40 YEARS OF SERVICE Grady Randel wins distinction

VETERAN AG WORKER KNEW SOMETHING WAS UP Randel's Honors Were No Surprise

By SAM BLACKBURN Grady L. Randel certainly put on a good act Tuesday afternoon. He tried hard to appear surprised and it was a tolerably convincing performance.

However, Randel has had too many years of astute observation of phenomenon to have been really fooled by all the hustle and bustle which went on about the U. S. Big Spring field station Tuesday.

These 40 years represent a lot of wet years and a lot of very dry years," observed Randel as he fingered the certificate and tried to get a good look at the gleaming pin which Dr. Johnston had placed in his lapel.

attended Dalhart high school and took a job with the old Dalhart field station in June, 1921. He was supposed to have been just a "summer" worker at the station.

He and Mrs. Randel live at 207 Jefferson. Connie, their daughter, graduated from Big Spring High School this year. She is planning to study commercial art—a field in which her brother, Kent, is already engaged. Her other brother, Gaylord, is an engineer and works for Chance Vought in Dallas. Both are graduates of Texas Tech.

NEWS DIGEST

INTERNATIONAL President Kennedy visits the Communist wall to promise that the United States stands ready to defend the West Berliners against the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON The government licenses a short-cut polo vaccine aimed at providing simultaneous immunity against all three types of the disease.

STATE The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has set aside the conviction of Leslie Ashley and Carolyn Lima, who drew the death penalty for a Houston sex party slaying, and the state will seek to try them again.

NEW LAW Texas motorists purchased about $335 million in automobile insurance premiums during 1962. They will have one set of requirements from Aug. 1 to Jan. 1, when a law passed by the legislature goes into effect.

Bobby Says Rights Bill Not Aimed At Mrs. Murphy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy assured Congress today the administration's civil rights proposals are not aimed at the "Mrs. Murphys" who operate small rooming houses.

As questioning by the members referred repeatedly to Mrs. Murphy and her potential problems if the law is passed, Kennedy tirally declared: "I don't think Mrs. Murphy is going to be in a lot of trouble."

But he said it is time for Congress to act. "The courts have played an important role," he said. "This administration has taken significant and far-reaching action by the exercise of executive power."

our whole economy suffers. The nation's business is impaired. Such facilities — restaurants, lunch counters, amusement places, stores, hotels and others—are public in a very real sense, he said.

More Schools To Integrate

Berlin Goes Wild Over Visiting U. S. President

BERLIN (AP)—With the cheers of a million West Berliners ringing in his ears, President Kennedy strode up to the Red wall of Berlin today and gazed into the Communist world.

A crowd of several hundred East Berliners standing behind Communist police who held tommy-guns, waved handkerchiefs at him.

West Berliners filled the air with confetti and cheers. The President arrived at the Brandenburg Gate—the symbol of the division of Berlin between East and West—at 11:45 a.m.

He mounted a platform and looked at the concrete and barbed wire wall stretching in front of him to the left and to the right, and at the massive gate before him.

He stayed four minutes and then headed for another point on the wall—Checkpoint Charlie, the U.S. manned crossing point for foreigners where Soviet and American tanks faced muzzle to muzzle less than two years ago.

GREATEST WELCOME
The President reached the Brandenburg Gate after the greatest spontaneous welcome in the history of the former German capital. Old timers said not even Hitler with his famous parade had brought out the people the way the American President did.

The screaming, cheering, flag-waving, confetti-tossing welcome exceeded the mammoth reception West German crowds gave Kennedy earlier this week.

The President looked across into East Berlin from an 18-foot observation platform about 15 feet from the wall. West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer stood at his side as a British officer showed the President a chart of the principal points in East Berlin.

Soviet guards came over from their post to take pictures. The memorial is in the British sector near the Brandenburg Gate.

Visitors to the Brandenburg Gate can peer through its three arches down Unter den Linden, the governmental center of East Berlin.

LOCKED VIEW
Tuesday night the East Berlin regime hung flags from the arches.

German Cheers For Kennedy

A flag-waving cheering crowd presses close to the car carrying President John F. Kennedy to the City Hall in Frankfurt, Germany. Riding with the President are Hessian Minister Georg August Zinn, center, and West German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, right. A vast throng that at times threatened to get out of control was on hand to greet the United States President.

Thousands of East Berliners lined the streets to see the President's motorcade. The flags, ostensibly raised in celebration of the visit Friday to East Berlin of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

As the President's motorcade drove on to Checkpoint Charlie, an elderly woman broke from the throng and ran into the street with a child in her arms carrying a bunch of carnations. A policeman started to guide the pair away but the President stopped the car, took the flowers and spoke with the woman.

Hundreds of East Berliners, standing about 500 yards away behind the guns of East German guards, watched the President's arrival at Checkpoint Charlie. From the West Berlin side people cheered, waved flags, chanted "Kennedei" as the sun broke through scattered clouds.

Along the apartment-lined streets, every window was packed. Almost every building was gaily decorated with American, German and Berlin flags.

Confetti rained on the President from the highest buildings. At times it was like a ticker tape reception in New York.

NOT BOTHERED
Kennedy's Air Force jet landed from Wiesbaden, West Germany, six minutes ahead of schedule. Although Soviet MIG fighter planes were reported in the vicinity of the central air corridor used by the President, they did not bother his jet.

Greeting Brandt on his arrival, Kennedy said the "legendary morale and spirit of the people of West Berlin have been a beacon for the free world."

Kennedy was accompanied by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor of West Germany in 1948 at the time of the Berlin airlift, and the President's special representative in the city during recent times of tension.

Kennedy said he was particularly proud to be accompanied by Clay, "an old veteran of the frontier who in good times and bad has been identified with the life of this city."

Kennedy also said he was glad to be in Berlin in the company of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and to have another chance to discuss affairs with Mayor Brandt. His diplomatic reference to both officials covered a pre-tense tip-of-war over who would have the honor of accompanying the President on his trip to Berlin.

Brandt welcomed the President as the leading man of the Western world and said, "Our hopes rest with your leadership in the struggle for progress and peace."

The mayor expressed West Berlin's gratitude for U.S. support and protection during hard years. He said Kennedy had proved "that the United States will not be blackmailed."

PAINFUL DETOUR
"Here in the divided capital of Germany," Brandt concluded, "after a painful detour, an alliance for freedom has been started. And here, as everywhere else in Germany, we are at your side, Mr. President, when the alliance for peace is at stake."

As the President's 29-car motorcade moved out of the airport, police estimated more than half of West Berlin's two million population were packed along Kennedy's 40-mile route through the city and to the Communist wall at which the United States has taken its stand against Red pressure.

The cheers were deafening as Kennedy, with Adenauer and Brandt beside him, led the motorcade. Spectators waved small paper American flags and color balloons, sat on fences and hung from balconies and windows. Many had waited hours to see the President.

As the motorcade moved toward the center of the city, many in the cheering crowd broke through the police lines and ran into the road. This slowed the convoy at several points.

The President was standing in his car, smiling broadly and waving.

CROWDS CHEERED
The welcome was more enthusiastic and emotion-packed than Kennedy's reception in West Germany. The crowds screamed,

Lyndon Urges Labor To Join Jobless Fight

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson called on labor today to join with business and government to "put prejudice, partisanship and pessimism" aside in attacking the unemployment problem.

Johnson said in a speech prepared for the National Retail Clerks Union that the United States cannot "submit to the doctrine that in these prosperous times the present level of unemployment is an 'acceptable' level."

"We have nearly as many unemployed jobs as we have unemployed workers," he said. "The workers are not able to fill the jobs because they are not trained, not educated, not prepared for the opportunity offered by today's economy. We cannot afford complacency about this condition because it will not be corrected by time—or by temporizing."

"In this decade of the 1960s we must create 26 million jobs for young people entering the job market for the first time. We need to be creating nearly 100,000 new jobs each week—but we are falling far short of that mark. Labor and industry and government together must do much more to answer this need."

"Responsible labor together with responsible business and responsible government must put prejudice, partisanship, and pessimism aside to get on with the job of curing the ills and realizing the potentials of our domestic society."

Denver Man Dies In Texas Accident

ESTELLE, Tex. (AP)—Emmitt Oden McGee, 37, of Denver, Colo., was killed in a highway collision one mile east of here in the Texas Panhandle Tuesday night.

H. D. Cowan Jr. of Mansfield, Tex., and his wife suffered minor injuries. They were riding in the other car.

Lawyers Set Arguments In Tyler Hot Oil Case

TYLER (AP)—Lawyers prepared today to present final arguments in a hot oil case against two Texas men and a drilling company.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Sheehy denied a defense motion Tuesday for a directed verdict of acquittal for Daryl Gaumer and E. B. Hearn Jr., both of Longview, and Associates Drilling Co.

The government contends they drilled a well, the 2-X on the L. Givens lease in Rusk County, to angle under an adjoining Shell Oil Co. lease, and that a second well on the Givens lease, the 1-X, was a dummy.

E. B. Hearn Sr. of Houston was originally charged in the same 29-count indictment Judge Sheehy ordered his acquittal last Saturday.

The judge also dismissed 28 of 29 counts against the younger Hearn, 14 against Gaumer and 15 against the drilling company. These charge interstate shipment of contraband oil and the filing of false production reports.

Final defense witnesses presented testimony designed to counter the government's claims and to show that the oil in question was produced on the defendants' lease.

W. Harlon Echols of Longview, a consulting engineer, testified that in his opinion oil from the 1-X and 2-X wells was drawn from the Woodbine sand on the lease. He testified he was hired by defense lawyer John Glass Sr. to study the Givens and Shell leases.

Paul Featherstone said he worked as a gauger for Premier Pipeline Co. and for seven months worked as a pumper on the Givens lease. He said the 1-X and 2-X wells pumped 24 hours a day except when shut down for repairs. He denied any knowledge of buried lines on the Givens lease.

Home After Red Sentence

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP)—Tears flooded the woman's eyes as she left the airplane. "I'm happy. I'm very happy to be back home," she said. Then she ran to embrace her family.

Heien Kozersky, 32, had returned to the United States after more than three years in a Communist Czechoslovakian prison as a spy.

She arrived at New York's Idlewild Airport from Prague Monday night afraid a son said "that nobody would be there to meet her, that she would be alone."

She was startled by newsmen and photographers awaiting her, but then spotted her daughter, Heien, 14. "You've grown up," she cried. The girl is a head taller than her mother.

Meeting her at the airport were her husband John, 35, a factory worker, her sons, Michael, 23, John Jr., 22, and Helen.

Mrs. Kozersky declined to discuss her espionage conviction. Michael said she is to meet with representatives of the State Department about the charges and her imprisonment.

Mrs. Kozersky was pardoned by Czech President Antonin Novotny last Tuesday. Rep. Charles S. J. Jackson, D-N.J., had been active in trying to secure her release after family appeals to him, President Kennedy and the State Department.

She had been arrested May 27, 1960, while visiting her native Czechoslovakia, and sentenced to 25 years imprisonment for spying. The sentence later was reduced to 10 years. Specific charges against her never were made public.

DEAR ABBY

It's All A Bad Dream

DEAR ABBY: I have an uncle who is absolutely nutty. He's not bad enough to be locked up, but he embarrasses me every time I see him. About a year ago he told me he dreamed I borrowed $200 from him. We both laughed about it and I took it as a joke. Every time I see him now he asks me when I am going to pay something on that $200 I owe him. He actually believes I owe him $200. And I am NOT kidding.

DEAR PLEMIENIK: The next time he brings it up, tell him you dreamed you paid it back.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 40 years and have four married children. Eight years ago I took a job to keep busy and earn a little extra money. Every cent I have made has gone into our home. I work seven hours a day, five days a week, but I'm home every evening before my husband gets there. My housekeeping hasn't suffered and my meals are all well prepared. My husband told me that beginning August first, either I pay $100 a month room and board or I can get out. What should I do?

DEAR BOSTONIAN: If you've lived with this man for 40 years, you don't need me to tell you how to live with him. He obviously resents your working. So quit your job, let him support you and you won't have to worry about getting the gate.

Paul Climbed Throne As He Had Trees

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The skinny little schoolboy who climbed trees faster than any youngster in his home town has ascended the throne of St. Peter.

There is reason to suppose that Giovanni Battista Montini—Pope Paul VI—reached the highest office of the Roman Catholic Church in much the same way he climbed to treetops—with his eyes on heaven and no fear in his heart.

Primo Savodi, a boyhood friend, tells the story.

Giovanni Battista was smaller than I was at 10, and he wasn't as strong. I never could figure out why he was so good at climbing trees. He always beat me to the top.

"It wasn't until 50 years later that I learned why. He was archbishop of Milan then, and he told me the secret. Look up to heaven when you climb, and fear nothing."

The Montini family had lived around the north Italian city of Brescia since the 15th century and had always been close to the Church. Members included Donna Ippolita, 16th century abbess of St. Giulia; one early bishop of Brescia, and at least seven priests between 1600 and 1900.

TREE-SHADOWED PARK

Pope Paul was born Sept. 22, 1897, in a two-story home set in a tree-shaded park at Concesio, five miles north of Brescia. It was only 35 miles southeast of Sotto il Monte, birthplace of Pope John XXIII.

Concesio and Sotto il Monte are much alike—nestled in Alpine foothill valleys under 3,000-foot mountains in rich vineyard and orchard lands. The people live simply, farm industriously and are devout.

The Pope's father was Giorgio Montini, a lawyer who for 25 years ran the Brescia Catholic newspaper, Il Cittadino. Three times he was elected to Parliament under the monarchy. In 1924, two years after Benito Mussolini led Italy into fascism, he quit politics.

The future Pope was christened with a weighty name, like most Italian children. He was Giovanni Battista (John the Baptist). Enrico Antonio Maria Montini.

His mother, Giuditta Montini, once called him lovingly "L'Angelo Della Famiglia"—the angel of the family.

The family's housekeeper, Anna Marianni, remembers him a little differently.

NOT A SAINT

"He was not a saint, I tell you." But she says: "I do not remember that his parents ever had to reprimand him for anything improper—anything that any child

Torrential rain swamped parts of Houston, a tornado threatened

Livingston and blustery showers provided a little relief from the heat in some other areas of the state Tuesday.

Except for a few patches of clouds in South Central Texas, skies cleared in all sections by Wednesday morning.

A near cloudburst soaked Houston's southwest side, filling streets with water in the Sharpstown, Windsor Village and Maplewood additions. Stalled cars snarled traffic.

Houston's airport weather station meanwhile measured only .60 inch of rain, and a mere .28 inch fell downtown.

At Livingston, in Southeast Texas, a twister dipped into the city park and uprooted trees but caused no severe damage. The funnel cloud swooped down as heavy rain fell. Another baby tornado inflicted minor damage at the Clyde Smith home outside Livingston only last Friday.

Light showers and occasional thunderstorms roamed the coastal plains of Texas earlier Tuesday.

Ashley-Lima Conviction Ousted; New Trial Looms

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Sex party killers Leslie Douglas Ashley and Carolyn Ann Lima face another trial. A New Orleans court reversed their Houston murder convictions Tuesday. Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe said he would "seek to bring them to trial once again" for the February, 1961, slaying of rector Fred Tones, 44, in his Houston office. The U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Briscoe denied the pair a fair trial by failing to tell defense lawyers about evidence indicating Ashley was insane.

DOUGLAS ASHLEY & CAROLYN LIMA Only four hours from execution

With only four hours to go, U. S. Circuit Judge John Brown granted a stay of execution which led to the hearing in New Orleans. Miss Lima, 20, a former prostitute who was baptized in prison, would have been the first woman ever to die in the Texas electric chair. Ashley, sporting a new crewcut and apparently in good spirits, said he feels he has "everything to look forward to."

Swedes Angry Over Spy Case

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Angry reaction to what officials called the worst spy scandal in Swedish history may force Soviet Premier Khrushchev to cancel his visit to this traditionally neutral nation a second time. The government disclosed Tuesday the arrest of a Swedish air force colonel charged with spying for the Soviet Union for the past 15 years. For five of those years he was Swedish air attaché in Washington. It also ordered the expulsion of his two alleged contacts, the first secretary of the Soviet Embassy and the Soviet military attaché.

Apartments Held By Estes Friend Ordered Sold

BEAUMONT (AP)—Dist. Judge Harold Clayton ruled Tuesday that the Woodcrest Apartments in Port Neches would be sold to satisfy a note held by Dr. Robert Lindley of Pecos. The note amounts to $76,000. Lindley is a one-time partner of promoter Billie Sol Estes.

Brown & Root Defended As Mohole Jobbers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., spoke up Tuesday in defense of the National Science Foundation's choice of Brown & Root Co. as prime contractor for Project Mohole. A like view was expressed by Dr. Alan Waterman, NSF director. There had been criticism from several sources over selection of the Houston firm as Mohole contractor, including an article in Fortune Magazine. "Brown & Root has been known to do the impossible, hasn't it?" said Casey, who represents the Houston district. Waterman, testifying before a House Merchant Marine subcommittee, said Brown & Root "has quite a remarkable record." He added that the firm handles big projects on time and at cost. Project Mohole's goal is to drill a hole through the earth's crust and find out more about the next layer.

Three-In-One Vaccine For Polio Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has approved a new shortcut oral polio vaccine designed to give quick simultaneous immunity against all three types of polio.

A license for the three-in-one vaccine—combining strains of the Sabin oral polio vaccine—was granted to Lederle Laboratories, a spokesman for the U.S. surgeon general's office said Tuesday night.

In a statement, Lederle said the vaccine, the new product gives active immunity against all three types of polio after the first feeding, and more complete protection after the second feeding eight weeks later.

The pioneer oral vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Sabin of the University of Cincinnati requires three doses a month apart, each using a different strain of live viruses to combat each type of polio.

The Salk vaccine, using dead virus and injected with a needle, is recommended given in three doses—the first and second a month apart, the third seven months later—plus a booster shot after a year.

Discrimination Up North? Whites Say It Ain't So

EDITOR'S NOTE — Job discrimination is one of the key targets of Negro demonstrations in the North. Picketing and siting already have erupted in Philadelphia and New York. Negro leaders are scheduling demonstrations in other Northern cities soon. The Associated Press asked its correspondents in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago and Washington to report on the problems and prospects in their areas here is a roundup of the picture in the North based on these reports.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes have less chance than whites to get a high-paying job in the North, but most employers and unions deny this stems from racial discrimination.

Negro leaders generally contend it does. In Chicago, for example, they say that hardly any one downtown hires Negroes as office workers, store clerks, or skilled craftsmen.

"The Loop of Chicago looks like a snowstorm at 5 o'clock," says Hamp McKinney of the Urban League of Chicago, "with only here and there a little brown speck in it."

But employers and unions say that situations like this are not caused by racial discrimination. They say there aren't enough qualified Negroes to fill the jobs available.

Reports from Associated Press bureaus in New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Detroit, San Francisco and Chicago and from government agencies in Washington indicate a similar pattern.

Negro charges of job discrimination have flamed into one of the most searing racial problems in the North, where almost half of America's 19 million Negroes live.

HARDER TIME

Statistics show that Negroes in the North have a more difficult time than whites at getting jobs. But there is controversy over the cause.

Many employers and unions have antidiscrimination clauses in their contracts. They say they would hire qualified Negroes, or take qualified Negroes into apprenticeship.

But Negro leaders insist that job discrimination blocks the way of the Negro in the North.

Pickets and police clashed in Philadelphia and New York a few weeks ago in the Negro struggle for more and better jobs. Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has threatened more demonstrations if the doors of personnel offices and union halls stay closed.

The unemployment rate among Negroes is twice as high as the unemployment rate among whites. The department of labor reports that one out of every 10 Negro workers is out of a job.

"What for the white worker has been a mild or temporary recession," Hill says, "is for the Negro a full depression."

The vast majority of those Negroes who do jobs are working at the bottom of the heap. Their jobs usually are menial, low-paying, and the first eliminated when times get tough.

LIP SERVICE

Employers and unions do not dispute these facts. They simply refuse to accept any responsibility for it. For the record, almost all unions and most businesses in the North say they are against racial discrimination.

"We have no Negroes in our union," says Romeo Jensen, business representative of the AFL-CIO Iron Workers Local 11 in Newark, N. J., "and the reason is, nobody has applied, to my knowledge. I don't believe in any discrimination of any sort."

"The company policy has been and will continue to be a non-discriminatory one," says John E. Joyce Jr., a Newark contractor. "I must admit, though, I never remember hiring a colored plumber or steamfitter."

In the current crisis, most of the anger of Northern Negroes rushes at the old craft unions in the building trades.

The problem of craft union discrimination, says Philip A. Camponeschi, chief attorney of the Civil Rights Commission's employment section, is "as significant as the problem of eating at lunch counters in the South. How significant is that to the whole problem of discrimination?" He shrugged. "Not very. But it's an irritant, and it's the focus now for attacks by Negroes."

RESENTMENT

Leaders of the AFL-CIO admit that the craft unions have discriminated against Negroes. At the same time, the leaders resent the current furor by Negroes over the situation. The resentment stems from three basic beliefs of the AFL-CIO leaders.

1. That the record of the AFL-CIO, on the whole, has favored the Negro.
2. That the AFL-CIO is doing the best it can to change the policies of its craft unions.
3. That the end of discrimination by the small craft unions would hardly improve the general job situation for Negroes.

Nevertheless, the record remains to anger American Negroes. In all America, there are only 300 union-licensed Negro plumbers and electricians, far less than the number of Negroes with doctorate degrees.

Hill says that the Sheet Metal Workers Local in New York has no Negroes among its 3,200 members and the Plumbers Local has two Negro apprentices among its 3,300 members.

In Detroit last year, the Iron Workers Local trained 66 apprentices, none Negro; the Plumbers Local trained 128 apprentices, none Negro; the Sheetmetal Workers trained 159 apprentices, 7 Negro.

The craft unions pattern themselves in some ways after the medieval guilds. They are exclusive associations that restrict membership, often allowing few other than relatives to enter their apprenticeship programs.

THEY KNEW BETTER

The leaders of the craft unions, when pressed, will say that they would allow Negroes into the apprentice programs if Negroes applied.

But Negro youngsters, knowing the record of the craft unions, rarely bother to apply. Often they are too poor and unschooled to become apprentices even if the unions kicked away the barriers.

"What's the reason?" asks Camponeschi. "Close your eyes and stick out 10 fingers, and you'll find 10 reasons. You want me to say all these reasons mean discrimination. Sure, it's discrimination. It's the story of the Negro in America."

Negroes, while angry at the craft unions, often are just as disturbed at the record of employers.

In Washington, Edward A. Haines of the local NAACP, says "we are the victims of tokenism for window dressing—one Negro is hired and then they boast of being integrated."

Employers counter with the same argument as the leaders of the craft unions—they would hire Negroes if they were qualified or educated or skilled.

And so the cycle goes on. Employers and unions say Negroes aren't qualified. Without union membership and without jobs, Negroes can't get the education and training to become qualified.

SOME ACTION

The flurry of demonstrations during the last few weeks has spurred some action from unions, employers, and the government.

The AFL-CIO has put pressure on craft unions to make room for Negro apprentices.

President Kennedy has banned racial discrimination on construction projects paid for, in whole or part, by federal funds.

The President also has asked Congress to pass a massive vocational education program to train Negroes for higher paying jobs.

Will these steps soften Northern Negro anger? Some experts fear the problem may not be solved for many years, for it takes time to train skilled workers and it takes time to create incentive among young Negroes.

Meanwhile, campaigns will go on, and tempers may flare.

Job discrimination obviously hurts the Negro in the North more than any other form of discrimination. The long battle against it has begun.

Tax Rulebook For Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tax rulebook is ready for those who figure check grabbing is just good business.

The new rules regarding business tax deductions affect only 10 per cent of the taxpayers and are expected to produce the relatively small sum of $100 million in extra revenue.

The final instalment of the rules, the second of two major sections, was issued Monday by the Internal Revenue Service. It had issued new record-keeping regulations in December.

In general terms, the new rules require evidence of a reasonable relationship between the expense item on the tax form and business activity. Also, there is a ban on "lavish or extravagant" entertainment.

Bank Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP)—An application for a national bank at Winters, Tex., 55 miles south of Abilene, has been rejected.

A Devotional For The Day

Receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls. But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only. (James 1:21-22)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, give us the power that helps us to stand for Christian principles in these difficult days and careless ways of our time. In Jesus' name we ask, Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Changing An Image

Addressing the Association of Industrial Advertisers, Gov. John Connally urged them to help reflect the image of a dynamically industrial Texas.

He complained that the image of Texas as a possessor of oil wells and Cadillac has been blown and repeated until it has become fixed in the public mind outside of Texas. The state, the governor said, is "a land of challenge and change."

"We have abundant raw materials, we have a long coastline and good ports; we are doing something about our water resources, we have vast forests, boundless ranch and farm lands; we have a host of commercial minerals other than oil and gas, we have skilled people, and as our population unfolds, and our balanced economy expands, we have booming markets. This is the Texas which needs to be sold to our industries."

Now Texas isn't two steps from the poor by any manner of means. We are a rich state, and especially rich in resources, diversity and potential. Too many people fall into the same trap about Texas geography and economics, just as they do about the rich oil man picture. Texas can't be categorized, Texas does have just about everything when it comes to what it takes to furnish an ideal setting for industries.

We have abundant raw materials, we have a long coastline and good ports; we are doing something about our water resources, we have vast forests, boundless ranch and farm lands; we have a host of commercial minerals other than oil and gas, we have skilled people, and as our population unfolds, and our balanced economy expands, we have booming markets. This is the Texas which needs to be sold to our industries.

Challenge Of Choice

Before President Kennedy departed for Europe, there was considerable speculation that one of the prime objectives was to sell the idea of a multilateral defense program. This, naturally, involved a unified force.

In his speech at St. Paul's Church in Frankfurt, Germany, this was more than confirmed. The President placed the burden of the position taken by President Charles de Gaulle, and in a sense this may confront the European community with a hard choice.

The de Gaulle position, as nearly as can be fathomed, is an Europe for Europeans, to the exclusion of Britain and the United States. He bases this upon a premise that Russia is not after all a threat, but that in some of the pressure of militant leadership, Red China will drive Russia back into the European family. Out of this issue, the premise that nations need not develop a single front against the Soviets, but in the long run can and must develop and direct their own defense capabilities.

Challenging this position, Kennedy has contended that there must be a unified effort by the Atlantic community to cope with potentialities of Communist might. He respects the idea of a conglomerate of singular forces.

Whether he sells this idea to all European countries remains to be seen. Yet, more than merely defense is involved, for this effort bears its political and economic seeds. De Gaulle blocked the Common Market insofar as Britain was concerned and thus thwarted the dream of an economic community so powerful and unified that it would have become an over-fulfilling weapon. Now, if some unity in arms can be achieved, it is not impossible that this might become a pattern for picking up some of the pieces of the fractured Common Market. If the maneuver does not succeed, then there may be a need for an accommodation to block both military and economic

David Lawrence That Fourteenth Amendment

WASHINGTON — A significant book on the school-segregation problem, recently published, throws light on important phases of President Kennedy's "civil rights" program. It was written by James J. Kilpatrick, editor of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader, who a few years ago received the University of Missouri's gold medal for distinguished service to journalism because of his successful campaign to free a Negro sentenced to life imprisonment for a murder he did not commit.

MR. KILPATRICK has made extensive research into the facts concerning the alleged ratification of the Fourteenth Amendment on which the new "civil rights" bills are in large part based. He presents from the committee records in Congress, the speeches of members, the official acts—undisputed evidence concerning the exact method by which Southern legislatures were coerced into ratifying the Fourteenth Amendment. Mr. Kilpatrick writes:

"ON JULY 20, 1868, Secretary of State Seward issued a cautious proclamation certifying that the Fourteenth Amendment had been ratified. There were, he surmised, 27 states then in the union. Twenty-eight, by Seward's count, had approved the amendment, but he was doubtful about the whole affair. Among his 28 were Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, Louisiana, and South Carolina, where ratification had been sanctioned by newly constituted and newly established bodies assuming themselves to be acting as the legislatures of these states. If their resolutions were valid, and if the original ratifications of Ohio and New Jersey were still valid, understanding that the subsequent withdrawal of the amendment was a part of the Constitution.

"ON THE FOLLOWING day, July 21, Congress passed a joint resolution to rescind Seward's doubts. It ordered him to declare the amendment unconditionally adopted, and on July 28, adding the names of Alabama and Georgia, whose notifications had just been received, Seward declared the Fourteenth officially a part of the Constitution.

"Was the Fourteenth Amendment thus legally and constitutionally added to the Constitution in 1868? It is exceedingly doubtful. Neither a resolution of the Congress, nor a proclamation of a secretary of state can supersede the Constitution itself. If the states of Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, Alabama, South Carolina, and Louisiana were 'in the union' in 1865, when their ratifications of the Fourteenth Amendment were counted among the three-fourths necessary to adoption, it is impossible to understand how they legally could have been read out of the union by the act of March 2, 1869, put under military dictatorship, and ordered to ratify the Fourteenth Amendment under duress.

"IN ANY EVENT, ratification must be placed upon the coerced ratifications of either five or seven Southern states which at that time were denied a Republican government, denied representation in the Congress, and denied the right to give freely upon the proposed amendment."

Mr. Kilpatrick says this alleged constitutional provision—on which the Supreme Court relied in its ruling in the school desegregation cases in 1954—stems from "rotten parenthood." He points out, too, that neither the Congress that submitted the amendment, the states that ratified it, nor the courts that ruled upon the question, understood or contemplated that the amendment was intended to abolish segregation in public schools.

THERE IS NO record, according to Mr. Kilpatrick, that the school issue was ever raised in Congress in connection with the adoption of the Fourteenth Amendment. To the contrary, Congress itself "fixed the spirit and meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment by adopting legislation requiring racially segregated schools in the District of Columbia. Such legislation was passed in 1866 by the same Congress that was framing the Fourteenth Amendment. Subsequent Congresses continued to provide for racially segregated schools in the district until 1954.

Billy Graham

QUESTION: Does the scripture passage "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it" mean that if Christians are not willing to give up their physical lives, they will be lost forever?

ANSWER: Every Christian is not called upon to physically sacrifice his life for Christ. The deeper meaning of this passage is in the death of self and our selfishness. Christ will break no half-hearted discipleship. He calls upon us to "forsake all and follow Him." To be half a Christian, is to be no Christian at all.

I think that much of our difficulty today is that our lives are so diversified. Religion to many has become a status, a mere badge of respectability. But Jesus urged His disciples to "deny themselves, take up their cross and follow Him." We are to be immersed in the faith, to lose ourselves in dedication to His cause, and by so doing we "find ourselves." There is no mystery here, actually. The athlete, the scientist, the scholar, the inventor, who loses himself in his work, succeeds in his particular field, and thus finds himself. Christianity calls for a high dedication, and when we enter into it halfheartedly, we make a farce of Christ's Cause. Don't be afraid to "lose yourself" for Him, for when you dare to do this, all life sparkles with meaning and fulfillment.

James Marlow De Gaulle Got What He Asked For

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy waited six months until he got to Europe to do an extraordinary job on French President Charles de Gaulle for the damage he had caused the Western Alliance.

In a rough, deliberately planned major policy speech Tuesday at Frankfurt, Germany, Kennedy, for this effort bears its political and economic seeds. De Gaulle blocked the Common Market insofar as Britain was concerned and thus thwarted the dream of an economic community so powerful and unified that it would have become an over-fulfilling weapon. Now, if some unity in arms can be achieved, it is not impossible that this might become a pattern for picking up some of the pieces of the fractured Common Market. If the maneuver does not succeed, then there may be a need for an accommodation to block both military and economic accident. He holds few such conferences.

AND, WHEN he does, the questions have to be submitted beforehand. In summary, De Gaulle did these four things:

1. He rejected this country's proposal for a multinational nuclear force and proclaimed his determination to build a separate French nuclear force.
2. This was exactly what Kennedy didn't want. It meant one more nuclear power in the world and would be encouragement to other countries to do the same.
3. He slammed Europe's Common Market door in Britain's face, treating his British ally as an outsider.
4. This galled up an American-British hopes for a united European economic effort and weakened both economic and political unity among the Allies.

3 He said France opposed a Common Market "under American leadership and domination."

THIS WAS a slap in the face. It galled the United States, which resented the suggestion it was trying to run Europe.

4 He complained that while the United States talked of a multinational NATO nuclear force for Europe, at force would remain under U. S. control.

He marked the mark there. Under law, as by Congress, this government must retain full control of nuclear weapons, deciding whether or not to use them.

On April 19, De Gaulle kicked the United States again by suggesting the France could not be sure of the intentions of its Allies, much less of its enemies.

In short, from the American view, he had endangered the whole alliance.

Against this background it is understandable why Kennedy on his present European trip has repeatedly assured the Allies the United States would defend Europe from attack even if it meant attack on the United States.

HE SAID Tuesday that "the United States will risk its cities to defend yours because we need your freedom to protect ours."

But he went far beyond that by implying De Gaulle was playing into Soviet hands by casting doubt on the alliance and American intentions.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Remarks that fat men get tired of hearing "Roscoe isn't really fat. He's just unbelievably plump."

"What made you so late for work, Roscoe? Get stuck in the subway traffic again?"

He doesn't need a knife and fork. Just put a shovel by his side.

"H. Tabby, what a new!"

"They say everybody loves a fat man."

"They say nobody loves a fat man."

In our last amateur theatrical, Roscoe starred as the mob scene. He played it all by himself.

Roscoe just dived into the swimming pool from the 11-foot board. Now, how are we going to get the water back in?

My, I can eat anything I want. Nothing seems to stick to my bones.

They'll have to unhinge the peeply gates if they're ever going to get him into heaven.

Your shadow is loose, Roscoe. Want me to tie it for you?"

We've got to do something about him. That's the fourth switch chair he's broken this month.

Yes, sir. I know a size 50 coat fits you like a glove. But let's try this size 54 on you—I think you'll find it a bit more comfortable."

"Roscoe isn't really fat. He's just unbelievably plump."

We'll have to wait at the top of the stairs for Roscoe. He always takes the freight elevator."

As I see it, it's a mathematical problem. If his tummy gets any bigger, his arms will no longer be able to reach the table—and then he's bound to start losing weight."

The last time Roscoe played Santa Claus, the number multiplied.

There's one more thing about having all that weight. When you're at the beach with Roscoe on a summer day, he throws more shade than the average elm tree."

Here's a new game for you, kids. The first one to race five laps around Roscoe wins a quarter. On your marks! Get set! Go!"

To Your Good Health Whiplash Damages Neck Muscles And Upper Spine

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I suffered whiplash and back contusions in a car wreck several months ago. Should I expect any future ill effects?—Mrs. R. K.

The contusions probably are minor skin and muscle injuries.

Whiplash is the result of the rapid forward-and-backward whipping of the head and neck. It isn't a specific injury, but merely implies damage to neck muscles, and possibly even the upper spine.

I suspect that the term "whiplash" sometimes is overused. It is a rather vivid, ominous-sounding word.

But if severe damage has been done to the bones, muscles or cartilage, it may take time to correct the condition. Proper treatment may include a special leather collar to hold the bones and muscles in correct position while they heal.

Dear Dr. Molner: The manufacturer of a product for allergies recently stated that if you have more than three or four "colds" a year, you probably have an allergy. I get what is your opinion? I get many colds each year and often have runny nose, drainage in the back of my throat, and occasional sneezes. Would you advises allergy tests? I have taken pills for "allergic rhinitis." That's what my doctor called it. Isn't that the medical term for hay fever?—C. W.

Three or four colds a year is probably about the average number. If you have more than that, either you have more colds, or you have something else—maybe an allergy. I can't quarrel with the statement, but I don't like what it implied: that therefore you should resort to patent medicines.

Yes, I suggest an allergist. If you find that you are allergic to something, staying away from it is the best solution. If you can't do that, you may have success with desensitization injections. Or if the trouble is mild enough, anti-histamine drugs may be adequate.

You would find out, if you investigated, that the product for allergies is an anti-histamine.

No, allergic rhinitis is not exactly a synonym for hay fever. Hay fever is an allergy to ragweed and similar pollens. It makes the victim sneeze, makes his eyes and nose water. An allergic rhinitis is similar but not the same. It makes the nose run.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is an occasional bottle of beer harmful to anyone with peptic ulcer? My son has an ulcer. His doctor told him he could have beer.—Mrs. C. V.

If the ulcer is healed an occasional beer probably would do no harm, but alcohol stimulates acids and other stomach secretions. Beer contains alcohol. Treatment of peptic ulcer entails minimizing the flow of these secretions.

I would say no as to the beer. However, many physicians feel that a very small amount of alcohol does less harm than smoking. They permit a little beer or wine or a diluted mixed drink in hopes that as a part of the bargain the patient will cut down or stop smoking.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write in care of the Herald for my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim The Iceman Cometh

One of the sounds of summer sadly missing is groaning and clanking of the ice wagon.

NO ONE WOULD argue for a minute that our modern mechanical refrigerators are not far, far superior. But just as a thermostat flipping your furnace off and on is less colorful than throwing on another log or pouring in another scuttle of coal, so is today's refrigerator less personal than the friendly iceman.

Of course he is still around, but his equipment has been motorized, his blocks frequently pre-sawed or pre-crushed. He calls on commercial customers and that's about all.

ONLY A GENERATION ago it was different. The iceman was not always a big burly fellow, but he usually was muscled like the village blacksmith. He not only had to carry dead weights ranging from a few pounds up to 100 pounds (some of them could stagger off with a 300 block on their backs once they mastered the art), but they had to hoist these high to the top of ice boxes or into impossible places.

Usually the iceman furnished the housewife with a placard with a revolving disc which enabled her to display the numbers 25-50-100. The iceman took one look, took out his pick and chipped out the prescribed block.

HE GRABBED those steel tongs, let them drop on either side of the block and jerked up with a fluid motion that both gripped the ice securely and swung it up from the floor of the wagon. If it was a heavy block, it was swung over the iceman's back, which was protected by a leather apron. Thus he plodded to the kitchen door, fighting off the family dog, and trying to drop the block into place without knocking the bottom out of the box.

A few of the chests opened from the top, more from the front, and some were low affairs with a sliding door in the top. In one end was a place for the ice, in the other space for perishables. All ice boxes had one thing in common; the water from melted ice. Most people had a pan, which invariably ran over. A few bored a hole in the floor.

YET IT WAS THE WAGON itself that held most interest for the kids. Usually it was a van with heavy sides, on which were written in big block "sometimes in icy blue letters: "ICE." Shiny horses or well fed mules pulled the wagon, and they would "gidnap!" or "woah!" on the command of the driver. More often than not the driver rode on the steps at the back of the van and bellowed his orders to the team. In between houses, he might be hooking another block and picking it into handier sizes.

The clinking of trace chains, the knuckle-popping of wheels always heralded the approach of the iceman and his wondrous wagon. Barefoot boys stopped their playing and made a bee line for the wagon, hoping to get a chip of ice or steal a ride up the alley while absorbing the cool of that portable ice house.

OCCASIONALLY THE ICEMAN yelled at youngsters, threatening maybe if they didn't get away from the wheels or off the step. Then with professional gruffness, he chomped a chaw of the tobacco plug, swung up behind, hooked a block and picked just vigorously enough to make sure there would be enough chips for the kids in the next neighborhood.

Inez Robb The Papal Coronation

VATICAN CITY—The precedent-shattering decision of Pope Paul VI to be crowned in St. Peter's Square will enable an estimated 500,000 persons to witness the brilliant ceremony.

Roman authorities are preparing for such a vast throng of the faithful, as well as hordes of tourists, to pour into the great square and the upper end of the Via Della Conciliazione next Sunday afternoon when the triple crown of the Papacy will be placed on the head of the new Pontiff.

NEVER BEFORE have so many persons been actual witnesses of a Papal coronation. Rome is jubilant at the startling decision of Paul VI to be crowned on the wide porch of the Basilica—enabling 10 times as many persons to attend as could have crowded into the Basilica itself.

It is estimated the Basilica of St. Peter's, the largest church in Christendom, can hold 70,000 persons. However, with the stands for the Ecumenical Council still in place, there now is space for only about 30,000.

THE NEW POPE will be crowned at an improvised altar on the wide porch that fronts the Basilica and from which a long, wide flight of steps leads down into the square. By this decision the new Pontiff has greatly endeared himself to the Romans at the very start of his reign.

As the Bishop of Rome, the Pope always is passionately regarded by the Romans as their own shepherd.

Pope Paul has set his coronation for 6 p.m. Sunday, when the head of the Roman day begins to fade and a little wreath can be expected in the square. This is regarded as further evidence of his thoughtfulness.

AS A BACKDROP for his coronation, Pope Paul is trading the stored magnificence of the Basilica for architectural glories of the square—more formally known as the Piazza di San Pietro.

In reality, the piazza is not a square but a huge, flat bowl which can hold 300,000 persons. Its glory is the great colonnades, designed by Bernini, that flank the facade of St. Peter's. The colonnades are like two great arms flung wide to bless and embrace the world.

THESE SEMI-CIRCULAR colonnades comprise 284 soaring columns. In rank of four, plus 22 Doric pillars, 182 colossal statues of the saints stand guard on the balustrades high above the square.

All in all, the piazza is a setting to add historic drama and beauty to any ceremony. The square or piazza, also draws the faithful like a magnet in both joy and sorrow.

It is in this square that they come by the tens of thousands to keep the death watch of a Pope, as they did as recently for John XXIII. Even in the June heat they flocked to the square to wait patiently for the news of a new Pope. And it is here that they gather every Sunday, on Christmas, Easter and other holy days to receive the Papal blessing.

THE INITIAL DAYS of his Papacy continue to be crowded ones for Pope Paul. The first Cardinal whom he received in private audience since his election was Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York. This was interpreted in part as a sign of the new Pope's recognition of unwavering American support for his candidacy, as well as of staunch support of the faith by American Catholics.

He has bestowed a special blessing upon Americans. Cardinal Spellman says as he emerged from his audience with the Pope.

He said American Cardinals rejoice that the Ecumenical Council is to be continued. "Although I believe its reopening will have to be delayed."

Holmes Alexander A Parable Of Battle

WASHINGTON — Respectability has often fought with Revolution. An existing order, slow but sure in its decay and justice, has many times been confronted "in the streets" by the spirit of vengeance and by demands for instant reform of undoubted and long-lasting wrongs. Often, also, this conflict has been between two races, one standing for order and redress by violence, the other standing for measured adjustment.

WELL, THE BATTLE has not always gone to the attackers and against the defenders of an admittedly imperfect system, for there is a lot of courage in respectability. One of the finest parallels to illustrate this truth was written by Charles Dickens in "A Tale of Two Cities" when he described that fight to the death between Miss Pross, the old maid English governess, and Madame Defarge, the terrible, tavern-keeping Queen of the Guillotine. They met, face to face, in mortal combat in an upstairs apartment of a deserted building in Paris at the height of the Terror.

CONSIDER the adversaries, and think of them in terms of today's Negro revolution against the white man's sometimes muddling way of running our free country. The analogy is not an exact one, but it is serviceable.

Miss Pross, says Dickens, "had never struck a blow in her life." Madame Defarge was stained with the blood of aristocrats whom she had sent to the executioner. The skinny old maid was defending the getaway of her beloved Lucie, her "ladybird," for whom she had long been a household retainer. Madame Defarge, grim and tough as "the wife of Lucifer," yearned for one extra victim under the death-dealing knife. Miss Pross belonged to a system of capitalism and caste. Madame Defarge was the avenger of discrimination and injustice, a gun-packing moll of the aroused masses.

MADAME DEFARGE: "I have been in the streets from the first... I will tear you to pieces."

MISS PROSS: "Nevertheless, you will not get the better of me, I am an Englishwoman... I am a Briton. I am desperate."

Neither contestant understood a word of the other's language, but they understood that they were of different races, different creeds and different purposes of hate and love. They fought it out. Miss Pross killed Madame Defarge with the pistol which Madame had brought to the scene.

MY MAIL WILL tell me, I suppose, that this is no way to write a column about the American racial crisis of 1963. There are a lot of tired old words I haven't used: human rights and local rights, the Bill of Rights and bills on Civil Rights, the freedom marching and the filibuster, the principles of two American Presidents, Thomas Jefferson and Jefferson Davis, the rise of the African republics and the decline of the American Republic.

BUT SOME OTHER day for all that. There are a lot of elements in the battle of the races, but one element, I think, is the respectable, home-body Miss Pross. She is not to be blamed for the wrongs of the world, but she will resist the world-wreckers. Another is the revolutionary Madame Defarge. She, understandably but vindictively, is determined upon destruction of an existing order. It would have been far better if they hadn't had to fight, and maybe in our enlightened day the fight can be averted—but in the parable, and just for the record, Miss Pross acquitted herself very well.

Water Project Order Appealed

AUSTIN (AP)—Opponents of a $125 million dam to supply Wichita Falls water appealed a court order authorizing the project Tuesday.

Dist. Judge Jack Roberts of Austin upheld Texas Water Commission approval of a permit to construct the project on the Little Wichita River.

The project is opposed by Glenn and Mrs. Rosalee Halsell of Clay County, whose land will be covered by the proposed reservoir.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Frank Booth said the case is the first appeal of a water commission order to be based on merits of the case instead of procedure.

Roberts upheld the state's contention that the dam permit was granted on the basis of substantial evidence.

Alex Pope, Fort Worth lawyer for the Halsells, argued that the commission acted without substantial evidence, several commission rules were not followed and the permit wrongly allowed diversion of water from one watershed to another.

The city of Wichita Falls wants to build the 288,000-acre-foot reservoir on land which includes the Halsell Ranch.

The Halsells and the Red River Authority contended at a commission hearing in February 1962, that the reservoir should be developed at a site near Ringgold which would provide more water.

Responding to opening bids in no trump is usually a rather routine proposition, since the no trump bidder has described his point count, strength and distribution within precise limits.

Responding can tell by totaling the combined assets just how far to go, and it is his duty to make the final decision for the team.

Occasionally, however, the choice may revert to the opening bidder. Observe today's hand, taken from a recent tournament.

North's opening bid of three no trump was standard at all tables. He has the classic requirements—25 high card points and even distribution.

South's response presented a point for variation. Holding a good six-card suit, a singleton and five high card points, there is no question but that he should make some attempt to reach slam. The problem hinges, however, not on the number of points North has, but rather on their quality. If he has too many queens and jacks, for example, the partnership may find itself off two fast tricks.

Most Souths chose to make their try by jumping beyond game to five spades. This bid was intended to ask partner to carry on to slam if he possessed sufficient primary controls.

The North hand was a minimum three no trump bid in terms of points, but the solid holding in hearts and clubs as well as the ace of spades was quite impressive, and its holder usually chose to gamble on the diamond situation by proceeding to six spades. Observe that, if South's diamond and club holdings are interchanged, the slam becomes a laydown.

The slam was fulfilled at every table where it was bid because no West player was willing to lead from the doubleton king of diamonds. In fact, the taking of 13 tricks was routine since all of declarer's diamonds can be discarded on North's high clubs once trumps are drawn.

One player seated South was content to settle for a mere game contract in spades over the three no trump opening, but he found even this modest effort beyond his capabilities, when West came up with a fantastic defense.

The king of diamonds was opened and the suit continued. After cashing the jack and ace of diamonds, East led a fourth round and West put the nine of spades to good use by forcing out North's ace.

This established a trump trick for East and sent declarer down to a most humiliating defeat.

East Germans Want Big Show For Khrushchev

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists are trying to drum up a big show for Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to East Berlin Friday in a bid to match President Kennedy's reception in West Berlin.

Berlin experts predicted that far Khrushchev's seventh visit, East Berliners would heed a Communist appeal to "decorate" houses, streets, squares and factories with the red flags of the working class, but would do so sullenly.

The East German Communist party organ, Neues Deutschland, made a front page appeal to East Berliners to give their traditional hospitality "to our great friend."

It ran interviews with the mayor, a mechanic and a salesgirl extolling Khrushchev's visit. The East German radio also broadcast interviews and commentaries to whip up interest.

The Soviet premier visited East Berlin only last January and no one expected him to return so soon.

But East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht's 70th birthday on Sunday presented Khrushchev with a reason.

Khrushchev's visit aroused a number of questions among officials in West Berlin and West Germany.

Would he confine himself to making a reply to Kennedy's pledge of support for West Berlin and Western Europe?

Or would he make some move that would launch a new crisis? Khrushchev could unveil the peace treaty he has been promising the East German people for 4 1/2 years. This treaty, the Soviets claim, would cancel the western allies' rights to begin Berlin and place their access to the city at the mercy of the East Germans.

The Western allies are committed to go to war to preserve their rights and defend the freedom of the West Berliners. If Khrushchev announced the signing of the treaty, it would touch off the hottest Berlin crisis ever. But diplomats said they saw no signs that Khrushchev was thinking of "putting the final bite on Berlin."

The Soviets have taken a somewhat softer line on Berlin since the East German party congress which Khrushchev attended six months ago. Khrushchev said then the peace treaty was no longer so important because the wall had solved the refugee problem.

Whoever is responsible for the changes, the old homestead won't be the same place Kennedy visited in 1947 when he was a congressman.

The tidy but dirty barnyard, where the widow Ryan's 20 chickens and three cows once held sway, has been covered with concrete and now resembles a parking lot.

Are AGE SPOTS adding years to your looks ?

NOW! MAKE THEM SURELY, SAFELY FADE AWAY WITH WONDER-WORKING ultra nadinola

Do you long for a skin free of ugly blotches that spell "age" for all to see? ... Now it can be yours—with new Ultra Nadinola Cream!

A completely new formula ... containing DIMATRON!

Ultra Nadinola, you see, is not just another cosmetic. It acts directly upon skin discolorations. It's the only moisturizing cream that contains Dimatron, a pigment-clearing compound which is remarkably effective and safe for normal skin. Spread Ultra Nadinola over your skin freely wherever age spots occur. It searches out and fades the unsightly blotches, freckles, muddy discolorations ... having little effect on the clear areas. Gently and gradually Ultra Nadinola brings about an over-all effect of even-toned, more youthful coloring, giving the look of fresh, glowing skin vitality.

50,000 tests say it's safe! Ultra Nadinola is clinically proven and safe for normal skin. Over 50,000 hospital-controlled, doctor-supervised applications showed not one single case of skin irritation from its use.

Old Kennedy Homestead Won't Be Recognizable

By HUGH MULLIGAN
DUBLIN (AP)—Who threw the concrete topping on Mrs. Ryan's barnyard?

"It's an American trick," most Irish newspapers said today. They blamed the U.S. government for the startling changes at the ancestral homestead. President Kennedy will visit Thursday.

The Americans are denying everything and shifting the accusing finger toward the Irish government.

Whoever is responsible for the changes, the old homestead won't be the same place Kennedy visited in 1947 when he was a congressman.

The tidy but dirty barnyard, where the widow Ryan's 20 chickens and three cows once held sway, has been covered with concrete and now resembles a parking lot.

A huge manure heap has disappeared from the adjoining field, where the President's helicopter will put down.

All the farm animals have been shunted out of sight. There are no pigs in the pasture.

A concrete porch and an indoor tiled toilet—known locally as John's job—have been added to the comfortable Ryan cottage.

The cottage is a few yards from the humble inn-roofed but that Patrick Kennedy, the President's great-grandfather, occupied before emigrating to the United States. The hut is now a storage shed.

Mary Ryan, a Kennedy before her marriage, is the President's third cousin and his best-known relative in Ireland.

She plans to brew him a cup of tea and serve some tangy Irish soda bread. That is all he is going to get, she said.

Keefe Brasselle Show Is Tuneful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Keefe Brasselle Show, bowing in Tuesday night as Garry Moore's summer replacement on CBS, is a pleasant, tuneful and well-timed hour of variety.

The opening show—a last minute substitute for the program originally announced—boasted a number of guest stars in unlikely combinations. There was Zsa Zsa Gabor, playing the comedy femme fatale role she has developed so adroitly. Fred (Car 34) Gwynne, making his sad face, and marvelous Barbara Streisand, who can suffer or clown in song with equal facility.

Brasselle is a good looking fellow who can sing a little and dance a little, but is a little awkward in the comedy department. He has surrounded himself with a program of family including comedienne Ann B. Davis, Rocky Graziano, who just had to be a better presenter than he is a comic, and a shapely blonde dancer named Noelle Adam who didn't dance much, but straddled around the stage a lot in tight.

The musical and dancing portions of the show were pretty good, almost winter-televison quality. But the show obviously was in need of some decent comedy material, or theme or something to tie it together.

A half hour earlier, CBS dropped its "Picture This" into Jack Benny's usual time period. This is still another game show, obviously inspired in its physical set-up by "Password." The gimmick, however, involves having the contestant, picked from the audience, draw a picture from a description by his celebrity teammate and try to guess what he's drawing.

The game came off unsatisfactorily, an understatement. Host Jerry Van Dyke and celebrity guests Oscar Bean and Gretchen Wyler tried hard and futilely to generate some interest and excitement. It was a crushing bore.

CBS finally put an end to the rumors as Richard Sargent, head of its news division, announced the resignation of its longtime correspondent David Schmeidler.

Schmeidler, after many years in the network's Paris bureau transferred about a year ago to Washington to head its Capital Bureau. A few months ago, however, he was sent back to Europe and was known to be unhappy about the assignment.

Recommended tonight: "The Image Man," NBC, 9:10 (E.D.T.)—Maddalena Carey and Melvyn Douglas in a suspense tale.

"Reckoning," CBS, 10:11—beginning a series of reruns from other seasons, starting with "Tahiti" with Franchoy Tone and Kim Hunter.

Sherman Schools Will Integrate

SHERMAN (AP)—The Sherman Independent School District will begin "grade a year" integration in September, the school board decided Monday night.

The first grade will be integrated this year, and a yearly stair-step plan will be followed until all 12 grades are desegregated, the board said in disclosing the voluntary move.

The district has an average enrollment of about 5,000 pupils.
