

Attending a journalism congress at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene last Friday, where a learned and travelled patriot was to appear on the program and the News Review editor served as chauffeur and bodyguard, we were impressed with the earnestness and genuine interest displayed on the part of students of journalism from the various colleges of the Southwest. These youngsters, along with some of their elders who have been running newspapers the hard way, were treated to short talks from the voices of experience; along with lengthy treatises from representatives of the big dailies who plan their work months and years ahead of time, and in their sales efforts are fortified with maps and charts and surveys and all kinds of material which "country" newspapermen have always looked upon as knickknacks, gimcracks and clatter. Opinions of seasoned weekly newspaper operators are subject to change, however, when they contemplate the inroads made upon their advertising revenue through being outbid by the larger dailies and magazines.

Aside from a threesome treatise which simulated a cross between a chamber of commerce pep talk and a sales campaign on ladies' hats heard from one visiting gentleman from a North Texas metropolitan center, most of the program was timely and worthwhile. And maybe that was, too, even if it bored us.

At Abilene we ran across M. S. (Doc) Sellers, pilot of the Rising Star Record, and his son, Wayne, from Austin, who always keep their eyes and ears open for new angles on the racket, at the same time lending an assisting hand to those who may call upon them for aid.

Doc invited us to come out to the Rising Star Golf tournament next month, stating that a lot of work had been done on their new grass-green course. This reminded us of an incident last Fall, when a party from Hico played a round of golf at Rising Star before witnessing the football game between the high school team from that town and Hico's finest.

Herbert Sellers, veteran representative of banking and golfing circles of this section, was having a tough day with his driver. We had already asked him if he was related to the Rising Star Sellers but had not been sufficiently enlightened. The latter gentleman put in his appearance about that time, minus his clubs, and excusing himself from the match by saying he just wanted to walk around with us. Nothing was said about any kink arrangements between the two gentlemen of the same name as long as Herbert was wrestling with his woods. But after a hole or two more of play, he managed to get them under control. The entire foursome immediately noticed that Doc brightened up, began walking closer to Herbert, and the next part of the conversation we overheard was a comparison of notes on which state each came from.

After two holes played in par, with a birdie sandwiched in, the Hicoan was being addressed as "Cousin Herbert" by his fairway (and, we fear, fair-weather) companion.

Returning home we came by Coleman to visit Publisher H. H. Jackson, who has recently returned from Temple where he had made, and initiated a conservation and reforestation project on his vital at the insistence of the learned medicos called into consultation after a pronounced and protracted tummy ailment.

Also present was the indefatigable and ubiquitous Harry Schwenker, who hastened from Brady to Jackson's office promptly upon receipt of a wire. "Meet us in Coleman six o'clock or suffer dire consequences"—sent collect from Abilene.

Marketing Quotas For Peanuts In 1941 To Be Set Soon

Hamilton County peanut farmers will vote on Saturday, April 26, in a referendum to determine whether they will market their 1941 crop under marketing quotas, according to E. H. Couch, chairman of the county AAA committee for peanuts.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard proclaimed marketing quotas for peanuts this week after Congress had provided for such action in a recent amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. If approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in the county referendum, quotas will be in effect for three years.

The national marketing quota is the amount of peanuts which will be harvested from the national acreage allotment, set by law at 1,510,000 acres. This is the same as the 1940 peanut allotment under the agricultural conservation program, which will be continued in 1941. Under the quota, a farmer who plants within his peanut acreage allotment may market all he produces without penalty. Peanuts marketed in excess of the farm marketing quota are subject to a penalty of three cents per pound.

However, payment of the penalty is not required if the excess peanuts are delivered to an agency designated for handling excess peanuts. In this case, the farmer receives for his excess peanuts the price for oil, which usually is considerably lower than the market price for edible peanuts.

Only those peanuts which are picked and threshed by mechanical means are subject to marketing quotas. This means that peanuts hogged off or dug for hay do not come under quotas. Also, quotas do not apply to farms on which the measured peanut acreage is one acre or less.

The act requires that if quotas are not approved in the referendum, no peanut loan or diversion program can be offered on the 1941 crop. If quotas are approved in the referendum, farmers are assured of a loan or diversion program, or both, as a means of protecting peanut prices. The loan rate would be between 50 and 75 per cent of parity.

A preliminary report gives the 1940 peanut acreage picked and threshed by mechanical means as 1,907,000 acres, from which the production was 1,611,634,000 pounds. In 1935 this acreage was 1,473,000, and the production was 1,147,225,000 pounds.

War Department Increases Quota For Training of Pilots

A telegram has been received by Staff Sgt. Elton B. Brooks at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Waco, from the War Department advising of an increase from 12,000 pilots annually to 30,000 annually. Requirements are: Age, between 20 and 27 years, unmarried, excellent physical condition, and two or more years at a recognized college or university, or the equivalent.

The army is also anxious to secure a large number of high school graduates for the ground service of the Air Corps. Promotions are fast in this branch of the service, which is being expanded at a rapid rate.

Enlisted men have an opportunity to learn some of the following trades: (a) Airplane mechanics, machinists, welders, parachute riggers, radio mechanic and operators, wire communications, meteorological, photographic, surveying, aerial mapping, and drafting.

Action, Thrills and Spills Promised Rodeo Enthusiasts

Stark, rivaling Hell's Angel's ability, turns a victory over Frank Finley, of Phoenix, Arizona, The Lightning C stock which appears at Madison Square Garden will be used at the World's Championship Rodeo in Dublin, April 25, 26, and 27.

April Rains Swell Small Streams; Spread Bosque With Negligible Damage

Hail and High Water Reported From Various Sections Of Community

Almost on the anniversary of its big rampage, which occurred on April 17, 1938, "Old Man River" burst out of its banks Tuesday night and by midnight was tying up all traffic at the Bosque bridge near the roller mill, tearing up fences up and down its course, removing debris ranging in size from twigs to huge tree trunks, and threatening loss of stock in lowlands. However, residents of the farms along the river, accustomed to the quirks and idiosyncracies of the usually passive and apparently peaceful stream, beat it to the draw and after working feverishly for several hours, managed to confine loss and damage to a minimum.

Quite a lot of gravel was removed from the site of the washer belonging to Dean Word Construction Company, set up in the narrow field south of the river where the new bridge is under construction, but with an all-out order for the workers serious loss or setback of the work was averted, according to officials interviewed.

Service on the Waco-Rotan branch of the M-K-T was interrupted, and one whole day's schedule was lost. Tuesday night's train was forced to turn around and return to Dublin and northward on the Wednesday schedule, and no train came up from Waco Wednesday. H. Smith, local Kato agent, said his reports were that water was four feet over the tracks at a point near Green's Creek. Mail was re-routed, according to Postmaster Jimmie L. Holford, and although delayed to some extent, was all cared for in the best manner possible under the conditions.

Scattered hail was reported from outlying sections, some of it of such proportions as to damage crops, but this was spotted. Shorty Warren, Bowen bus driver, reported that all small streams were swollen between Stephenville and the Hamilton County line, and that on a trip from Fort Worth Tuesday afternoon late, hail fell on one side of the road while the sun was shining on the other.

Newcomers who have been disposed to doubt the stories current at this time of the year about high water of the past, were made to believe there might be something to them after witnessing the rapid rise and spread of the Bosque waters. By morning the stream was falling, and at noon it presented its usual placid appearance, minus the stench it always picks up and scatters during a flash rise.

L. A. Powledge, who annually reports the date of the anniversary of the big overflow in 1938, maintains that this was the biggest that ever happened in Hico. He says that water ran three feet over the railroad track in his field, and that 22 houses were washed out of the town. Other long-time residents recall a number of interesting stories about various floods of the past, which have not been approached in recent years, even during the big rise of 1918, when water came several blocks up Mill Street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Sellers will return home today after spending the past two weeks in Fort Stockton with their daughter, Mrs. H. Tracy Jr., and family. While they were there they helped to celebrate with little H. H. "Tony" Tracy III, on his first birthday. They will be accompanied home by Mrs. H. H. Tracy Jr. and Tony for a visit here.

MINERAL WELLS HOTEL GOES MILITARY!

Mineral Wells, Tex., April 15 (Special).—When Brigadier-General Hood Simpson, commanding officer of Camp Wolters, moved into an apartment in the Baker Hotel here, Mineral Wells' top hostelry went military in a big way. Guest-generals of the Baker are now honored by having a flag flown from the Baker's mast, denoting the rank of the new officer-guest.

The new and unique custom of the Baker likely will be followed by other large hotels in cities where there's an army camp. A general rates flags as follows: If a Brigadier-General registers, a flag with one star is flown; a Major-General rates a flag with two stars, and a Lieutenant-General's flag has three stars. Before the four-star flag could be flown, however, the officer would have to be a full-fledged General like Pershing or Marshall.

ATTENDS BAR MEETING

E. H. Persons, local attorney, was in Hamilton Wednesday to attend the regular monthly meeting of the district bar association, sessions of which were held throughout the day. Fifteen lawyers were present, according to Mr. Persons, representing the legal fraternity in Hamilton, Coryell and Comanche Counties.

Luncheon was served the guests at noon at a Hamilton Cafe, after which the gathering assembled again in the district court room of the court house where the members heard the address from the Honorable Joe Hale, president of the McLennan County Bar Association and also associate justice of the 10th Court of Civil Appeals at Waco.

TEN-DAY SALE OF TIRES

Grady Hooper, local Gulf agent and dealer for Goodyear tires in this territory, has announced a special ten-day sale of Goodyear products. On page 3 of this paper will be found details of the sale, which will run until next week end.

Hooper, a firm believer in advertising, says he had completed arrangements with the Goodyear company to participate in the Spring advertising campaign, and will have special messages from time to time during the next few weeks.

Hico Invited To Dublin Rodeo, April 25, 26, 27th

The spirit of the Old West was revived Tuesday when fifty-two cowboys and cowgirls from Dublin invaded Hico and invited our city to the Hico's Championship Rodeo.

The delegates arrived at 8:10 a. m. and a cowboy orchestra led by Benny Thompson entertained the crowd as the gaily dressed good will trippers passed out folders and souvenirs.

Plenty of thrills, spills and action is promised at the World's Championship Rodeo in Dublin April 25, 26, and 27, in the largest outdoor arena in the Southwest. Everett Colburn's World Championship Rodeo Stock will be rounded up and brought in from the Lightning C Ranch thirteen miles from Dublin. The Lightning C, operated by the World's Championship Rodeo Corporation which supplies stock to the Boston Garden and Madison Square Garden Rodeos, is the largest ranch in the world devoted exclusively to rodeo stock, brahma bulls, bucking horses, brahma cows and calves, Mexican steers, and longhorn cattle.

The Texas Legislature unanimously passed a resolution last week setting aside April 25, 26, and 27 as "Pioneer Days of Texas" in recognition of the revival of the spirit, folklore and sport of the pioneer cattlemen of Texas. These dates were selected because of the Dublin rodeo, which were endorsed by the state representatives as the dates on which the roughest, toughest rodeo stock performs in practically their native surroundings.

Mayor Lawrence Lane of Hico has been invited to attend the rodeo Friday night and to ride in the parade before the first performance in recognition of Mayor's Day at the rodeo. Other performances will be held Saturday afternoon and night, and Sunday afternoon.

Early Letting of Contract on New Road Is Forecast

Shorter Route North by Way of Chalk Mountain Receives Final Blessing

After unceasing and interminable efforts on the part of scores of local citizens over the past quarter century, news was released this week which indicates that the Chalk Mountain Road has been given the official blessing of the State Highway Commission, final authority in road building matters.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram Tuesday morning carried a story released by E. C. Woodward, district engineer of the State Highway Department, in whose district the major portion of the prospective road lies, to the effect that contract would be let in July. Woodward made this announcement in connection with the news that other contracts would be awarded within the next three months on three projects which were included in the three-year street and highway improvement program promulgated last August by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

Scheduled for contract letting in July, according to Woodward, is 12 miles on Highway 228 between Chalk Mountain and Hico, for which $286,900 has been earmarked. The construction will provide a long-sought direct route between Fort Worth and Hico. Woodward also said that $310,000 has been set aside for a new bridge across the Brazos River between Cleburne and Glen Rose on United States 67, and for grading and paving approaches to the crossing.

After a series of setbacks from one reason or another, possibility of finally securing the long-sought Chalk Mountain road was increased a few years ago when the State Highway Department gave it an official designation as 220. Tireless efforts on the part of local groups and individuals, joined by interested parties along other highways leading into Hico, have resulted in working out right-of-way matters and other bothersome details which for a time seemed almost insurmountable.

Mayor Lawrence Lane and M. E. Waldrop were in Stephenville the first of the week following a meeting of the Erath County Commissioners Court, and were advised by County Judge Wallace Scott that final arrangements had been made for handling the financing of the warrants or bonds to pay for the right-of-way through that county.

At first it was stated that these would have to be handled locally and efforts were on foot to dispose of them as quickly as possible. However, the Hico parties were advised later that arrangements had been made with a Dallas bond firm to take them up, and that everything was in shape now for early completion of the right-of-way through Erath County.

Hamilton County Judge J. B. Pool and R. W. Hancock, commissioner of Precinct 3, have definitely stated that they would rush provision of all necessary right-of-way in this county, and are making plans to carry out this promise at once, according to Mr. Lane, who also conferred with Judge Pool this week.

With contract already let on completion of the gap in U. S. Highway 281 to Dean Word Construction Company, and actual work on this 8-mile section between Hico and Olin under way, news of the early letting of a contract on the road north comes as a distinct relief to the local people and the traveling public in general who have waited patiently for realization of their dream of an adequate system of paved highways through this section.

State Calls 1,000 Trainees

A call for 1,000 trainees with the quotas local boards must supply was issued Wednesday by General Page, selective service director. The trainees, all white, will be inducted May 5, 6, 7 and 8. It was the army's twelfth call on Texas. The first trainees were inducted last November, and the total now stands at 23,585. According to War Department plans, approximately 8,800 additional men will be inducted before July 1 to complete Texas' quota for the year. Board 1 of Harris county (Houston) was asked to supply 12 men, the largest quota for any board.

Stay on your side of the road! The Texas Safety Association reports that 13 per cent of fatal accidents in the rural areas of the nation occur from the vehicle being on the wrong side of the road.

WHAT-NOTS

It does seem such a long time since I have written any news of any importance, doesn't it? Well, today I think that I will try to give the readers of the "Mirror" a few ideas of my own. Now, I don't know if they will be of any interest to you or not.

After the services at the various churches and over the radio Easter Sunday, we still find ourselves thinking about the very beautiful things that our Bible teaches us. During our age we have a great many things to think of, don't we? In a few years the persons that we now call kids at school will be the adult life in this dear old world. Unless the pupils now attending school ever realize the importance of their birth in this dear old world, we know that they will someday be waked up and find that they have been asleep for a long time. In such a large, small world that we now live in, it is very difficult for us to just really understand what we should or what we meant to do maybe for ourselves or perhaps for some other person or persons. Every person has some reason to be living in the world or he would no longer live. He may be a missionary, a singer, an actor, an aviator, a doctor, a minister, a laborer, a teacher of any kind, or just most any other thing that there is to be done daily. We may not realize the important things that we do from day to day. Even if we say some important thing or repeat some deed or maybe do some small deed or just walk in the walk of life, we usually affect some person. We may even teach some small child to be a very good person or teach him the way to go in the world just by giving our opinion on something that he has done or is going to do. I think that a very important thing that we must do before our duty is ever done is to do some deed in favor of our Lord or for our religious faith. Some people really do stop and think of the things that they do from day to day. You can easily tell if he realizes what he has done by the way he talks about the things he does or what he should have done that day.

Usually a problem of the youth of today is the decision that is often left up to them. Often after the decision is made we find that our decision is wrong. This always teaches a person who often thinks more than he is ever expected to have learned just by a person who once told him not to do such a thing or that he thought it was all right to do such. Do you ever remember a time when you had to make a decision for yourself? Were you sorry of the past? Would you do it again? How much did you learn? When did you realize that you were wrong? How did you relieve the fact that you would be better off if you had never lived that moment exactly in that way? Every time we do anything, some one knows about it. Even if no one on earth knew about it, this is what makes the world grow from day to day.

I hope this reading has not been too boring. It has been a pleasure to write this column for the paper. If any person has a subject to be discussed some time, tell me about it.

There is, no doubt, a number of people who do not agree with what I have written, but I just believe this way and you just don't think that every idea that I have is entirely wrong, do you?

SENIORS

The date to which every Senior is looking forward has been set—that is the baccalaureate sermon, May 25, and commencement exercises, May 26.

Invitations have been received, and accepted, to attend the "Senior Days" given by John Tarleton and Howard Payne Colleges. John Tarleton day is Thursday, April 17, and Howard Payne day is Saturday, April 19. We are going on the school bus with our sponsors, Mrs. Angell and Mr. Schwarz. Golden Ross was elected queen to represent our class at Brownwood.

"Aunt Tillie Goes to Town" is the name of our senior play. We have the books and are ready to begin practice as soon as the characters are selected. We also have another program to present—an assembly program, April 28. Everything has been decided on now. All we need is time and practice.

"Gone With the Wind" seems to be a good excuse for staying out of school, even to those who have seen it two or three times.

This must be Mamie's day off—just ask her how she broke June's red pencil.

Norma Ruth really shot those Iredell girls a line. You must like that boy, girlie, not mentioning any names.

Louise, where did you and June and those two junior boys, M. K. and P. R. finally—Sunday night? Could it have been at the Verlon?

Rita (Loretta) found her a cowboy Friday night.

This has been a pretty busy week with the juniors. You see, we're having our junior play Friday night. The name of the play is "Take It Easy." The cast is composed of Pansy McMillan as Mrs. Nancy Highgate, Grace Holton as Nancy Highgate, W. J. White as Tom Lawrence, Steve Lewis as Lou Torrence, Joyce Latham as Florence, Winifred Pruitt as Phillip, Rita Gandy as Mary, Johnny Ogle as Arthur, and Allan Knight as Beagle Jones. They have been working on this play for some time, and you don't want to miss it. It's filled with excitement and laughter from the first act to the third. We'll be expecting you.

We had the assembly program Tuesday morning. Betty Jo, Owen, U. R. and Harold put on a skit entitled "Through With Girls." Allan Knight made a short talk on "Time." Glenna Maude Russell gave a reading and Jackie Weisenhunt played a piano solo. We also had some scenes from the Junior Play.

We only have one more six-weeks period to be peppy juniors, and then, we hope, we'll be dignified seniors.

SOPHOMORES

We get our report cards this week. Everyone is preparing to stay at home. They must expect bad grades.

We have a new pupil. He is George Casper from Gatesville. All the girls are casting their eyes back at him.

Raymond has sold his chickens at last.

Several of the girls went to Hamilton Saturday night to play ball. Charlie went along as our driver. Some of the girls were surely anxious to get back to Hico.

Worth's girl friend is coming to visit Evelyn. She doesn't seem to be as excited over her company as Worth is.

Jo Evelyn did nothing. She reports an excellent time "doing nothing."

Margie Lea and Mary Joyce seem to have gone on an Easter egg hunt and a marshmallow roast.

George is back in school again. He has been ill, and we certainly missed him.

Maynard went to Carlton to the Senior play.

Mary Sue went riding with some one. They went to the clubhouse Friday night.

What two girls wrote a note and put it under the windshield wiper? They signed their names, "Boots and Easy."

I heard that Mary Nell had a good time Friday night. What about it, Mary Nell?

Myrl went to church Friday night. So did Maxine and Bernice.

Hello again! This is the first week in the last six weeks of the current series and everyone has spring fever (even in the rain). Let's put it this way: If there is no news the last week of school, you will only hear from us four more times; that makes it sound like a short time, doesn't it? Here's hoping it is, short.

We are glad that most of us will probably be promoted to the tenth grade next year. But don't get alarmed! The school system is changing to twelve grades. It is thought that the extra grade will be added between the seventh and eighth grades. Hot dogs, just missed it. But seriously, it is an advantage which we would be glad to accept if it were put before us. The Home Ec. projects are busy two weeks to work on them; are always the busiest, aren't they, girls?

Louise Higginbotham visited with Valma Norrod Friday afternoon.

R. W. Leeth, Mary Jo Carpenter, Max Doty, Mack Hicks, Alice La Wanda Walker, and Harold Don Gregory visited in our room last Thursday and helped us hunt Easter eggs.

Everyone had an enjoyable time during the holidays and from the number of absentees this morning, some must have eaten too many eggs.

FIRST GRADE

The Easter bunny was more than generous with his eggs this year. The boys and girls in Mrs. Holton's room found almost three hundred eggs that had been hidden in the grass and clover at the city park.

Mrs. Chaney, our home room mother, planned and gave the Easter egg hunt. Other mothers who helped here were Mrs. C. P. Coston, Mrs. Watts Marcum, Mrs. J. C. Prater, Mrs. John Gollightly, Mrs. F. G. Schwarz, Mrs. W. W. Roberts, and Mrs. Raymond Lowe.

Carroll Ann and Charles Schwarz, Shirley Jean Prater and Joyce Ray Lowe were invited guests.

Barbara Munnerlyn went to see her sister, who lives at Walnut Springs, Sunday.

Billy Joe Luckie, Rose Marie McPherson and others went to the Carlton Stock Show Friday and Saturday.

Kenneth Nix went to Thornton's Sunday afternoon for an Easter egg hunt.

These children were in Sunday school Sunday: Nancy Jo Beatty, Rose Marie McPherson, Andrew Loyd, and Earl Cotton.

We were sorry that Eugene Barnett was ill Thursday and could not be at school for our Easter egg hunt. But he is back in school now.

To Multiply Crepe Myrtles
To multiply crepe myrtles cut some small limbs or branches to a length of about 18 to 24 inches; then take your knife and make a long tapering cut, beginning about 6 inches above the butt of each one and slanting down to the butt end; then stick tightly 8 inches deep in fairly moist and fertile soil. With good luck most of the cuttings should sprout and make root growth next summer and may later (after their leaves fall) be transplanted.

HEALTH IN ARMY CAMPS

If you've heard those rumors about epidemics at army camps, large numbers of deaths in army hospitals, unhealthy sanitary conditions and put spreading recruited soldiers put them down as malicious whispering.

Whispering campaigns spread false rumors like wild-fire. And there is little doubt that a lot of these army camp stories are planned and paid for by enemies within our gates.

Recent investigation in one camp, where it was reported that the army hospital was overflowing with pneumonia cases and that there had been a large number of pneumonia deaths and that conditions were deplorable, showed these facts: out of several thousand soldiers, two were in the hospital with pneumonia and were well on the way to recovery.

Another interesting finding was that a large portion of the soldiers who were in the hospital just had simple colds or other slight ailments, which, in civilian life, wouldn't have kept them from going to work.

MOVIE POLLS

Each year the big-time metropolitan movie critics get together to pick the best ten pictures of the year.

After the last poll of critics, Dr. George Gallup of the Institute of Public Opinion made a poll of movie-goers and found the public's First Ten choice included only one picture that was in the critics' First Ten.

It would be interesting if the movie houses in all communities would take an annual poll of their audiences each year to determine which picture was liked best by the people in their town.

TODAY and TOMORROW

STANDARDS

One of the greatest obstacles to mutual understanding between peoples and nations is the failure of mankind to agree upon uniform standards of weights, measures, values and qualities.

But English speaking peoples still measure by inches, feet, yards and rods. Russia has its own system of weights and measures which differs from those of any other country.

The United States started off with a decimal system of money. It was based on the Spanish silver dollar which was almost a world standard at that time.

When we moved South we ran into another standard of money value. That was the "levy," which was the same as the New York shilling, or 12 1/2 cents.

There is enough difference between the length of an inch in America and in England to amount to several feet in a mile. So, though we talk the same language, we do not mean the same thing.

It may come about in the course of a few thousand years that all the people of all the world will speak and read and write the same language.

For two hundred years the French Academy has maintained a bureau to define every word in the language and establish the precise word for every new thing which calls for a new word.

That is more than can be said for our own hodge-podge language that we call English.

I have never been able to figure out why our Government has never coined a two and one-half cent piece.

When I was a boy the half-cent bronze coins were not uncommon. We had two kinds of three cent pieces, one of nickel and the other of nickel.

FARM SLUM CLEARANCE

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent by our government in one of the most fundamentally vital of the many great social adjustments initiated by President Roosevelt—city slum clearance.

It is hardly necessary to elaborate upon the blessings that these well-spent dollars have brought to so many thousands of our people. Suffice it to say that even the hard pressed taxpayers concur smilingly in support of such a cause.

But only half of this magnificent concept is begun, and the other half should be started while we have in the presidential chair a man to whom the social betterment of his fellow citizens is the paramount consideration.

Every citizen of the United States who has traveled a hundred miles in almost any city in our country, has seen for himself a farm house—or a hundred farm houses—which are unfit for occupancy.

The day was—and will be again—when the man who tills the soil can look the bill collector in the face and "tell him where to get off."

Administration after administration has attempted to stem the tide of agricultural depression. Panacea after panacea has been tried and found wanting.

No man is 100 per cent efficient if he is forced by circumstances not of his own making, to live in equatorial and discomfort.

COMING EVENTS

- April 18—National finals of American Legion high school oratorical contest. April 21—American Red Cross opens national convention in Washington, D. C. April 21—National Editorial Association annual convention opens, Jacksonville, Florida. April 25—Carnegie Hero Awards made this date to reward heroic efforts in saving life throughout the United States, Canada, and Newfoundland.

tree would likely rate 100 with a decent home in which to house a happier family. And 100 per cent efficiency we must have if we intend to carry out the program which we have recently written for ourselves.

Farm slum clearance is a national defense measure. A national defense measure the benefits of which will not cease with the coming of peace. The now discouraged farmer, with the hope and encouragement and incentive which a decent home will provide him with, will still be paying dividends to his country when the guns and tanks have been melted into more civilized implements.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By MRS. CATHERINE C. EDWARDS Associate Editor, Parent's Magazine

Discipline Not A Hit-And-Miss Game

Why is the subject of family discipline always open to argument? Why can't we find some final answer regarding the most effective way of teaching children that they must respect the rights of others?

We believe the reason for this is that none of us is ever entirely prepared for the circumstances he has to meet in life. Faced with doubts, we look back to our parents' upbringing and wish that they had been less dictatorial and had given us more training in making our own decisions.

So it is that when we become parents ourselves, we vow to correct the mistakes our parents made with us. But if, instead of training our children in the manner which we think would have been best for us, we try to find out to what type of discipline each child responds I believe we could break this tendency to go to one extreme or the other with each generation.

Stop and think what discipline really is, or ought to be. Discipline isn't punishment or revenge, or domination by an adult. It is simply acquainting the child with the type of conduct which will enable him to get along with others.

really is, or ought to be. Discipline isn't punishment or revenge, or domination by an adult. It is simply acquainting the child with the type of conduct which will enable him to get along with others.

So, try to compound a prescription for each of your children's character needs. This prescription would need more ounces of firmness for a child who seems to lack a sense of responsibility than it would for his brother or sister who is naturally serious minded.

Now, while eventual self-discipline is the main object of your training, your prescription for teaching these lessons of conformity will require several ounces of obedience to parental authority in matters where knowledge and experience are important.

Mix all these with a generous amount of love and good nature and you'll have little difficulty in getting the children to take it!

TIMELY TOPICS

DEATH

Just suppose you saw, splashed across the front page of your newspaper, a big headline reading: 35,000 AMERICANS KILLED, OVER A MILLION INJURED IN MOTORIZED BLITZKRIEG

You and everyone else would act immediately. We'd mobilize overnight to defend ourselves against the ruthless enemy which was inflicting such mass murder. And yet, that headline could appear in our newspapers and be stating actual facts—the facts on the injury and death inflicted in our population in 1941 by automobile traffic accidents.

It's hard for us to get worked up against traffic as we would against a uniformed enemy carrying guns and attacking with planes. Traffic accidents are more like a sniper war—a few killings here, a few there—but which, in the aggregate, and more or less unnoticed, come to a huge figure.

There are strong groups organized to lead highway safety wars. But they need the emotional backing of the people. Their published material seems incapable of arousing us to a pitch where we volunteer all-out aid.

To us, the figure which really makes the situation hit home is this: at the present accident rate, at least one traffic injury or death

PEDESTRIANS

One ironic thing about traffic deaths is that the largest proportion of victims are people who are not driving cars. Almost 40 per cent of those killed are pedestrians who are just unfortunate victims of a condition in which they have no part.

The greatest number of deaths among pedestrians is caused by walking on highways in rural areas. Although that is responsible for only 4 per cent of pedestrian accidents, it accounts for 18 per cent of pedestrian deaths—for the great proportion of people hit on highways by speeding automobiles are killed instantly.

The greatest cause of pedestrian accidents is from crossing streets between intersections. The next biggest casualty list comes from crossing busy streets which do not have traffic signals and then come a large number of accidents to children playing in the streets. Almost a thousand children are killed and almost 40,000 injured per year.

PREVENTION

Experts believe that accidents are preventable because causes of all accidents are known. The only thing that needs to be done is to eliminate the causes, which is difficult, but not impossible.

They know, for instance, that the greatest number of accidents—about 37 per cent—are caused by automobiles being driven at excessive speed. There are two possible answers to that one: (1) Stop speeding by more stringent law enforcement, or (2) remake highways and intersections so that speed will no longer be dangerous. The right answer probably is an attempt to approach both objectives.

Disobeying traffic regulations, other than speed laws, is the second greatest cause of accidents, the majority resulting from ignoring the right of way. The answers to that are many—but include more thorough tests to get licenses, better regulatory signs, better enforcement of present laws and, where necessary, more regulations.

Of the total accidents in a year over 40 per cent occur on Saturday or Sunday. This makes it clear that traffic regulations which are ample on week-days need to be reinforced on week-ends.

SPEED

Local speed laws, which change from town to town with no apparent reason, have probably done more than any other one thing to make drivers take the law into their own hands. Flouting that it is impossible to keep informed on local regulations, most people just drive at what they, rather than the law, consider a safe speed.

The lack of uniformity of speed laws is indicative of most traffic regulations.

The American Safety Foundation in Washington, which is supported by leading associations of automobile manufacturers, road builders, railroads, farmers and consumers, is pushing a seven-point standardization program. It calls for uniformity of legislation, motor vehicle administration, enforcement, engineering, education, personnel training and research.

Those seven points may not sound as stirring as a demand for guns, tanks, planes, bombs and torpedoes—but, if adopted throughout the nation, they would save thousands of marked men, women and children from approaching death.

FOOL CROWS

The crow is one of the smartest of all birds but not always welcome at corn-planting time. So let us plan now to hold him in check by the following plan:

1. Put a tablespoonful of coal tar in a quart of water. Heat to make tar run and spread through water. Dip seed corn in this solution, strain, and while partly dry, dust with land plaster, road dust, or powdered clay to prevent grain sticking.
2. Put up scarecrows.
3. Stretch wire or wire about 12 feet and at intervals suspend strips of cloth, stout oil paper, pieces of glass, and especially parts of broken mirrors.
4. Hang dead crows by cords or wire from inclined poles. Crows don't much like to live in any neighborhood where some member of the family has been hanged.—The Progressive Farmer.

VICTOR SEGREST TAKES NOLANVILLE GIRL FOR BRIDE

Victor J. Segrest, son of Mrs. Mattie Segrest of Hico, was married last Saturday morning, April 12, at Nolanville, Texas, to Miss Eleanor Ann Kaiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Kaiser of that place. The ceremony, performed at the Kaiser home at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, was attended by a few close friends and relatives, among whom were the groom's mother and his sister, Miss Glady.

Victor is principal of the Nolanville school, and although he has been living away from here for a number of years, he spent his youth in and around Hico and has numerous friends here who will wish him well in his married life. His bride is a member of a prominent family of the Nolanville section, and is popular among the younger set of her home community. They will make their home at Nolanville.

Prior to the wedding a number of parties honored the bride, among which were the following as reported in The Temple Daily Telegram in a news dispatch from Belton:

Mrs. A. D. Sutton and Mrs. I. E. Cross Sr. entertained them with Monday night. Miss Corine McDaniel won high score and presented her gift, a piece of Mexican pottery, to the honoree. The hostesses presented them with a bath set. Guests were school trustees, their wives, and teachers.

Tuesday night the teachers, trustees and their wives gave them a miscellaneous shower at the school, carrying out the gypsy theme.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Payne, Connally Neal and Miss Mary Sinclair entertained Miss Kaiser and Mr. Segrest with a dinner at the Doering Hotel in Temple Wednesday night and presented them with a white chenille bedspread.

REGULAR MEETING OF P. T. A. HELD WEDNESDAY

The regular meeting of the Hico Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday afternoon in the high school auditorium, according to Mrs. Floyd W. Thrash, reporter, who submitted an account of the meeting.

The group meets on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, and interest in the work of the organization, of which Mrs. J. G. Goughly is president, seems to grow with each meeting.

This week's program opened with the Lord's Prayer, followed by piano solos by Charles Goughly and Glenna Maude Russell from the third grade group, who rendered other interesting numbers during the entertainment period.

At the opening of the business session the banner was awarded to Mrs. Higgins' room, after which Miss Gwendolyn Jones, Hamilton County home demonstration agent, made an announcement about home canned products.

A report of the district meeting at Cleburne was heard from Mrs. Marvin Marshall, who also introduced discussion which resulted in passage of a motion to have the piano tuned. Other projects now on hand include authorization of work on the girls' rest room at the school, and plans for an entertainment, with a small amount to be charged to buy silverware for the home economics department.

Announcement will soon be made of plans for an open house, which were discussed at the meeting and in which the members will cooperate with Mr. Livingston, Erath County director of N. Y. A.

An entertainment committee consisting of Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. R. Lee Roberson and Mrs. C. P. Coston was appointed. Mrs. Higgins, Miss Mayo Hollis and Mrs. H. T. Pinson were appointed as a committee to work out plans for distribution of 1500 cans of condensed milk which have been provided through the Surplus Commodity Commission.

METHODIST CHURCH

"The Unrecognized Christ." The sermon title will be, "Growing Up Spiritually." The meeting for the young people will begin at 7:15.

Spring is here. Let's make it a time for renewed activity in all of the work of the church. After the revival is no time for a lag. The revival season should mean a new beginning. You need the church and the church needs you. All of us need the Christ who is the head of the church. Make your plans to be in the worship services of your church Sunday morning and Sunday evening.

CANADA—OUR NEIGHBOR

Ontario offers prizes this year to non-resident fishermen which spells doom for extravagant tales

By MARTIN L. PETRY

IN SPITE of the war, the sporting instinct of the Canadian comes more to the fore with the advent of spring and soon the fishermen, including vast numbers of Americans, will be on the way to their favorite lakes and streams. Canadians are great lovers of all outdoor sports which might be attributed to the fact that civilization hasn't touched a vast hinterland of wild territory in the Dominion with its unrivaled opportunities for hunting and fishing.

Ontario, second largest province in Canada, includes 412,582 square miles of territory and of this area 49,300 square miles comprise lakes and streams, 1,500 of which are embraced by Algonquin Park, just a short drive north of Toronto. This park has been set aside by Ontario as a game sanctuary and although shooting is prohibited, there are no restrictions against fishing in waters that are abundant with bass, musky, salmon, trout, pickerel and speckled trout. There are many other places equally attractive to fishermen including the Temagami Forest Reserve, the Lake of Bays and the Muskoka, Parry Sound and Georgian Bay districts.

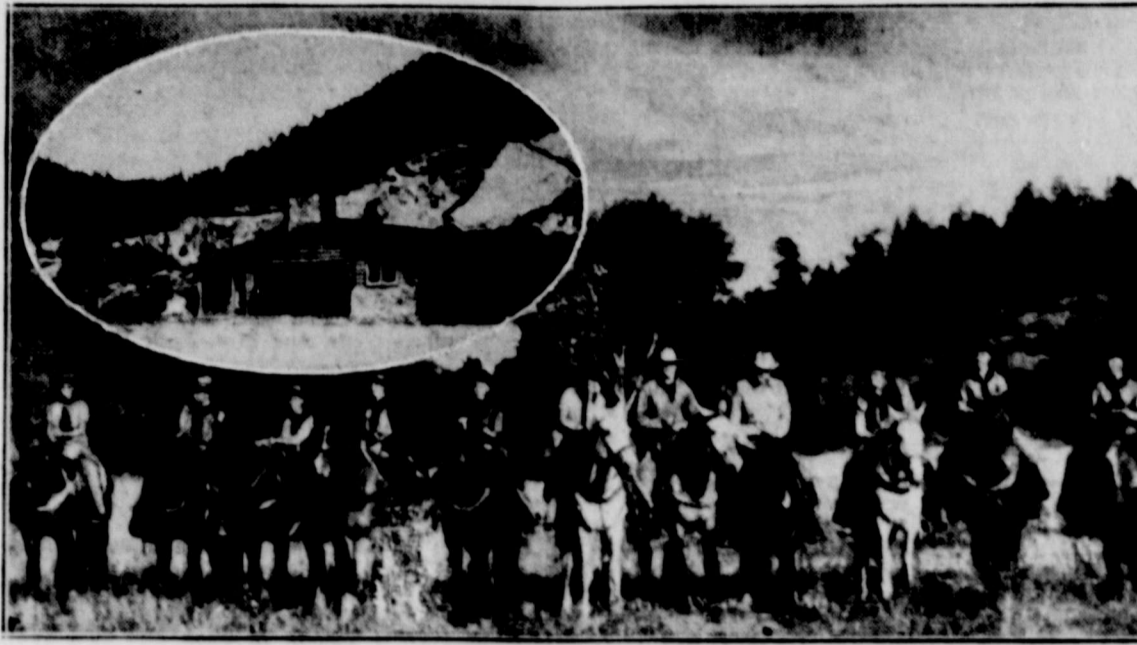

Fishermen will tell you there is nothing like the sport for relaxation of mind and body. But there seems to be more to it than that for when the mind relaxes it also seems to expand the imagination which would account for the elaborate tales, replete with thrills, that are brought back every year by fishermen returning from a sojourn in the many lakes of Ontario. Each succeeding year with the increasing number of fishermen going to Ontario, the stories seem to get bigger and better.

But this year it is going to be different for we shall know, as a matter of record, just what the biggest catch was, by whom it was made, and the circumstances surrounding it. Douglas K. Oliver, head of the Ontario Travel Bureau, is responsible for this and is offering a number of prizes for the largest fish caught in each of six classes by non-resident anglers. The first prize in each class will be $100, the six classes including speckled trout, lake trout, maskinonge, small-mouth bass, yellow pickerel, or wall-eyed pike, and the Great Northern pike.

"Ontario is the fisherman's paradise," says Mr. Oliver, "and the Province feels that some recognition should be given to the biggest catch of the season by visiting fishermen. It is not our purpose to discredit the stories that the sport develops but rather to encourage further the rivalry and good fellowship among the fishermen who try their luck and skill in the innumerable lakes in Ontario."

In addition to the prizes another inducement is offered to the piscatorial devotee outside of Ontario by the issuance of a special three-day, non-resident license for a fee of $2.00 which may be used in place of the regular season license costing $5.50. A certificate of entry in this competition will be issued by the Ontario Travel Bureau with offices in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto. All details pertaining to the catch must be verified by a provincial official. Judges will be D. J. Taylor, deputy minister of Game and Fisheries; Frank MacDougall, superintendent of Algonquin Provincial Park and Ernest Shepard, editor and publisher of a Canadian sportsman's publication.

Boy Scouts Enjoy National Wilderness Camp

From all parts of the nation experienced Scout campers and leaders head for their Philturn Rockymountain Scout-camp of 35,857 acres of mountain country near Cimarron, New Mexico for an unsurpassed wilderness camping experience. The camp, located in the land of Kit Carson's exploits, is developed and maintained by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America who received the land in 1938 as a gift from Waite Phillips of Tulsa, Okla.

The Bluff That Failed

Stress Good Nutrition As Defense Need

Today nutrition authorities are stressing the need for guarding the national health in carrying on an effective program of defense. In calling attention to the importance of proper food, it is pointed out that a survey has revealed that approximately 45 million of our population are living below the "safety line" of what is considered an adequate diet.

What factors are essential in our foods to assure that the diet fully meets body needs? Protein is necessary to build and repair body tissue. There must be vitamins to promote growth and protect health, and calories to supply heat and energy. Minerals, such as iron, copper, phosphorus and calcium, are needed to build blood, bones and teeth.

Importance of Iron
In considering the minerals needed, medical authorities point to the special importance of iron as a blood builder. It ranks first among the nutritive elements in this respect.

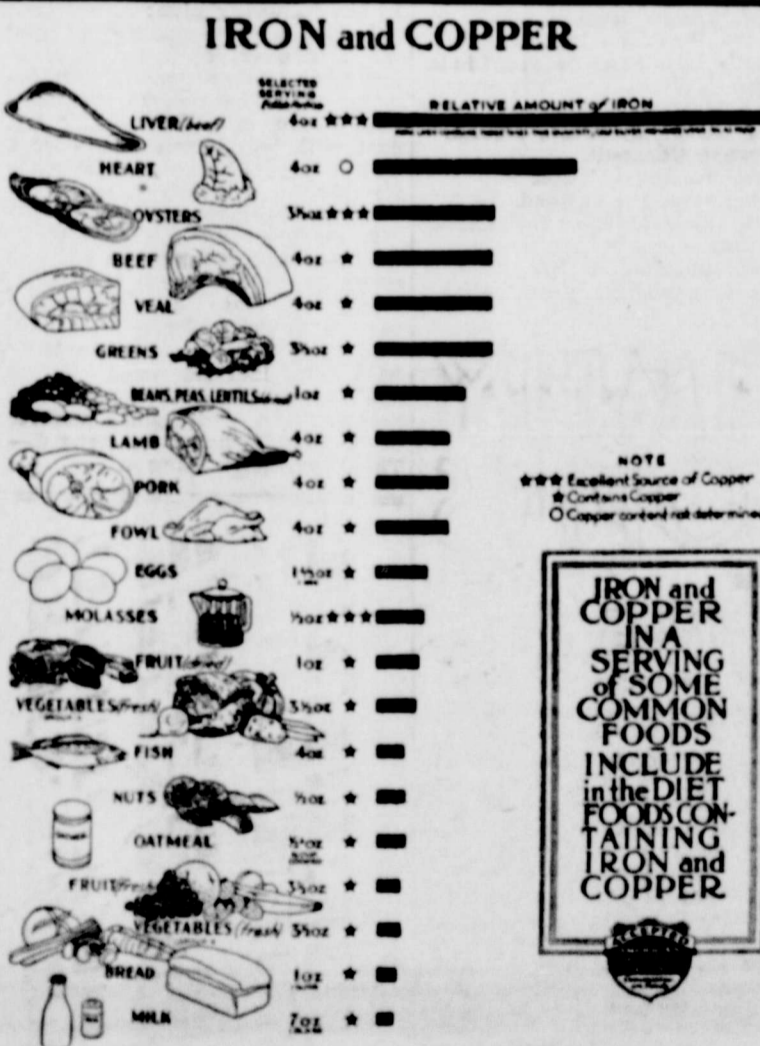

The iron in the body of an average adult is only about the weight of a penny, but this element is vital to health. Iron enters into the structure of every active body cell. Iron is a constituent of the hemoglobin or red pigment of the 25 trillion or more red blood corpuscles, and thus helps to carry oxygen to every part of the body.

Foods rich in iron must be added to the diet at six months or earlier and continued throughout life, according to nutrition authorities. The adult requires at least 12 milligrams of iron daily.

Iron Prevents Anemia
The penalty for an insufficient iron supply is a condition known as nutritional anemia, characterized by fatigue, digestive disorders and other symptoms.

As early as 400 to 500 B.C., a condition corresponding to anemia was described by Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine. Monibelli, an Italian, is given credit as the first to discover iron in the blood—in 1747. The present view that an iron deficiency is the principal cause of anemia, was first advanced in 1889. In 1849, a serious form of anemia, known as pernicious anemia, was described. In the year 1934, Drs. Minot, Murphy and Whipple were awarded the Nobel prize in medicine for their discovery that liver was effective in the treatment of pernicious anemia which was previously regarded as a fatal disease.

Sources of Iron
The accompanying chart carrying the seal of acceptance of the Committee on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, presents the most up-to-date information on the iron and copper content of our common foods. The iron of foods is better utilized in the presence of small amounts of copper. Liver, which heads the list, is recognized as pre-eminent among blood-building foods.

An average adult would be assured an adequate daily supply of iron if the following amounts of foods are taken each day: 2 servings of meat (1 serving of liver each week); 1 egg; 2 servings of vegetables; 2 servings of fruit.

PROBLEMS AHEAD

Washington, April 17. (NWNS)—Well-rested after their Easter recess, congressmen are tackling the problems of strikes, defense production, aid-to-Britain and taxes with a new get-things-done spirit which may mean that our whole wartime policy will be clarified by the end of this month.

The admission by the President that Communists may be aggravating our labor difficulties, even though he was careful not to infer knowledge of any tie-up between labor groups and the Communists, has increased demands for legislation to prevent strikes and delays in defense production. Letters to congressmen show a growing public fear of organized efforts of anti-American groups to interfere with the defense program.

This fear was increased by a spokesman for the Ford Motor company who said of the big strike at the Ford plant that it was an effort of anti-American groups, "to tie up another large American industry and thus cripple the national defense program."

Legislation being considered to cope with the situation ranges from making strikes in defense industries an act of treason, to seizure of plants by the government and drafting labor in a manner similar to the draft of men for the army.

Voluntary Methods Preferred
However, it is expected that voluntary methods of settling labor differences, depending upon the influence of public opinion, will be given further tests before drastic legislation is enacted. The President wants the new National Defense Mediation board to be given a chance to prove what it can do before mandatory methods are used. The speed with which the Mediation board was able to get the Allis-Chalmers plant working again, after a 10-week strike, has inspired the hope that the board will prove adequate in dealing with the situation. But the public is in no mood to make a long test, and if the Mediation board runs into difficulties then both the senate and house will demand something more drastic.

Unemployment Still Huge
It is believed that by the end of this summer there may be a labor shortage in certain industries that will give labor a greater opportunity to dictate terms unless a control plan has adequately been worked out by that time. Unemployment is reported still to be sizeable—the latest figure on the number of unemployed being 7,039,000. This is less than half of the number out of work eight years ago and it is expected that an additional 3,000,000 may be put to work before the end of summer. But there will be shortages, even though many are still out of work, because of the demand for skilled labor and for unskilled laborers who must be physically and mentally capable of performing certain definite jobs.

WILL THERE BE WAR?
Predictions that we will actually be in the war this month are frequently heard in Washington, but the tone of many officials continues to be that we are taking chances of inviting a declaration of war by the Axis powers but that there is no reason to assume that an actual state of war will result.

We all know that the Axis powers have been aggravated by our seizure of Italian, German and Danish vessels, and by our ordering the recall of an Italian naval attaché, but it is argued here that such aggravations make little difference since the Axis powers already know we are against them but will continue to keep an on-the-surface peace so long as they see no advantage to themselves in admitting a state of war. From this country's viewpoint since our whole program is based on getting supplies to Britain, there is no reason for our declaring war when that program can be carried out without war.

Our decision on conveying ships to Britain is the question on which war may hang. It is the general opinion in informed circles. It is believed possible that we will turn over part of our navy to Great Britain so that they can convey ships before we will use our own ships and our own men for this purpose.

There is a lot of talk here to the effect that the President is only awaiting public sentiment for war and will then throw caution aside, but many officials close to the President really feel that his dream is to win the war for Great Britain without participating in it ourselves. Although the general feeling is that that may be impossible, that attitude is reflected in most of the President's utterances and in his short-of-war proposals.

Six Inch Sermon

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Using Witnessing Power.

Lesson for April 20: Acts 2:1-4; 4: 8-20.

Golden Text: Acts 4:31.

Obedient to the Lord's command, the disciples tarried in Jerusalem "in prayer and supplication." They were together in one place, and also in spirit. Afterward, widely separated, they were still one in spirit, as different groups of Christians may now be one in spirit if they are one with Christ.

Wondrous things marked the coming of the Holy Spirit. The disciples "began to speak with other tongues." If this meant the power to speak in other languages besides their own, it was a gift that enabled them at once to begin preaching unto strange lands. But the greatest gift they received was the divine presence and power. Without this gift, how could they have done what they did?

Now, after they had begun to witness for Christ, Peter and John were brought before a Jewish council, where Peter at once renewed his witnessing. The council forbade them to teach in the name of the Lord Jesus. Both answered, "Whether it is right in the sight of God to hearken to you rather than unto God, judge ye; for we cannot but speak the things which we saw and heard." Volumes might be written on the struggles of men to keep their conscience clear despite all things. And surely no man can keep a clear conscience unless he acts according to his conscience.

Thus, with the day of Pentecost, did the use of witnessing power begin. Consider the need of it today. It is supremely important, readers, that you have a living experience of Christ—that you may have something to witness, and that you may be blessed and be made a blessing unto others.

LOVE LESSON

TO GET MORE ATTENTION from their spouses in the morning, 300 Chicago women have formed the "Kisses for Breakfast" club. "We're tired of the usual perfunctory peck-and-run routine used by our husbands," they complain.

PINLESS

JOSEPH H. LARKITZ, clothes designer, invented a "pinless, water-proof diaper" for the benefit of fathers who haven't time to waste on old-fashioned methods. However, he was swamped with congratulatory messages from women only. He can't understand it!

FROM FAR AND NEAR

OVER 3,000,000 women are bowling in the United States this year. The number of women in gainful occupations rose from 3,000,000 to 11,000,000 from 1880 to 1940. Registration for the labor draft in London applies equally to women of the drawing rooms and of the laundry rooms. A Canadian, Miss Craig McGeachy, is the new representative in Canada and the United States for the British ministry of economic warfare. Ten women have been made members of the Brooklyn Bar Association for the first time in its 50-year history. Mrs. Pauline Fenno, a Boston socialite now in England, has designed a snack bar which is used to rush hot tea and food to London's bombed areas.

Erath County REA Starts New Work; Prizes Announced

G. A. Tunnell, REA supervisor at Stephenville, has submitted the following report of progress of work and other details concerning his organization:

Construction work on C section of the Erath County Electric Cooperative Association started in fine shape and there is several miles of poles already placed. Had it not rained this week, most of them would have been in the air by now.

Mr. Thomas advises that he will start hole digging as soon as the road is dry enough to get men in the field.

We were advised by telegram that we had been allotted $27,000.00 to construct forty-six miles to service ninety-eight members in Hood County Hood County Cooperative has been divided among Tarrant County, Johnson County and Erath County Cooperatives. The survey work will start in Hood County the latter part of this month if possible.

The Electric Home-Built Brooder contest ended Tuesday, April 15, with the following announced winners:

First prize—200 blood-tested baby chicks—Mr. Halford Hale, age 13, at Seldon was winner of the first prize having taken off one bunch, and the second bunch was three weeks old now in the brooder.

Second prize—100 blood-tested baby chicks—Mr. James L. Garner of Seldon won having constructed 4 feet by 7 feet brooder house inside of a chicken house which is 16 feet by 25 feet.

Third prize—50 blood-tested baby chicks—Mrs. Antry Merrell of Huckabay won third prize of the baby chicks. Mrs. Merrell had the smallest flock of the three and brooded them in a cardboard box using only a lamp. At six weeks old, they weighed one and three-fourths pounds. At ten weeks old, they weighed three pounds. This is a very good record and we are proud to announce these winners.

Plan your bird bath with care, because its design will have much influence on its popularity with the birds. The side of the basin must slope gently in order to protect the birds with a shelf or rim in which they can wade without finding the water too deep. This takes care of both the larger and the smaller birds.

The depth of the water at the outer edge of the bath should not exceed one inch and at the center and deepest place not over five inches. Most of the smaller birds dread deep water or anything that looks like it but will go eagerly to a bath that resembles a shallow sandy beach.

'Next 100 Days'

John D. Biggers, production director for National Defense OPM, as he testified before the house military affairs committee holding hearings on defense production delay. He warned that the U. S. "future may depend on what we all do in the next 100 days."

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

Every spring brings its full quota of Easter brides embarking on that thrilling adventure, Keeping House. The little girl who "played house" yesterday will "keep house" tomorrow, and her problems will be real instead of imaginary.

Efficient and happy housekeeping depends on many factors besides regular meals and clean and orderly rooms. It should be the interesting and absorbing business of providing a perfect background for yourself and your husband and for your own special kind of living.

Obviously your income, obligations, interests and friends, as well as certain local customs, will influence your scheme of living. All these things determine very definitely your mode of everyday living, as well as your style of entertaining.

Clever management makes it possible for the maidless bride to entertain her friends just as delightfully as if she had a household of servants.

When you entertain at dinner or luncheon, plan your menus carefully and keep them simple. Serve the dishes that you are sure will be easy to prepare and that require no last minute fussing.

Let your guests help and they will enjoy your parties and remember them with genuine enthusiasm. Give them tasks that they can do, such as putting the salad together, pouring the water or setting the table. Logical order in your kitchen and pantry cupboards as well as in your refrigerator and supply cabinets will make it easy for anyone to find the way around to help you.

Soap, Water Best Skin Tonic

Good housewives, in choosing fabrics, pay particular attention to the fact that they must be washable and color-fast. In a similar way, it is important that people should understand the basic facts about the structure of nature's most extensive fabric—the human skin. Despite lingering superstitions which a few seem to have on the subject, it may be taken as an established fact that the skin is one fabric that always improves with washing. This is as true of the face as it is of the hands and the body. Yet few people know why soap and water cleansing is important and how cleanliness assists nature.

An understanding of what the skin is, how it functions, and how it reacts to cleansing is important. At the moment when it looks its cleanest, after a washing or bath, it is already receiving the outpourings of the sweat and oil glands and is accumulating dead surface cells that will need removing.

Actually, skin and body are being constantly encrusted with gland secretions, soil and dead skin. We are less aware of this than we would be of dirt or mud because the amount of it is less, but it is there. Through soap and water and good towelling, it should be regularly and frequently removed, not only that we may have greater comfort and a fresher, clearer, more attractive skin, but so that the glands may continue to find unlogged outlets for the wastes which nature discards.

It's spring. But for at least 200,000 high school kids, things like "pitching woo," going swimming, dancing to the corner drugstore juke box, and drinking "cokes" are, as they say, "out."

The reason? Scholastic, the American high school weekly, is offering prizes totalling $12,000 for student work in art, music and writing. And to thousands of high schoolers this is a real chance.

From the Ozarks from Maine, and even from way out west, entries of "teen-age boys and girls are pouring in."

Between now and May 12, when the display will be opened to the public in the Fine Arts Galleries of the famous Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, more industrious lads and lassies will add last-minute touches to amateur pieces of sculpture, to oil paintings, water color drawings and pencil sketches, and words will be changed here and there in short stories, essays or poems—all this prior to shipping their creative works to contest headquarters.

Probably not aware of their "all out" effort to keep alive some semblance of culture in America, these young 'uns, whose job it will be to carry on after the war abroad ends, are contributing much to America's culture.

Judges for the art division of the contest include Edward Steichen, photographer; Kenneth Hays Miller, artist; William Zorach, sculptor; Paul Sample, artist; Viktor Schreckengost, painter; Andrey Avinoff, director of Pittsburgh's Carnegie museum; Norman Rice, dean of Chicago's Art Institute; and W. A. Readie of the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Scholarships and cash awards for the literary and musical entries will be awarded by a jury of noted writers, poets and critics from all parts of the country.

According to Maurice B. Robinson, editor of Scholastic and director of the competition, entries are first displayed in regional exhibitions, the winners of which are forwarded to Pittsburgh.

Over 20,000 spectators are expected to view the show.

Hamilton County Supervisor
PLANNING TO PRODUCE MORE FOOD

Running a family is like running a business, and one of the greatest tasks a homemaker has, is to provide sufficient food for her family. Adequate food is more than "just enough to eat." The family's food supply should represent an adequate diet which will keep us healthy and give us vitality.

Studies made by the Department of Agriculture show that even though we live in the richest country in the world there are 45,000,000 people in the United States who are not getting enough to eat to keep them healthy. So many American families do not have cash to buy the foods which make up an adequate diet, but most farm families are fortunate in having sufficient land to raise part of their own food supply, especially the food that costs so much to buy and helps so much in making diets adequate.

All farm families in Hamilton County can have a vegetable garden and most every one can have a berry patch and some fruit trees. The garden and orchard furnish many of our protective foods. If each family will plan their needs ahead, there will be a variety of fruits and vegetables all during the year. Each family should make a food budget for the year and then by means of the frame garden, which will furnish fresh vegetables the year round, and by canning, storing or freezing the surplus, each family can have adequate diets.

Each farm family can find time to care for a flock of chickens that will give them eggs and some meat throughout the year. All of them can keep cows to furnish milk, cream, butter and cheese. They can fatten pigs, and raise a calf or lamb for the family's meat supply.

We are fortunate in having a freezer locker here in our own county and each family who will take advantage of this opportunity can have fresh, as well as cured meat all the year at a minimum cost.

Besides the foods already mentioned, the farm family can produce part of its sweets, flour, and cereals. In short, the farm family has the best opportunity of anyone to have all the necessary foods at very little cost.

Of course in order to produce these foods we must do some planning ahead, do some hard work and run risks, but we all know we get nothing in this world but what we work for.

It is much easier to estimate the food needs of our family if there is a record from the previous year to use as a guide. We not only need to plan for the future but we need to keep records to see how our plans are working out and how they can be improved upon.

The trouble with most people is that they do not know the kind and amounts of food the body requires. The average farm family can come nearer making out a balanced ration for their hogs, cows, horses, and chickens than they can make out a balanced diet for their family.

Egg Vitamins

Due to their rich vitamin content, eggs belong in the class of protective foods, which protect against certain deficiency diseases. The yolk contains all the vitamins except vitamin C and the white is a valuable source of vitamin G, which protects against pellagra and some types of nervous disorders. Eggs are often the perfect answer for a family dish that will meet the needs of all from Baby to Grandfather.—Sally F. Hill, Editor Home Department, The Progressive Farmer.

FOR CRYING OUT LOUD—that is just the reason for the new sound-proof room at the Corpus Christi Catholic church in St. Paul, Miss. Mothers can now take their babies to church with no fear of a sudden wall disturbing the sermon. Glass partitions through which they can watch the service, prevent the sound of the children's voices from going into the church auditorium.

has put out diet plans which list the amounts of all the different foods needed by each person in the family during the year. These plans can be secured from the Farm Security Office or from the Home Demonstration Agent.

We are hearing and reading so much about National Defense and we are all interested in how we can help. Farm Families have a great opportunity for helping their country by producing sufficient food for themselves and a surplus to help feed someone else. Let us do our part in producing sufficient food of the right kind to make the United States a healthy country.

- Six Ways to Increase Farm Income
- It seems to us that the average farm family must increase its income in one or more of the following ways:
1. By finding new sources of cash income, from crops, livestock, dairying, poultry, etc.
  2. By producing products of higher grade or quality and therefore higher-priced products.
  3. By reducing production costs.
  4. By reducing marketing costs and greater efficiency in marketing.
  5. By producing at home products formerly purchased or producing at home substitutes for products previously purchased.
  6. By arranging farm work so as to have labor profitably employed a greater number of days each year.
