Portrait Of Lt. James Webb Unveiled

An oil portrait of Lt. James L. Webb Jr., for whom Webb AFB is named, was unveiled at the Officers' Club Monday as the gift of civilian members of the Base-Community Council. Mrs. Rilla Webb, mother of the pilot who gave his life in a crash off Japan in 1951, parted the curtains. Inspecting the painting with her are Airman I.C. Kennard J. Collier, Airman of the Quarter, and Col. Wilson H. Banks, wing commander.

Lt. Webb Immortalized With Painting At Base

A dozen years ago, 1st Lt. James L. Webb, returning from a reconnaissance mission off the southwest coast of Japan, pulled up his faltering P-51 Mustang. He never made it to the top of the intense rain and heavy overcast. Instead, his plane dipped into a dive and plunged off shore into the bay. Monday noon at the Officers Club of Webb AFB, his mother unveiled a painted portrait of him.

It was a sad but not a new experience for Rilla Webb, for more than a decade ago on the day of formal opening of the base, she stood to acknowledge that the new jet pilot training base had been named for her son. Later she was present when his photograph was hung in the Officers Club, and then when the Herald presented a bronze inscription of the dedication of the base in memory of Lt. Webb.

With her was R. W. Whipkey, who presided over the meeting of the Base-Community Council, and who made the presentation of the portrait to Webb AFB as "a symbol of the friendship and mutual interest" of the city and the base. Col. Wilson H. Banks, wing commander, accepted with gratitude on behalf of Webb AFB.

Adlai Thinks W. Germany May Seek Own Nuclear Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, thinks it is quite possible West Germany may demand its own nuclear forces if Britain and France continue their independent nuclear forces.

He told U.N. correspondents Monday one reason the United States proposed a multinational NATO nuclear force was so Germany would not "even be tempted to have her own."

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—British Guiana was in the grip of a general strike today. Hospital nurses, government employees and aluminum plant workers stayed off the job.

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—The country's only airport and its two newspapers were closed. Skeleton staffs kept water and electricity services running. The Trades Union Council called the strike to protest a labor relations bill sponsored by left-wing Premier Cheddi Jagan which passed Parliament Monday night.

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The U.S. Everest expedition reported bad weather on the world's highest mountain Monday but said it hopes to get its fifth camp established at 26,000 feet this week. Seventeen of the 18 team members and all the Sherpa guides began ferrying supplies up the Lhotse face today despite high winds and clouds at the site of the fifth camp.

TOKYO (AP)—Japan is ready for a gradual cut in military aid from the United States, Japanese Defense Agency officials said today. But they said a drastic reduction in American military aid would have "considerable effect" on the buildup of Japan's defense program and that the Japanese government's budget for 1963 was drawn up in the belief that the United States would not drastically cut military aid for at least one year.

Heavier Fighting In Laos Is In Prospect

Rightist Leader Sounds Threat

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Heavier fighting appeared in prospect for Laos today as rightist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan threatened to send his troops into action if the pro-Communist Pathet Lao completes its conquest of the Plain des Jarres. The Pathet Lao is expected to press ahead with its drive to force the neutralist troops of Gen. Kong Le out of northern Laos. Gen. Phoumi's threat promised a resumption of the all-out civil war that ended when the rightist-neutralist-Pathet Lao coalition government was set up by the 1962 Geneva agreements.

There was a shaky truce today on the strategic Plain 110 miles northeast of Vientiane, where the Pathet Lao has driven Kong Le's neutralist forces from key positions. Observers and officials here said the United States would do nothing in Washington said additional units of the 7th Fleet would be sent into the Gulf of Siam area as a precaution. High U.S. authorities also said there was a possibility U.S. troops might return to neighboring Thailand.

Better Chance Is Seen For Early Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., said today a brighter-looking economy is boosting chances of an early tax cut "because the deficit position has improved." Boggs, who met newsmen after President Kennedy's weekly breakfast with Democratic congressional leaders, thus became the first prominent member of his party in Washington to suggest flatly that next year's budget deficit will be smaller than the $11.9 billion Kennedy forecast in January.

Many have been guessing that the deficit for the 1964 fiscal year, which begins July 1, will be even larger than the January prediction. Newsmen asked the Democratic congressional chiefs how they feel about a report that apparent improvement in the economy is likely to stall action on Kennedy's plan for a three-year tax cut of $10.3 billion, by making the need for a spending stimulant less urgent. This increases the prospects for passing a tax cut bill, Boggs replied, "because the deficit position has improved."

Many congressional conservatives have expressed reluctance to vote for the biggest tax cut in history when the federal budget is deeply in the red. Boggs did not indicate the degree to which the prospective deficit, in his view, has been reduced. House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., standing beside Boggs, didn't go into the deficit prospects but declared, "I have every confidence a tax bill will be passed this year."

Boggs reported that the House Ways and Means Committee, now going over the tax bill line by line in executive sessions, will complete its work on the measure within 30 days. The bill is not expected to reach the House floor until late May or June.

Old Aggies Never Die

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Letters protesting rumored plans to admit girls to Texas A&M are being circulated by the president of the Sul Ross Group. The Sul Ross Group—which has approximately 500 members—is composed of former Texas A&M students of more than 70 years of age. The letters, being sent to former students, are signed by T. L. Smith Jr. of Houston, of the Class of 1898.

Estes To Stay Few More Days At Montgomery

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Billie Sol Estes will spend about two more days here "just relaxing," a Negro attorney friend of his said, but he probably plans no more speeches. Fred Gray, the attorney, declined to say where the once wealthy Texas financier is staying. A speech by the Pecos, Tex., agriculture financier at a Negro church drew sharp criticism from a white Montgomery minister Monday.

Fatally Injured

Volunteer Service Recognized

V. J. Belda, right, director at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, Monday night presented awards to volunteers who have given many hours of their time during the past year to patients at the hospital. At left is Mrs. J. E.

Freeman, with the Eager Beaver Sewing Club, who was recognized for 500 hours of volunteer service. Mrs. Roger Buck, center, with the American Red Cross of Midland, received a certificate of devotion for giving 1,000 hours.

VA Extends Thanks To 'Helping Hands'

Scores of volunteers, whose total time in service at the Veterans Administration Hospital runs into thousands of hours, were recognized Monday night. Occasion was the VA's annual Volunteer Appreciation Night, held at the hospital.

Leading the list of those who furnish time and talent to aid the patients was Mrs. Roger Buck, Midland, representing her Red Cross chapter. She was cited for 1,000 hours of work.

Mrs. J. E. Freeman with the Eager Beaver Sewing Club of Big Spring, received a 500-hour certificate. Many others were cited for 300 hours and 100 hours of activity.

Recognition services were conducted by Mrs. Ara Cunningham, chief of volunteer services, and certificates were handed out to various groups by Roy L. Reeves of the radiology service; Miss Bessie Love, chief of nursing services; V. J. Belda, hospital director; and Dr. H. C. Ernsting, chief of staff.

Tolford Durham, chief of social work, was in charge of the program, which included vocal selections by Karen Kee and the Big Spring High School Madrigal Group.

R. W. Whipkey addressed the group, pointing out that in Big Spring's growth through the years, it has added humanitarianism as a characteristic, and this is best exemplified through the loyal and sacrificial work done by the hospital volunteers.

Surge For Goldwater Appears In The Far West

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A surge for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination appears to be building in the Far West.

Western governors here for their annual conference are divided on his chances of capturing their bloc of convention votes. But Goldwater sentiment is far more pronounced than declared support for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Goldwater, who has announced for re-election next year, has said he isn't seeking the presidential nomination. Rockefeller hasn't announced for it. Both, however, are regarded as the leading potential contenders.

First Price Hiker Is Forced To Trim

NEW YORK (AP) — Wheeling Steel Corp., the comparatively small regional producer that kicked off industry-wide selective steel price increases, has had to rescind some markups and trim back others.

The firm acted to fall in line with U.S. Steel Corp., the industry giant, and traditional pattern setter in prices.

Wheeling, accounting for less than two per cent of the nation's steel production last year, wound up on a limb after larger concerns posted varied increases on several steel items.

In nearly every case, Wheeling pegged prices higher than the others. Some other firms overshot the industry-wide pattern that gradually developed.

Wheeling was the last to roll prices back Monday, trailing such bigger producers as Republic National, Jones & Laughlin and Armco, third to sixth ranking firms.

The handwriting was on the wall when U.S. Steel, with 26 per cent of industry tonnage, chose last Tuesday to raise hot rolled sheets $4 a ton, cold rolled sheets $5 and galvanized products $7 a ton.

Basically, these were the prices that stuck, although there were a few other adjustments.

Wheeling eventually found itself 50 cents to $1.50 a ton above the others on various types of sheet and strip.

It gave up altogether $4.50 a ton markups on carbon steel plates and $10 a ton on electrical sheets, items that other big companies did not advance or on which price increases were announced and later rescinded.

The cross-fire caused Lukens Steel Co., a relatively small company which is big in plates, to jettison the only two markups it announced—on carbon and alloy plates.

Lukens had been second in the price increase parade, moving five days after Wheeling. Its decision to rescind, an official said, was made to be competitive.

The latest developments came as the nation's booming steel production edged to a three-year high last week for a second straight week.

Production expanded to 2,521,000 tons, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported, rising for a 12th week in a row on a swelling tide of strike-hedge orders from steel users.

Output is between 80 and 85 per cent of estimated capacity.

Clubhouse For Boys Planned

LAMESA (SC)—Directors of the Lamesa Boys' Club of America have approved plans and specifications for a new clubhouse to be erected here with funds secured in a Dawson County campaign.

Officials have decided to construct a 70 by 140 foot building with rigid steel framework and concrete block foundation and walls. A gymnasium, 90 by 170, is included in the plans.

The front 50 feet of the building will be two story to house an office, game room, workshop, library, kitchen, rest rooms and shower rooms. Attached to the rear of the clubhouse will be a three stall auto mechanics workshop and woodworking shop.

Bids will be called on separate components of the building in order to take advantage of donated materials and labor. Approximately $26,000 has been raised and officials expect to have secured $30,000 by the time construction starts. Estimated cost of the building is $50,000.

Two Burglaries Are Investigated

Two reports of breaking and entering were investigated by Big Spring police Monday.

Billy Stover, at Polly's Cafe, 205 N. Benton, reported 36 cans of beer taken from that address when someone broke a window to gain entrance.

Coleman's Service Station, 201 N. Benton, reported a radio taken from a shelf in the building. Carl Coleman, owner, said a window was broken permitting the burglar to reach in the building and pick up the radio, valued at $15.

A .22 calibre pistol and holster were reported taken from a dresser drawer at the home of Joe Rocha, 602 NW 9th. He told police the gun could have been taken anytime during the past several days, as the house is never locked.

Kennedy Tax Revision Could Unlock Land For Young Men

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration tax reduction and revision program could help unlock billions of dollars worth of farm lands for ambitious young farmers.

Many thousands of older farmers are holding their land because of capital gains tax liability they would incur if they sold under the present federal income tax structure. The Kennedy proposal would greatly ease this tax liability and might lead to the sale of many farms.

The nation's farmlands and buildings at present are valued by the Agriculture Department at $140 billion. This is an increase of more than 400 per cent since 1940. A large portion of the farms were under their present owners in 1940.

TAX CLASS

Under present tax laws, the amount by which the sales price exceeds the price paid is classed as a capital gain. If the property has been held longer than six months, 50 per cent of the gain is taxable. Thus if all the farms were sold this year under the present provisions, there would be a capital gain of upwards of $100 billion. This assumes that all farms were acquired at the 1940 values, which they were not. Some were bought earlier and some later.

Half of this, or $50 billion, would be subject to a capital gains tax which, under existing tax rates, would be upwards of $10 to $12 billion.

Some real estate authorities believe the sharp increase in land values during the past 20 years has been due to the limited supply of land offered for sale. This supply has been limited in turn, they say, by the big capital gains tax the seller would have to pay.

MUST PAY MORE

As a result, beginning farmers and those who want to enlarge their units must pay more than perhaps would be the case if the capital gains taxes were not a deterrent to sales.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said that under the administration proposals, owners who now feel that they are "locked in"—that is, reluctant to sell because of the capital gains tax—might be more likely to offer their land for sale both because of a lower tax rate on capital gains and because they would not receive a tax advantage from holding the land for heirs.

Enactment of the President's proposals concerning capital gains would provide better opportunities for young farmers and would make it easier for farmers who need to expand their holdings into more efficient operating units," he has said.

Under the Kennedy proposal, only 30 per cent of the gain value would be subject to taxation. In addition the rates on the taxable gain would be reduced. Those rates now range from 10 to 25 per cent, depending on the amount of the gain and other income. They would be reduced to rates ranging from 4.2 to 19.5 per cent.

AN EXAMPLE

For example, a farmer who bought a farm in 1940 for $50,000 and sold it under the present tax structure for $150,000 would pay a capital gains tax of $23,800 on the $100,000 gain. Under the Kennedy plan, the tax would be only $9,312.

The administration plan also would change tax treatment of farms left to heirs on the owner's death or transferred by him as a gift. Under present law, inherited land is subject to gift taxes but not to capital gains taxes. The new plan would make it subject to capital gains taxes at the death of the owner or at the time of transfer as a gift.

The administration has said that it is unfair for the appreciation in value of some property to escape taxation because the property is held until the owner's death, while other owners, who sell property during their lifetimes, are required to pay a heavy tax on the appreciation.

LITTLE EFFECT
This latter proposal, however, would have little effect on small and medium-sized farms. The first $15,000 of gain would be permanently exempted from tax, and the tax on the gain on property passing to a spouse, up to one-half the total gain, would be postponed until the spouse's death. A personal residence could be exempted in all cases.

'Nervousness' Not In Textbooks, Curable

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Gynecology textbooks are concerned with the diseases of women but you will search in vain for that disorder so common among women and generally termed "nervousness."

Nervousness is a word that means a general debility that affects not only the activities of the organs of the entire body, but also changes the personality and habits of the unfortunate man, woman or child suffering from its debilitating influences.

His miserable sufferer is told to take up golf, swimming, walking, special exercises, or just any old hobby that will get them out of the office of their puzzled family physician. They have about as much chance of forgetting "nervousness" as they would ignoring a cancer or a broken leg.

There is hope, however, for this lost legion—A lady, forty-seven years old, had just such a condition bordering a complete nervous breakdown. She had a lump in her

Women who cook electrically know...

Electric cooking is COOLER because it's flameless

Flameless electric cooking units fit snugly against pan bottoms. They put their heat into the pans where it is needed, not into the kitchen air. With an electric range your kitchen stays degrees cooler when you cook. And there is less kitchen heat for your air conditioner to remove.

An electric range oven is insulated all around, including the bottom, to keep heat inside where it belongs. This is possible because the electric oven, being flameless, does not require a flow of air into and out of it to support combustion. Result: your kitchen stays cooler when you are baking or roasting.

Electric cooking also is clean, fast, accurate and economical. See your dealer soon for a flameless electric range and enjoy all these benefits. Electric cooking is one of the nicest things about living better... electrically.

A LIMITED DEVIL

Satan is bound by certain limitations. We see from Job 1:12 and 2:6 that he was allowed to go only so far as tempting Job. Also he can go only so far in tempting the children of God today. "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it" (1 Cor. 10:13). This is a glorious promise, and it means that any of us can overcome the devil, if we really want to. It takes real effort on your part, however.

We are told to be sober and watchful and resist the devil. 1 Pet. 5: 8, 9.

The gospel will deliver us from the power of Satan (Acts 26:18). Christ has overcome the evil one, and we can overcome him by the blood of the lamb (Rev. 12:10, 11).

Bad Weather Diminishes Over Midwest

Violent weather diminished in Midwest sections today in the wake of damaging tornadoes, strong wind, hail and thunderstorms in Illinois and Indiana.

Tornadoes Monday night ripped across a path 15 miles wide and about 200 miles long in east central Illinois from Springfield to the Indiana state line. More than 30 persons were injured, some seriously. The severe weather pounded more than 20 small communities.

Scores of homes, farm buildings and business establishments were damaged. Power and communication lines were downed, trees uprooted and store front windows shattered. Heaviest hit in Illinois was Tuscola, a town of about 3,800 persons.

A couple hours after the twisters struck in Illinois, tornadoes hit in Indiana, in West Lafayette and the far east side of Indianapolis. Nine persons were injured and four homes demolished in Indianapolis.

Earlier Monday, a tornado swept the Frisco, Tex., area while violent wind storms lashed a five-county area in southeastern Iowa.

There was widespread precipitation north of the storm center over the Great Lakes region westward over the middle and upper Mississippi Valley. Heavy showers and drizzle splashed the eastern sections. More snow fell in the upper Great Lakes and the Mississippi Valley. Three inches of snow fell in a six-hour period in Wausau, Wis.

The snow belt spread from the Rockies across the Dakotas into Wisconsin and Minnesota. More than three inches of snow fell in Minneapolis while amounts measured 18 inches in Lander, Wyo.

Marathon Record

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — Four couples and a stag are claiming a record for marathon dancing. They did the twist for 62 hours and 30 minutes, bettering a mark of 60 hours and 12 minutes set recently in Helsinki, Finland. Marietta's marathon contest ended early Sunday and was declared a draw among the nine twisters still on their feet.

Latin American Councilmen

These five men had their first post-inauguration council meeting in Crystal City. The Mexican-Americans were elected April 2 in a bitter city election. They replaced four Anglos and another Latin American who had been on the council for years. From left, they are Juan Cornejo, mayor; Antonio Cardenas, Jesse M. Hernandez, Reynaldo Mendoza, and Manuel Maldonado.

Tornado, Hail, Rains Club N. Texas Areas

At least one tornado, pounding hail and briefly torrential rains clubbed parts of North Texas Monday evening, and punishing thunderstorms prowled from Central to East Texas through the night.

The twister tore the roofs off several buildings and overturned a dozen grain storage tanks at Frisco, a North Texas village of 1,200 people. State police placed the loss at $150,000 to $200,000. There were no injuries.

A tornado appeared between Frisco and McKinney in Collin County soon after the damaging winds knifed across the west side of Frisco. The Department of Public Safety reported it disappeared without word of further destruction.

Mrs. Henry Francis gathered her four children into a central hallway as she heard hail stones start battering their home at Frisco. "It wasn't until we went outside later," Mrs. Francis related, "that we found the roof had been blown off from over us." The storm also unroofed a store owned by her husband and water up to two feet deep covered part of the floor.

"The wind would blow one way and then another," said Woodrow Witt, 44, a rural mail carrier at Frisco, "so it wasn't a straight wind, but I don't believe the tornado was on the ground."

Power and telephone lines snapped in Frisco, leaving much of the town in darkness and without electricity to pump water for hours.

In Dallas, a heavy thunderstorm generated winds which damaged a house in the southeast part of the city. Hail the size of marbles pelted some sections. One section of Dallas measured .71 inch of rain.

Through the night and well into Tuesday morning a succession of thundershowers moved eastward across North and Central Texas in both solid and broken lines.

The turbulent weather was stirred up by a weak cool front surging from north to south and encountering big masses of warm, moist air.

Forecasts called for at least partly cloudy skies over the state through Wednesday but shower activity was expected to taper off. Lower temperatures were due to spread into the east and south central sections overnight, and the Weather Bureau said it would warm a bit in the north central and northwest areas Wednesday.

Temperatures hit record highs for the date at several points Monday, ranging up to 102 degrees at Cotulla and 101 at Laredo. Dahart behind the cool front, recorded a high of 88.

Congress Launches Steel Price Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress opens hearings today on steel prices, and with the ink still wet on some new prices.

The atmosphere is far from the stormy, dramatic days of the administration-industry battle of a year ago.

The hearings, conducted by the Senate House Economic Committee with bipartisan approval, promise at the outset, at least, to be more technical than dramatic.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., joint committee chairman, said the hearings will be "impartial and factual." He said the committee is trying "to lay a groundwork of fact and detail on which all could agree so that the opinions, results, and recommendations would so far as possible reflect an informed view of the problem."

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri, senior Republican House member on the group, applauded Douglas' plan for the hearings. Curtis said such a system should have been used last year in place of Kennedy's public denunciations of the price rises which finally were revoked under heavy administration pressure.

On the eve of the hearings' opening, some steel firms were lowering or canceling some of the selective price increases, seemingly to stay in line with the market.

Today's testimony, by Labor Department specialists, was assigned the noninflammatory title: "Labor Costs per Unit of Output and Related Data."

Douglas said the first six days of hearings will be confined to testimony by technical personnel. The committee then will decide on further sessions, presumably with policy makers.

Representatives of the United Steel Workers and the American Iron and Steel Institute were invited to send observers and promised a chance to comment day by day on the technical testimony.

At a question and answer session with the American Society of Newspaper Editors Friday, Kennedy gave the steel industry credit for "some restraint" in the new wave of price increases and expressed the hope steel users and union members would help hold the line.

The steelworkers' contract is responsible for wage negotiations at the beginning of May.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a member of the Economic Committee, said in a statement prepared for the opening of the hearings that "our job is to enable the consumer to make an informed judgment on steel prices."

He urged that the committee adhere to this purpose and not let the hearings be used as a forum "to make the steel companies conform to our ideas of what steel prices should be."

Sharing Called Way To Survival

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rich nations can retain their wealth only by helping poor countries, Paul G. Hoffman, managing director of the U. N. Special Fund, asserted.

He made the statement at a session opening Monday the annual Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, which has brought 1,500 business leaders together from 45 nations.

He suggested that more aid be channeled through organizations such as the United Nations because it "is often not only more feasible and economical but also sensitive areas."

Scientists Next As Astronauts

HOUSTON (AP)—The Manned Spacecraft Center has decided to accept full-fledged scientists as astronauts.

Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director at the center, made the announcement Monday in an interview with the Houston Post at an American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics meeting in Dallas.

"We have made the decision to accept scientists," Gilruth said. "Just how it will be done is being worked out now."

The Houston-based official said it has not been decided if the scientists accepted in the program will be members of the crew or merely observers on Apollo flights to the moon.

A Long Wait

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — An 82-year-old man who says he hasn't seen his wife since she left him a few months after their marriage in 1899 has been granted a decree providing for dissolution of the marriage. Charles Woodcock received the decree Monday in State Supreme Court.

A Devotional For The Day

He is not here, but is risen. (Luke 24:6.)
PRAYER: O Lord of the resurrection, waken us to proclaim the message of resurrection to others. While we praise Thy holy name for new life in Christ, may we also dedicate to Thee our property, our talents, our lives. In His name. Amen.

A Super-Faucet?

This is perhaps nothing of great moment, but we hope that the Master Plan for downtown water service includes some feasible plan whereby water can be cut off with reasonable dispatch.

The other night a main ruptured in the heart of the downtown area and it required something like three hours to shut off the flow. Estimates are that 400,000 gallons of water flowed down the storm drains.

This is no great economic import, for at the city's rate of purchase, this would represent no more than about $70. Compared with the cost of large dimension gates, this is a mere drop in the bucket. But the water loss was also a mere drop in the bucket of the loss sustained in the area because of water forcing its way up through flooring.

All of this might be written off as a passing incident except for the fact that new and larger lines soon will require greater volumes of water into the downtown area. It is possible that larger trunk lines will reduce the friction loss and thus increase the pressures on some of the old pipe in the area. Here's hoping that it never breaks, but its chances for ruptures may be increased under the improvement program. Thus, we trust that some plan may be devised for promptly controlling such emergencies if they should occur.

Woes Of An Enterpriser

The "golden years" proved too much for Wladyslaw M. of Warsaw, Poland. He lived on an invalid's pension, but could not bear idleness. With the instincts of a true capitalist he established a business that even Billy Sol Estes could have envied.

The story is told in the New York Times by Paul Underwood. The business established by M. was simplicity itself. He appointed himself dog registrar. He went from village to village and house to house with an imposing ledger book in which he noted the name, sex and color of each dog and whether it had been inoculated against rabies. For this he charged 20 zlotys—almost 5 cents in U. S. money. Then he teamed up with a veterinarian, acting as his official doctor.

The enterprise flourished when a suspicious provincial policeman insisted on an accounting of fees collected. Well, M. hadn't bothered to keep any books. "Perhaps we took in 50,000... perhaps a million, or even a billion zlotys," he said. Now M. is in deep trouble. Authorities assume that he collected more than 1 million zlotys and therefore owed 50,000 in income taxes.

All this sounds like where we came in. It is nothing more than life's feeble imitation of art. Mr. M. should get a medal, or a suitably engraved plaque bearing the immortal words of P. T. Barnum: "There's a sucker born every minute." Instead he is certain to languish in durance vile, even more unhappy about his golden years than he was before.

Marquis Childs The Example Of Korea

WASHINGTON — With the renewed outbreak of conflict in Laos and the ever-deeper involvement of the more than 12,000 American military forces in South Vietnam, an old and troublesome question has risen anew.

In the huge task of order-keeping thrust on this nation at the end of World War II the problem has been to try to strike a balance between the military and the uses of diplomacy and negotiation—in short, between the simple way of force and the political skills of persuasion, propaganda and the acceptance of reasonable compromise in the face of the inescapable realities.

THREE ARE those in government today greatly concerned that the military solution in Vietnam has overridden all political considerations. When doubts are raised about the dictatorial regime in Saigon, Ngo Dinh Diem and whether it can ever gain enough popular acceptance to form a stable government, the impatient answer is that we must win first and then such political matters can be discussed.

But in the Far East today is a tragic example of how limited are the gains that can come from even all-out use of force. This is underscored by a fourth coming anniversary. The Korean War that came to an end with an armistice in July, 1953, cost 157,500 American casualties, including 33,629 battle deaths and 20,617 deaths from other causes.

SOUTH KOREA appears a decade after the armistice to be no nearer to becoming a self-sufficient country. Unemployment and poverty are widespread, with the unemployed estimated as high as 10 per cent of the total population of 26,000,000. In the decade the United States has put in more than $4 billion of military and economic aid, the preponderance being on the economic side. And there have never been fewer than 35,000 American troops stationed in the country.

AS WAS widely acknowledged when the Communists invaded North Korea, the United States had no choice but to rally the United Nations and furnish with desperate improvisation the sinews of the defense. If this had not happened, much of Asia, including Japan, might have been written off.

When this is said, however, it is nonetheless important to examine the balance between military and political factors in the prosecution of that war and the uneasy peace that followed. While no one would suggest an exact parallel with Vietnam, the example is instructive.

BY THE late summer of 1950 the heroic effort of the United Nations forces—mostly United States forces—had pushed the Communists back to the 38th parallel. The hope appeared of negotiating a peace with the country divided on that line. If only because the military operation had become so massive and public opinion so aroused, political and diplomatic considerations were lost sight of.

With the brilliant landing at Inchon the military was dominant. The drive to the northern border of Korea on the Yalu River got under way. The catastrophe that followed, with the massive intervention of the Communist Chinese, is a tragic page.

NEARLY TWO-THIRDS of all American casualties occurred after the Inchon landing. When the Eisenhower Administration finally signed an armistice—ending "Truman's war" in Korea, which had been a Republican slogan—the dividing line was the 38th parallel.

Both in the decision to go to the Yalu and in the turbulent years after the peace the United States was involved with stubborn old Syngman Rhee, a Korean patriot who had lived most of his life in exile. He made extraordinary demands on Washington and as he became a darling of the China lobby those demands were met despite persistent rumors of the rampant graft in his regime. Three years ago Rhee and his wife fled the country just ahead of an angry mob and many of his collaborators were executed or jailed for thievery and other crimes.

SOUTH KOREA today is ruled by a military dictatorship headed by Gen. Chung Hee Park. Washington has been prodding him to restore the forms of self-government. Recently he has taken a conciliatory attitude. Economic aid is continuing at the rate of about $125,000,000 annually and last year military aid totaled $281,000,000. With all the misery and poverty that exist, the Korean birth rate is one of the highest in the world.

PERHAPS any political negotiation in Vietnam is impossible. The renewed conflict in Laos may prove that no political solution can endure. It may be that Ngo Dinh Diem is the only leader the United States can support with any hope of overcoming the Communist guerrillas. But before all political-diplomatic factors are ruled out it might be well to take a long, hard look at the Korean example.

Billy Graham

There are some religions that denounce the practice of incest. But so far as I know Christians seem to be silent on this matter. Does their silence condone incest? If not, isn't such silence liable to appear to be at least indifference to such a horrible way of living?

The Bible very clearly condemns incestuous practices of any kind. Particularly this is found in the books of the law in the Old Testament as in Leviticus 18:9; Leviticus 20:17; Deuteronomy 27:22; Ezekiel 22:11.

The classic New Testament example is to be found in I Corinthians, chapter five, and you will see what the New Testament position is. It is the same as the Old Testament.

The silence of some religious groups on this subject is never justified although there may be excuses for it. It takes a great amount of courage and of tact as well as of wisdom to deal with any of the sexual sins. Paul dealt with them openly and firmly. Incest is sinful—but it can be forgiven in Christ. Certainly the Bible is not silent.

Law-Breaking Fans

BALTIMORE — There's a new status symbol among National Football League fans of the Baltimore Colts. Parking in a forbidden zone near Memorial Stadium.

The fine for the illegal parking is $5.50. But five fans riding in one car can pay only $1.10 each and get away about half an hour earlier than patrons who pay 50 cents to park on the parking lots.

'WE'LL LEARN THEM REBELS SOME CIVIL RIGHTS'

James Marlow The Goose And The Gander

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's a strange goose-and-gander business. What's sauce for the United States becomes sauce for Communism. It spreads over islands, missiles, prisoners and national desires.

Since 1950 the United States has protected its ally, Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa, from Red Chinese attack. The Chinese Communists claim this island, 100 miles from the mainland, as a part of China.

THE RUSSIANS have moved troops into Cuba, 90 miles from the United States, to protect their ally, Fidel Castro, from any direct American action to abolish him and communism on the island.

Years ago the United States put missiles into Italy and Turkey, right on the Soviets' doorstep. Last fall the Russians put missiles into Cuba on the American doorstep.

In a showdown with this country, Russia pulled its Cuban missiles back. But within a few weeks the United States announced it was pulling its missiles out of Italy and Turkey.

The explanation for this was that the American Polaris missile submarines, roaming and hidden under the Mediterranean, are more effective.

In 1957 Col. Rudolph Abel, a Soviet spy, was captured in this country and sentenced to 30 years.

In 1960 Francis Gary Powers, piloting an American U2 plane, was shot down over Russia and jailed. In 1961 another American, Frederick L. Pryor, was jailed as a spy in East Berlin.

Hal Boyle Hard-Working Mothers

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

It has been estimated the mother of an infant child works up to 88 hours a week. Incidentally, the average baby cries 113 minutes a day.

One of a policeman's occupational hazards today is writer's cramp. They hand out up to 70 million traffic tickets yearly to motorists.

In 1962 almost 1,000 U.S. automobiles a day were stolen. Nine out of 10 had been left unlocked by careless owners. Car thefts so far this year are up about 10 per cent.

If once was thought you could cure a toothache by running three times around a church without thinking about a fox.

The Lido Cabins Club here posts this sign: "Money belts not permitted in the pool."

The U.S. government says that a basket of groceries that cost $10.16 in 1952 costs only about $9.80 today. The average family spends slightly less than 20 per cent of its income for food, the lowest figure in our history.

Our quotable notables: "The test of a man or woman's breeding is how they behave in a quarrel." —George Bernard Shaw.

"Nicotine and alcohol don't mix." A medical researcher reports that men who smoked 16 or more cigarettes a day and also drank six or more ounces of liquor daily were seven times as likely to develop throat cancer as non-smokers who smoked the same amount.

Soviet Russia is making a bid for the international tourist trade. It had 800,000 visitors last year, including 20,000 Frenchmen, 19,000 Britons and 17,000 Americans.

Woodrow Wilson had one of the most meteoric rises in American political history. Just two years and 170 days after he was nominated for governor of New Jersey—his first public office—he was elected as president of the United States.

A New Jersey town once made it a misdemeanor for a dog to bark after 10 o'clock at night. In St. Louis, Mo., it is illegal to sit on a curb and drink beer from a bucket. And there was a time when you could be arrested in Washington, D.C., if caught fishing while seated on a horse.

Our American population has increased more than 40 million in the last 20 years, a hike of over 35 per cent, but we still number only about 6 per cent of the earth's people. But by 1975 or 1980 China may become the world's first nation to have one billion people.

Around The Rim How Silly Can You Get?

According to the press, the Philadelphia School board is all upset. It has read Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and discovered several shocking things about the classic.

One, it has found out that Finn's bosom friend was a Negro named Jim. Jim, unfortunately did not have a Harvard education. He spoke crudely as did Huck for that matter.

TWO, THE school board has discovered that there are scenes of what it calls violence in the book. A murder, as I recall it, was one such episode. And there were some very low characters introduced—crooks, con-men and such.

Three, the book implies there is an inequality between Jim and some of the other characters—the implication being that a sort of segregation barrier prevailed, as if it didn't.

Four, the school board has discovered that little Philadelphians in the city's schools enjoy reading the high adventures of Huck and Jim and that the volumes of the book on the shelves of the school libraries are much in demand.

THE SCHOOL board, having learned these things, is horrified and wants to do something about it. They fear that the reading of Huckleberry Finn is warping their little darlings' psycho or something; that the portrayal of Jim is an affront, an insult and a downright outrage to all Negroes everywhere; the scenes of violence are destroying the moral fiber of their youngsters, that the high demand for the book is proof of the danger that the volume offers to the morale and future welfare of their city.

Not having the guts to pardon the expression to summarize the book from the libraries, this learned body proposes an even greater affront to the principles of free press and free expression.

OF ALL THE IDIOTIC proposals ever heard the board suggests that they "rewrite" the book, leaving out the bad parts, one supposes, and changing Jim from a Negro runaway slave into a white man.

I suggest that Philadelphia set a watch on the grave of one of its most widely known citizens. He has been dead a long time but if word of this atrocity reaches him, I am sure the watchmen will see the sod above his bones in violent motion.

HIS NAME IS Benjamin Franklin, and if any man would have spoken out against so stupid a decision as the one the school board is making, it would have been old Ben.

Another of the town's early gentry would probably be as upset—a fellow named William Penn.

And if this sort of arrant bigotry and tripe be permitted to go through, the Liberty Bell may develop some new cracks.

The school board is in for a lot of re-writing. They'll have to change the title and text to make Sewell's classic "White Beauty," instead of "Black Beauty," Shakespeare will have to go—particularly "Othello. What will they do with "Treasure Island," for goodness sake?

AND HOW ABOUT THE Holy Bible? Isn't there an account in the Book of a king who looked with lustful eyes on the wife of one of his soldiers and had the poor devil killed in order to wed the widow? We can't have this sort of thing laid before our tender sprouts?

It's bad enough when chicken-hearted radio and television networks edit classic songs like "Old Folks at Home" and "Old Black Joe" to avoid some imagined offense to Negroes, when all the while these are part of the warp and woof of the times in which they were created. It's many times worse when silly, inept hands attempt to tamper with the works of geniuses like Twain.

Inez Robb Story Of A Useful Woman

She was an old lady I never knew, and that is my loss. For, by any accounting, she was a remarkable woman in whom the priceless boons of self-reliance and proud independence, of virtue and faith blossomed triumphantly throughout her 82 years.

SHE WAS, in a quiet way and by force of circumstance, a matriarch. But not the rich dominating matriarch of whom so many modern novels have been written in this generation. She laid up treasure for herself, but not in this world. And when she died recently there was enough for decent burial and a little something for each of her four children. Not much as the world rates such things, but a little something for each.

In her twenties she was suddenly widowed, with a baby at her breast and three small children clinging to her skirts. His lodge members buried her husband, a good man and a day laborer who, almost 60 years ago, died with scarcely enough in his savings account to pay the next month's rent and feed his family for a few weeks.

WHEN SHE TOOK stock in her assets, she had health, a sixth-grade education, a bright mind and a cheerful disposition. But the only thing at which she was an expert was keeping house. That was her great talent.

Some almost 60 years ago she went into what was quaintly known in those days as "service." She became a general houseworker in a well-to-do home. The hours were endless as was customary, and the pay meager. But out of that stipend she managed to hire a good woman to look after her small children, to keep up the payments on the tiny home and, somehow, to feed and clothe them.

EVERY OTHER Thursday afternoon and one Sunday a month she had to herself. On those days she rushed home to love to sew, to mend and be with her children.

This is not the story of a woman who reared a brilliant family whose members achieved wealth and position and carried her off to a life of ease in a crystal palace. It is, rather, the tale of a woman who through unceasing hard work, reared a family that was a credit to herself and the community.

ONE BY ONE the girls left school to support themselves. They each married honest, dependable workmen. There was never much money in any of the four households, but there was enough. And, one by one, the girls began to beg their mother to put aside her apron and her life in other people's kitchens, and to come live with them.

But the habit of independence and self-reliance was strong in her; deep in her bones by this time. So, year by year, she put them off. Each year she promised that the next she would surely leave the cold North and go to live with the daughter in Florida. Just another year, she would say. Only another 12 months—

THEN, THREE WEEKS ago, she fell in a familiar street which had been excavated one day before, and broke a hip. She lived only 10 days, surrounded by her four girls and her "other family"—grief-stricken and amazed that the old oak had at last bowed to the wind. I have been happy," she kept saying to those around her, in an effort to comfort them.

When I heard her story the other day I thought of the continuing dialogue about older citizens, their right to or not to work and their yearning to feel useful, to be wanted. I could not feel that this woman's story was sad—all her life she had been useful and wanted. And loved.

Holmes Alexander The Congo Pot Boils Again

WASHINGTON — Things are rough all over again in the Congo, and the American State Department looks for them to get rougher.

Some 14,000 well-armed guerrillas are loose along the railroad line that leads from the Jadotville area to the Angolo port city of Benguela.

THIS IMPORTANT rail line carries copper to the Atlantic sea coast and brings oil and other supplies to the Katanga province. The guerrillas, according to reports that have reached Foggy Bottom, are being paid for three months' service, which began last January. That means the men are running out of money. They may be expected to become bandits, or else sell their services to any of the several warring factions which are still at one another's throats.

This banditti is a trouble-making factor over and above the tribal rivalries which have recently yielded a hundred or so new casualties. The UN force of 15,000 Blue Helmets would have enough to do at nothing more than police work, let alone handle these other disturbances.

WHILE THE Russo-Afro-Asians at the UN are agitating against the Blue Helmets as a disguised "neo-colonial" force, the Soviet embassy at Leopoldville appears to have increased its garrison of about 75 agents of mischief which was the estimated number when this reporter was there last December to over 100.

The reason for the increase is pretty evident. Premier Adoula has said he will end the house arrest and exile of several pro-Soviet followers of the late Patrice Lumumba, and the Premier is putting together a new coalition government. The Communists hope that some of the Leftists will go for the Red line.

THUS FAR Adoula has gratified the State Department by strong pro-Western and anti-Soviet diplomacy. On last February 4th, Adoula's government-controlled newspaper, "Le Progrès," fired a scizzing editorial which described the Russian embassy as "an espionage center," accused it of "tampering with the Army" and taunted Khrushchev with keeping a "colossal" diplomatic agency in a country where Russian investment is "zero."

Adoula lashed out again on April 8th. He protested in a sarcastic letter to Secretary General U. Thant that the Russian embassy "did not consider it necessary to communicate" directly with the Leopoldville government, but was bypassing channels by writing directly to U. Thant about the UN presence.

DESPITE THESE spunky actions by Adoula, the State Department appears to see only a military solution in the Congo. There is need for a well-trained Congolese Army of at least 25,000 troops, with native officers and non-coms, to hold the lid on. There are plans for the Italians to train the Congo air force, the Norwegians to train the river navy, the Belgians to train ground troops, and the U.S.A. to supply arms and logistical equipment.

IF THE Congo survives at all, it will very much resemble the Latin-American type of "republic," complete with its strongman.

Ironically, this is the kind of anti-Communist apparatus which no longer gets the full blessing of Washington.

RACIAL: Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy foresees another decade of racial disturbances in the United States before Negroes have full equality with whites.

"This is not a problem that is confined to one section," Kennedy said, and the disturbances will break out in both the South and North. In fact, he said in a taped radio-television interview there is "much racial prejudice in the North—perhaps more subtle, more sinister—than in the South."

Stephens Family Visits In Dallas

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Mrs. Bill Stephens was a visitor for the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Huck Doe, and family, Dallas. Stephens and son, Clifford, and his family of Sterling City went to Dallas Saturday morning for a visit and returned home accompanied by Mrs. Bill Stephens. Mrs. C. P. Chandler of St. Lawrence has returned from Childers after a visit with relatives. She was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Lone Evans, who will visit for two weeks. Mrs. Edwin Bedna left Monday for Dallas to be with her brother, T. J. Tension, who has had neuro-surgery in a Dallas hospital.

New Slate Of Officers Named At Beta Omicron Chapter Meeting

New officers were elected Monday evening when the Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mrs. Hack Wright. Mrs. John Fort was hostess.

To be installed May 13 are Mrs. Jim Newsom, president; Mrs. Edward Seay, vice president; Mrs. Gayle Bell, recording secretary; Mrs. Don Kenner, treasurer; and Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, corresponding secretary.

Also, Mrs. Tom Marr, extension officer; and Mrs. Wade Choate and Mrs. Robert Wray, city council representatives. Mrs. Tom Enloe will be hostess for the installation ceremony.

A ritual of jewels ceremony was held for Mrs. Wray, Mrs. Kenner, Mrs. Bob McCarty, Mrs. Howard Johnson, Mrs. Don McEntire and Mrs. Bill McDonald. Mrs. Charles Snyder and Mrs. McEntire, who are leaving the city, were presented with the Mizpah disc.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Choate, the Founder's Day dinner was set for April 30 at Cosden Country Club. The Girl of the Year award will be presented at this time.

A $10 donation was made to this year's state project, "Valley Botanical," in McAllen. A suggestion was sent to the state board that next year's project be Camp Sweeney, a summer camp for diabetic children.

Members voted to continue the service project through the summer months and to hold at least one social during that time. A farewell party was scheduled for May 27 with the place to be announced. San Antonio was announced as the site for the state convention to be held June 14 to 16.

Refreshments were served by the hostess from a table laid with white linen and centered with a spring bouquet. Silver and milk-glass appointments were used.

Mrs. George Adams and Mrs. Walter Wilson were honored at a baby shower, held Monday evening in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Hostesses were members of the British Wives Club.

Game prizes were won by Mrs. Glenn Forest and Mrs. Dameron Moore. The door prize was awarded to Mrs. Vern Cox.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Adams and Mrs. David Bayless. Sixteen attended, including two new members, Mrs. Forrest and Mrs. Joe Donoghue.

The next meeting will be May 6 in the Flame Room.

Nomadic Life Continues For Vinegar Joe's Girl

HONOLULU (AP) — "You never get used to it," said Mrs. Ernest F. Easterbrook. "Moving in the service is like having a sick child. The news always comes as a shock. Then you do what you have to do. And pretty soon it's over and then you forget about it."

Mrs. Easterbrook described her reactions to her nomadic military life as she prepared to leave Hawaii to join her husband, Maj. Gen. Ernest F. Easterbrook, in Bangkok. The general, former commander of the 25th Division at Schofield Barracks, has been appointed chief of the U.S. Military Advisory Group to Thailand.

ALWAYS ON THE GO Nancy Easterbrook, a slim, attractive matron, thinks she may hold a record for moves, although she long ago lost track of the exact number. Her whole life, she said, seems to be one move after another.

She is one of five children of the late Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, U.S. commander of the China-India-Burma theater in World War II. "We were always on the go with Dad," she said. "Moving is far easier now than it used to be. Then you'd pack your own china in those crates with planks for sides."

"Now the Army Transportation Corps moves right in and does it all. And I mean all." She claims she knows people whose ash trays arrived at a new base with ashes still in them. "And one friend of mine," she said, "insists her garbage got packed right up and shipped along with everything else."

SPEAKS SOME CHINESE Though Mrs. Easterbrook spent her childhood in China where her father was stationed, she's never been to Bangkok. "I speak some Chinese," she said. "I think it's so important to speak a few words in the language of the country you're in."

"Dad was wonderful that way. When he'd go to southern China they'd take him for a northern Chinese. He spoke the dialect perfectly. But more important, he fell into the way of the people."

The only non-military member of her family today — besides her mother who lives quietly in Carmel, Calif. — is Dr. Benjamin Stilwell of La Jolla, Calif. Her brother, Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell Jr., is in Saigon.

YOU MAKE MANY FRIENDS Her sisters are married to colonels—Army Col. Ellis Cox, stationed at the Pentagon in Washington and Air Force Col. William R. Cameron, assigned to Lockbourne Field, Ohio.

The Easterbrooks' youngest son, Jim, 14, will join his parents after finishing his high school freshman year this June. Their daughter, Nancy, will spend her summer vacation from the University of California, Berkeley, in Bangkok.

4-H Leaders To Receive Training

"Getting The Most Out of Your Sewing Machine" is the theme for a two-day training course to be conducted Thursday and Friday for 4-H clothing leaders. Announced by Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Howard County Home Demonstration agent, the course will be given by Mrs. Delores Bilderback, Singer Education director of Denver, Colo. The course will be limited to 4-H leaders only.

In a nation-wide program, the course is designed to help 4-H clothing leaders make the most effective use of their sewing machines. Also, it will instruct them on teaching the 4-H Club girls.

The training course is sponsored by the Texas Cooperative Extension Service, in cooperation with the National 4-H Service Committee, Inc., and the Singer Sewing Machine Co.

Training will include demonstrations and individual practice sessions on adjustment and care of the sewing machine; machine adjustments for various weights, textures and thicknesses of fabrics; practical use of sewing machine attachments; special training teaching techniques, and methods for working with 4-H members.

Additional information may be obtained from Mrs. Crawford.

WMS In Session At First Baptist

The Girls Auxiliary was emphasized in the Monday morning session of the Woman's Missionary Society, First Baptist Church.

A brief business meeting was conducted following the group singing and a prayer offered by Mrs. F. W. Bettle, Mrs. J. C. Pickle, GA director, introduced Mrs. Julius Baird who brought a report on the recent queens court held in Brownwood. Thirteen girls from the First Baptist attended the court which stressed home and foreign missions.

Members were reminded that the GA Clinic will be held Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the church. Mrs. R. D. Ulrey brought the call to prayer for missionaries, with Mrs. Glenn Faison voicing the closing prayer.

Texans Invited For Rose Show

A competitive exhibition of specimen roses will be presented for public exhibition at Hodges Gardens, Many, La., May 4-5. This will be the second annual Louisiana Festival of Roses, based on the theme "The Rose-International Queen of Flowers."

Special sections in the horticulture division will be set for amateur rose growers of neighboring states who desire to exhibit. Proper recognition will be given as merited to the out-of-state exhibitors.

Igo-Myrick Plans Told

LAMESA (SC)—The Rev. and Mrs. Clifton F. Igo announce the marriage of their daughter, Linda Lee, to Edwin Michael Myrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Myrick, Lubbock.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Lamesa High School and attended Wayland Baptist College. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Lubbock Monterey High School and is a senior at Wayland.

The wedding is planned for June 8 in the Second Baptist Church here.

State President Here With Legion Auxiliary

MRS. MAURICE KUBBY

The state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Maurice Kubby, was honored Monday by local officers and members at a coffee. The former Lone Crowe and a native of Big Spring, Mrs. Kubby now makes her home in El Paso. She was accompanied here by Mrs. John Coleman, mother of Mrs. B. M. Sims, recently chosen as "Mrs. Texas."

Mrs. Coleman is the department vice president of Division 4. Hostesses for the coffee, held at the Settles Hotel, were Mrs. Byron Hill, president of District 19, Mrs. H. J. Morrison, president of the Big Spring Auxiliary, Mrs. L. R. Nichols, Mrs. H. D. Bruton, Mrs. Roscoe Cone and Mrs. Zaida Rea.

Mrs. Kubby is making coffee stops with auxiliaries throughout District 19.

Recently MAJ. BENJAMIN MEACHAM did something unusual for a chaplain. He and Mrs. Meacham took off for a Sunday to take in the Texas bluebonnet extravaganza in the Hill Country. They held their own services out of doors and took in the beauty of the hillsides blanketed in blue.

MR. and MRS. E. V. SPENCE have been taking a brief rest at the ranch home of her parents near Alice.

MR. and MRS. SHERMAN TINGLE of Levelland were here over the weekend visiting in the home of the HARRISON TINGLES and MRS. W. D. McDONALD.

There's nothing like a Little League lot full of baseball-playing boys to attract a lot of little girls as spectators. Also attracted are fathers and mothers who like to see how many times their hopeful catches the ball or hits it with a bat. Also of great interest is how the youngsters take it when they get the inevitable chewing out by their coach. There are a great many things of interest when one watches boys doing almost anything. I'm sure girls are interesting too. I've just never watched as many girls as I have watched boys.

The JOE HINTONS have added to their list of grandsons. Last week they were in Fort Worth to see little JAMES VAN BUREN MASSEY III whose mother is the former DIEDRE HINTON who worked at one time in the women's department of the Herald. The other grandsons belong to Joseph D. Hinton and his wife who make their home in Snyder.

'ROUND TOWN With LUCILLE PICKLE

This season of flower shows is getting a big lift from Mother Nature who is putting out some pretty displays and arrangements of her own. All about town are roses in profusion as well as iris beds that range in color from deep purple to the palest blue. Also there are numerous varieties of deep bronze and tenderest yellow.

MRS. ZIRAH LEFEVRE has roses fore and aft at her home on 18th and Lancaster and at the 18th St. fire station the firemen have tended their roses so carefully that the result is a solid bed of blooms. The JIM LITTLE home, 500 Westover, has some beautiful blooms on its rose bushes at the rear of the yard. Although the wind has given the blooms a bad time, the peonies at the G. H. HAYWARD home, 502 Hillside, have been enormous this year.

NEWS BRIEFS

AUSTIN (AP) — Dist. Judge Jack Roberts sustained today a contention by the state that his court does not have jurisdiction in a suit seeking to stop construction of a $65 million dam in Navasota County.

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators approved on voice vote today a University of Houston bill that previously sparked a Senate filibuster.

The verbal approval of the Senate measure came after senators agreed to the debate 21-9. In two filibuster actions Sen. W. T. Moore, Bryan, claimed that the bill would allow state aid to be used for the graduate school at the Houston institution.

A similar House bill was tentatively approved by the House Monday amid estimates that it would eventually cost the state about $1.5 million.

Since each house passed its own version of the University of Houston bill, the issue still must be finally decided by one house or the other, or by a conference committee.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Attorneys for the city of Birmingham are attempting to show that the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has advocated violence in desegregation movements. The conference, headed by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., long has contended that it uses a passive resistance nonviolent approach in its battle for integration.

Testifying Monday in contempt of court proceedings against King and 14 other Negro leaders, a state investigator said King's organization had a program of "teaching hatred of the whites."

The witness, Lt. Willie D. Painter of the Alabama Highway Patrol said the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker told him the organization would turn to revolution, if necessary, to achieve minimum desegregation in Birmingham. Walker is executive secretary of the conference.

The city brought the contempt charges after the Negro leaders defied a state court injunction against demonstrations in the 19-day-old desegregation movement.

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin and Allied officials dismissed today Soviet Premier Khrushchev's suggestion that West Berlin be given a neutral status like Austria, Switzerland or San Marino. "We see absolutely nothing new in this," said one Western diplomat. "In fact, he seems to be going backward."

The diplomat pointed out that when Khrushchev first demanded that the Allied occupation of the city be ended, he proposed that

West Berlin become a demilitarized "free city."

When the Allies rejected this, the Soviets softened their demands and said troops could remain under United Nations command.

"It is obvious that he is just searching," a Western expert said. "He is uncertain on how to play his next step."

In an interview with Director Italo Pietra of the Milan newspaper Il Giorno and the paper's Moscow correspondent, Raffaello Uboldi, Khrushchev said West Berlin could be like Switzerland or Austria, "two countries which live in the middle of other groups of countries but without representing any cause of friction."

Khrushchev also suggested that West Berlin become the "San Marino of central Europe." San Marino is a tiny republic situated in the heart of northern Italy.

Walk Repairs Being Made

One-half of a new sidewalk on the west side of Zale's Jewelry Store, where a water main caused damage when it broke last week, will be re-run Wednesday morning. The entire width will be rebuilt over the excavation, Ernest Lillard, director of public works, said Tuesday, but one half will be done at first to leave the other half passable to foot traffic.

A new traffic light was being installed at the intersection of Sixth and Johnson Tuesday morning. This was authorized when Sixth Street was made a throughfare, from Birdwell Lane to Main Street. The heavy traffic on Johnson made the signal necessary, Lillard said.

The light at Main and Sixth has been sacked and traffic stopped on Sixth at Main for a 30-day trial period.

Stop signs have been placed on Runnels at Sixth, with temporary stop signs remaining on Sixth for a week's period to get Runnels Street users acquainted with the new stop traffic will yield to Sixth Street from Birdwell to Main except where traffic signal lights are placed.

Next Trials Set Wednesday

Lee Porter, county judge, said that the two civil cases set down for trial today had not developed and that the first hearings on the current docket would be Wednesday.

Porter said of the 87 cases he had called Monday afternoon, he estimated about 40 had been stricken. Some were reported settled. Bulk of the cases were dismissed, most frequently on the motion of the plaintiff or his attorney.

A dozen cases are tentatively docketed for hearing before the court. Judge Porter believes that by the end of the week, several other cases on the docket will have been disposed.

A number of cases were old tax suits brought by the city, school and county John Burgess, city attorney, who had checked the docket, said that a number of these had been settled and only final judgments need to be entered.

Porter set the docket, including cases which dated back to 1955, in an effort to get additional deadwood off the county civil docket.

City Launches Mosquito War

The Big Spring street department has started its annual mosquito control program, Skeet Forsythe, superintendent, said Tuesday morning.

"We are spraying possible breeding places," he said, "and will cover all known places in the city. The fogging program will come later."

Gen. Burns To Command ATC

New commanding officer of the Air Training Command, of which Webb Air Force Base is a unit, is to be Lt. Gen. Robert W. Burns.

Announcement has been made that General Burns will succeed Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, when the latter retires from the Air Force about the last of July.

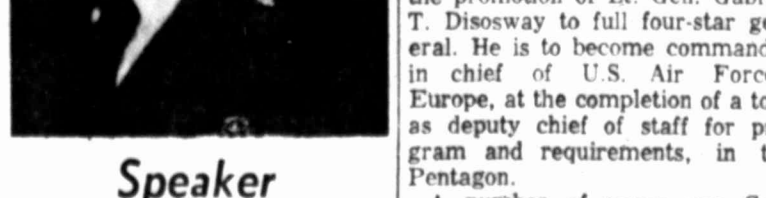

The new ATC commanding general, who will have headquarters at Randolph AFB, San Antonio, currently is chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board and senior Air Force member of the Military Staff Committee for the United Nations. He formerly commanded the 5th Air Force in the Pacific.

The Air Force has announced the promotion of Lt. Gen. Gabriel T. Disoway to full four-star general. He is to become commander in chief of U.S. Air Forces, Europe, at the completion of a tour as deputy chief of staff for program and requirements, in the Pentagon.

A number of years ago Gen. Disoway headed the Flying Training Air Force, with headquarters in Waco, when the pilot training program came under that particular supervision. He made several visits to Webb AFB and Big Spring.

Speaker

Col. Harold C. Collins, commander of Webb Air Force Base's Pilot Training Group, will speak to the Lamesa Jaycees at their regular luncheon Wednesday. Col. Collins will speak on pilot training.

Engineer Is Interviewed For Local Post

Howard County Commissioner Court Monday interviewed J. C. Harris, a tentative applicant for the long-vacant post of county engineer.

Harris, who is presently assistant city engineer in Corpus Christi, has not made a formal application for the job here. He explained to the commissioners that he is a former resident of the area and that he has interests in San Angelo which often require his personal attention. He is considering a change from the coast to some community in this part of the state.

The engineer's post has been vacant for a long time. Lee Porter, county judge, ran an advertisement in several engineering journals soon after taking over his duties in January, seeking applicants for the job. Four or five, he said, have made inquiries but nothing concrete has developed.

One of the problems the commissioners face in filling the post is the limited salary the job pays. Harris indicated in his conversation with the court that if he should come here, he would be taking a cut of $75 per month in salary from his present pay.

The county road and bridge department, since the engineer's post has been vacant, has operated under the direction of Pete Thomas, road supervisor.

BILL TINDOL

Tindol Gets NSF Grant

Bill Tindol, former Junior High School mathematics teacher in Big Spring, has been awarded an academic-year grant for a National Science Foundation Mathematics institute at the University of Oklahoma. He is now a ninth grade algebra teacher at Austin Junior High School in Midland.

Tindol has been granted a year's leave of absence to participate in the institute from July 1, 1963, through June 1, 1964. He expects to receive a master's degree in mathematics at the end of the institute. The grant provides $4,740 plus books and travel allowance and notice came as a 25th "birthday present."

Tindol, a native of Coahoma, receives his BS degree in mathematics from Sul Ross State College in Midland for a year and a half. He taught one year in Big Spring.

His wife, the former Judy Caulie of Big Spring, and their 16-month-old daughter will accompany him to Norman.

Court Outlets Rate Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has ruled unanimously that the Interstate Commerce Commission lacked a basis for ordering cancellation of freight rate cuts proposed by several railroads for trailer-on-flatcar service.

Justice Harlan wrote the court's opinion in a case involving Sealand Service Inc. and Seatrian Lines Inc., coastal water carriers.

Reductions on various commodities hauled by trailer-on-flatcar service were planned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and other railroads for shipment between points in the east to Dallas and Fort Worth. The points affected also are served by the water carriers.

Harlan said that in this particular case ICC made no finding and developed no supporting evidence that the proposed rates would drive water carriers below a profitable level or otherwise endanger survival of the water carriers.

Mrs. Allgood Dies Saturday

STANTON — Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. for Mrs. Dorothy Jean Allgood, who died Saturday in Commerce City, Colo., after a lengthy illness. Rites will be in the First Baptist Church with Dr. L. L. Morriss, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Midland, officiating, assisted by Rev. W. H. Uhlman, pastor of the Stanton church. Interment will be in the Big Spring City Cemetery under direction of Arrington Funeral Home.

Mrs. Allgood was born in Big Spring Feb. 3, 1932 and was married to Rev. Cheryl Allgood May 24, 1950. The family lived in Stanton five years, then moved to Colorado where they had resided two years. Rev. Allgood is pastor of the Layden Street Southern Baptist Church, Commerce City.

Funeral for Mrs. Allgood was held Sunday in Denver. Survivors include her husband; one son, Ronald Curtis Allgood, and one daughter, Cheryl Allgood, both of the home; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. Long, Lomax; four brothers, Charles Long, Decatur, Alton Long, Victoria, Roger Long, Dallas, Terry Long, Lomax; one sister, Linda Long, Lomax.

Search Ends, Another Begins

HOUSTON (AP) — Rescue of three men in Galveston Bay ended one search early today and another began for two fishermen reported missing in a small boat on the San Jacinto River.

Frank Kelner, 21, of Houston swam ashore late Monday night and told how the 22-foot boat in which he and three companions were riding developed engine trouble and sank in the bay.

With Kelner were Jimmy Watson, 23, Sam Zurovec, 23, and Claude Woods, 28, owner of the boat, all of Houston.

Rescuers found the three men at 1 a. m. floating together in life jackets and clinging to a hatch cover of the sunken boat about a half mile offshore.

While the Harris County sheriff's department had all available boats in the Galveston Bay search, a woman reported her husband and another man overdue on the San Jacinto River nearby.

Highest Paid

Frederick G. Donner, chairman of the board of General Motors Corp., received $791,475 in salary, bonus and contingent credit last year to become the highest paid executive in U.S. automotive history. Seven other directors and officers of the world's largest auto company were in the $500,000-plus bracket.

K Wants Neutral Status For Berlin

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has suggested that West Berlin be converted to a neutral status on the order of Austria, Switzerland or San Marino.

He pressed his years-old campaign for a neutral status for the Western-occupied sectors of Berlin in a conversation with a correspondent of the Milan newspaper Il Giorno. The talk took place in the Kremlin Saturday when the paper's director, Italo Pietra, picked up written replies to questions he had submitted.

Il Giorno's Moscow correspondent, Raffaello Ubaldi, who was present said Khrushchev stressed that solution of other central European questions depends on getting East-West agreement on Berlin.

"Khrushchev" Ubaldi wrote, "cited the example of Switzerland and Austria, two countries which live in the middle of other groups of countries but without representing any cause of friction."

"Nobody touches Austria," Khrushchev noted, and yet Austria is more important than Berlin. Also in Italy there is a little country which lives surrounded completely by Italian territory. It is a state difficult to find on the map. San Marino.

"Would it not be possible," Khrushchev continued, with hardly a trace of irony to make of West Berlin the San Marino of central Europe?"

Khrushchev has stressed in previous interviews, notably with 12 American editors last summer, that he considers West Berlin the No. 1 problem of the day.

He has urged the neutralization of the city and suggested that this status be guaranteed by the United Nations perhaps with a U.N. force stationed there.

Austria's neutrality is guaranteed by the Big Four powers. San Marino's depends on the good will of surrounding Italy. Switzerland's neighbors have found it profitable to leave it alone.

Ubaldi said the conversation was friendly and informal. He said Khrushchev made these other points:

1. Communist China's leaders have not replied to his invitation to visit Moscow for discussions of their differences. He said he thought they were still considering it and he hoped they would accept.

2. He probably will visit President Tito in Yugoslavia during the second half of June, but the date is not definite.

3. The border fight between Red China and India is an unfortunate dispute between two peoples with whom the Soviet Union is equally friendly. He hopes it will be settled soon.

4. He considered the peace encyclical of Pope John XXIII a useful thing for peace.

5. The French-West German friendship pact could be interpreted as meaning that the French think they have captured West Germany whereas in reality West Germany has captured France.

Problems Of Young, Old Confront Legislators Today

AUSTIN (AP) — Problems of the young and the old confronted legislators today.

Postponed business before the House was a proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. V. E. Berry of San Antonio to lower the minimum voting age from 21 to 18 years.

Next up in the Senate, where it failed to win consideration Monday, was a proposed constitutional amendment let the state make direct payments to needy persons 65 and older for medical expenses.

When Berry's proposal to lower the voting age was first acted on by the House, it won by a scant 71-70 majority. To be placed on the general election ballot, the amendment must command at least 100 votes in the House.

Debate on the needy aged payments was put off Monday when Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo delivered a lengthy speech against published reports about his proposal to revise Texas criminal laws.

Sen. W. T. Moore of Bryan, author of the needy aged amendment, tried unsuccessfully last week to kill the proposal. He disavowed the measure after it was amended to require that federal standards be used in setting up the payment plan.

The Senate passed a bill to let the State Hospital and Special Schools Board establish a new school for the mentally retarded in West Texas.

Hardeman's speech and later filibusters also put off a Senate State Affairs Committee hearing on a House-passed $33 million tax bill.

Moore filibustered in the Senate for two hours Monday afternoon against a bill to repeal a law requiring out-of-state insurance companies to invest 75 per cent of their Texas business in state securities. The bill passed on a voice vote later in the afternoon.

Representatives gave tentative approval to a number of measures but failed at a morning and afternoon sessions to consider a proposal for a free permanent voter registration system to replace the annual $1.75 poll tax.

The House recalled a measure passed Friday, deleted a provision in the bill giving four Fort Worth district judges a $200 a month pay raise, then passed it again.

The measure sets up a new county court of criminal appeals in Fort Worth.

House members killed, 80-62, a bill which would have given transit systems the right to claim a refund on the 4 cents a gallon state fuel tax. Farmers enjoy such an exemption on the ground they do not use the highways with their farm implements. Three-fourths of this tax goes for highways, one-fourth to the Texas school fund.

The House State Affairs Committee Monday night killed 9-7 a proposal to let 49th Armored Division construct a monument on the Capitol grounds.

Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine said the monument "would be a disgrace" to every Texas veteran who served during wars in defense of Texas and the nation.

He said the 49th has seen no combat or overseas service and only "the battle of the cantenets at Ft. Polk."

The 49th was recalled to active duty in 1961 during the Berlin crisis and stationed at Ft. Polk, La.

Sent to subcommittees were proposals to enlarge the State Board of Education to 23 members and give the governor more budgetary power.

Rep. Bob Bass of DeKalb, author of the education board proposal, said it also would allow each board member to name a representative to the state textbook committee. The textbook committee now has 15 members approved by the board.

L. P. Sturgeon, representing the Texas State Teachers Association, opposed the bill, describing it as "controversial and an outgrowth of the textbook committee."

Bass was a member of a legislative committee which held hearings in several cities on contents of books used in public schools.

The House Elections Committee sent to subcommittee proposals by Republican Rep. Dick Morgan of Dallas to substitute a "check" system for voting instead of crossing out unwanted candidates, and to eliminate party columns on ballots.

Leftists May Seek To Form

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A small group formed by leftist leaders said today they seek to organize a new political party and participate in the forthcoming presidential elections, with or without government authorization.

Calling itself the National Organizing Board of the People's Electoral Front (Frente Electoral del Pueblo), the group claimed enough members to ask for registration as a legal political party.

Mexican authorities require at least 80,000 members of any registered political party, which thus qualifies to offer candidates for public office.

Spokesmen said the group, including dissident elements of the National Liberation Movement (MLN) and the Popular Socialist Party (PPS), will enter candidates for president and for congress in the 1964 elections, whether or not the government grants recognition.

FOR MOON LANDING SUCCESS

Space Planner Urges Factory Parts Quality

DALLAS (AP) — A leading U.S. space planner said today that aerospace firms must improve the quality of rocket and spacecraft parts to insure success of this nation's effort to land men on the moon.

"Developing reliability of thousands of components so they all work together without error is the one main area where we need a big jump in the state of the art in the Apollo lunar landing program," reported Joseph F. Shea, deputy director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Office of Manned Space Flight.

Shea made the plea for better quality work at the factory level to more than 500 space scientists and engineers from government and industry who are attending a manned space flight conference. He promised more stringent NASA checks to develop reliability.

Shea said this should apply also to the thousands of persons involved in development of rocket or spacecraft equipment.

"We have a long way to go," he commented, "before all the many tiers of people who work on our programs—any one of whom may handle a part which may later fail in flight—meet these demands fully."

Shea said that with the Gemini two-man and Apollo moon programs, his office is insisting on check and recheck of every item before it leaves the factory.

DAILY GUIDE — If you will remember to check you will find that often a New Moon brings a change of weather. This one is in Taurus, usually a peaceful period could be expected, but this spring there is some mopping up to be done, some unfinished business to be cleared up and words to be exchanged over past disagreements. As this month ends and we move into May, we could have some further unusual weather, with more disturbances by nature. There is an accent on a planetary pattern which brought earthquakes and storms last year and this year.

Today offers a better time to start new projects, but keep it simple at first; wait for the tide of energy to work up a little steam.

Venus now enters Aries to join the expansive Jupiter in that sign, so Arians have double cause to rejoice in the next few weeks. Venus will catch up to Jupiter at the weekend, so you can count on some extra social enjoyment. Tomorrow brings a happy note of the time to expect in social matters.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, TAURUS! There are only a few weeks more of the tight circumstances which have held you immobile in the past month possibly. Clear up your domestic environment, and try for better understanding with alliances and associates. The big test regarding career or standing remains again this year, but by June some unusual social or romantic contacts can bring opportunities to express yourself more freely. Some behind-the-scenes efforts now can pay off very handsomely next year, so be patient as you work towards some very worth waiting for goal. The problem of personal relationships and keeping on a realistic footing remains through these years.

Swastikas Found On Jewish Church

DALLAS (AP) — "There is a bomb in Temple Emanu-El," a youthful sounding man's voice advised police dispatcher J. E. Faulkner by telephone Monday night.

"If you don't want a bunch of dead people, you'd better send someone out there."

Six squad cars hustled to the Jewish church in North Dallas. Officers found six swastikas printed in red on the building but no bomb.

2♣	3♣	Double	Pass
Pass	3♥	Pass	Pass
4♥	Pass	5♣	Pass
5♣	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Today's hand features a battle of wits between South and West and, to the former's advantage, a double. The latter managed at least to hold his losses to a minimum.

South inaugurated the action modestly enough by opening with one club. The hand lacks by a fraction the 10 trick requirement for a demand bid in a minor suit. West overcalled with one spade and North made a free response of two diamonds. South had big things in mind when he heard his partner bid diamonds, and gave expression to his intentions by making a cue bid in West's suit.

The two spade bid not only announces first round control, but it insists on a game and implies an interest in slam. West made a cue bid of his own at this point by bidding three clubs. It appeared to him that the opponents were well on their way and, if they subsequently reached a slam in diamonds, it was his intention by his cue bid to suggest a club lead to his partner.

North doubled three clubs to show his partner that he had a fit in that suit. The double was permitted to ride back to West and the latter rescued himself into hearts. North passed and South now made his second cue bid of the deal to show the heart control and elicit further information from his partner.

North returned to five clubs, and the moment of decision had arrived for South. It seemed reasonable on the basis of the bidding to play North for very little if any duplication in spades or hearts. If he had considerable high card strength in spades, he might well have bid no trump at some stage or else made a cue bid of West's suit himself. If his strength were concentrated in diamonds and clubs, he would need all the missing honors in those suits to warrant his free bid and subsequent double. South decided to back up his judgment therefore by bidding a grand slam in clubs.

West was equally convinced that South knew his way about on the hand and, in an effort to minimize his losses, West chose to sacrifice by bidding seven hearts and offering his partner a choice of suits. North doubled and East of course passed. The losses were one spade, two hearts and a diamond for a net setback to East and West of 1,100 points. Had South been permitted to play seven clubs, his side would have scored a profit of 2,240 points.

King Hussein Refuses To Step Down

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Vowing to defend his throne with his life, Jordan's young King Hussein says he will never step aside to ease the way for his country's entry into a new United Arab Republic.

"I will carry on my heritage as long as I live," the 27-year-old monarch said in a broadcast Monday night. "I am afraid of no one in this world except God. I will continue my way as a soldier."

Although he made no direct reference to the pro-Nasser riots Saturday which resulted in strict curfews and a reshuffling of his Cabinet, the king warned his people against "agents, troublemakers and false patriots."

Hussein said he would not stand in the way of Arab unity. But he suggested that Jordan's monarchy need not step aside for Jordan to join a union of Arab states.

About 2,000 students rioted in Jerusalem Saturday demanding Hussein's ouster and union of the kingdom with Syria, Iraq and Egypt in President Gamal Abdel Nasser's projected United Arab Republic. Four persons were reported killed and about 30 wounded. An estimated 80 to 90 persons were arrested for rioting or breaking the curfew.

With his Parliament dissolved, his great-uncle installed as premier and curfews imposed in Jerusalem and other trouble spots, Hussein appeared to have beaten off the latest pro-Nasser attempt on his throne.

Amman, the capital, was under military surveillance, but it remained open with business as usual.

In the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem, by contrast, shops were closed. The great gates of the city walls were shut. Government buildings and the radio broadcasting station were heavily guarded by Bedouin troops brought in from desert camps.

CITIES CLOSED

Military roadblocks closed off the Holy City and other communities west of the Jordan River from the desert highlands. Only foreigners and officials were let through. The holy places were almost empty.

Military units patrolled Jerusalem, Nablus, Jenin and Tulkarem to prevent new riots.

In Damascus a Syrian spokesman said Syria, Iraq and Egypt are conferring about a joint stand against Israeli troops he said were massing along Jordan's frontier. He said the three nations would not stand by if Israel attempted to intervene in Jordan.

Israeli had denied charges that it was massing troops to take advantage of Jordan's internal troubles.

Allied Envoys To See Niki

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American and British ambassadors plan to see Premier Khrushchev Wednesday in an effort to revive the Soviet Union's flagging interest in a nuclear test ban.

There was speculation today that a higher level meeting—at the summit or at foreign ministers level—which might deal with other East-West issues, too.

U.S. sources said it was premature to predict that such a meeting will take place. Washington advisers feel the time is not ripe. It was understood, however, that President Kennedy has not closed the door on the possibility.

The British reportedly are more enthusiastic than the Americans about a possible high level meeting. Prime Minister MacMillan has been under attack at home by ban-the-bomb groups, and is also facing national elections.

Washington and London agree on the need for getting the Soviet Union to join in a treaty to outlaw nuclear testing—the sooner the better, they say, in order to prevent a spread of atomic weapons to nations which don't have them now.

ARRANGED TALKS

The U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Foy Kohler, and British ambassador, Humphrey Trevelyan, were reported to have seen Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko last Thursday on the test ban question and to have arranged to see Khrushchev.

The nuclear issue was discussed Monday at a State Department foreign policy briefing for newsmen and broadcasters.

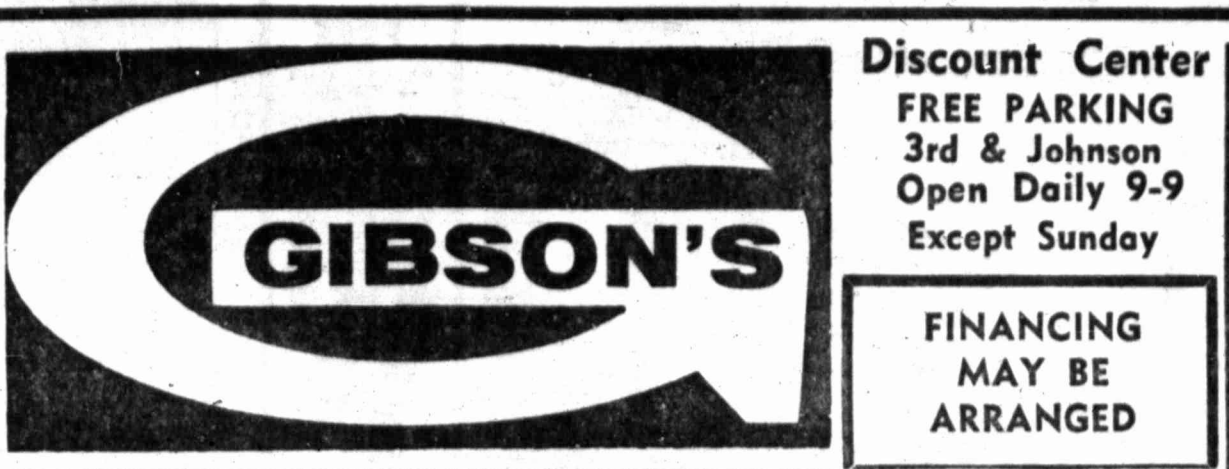

Kennedy was scheduled to address the group on a background basis this afternoon, under rules forbidding quoting the President by name.

High ranking U.S. authorities told the newsmen that the Soviet attitude in the deadlocked Geneva test ban talks has been discouraging.

The Soviet situation was pictured this way:

There is no evidence Khrushchev is about to be ousted from his leadership. However he does have real difficulties, like the Moscow-Peking rift, economic setbacks, problems with post-Stalin liberalization of the Soviet Union and rebuffs to Communists in a number of countries.

This should not lead to expectations of a friendlier Soviet position toward the West. To the contrary, the Reds may try to work out some of their problems at the West's expense.

Cubans Are Traded For 12 Americans

NEW YORK (AP)—Three alleged Cuban saboteurs and a pro-Castro Cuban who was convicted of murder here last week were traded for 12 Americans released from Cuban prisons, the State Department announced Monday.

The key to the deal behind the exchange probably was New York attorney James B. Donovan, who also engineered the Abel-Powers six-way and the ransom of 1,133 Cubans in July of 1955 in return for the release of 21 imprisoned Americans.

SERIES OF EVENTS

Shortly after Donovan secured the release of 21 Americans from Cuban prisons Monday, and flew with them to Florida, the following series of events occurred:

The Justice Department announced in Washington it was charging conspiracy against two Cuban nationals and one Cuban-American in an indictment in New York for an alleged sabotage in 1958.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller freed from New York state prison two alleged Cuban saboteurs, and 10 Americans for the 1958 sabotage charge of a 9-year-old American girl during a political move in a New York restaurant.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Monday night the four Cubans were placed on a plane at Idlewild Airport for an eventual connection with a Havana-bound Cubana Airlines plane at a base in Florida. Kennedy told newsmen at a New York reception by the Cuban Prisoners Committee the decision to free the alleged Cuban saboteurs was part of a trade for the American prisoners in Cuba.

OTHER PART

Rockefeller said that the other part of the deal was the release of the captured Cuban spy, Ernest Molina del Rio.

The government said the federal government had informed him that the commutation of Molina's sentence was "necessary in the national interest." He said the government had assured him the

Religious News Clinic Scheduled

Why do some church news stories get better position or more space than others?

Ministers, church secretaries and other church leaders will get the answer to this and other important questions when they attend the Religious News Clinic set for the Settles Hotel the afternoon of June 6.

The clinic is sponsored by the Herald as a means of promoting clear understanding of the elements involved in more effective reporting of religious news. Arrangements for the clinic were completed here Monday when R. S. Reynolds, Fountain City, Tenn., confirmed the clinic date. Mr. Reynolds, a retired newspaperman and Presbyterian layman, has been setting up these clinics across the country for the past 11 years. This is Clinic No. 72.

Clinician will be William P. Lamkin, Atlanta, Ga., for more than a dozen years an editor on the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer. "I believe that leading newspapers everywhere are giving more and more attention to religious news," Lamkin observed, "but my contact with ministers and church members, I'm not so sure they understand what vital support is given to the cause of religion by the many columns of church news carried each week. The Religious News Clinic will result in better understanding and cooperation between the church and press."

Although both Reynolds and Lamkin are members of the Presbyterian staff of the Presbyteran Church, U. S., the clinic is interdenominational.

"Our object," explained Reynolds, "is not necessarily to increase the volume of church news, but more to improve the quality of it, to create an understanding on the part of church leaders of what constitutes a good news story."

While the Herald will seek to make direct invitations, all area churches are invited to have representation at the clinic. There is, of course, no charge for the service.

Reynolds, who last Thursday celebrated his 82nd birthday, was distressed as a newspaperman to receive so much church information which deserved the waste-basket rather than the light of publication. When he retired, he resolved to do something about this, and the Presbyterian board agreed that there was an area of real need. Now in his 11th year of setting up these conferences, he's going strong. Each morning when he arises, he takes 25 minutes of exercise, and during the day he walks wherever he can. As peppy as he is, no one doubts that he'll realize his goal of setting up 100 clinics.

Two Lost Girls Have Been Found

A search launched for two young Latin American girls, missing since Sunday, has been cancelled. Sheriff Miller Harris's office was informed at 11 a. m. today the girls had been located in the homes of relatives in San Antonio.

The parents of the girls, Sylvia Cevallos, 16, and Gloria Cevallos, 15, her cousin, had become alarmed when no word was heard of the girls. They asked that a search be made.

Club Opposes Federal Aid

Jaycees Monday went on record as opposing the acceptance of federal aid by the City of Big Spring for its sewer line project.

"The City of Big Spring is contemplating the acceptance of federal aid for the construction of certain parts of their sewer system," said the resolution. "The past has proved that the city of Big Spring can carry her financial burdens, and the acceptance of federal aid undoubtedly will bring on certain federal controls. We believe in and support the free enterprise system. Therefore, the Big Spring Jaycees does unanimously oppose action by the City of Big Spring to accept federal aid for any project whatsoever."

At the meeting, Mrs. Johnnie Gorman, representing the National Secretaries Association, presented the program as a part of the National Secretaries Week observance.

The meeting was held at the Wagon Wheel. Plans for the bosses night affair Tuesday evening were discussed. The next major project for the Jaycees will be the beauty pageant in June.

Tax Picture To Hold Steady

Oil valuation for tax purposes in Howard County in 1964 will be about $3.25 million less than the current year, but the overall valuation will be up enough to make the totals for the two years about the same.

James Rapier, with the tax engineering firm of Pritchard and Abbott, told the County Commissioners Court Monday to expect oil valuation to show a sharp drop in the Howard-Glasscock fields. He added that real estate improvement, the new Grace plant, new construction in town and adjacent to town would be sufficient, it was believed, to offset the loss in oil valuation.

Oil valuation this year was $23,744,660 and the overall tax valuation $57,720,427. Rapier said that preliminary indications show the oil valuation will be about $21,500,000 next year.

Pritchard and Abbott engineers will be here June 17 for the annual hearing on oil valuations.

Pack 138 To Meet

The regular meeting of Cub Pack 138 is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Thursday at College Heights Elementary School. Joe R. Davis, Cubmaster, said he is anxious to have parents of the boys turn out to encourage the boys and to get plans set up for summer activities.

7th Fleet Acts In Laos Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mighty U.S. 7th Fleet once again is moving into position as a warning to the Communists threatening a takeover of Laos.

Stationing of the ships in the area near the Gulf of Siam is also aimed at providing reassurance to the vulnerable non-Communist countries of Southeast Asia.

Defense authorities said the ships had not been ordered into the area to be in position if they should later get orders for a military mission. They called it a purely precautionary move.

The fleet, under the command of Vice Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, numbers about 125 warships ranging in size from super carriers to landing ships.

Aboard the vessels are 60,000 Navy men and Marines.

The fleet's 650 aircraft include everything from jet bombers armed with atomic weapons to helicopters designed to carry Marines to assault landings ashore.

Normally, the fleet is spread out from the North Pacific to the South China Sea, strategically positioned within range of Siberia and Red Chinese population and industrial centers, to shield Formosa from Red attack and to move where needed in sensitive Southeast Asia.

In times of tension, such as now, the carrier task group in the South China Sea may be buttressed by ships usually roaming the Formosa area.

The bulk of a Marine division is posted on Okinawa and can be drawn on for reinforcements in short order.

The 7th Fleet always is in a state of what may be called semi-alert. It can take the sort of precautionary moves now under way without delay.

At Thailand's invitation last May, the United States sent a task group of the fleet deep into the Gulf of Siam to land Marines which then joined Army infantry men in moving toward the border then threatened by approaching Laotian Communist and pro-Communist forces.

In all, the United States shipped 5,000 Marines and infantrymen into Thailand along with 1,000 air men and some of this country's most heavily armed and hardest striking war planes.

The ground forces were pulled out by late November as the threat from Laos receded.

DEAR ABBY

He Sniffs She Burns

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a habit that is slowly driving me crazy. He always smells his food before tasting it. No matter where we are he gets his nose down in the plate and starts to sniff. We can be eating at home, dining out or be guests in someone's home. It makes no difference. Our children have started to pick up the habit. I'm a very good cook and when I ask him why he does this, he just laughs. Any suggestions?

AGGRAVATED: The habit probably originated years before your husband ever met you, and is no reflection on your cooking. It must not be a very pretty sight, but the only way you'll ever put a stop to it is to ask him please to cut it out, because it irritates you.

DEAR ABBY: I can't find the answer to my problem anywhere else, so please don't disappoint me. Is there any special way a bow-legged girl can dress to make her legs more attractive? I am not cursing my bow legs because I am thankful that I have any at all. Nevertheless, I am 18 and am very bow-legged. There are fashions for tall girls, stout girls and short girls. But I have yet to see anything for bow-legged girls. Help!

ROUTE THREE: DEAR ROUTE: Don't attempt to make your legs MORE attractive, make them LESS conspicuous. Wear only flesh-colored hose—NO SEAMS. Wear your skirts as long as possible without defying fashion. Avoid tricky shoes. They draw attention to your feet. And, by the way, too few 18-year-old girls express "thankfulness" for having legs at all which makes you "special" in the department that counts.

DEAR ABBY: The girl signed "Fed Up" could have been me two years ago. I, too, was 16, and fed up with home, so I quit school, ran away and got married. My marriage has lasted two years and I have a baby boy. I will make this marriage last forever because I won't hurt this man on account of my foolish mistake. What is two more years of staying home and finishing school compared to 60 years of marriage with someone you don't love? I've hurt no one but myself. I hope my experience will help someone else who considers marrying just to get out of the house. Running away is the surest way to get caught.

Nixon Joins Unity Parade Of Republicans

By JACK BELL
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has joined the Republican unity parade in which New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., currently are bearing leadership banners.

Disclaiming any personal political ambitions, the man who lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy in 1960 suggested to the American Society of Newspaper Editors here last week that it might not be a bad idea if the 1964 Republican ticket were made up of Rockefeller and Goldwater.

"The strongest Republican ticket would be the two of them," Nixon told the editors, "and certainly if Lyndon and Jack (Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and President Kennedy) can get together, Barry and Nelson would."

The former vice president stressed again his contention that the man who gets the GOP nomination ought to be tested in the fire of next year's presidential primaries.

Naming Rockefeller, Goldwater and Govs. George Romney of Michigan and William Scranton of Pennsylvania as potential aspirants, Nixon extended an unofficial invitation for all to take part in next June's California Republican primary.

At the moment, however, the odds seemed to be against any such head-on collision of the four most mentioned as possible opponents of President Kennedy.

Scranton, who has said he likes Rockefeller's chances, is giving no signs of taking out after the nomination. Romney presently is immersed in Michigan problems, although he may find himself more available in 1964.

Goldwater keeps saying he isn't seeking the nomination but only re-election to the Senate in Arizona. But he has let those who want to draft him for the nomination go ahead with that operation. Rockefeller has yet to decide which, if any, primaries he will enter.

Nixon obviously hopes not only to be a member of the delegation to be elected in the primary but to have a major voice in determining which candidate it will support at the nominating convention.

Not the most remote of possibilities is that former Sen. William F. Knowland, now publisher of the Oakland Tribune, might head an unpledged delegate slate.

Goldwater recently has gone out of his way to praise Knowland. He said that Knowland's name most often was mentioned to him when there was talk—to which the Arizona senator subscribed—that a dark horse might walk off with the GOP prize.

Record Shows Preacher, Choir Girl Married

HENDERSON (AP) — Records of the Rusk County clerk show the Rev. Leroy Daniels, 26, and former choir girl Flora Jean Cole, 16, who ran away to Kansas last fall, were married April 13.

Present whereabouts of the couple was not learned. Daniels was pastor of the Crystal Farmers Baptist Church at Tatum, near here in East Texas, last Nov. 2 when he and the girl disappeared. They were found three weeks later living in a basement apartment at Wichita, Kan. Daniels was working in a liquor warehouse.

Authorities returned them to Texas and Daniels pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $500, but went free under $1,500 appeal bond.

His case is set for a May 8 hearing before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

Daniels and his wife of four months were divorced after he was brought back from Kansas.

Stamp Collectors Get Wrong City

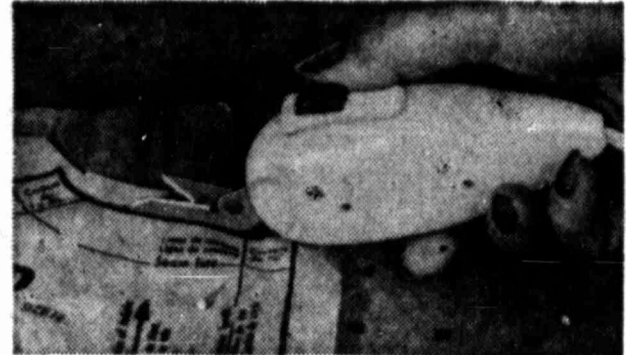

NEWTON, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Bascom Brown doesn't know what to do with a batch of self-addressed envelopes and cards from stamp collectors throughout the country.

The collectors are asking for a stamp with a special cancellation mark commemorating a new airport at Newton.

Must be some other Newton, the mayor said. His town hasn't even applied for funds to build an airport.

WESTWARD TILT — The American West Today. Neil Morgan. Random House. $6.95.

By The Associated Press

Nothing annoys a small town booster more than a visitor who admires the antique beauty of the local cemetery—but doesn't even bother to look at the town's growing business section.

Neil Morgan is by no means a small town booster. He is boosting the 11-state area between the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Ocean that makes up a third of the United States.

It is his valid contention that the rest of the nation is more familiar with the stagecoach-and-Indian past of the Great American West than it is with that same West's explosive surge into the present and its promise for the future.

Pointing out that the nation has, indeed, been tilted westward in the last two decades by "the largest migration in the history of the world," the author takes up the meaning of that impact in individual, political, economic and cultural terms.

"The West seethes with the spirit of Why not?" He says. "It is young and eager, cocky and eternally hopeful."

The modern West is now more urban, more literate, more prosperous and alas, more criminal than the rest of the nation, it would appear. Morgan quotes other distinctive differences as listed by a University of Oregon history professor.

"It reads more, drinks more, goes to church less and has more automobiles and smaller families. It is more in favor of birth control and also of foreign cars. Its people move more, travel more, camp out more."

Morgan, himself a transplanted North Carolinian who now writes a column for the San Diego Evening Tribune, then gives an encyclopedic but highly readable survey of each of the 11 western states. He gleaned most of the material first-hand during a 40,000-mile tour of the region.

Written with galloping enthusiasm, full of precise detail, the book makes a fine Baedeker for the traveler or student who wants to know what's new in the Old West. It tempts a reader living east of the Mississippi to saddle up his jalopy and ride out to see for himself what he's been missing in life.

New TV Status Symbol May Increase Rat Race

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has developed a new status symbol which, before it has run its course, may push social climbers and ambitious career men toward nervous breakdowns and their press agents to ulcers.

In its most chic, prestigious form, it has been cornered by the distaff side the special, hour television tour program, with a famous lady acting as a guide.

First there was Jacqueline Kennedy's White House, which probably started the whole thing. Then there was Princess Grace's Monaco. Next season, there will be Queen Frederika's Greece and Elizabeth Taylor's London. CBS, apparently, has a corner on this new-fangled status symbol.

NBC tried to get into the act by inviting Nina Khrushchev to conduct its camera tour of the Krem-

Must Have Been A Real Massacre

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP) — A bloodless re-enactment of the massacre at historic Fort Michilimackinac 200 years ago will be staged Memorial Day weekend.

The bicentennial committee which is arranging the four-day observance at the Straits of Mackinac has a problem.

The committee, which has been trying to line up descendants of either victims or victors of the massacre, reports that descendants of people who were involved in Indian Chief Pontiac's wars are apparently as scarce as Mayflower descendants are plentiful.

lin. The invitation was refused, probably because she didn't want to be associated with capitalistic bourgeois standards.

There's an eclect to television tour guiding that surpasses the usual symbols of conspicuous consumption — impressionist paintings, yachts, sables and 10-carat diamonds, which only require money.

With all the world to choose from, I'm sorry that Miss Taylor chose London. I wish that she had chosen, say, Rome, and left the British capital for Elizabeth II.

If this thing really becomes "competitive," a few television trips I'd like to make include Bess Truman's Independence, Ladybird Johnson's Texas, Zsa-Zsa's Budapest and, of course, Brigitte Bardot's Cannes.

Dorothy Kilgallen, looking very well after her absence of several weeks from "What's My Line," obviously has lost none of her skill at the game during her illness; she guessed all four of Sunday night's occupations.

NBC plans a fall news show, "Sunday," to reprise the week's developments somewhat in the manner of a news magazine. Frank Blair, Ray Scherer, Nancy Dickerson—recently hired away from CBS—and Robert Abernathy will be the regulars on the program. It premieres Oct. 13, 5-6 p.m.—on a Sunday, of course.

CBS expects a series of 20 half-hour and hour-long programs called "Chronicle," which will occupy a Wednesday night niche when "CBS Reports" is missing. Charles Collingwood will be program host.

Recommended tonight "Close Up," ABC, 10:30-11 (EST) — "The Vanishing Breed," about the problems of running a small country newspaper.
