Housing Bill Moves To Final Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—An omnibus housing bill, surviving two major Republican efforts to cut it, moved toward final Senate action today.

Further efforts both to increase and to decrease the bill's size lay ahead, but Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), author of the measure, predicted its passage without further change.

The only change made in the bill Wednesday cut 150 million dollars off the program of direct government home loans for veterans, halving the 300 millions the Senate Banking Committee had voted.

But Democratic leaders accepted the change, in the expressed hope it would make the measure more palatable to President Eisenhower, and it was adopted by voice vote.

The House meantime voted 310-89 on a separate bill to provide the full 300 millions for direct GI loans despite a protest from Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Ind.), GOP leader, that "budget busters are on the move."

The House bill, limited to veterans' housing, also would increase the maximum interest rate from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent on home loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. The idea is to attract more lenders' money for the program. The same provision is in the Senate bill.

Halving of the direct loan program in the Senate bill cut its total to $2,775,000,000 for a variety of programs, most of them extending for a period of several years.

Earlier, on two key votes, the Senate: Defeated 58-32 a $1,800,000,000 Republican substitute bill. Seven Democrats and 25 Republicans supported the substitute; 51 Democrats and 7 Republicans opposed it.

Rejected 50-37 a GOP move to eliminate the 35,000 new public housing starts and 16,000 carry-over units from the bill. Thirteen Democrats and 24 Republicans were for this; it was beaten with votes of 42 Democrats and 7 Republicans.

The bill carries $2,100,000,000 for slum clearance and urban renewal programs, as well as substantial funds for college dormitories and classrooms.

It also meets some emergency needs, among them an increase in the almost depleted FHA loan insurance authority. Ten billions of new authority are provided. Sponsors contend the measure will give a needed boost to one of the country's largest industries. Senators seeking to cut it contend it would end any chance of a balanced budget.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) and a group of other senators plan today to try to step up the slum clearance program in the bill to a 450-million-dollar annual rate. Sparkman's measure calls for 350 million annually over six years.

Sens. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) and Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) said they would try to strike from the bill the increased interest rate on GI home loans. They say that this would lead to a general rise in interest charges.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), Republican spokesman on housing legislation, said he would make some more efforts to trim the bill.

Parents Await Unravelling Of Corpse Mixups

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP)—A distraught Gaffney couple waited anxiously today while the Navy and FBI searched for the body of their son, one of three sailors killed in a Florida highway accident. The wrong body was sent home Wednesday for burial.

The FBI reported that the body received here was that of Lawrence H. Geis of Milwaukee, one of the other victims.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the Charlotte, N.C., FBI office, said the body of the Gaffney seaman, Jerry Robert Driskill, 23, may have been sent to Wisconsin in the mix-up.

The third sailor killed in the Tuesday accident was identified as Donald L. Tullis, 19, of Racine, Wis.

Both bodies sent to Wisconsin were to arrive late today, but naval authorities indicated they would try to intercept the train carrying the bodies in Chicago.

"Identification will be verified as soon as possible," said Lt. Cmdr. B. W. Webb of the Naval Reserve in nearby Spartanburg.

The three sailors were stationed at the Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Station. They died in a collision of two cars and a truck near the station.

Driskill was to have been buried today. After completing funeral arrangements Wednesday Driskill's mother and stepfather, J. Brunson Phillips, entered a funeral home to view the body.

"That's not my Jerry," cried the horror-stricken Mrs. Phillips as she looked down at the form.

"Someone's made a terrible mistake," said Phillips. "This certainly isn't my boy."

Mrs. Phillips collapsed moments later and had to be carried home. Phillips immediately notified naval authorities at Spartanburg, who in turn informed the FBI and Pensacola officials.

Identification of the body was established through relay of a copy of fingerprints from the Spartanburg, S.C., Herald by Washington by The Associated Press Wirephoto network.

"I don't understand how such a mistake could have been made," Phillips declared.

Geis was the son of Harold B. Geis of Milwaukee.

Tullis was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tullis of Racine.

Humble Lowers Crude Oil Prices

HOUSTON (AP)—A 7-cent-a-barrel reduction in its crude oil purchases prices for West and Central West Texas was announced yesterday by Humble Oil and Refining Co.

The company said the lower prices met competitive conditions in the areas where similar cuts have been made by other purchasers.

New West Texas sour postings began at $2.95 for 40 gravity and above, with a 2-cent reduction per degree below 40 gravity.

For West Central Texas crudes and for West Texas intermediate sweet crude prices began at $3.01 for 40-44.9 gravity with a 2-cent reduction for each degree above or below.

New postings for West Texas Ellenburger crude began at $3.08 for 40-44.9 gravity, with the 2-cent reduction for each degree above or below.

The Superfortress was last heard from at 8:22 a.m.—18 minutes before the Japanese freighter radioed its report of seeing a plane crash and disappear on hitting the water.

The Coast Guard Cutter Mackinac, based in Bermuda, was racing to the position and was one of the scene this morning. The Aircraft Carrier Tarawa and six accompanying destroyers, which were on maneuvers in the North Atlantic, were ordered to join in the search.

The American secretary goes to Paris tonight and to Bonn for the weekend, then returns to Washington.

Dulles was moving swiftly to set up a Big Four foreign ministers' conference with the Soviets before May 27. The target date initially set by the Russians for them to give the East German Communist regime control of Allied supply lines to West Berlin.

A Big Four conference is expected to be one of the proposals which Macmillan will sound out the Soviet leaders in Moscow.

Informants said Dulles and the British leaders had agreed in their talks that the reunification of Germany—rather than solely the status of Berlin—should be the prime objective of any East-West conference.

Dulles and the British also strongly reaffirmed the Allied rejection of the Soviet Union's proposal to drive the Western forces out of Berlin.

U. S. Accuses Russians Of Downing AF Plane

Soviet Radio Signals Taped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today publicly confronted Russia with evidence that two Soviet jets shot down an unarmed U. S. transport plane last September in a warlike attack. Six—and possibly 17 American airmen—were killed.

The evidence was a graphic tape recording of radio conversations between the two Soviet fighter pilots.

A transcript of this recording was attached to an eight-page summary, issued by the State Department, of its efforts to pry information about the incident out of the Soviet Union.

The C130 U. S. transport disappeared Sept. 2 on a flight along the Turkey-Armenia border.

Ten days later the Soviets reported it had crashed in Armenia.

The bodies of six of the 17 Americans who were in the plane were returned to U. S. officials. Under persistent U. S. inquiries, Soviet officials insisted they knew nothing about the 11 other Americans.

The summary disclosed that Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had pressed Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, on his recent visit here, for information about the missing U. S. airmen. It said Mikoyan "denied that the plane had been shot down, asserting it had crashed."

The department's document also disclosed that Dep. Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy tried to play the recording of the Soviet airmen's conversation for Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov. Menshikov refused to listen, it said, and Murphy then gave him a transcript of the recording.

For the first time, publicly, in today's documents, the United States accused the Soviet Union of shooting down the U. S. plane. Heretofore, publicly, the United States has said only that the plane burned and crashed in Soviet Armenia after being "intercepted" by Soviet fighters.

Clarence Manion, right, speaker for tonight's Chamber of Commerce banquet, gets acquainted with Clyde McMahon, left, and Floyd Parsons. The three and a few other civic leaders had breakfast together as Manion prepared to spend the day with informal visits and a few brief talks at various gatherings.

TONIGHT AT HCJC

C-C Banquet To Launch Program For New Year

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce formally launches a new year this evening with its annual membership meeting and banquet.

Leadership will shift from Dr. J. E. Hogan, president for the past year to Clyde McMahon. Other new officers are Dan Krausse, vice president, and Ike Robb, treasurer.

Banquet speaker will be Clarence Manion, nationally known attorney, speaker and writer from South Bend, Ind. He will discuss "Management of Freedom."

The gathering will be held in the new Dora Roberts Student Building at Howard County Junior College. It is to start at 7:30 p.m. About 450 persons—a near-capacity crowd—are expected.

Manion, formerly dean of the College of Law at Notre Dame University in South Bend, arrived here last night. He spoke briefly at a series of meetings today, including a session of the Chamber's board of directors and legislative committee members at noon in the Cosden County Club.

Peaceful co-existence with Russia is impossible, he told government classes at HCJC this morning. Liberty comes from God, while Russia is an "anti-God" nation, he explained.

He urged the government pupils of Ina Mae McCollom's classes to study the basic documents of government, such as the Mayflower Compact, Declaration of Independence, Constitution and Northwest Ordinance.

Manion was associated with the Notre Dame law school as teacher and dean for 25 years, resigning in 1952 to devote all his time to the practice of law, his speeches and writing. In 1953-54 he served as chairman of the Commission on Inter-Governmental Relations, an agency created by Congress.

Among the books Manion has written is "The Key to Peace," which the American Legion is placing in high schools throughout the nation as a part of its Americanization program. One of his latest books is "Let's Face It," a compendium of his 1955 radio talks. He speaks weekly over a nationwide radio hookup known as the "Manion Forum."

As a result of his writings and speeches, Manion was awarded medals of the Freedoms Foundation in 1948, 1950, 1954 and 1955.

Both Dr. Hogan and McMahon will speak briefly at the banquet, Hogan tracing the Chamber's activities for the past year and McMahon outlining plans for the future. R. W. Whipkey will serve as master of ceremonies.

Entertainment will be provided by the choir of HCJC, directed by Ira Schantz and accompanied by Jack Hendrix, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, president of the Big Spring Pastors Assn., will deliver the invocation.

A highlight of the event will be the presentation of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award. Chub Jones, Jaycee president, will announce the recipient of the award and make the presentation.

Car Brushes With Plane

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Andrew Bird, 70, who just "wanted to watch the planes come in," had a brush with one of them while driving his car on the runway at Cleveland's Hopkins Airport Wednesday night.

The aircraft, a big four-engine Air Force Hercules C130A, whacked six neatly spaced gashes in the steel top of the car, inches above Bird's head.

Bird arrived early to pick up his wife, Lida, who works for a catering firm. Instead of going to the airport parking lot he headed down a ramp leading to the field.

Apparently becoming confused, Bird drove the length of a 6,000-foot runway, only to find his way blocked by a fence.

"How did I get out of here?" he asked a startled guard in a shack. "How did you get on it?" gasped the guard.

While the guard alerted the control tower, Bird was already on his way back along the runway, where the C130A had been warming up.

Bird explained later that he did not see the Air Force plane but had seen another plane coming in for a landing. He stepped on the gas.

Propeller tips ripped through the car, which continued on past the plane, turned around again and stopped near the C130A.

Bird was calm and uninjured. The official forecast for today, tonight and tomorrow, however, held out no prospect for any moisture. It will be colder today and tonight, was all the Weather Bureau said. Friday should be just a little warmer.

Secretary Held For 'Needling' Man Into Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police arrested a pretty secretary last night after a friend said she "needled" him into killing her husband—his best friend.

Mrs. Gemma Caruana, 25, was booked on suspicion of murder. She is accused with John C. Neely, 33, a crippled accountant who told officers he shot Ronald Caruana, 27. Neely is held in Dallas.

Mrs. Caruana denied any knowledge of her husband's death, police Sgt. George Murphy said. Murphy said she also denied Neely's statement in Dallas that he was her lover in what he called a "hot and cold" affair since last August.

The husband, an unemployed photographer, was shot Jan. 21 in a garage behind his home. More than a week later police discovered Caruana's body in the trunk of his car. The car had been abandoned on the desert near Barstow.

Nixon Nursing 2 Broken Ribs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is nursing two broken ribs, but he's not letting them get him down.

Nixon fell on his back Tuesday night when he slipped on the sleet-covered sidewalk in front of his home.

Nixon said at a reception Wednesday night the injury was painful but he joked about it and said he had never before had such thoughtful treatment from his daughters, Patricia, 12, and Julie, 2.

Norther Delivers New Chill To Area

A chilly north wind and overcast skies moved into Big Spring early Thursday and brought earlier weather than had prevailed on Wednesday.

The official forecast for today, tonight and tomorrow, however, held out no prospect for any moisture. It will be colder today and tonight, was all the Weather Bureau said. Friday should be just a little warmer.

TNT Breaking Ice-Held Creek

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—The rumble of breaking ice on French Creek marched steadily closer to Meadville today.

Smooth-working demolition teams of U. S. Army engineers swung back to the attack on a snake-like ice gorge blanketing more than two miles of the stream below this western Pennsylvania city.

The soldiers' weapons are innocent-looking one-pound blocks of TNT lashed into bundles, planted in holes sawed in the jam and exploded into towering pillars of ice and snow, the TNT bites 100-yard chunks out of the gorge. Blackened cakes of ice debris swirl down the fast running stream.

With each blast the 25,000 residents of this flooded-battered area could hope that the danger of a new flood had been lessened, at least a little.

But days of hard work were in prospect before the city could count itself safely past the situation which Mayor George Simonotta called "sitting on a keg of dynamite."

Entertainment will be provided by the choir of HCJC, directed by Ira Schantz and accompanied by Jack Hendrix, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, president of the Big Spring Pastors Assn., will deliver the invocation.

Cage Fails To Show Up

AUSTIN (AP)—BenJACK Cage failed to show today when his trial was called on charges of bribing two former chairmen of the State Board of Insurance.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of the playboy promoter. Bonds totaling $5,000 on the two charges were ordered forfeited.

Cage was in Sao Paulo, Brazil. He said yesterday he would return to face charges in Texas as soon as he finishes his business there and elsewhere in South America. He did not say when.

"I will go back to the United States in order to defend myself," Cage said. "I am not guilty of stealing any money."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bob Smith said yesterday the state would ask for forfeiture of $5,000 in bond if Cage did not make an appearance.

ICT promoted the now-defunct ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas and some 70 other business enterprises. He has been convicted of embezzling $100,000 from ICT Corp. The 10-year sentence he was given has been upheld by the Court of Criminal Appeals, which now is considering a second motion for rehearing.

He failed to appear in Dallas last week for trial on additional charges of theft and embezzlement. A total $9,000 in bonds was forfeited.

Cage is charged here with bribing former Insurance Board Chairman J. Byron Saunders and Garland A. Smith. Each faces trial on perjury charges.

Franco's Police Grill Opponents

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Generalissimo Franco's police let three leading monarchist critics of his regime go home Wednesday night after grilling them for five hours.

The three men are leaders of the growing Spanish Union, whose members last week stepped up their agitation for restoration of the monarchy and an end to Franco's regime.

The director of public security said the three had been questioned at police headquarters but not formally arrested. No charges were placed against them.

Cosden's Employes Get 5 Pct. Pay Hike

Employees of Cosden Petroleum Corp. are receiving a five per cent increase in salary and wages.

Announcement of the increase is contained in the issue of the Cosden Copper, company publication, which will be off the press Friday.

R. L. Tollett, president, in his column, "Mr. T. Talks," revealed that the company had raised salaries 5 per cent effective Feb. 1.

The union has accepted an identical increase, said Dan M. Krausse, senior vice president-refining, although some other points are still under negotiation.

The increase does not apply to officers of the company.

No estimates had been made on the amount involved but as of Dec. 31, 1958, Cosden's monthly payroll to 1,025 employees approximated $530,000. On this basis, the total increase could be better than $350,000 for the year.

Tollett pointed out that the salary and wage raise applied to all units of Cosden, the general offices and refining division in Big Spring, the Col-Tex plant at Colorado City, the Hawley refinery north of Abilene and the Cosden and Col-Tex Pipeline divisions.

The increase fits into an industry pattern arising out of union negotiations in the Gulf Coast area. Left to be negotiated with the operating engineers here are individual matters such as some job classifications.

Weather Plane Missing With 12

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—A U. S. Superfortress weather plane and its crew of 12 were missing today and presumed down in the stormy mid-Atlantic.

The big four-engine aircraft had only fuel enough to stay aloft until 3 a.m. today.

The search centered about 300 miles northwest of Bermuda where a Japanese freighter reported it saw a burning plane crash Wednesday morning in the Atlantic. Although the freighter said the plane appeared to be a single-engine craft, the four-engine B50 should have been in the general area at the time.

Coast Guard planes and Navy flying boats scanning the area said conditions were foul with 40 mile-an-hour winds, rough seas, and visibility down to 1 1/2 miles.

Names of the 12 men aboard were withheld until next of kin were notified.

The B50 Hurricane Hunter, attached to the 50th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at Bermuda's Kindley Air Base, set out at 6:45 a.m. Wednesday on a daily flight over the North Atlantic collecting weather data. It was due back at 7:38 p.m.

The Superfortress was last heard from at 8:22 a.m.—18 minutes before the Japanese freighter radioed its report of seeing a plane crash and disappear on hitting the water.

The Coast Guard Cutter Mackinac, based in Bermuda, was racing to the position and was one of the scene this morning. The Aircraft Carrier Tarawa and six accompanying destroyers, which were on maneuvers in the North Atlantic, were ordered to join in the search.

Macmillan Accepts Russ Visit Bid; Dulles Travels To Paris

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has accepted an invitation to visit the Soviet Union beginning Feb. 21.

Macmillan will be accompanied by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and will stay up to 10 days.

Moscow radio broadcast acceptance of the invitation simultaneous with an official announcement in London.

The announcements came only minutes after the departure from the British capital of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for Paris after two days of talks with Macmillan and other British leaders on Western policy including West Berlin's future and German unification.

Dulles arrived from Washington Wednesday and conferred with Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, the first in a series of talks designed to keep a united Allied front against Soviet unprovoked aggression in the West.

Dulles and the British also strongly reaffirmed the Allied rejection of the Soviet Union's proposal to drive the Western forces out of Berlin.

Probers Seek Cause Of Fatal Crash Of Turbojet Airliner

NEW YORK (AP)—Why did the ultramodern airliner with 73 persons aboard crash seconds away from its landing strip at La Guardia Field?

Was it mechanical or human failure, from the ground or in the cockpit, that sent the American Airlines turbo-prop crashing into the icy waters of the East River shortly before midnight Tuesday?

More than two dozen probes seek the why of the tragedy.

Only eight known survivors — including the copilot, flight engineer, and a stewardess—may be able to provide some on-the-spot clues. Twenty-two bodies have been recovered.

The best bet appeared to be the copilot, Frank Hlavacek, 33, of Wilmette, Ill. But he lies critically injured in a hospital, thus far unable to give answers.

Only 4,000 feet from its assigned runway and apparently making a routine landing at more than 100 miles an hour, the craft would have touched down on the strip in about another 30 seconds.

Some of the questions:

Was there a mechanical failure in the airliner, one of six sleek, four-engine giant Electras put in to service by American just 11 days before? The pilot gave no indication of trouble.

Did the pilot, Capt. Albert H. De Witt, 59, of Decatur, Mich., a veteran of 30 years and seven million miles with American, come in too low? Was it a possible failure of altimeter instruments? De Witt was killed in the crash.

Was De Witt's age a factor? He was due to be retired next May when he would have reached 60. But he had passed his physical with flying colors.

Was he the victim of a sensory illusion often experienced by pilots coming over water in the dark, causing them to think they are higher than they are?

Also, another airliner reported experiencing a sudden down-draft in the area near the time of the crash.

Joseph O. Fluet, chief safety director for the Civil Aeronautics Board, said the plane, flight 320 from Chicago was "fairly well aligned with the runway, possibly a bit to the right." Fluet heads a team of 25 investigators.

Runway 22 is sort of a "back door" to the airport's instrument landing strip. It has a localizer beam, which will warn a pilot if his plane is too far right or left.

But it doesn't tell him anything about the altitude. Visibility was about two miles—more than adequate—as the big silver craft roared toward the river. The ceiling was about 400 feet in the rain and fog, considered safe for a landing.

If the wind had been different, the plane would have been offered the "front door," Runway 4, used by pilots landing in the opposite direction.

In addition to the localizer beam this runway has a glide path indicator to tell pilots whether they are coming in too high or too low.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency, James A. Niland, said his agency had discussed installing such altitude-direction equipment on Runway 22. But there are troublesome engineering problems, he added, including the sinking of pilings in adjacent Flushing Bay that might impede water shipping.

Also spearheading an inquiry into the crash is Queens Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor.

The crash was the first of the 104-foot, 50-ton craft, a $1,700,000 airliner that uses its jet exhaust to turn a turbine wheel which is connected to propellers.

Cotton Awards Are Presented Dawson Youths

LAMESA—Three Dawson County 4-H Club boys received prizes for their entries in the second annual county cotton contest Tuesday at a meeting of the Lamesa Kiwanis Club.

The club sponsors the cotton contest which is open to both 4-H and FFA members. Winners were Clinton Smith of the Hancock community, Richard Archer of Punkin Center, Jerry Meeks of Lamesa, and Chippy Matthews of Patricia.

Smith and Archer received $25 bonds each; Meeks won $10 cash and Matthews, who was unable to attend the presentation, will receive $7.50 in cash. The award is based on the amount of lint produced. Each entrant had a five-acre plot of cotton.

Smith produced 1,910 pounds or 382 pounds per acre; Archer produced 4,510 pounds or 902 per acre, and Matthews produced 1,462 pounds or 292 pounds per acre; Meeks produced 1,770 pounds of 354 pounds per acre.

Another Virginia School Integrated

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Another Virginia community was ordered by a federal court to admit Negro children to its white public schools.

Unless a stay is granted, nine Negro students will enter three white schools in Alexandria next Tuesday. This will raise to 30 the number of Negroes attending integrated classes in public schools since the state's segregation barrier was cracked Monday for the first time.

Judge Albert V. Bryan issued the Alexandria desegregation order Wednesday as integrated classes proceeded for the third day in Arlington and Norfolk with no signs of disorder.

Confessions Puzzle Cops

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP)—Gregg County officers mullied over today the bewilderment of Anniston, Ala., police at the stories Willie Philpott, 26, is telling.

Philpott, who says he has uncontrollable urges to strangle and kill, is charged here with the rape-slaying of 10-year-old Joyce Goff last Friday.

He told Longview and Gregg County officers that he assaulted two white women and four Negro women in Anniston in 1949, and turned there last year and raped a Negro girl.

C. F. Pate, admitting Anniston officers Philpott, said no such charges against the mustached Negro were on file in Anniston. Instead, he wanted for two cases involving men.

Deputy Sheriff Philpott has admitted slaying Janice Hunter, a 20-year-old white woman, from the 10th floor of a Dallas hotel and killing her. They said he also admitted slaying Mrs. Trellie Hunter, a Dallas office worker, in 1949, where she worked at the time.

Gulf Increases Proration Pattern

HOUSTON (AP)—Gulf Oil Corp., which cut down on its crude purchases after its big Port Arthur refinery was closed by a strike, yesterday increased its proration pattern for Ellenburger sweet crude oil.

Tuesday it announced a four-day pattern for its sour and sweet crude purchases but yesterday increased the pattern for Ellenburger sweet crude to six days.

The strike affected the purchase of approximately 202,500 barrels of crude daily in West Texas, Southwestern New Mexico and Alabama.

Yesterday's change puts 43,000 barrels of Ellenburger under the six-day pattern. The remaining 159,500 barrels of sour, sweet and intermediate grades will continue under the four-day pattern.

The statewide crude oil allowable in Texas for February calls for an 11-day production schedule.

Fire Bares Still

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. (AP)—Firemen went to a blaze Wednesday in an unoccupied house in this suburban Philadelphia community.

They found it had been caused by a wood fire under a 2,500-gallon capacity still.

State liquor agents said they had been looking for a still in the area the past two months.

Cubans Claim Pilot Plotted Castro Death

HAVANA (AP)—The National Police early today announced that a former U.S. Navy pilot had confessed he came to Cuba in December to kill Rebel Leader Fidel Castro.

A statement from National Police headquarters said Alan Robert Nye, 31, had admitted he was promised $200,000 by the chief of the Batista Air Force, Brig. Gen. Carlos Tabernilla, if he killed the rebel chieftain.

Nye, who says his home is in Whiting, Ind., but who gives Coral Gables, Fla., as his last address, was arrested in Oriente province by Castro's men Dec. 26, five days before former President Fulgencio Batista gave up the fight against the revolution and fled to the Dominican Republic.

Tabernilla fled at the same time, to the United States.

There was no immediate indication what action the revolutionary government would take against Nye. He is being held in the Central Havana jail at National Police headquarters and has been allowed to see U.S. Consular repre-

Five More Guilty Pleas Are Heard

Five more defendants, under indictments for felonies, pleaded in 118th District Court Wednesday afternoon. This brought the total pleas of guilty to eight for the day.

The last grand jury reported 32 indictments involving 29 persons. Most of the pleas of Wednesday were persons billed by this jury.

A number of others are considering which course of action they will follow. Eleven cases have been set down for trial on Monday, Feb. 16. A jury will be notified to report on that date.

Pleas heard Wednesday afternoon and accepted by the court included:

Mary Louise Houston, accused of theft from the person. She was sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Clarence Lee Metcalf, burglary, three years suspended sentence.

Metcalf was indicted for breaking into the Western Grocery on Nov. 12 and stealing six cases of beer.

Kyle Jacks, theft by bailee.

Khrushy Offers Berlin Access To Settle Issue

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, urging an end to the cold war, today offered Soviet guarantees of Western access to West Berlin if his plan for settling the crisis is accepted.

The Western powers so far have declined to consider the plan, which calls for making West Berlin a United Nations responsibility.

Addressing himself to Secretary of State John A. Foster, Dulles, Khrushchev said "Mr. Dulles, if you so desire, then for the sake of ending the cold war we are even prepared to admit your victory in this war that is unwanted by the peoples."

"Regard yourselves, gentlemen, as victors in this war, but end it quickly."

The Soviet leader addressed the closing session of the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party.

To applause, Khrushchev coupled new warnings to the United States with an invitation to President Eisenhower to visit the Soviet Union.

He said Eisenhower could bring anyone he chose, and go anywhere. He said the visit should prove useful.

This invitation came after Khrushchev repeated his warning that the Soviet Union "now has the means to deliver a blow to aggressors in any part of the world."

But Khrushchev expressed confidence the Soviet Union could avoid war and defeat the West in peaceful economic competition.

Turning to Berlin, major point of East-West tension, Khrushchev again presented a formula he advanced Nov. 27—a separate demilitarized West Berlin under U. N. auspices.

West Berlin, though 110 miles from West Germany proper, is now officially a part of that country.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would be willing to guarantee the city's corridors to the outside world. This appeared to be firmer than his previous statement that the Soviet Union would guarantee West Berlin would be supplied with food, and its economy supported by orders from East Germany and the Soviet Union.

The West has rejected the free city proposal advanced as a means of ending the four-power control of the old German capital. The Soviet Union has threatened to turn control of West Berlin's lifelines over to East Germany if a Berlin settlement is not reached by May.

Cold Weather Hammers U. S.

By The Associated Press

Wintry weather hammered northern and central parts of the country today, with the season's worst storm in the central Colorado Rockies and a fresh blast of icy air moving into the Midwest.

Snow swirled across the northern and central Rockies, from Montana into Colorado except for the northeast corner.

It was near or below zero in most areas from sections of the Rockies through parts of the Dakotas, the Upper Mississippi Valley into the northern Great Lakes region.

Gusty northwesterly winds powered the cold air into the north central region. The snow and cold headed into the northeast part of the country.

Snow fell across wide areas in the northern and central Rockies, with heavy falls in most of Colorado except in the northeast corner. More than two feet of new snow piled up at Vail Pass in Eagle County. Snowslides blocked traffic on U.S. Highway 6 at Loveland and U.S. Highway 50 at Monarch Pass.

Denver sloshed through more than seven inches of snow. Scores of traffic accidents resulted from the hazardous driving conditions. The storm also dumped more than seven inches of snow on Missoula, Mont. Lighter amounts fell in scattered areas from the Dakotas into the Great Lakes region, with falls of around one inch in parts of Wisconsin and Michigan.

NOT HAPPY WITH 'GIFT' FOR BIRTHDAY

"That's a — of a birthday present to get!" muttered M. S. Stewart Wednesday afternoon.

Stewart, one of the several persons to plead guilty in the 118th District Court to felony indictments, had just heard Judge Charlie Sullivan refuse to allow a two-year forgery sentence to run concurrently with another previous sentence Stewart already faces.

Stewart told Deputy Tommy Cole who had him in custody that Feb. 4 was his 48th birthday.

He now faces 10 years in prison with the 2 years imposed on Wednesday, Judge Sullivan "stacked" the extra two years—meaning it will begin when Stewart has completed an 8-year term already assessed against him in Spearman.

Dist. Atty. Gil Jones, however, declined to recommend any such action to the court, pointing to the lengthy record that the defendant has with law enforcement agencies. The court assessed two years in prison as punishment for the charge and specified that it run consecutively with the eight-year sentence already hanging fire over the defendant.

Earlier Wednesday, Freddie Mizell had drawn 120 days in jail for DWI second offense; Don Sledge, two years in prison for forgery, and Thomas Melton Dyer, three years suspended sentence for forgery.

Washington Still In Building Boom

WASHINGTON (AP)—Your government has built a lot of nifty new buildings lately, including a 13-million-dollar one that may have been put in the wrong place.

The Eisenhower administration wants to call a halt to voting any new projects at this time.

But the hammering and digging now going on all adds up to a sidewalk superintendent's dream—as well as a drain on the budget.

Hundreds of construction workers head for Capitol Hill every workday morning. Down one corner, big machines are chewing out a pit on which another big office building will be built for House members. The congressmen already have two office buildings, but say they need more space. Cost of the new structure: more than 64 million dollars.

Across the street, the front of the Capitol is being ripped off to make more room. Cost: $10,100,000.

From the Capitol, you can look across the grounds to the impressive new office building for senators, now getting its finishing touches. Price tag: $25,400,000.

Workers are busy a few blocks below Capitol Hill on a fancy new Museum of History and Technology for the Smithsonian Institution. The tab: 36 million dollars.

Down toward the Potomac River, work is coming long on a big addition to the State Department. Cost: 52 million dollars.

The Central Intelligence Agency will get a 46-million-dollar headquarters on the Virginia side of the Potomac. A government office building in Southwest Washington will cost $16,275,000.

The 13-million-dollar structure that many think may have been put in the wrong place is the Atomic Energy Commission Headquarters. It was completed a year ago at Germantown, Md. That's 28 miles from the center of federal activities here, and top officials must commute frequently for conferences. They look upon the travel distance as a nuisance and a waste of valuable time.

The administration stands on opposing any new projects at this time means some face-lifting planned for the city, including progressive elimination of temporary buildings built during World Wars I and II, is being put off again.

The administration in June 1956 outlined a proposed $36,314,000 program for the 1956-59 period to provide permanent quarters for 41,740 employees, or 63 per cent of those then in temporary, non-conforming and leased space.

However, only about 163 million dollars worth of the buildings have been started or will be under way by the end of this year. These will accommodate only about one-fifth of the 41,740 employees.

In the face of the building already under way, the 1959-60 budget recommended that the gov-

DEAR ABBY

HE'S HARMLESS?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a boss who has started to ask me to work nights. I don't mind as I get paid for it. He moves his car after he locks up so nobody will know he is there. During the day he has never made a wrong move toward me, but lately in the evening he twists everything I say to make it sound suggestive or sexy and I am not that way. He's married (I am not) and his family-life does not interest me, but last night he remarked: "You don't ever have to worry about my wife walking in as she lives in the suburbs and can't drive." In your opinion, is this man harmless? OVERTIME DEAR OVERTIME: Like a boa constrictor?

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with Wendell for almost two years. We are in love and want to get married. I am 19 and he is 22. My parents don't like him because his future is unsteady. He hasn't got a job right now but he is looking. When I mention marrying him my parents run him down something terrible and tell me to forget him. Wendell says that if I really loved him I would stand up and tell them if they don't like it they can lump it. I do love him, Abby, but I can't talk to my folks that way. Please tell me what to do. WENDELL'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Shake the stardust out of your eyes and look at the picture clearly. A 22-year-old boy who isn't working has a lot of nerve proposing marriage. Furthermore a boy who encourages a girl to defy her parents turns into the kind of a husband who does as HE pleases—then tells his wife if she doesn't like it SHE can lump it.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the two PING-PONG WIDOWS. Be glad your husbands come home to you after a few sets of Ping-Pong. There are lots of us young men in Korea who play Ping-Pong because that is the only company recreation we have here. When the game is over we don't have wives to go home to, either. We have to go home to the barracks and a GI bunk. PFC "R.M.T." (WONJU, KOREA)

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything wrong with telling people who drop in on you unexpectedly that you have a previous engagement? My husband seems to think we are being insulting if we do this, and he also thinks it is insulting to ask people to please call before coming over. This happened to us last Sunday. The whole family sat home and had a very boring Sunday afternoon while I slipped into the other room and telephoned the people we had planned an outing with and broke the date. Please print this, Abby, it might help others with the same problem. ANDREA

DEAR ANDREA: Your husband is 100 per cent wrong! There is nothing insulting about asking people to please phone before coming over, nor is it insulting to tell them when they drop in unexpectedly that you have a previous date. People who put up with intruders are a cinch to be intruded upon forever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEN: You are overdoing the "togetherness" bit. Mingle if you wanna stay single.

Rep. Burleson Learns Pains Of Publishing On Committee

By TEX EASLEY Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—West Texas Congressman Omar Burleson of Abilene has been a county judge, a sailor and an FBI agent. Besides legislating, he holds down another role—co-publisher of the biggest publication house in the world.

As chairman of the House Administration Committee he is automatically co-chairman with Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) of the joint congressional committee on publications. The enormous Government Printing Office (GPO) comes under their jurisdiction.

"Until I took over this responsibility," Burleson said, "I had no more idea than a rabbit of a lot of the problems that a publisher faces."

"We don't have much to do with the mechanics of the thing, but we have to set policies, handle purchases of newsprint and participate in collective bargaining conferences over wages. Last week we opened bids on nine million dollars worth of envelopes and paper for all government agencies."

Although the GPO publishes pamphlets, books, regulations and application forms by the hundreds of millions of copies annually, probably its most interesting product is the daily "Congressional Record."

Each morning by sun up three delivery trucks are scurrying about over the city delivering copies of the Record to the homes of all members of the House and Senate.

It contains the verbatim transcript of debate which has occurred on the preceding day as well as summaries of bills introduced and committee actions.

The copy moves swiftly. Official reporters take 15 minutes of proceedings, then read their shorthand notes into a dictaphone. Typists hurriedly put it down on paper and minutes later an editor has turned the copy over to a messenger for delivery to the GPO six blocks away.

The Congressional Record, which anyone may subscribe to for $1.50 per month, costs $80 per page to publish. That's the overall cost, including final binding of some copies into permanent books. The size varies with the length of a daily session, but on the average it runs about 60 pages, 11x8 1/2 inches, on regular newsprint. The total publication cost runs about two million dollars a year.

Congress hasn't always been willing to have its daily proceedings set down in print. The Federalists at first rejected proposals of this kind.

A printer in Philadelphia who kept up with doings of the Continental Congress was invited by Thomas Jefferson to come to Washington. He did and founded the National Intelligencer, which he operated as a private enterprise.

About 1800, with Jefferson's backing, this editor was allowed on the floor of the Senate and House and took shorthand notes. It wasn't until 1832 that a regularly published daily journal of proceedings was founded—the Congressional Globe. It was privately published, but received a subsidy through government subscriptions.

In 1861 Congress approved the purchase of an old printing shop here and this was born the Government Printing Office. In 1873 it took over publication of the Globe and changed the name to the Congressional Record. As a wholly government owned and operated business, the format has changed little over the years. The GPO plant is "open shop" but virtually all the mechanical employees belong to unions. They are paid the average rate prevailing in 25 principal cities over the country, or the prevailing rate of their union here in Washington, whichever is higher.

Jobless Payments Show Decline

AUSTIN (AP)—Unemployment compensation payments have declined but remain on a higher level than a year ago, the Texas Employer's Commission said yesterday.

It paid out $1,198,244 for the week ending Jan. 29 on 74,704 claims filed by 72,548 workers. This compares to 73,341 individuals filing 55,211 claims and receiving $1,282,496 the previous week. A year ago, a total $1,085,906 was paid out for a similar period.

Atlantic Signs New Contracts

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—Signing of new contracts with the Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Union was announced here yesterday by Atlantic Refining Co.

The agreement, calling for a 5 per cent increase in pay, covers about 450 employees at the Atlantic refinery here. It expires April 1, 1960.

Pickets remained around the giant Gulf Oil Corp. refinery here as charges and countercharges continued to fly between management and the union.

A union spokesman charged yesterday that Gulf's claim that featherbedding caused the refinery to operate at a multi-million-dollar loss last year was a "fantastic hoax."

Ivan E. Hollier, chairman of Locals 4253 and 4254 at the Gulf plant, said the union has asked Gulf "to show available facts and figures that it is losing money at the Port Arthur refinery due to the alleged reasons and for that matter for any other reason" at a collective bargaining meeting.

"If it turns out there is a bit of truth in this statement, the public can be assured that this union will rise to its responsibilities," Hollier said.

The OCAW has been on strike at the Gulf refinery here for a week in a dispute previously described as over job reclassification. But on Monday Gulf issued a statement listing a number of examples of what it called featherbedding and ridiculous practices at the refinery.

Freak Accidents Kill 2 In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Freak traffic accidents two hours apart killed two persons last night.

Clarence W. Walker, 43, was crushed by another car while pushing his gas-empty auto on South Central Expressway.

Theresa Malaby, 50, of Fort Worth was killed as her car slid sideways into a concrete bridge.

This fellow has the reputation of being pretty smart. In fact, if you press him on the matter, he'll admit to the charge, himself. Question is: just how did he become so knowledgeable . . . so well informed on so many things? The answer is really very simple. In fact, it's no trick at all. It's just that he makes it a practice to read his newspaper so regularly, so carefully, so thoroughly. The news of what's going on around town (and around the world), latest developments in the fields of business, politics, education, sports and many others . . . it's all there for him (or anyone else) to read. So you see how easy it is to get the reputation of being smart. Even if you're not one to make a display of your knowledge, you'll find great personal satisfaction in being "in the know" . . . via your newspaper!

Delay Requested In Consolidation Vote

Election on the proposed consolidation of Gay Hill School District with Borden County Independent School District, tentatively set for Feb. 28, may be delayed.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, said that some of the persons who signed the petition asking that election be called have requested that he delay action at least two more weeks beyond the present scheduled day.

He said he had no objection to doing so if that is the desire of the district and would advise the county judge in Borden County of the development.

Carpenter said that one of the signers of the petition, which bore 31 names, has appeared at his office and asked that his name be stricken from the list. He has had phone calls from several others indicating they also wish to have their signatures removed. They have not showed up in person, however.

Twenty signers are necessary to make the petition operative. These must be residents of the district and be registered voters.

Meantime, Walker Bailey, county superintendent, said that there seemed to have been an erroneous impression ahead of the presentation of the petition that a plan was on foot to consolidate the school with Big Spring.

No such plan has ever been proposed he said. There is no legislation enacted or pending which would bring about such consolidation. He said he was at loss to understand how such a rumor started. He said that several patrons from the district have said they had heard the report.

Meantime, a similar petition bearing 48 names has been filed with the county judge of Borden County.

Under the law, an election of this kind would have to have the approval of both districts involved to be of effect. In other words, if the Gay Hill constituents should vote down the proposal and the Borden County voters approve it, the issue would still be nullified. It would be necessary, it was said, for a majority of the patrons of Gay Hill district and a majority of the voters in Borden County to endorse the proposal at the elections before it could be put in force.

A&M Claims It's 'Poor Boys School'

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas A&M officials pointed to their school today as a "poor boys school."

"It's the cheapest place I know of to go to school," vice president Earl Rudder told the House Appropriations Committee.

Rudder, president M. T. Harrington and numerous members of the A&M board asked the committee to appropriate $5,000 a year from the general revenue fund for the college instead of the $4,200,000 recommended by the Legislative Budget Board.

The budget board did not recommend any increase in teaching salaries, which Harrington said was the paramount problem.

"We like to think that if a boy really wants to go to college he can afford to go to A&M," Rudder said. "Tuition is the same at all state colleges, but at A&M room and board costs only $1.87 a day."

Freshmen and sophomores get a federal clothing allowance because military instruction is compulsory the first two years.

"Then there is not all the social activity and not all the things to do like at the other schools," Rudder said. "Instead of running around at night our students are supposed to be studying with a CQ (charge of quarters) watching them."

Harrington and Rudder were asked if they thought hazing at A&M in past years, the compulsory military participation, and the Aggie's success or lack of success in athletics had any effect on the size of the freshman class.

"Statistics won't prove there is any effect," Harrington said. "I hope athletic success isn't tied to the size of the freshman class," Rudder said.

Rudder was asked several questions about hazing. He said there was nothing now but "mental hazing"—such as making freshmen pass food to upperclassmen before helping themselves.

"We ride herd on it and stay on it pretty good," Rudder said. "Every day I get a report on my desk of any freshman who resigns, and I look into each one."

Aggie officials and board members stood up for the compulsory military training which was reinstated last September after a lapse of several years. However, some parents expect too much, they said.

"Some parents expect us to take a freshman and do in just 4 1/2 months what they have failed to do in 18 years," Rudder said.

Legislative Calm Breaks As Daniel-Calvert Battle Begins

AUSTIN (AP)—The 56th Legislature's calm-before-the-storm appearance disappeared last night when an undercover battle between Gov. Pate Daniel and the state comptroller burst into the open.

After more than two hours of bitter argument the House Revenue and Taxation Committee sent to a subcommittee the administration's bill (HB 53) to erase 18 million dollars of the deficit with a bookkeeping entry.

"An attempt to legalize a false statement," charged Kenneth L. Kimbro, a top aide of State Comptroller Robert Calvert who said he spoke for and at the direction of his boss.

"It's not a false statement," answered J. T. Ellis, finance advisor to the governor. "It's just a definition by the Legislature of what the Constitution says."

The argument was expected to continue informally today in both houses, which were expected to meet briefly and then adjourn for the weekend.

Last night's fireworks in a House committee followed a blast of oratory before the Senate Labor Committee over Sen. George Parkhouse's measure to require certified audits of labor union books. It was sent to a subcommittee for revision.

The bill before the House tax group was sponsored by Rep. James Bates of Edinburg who wants the estimated 18 million dollars flowing into the Omnibus Tax Fund in the final days of this fiscal year credited to the estimated 65-million-dollar deficit in the General Revenue Fund.

No time was set for the subcommittee to report back to the committee on Bates' bill. Members of the subcommittee are Reps. Wesley Roberts, Lamesa, chairman; Ben Atwell of Dallas, and Sam Bass of Preopert.

A Senate subcommittee of three was named to revise Parkhouse's labor regulatory bill and report back to the full committee.

Its members were Parkhouse, Sens. William Wood of Tyler and Hubert Hudson of Brownsville. Parkhouse said some changes could be made so that the measure would not work a hardship on smaller unions.

Jerry Holleman, president of the Texas AFL-CIO, was the first in a stream of witnesses appearing against the measure in yesterday's 3-hour committee hearing.

Parkhouse said that an arrangement had been made in advance of the public hearing for attorneys for proponents and opponents to try and find "some place where an element of agreement can be reached."

The Parkhouse bill would require an audit of union locals' books by a certified public accountant, with copies mailed to all members. It also would allow a member to sue his union to recover damages resulting from a civil wrong by the union or officers.

Cotton Marts Face Price Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's cotton markets face the prospect of having to adjust to a 10 to 12 per cent reduction in prices in the months ahead under influence of a new government program.

This sharp downturn could have far-reaching repercussions in textile and other cotton-using industries as well as on export markets. It could bring modest reductions in retail prices of cotton goods.

Furthermore, it will require the government itself to slash prices on current surplus stocks. This reduction may well reduce the value of these stocks upwards of 40 million dollars, or about $5 a bale.

As in the past when surpluses existed, the government's price support program will largely determine domestic market prices—and influence world prices.

Under an act of Congress last year, the Agriculture Department has put into operation this year a program designed to help cotton complete more favorably with synthetic fibers at home and with foreign cotton as well as man-made fibers abroad by reducing its prices.

For years, synthetics have been eating into cotton markets because of more favorable prices. Likewise, U.S. cotton has suffered abroad from cheaper cottons grown elsewhere.

It is likely that grower prices for 1959-crop cotton—which will start moving to market in volume later Aug. 1—will settle at 27 to 28 cents a pound, or about 27 and 3/4 cents less than the 1958 crop, for the 1/8 inch middling base grade.

Under the new program, growers have the choice of planting within regular acreage allotments, or of exceeding them 40 per cent.

Second Balloon Flight Delayed

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP)—Mechanical difficulties today delayed release of a huge balloon with which scientists hoped to attain a world's record in altitude for unmanned balloons.

A spokesman for the group said the attempt to shatter the 142,000-foot record would be made Friday.

Release of a three-million-cubic-foot balloon was to have been the second in a series of experiments to probe and measure cosmic ray intensities and atmospheric particle composition at various phases of solar activity. Dr. Frank McDonald of the University of Iowa said.

McDonald said the first experiment Wednesday was successful. In it a balloon of 1 1/2-million cubic feet soared to an altitude of 122,000 feet. The Balloon racks back data.

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters today declined comment on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal that Eisenhower visit the Soviet Union.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, told a news conference that the President had heard about Moscow news dispatches on the Khrushchev proposal in a speech to the 21st Communist party congress.

He replied, "No, not as yet" when asked whether the Soviet Union had extended any formal invitation.

Appeal For Employment For Ex-Mental Patients Issued

Bob James, vocational rehabilitation counselor at Big Spring State Hospital, sounded an appeal Wednesday for business people to accept former mental hospital patients as workers.

"When we certify that they are well, that's exactly what we mean," he said. "They don't want or expect special treatment; merely an opportunity to do a good job for an employer and to become re-established in the community."

He projected a film, produced by the State Mental Hospital Development Assn., which struck at the idea some stigma is attached to having been mentally ill.

A total of 2,200 persons have been rehabilitated since 1955, he said. Prior to their rehabilitation they were earning an aggregate of $625,000 and afterwards $4,325,000 per annum.

Moreover, they were costing the state $177,000 annually prior to rehabilitation. Hence, putting these people back into productive work in society is of great economic importance, said James. Even greater may be the social importance of getting them back into the regular stream of things.

Weather Changes To Good For Ike

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower's weather luck—all bad at the start of his Southland vacation—turned good today. He went quail hunting under sunny skies.

There still was an overcast when he was having breakfast at the plantation home of his host, George M. Humphrey.

But the sun broke through the clouds a bit later.

The weather today was in sharp contrast to that when the President arrived from Washington Wednesday after a rough plane ride.

The weather was so bad — drizzling rain and dense fog that the President's private plane had to make an instrument landing at Moody Air Force Base at Valdosta, Ga., 67 miles southeast of Humphrey's plantation estate here. The ceiling was about 400 feet—200 more than the minimum safe level—and the ground visibility was about one mile.

Eisenhower was forced to abandon original plans to land at Spence Air Force Base at Moultrie, Ga., which is only about 35 miles from the Humphrey place. Spence has no instrument landing facilities, and it was fogged in.

As it was, the presidential plane had to circle about the Moody base for about a half hour before the fog lifted sufficiently to land. Fifteen minutes before the plane landed, the fog lifted and the ceiling was only 100 feet and visibility a half mile.

An Eisenhower aide aboard the plane said the latter part of the flight from the capital was the roughest in six years of traveling with the President.

Eisenhower, however, was in a cheerful mood on stepping from his plane.

"What is your Georgia sunshine?" he inquired with a chuckle. "It looks like you're having a little rain here."

That was putting it mildly. Despite a big blue and white umbrella raised to protect him, the President was rain-whipped by the time he got to his closed car.

He was met at the airport by Humphrey and another old friend, William E. Robinson of New York, board chairman of Coca Cola. Another New Yorker, Barry Leitch, head of Cluett-Peabody, flew with Eisenhower from Washington.

It still was raining when the President and his party reached the Humphrey plantation. After dinner Eisenhower and his three companions played bridge.

This is the President's sixth February visit in a row to Thomasville as Humphrey's guest. Last year Eisenhower arrived right after the area's first snow in a half century.

ARMY CHARGES GI IN SLAYING

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. Army today charged Pfc. Kenneth M. Burke, 22, of Del Rio, Tex., with premeditated murder and attempted murder in the fatal shooting of one soldier and the wounding of another.

The charges followed a preliminary investigation by the Seoul area Army provost marshal of the Jan. 23 shooting. The Army said a further investigation will determine whether the evidence warrants the charges.

Burke is held in the 8th Army stockade just outside Seoul.

He is charged with killing Pvt. Frank Galzano, 23, of Miami, Fla., and wounding Sp. 4C. Philip B. Mead, 18, of Lancaster, Pa.

The Army said the shooting resulted from a grudge Burke held against Mead.

GOLIAD, RUNNELS 5's IN COLLISION TODAY

The famous cry of the Texas patriots, "Remember Goliad!" has been ringing through the halls of Big Spring's first junior high school recently.

The chant has nothing to do with injustices against the people of that far-flung community, however. Rather it can be associated with the three basketball games this evening in Steer gym pitting the teams of Goliad and Runnels Junior High Schools against each other.

For all six teams, these are "the big ones," the ones they've been waiting for all season. Action will get under way in the Seventh Grade engagement at 5 p.m. The Eighth Graders play at between the Ninth Grade clubs—is believed to begin about 7:45 p.m. A large crowd is anticipated.

Runnels is favored in the Seventh and Eighth Grade games but Goliad is a strong choice in the Ninth Grade go.

The Runnels Seventh Graders are coached by Dan Bustamante. His counterpart at Goliad is Don Stevens.

Eighth grade coach at Runnels is Bobby Zellars and at Goliad, Jimmy Marcus.

John Perry Yates masterminds the Runnels Ninth grade team. Dan Lewis has the same job at Goliad.

Yates has indicated he will go with a lineup composed of Skipper Driver, Tommy Tompkins, Chap Smith, James Gilbert and David Maberry.

In 11 starts, the Ninth Grade Yearlings have won only one game. That was a 23-19 decision over Ackerly.

In other assignments, the Runnels team has lost to San Angelo Edison by scores of 44-28 and 44-24; San Angelo Lee, 58-21 and 57-30; Lamesa, 45-23 and 45-15; Sweetwater, 37-32; Snyder, 39-31; Colorado City, 77-49; and Andrews, 66-58.

Coach Lewis has indicated he will start a lineup consisting of Jerry Tucker, 5-9; Roy Lee Jones, 5-10; Don Ellis, 6-0; Jimmy Madry, 5-11; and George Ryan, 5-4.

Others who will be in uniform for the Mavericks include Ernie Samples, 5-11; Richard Bain, 5-11; Dexter Pate, 5-9; Rick Ebling, 5-8; Red Schwarzenbach, 6-1; Jerry Younger, 6-0; Coy Mitchell, 5-7; Ralph Neil, 5-6; and Mike Nelson, 5-10.

Madry has scored 170 points in the 13 games the Mavs have played for an average of 13.1 per game. Ellis has counted 55. Tucker 83, Jones 59, Ryan 115, Nelson 17, Bain six, Pate 10, Ebling 18 and Schwarzenbach eight.

The Mavericks have won nine while losing only four.

Their record: Goliad 41 San Angelo Edison 37; Goliad 46 Snyder 36; Goliad 40 San Angelo Lee 50; Goliad 38 Lamesa 27; Goliad 48 Colorado City 34; Goliad 49 Lamesa 43; Goliad 40 Denver City 50; Goliad 44 Lamesa 40; Goliad 43 Sweetwater 40 (overtime); Goliad 38 San Angelo Lee 55; Goliad 38 Snyder 39; Goliad 50 Colorado City 42; Goliad 45 San Angelo Edison 42.

The Mavericks have outscored the opposition, 450 points to 505. Maberry and Gilbert have been named permanent captains of the Runnels Ninth Grade club.

The Runnels team will crown its Basketball Queen between halves of the feature contest.

North Carolina State's multiple defenses in basketball are giving the opposition fits.

The Wolfpack employs defenses called man-to-man, full court press, zone press, a box-and-one, a match-up, ball control, sliding zones, plus a 1-2-2, 1-1-3, 1-3-1, 2-1-2 and 2-3, among others.

San Angelo sources say Bob Harrell would probably have taken the coaching job at Brazosport had he been allowed to take a staff of six assistants with him.

The Brazosport officials insisted that all their assistants be retained, however. Harden Cooper filled the job recently.

Joe Kirkwood Jr., who once played Joe Palooka in the movies, is making the full swing with the touring golf pros. He's recognized as one of the longest betters in the game. However, he's not winning much money.

His father is Joe Kirkwood Sr., the famed trick artist.

Aggravated hard to understand why the University of Colorado got rid of Bill Ward as head football coach, as unjust as it may seem.

The rest of the Big Eight schools have long since conceded the conference grid crown to Oklahoma. Not so with Colorado, tired of the Sooner monopoly.

He indicated last night that others might be added.

He said the Steers probably would play Kermit here but a date has not yet been arranged. Fort Worth Poly, which played a three game series here in 1958, won't be able to return. Herman Clark, director of athletics in the Fort Worth schools, said some other Fort Worth team might be able to make it, however.

The Steers' schedule: March 10, Pecos here. March 13, Lubbock Monterey there. March 16, Pecos here. March 19, Pecos S. Lubbock here. March 22, Pecos here. March 25, Pecos Austin here. March 28, Pecos here. April 1, San Angelo there (C). April 4, Odessa there (C). April 7, Midland there (C). April 10, Midland here (C). April 13, Midland here. April 16, San Angelo there (C). April 19, San Angelo here (C). April 22, Midland there (C). April 25, Midland there (C). (C) - denotes conference games.

He has not yet committed himself but conditions are favorable that ACC's famed Bobby Morrow will be able to compete in the American Business Club Relays again this year.

R. H. Weaver, chairman of the huge track carnival, said he had been informed that Morrow was not committed to run March 28-29, at which time the Relays will be staged.

ACC officials have indicated that Morrow probably would run, if the ABC people will also line up Dave Sime of Duke for the meet.

Sime handed Morrow one of his rare defeats in the local show last week and Bobby would like to get revenge.

Glenn Davis, Ohio State's great Olympic star, said he would like to compete against the two at 300 yards, if such a race could be arranged.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Glenn Davis, Ohio State University's great track athlete, will be using up the last of his college eligibility when he competes in the American Business Club Relays here March 28-29. He's not eligible for the spring term at Columbus.

It hasn't been determined in which events he will compete but chances are he'll be entered in one sprint, a hurdles race and a relay or two.

Three assistant coaches at Army already had jobs lined up with other schools, if someone other than Dale Hall had been named to succeed Earl Blaik as mentor.

The fellow with the biggest stake in the National Football League's players' pension plan is a fellow who is no longer active in the game—Bill Dudley.

If the plan is adopted and placed with his company, Dudley, an insurance agent, will reap a fee that will dwarf the payments to players (estimated now at $100 per player, who becomes eligible at 65).

Hobbs, N.M., took over first place in its basketball district recently with a 69-49 victory over Artesia and the lad who struck the biggest blow for the winners was Goose Clay, brother to HCJC's Ray Clay. Clay tossed in 21 points. Hobbs led all the way in the game.

That United States basketball team, which suffered a couple of ignominious defeats in South America recently, could hardly be called representative of the country.

Personnel for the club was obtained by running an ad for volunteers in an Air Force paper.

Players desiring a tryout had to pass their requests through channels and risked veto by superiors anywhere along the line.

The team was given a hard time by fans at the tournament site, Santiago, Chile. They peppered the Americans with paper, coins and fruit during the time they were playing and accompanied the showers with calls of "Russia, Russia."

After the losing effort with the Soviets, the Santiago Ultima Hora, a newspaper, stated:

"When it comes to shooting at the moon or at a basket, the United States cannot keep up with Russia."

The U.S. might have better basketball players than Russia but those who qualify didn't see the ad.

Walter Reed, one-time high school principal here, had much to do with the hiring of Johnny Hickman as head football coach at Levelland High School.

Reed, now the principal at Levelland, asked Bill Sheffield, a former co-worker, to be on the lookout for a competent young man and Sheffield, then the coach at LaFkin, recommended Hickman.

Johnny had looked into prospective jobs at Artesia, N.M., and Yalata before the Levelland position opened up.

North Carolina State's multiple defenses in basketball are giving the opposition fits.

The Wolfpack employs defenses called man-to-man, full court press, zone press, a box-and-one, a match-up, ball control, sliding zones, plus a 1-2-2, 1-1-3, 1-3-1, 2-1-2 and 2-3, among others.

Standings: Zale's Jewelry 47, 20 1/2; Tom's Motor 43, 21; Tom's Peanuts 41, 20; Warren Clinic 20, 40; Wasson-Trantham 23, 43; Caprock 28, 48.

Ed Hickey Has His New Quint Rolling

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Hickey, the little perfectionist with the big shadow of basketball success, is headed for another tournament berth even though he has traded the blue and white of St. Louis for Marquette's Blue and Gold.

The 5-5 bundle of basketball strategy has the warriors zipping along at a pace no one thought possible when he took control last fall. They nailed their 14th straight and 16th in 17 games Wednesday night, 73-62 over Bowling Green. The Marquette led 23 points when Hickey recalled the regulars to the bench with six minutes remaining.

You can be sure he has the Warriors from Milwaukee on the prospect list of both the National Invitation and the National College Tournaments.

This from the remnants of and additions to a Marquette team that dawdled along to an 11-11 record a year ago.

Since it's Hickey in charge, it's understandable. He has handled basketball fortunes at two other schools in his 20-year career. Before World War II he built Creighton into one of the powers of the Midwest, twice winning NIT bids. His first St. Louis team won the NIT championship in 1948, and his flashy, fast-breaking Billiken teams subsequently made six more NIT appearances and twice played in the NCAA tournament.

It all adds up to a 360-162 for the little guy with the big results.

Hickey and Marquette took a share of Wednesday night's spotlight from North Carolina and Cincinnati, both of whom fattened their national prestige.

Frank McGuire's Tar Heels, second-ranked nationally, pushed their winning streak to seven, their Atlantic Coast Conference mark to 8.0, and their overall record to 13-1 with 64-57 victory over Maryland. York Larese, one of Carolina's dandy sophomores, scored 32 points.

Fifth-ranked Cincinnati, with All America Oscar Robertson scoring 38 for 33.2 average, crushed a better than average Dayton Team, 96-74. The Bearcats have won their last nine for a 15-2 ledger.

In other features, Kansas took second place in the Big Eight standings as Ron Loneski scored 19 points in a 71-44 whipping of Oklahoma; Bob Ayersman, the soph with the 26.9 average, hit for 34 in Virginia Tech's 76-69 Conference victory over the Citadel, and Arlen Clark became a 1,000-point man for Hank Iba's low-scoring Oklahoma State. Clark bagged 24 for a career total of 1,004 in a 58-38 romp over Texas.

Army won its sixth in a row for a 12-5 mark, 61-49 over Lehigh as Sammy Kouss scored 26 points. George Raveling fired 27 points and grabbed 28 rebounds in Villanova's 72-63 decision against Wagner in the first of two at the Philadelphia Palestra. Muhlenberg beat LaSalle 92-75 in the second game behind Steve Matelli's 30 points.

Ed Blair's season average dipped to 23.5 as he scored 22 in leading Western Michigan over Toledo with 68-61 in a mid-American Conference match. Little Adelphi beat big brother Fordham for the first time in memory, 81-69, and Tom Harrington's 50 points set a Rhode Island record in a 119-106 caper with Brandeis.

Georgetown in Washington beat Syracuse 85-70 by hitting 56 per cent of its shots, and Louisville walloped Florida Southern 88-57.

Lawrence is out. COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Texas A&M may be without the services of tall Wayne Lawrence when the Aggies play Baylor in basketball here Saturday night. Lawrence is out with a bruised instep.

Naturally, the Yankees are the team to beat if their pitching holds up and is deep enough, they will be rough.

Next—Eddie Sawyer, Philadelphia Phillies.

Phoenix used a 3 iron to sink his ace on the par-3 197-yard ninth hole. It was his fourth hole in one, but first in competition.

Martin, who coached the Air Force Academy to an undefeated season last year, dropped a 3 wood shot into the cup on the 208 yard eleventh hole. It was the first ace for Martin, who was using a set of borrowed clubs.

Veterans of the professional tour said they could not recall another pro-am event when two amateurs sank aces in the same round.

Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., and young Tony Lema, San Leandro, Calif., cornered a share of the spotlight by posting five under par 65s and pocketing the first payoff of the 72-hole tournament—$225 each as low professionals in the pro-am.

Most of the pros found the 6,602-yard Arizona County Club course rough going with its numerous traps and tree-lined fairways. Eleven of those participating in the pro-am broke the 34-36-70 par.

LOOKS TO DALLAS COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Florida State, with a victory over Texas A&M swimmers, 56-30, looks toward Dallas and a dual meet with Southern Methodist tomorrow. Florida State beat the Aggies yesterday with Paul Hammond and Buck Hiles leading the way with two victories apiece.

Syracuse Nats A Tough-Luck Cage Troupe

By The Associated Press

The Syracuse Nationals are really hurting this time.

The National Basketball Assn. Nats lost their fourth in a row Wednesday night. The Nats have lost these four by a total of just seven points.

St. Louis took the Nats 113-111, but almost blew an 18-point halftime lead in the process.

In other NBA action, New York broke Boston's six-game winning streak with a 129-126 victory and Phil Jordan threw in a desperation hook shot in the last five seconds of the second overtime period for a 119-117 Detroit victory over the Philadelphia Warriors.

Ed Conlin led a third-period surge that brought Syracuse to 81-83 as the fourth quarter began. The Nats tied the score seven times in the last period.

Clyde Lovellette led St. Louis with 30 points while Conlin topped Syracuse with 23.

Richie Guerin scored 39 points and helped spark the Knicks from a 13-point fourth - period deficit against Boston. The Celtics were paced by Frank Ramsey and Bill Russell with 22 points apiece.

Jordan's hook shot was only the fourth field goal for Detroit in the final 16 minutes, but the winners were able to overcome three-point Warrior leads at the beginning of each extra session.

Detroit was led by Walt Dukes with 26 points. Paul Arizin paced the Warriors with 29.

Bobcats, Bulldogs Tangle Tonight

SAN ANGELO (SC)—Midland and San Angelo play a makeup District 2-AAA basketball game here this evening. The tilt was originally scheduled for Tuesday night but was postponed due to bad traveling conditions on the roads.

Ike Asks Law Banning Force Or Threat In School Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called on Congress today to strengthen civil rights laws by making it a federal crime to use force or threats of force to obstruct court orders in school desegregation cases.

As part of a seven-point legislative package, Eisenhower said this proposal would give the government a valuable enforcement power to deter mob violence and such other acts of violence or threats which seek to obstruct court decrees in desegregation cases.

The program had been tagged by the President in advance as a moderate one designed not to raise temperatures.

But it may not please either Southern segregationists or Northern liberals of both parties in all respects.

Additional investigative power for the FBI in crimes involving destruction of schools or churches, Eisenhower would make a federal offense of flight from one state to another to avoid detention or prosecution.

Authority for the attorney general to inspect federal election records and require the preservation of such records for a reasonable time, in order to help preserve the right to vote as "the keystone of democratic self-government."

Temporary financial and technical help to state and local agencies to help them adjust to the school integration.

Temporary authority to provide for educating children of members of the military services whose schools have been closed because of integration troubles.

Extension for two years of the life of the Civil Rights Commission. The commission will go out of business in September without an extension.

Converting the committee on government contracts into a commission on equal job opportunity on a statutory basis.

At present, nondiscrimination in employment under government contracts is required only by presidential executive orders rather than under specific laws enacted by Congress.

"Two principles basic to our system of government," Eisenhower said, "are that the rule of law is supreme and that every individual regardless of his race, religion or national origin is entitled to the equal protection of the laws. We must continue to seek every practicable means for reinforcing these principles and making them a reality for all."

"The United States has a vital stake in striving wisely to achieve the goal of full equality under law for all people. On several occasions I have stated that progress toward this goal depends not on laws alone but on building a better understanding and a better spirit."

"It is thus important to remember that any further legislation in this field must be clearly designed to continue the substantial progress that has taken place in the past few years. The recommendations for legislation which I am making have been weighed and formulated with this in mind."

One thing which reportedly came out at the last minute—although Vice President Richard M. Nixon was supposed to have wanted it—was a proposal to let the federal government intervene more directly in school integration suits. This would have been done under suggestions which were considered at one point, by suits filed by the attorney general in instances in which the government could prove that individuals were fearful of reprisals if they themselves sued.

It was obvious many of the liberals who have been pushing for action to speed school integration would be disappointed on this score. It was equally clear that Southern segregationists would not like most other parts of the program.

Included in the latter category were proposals for inspection of registrars' books in voting rights cases and for action against those who foment disorder in integration and voting disputes.

Southerners scoffed at a proposal to make a small amount of federal money available to help states plan orderly school integration.

Their reaction was passive to a recommendation that the Health, Education and Welfare Department provide funds for the construction of schools for children of military personnel where classrooms have been closed in a fight against integration.

Atty. Gen. Rogers and Secretary of Welfare Flemming explained the administration's program to Sens. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) and Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) at an unannounced conference Wednesday.

Neither senator would comment publicly, but it was evident their determination to fight any new civil rights legislation had not been changed by what they had learned.

Republican leaders who previewed the Eisenhower program generally described it as more far-reaching than one previously offered by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Johnson proposed establishment of a Federal Conciliation Service to lessen racial tensions. He asked for subpoena power for the attorney general in voting rights cases. He proposed federal investigation and penalties in bombings. He suggested continuing the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

All of these except the conciliation service recommendation are covered in one way or another in the Eisenhower program.

Lamesa School Officials Get Contract Extensions

LAMESA — The Lamesa school board has renewed contracts for a number of the school's administrative officials. The board renewed the contract of Supr. C. W. Taylor for one year, extending the length of his tenure to four more years.

Contracts of school principals were also extended, giving three-year terms to G. L. Trice, junior high; K. D. Smith, North elementary principal; C. E. Green, director of attendance and transportation; and Lee McCalister, Blackshear principal.

The contract of H. A. Wilkinson, Central elementary principal, was not extended since he has announced plans to attend Texas Tech and work on his doctorate.

His contract still has two years to run.

At a previous meeting, the board extended the contracts of Abe Holder, high school principal, to three years and Coach O. W. Pollock to two years.

Architect Howard Allen presented preliminary plans for the new southwest elementary school at the board meeting. Plans for the new auditorium and vocational agriculture building at the high school have already been approved by the trustee group.

Tax collections as reported by Mrs. Frank Dennis, assessor-collector, show that a total of $395,225 or 91.8 per cent of the current roll have been received. The total enrollment in the Lamesa schools is 3,471 pupils and average daily attendance is 3,169.

No Walls Left In Cafe For Plate Collection

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Five years ago Mrs. O. J. Brown brought three small decorative plates from home and hung them on the wall of the cafe she and her husband operate here. Today there just isn't room on the walls to hold any more.

Friends, customers and people she doesn't even know have sent her souvenir plates from every state in the U. S. and 10 foreign countries until her collection now numbers 405.

Many of the pieces are gifts from truckers who make the Brown cafe their regular stopping point on trips. Tourists who drop in and see the interesting collection often send Mrs. Brown a plate from some spot along their travels or one from their native state when they return home.

Other plates have been sent by servicemen, once stationed in Corpus Christi, now overseas. One plate is decorated with German-type lettering and so far Mrs. Brown hasn't been able to find anyone who can—or will—give her the translation. Another depicts the Leaning Tower of Pisa and made its way from Italy without damage. Perhaps the most unusual piece in the collection is a white plate with blue lettering announcing the birth of the Brown's son, Michael Oscar, on February 1, 1957, another gift of a customer. It now hangs in the place of honor, just above the cash register, at the entrance of the cafe.

Many women customers browse around the cafe for hours looking at the collection and Mrs. Brown figures if she gets many more the building will have to be enlarged or she will have to find a way to hang them from the ceiling.

Brown says they've never tried to put a price value on the collection. "After all," he explains, "you can't put a price tag on friendship and that's how we've come by the many plates."

Postal Nominations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sent to the Senate yesterday for confirmation these postmaster nominations from Texas: George D. Fitzsimmons Jr., Alice; Marion Lee Neal, Baytown; William C. Brown, Brownfield; Homer B. Adams, College Station; Lamont Burnett, Hillsboro; Charles M. Martinson Jr., Jasper; Lloyd A. Adams, Mount Pleasant; Horace W. McAdams, Muleshoe; Wade M. Slough, Odessa, and Kyle C. Elam, Port Arthur.

Part Of A Large Plate Collection

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Brown of Corpus Christi, look over part of their collection of plates in their cafe. They have souvenir plates from every state in the union and 10 foreign countries. Customers and friends have sent them the 405 plates over a five year period.

Manufacturer Gets Court To Bar Mom At Wedding

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A wealthy Pasadena manufacturer has obtained a court order that prohibits his mother from attending his marriage next Sunday in suburban San Marino.

Louis E. Purmort, 34, got the injunction after telling the court that his mother, Mrs. Tessie Purmort, 68, had told him she would kill him rather than see him marry Mrs. Barbara Stanley Thorndike, a divorcee. Mrs. Purmort is the wife of George Purmort, 68, retired Milwaukee construction engineer.

The son informed the court that his mother had written his lawyer, blaming Mrs. Thorndike, 26, for breaking up his first marriage. The divorce became final Friday. The former wife, Mrs. Carolyn Frances Purmort, obtained custody of their two children. "I would rather see you dead than married to Barbara," Purmort quoted his mother. "If you go ahead and get married in church, I'm going to be there and stop this marriage." Superior Court Judge Ellsworth Meyer ordered Mrs. Purmort to stay away from the wedding, from the wedding reception, and the going-away party. The couple will leave for Hawaii on their honeymoon.

Purmort told the court that his mother's actions have alarmed the parents of his bride-to-be and that they fear for the safety of their daughter. He said his mother had written slanderous letters about him, that her conduct had interfered with his business, upset him emotionally, and that because of her letters and accusations many of his friends had indicated they would not attend the wedding. He said his father is agreeable to the marriage.

Future Of Test Ban Parley Depends On Science Fact

GENEVA (AP)—The future of the East-West conference on suspension of nuclear weapon tests may hinge on Soviet acceptance of one simple idea—a scientific instrument knows no politics.

After three months of negotiations, the conference of delegates from the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union remains in a deadlock.

A Soviet demand for sweeping veto rights over all inspection and control arrangements designed to police a test ban never will be accepted by the United States and Britain, conference sources say. The Soviet Union fears that without a veto, the other two atomic powers would gang up on it.

The Western delegations understand this Soviet fear. They explained, however, that a veto would make any agreement to suspend tests meaningless.

A government accused of sneaking an atomic or hydrogen explosion could veto the sending of an inspection team into its territory or veto the findings resulting from an on-the-spot investigation. The country even would be able to strike an accusation against it from the records.

What avenues are left open for the conference? Can some safe way be found to give some sort of parity between East and West? Can a system be worked out whereby inspection would be automatic and uncolored by political considerations?

The American and British delegations feel it might be possible to make control of a test ban depend basically on the readings of such instruments as seismographs. Standards might be set up so that inspections would take place automatically when a specified number of instruments in control posts recorded a suspicious disturbance.

As one source explained, the instruments themselves would not lie. They would go on year after year recording disturbances in all parts of the world.

Complexion Formula From Her Mother

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Jessie Royce Landis has made so many pictures in England that she is often taken for a British subject. The first time we met, she was on the Riviera playing Grace Kelly's mother in "To Catch a Thief." Now she is playing another mother in "North by Northwest" for MGM.

"Do you think spending so much time in London is the secret of your beautiful complexion?" I asked.

"My mother had the most lovely skin, and she never used soap on her face. She felt it was too drying. So I have followed her routine faithfully," Miss Landis explained.

"It has worked so well on you. Would you mind giving me your secrets?"

"I clean my face with baby oil, and then I go over with an astringent diluted in water. My mother felt too much oil and cream softened the skin, and so to firm it she used corn starch

Meats Head Parade Of Bargains

By Associated Press
A wide variety of meats is among top-value offerings at Texas food markets this week, the Agricultural Marketing Service says.

Involved are pork, chicken, turkey and canned sardines.

Late fall's huge pig crop is being converted into lower fresh pork prices at all stores. Broilers lost much of their price gains of a week ago as live birds again are selling four to six cents a pound below prices of a year ago. California sardines are back in volume after being in short supply for several years when imports took over much of the market.

Top-grade eggs declined as much as three cents a dozen at some Texas buying stations.

Vegetables and fruits with attractive price labels include apples, avocados, carrots, cauliflower, celery, Texas oranges and grapefruit, d'anjou pears and potatoes.

Cucumbers, tomatoes and Texas cabbage prices are some lower. Lettuce is a bit higher but still reasonable.

Crystal wax onions from old Mexico have begun to appear at Texas markets.

Most Florida shipments of pole beans, eggplant, radish, squash and other produce are priced lower this week than last. Temple oranges from Florida are being delivered in increased volume.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Things I wouldn't know if I had not watched the TV commercials: All washdays are sandy, windy, or threatened with sudden showers, and the clothes don't hang straight on the line if one doesn't own an automatic dryer.

Joy knows no bounds when the whitest of white clothes come forth from a certain washing detergent, and the clothes hang beautifully on the line with just a gentle breeze to dry them.

A whiff of a certain toilet soap can take a beautiful woman right off into the glamour of Paris.

Although people were once very pleased with the results of baking from the 'bottom' out, they were just in a shroud of ignorance because anyone knows that the ready mixes are far superior.

Washing dishes makes lines in a housewife's face until she finds out about new dish washing marvels which make her good-natured, manicured and coiffed and beautiful beyond dreams.

Waxing floors with old-fashioned waxes was always done on hands and knees and the wax never held up overnight. The new waxes not only are applied with a flick of the wrist, but the housewife is already dressed for a party which she is going to attend the second she finishes because she feels so fresh.

Today brought an end to a happy time in the home of Mrs. EKLAH BRYANT. Her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Myers, and an aunt, Mrs. Emma Gould Cook, all of Nashville, Tenn., have been visiting. The three were planning to drive to Eastland today to visit other relatives. They had been in Hartlingen before making the visit here.

YOUNG MODERNS

Pat Boone Tells How To Grow Up

By The Associated Press
Singer Pat Boone's book, "Twixt Twelve and Twenty," fingers the problems of teen-agers in chatty style, parlaying Pat's own logic and conclusions into pretty understandable lingo.

The book is a yardstick to the good life, but it isn't as if Pat hasn't made mistakes, he confesses, such as:

His elopement at 19 that worked into a happy marriage but brought sadness in recollection that he should have confided in his parents.

Or the time he put his savings into a couple of chinchillas.

Pat, who got his last spanking at 17 with the sewing machine belt, was ashamed of his house, but rustled up a sense of values that young people were "always ashamed of something to do with their home or family."

Soon he reasoned that people were not as interested in what he had or wore as what he was, and that it was he who could stand improvement and should be prepared for scrutiny.

First, grow up spiritually and learn to know God. Second, grow up socially, accepting your role in the community and duties as citizens. Third, consider your mental growth and that "until we can think, and do think, we are second hand people."

A Columbia University graduate, magna cum laude, Pat reminds us "you are never too young to do great things." George Washington at 17 got a certificate as a surveyor from William and Mary College. Joan of Arc was 16 when she raised the siege of Orleans. Edna St. Vincent Millay was 14 when her first poem was published in a national magazine.

Fourth consideration should be physical growth, he says.

Fifth observation is that work is part of growing up. Pat points out that no matter what you think about it, chores are always going to be with you.

Sixth is the development of sound financial practices.

Pat agrees that kissing is here to stay, recalling that at age 13 a girl told him that he "kissed like a cow" when they were playing "spin-the-bottle" at a party. He believes a kiss to be a beautiful expression of love, but that kissing for fun is "like playing with a candle in a room full of dynamite."

Pat is not against going steady, but he thinks there should be gaps in the togetherness. He doesn't recommend elopements or teenage marriage.

The book includes some important tips to newlyweds under the heading, Maxims on Marriage.

Surprise Party Given Couple By Lutheran Group

An unusual element was introduced into a surprise farewell party Wednesday evening when St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday School teachers and members of the church choir honored Lt. and Mrs. Robert Mackensen, who will leave soon for another station.

Both have been members of the choir, and the lieutenant has been a teacher in the Sunday School.

Having been told that the party was to be given for another couple, Lt. Mackensen was requested to bring slides which he had taken in various countries of Europe. He did, and he furnished the entertainment at his own party.

Twenty attended the affair, which was given in the parish hall of the church. Gifts were presented to the couple, and refreshments were served informally.

Two Pies Coming Up!

Not that he needs any practice in pie-baking, but Ray Eckler is "boning up" on the pies he plans to take to the chili supper the Wesley Methodist Men are staging Friday evening. Cooking is fun to Eckler, who has been doing it since he was eight years old.

Ray Eckler Learned His Way Around Kitchen As A Pre-Teenager

When the Wesley Methodist men stage their fourth annual chili supper Friday evening, Ray Eckler expects to be in the thick of activity. As a matter of fact, he was one of the originators of the chili and pancake suppers, proceeds from which are diverted to the Boy Scout and youth activities sponsored by the church. And cooking is "old hat" with him.

His pies will be among the hundred or so slated for consumption that evening. Pies are his specialty; that is, next to cakes. But Eckler likes to cook whole meals too, and most of the culinary preparation at home is left to him, by choice. Breakfast and dinner are the major meals at 621 State, since Mrs. Eckler is a saleswoman at C. R. Anthony's and her husband is a route salesman for Coca Cola.

Eckler was but eight years old when he became indoctrinated in kitchen doings. One day a week was set aside for baking during his childhood in Wyoming and Utah. Since his mother was subject to migraine headaches, sometimes it was up to him as the oldest child to finish up the baking chores under her direction. This introduction gave him a headstart over most cooks, and the interest in food preparation intensified.

When the Ecklers' daughter, now Mrs. Delbert Burchett, was a home economics student at high school, she came home one day with a pastry recipe. Her father tried it out and hasn't found a better one; this included here, along with a recipe for buttermilk pie which Mrs. Eckler's mother used often. Also, by request, reprinted is the formula for Orange Date Cake. This fruit-like concoction is at its best when aged in orange

Party Foods Need Appeal To Eye, Taste

It's the little touches that mark a hostess as a gracious party giver. The menu need not be elaborate. The secret lies in how good everything tastes and how attractive it looks. Here are some of the points for which you should strive.

Plan your menu well beforehand, avoiding fancy foods that take too much last minute attention, or are a bit tricky in preparation.

Choose pleasing color combinations in the food, just as in your table setting. Add color accents with garnishes and relishes. Radishes, green and black olives, pickles, and carrot strips are the small extras that can provide needed color as well as flavor.

Provide contrast in flavors too. Serve a slightly tart salad, for example, with a rich, hearty main dish.

Finally, make sure your meal ends on the same high note of satisfaction as it began. Pass small bowls of salted nuts and assorted mints or party tea, for these are the last distinctive touch of a party meal.

Whether you serve your beverage at the table or in the living room, it is easy to carry out a color scheme to the end with after-dinner mints or party patties which come in various pastel tones.

Finally, clear the table of soiled dishes and linens as soon as possible.

Appetizer

Dried peanut butter can be combined with honey to produce a smooth spread for after-school appetites!

To Measure Honey

When cooking with honey, measure the shortening first and then measure the honey in the same cup. The honey slides out easily!

ORANGE DATE CAKE

2 cups sugar
1/4 lb. oleo
4 beaten egg yolks
2 tbs. grated orange rind
4 cups flour, sifted with
1 1/2 tsp. soda
1 1/3 cups buttermilk
1 small package chopped dates
1 cup chopped pecans
Dash vanilla
4 stiffly beaten egg whites

Cream together the sugar and oleo. Add the yolks, rind and flour, the buttermilk, dates, pecans and vanilla. Fold in the egg whites.
Bake in two greased and flour-dusted loaf pans about one hour at 350 degrees.

ORANGE SAUCE

2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups fresh orange juice
1 tbs. grated orange rind
Mix and spoon over cake as soon as it is taken out of oven. Let cake absorb sauce as you spoon it over by degrees. This may take overnight, depending on the air's moisture, which delays absorption.

BUTTERMILK PIE

1 cup sugar
2 tbs. butter
2 eggs, beaten well
Pinch salt
1 tbs. flour
1 cup buttermilk
Cream sugar with butter. Add other ingredients. Bake in pie shell, until done.

PASTRY

1 1/2 cups flour
5 to 6 tbs. fat
1 tsp. salt
2 1/2 tbs. cold water
Cut fat into flour. Stir only enough water in to hold dough together. Roll out on floured board.

Give Due Credit To The Olive

Next time you pop an especially savory green olive into your mouth, think of the handwork of the Spanish.

A surprising amount of hand labor by the natives goes into the preparation of the smooth, silky fruit before it reaches the final stage in which Americans enjoy them.

The Seville region in Spain is the area in which quality green olives are grown. And because of the delicate nature of the olive flesh, many of the same methods employed centuries ago still are followed by the Spanish. The natives pluck the olives from trees by hand.

At processing plants, fresh olives are carefully sorted to guard against bruised fruit. Olives that are to be stuffed are pitted by workers too, using hand-operated machines.

Even the pimiento stuffing is a hand task. Sweet peppers are shredded by hand into narrow strips, then folded and pressed into olive cavities.

Of course, both curing and brining processes are supervised by these experts too. But upon arrival at plants in the United States, in barrels, they undergo further exacting treatment.

Modern stainless steel equipment aids in preparing the olives for the American table. Specially designed hoppers loosen and discard broken portions of the olives. The most modern machinery washes the olives, fills the jars and covers the olives with more brine.

Even so, a good deal of hand-labor still is involved in assembling the jars of choice olives. For example, jars of anchovy stuffed, almond stuffed and pimiento stuffed olives must be filled by hand. Experts impale each olive on branches of those little plastic trees each jar contains.

Olives are old reliables for relish trays, but only in comparatively recent years have American cooks taken a hint from their European neighbors and learned to savor the distinctive flavor of Spanish green olives in sauces.

For those winter-time vegetables and fish entrees which so often need a bit of perking up, here are two simple sauces created by the cooking experts at one of the best known packers of quality imported Spanish olives.

Olive-butter sauce for fish: Melt one-fourth cup of butter over low heat. Stir in three tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup sliced stuffed Spanish olives and a dash salt. Serve hot over baked fish or broiled filets.

Olive cheese sauce for vegetables: Cream one-fourth cup of butter, one cup grated American cheese and a half cup dairy sour cream. Add one tablespoon minced onion, one-fourth cup sliced stuffed Spanish olives. Spoon over freshly cooked green beans, broccoli or baked potatoes.

Egg Punch

Egg Punch the Italian way: Serve it in dessert glasses to be eaten with spoons. Lady fingers taste delicious with this.

Green Vegetables?

Lifting the cover of the saucepan several times during the time green vegetables are cooking will help preserve their attractive color.

Chafing Dish Gives The Cook Showmanship

Chafing dishes these days seem to be making almost as many appearances at weddings as the bride. As more and more households find themselves in possession of this somewhat "mysterious utensil", there has occurred a re-birth of interest in the art of chafing dish cookery, and a demand for instructions and recipes.

Proof of this is John and Marie Roberson's "The Chafing Dish Cookbook" which, after nine years and ten printings of the first edition, has been up-dated and enlarged into a new edition just published by Prentice-Hall.

Until the book appeared in 1950, a great many of America's chafing dishes were gathering dust, simply because people believed that this specialized method of cooking did not lend itself to many meals. However, the book changed this by gathering together recipes for soups, salads, vegetable dishes, desserts, hot hors d'oeuvres, curries, and a long list of stylish dishes ranging from breast of duck flambee to fish in ginger sauce.

Its more than 200 recipes plus its simple instructions removed the mystery surrounding the chafing dish and as people began discovering the extreme versatility of this utensil they recommended it to their friends. An important feature of the chafing dish is that it enables the host or hostess to cook with showmanship.

Most satisfactory unit for all-purpose use is the alcohol-burner chafing dish with a blazer and water pan. It is light and portable, handsome and versatile, quick and easy to use. Each recipe in the book includes directions for behind-the-scenes preparation as well as the table performance before guests. Here are two examples:

BLAZING HAM STEAK

- 2 1/2 pounds sliced smoked ham
- 1/2 pound mushrooms
- 2 tbsps. curry powder
- 1 tbsps. flour
- 2 tbsps. fine crumbs
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1 egg

- 1 tbsps. water
- 2 tbsps. butter
- 1/2 cup consommé
- 1/4 cup spiced brandied peaches, chopped fine
- 1/4 cup juice from the peaches
- 2 tbsps. brandy

Behind the scenes, have the ham cut into thin steaks at market. At home, trim off the fat. Cut this fat into bits and save for later use. Cut steaks into 8 serving-size pieces. Mix seasoning, flour and crumbs. Mix egg with water. Dip ham in crumb mixture, then egg, then crumbs. Stem mushrooms; slice stems. Use mushrooms whole if small enough.

Before the guests melt butter in blazer pan of chafing dish. Then saute prepared ham in this until pieces are delicately browned. Add mushrooms and brown; then add consommé. Cover and cook gently for 10 minutes. Add the spiced peaches and juice. Reheat. Pour brandy over top, set aflame. Serve as soon as flame dies out.

BRANDIED BANANAS WITH GREEN GRAPES
(Serves 4)

- 4 fully ripe firm bananas
- 1/2 pound seedless (Thompson) grapes
- 1/2 cup butter
- Juice of two lemons
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup brandy
- Ladyfingers, toasted

Behind the scenes, select bananas that are short and "chunky" in size. Remove skins. Cut into halves lengthwise. Cut grapes into halves.

Before the guests, melt butter in blazer pan of chafing dish. Arrange banana halves in this; sprinkle part of the sugar over top; add lemon juice. Turn the bananas as they cook, adding sugar gradually until all is used. When bananas are cooked and beginning to brown, add grapes. Toss these in the sauce gently.

Pour brandy over top. Set ablaze. When flame dies down, blow it out (the sugar can keep it smoldering for some time). Serve on individual dessert plates with roasted ladyfingers.

Short Month Is Long On Plentiful Foods

February may be short on days, but it is "long" on the supply of ever-welcome items for family menu-planning. No less than 13 foods, for both plain and fancy fare, are sufficiently abundant to be included on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of February plentiful.

Heading the list are canned peas and potatoes, both versatile vegetables for main-dish treatment or in soups, salads, side dishes and casseroles.

There will be plenty of pork and turkey. Canned California sardines make the list for the first time in months. Milk and other dairy products and eggs are abundant and nutritionally tops. Apples of all varieties remain on the list. Celery and cabbage are plentiful. Other eating pleasures involve generous supplies of walnuts, honey, peanuts and peanut products.

Plentiful foods usually cost less. Another advantage of serving plentiful foods is that you can count on extra quality. With large supplies to choose from, your market tends to carry only the best available.

SPICE VOCABULARY

DILL is a seed, obtainable in both whole and ground form. Its flavor is similar to caraway, but milder and sweeter. Tan when ground, the seed is dark purplish brown with tan stripes, when whole.

Dill is compatible with sauerkraut, potato salad, macaroni, peas, carrots, beets, cabbage, cauliflower, snap beans, turnips, cottage and cream cheeses, apple pie, navy bean and cream of tomato soups; apple pie; broiled lamb chops; lamb stew; creamed chicken; French or sour cream salad dressings; drawn butter for shellfish; spiced vinegar. The whole seed can be used for pickling.

Diet-Conscious America Cut Calories In 1958

Diet-conscious Americans continued to keep their calorie consumption down during 1958. They ate one per cent fewer calories than the year before, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service.

However, the nutritive value of the foods they ate was not much changed. Only iron, niacin and ascorbic acid showed slight decreases in per capita consumption — iron and niacin because of a decrease in potato and meat consumption; ascorbic acid because of the short supply of citrus fruit last year.

Compared with the 1947-49 average, the greatest difference among the nutrients showed up for vitamin A value and ascorbic acid. Per capita consumption of both these vitamins was down about a tenth. Also, availability declined somewhat.

Ascorbic acid consumption probably will go up again in 1959 along with the more abundant citrus crop. Other nutrients are not expected to vary much from their 1958 levels.

Your daily meals should supply you with many different nutrients: protein for growth and for repair of the body; minerals and vitamins for growth and to keep the body functioning properly; and fat and carbohydrate for energy.

Most foods contain more than one nutrient, but no single food contains all the nutrients in the amounts you need. To get all the nutrients you need, select some items for every meal from each of these major food groups — fruits and vegetables; milk and milk products; meats, fish, poultry and eggs; and bread and cereals.

New Flakes Are Potato Magic

Borden's Instant Whipped Potatoes, a new convenience product, is being introduced this month in Texas. The product is the first commercially produced instant mashed potato in flake form ever to be marketed for home use, but consumer acceptance of potato flakes has already been established by the USDA in a recent market test.

The product offers the homemaker a no-waste product, easy to store and equally easy to prepare. It takes but a minute to add hot water and milk to the flakes to make fluffy mashed potatoes. The instant whipped potatoes may be used also as a base for soup and other recipes.

With Borden's flakes, all you need do is measure the water and salt into a sauce pan, bring the water to boil and remove at once from the heat. Then add cold milk, potato flakes and butter to taste. Stir gently with a fork or wire whip until all the liquid is absorbed. Within seconds the ingredients become white, airy, lump-free whipped potatoes.

This modern food has a shelf life of six to nine months. The instant whipped potatoes are packaged in a standard four-color printed cardboard container featuring a pull tab top for ease of opening. Inside are two sealed red and white aluminum foil envelopes, each containing enough flakes to make four servings.

This ease in preparation suggests whipped potatoes as an artistic medium for decorating casseroles. Here are the directions for one version:

WHIPPED ORANGE POTATOES
1 envelope Borden's Instant Whipped Potatoes
2 tbsps. butter
2 tbsps. milk
1 tsp. grated orange rind.

Prepare potatoes according to directions on envelope. Combine whipped potatoes with remaining ingredients; blend well. Fill pastry tube with orange whipped potatoes. Use to flute edges of individual ham, veal or chicken casseroles.

Bake until lightly browned. Good when used to edge planked ham or veal steaks. Makes enough to top six individual casseroles.

Resolve To Add Fancy Breads To Your Cookery

In making resolutions for the new year, perhaps you have vowed to enlarge your culinary repertoire. If so, it may be you would like to increase the number of fancy breads at your command. It is a phase of cookery that often gets lost in the shuffle of everyday meal planning.

We suggest date nut bread or apple crunch muffins. Either is highly acceptable as an afternoon tea-mate, or as something special for a Sunday brunch.

Here they are:

DATE NUT BREAD
2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup orange juice
3 tbsps. coarsely grated orange rind
1 egg
1 cup thinly sliced pitted dates
1/2 cup coarsely chopped Brazil nuts

Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Make sure sugar is not lumpy; stir it in. Stir butter and boiling water together until butter melts; stir in orange juice and rind.

With rotary beater (hand or electric) beat egg until thick and pale colored; add to orange mixture along with dry ingredients; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in Brazil nuts.

Turn into buttered loaf pan (8 by 4 by 2 1/2 inches). Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 1 hour or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out on rack to cool.

Serve at once or store, after wrapping tightly, in refrigerator.

APPLE CRUNCH MUFFINS
2 cups sifted flour
2-3 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
6 tbsps. sugar
3 tbsps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 cup shortening
1 large tart, unpeeled apple, coarsely grated
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup water

Sift together flour, instant nonfat dry milk powder, sugar, baking powder, salt and cinnamon into bowl. Cut in shortening with a pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles fine cornmeal. Stir in apple. Combine egg and water.

Make a well in center of dry ingredients; add liquid all at once; stir just enough to moisten and blend dry ingredients. Do not beat. (The batter will look lumpy.) Fill well-greased 2 1/2-inch muffin cups 2/3 full. Sprinkle with Nut Topping made with 1-3 cup sugar, 1-3 cup chopped nuts and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon.

Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve hot. Makes 15.

Dinner Climax

Delightful fruit and cheese ending for a meal: arrange a mound of cream-style cottage cheese in the center of a platter; surround with small baked apples alternated with guava shells. Top each apple with a little currant jelly, if you like, and use water cross or some other green between the apples and guava. The preserved guava shells come in cans and may be bought in regular markets or specialty food shops.

Learn New Tricks With Tasty Little Sausages

Little sausages, so popular the year round, prove beyond doubt their adaptability to winter menus. Equally enjoyed whether for breakfast, lunch or dinner, the sausages take kindly to pairing with other meats as well as with vegetables.

The Neuhoff people have experimented with two recipes which they pass along for your enjoyment:

SMOKIES AND HAM FEAST
2 slices Neuhoff Luncheon Meat or boiled ham, cut about 1/2-inch thick
6 to 8 slices canned pineapple 12 to 16 Neuhoff Original Smokies (about 1 lb.)
Brown sugar

Place ham slices in shallow baking pan. Cover with pineapple slices and place 2 Neuhoff Smokies on each slice. A toothpick through the sausage will hold it in position.

Sprinkle with brown sugar and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) for about 30 minutes. Each pineapple slice will make a generous serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SMOKIES AND CABBAGE
1 1/2 pounds Neuhoff Original Smokies
Water
Small head of cabbage
Butter or margarine
Paprika

Put sausage links in kettle or frying pan, add about 1/4 cup water. Cover and simmer 5 to 10 minutes.

Remove outer leaves of cabbage, quarter, and cut out the tough core. Shred or chop and cook in small amount of rapidly-boiling salted water. Cook just until tender (5 to 8 minutes). Drain well. Season add butter or margarine if desired.

Place in center of hot plate and surround with cooked Smokies. Sprinkle with paprika.

A Devotional For Today

Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk. (Acts 3:6)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we thank Thee for the Christian fellowship that we have through Thee, Help us to join hands with our fellow men and give whatever we have of time and talent as unto Thee. For the sake of Thy glory and in Jesus' name. Amen.

The Power Of Missiles

From the time the Manhattan Project was set up by President Roosevelt to this good day our atomic energy developments have been under the strictest of continuing controls and directions, fully coordinated and centrally managed.

Not so with the missile and space business, which becomes more decentralized and scattered the further it goes.

The result is that whereas atomic energy in all its aspects is seldom the subject of controversy—though occasionally some internal discussions occur among its commissioners—there is nothing but controversy, re-examination, reservation, denial and disagreement over "facts" in the related fields of missiles and space developments.

Are we ahead of, behind or abreast of Russia in missiles, long and short, and space vehicles? Are we spending enough or too much money on them? Will it be two years or five before we catch up with the Russians? Are our missile projects lagging for want of sufficient funds? That depends on who's doing the testing. This phase of our defense, the one phase that should never be allowed to get into politics, is in politics up to its nose cone. In general, defense witnesses make light of the charges by congressional committees that we are lagging, and lagging badly. Since all civilian and military leaders concerned with missile and space matters are under presidential orders not to ask for increased budgetary allotments from Congress for these activities, they are obviously handicapped in speaking the truth as they see it.

Almost all of these experts agree on one point: They say that we obviously do not have as powerful engines for missiles and space vehicles as the Russians have, and their guesses as to the time and money required to catch up vary from one to as much as five years, and from an additional billion dollars or so to 10 billion or more.

The power of the engines is the real determining factor in our race with Russia—not the sending of a satellite around the moon ahead of the Russians. If the Russians are 12 months or five years ahead of us in engine development, then we are in a precarious way and we could be lagging in the race for survival.

Kennan Changes His Signals

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sign of the changing times, George F. Kennan, the "Mr. X" of yesterday,

He's credited with being the author of the American policy toward the Soviet Union followed for a decade by both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

This is the policy of containment, of ringing the Soviet Union with military bases to prevent Soviet expansion. It's worked fairly well.

But now Kennan has other ideas. He's talking of a pullback of American forces in Europe.

Long employed by the State Department, Kennan got out after differences with Secretary of State Dulles. But his new ideas have brought him into sharp conflict with his old boss there, former Secretary of State Acheson.

In 1947, while Kennan was director of the State Department's policy planning staff, he outlined his containment policy in the Foreign Affairs Quarterly magazine. He wrote under the name of Mr. X.

"It is clear the main element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long-term, patient but firm and vigilant containment of Russian expansive tendencies."

"Russia, as opposed to the western world in general, is still by far the weaker party. . . . Soviet society may well contain deficiencies which will eventually weaken its own total potential."

While the Soviet Union hasn't expanded—in the sense of acquiring new territory—since 1947, she has become stronger, not weaker as Kennan hopefully seemed to think she might.

Kennan, who later served as ambassador to Moscow before his exit after his troubles with Dulles, Wednesday gave to a Senate disarmament subcommittee views which would indicate he thinks his 1947 policy is obsolete.

He talked of the idea of making a deal with the Russians so that both American and Soviet troops could be pulled back from Central Europe, or at least from Germany.

The man who once talked of containing the Soviet Union, Wednesday said he hopes it would not be necessary to pull American troops entirely off the continent of Europe.

He was thinking in terms of a neutralized Germany and seemed to envision it, while neutralized, as both democratic and free from the Communist political threat.

This is not the first time Kennan has talked this way. It's pretty much a repetition of broadcasts he made in Britain last year.

Those broadcasts made Acheson so furious that he replied to Kennan with an article of his own in the Foreign Affairs magazine.

Acheson, who supports President Eisenhower's continued use of the containment policy which he himself used under the Truman administration, predicted:

Withdrawal of U.S. forces from Europe would lead ultimately to a linkup between Germany and the Soviet Union, confronting the world with a new war threat.

Acheson called the disengagement idea the "new isolationism" and stated the pullback of Soviet troops wouldn't mean much.

Yet withdrawal of Allied forces from West Berlin is what the Russians are insisting upon right now. The world is watching to see what Secretary Dulles, now in Europe, can come up with in making concessions to Moscow or standing firm.

There are a few more pigs this year than last, but the totals for sheep, cattle, and horses are down slightly. The number of horses is the lowest since 1875, and only about one-quarter of the 1919 figure.

Those Mysterious Little Black Books

Wonder what you have to do to get one of those little black books some people carry to the bank?

Someday, I'd like to get myself one, so I could stand at the teller's window a long time while she makes a bunch of entries and counts money into two, or three different stacks.

I'd like to find out what it's like to keep a long line of customers waiting while the teller does my bookkeeping for the past week, or month, or however long it has been since the last trip to the bank.

I suppose the qualifications for getting one of those little books are pretty steep. Nearly everyone I see who has one also carries around a big sack of money. Or else, they have a thick sheaf of bills and checks all wrapped up in a rubber band.

Also, it looks like the people who have them must do an awful lot of business. The teller always starts the adding machine to clicking when she gets a customer like that. Then she has to check the tape against something in the book.

After that, some new figures are jotted in the book before it's wrapped up in its own rubber band and gets returned to its owner.

I don't suppose I could qualify for one of those books on any account. I certainly don't have so much money I have to carry it around in a sack. And I'm sure my limited transactions wouldn't require the use of an adding machine.

If I can't have one, I'd at least like to see on the inside of one of those books though. I've seen the outside of lots of them. I waste more time that way.

Seems like every week when I take my little paycheck to the bank I get caught on the back end of a line of little black books. While I fret and squirm over the delay caused by the teller having to do so much bookkeeping for the more fortunate customers, I twist and crane my neck trying to see what's in the book. So far, I haven't had any luck. If there isn't a big stack of money blocking my view, the book's owner manages to get his elbows right where I try to peek.

Of course the bank has to provide that bookkeeping service for its customers who own little black books. But it looks like it could set up a separate line for the little people who don't have enough money to keep books on. When we wouldn't be tempted to sneak a peek at others' books while we're waiting.

Cold In Michigan—Outside And Inside

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Just like the balladeer sings, Michigan is "a winter wonderland." And, golly, how the natives hate it. And the visitors, too.

This is the longest, coldest winter in these parts in so many years that most Michiganders (geeze, too) had forgotten how scratchy long underwear really is.

As far as the eye can see, the landscape is buried in snow. And, where it isn't blanketed in white, it's encased in ice. Oh, it's purty, all right, with the poorest twig on the elm tree "inch deep with pearl," even as the poet observed.

It's just like a picture post card to see the red barns rising from a dazzling white field, to observe the icicles hanging like long, slender diamonds from every roof and to watch the kids skating in the side yard.

But enough is enough. People out this way were happy to put up with a White Christmas, but they are beginning to mumble about a white St. Valentine's Day, which is all the weatherman promises them. There has been a run on galoshes, mufflers, ear muffs, stocking caps and anti-freeze suitable for man and beast, no less than for motors.

Undoubtedly it would be lots of fun to ride in a one-hoss open sleigh. For a number of years now, the state specialty has been multi-hoss power behemoths, and the titanic effort to keep the main highways open for these souped-up jobs has only further emptied the state's treasury.

Travel is indeed broadening, and I have discovered not only that the state is broke but that Detroit is built over some of the largest salt deposits in the U.S.A.

In order to keep the highways clear for Detroit's principal product, the automobile, the authorities during this Arctic spell have been mining Detroit's subsoil—pure rock salt—to spread on the state's principal thoroughfares.

Doubleless it is only hardpan Republicans who are politically amused, if financially outraged, by the coldest blow of all, which has not been struck by the weather but by the state's prematurely young governor, G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams.

In order to pull the state out of its financial hole, Soapy, who is hoping to be struck by the Presidential lightning of the Democratic party, has just proposed a state income tax. Now in his sixth term in office, Soapy is shopping around for an extra $140,000,000 in tax money, even as his opposite Republican number in New York, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who is also courting Presidential lightning, is looking around for an extra $275,000,000 to balance the state budget.

The GOP is charging Soapy with low cunning in writing an income tax measure that would leave untouched the great rank and file of the state's legion of organized labor, to which he owes so much politically, and put the burden on the middle and upper middle classes and on banks, corporations and financial institutions.

With the Michigan legislative House evenly split between the Democrats and Republicans and a Senate controlled by conservative Republicans, Soapy's new tax plan won't have easy sledding, despite the fact that Michigan, as of now, has a plethora of the stuff required for sledding.

So, baby, it's not only cold outside in this state, but faced with the possibility of new taxes, the ice is forming inside the picture window, too.

Illegality Of The Fourteenth Amendment

WASHINGTON—The people of Virginia are not happy over the enforced "integration" of their public schools. They feel that they are being coerced into doing something against their will. They have "been told" the Constitution is "what the people of the United States say it is." But is it always?

But is it always? In no state of the union have the people ever voted to approve any change in the Constitution that requires "integration" or "desegregation" in the public schools.

Nine men sitting in the Supreme Court of the United States have, however, said that they interpret the Fourteenth Amendment to require "desegregation" in the public schools.

But did the people ever ratify the Fourteenth Amendment by the method prescribed in the Constitution—namely, by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the states, either through their legislatures or constitutional conventions?

The historians tell us this wasn't done. The secretary of state who proclaimed the Fourteenth Amendment in 1868 expressed frankly his doubts as to whether it had been legally ratified.

Upon what were these doubts based? Abraham Lincoln had said the union was indissoluble and that no state could secede. When the war between the states was over, President Johnson in May 1865 formally proclaimed amnesty to former rebels and established provisional governments in the Southern states. During that summer, new state legislatures and members of Congress were elected. All of these governments in the South—except one—ratified the Thirteenth Amendment, abolishing slavery. Their ratification was accepted as legal. So they were unquestionably in the union.

When, however, Congress met in December 1865, all the senators and representatives from the Southern states, except Tennessee, were excluded from both houses of Congress. Nevertheless, the Fourteenth Amendment was voted on by Congress and was formally submitted to the states in June 1866. Ten Southern states rejected it.

Congress thereupon passed a law putting the South under military rule and specifically ordering the states to ratify the amendment or remain excluded from the union. The President vetoed the bill and called it plainly unconstitutional, but it was passed over his veto. Federal troops took command of the state legislatures in the South.

Under military rule, the Southern states—with their legislatures composed largely of Negroes, because most of the white voters had been disfranchised—"ratified" the Fourteenth Amendment. W. E. Woodward in his "American History," one of the best known of the standard school textbooks—published in 1936, long before the present acute controversy arose—says the "ratifications were obtained at the point of the bayonet." Historians are unanimous about the facts.

Up to 1896, when the Supreme Court of the United States affirmed it, no court of importance had held that the "separate but equal" idea for public schools was a violation of the federal Constitution. In fact, the highest courts of several states, including Massachusetts, Ohio and New York, repeatedly upheld the "separate but equal" doctrine as conforming to the federal Constitution. Even the same Congress which had ordered the Fourteenth Amendment ratified by the South under military coercion passed a law providing for segregated public schools in the District of Columbia. Yet the present Supreme Court of the United States, before its 1954 decision, asked for testimony on the "intent" of the framers of the Fourteenth Amendment, and then called the facts as submitted "inconclusive."

The truth is the present court followed precedent in declining to examine the legality of the process by which the Fourteenth Amendment was allegedly ratified. Every time anyone has tried to get the previous justices to examine the issue—and this has happened several times—the matter has been turned aside as "political." No decision has ever been rendered by the Supreme Court on the merits of the case. This was doubtless due to a feeling that, if ever passed upon, the amendment would have to be declared illegal.

But why turn the clock back to 1868? This question is often asked and it is answered by asking another question: "Why in 1954, turn the clock back to 1896 to invalidate the doctrine of 'separate but equal' which had for 58 years been the 'law of the land'?"

This correspondent attended an integrated public school both in the elementary grades and in high school and would gladly attend one again if he were a student. If a Constitutional amendment were proposed that would permit the states to deal with this subject, this writer would vote for such an amendment. If the Fourteenth Amendment were adopted today by the states, and it specifically forbade segregation, this writer would welcome it as an expression of the free will of the people unconcoerced by bayonets and representing the desires of the American electorate.

In the absence of any Supreme Court decision to the contrary, the Fourteenth Amendment is assumed to be valid. This means federal court orders based on its provisions must be obeyed. But no state is denied the right to try by legal means any form of circumvention to achieve its objectives. This is lawful until the court in each case specifically rules otherwise.

Meanwhile, can America afford to let the record of fraud and coercion stand as it is before the world—or will a troubled conscience someday make the people of the United States square that record by a lawfully adopted amendment to the Constitution?

Mr. Dulles Has Been Overly Optimistic

WASHINGTON—Just three years ago, when the Communist party was holding its 20th World Congress in Moscow, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee spoke these words:

"I think they made very little progress in the last few years and the proof of it is that at this very moment in Moscow they are having to revise their whole program. If we had to go through such a revision and change of our whole program as they are undergoing it would be advertised all over the world that we had failed."

"The fact is they have failed and they have got to devise new policies."

Dulles was being questioned on the situation in the Middle East by Senator J. William Fulbright, the new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Pressed as to whether the speeches of Nikita Khrushchev and others at that 20th Congress indicated an admission of failure in foreign policy, Dulles replied "absolutely" and then went on to say:

"The result is they have got to review their whole creed from A to Z. It is a tremendous process for them because they have got to undo the teaching of many years and get onto a new basis."

The testimony of the Secretary at that time is significant for several reasons. First, events in the intervening years have not borne out his optimistic assessment. Large areas in the Middle East have either come under Soviet domination or reverted to neutralism. The complacency he expressed seems hardly to have been justified.

But his almost-overbearing insistence that all was well in the West had an immediate consequence. It deepened the gulf between certain Senators and the Secretary. One of them was Senator Fulbright who in his new role will exercise a far more searching scrutiny of foreign policy on Germany and European security. What he confronts illustrates the great difficulty of coordinating policy in a free alliance. In his tour of Europe he will find the situation as follows:

London—With difficulties at home, including rising unemployment, the Conservatives must in the next 18 months decide when to hold an election. Pressure for negotiation of a truce in the cold war is heavy. A great deal turns on Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's personal popularity and political skill.

Paris—Despite a far stronger regime under General Charles de Gaulle, France is still preoccupied with internal problems, with special emphasis on the continuing war in Algeria and its drain in men and money. The vision of revived glory demands far more authority in the alliance and full membership in the nuclear club.

Bonn—At one level in the West German government they are in theory rethinking the problem of German reunification. But whether any change from the fixed position of the past will be sanctioned by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is questionable. The Chancellor, just turned 83, is determined to stand on the old formula.

Then one comes to this capital where negotiation is also likely to be difficult and prolonged if any new approach is agreed upon. For the divisions in the government are not unlike those that exist among the Allies. Powerful figures in the Pentagon and elsewhere believe any agreement with the Soviet Union, however limited or however hedged around with safeguards, must be to America's disadvantage, and they will do all they can to block agreement of whatever kind.

It is a painful dilemma and one which the Foreign Relations Committee must view with compassion. Perhaps if the Soviet line hardens again and there is a seeming inflexibility on Berlin and the deadline for departure of May 27 (the date the Russians say they will turn all their functions at Berlin over to East Germany), Secretary Dulles may be rescued. But it will be at best a perilous sort of rescue, putting new strains on the West.

In the meantime the speeches out of the 21st Congress in Moscow have shown none of the weaknesses Dulles detected three years ago.

Equine Methuselah

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—The day a horse named Fleet died, Dr. Randall Knox said the animal must have been 50 years old.

Dr. Knox had owned the horse for 20 years and said he was told it was born the day the United States Navy's Great White fleet sailed into San Diego Bay. That was in 1908. Veterinarians say the average life of a well cared for horse is 20 years.

Connecticut Cuts Them Off

People who will not observe speed limits laws to save their lives observe them readily enough to save their driving license.

That is the experience in Connecticut, where a campaign in behalf of traffic safety in the last three years has attracted national attention, and led to comparable rules and legislation in New Jersey, with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania currently studying the Connecticut technique.

In the last three years Connecticut has reduced traffic fatality sensationally, with a combination of strict law enforcement, greater patrol activity and elimination of hazardous curves and bottle-necks in its highway system. (It does not use radar controls.)

As related in U. S. News & World Report, Connecticut leans heavily on withdrawal of driving licenses. In the year preceding the new plan, only a little more than 200 licenses were taken up. In the three years under the new plan, 28,000 have been lifted.

First offense brings a 30-day suspension, a second offense draws a 60-day suspension—and a third offense means forfeiture of license, which can be restored only by the state traffic commissioner.

A car is essential to the livelihood of a lot of people besides traveling salesmen. In suspending or forfeiting a license, Connecticut motorists have learned that the state means business. There are no "fixes."

So drivers, confronted with the inevitable slow down and in slowing down, they have come to exercise care in observing other traffic laws.

This it comes about that people who won't slow down to save their lives do slow down to preserve their driving privilege. Paying a fine is only a momentary pain in the pocketbook, but a suspension or a forfeiture is really serious in many ways.

Connecticut also has special rules for drivers under 21. The youngsters must toe the chalk line, or woe betide them. These stricter rules relating to minors is said to be pleasing the parents, who are glad to have the cooperation of the state in handling the troublesome problem of getting the family car away from the kids.

If that state's success with its traffic laws leads to their adoption in other states, maybe the holocaust on our highways will begin to simmer down.

Kennan Changes His Signals

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sign of the changing times, George F. Kennan, the "Mr. X" of yesterday,

He's credited with being the author of the American policy toward the Soviet Union followed for a decade by both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

This is the policy of containment, of ringing the Soviet Union with military bases to prevent Soviet expansion. It's worked fairly well.

But now Kennan has other ideas. He's talking of a pullback of American forces in Europe.

Long employed by the State Department, Kennan got out after differences with Secretary of State Dulles. But his new ideas have brought him into sharp conflict with his old boss there, former Secretary of State Acheson.

In 1947, while Kennan was director of the State Department's policy planning staff, he outlined his containment policy in the Foreign Affairs Quarterly magazine. He wrote under the name of Mr. X.

"It is clear the main element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long-term, patient but firm and vigilant containment of Russian expansive tendencies."

"Russia, as opposed to the western world in general, is still by far the weaker party. . . . Soviet society may well contain deficiencies which will eventually weaken its own total potential."

While the Soviet Union hasn't expanded—in the sense of acquiring new territory—since 1947, she has become stronger, not weaker as Kennan hopefully seemed to think she might.

Kennan, who later served as ambassador to Moscow before his exit after his troubles with Dulles, Wednesday gave to a Senate disarmament subcommittee views which would indicate he thinks his 1947 policy is obsolete.

He talked of the idea of making a deal with the Russians so that both American and Soviet troops could be pulled back from Central Europe, or at least from Germany.

The man who once talked of containing the Soviet Union, Wednesday said he hopes it would not be necessary to pull American troops entirely off the continent of Europe.

He was thinking in terms of a neutralized Germany and seemed to envision it, while neutralized, as both democratic and free from the Communist political threat.

This is not the first time Kennan has talked this way. It's pretty much a repetition of broadcasts he made in Britain last year.

Count Down Under

Count Down Under

CANBERRA (AP)—Australia has 149,319,000 sheep, 16,900,000 cattle, 1,421,000 pigs, and 695,000 horses.

The figures were released by the Commonwealth statistician. They mean there are about 17 head of livestock in the country for every human being.

There are a few more pigs this year than last, but the totals for sheep, cattle, and horses are down slightly. The number of horses is the lowest since 1875, and only about one-quarter of the 1919 figure.

Short Engagement

ENID, Okla. (AP)—After their engagement Dean Jane Spickler and Charles Tobin Beninger of Midwest City, Okla., decided to save their pennies for the wedding.

They didn't get enough to finance the wedding but they paid for their marriage license with 300 pennies.

The City Giveth . . .

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—It was a short payday for three Logan street employees.

Two hours after getting their pay envelopes, the three were arrested in the city shop for gambling and fined $31.50 which went back into the city treasury.

Cupid's Helper

BEXLEY, Ohio (AP)—Nobody at Bexley High needs a little black book. The staff of the school newspaper produces a student directory listing the name, address, phone number and class of every boy and girl in the school. Appropriately enough, it's called Dial-A-Date.

Music Hath Charms

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Somewhere in the city, a burglar will be turned from his life of crime by a newly discovered love of music. That is, he might if he listens long enough to that music box disguised as a purse he swiped from Lydia Motley's home.

'Dooley' Pushed Kingstons To Top

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Three fresh-faced young men stepped up to the microphone. They were dressed identically in Ivy League pants and open-necked striped shirts. They plunked two guitars and a banjo and started crooning: "Hang down yer head, Tom Dooley."
The youthful crowd of 6,000 in Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium loosed a roar of approval. "Pore boy, you're goin' 'die."
Cheers shook the great hall. This was the signal of acceptance for three bright fellows who are riding the teen-age music boom to early fortunes.
They are Dave Guard, Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds, who call themselves the Kingston Trio. The name is an accident—"We started out when the calypso craze was on, so it sounded like a good idea."
Nor, despite their hit with the backwoods ballad of the doomed Dooley, are they hillbillies. Dave and Bob grew up in Honolulu.

Nick is from Coronado, Calif.
How did the Kingstons crack to the top of a music market that puts little emphasis on musical or intellectual quality?
"Dooley" did it.
"The teen-agers buy single records, and they made it a hit," explained Guard, chief Kingstonian. "So far it has sold 1,800,000 here and about the same in England. We're just as amazed as anyone."
The boys got together at Palo Alto. All were business students. Dave at Stanford University and Bob and Nick at nearby Menlo College. Dave and Bob were chums from Hawaii, where they had strummed ukeleles to island tunes. The trio began playing their guitars and banjos and chanting folk tunes in campus hangouts.
San Francisco publicist Frank Werber introduced them to San Francisco niteries. They caught on, played other intimate clubs in Chicago and New York. A year ago, they signed with Capitol Records and made an album which became a best-seller.

TV Moderation Best Policy -- On Either Side

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — Here's an exchange of opinions with Mrs. Clyde Evans of Biloxi, Miss., who undoubtedly expresses the sentiments of millions of American television viewers.
She writes: "In today's paper you wrote, 'The coming seven days can't be called the most memorable week of the season on television, but there are several programs worth the twist of a dial.'
"I'd like to ask, along with dozens of other TV watchers, how you arrive at such conclusions? Why must we observe dozens of boring scientific programs or an hour of Philharmonic music to be spending our time wisely?
"Most people can read all they care to in the daily newspapers or take a course in night school if they are interested. We enjoy an occasional 15 minutes about rockets, mental illness, pop, jazz or the classics.
"We are dull, unthinking people by Sunday and would prefer to be entertained with 'Andy Hardy' and 'Shirley Temple' rather than 'Kaleidoscope' and '20th Century.' We get the condition of education in our P.T.A., thoughts on the spiritual condition of our country in our church.
"Please tell me what's wrong with escaping a few hours a week into the Westerns that are fantastic but unfrighting, or laughing with Lucy, Bob Cummings, George Burns or Bob Hope or Benny? As a housewife I also enjoy the soap operas if I don't watch too often. Most of the dramas are either dull or too deep."
SCRIBE'S REPLY
In reply to Mrs. Evans: My opinions on 'pick of the week' programs might be construed as condescending to all programs I don't mention, I realize. But I am asked to give my personal preferences each week and that they are. The fact that I'd rather watch '20th Century' than a Western doesn't mean I'm smarter than you. Rather, it means that I expect something different from television than you do.
Like yourself, I watch Westerns and enjoy Hope and Benny. Unlike yourself, I have to write about what I see. And — again without condescension — there's little left to say about Westerns that hasn't been said a hundred times.
Personally, I want television to stimulate me rather than relax me. But I don't expect it to do that every time I turn on the set.
There is absolutely nothing wrong that I can imagine in escaping for a few hours each week into television's fantasyland. But you and many other viewers constantly suggest that television should be only a relaxing agent — never a stimulant.
Commercial television, as now constituted, is devoted almost totally to the type of programs you — and I, too, in moderation — enjoy. Let's hope it never fails to devote a few hours weekly to the type of program that I — and you, too, in moderation — enjoy.

Calvert Expected To Tell Jury No Law Was Violated

AUSTIN (AP)—State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert was expected to tell the Travis County grand jury today that no law was violated in his receiving cash gifts from his employees.
He appeared voluntarily before the grand jury. It is investigating possible violations of the Election Code in connection with the alleged $28,000 in cash gifts Calvert received from his employees since taking office in 1949.
Armed with affidavits from 417 state employees, Calvert said yesterday he would tell the grand jury: "I know that there has been no violation whatsoever either in spirit or in letter by me or any person connected with the giving of these gifts."
He said the affidavits were from present and former employees. Calvert said the employees told in their own words how they gave him cash for Christmas.
Calvert said he called the press conference "to comment publicly on a story so greatly exaggerated as to amounts and misleading as to purposes."
He said he referred to the Senate Investigating Committee alleging originally that he had received about $30,000 in cash gifts from employees. The committee's final estimate was $28,000. At that time, Calvert said it was about $15,000.
Calvert refused to say yesterday what amount might be involved. Calvert again explained the practice of giving cash gifts to the state comptroller was not new. He said he did it as an employee prior to taking office.
Until 1955, Calvert's salary was $6,000. At that time it was raised to $17,500 annually.
Asked about $1,225 collected through his employees in 1958, Calvert said he did not know about it.

No New-Fangled Stuff For Masa

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas legislators from the Mexican border country don't want any new law messing around with their constituents' masa.
"Leave our tortillas alone," they told a Senate committee.
A tortilla is a flat, floppy corn cake—a food staple in Mexico and the Southwest. The main ingredient is "masa," a product of corn hominy, usually manufactured on a hand grinder called a "metate."
The Rio Grande legislators testified before the Senate Agriculture Committee considering a bill requiring fortification of corn meal and grits with vitamin B-1, riboflavin, niacin and iron. The committee agreed to an amendment exempting tortillas.
"The vitamin attachment won't fit on a metate," explained Sen. Frank Owen III of El Paso.
Rep. Abraham Kazen of Laredo and Rep. Eligio de la Garza of Mission joined in the protest.
Clinging their victory was testimony from a nutritionist that the grinding process now used in making masa actually improves its food value.
