same Price 5000 Pounds Maize Heads.

A very interesting comparison of the price of turkeys and maize heads was brought to light a few days ago, when turkeys were selling above 35c a pound and maize heads at $7.50 a ton.

A woman from the country brought in two turkeys which she sold for $17.30 cash. That day maize heads were selling around $7.50 a ton, hence she got as much for the two turkeys as a farmer would have gotten for nearly 5,000 pounds of maize heads.

The turkeys were raised about the farm, and doubtless were not very much trouble, nor did the feed on which they were raised cost but a few cents. The farmer who raised the maize had to plow the land, plant the seed, cultivate the crop, cut the heads, and bring it to town—all of which is hard work. The woman had very little invested in the turkeys or in the house where her fowls roost; the farmer has thousands of dollars invested in the farm and the machinery with which he farms. The woman brought the turkeys to town in an automobile, quickly and with little trouble; the average load of maize heads we are told weighs about 1800 pounds, hence the farmer had to haul the three big wagon loads of maize heads to town, taking him and his team maybe three days to do so, to get the same amount of money the woman did for the two turkeys.

The raising of turkeys and chickens on the Plains is due to become a great industry, for there is more clear money in the poultry business than there is in row crops and wheat. The farmers are becoming more and more interested in poultry, and though nearly one hundred solid carloads of chickens turkeys and eggs have been shipped out of Plainview this year, the industry is in its infancy, and in a few years we predict will amount to one thousand cars a year. A county in California, not nearly so well adapted to the growing of poultry, as is the Plains, last year shipped $16,000,000 worth.—Plainview News.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION.

While at the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Texas in Waco recently, O. W. Gano took the examinations for instructor in the work of the Blue Lodge, and has received his certificate. He will hold a school of instruction every night next week for the benefit of lodge members in Canyon.

Mr. Gano states his certificate is good for one year. He must stand another examination next year, and if he passes will get another certificate good for one more year. Two years hence upon passing the board of examiners, a certificate good for three years will be issued. So far as known Mr. Gano is the second man in Canyon who has ever been issued a certificate, and the only man now living in the city who holds one.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED.

The following licenses to marry were issued this week by County Clerk O. W. Gano:

Curtis Parker Robertson and Miss Murlee Lois Springer, Dec. 22

John C. Dowd and Miss Ida May Rowan, Dec. 23.

Clyde E. Bray and Miss Marguerite Dillon, Dec. 23.

John Henry Jones and Miss Gladys Puckett, Dec. 23.

Work was started yesterday upon a new brick building which will be erected on the north side of the public square on the lot between the S. V. Wirt building and the L. G. Conner office building.

Spencer Long and Paul Malcolm of Silverton are the owners of the new brick house. They have leased the lot from L. T. Lester for a term of two years, provision being made in the lease that at the end of contract term the building shall be removed by the lessors.

The building will be 14x24 feet, and will be used for a new eating house which these young men will open up on the completion of the building.

Commercial League Luncheon Will Be Held Next Tuesday

The weekly luncheon of the Commercial League was not held this week owing to the rush of inventory time in most of the business houses.

The luncheon will be held next Tuesday at noon at the Canyon Cafe, and Prof. L. G. Allen will be the leader for the program.

There was great interest among ten little girls who took a great part in the contest given by the Thompson Hardware Company for the five prizes offered in the popular voting contest. The contest closed at noon Saturday and the winners announced late in the afternoon.

Iona Pearl McClure won the first place, a little Majestic range, Danny Mac Stewart second, Winnie Hicks third, Henrietta Mae Flesher fourth, Bessie Pite, fifth.

Iona Pearl has invited the ten candidates for the stove to her home Saturday morning at ten o'clock and the little girls will cook their dinner on the stove.

HAMILL BUILDING HOME.

Work was started Saturday on a new six room home for A. W. Hamill on lots north of the Keiser office.

What shall we write on the fair new page called 1922? Can we not make it a record of golden deeds?

CANYON ENJOYS GREAT CHRISTMAS GOOD PROGRAMS

WARMEST CHRISTMAS WEATHER SEEN IN YEARS.

All of Churches of City Have Very Fine Programs of Children of Church and Sunday School.

The people of Canyon enjoyed one of the prettiest Christmas days this country has seen for many years.

On Christmas Eve programs were given by all of the Churches, which were very largely attended, and the programs exceptionally given by the children.

Sunday morning all of the pastors of the city preached appropriate Christmas sermons.

The business houses of Canyon report that business during the Christmas season was better than they had expected.

TAXES COMING SLOW.

Tax Collector W. C. Black states that taxes have been coming pretty slowly this year. There is only a month left for tax paying time, and Mr. Black is getting ready for a grand rush which usually takes place about the last week or so of tax paying time. He will establish collection offices in the assessor's office where there is more room for the people to circulate in the last grand rush which will likely be the case this year.

Golfers of Canyon Getting Down Their Scores; Enjoy Games

The Canyon Golf course has been put in first class condition, and a large number of players are out every day to enjoy the play. The green have been well oiled and sanded until it is said there are no better in this section of the country.

Far on the local course is set at 36. Wallace R. Clark, dean of the golf gang, has the lowest score on the course, having chalked up 38. Yesterday afternoon T. V. Reeves got away with a 40 and had to buy a new hat, two sizes larger. Several other locals are trimming down their score wonderfully during this excellent playing weather.

Local enthusiasts join Chick Evans in his Christmas greeting to the Scotch for giving us such a fine game.

Officers After Men Who Butchered One of Harrell's Steers

The carcass and front quarter of a fine three-year old steer was found Friday on the E. D. Harrell ranch in Armstrong county, and the officers are on the lookout for the guilty parties who butchered the steer.

The steer was killed in the canyons on the Armstrong county side, and indications are that the party left the canyon, coming out on the Randall county side.

Sheriff W. C. Black stated yesterday that so far no clue had been found which would lead to the arrest of the guilty parties.

Randall County Farmers to Join Texas Farm Bureau

Randall county farmers will meet at the court house in Canyon Monday afternoon, January 2, at 1 o'clock to organize the Randall County Farm Bureau. Lee Satterwhite of Amarillo will explain the farm bureau and farmers' co-operative commodity marketing associations. Delegates will be elected to the Second Annual Convention of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, which meets in Dallas, Jan. 5, 6, and 7. A. B. Haynes went to Amarillo Wednesday where he went to make arrangements with D. P. McCallib, Panhandle-Plains supervisor of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation for the fullest co-operation in the securing of members of the Randall County unit of the farm bureau.

Mr. Haynes was appointed chairman of the county organization committee to fill the place of Hugo Skarke, upon the recommendation of Mr. Skarke and other farmers.

TEA FOR DALLAS VISITORS

Misses Elsa and Erna Guenther are home from their school work in Dallas and has as their guests during the holidays Misses Joy and Beller, teachers in the Dallas schools, whose homes are in Chicago. Misses Guenther gave a very pleasant tea, yesterday afternoon, honoring their guests. Misses May, Iris and Gene Guestavus and Armine Park of Amarillo were out of town guests.

The hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Guenther, with Misses Anadale and Elizabeth Shaw assisting in the dining room, while Mrs. Shirley and Mrs. Morelock poured tea.

CAPONS PAY HIGHLY

On the St. Louis market Dec. 26 one capon weighing 10 pounds sold at 39c or $3.90; one ten pound rooster brought 12c, or $1.20.

There was a net profit of $2.70 by caponizing.

The commission firms of the big cities are spending considerable money sending literature to poultry raisers, urging them to caponize during the coming year.

The commission men give the above profit of $2.70 in a capon above the rooster as a fair example as to what is taking place every day on the markets of the big cities.

It seems that the crime wave is almost unprecedented, until we think back over the record of last year and the year before. We realize then that there has always been a crime wave during the winter months and will probably always continue to be one. A crime wave comes naturally as does the tidal wave. The crime wave of this year is being met with a stronger determination on the part of the public that such horrible crimes be kept at a minimum. The public generally is getting more and more behind the peace officers and demanding that crime be extinguished. Just in proportion as the people are behind the peace officers will we see this annual crime wave checked. Not more than one in ten men will witness a petty crime and report the same to the officers. Petty criminals soon grow into perpetrators of the greater crimes. The News has criticized the Klu Klux Klan on the general principle of the organization. However we are willing to admit that if the Klan will arouse in the communities in which they operate a proper respect for the law, and a willingness on the part of the individual members of the Klan to openly respect and assist and sustain the law as they are now seemingly willing to assist in enforcing with the masks on, the Klan will result in good. If the members, in removing their masks, return to the role of the ordinary citizen who take no part in law enforcement little permanent good may be expected from the organization.

We believe that the dawn of 1922 will see the business man in a more secure position than twelve months ago when 1921 made its advent. Every business man has lost money during the past year on account of being stocked with high priced goods, and with a continued decline in prices. The loss in stock will be wiped out by the inventory of this week. The business firm will know what it is really worth. Its stock will be secure. A year ago it was different. No one knew whence we were going, but pretty sure we would go a long way in the direction the trend of affairs have carried us during 1921. Money is easier in the east. More factories are running today than even six months ago. People are buying what they have to have and no more. Every business man may base his business of the next six or eight months upon the record of the past six months and feel pretty sure about it. 1922 will be kinder to business interests than was 1921. No one need have any fear to the contrary.

While taking an inventory of your stocks, and looking over your losses or gains through the past year, just turn the searchlight upon yourself for at least thirty whole seconds and see how the New Year is going to find you as a man. Most of get better during the period of depression, and therefore the whole gang of us ought to be pretty good fellows. When flush times come along the most of us generally loose our heads and go to the dogs, but now that we have had a year in which to sober up, a little self-examination is in order. Look yourself over. Ask the old boy in the mirror if he is a better scout than he was twelve short but eventful months ago. Chances are the face in the mirror will not answer, and if he does, he will try to evade the questions, but it may give him something to think about, and he may make some New Year resolutions which will last for a few days.

The News is a great believer in football, and enjoys nothing more than a clean game of this sport. The football season ends with Thanksgiving. We cannot stir up any interest in games played after that date. We believe it a bad thing for any game to be pushed out of season. College and high school authorities should put a stop to this practice.

Pay your automobile license and get a 1922 seal to display on your car on the first day of January or you are subject to a fine. The peace officers have been notified to make arrest of all drivers not displaying the 1922 seals on the first of January.

The tax payers of the Canyon Independent School District are to be congratulated upon their patriotic response in paying their taxes so readily this year in order to assist the board of trustees meet the monthly pay roll of teachers and other expenses without borrowing more money than was necessary at the beginning of the school term. Many independent school districts have steadily refused to borrow money to pay their teachers, and issue warrants which are payable when taxes are paid. The board of trustees of the Canyon school has never believed this to be a good policy and have always borrowed the money in order to pay the teachers every month. It is believed that by next pay day the amount of local taxes paid in will be sufficient pay off all indebtedness, and by that time the money from the state ought to be coming in regularly. The people of this district are proud of the public schools and wish for them the very best.

Those who have visited other sections of the U. S. during the past few months have come back telling us that the Panhandle was far ahead of all. Those who have returned in the past week tell the same story, only put it a little stronger. The older states put on a land boom during 1919 and 1920 which made the boom days of the Panhandle in 1906-1908 look like 30 cents. The older and more sedate the state, the bigger the boom. The bottom fell out of everything the land produced, the day the settlement was postponed, trusting that a better day would come, but instead of getting better conditions have grown worse, and now settlements must be made this spring. The Panhandle-Plains country is "setting pretty" so far as general conditions are concerned. Of course we have a lot of people pretty badly bent, but that is better than the whole bunch being absolutely broke, as is the case in most of the older states.

While the Klu Klux Klan is operating on the violators of the law, why not turn them loose on members of the legislature and demand that they make laws that will stand the test of the courts, and finally let them work over some of the judges who will set free the murderer simply because an "I" was not dotted or "t" crossed, or some other technicality just as absurd.

The women are objecting seriously to paying their poll taxes this year. No use to fuss at the tax collector for making you do it. It is the law of the state, passed by the legislature and signed by the governor. Besides it is a mighty good law and one Texas should have had ever since the poll tax receipt was made a passport to the polls.

Lee Satterwhite has discontinued the publication of his weekly stock and farm paper and has started to publish the "Texas Panhandle Journal," which will be published monthly. The first issue last week was a highly creditable journal, and the best wishes of the newspaper fraternity goes with Lee in his new venture.

According to Governor Neff one murderer out of every thousand gets to the pen. If you don't like your wife, kid, neighbor, or peace officer, it is almost safe to shoot them. Perhaps in a few years this unlucky thousandth victim will be fortunate enough to escape his unjust punishment.

Cattle are wintering wonderfully well. All of the prophesied blizzards have fortunately failed to show up. The fact that considerable trading has started among local cattle men is a pretty good indication that cattle are down to rock bottom prices. The War Corporation is helping finance the cow man, and will bring a much needed relief.

Marse Henry Watterson is dead. He is the last of the old time newspaper men who made a national reputation for himself, and was respected by his enemies and greatly beloved by his friends. His passing leaves a distinct gap in the newspaper column. No one could take his place.

Trot out your New Year resolutions. The first day of the new year being Sunday, you may be able to get by one day with them.

CHRISTMAS GIFT

Ho-hum! We have with us today a famous annual event called Christmas. A year ago, to the minute, we had one just like it. And for numerous centuries prior to that we had others, from time to time, bearing a distinct similarity to the one we have right now. This shows how old time is, how hard ancient customs are to break up. A year ago the world was in considerable of a stew and still is. But it hasn't boiled over, as was so generally predicted by our leading and most puissant prophets. Hardly a single one of the dreadful things that were so confidently foretold by our authoritative foretellers has justified in the event the promise of the seer. Nobody outside of a few Bolshevistic regions have starved to death, notwithstanding there were many of us a year ago who were making a good deal of pty for ourselves by commiserating our prospectively vacant abdominals. No nation has gone into bankruptcy, notwithstanding a year ago innumerable forelookers discerned in the heavens supposed manifestations of financial decay from bedlam to breakfast. Agriculture hasn't gone to rot in the compost heap. Labor hasn't opened the sea valves and gone down with the ship, singing the dead march from Saul. Capital hasn't buried its talent in a Government bond and hung its harp on the willow tree. The schools haven't closed, the stores still carry stocks, the railroads are functioning, the cotton market hasn't gone all to hell and the forces of law and order are staying put, even though some of them may be nodding at the switch. Santa Claus came again last night, visiting the just and the unjust. Children have been born meantime, since last Christmas, and their future is by no means as festooned with mildew as was expected by some of our advanced thinkers. If the rich have become any richer you would never guess it by their wails, and if the poor have become any poorer it doesn't show in their dress or weight. There are numbers of people out of work, a fearful and unprecedented condition, but most of them appear to be bearing up with admirable fortitude under their affliction. The Republican party hasn't been of any great harm to the country, as many of us timid ones feared. Nor has it been of any great help, as many of us knew darn well it wouldn't be. The Church has not been overturned, and the thunders and lightnings, leagued under the fiery gonfalon of the Jovian imbeciles at Moscow, haven't succeeded, as anybody knows of, in striking the scepter from the hands of God. The bonehead Mr. Lenin and the bugeyed Mr. Trotzky have so far failed to subject all creation to the dictatorship of the illiterate, but instead are content to see the country they betrayed to wallow in the rags of revolution and beg for bread of its neighbors. The Dutch have not followed a will-o'-the-wisp out of Holland; the Turks have not set the torch to Constantinople; the Hindus have not jettisoned the British Government; the Irish have not decided to turn the Emerald Isle into a guerrilla's nest; the Japanese haven't swallowed the Chinese or erected a barbed wire fence around the Pacific ocean. The aroma of turkey in the pan is rising from 10,000,000 American kitchens, love is looking into the eyes of love, and 20,000,000 babies are chirping over their new given toys. The world is the same old world it was a year ago, except a wee bit wiser. So go all the years, so come all the Christmases. The habits of civilization, the psychology of decency, the dictates of good sense are so firmly organized into the concepts of humankind that those who pretend to foresee chaos, and the insane few who goot over their hopes of it, are merely blowing bubbles in their own childish minds. Come to Texas!—State Press, Dallas News.

DON'T STOP

I found a little poem the other day, written about advertising but applicable to all kinds of business. The author is unknown, but he certainly had the right idea. It runs as follows: When someone stops advertising. Someone stops buying. When someone stops buying. Someone stops selling. When someone stops selling. Someone stops making. When someone stops making. Someone stops earning. When someone stops earning. Everybody stops buying. KEEP GOING! Denmark's kings have been called either Christian or Frederick for over 400 years. To relieve rheumatism, sprains, lame back, lumbago or plarisy, Ballard's Snow Liniment is a remedy of proven merit. It is very powerful and penetrating. Three sizes, 30c, 60c and $1.20 per bottle. THE ANGLING APE

"The angling ape of Java," said a naturalist, "has bushy white whiskers. He looks like a little old man."

"This fellow derives his name from his habit of angling for crabs with his tail. A comical sight it is to see him work. He sits down, and with a sad and anxious look, dangles his long tail in one of the seashore pools where crabs abound."

"He hasn't a great while to wait, as a rule, and, unlike some anglers, he always knows when he's got a bite. With a howl of pain he then whisks his tail, with the crab feeding on it busily, out of the water. He dashes the crab against a stone and breaks its shell. Then he begins his meal."

"But the angling ape's meal isn't one of unalloyed enjoyment, for every minute or so he has to pause and caress his lacerated tail and whine over it plaintively."

PESSIMIST

A bumptious young American farmer went to England to learn his business, but where he went he pretended that it was far easier to teach the farmers than to learn anything from them.

"I've got an idea," he said one day to a grizzled old Northumbrian agriculturist, "for a new kind of fertilizer which will be ten thousand times as effective as any that has ever been tried. Condensed fertilizer—that's what it is. Enough for an acre of ground would go in one of my waistcoat pockets."

"I don't doubt it, young gentleman," said the veteran of the soil. "What is more, you'll be able to put the crop into the other waistcoat pocket."

HARD TIMES

"I am glad President Harding is going after the price-fixing associations which keep the retail prices up, no matter how far the wholesale prices go down."

The speaker was Booth Tarkington. He went on:

"Really, you know, this profiteering has been very hard on the poor. The poor haven't tasted butter for years. They are using some very queer substitutes."

"I heard the other day of a poor woman—an author's wife I think she was—who had complained to a friend: retrenching. I sent for some ointment last Saturday, and they only gave me enough to last till Tuesday, and the children had to eat dry bread all the rest of the week"

PUCKETT-JONES WEDDING

A pretty romance which began some time ago in Canyon reached its happy culmination Christmas Day, with the marriage of Miss Gladys Josephine Puckett to John Henry Jones of Canyon.

The wedding which was preceded by many delightful pre-nuptial affairs took place at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Puckett, 1110 Washington Street.

An artistic arrangement of pink and white roses, ferns, and smilax in the ceremonial rooms formed a most fitting background for the happy occasion. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Fred Luke sang a vocal solo, "At Dawning," by Cadmann, and Lohengrin's Wedding march was played softly on the piano by Miss Gertrude Lowndes as the bride party made its appearance, the impressive ring ceremony being performed by Dr. H. W. Virgin, pastor of the First Baptist Church, beneath a green and white canopy fashioned of ferns, the graceful tendrils of smilax and touched here and there with sweet peas, while a large white wedding bell covered with a shower of white sweet peas was suspended from the center of the canopy, just above the heads of the young couple. Ferns and stately palms formed a pleasing background.

The bride was charming in a gown of white canton crepe, carrying an arm bouquet of bride's roses; while the bridesmaid, Miss Callie Puckett, sister of the bride, was prettily gowned in a ruffled organdy of apricot tint, carrying an arm bouquet of pink rose buds. Little Misses Martha Greening and Alice Gustavus, dressed in dainty pink and white butterfly frocks, were flower girls, and Ernest Reid of Canyon was best man.

Decorations appropriate to the holiday season were used in the dining room, where, during the informal reception following the wedding, delicious refreshments of pink and white cream fashioned in the shape of hearts and wedding cake were served to a large number of guests.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Jones, parents of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gamble of Canyon, were in attendance, as well as other guests from Canyon.

Following the reception the couple left for Fort Worth, where they will visit relatives and will later be at home to their friends at Canyon, where the groom is a prominent business man.

Mrs. Jones has been a resident of Amarillo for many years, having grown to young womanhood here, enjoying great popularity in the younger social circles of the city. After graduating from the Amarillo High School in 1919, she became a student of C. I. A. at Denton, and during the past year has been a student of West Texas State Normal College at Canyon.—Amarillo News.

She has been a student in the Normal since moving to Canyon. The groom came to Canyon from Turkey several months ago and has been employed at the Thompson Hardware Company. Miss Mabel Rowan, niece of the bride, played the wedding march. The bridal couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rowan.

Both of the contracting parties are well known in Canyon where they have made their home for a number of years. The bride is one of the most popular teachers who has ever taught in the Canyon public schools. She is a graduate of the high school and of the Normal and attended Baylor college. Tariff Sentiment Has Changed in Sections

From the very beginning of the government the tariff has been a political issue of such controlling power that large sections of the country have adhered to one party or the other according as they have favored free trade or protection. At the outset the strength of the protective system was in the Middle States, chiefly in Pennsylvania, where most of the industries were that called for tariff duties to insure them against foreign competition. At that time New England, which found its largest interest in shipping and the import trade, was opposed to high duties. That was before the cotton gin was invented and before there was much cotton growing in the South, which then favored rather than opposed protection.

The war of 1812 led to an increase of cotton spinning and other manufactures in New England, and after a contest between the shipping and the industrial interests public opinion turned strongly in favor of a high tariff and has continued to favor it except for brief intervals until now. The South believed that high duties hindered the free exportation of cotton and increased the cost of what it had to buy. From that time onward it has been almost solidly united in favor of the lowest duties. The importing interests of New York were also enlisted on the same side, and still oppose protection. But New York has become the greatest manufacturing state in the Union, and the importers do not control it politically.

During the long contest over slavery the Middle West was held to its allegiance to the Republican party, which always stood for protection but the issue of slavery, but after the Civil War put an end to that, there began about the year 1870 a considerable revolt against the system by Republican leaders of that region. Ohio, being a wool growing state, desired protection, but west of Ohio grain was the chief product, and there were few or no manufactures. The determined attacks made upon the system by many newspapers and politicians of the West seriously threatened it. The so-called "Liberal-Republican" movement in 1872 in opposition to General Grant was a manifestation of the revolt.

Unity was restored and the West was brought back to the support of protection only when shrewd politicians discovered that the way to do it was to extend the system to farm products. The policy was first carried into effect in the McKinley tariff. It was effective, for the farmers had been alarmed by the importation of great quantities of grain from Canada and of potatoes from Scotland. Ever since that time the farmers have been well cared for in every protective tariff act.

The Underwood Act, which followed the Aldrich Act, was not a protective measure. How it would have affected manufactures and farm products if there had been no war is only a guess, for the war, which put a stop to all foreign competition, was more effective than any tariff law could have been. Now that the war is over, the danger of competition looms up before the interests that have been accustomed to rely on tariff laws for their security, and in consequence there is a surprising change in tariff sentiment. The farmers, not only those of the West but some of the South are more anxious about the future than ever before and more determined to have protection for their products. At the same time they seem to have become indifferent to protection for their old allies, the manufacturers.

The situation shows that now, as always in the past, local interest determines the attitude of the majority of a community on the great tariff question. The West is displaying no more selfishness in its present attitude than every other region of the country has shown at times, or all the time. But the shifting of sentiment is an interesting matter for study.

THEY GO TOGETHER

FACT AND COMMENT

The faith that moves mountains is a firm belief in picks and shovels. If you want applause to greet your action, don't start it yourself.

Back we go again to the primitive ways of our ancestors. This time it is garlic that medical practice is seriously taking up as a cure for colds and even for influenza and tuberculosis. But garlic is a bit strong for refined modern taste; so it has been de-natured and disguised until it is hard to recognize its new name—trimethanal allylic carbide, or T. A. C. for short.

The business of the patent office has grown so large that the existing force cannot handle it. So many technical experts have resigned because the patent office pays such small salaries, and so many more applications for patents are filed now than formerly, that it takes nearly a year before an application can be even considered. Two years ago the number of applications was 62,000, but this year it will be more than 90,000, and there are now 55,000 awaiting action.

One invention leads to another. Efforts to make the phonograph keep time with motion pictures led to the film that talks, and of course the film that talks must be heard in all parts of the theatre; hence some mechanism for amplifying tone. But the principle of amplification, once discovered, had unexpected possibilities. The amplified sound could be amplified again and then again. Inventors now think that they can make speaking light-houses, that will shout a warning to ships sixty miles at sea.

When Ibsen makes one of his characters exclaim of the burning of her house, "It was the loss of the dolls that mattered," he touched one of the hard facts of life. It is often easier to bear with fortitude a catastrophe than to endure the loss of things that, though trivial, are intimate. To surround yourself with little happinesses is one of the great secrets of joyous living, and some of the most fruitful happinesses of all cost nothing; a friendly word, a smile, a generous thought; a trifling but kindly deed.

Comparable to the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena or the Mardi gras carnival at New Orleans is a municipal fête to be given at Oakland, California, in January: the Wild Duck Festival. In 1918 Oakland set aside money to feed a modest flock of ducks that annually found refuge in Lake Merritt, a small salt-water body in the heart of the city, and the number of duck visitors this year will exceed 100,000. Naturalists have not been able to learn how ducks bring other ducks, but it is known from marked birds that ducks once protected will return year after year to the same shores.

The Earl of Dulcie, who died in October, was the "father" of the House of Lords, having sat in that body since 1853, more than sixty-eight years. Although he was in his ninety-fifth year, he was not the oldest member of the upper House. Lord Halsbury is ninety-eight, but he has been in the House of Lords only since 1885. The Earl of Coventry became a peer in 1843, but as he was then only five years old he did not enter the House until 1859. The Earl of Dulcie was remarkable not only for his age but also as a member of a large family. He was the oldest of ten brothers and four sisters. His title now goes to one of the brothers, who is eighty-seven years old and who has two sons and seven daughters.

THE FOOL MISOGYNIST

Estes Sneedecor, president of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, said, at a luncheon in New York:

"I would not admit a misogynist to our great organization. Woman is the home builder, not the home destroyer, and any man who takes the latter view of her is a fool. No fool is worthy to be a Rotarian."

"I was talking to one of these fool misogynists the other day."

"There goes young Kall," I said. "He's got $40,000 a year, and yet he won't have anything to do with women."

"That," said the fool misogynist, "is why he has $40,000 a year."

TEMPER
Giving away to temper is an indulgence of the emotions that is nearly always undignified and unprofitable. Once in a while, when the provocation is great enough and the cause is important enough, an outburst of temper may be warranted—though on such occasions the display is likely to merit the name of indignation and to be a worthy and possibly even majestic display of feeling. Generally speaking, a person is likely to show temper frequently to members of his family and as seldom as possible to other people. A good New Year's resolution for nearly everyone would be to show temper within the bosom of the family as seldom as outside it.

Why are displays of temper within the family so common a failing? If ever people should naturally refrain from angry outbursts, quarrelsome utterances and vindictive sneers, it is when they are with those whom they most love. But in that presence they are likely to feel free to discharge emotions and thoughts that before other people they would be ashamed or afraid to express. They know that, no matter what they say or do, the family tie of affection won't break, and with that assurance they find a luxurious pleasure in abandoning self-control. Sometimes, with a curious perversity, they even take satisfaction in saying things that sting to the persons whom they would sacrifice themselves to protect from suffering. Invariably they find some plausible excuse—as that it was necessary to speak so to preserve discipline, or to correct a fault, or to resent unjust or selfish disregard of their wishes; but no explanation can justify the feeling of satisfaction that often accompanies a wounding display of bad temper. Some people are disposed to pride themselves on the fact that they sometimes lose their temper. They have an idea that a man with a temper is more efficient than a man without one; that he has energy, enthusiasm, motive power that the even-tempered man lacks; and with that idea in mind they are not averse even to cultivating their temper a little and letting it from time to time get the better of them. Such men are fond of citing great men who were notable for temper; they are glad to keep green the memory of historic instances when George Washington's self-control broke down. But are there any historic instances of Lincoln's losing his temper? He was as efficient in his way as Washington was in his. There are other ways of generating motive power than by waxing hot under the collar.

USELESS INNOVATION
Henry Ford said at a dinner in Dearborn:
"The American farmer is the most receptive man in the world if you approach him with practical ideas—tractors, say. If you approach him with ideas of no value, he's liable to be sarcastic."
"Friend," said a college professor to a farmer one summer day, "what are you feeding to those hogs?"
"Corn," said the farmer.
"Are you feeding the corn, friend, wet or dry?"
"Dry."
"Friend, friend, don't you know that if you wet the corn the hogs will digest it in half the time?"
The farmer laughed.
"Look here," he said, "how much do you think a hog's time is worth?"

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

It is as natural as breathing for a person, during these last days of 1921, to think of what he would like to do in 1922. He is the most hopeless pauper who does not hope to attain unto better things. He is the most abandoned egotist who does not see the need of self-improvement. He is shot through with cowardice who will not stiffen his backbone in the presence of these things and say, "I will."

If I know anything of the mission and hope of the Church, among other things, they are the mission and hope of helping mankind to reach these nobler goals and realizing these higher purposes.

The reason why these higher spiritual goals and purposes are murdered within us is because we expect them to grow in the wrong atmosphere. The flower will not reach its highest development of color and fragrance in a cellar. The "Cellar Life" is a dwarfed life.

Next Sunday is the first day of the New Year. Let us all find ourselves assembling together in the House of the Lord to pledge anew and more thoroughly our lives to Him in love, faith, worship, loyalty, and service.

The Presbyterian church extends to you a cordial invitation to worship with them.

TED. P. HOLIFIELD, Pastor.

Two Nurses Burned When Santa Claus Suits Catch Fire

Plainview, Dec. 27.—Misses Meester and Fullingim, nurses in a local sanitarium, were very painfully burned Christmas night when Santa Claus garments they were wearing caught fire. Dr. F. E. Owens and Marvin Garner sustained burns on the hands and arms in extinguishing the flames.

The two nurses were acting as Santa Claus at a tree prepared for children in the institution. The cotton trimming on one of their garments caught fire from a candle on the tree and in the excitement the garments of the other were ignited. Only the heroic work of Dr. Owens and Mr. Garner saved the lives of the two.

An American and an Englishman were discussing the merits of their respective parents.

"Ah," said the Yankee, "I guess my father was a clever man. He was a chimney-shaft builder, and made himself famous with the last shaft he erected."

"Oh, indeed!" remarked the Englishman, wondering.

"Sure thing," continued the American. "It was so high that when the weather-vane got stuck, the man who went up to put it right had to take a week's rations for the journey."

"Oh, ho!" laughed the Englishman, "that's nothing. My father also was a shaft builder, and the last one he built was so high that he had to go up every night and take the top off to let the moon go by."
