LEVELLING OFF

Lake Thomas Highest Since Dec. 12, 1968

The two reservoirs of the Colorado River Municipal Water District were levelling off today after an unprecedented August inflow.

Lake J. B. Thomas was at elevation 2,232.52 and contained 63,000 acre-feet. This represented a vertical rise of 17.94 feet and 49,700 acre-feet of water during August.

Lake E. V. Spence was at elevation 1,852.18 and contained 92,000 acre-feet of water. This was a vertical rise of 14.48 feet for the month and an increase of 52,000 acre-feet for the month.

The two reservoirs contained 155,000 acre-feet of water or nearly 52 billion gallons. This was about 22.5 per cent of the capacities for the combined reservoirs.

Maximum elevation of Lake Thomas is 2,258.00, so the lake is still 15 1/2 feet below spillway. Maximum capacity is 204,000 acre-feet.

The spillway level for Lake Spence is 1,898.00 and capacity at that depth is 488,000 acre-feet.

The increase for Lake Thomas was the most since October, 1960, when the lake picked up 91,500 acre-feet of water. The elevation is the greatest since Dec. 12, 1968.

Both the inflow and the elevation for Spence are records.

TYPHOON TRIX TRIGGERS TRAGEDY

TOKYO (AP) — Typhoon Trix skirted southern Kyushu, roared across Sakoku Island and was heading northeast toward Japan's largest industrial hubs in Osaka and Nagoya today after killing at least 14 persons. Five more were missing and 49 others were injured.

National police said Trix, one of the most powerful rainstorms ever to hit Japan, triggered torrential rains in 13 of the nation's 46 prefectures or states. Most of the deaths were caused by mudslides, officers said.

To Generate Jobs In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said today that $11,779,700 in federal funds will be distributed in Texas to generate an estimated 2,000 jobs for the unemployed and those underemployed.

The funds come from the Congressional Emergency Employment Act of 1971.

Smith said the money would be used to benefit those "who have become unemployed due to technological change or cutbacks in the defense, aerospace and construction industries, and will help satisfy unmet needs in state and local government for public services in such fields as environmental quality, health care, housing and neighborhood improvements, recreations, education, public safety, maintenance of parks, streets and other public facilities."

SHOT TO DEATH NEAR ABILENE

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — An airman was shot to death just before midnight Sunday on the non-commissioned officers parking lot at Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene.

Officials did not identify the victim at once. Military police took four men into custody.

Supporters Of President Thieu Lead

SAIGON (AP) — Supporters of President Nguyen Van Thieu led today in returns from South Vietnam's lower house election, but political analysts predicted their majority would be reduced from about 70 per cent to about 60 per cent.

Returns from 66 of the 159 seats at stake in the voting Sunday gave 35 to pro-Thieu candidates and 20 to opposition politicians. Two more winners were independents, and the political allegiance of the other 11 was not yet clearly defined.

Supporters of the president were scoring heavily in the densely populated Mekong Delta and other provinces around Saigon. But opposition deputies appeared to have the edge in the major cities, including Saigon, and in the northern provinces.

In Saigon, seven of the 13 winners were opposition leaders, most of them associates of Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh. Candidates backed by the antigovernment An Quang Buddhist faction won well over half the seats in Da Nang, Hue and the surrounding northern provinces.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong made nearly 100 attacks over the weekend, their heaviest activity in four months, but failed to disrupt the elections. The government claimed a near-record turnout of 5,567,446—78.5 per cent—of the eligible voters, and said less than one per cent of the 7,000 polling sites came under direct rocket, mortar or terror attack.

In the worst election attack, a grenade thrown into a polling place in coastal Binh Dinh province killed seven civilians and wounded 23. Many of the other attacks were minor and caused no casualties or damage.

Thieu's continued control of the house and the large turnout of voters were expected to reinforce his determination to go ahead with the Oct. 3 presidential election with himself as the only contestant.

Bible Fund Up Slightly

The High School Bible Class Fund made a modest gain today, and the total now stands at $1,769.90.

The fund must be much more than that, if courses are to continue wherein students are to receive credit for instruction in the Bible for its historical, literary and ethical values.

More help is needed, and soon. You are invited to have a part in carrying on this worthwhile program. Make your check to BIBLE FUND and mail to The Herald for acknowledgment.

DESK SERGEANT KILLED, WOMAN WOUNDED

Cop Shop Sprayed With Buckshot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man with a shotgun burst into a police station late Sunday night and sprayed the front desk with buckshot, killing the desk sergeant and wounding a woman clerk, police reported.

Police said today they had no leads to the slaying.

Immediately after the shooting at the Ingleside station in the southwest part of the city, police officials ordered armed officers to guard the eight other police stations. The gunman struck a 12-gauge shotgun barrel through a hole in a bulletproof glass partition at the desk and fired, police said. Buckshot struck Sgt. John V. Young, 45, in the chest, police said. He died minutes later in the station.

The blast also hit Ellen Lipney, 30, who was a few feet behind Young and to one side. She was struck in the left arm but was not in serious condition, doctors said.

Officer James Nanz, one of two other officers in the station, said the gunman: "He just came through the door and started shooting."

The gunman stepped back after the first blast, police said, and pumped several more rounds of buckshot into the partition and a metal door which leads to the station's inner offices.

One investigator, Lt. Charles

Ellis, said the gunman with the shotgun was a tall black man. Less than an hour earlier, a Bank of America branch a mile northwest of the police station was bombed. The explosion punched a 12-inch by 8-inch hole in the building and broke several windows.

Powerful time bombs damaged State Department of Corrections offices in Sacramento and San Francisco on Saturday in a retaliation for what a radical Weatherman group in letters to news media called "the assassination of George Jackson."

Jackson, a black militant, was one of three convicts killed in a San Quentin prison escape attempt Aug. 21. Three prison guards were also killed in the attempt.

A third explosion Saturday wrecked a single-story State Department of Rehabilitation office in San Mateo.

Key Witness In Stock Scandal Trial Excused

DALLAS (AP) — Frank W. Sharp, the Houston promoter who the key man in the stock fraud civil suit which has shaken Texas, spent less than a minute in court when the trial opened today.

The Securities and Exchange Commission suit named 28 persons and individuals, but only a few are fighting the complaints. Sharp, flanked by two lawyers, walked into U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes court and was promptly administered the customary oath.

HE'S AVAILABLE Morton Susman of Houston, representing Sharp and his complex of companies, argued the case was moot (no longer an issue) as regards Sharp. Sharp has said he will not contest any decision by the judge.

Sharp's lawyer said Sharp will be available as a witness whenever needed. He asked that his client be excused.

Also in court as the hearing began were two other principals in the case in which the SEC charges stock and bank loan manipulations aimed at getting special banking legislation passed by the Texas Legislature.

They were former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, a former executive of one of the defendant companies, and John Osorio, a former Carr law partner and former president of National Bankers Life Insurance Co., a major defendant.

LOOKED GRAVE Carr, in a light grey summer suit was smiling and appeared confident. Osorio, wearing a dark suit, looked grave.

Before the hearing opened, court clerks wheeled in a trolley filled high with an estimated 10,000 documents that the SEC is presenting as part of its case.

Robert F. Watson, representing the SEC, produced a final judgment and permanent injunction which had been accepted by FLAP, Inc., one of the corporate defendants. FLAP, privately owned by several of the defendants, dealt in real estate and securities.

Watson, in a brief opening statement, said that the defendants operated basically in three groups, although these groups had many interrelationships.

County Reinstates Museum In Budget

The Heritage Museum gained a new lease on life with the reinstatement of $5,000 by the Howard County Commissioners to the 1972 budget.

The court heard a group of some 20 supporters of the museum this morning and discussed the reasons for the original action deleting the Museum expenditures from the budget.

"The 1970 Commission over-spent the budget by $29,000, and we have been hard pressed to make ends meet," said County Judge A. G. Mitchell.

"The museum has had more than 1,000 visitors per month," said Jerry Worthy, museum chairman. "The visitors to the museum equal at least a $100,000 annual payroll in the county."

"If the budget must be cut," said Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, "Why not cut everything across the board, instead of completely cutting out some of the programs?"

Commissioners continued to discuss the matter until Commissioner Bill Crooker suggested that $5,000 of the $17,500 budget for work on the fair barns be transferred to the museum and the rest used for county employes pay raises.

"We need to put a priority on how the money is spent in relation to the number of people using the facilities."

Commissioners did not act on Crooker's suggestion, but voted unanimously on the motion by Bill Bennett to reinstate the $5,000 the museum asked for to the budget.

The Commissioners discussed temporarily putting the county asphalt crews on a four-day 10 hours-per-day work week in order to improve the efficiency of the crews, but decided instead to authorize Hollis Randall, road administrator, to work the crews overtime at his discretion.

The Commissioners also approved the new land-fill site chosen by the city, with the stipulation that a daily program of fly control be followed.

The new site is on the Denton property south of the Ramada Inn near the salt lake. Estimates range from two to five years of use for the site.

THE TRIAL THAT SHOCKED THE NATION

Thrill Killer Leopold Dies

SAN JUAN (AP) — Nathan F. Leopold, the brilliant son of a rich family who shocked the nation in 1924 when he and a friend murdered a boy for a thrill, died Sunday. Leopold, 66, died in Puerto Rico Hospital only a few blocks from the apartment where he lived with his wife, the former Trudy Feldman of Baltimore, Md.

"Mr. Leopold died last night, around 8:45 p.m.," an official of the Miyiya Hospital of San Juan said.

A member of the hospital's administrative staff told a reporter Leopold had donated his remains to the University of Puerto Rico's School of Medicine for research purposes.

A close friend of the family said Leopold had suffered a heart condition for at least four months. He recently went to Chicago, where he spent a week or 10 days under observation at a hospital, the informant added.

Later, Leopold's personal physician Dr. Ramon Suarez Jr., said Leopold's body was quickly taken to the School of Medicine so that his eyes could be useful to the institution's eye bank.

The doctor said Leopold died quietly although in recent days he had experienced breathing difficulties. He added that Leopold also suffered from diabetes.

Leopold was paroled from an Illinois penitentiary on March 13, 1958, after serving 33 years, six months and two days for the thrill slaying with Richard Loeb of 14-year-old Bobby Franks. Loeb was killed in a fight with another convict in 1936.

When he was released, Leopold went to Puerto Rico as a $10 a month laboratory technician in a missionary hospital. In 1959 he entered the University of Puerto Rico, took a masters degree in social medicine and went to work for the Puerto Rican health department.

In February, 1961, Leopold married Trudy Feldman Garcia de Quevedo, the middle-aged widow of a San Juan physician. Two years later he was discharged from parole and became a free man.

NATHAN LEOPOLD DIES — Nathan F. Leopold, who shocked the nation in 1924 when he and Richard Loeb murdered a young boy for thrills, has died in Puerto Rico, his attorney reported today. Leopold is shown at right in his Puerto Rican home in 1963 where he went to live after being paroled from a sentence of life plus 99 years. At left he is shown with Richard Loeb, left in the picture, during their trial in Chicago in 1924.

KEY FIGURES — These three figures in the well-publicized Texas stock fraud case made an early appearance at the Federal Building in Dallas, Tex., today. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has filed a suit naming several Texas prominent citizens as defendants in a case involving the manipulation of stocks for a quick profit. These early arrivals are, top to bottom, former state attorney - general, Waggoner Carr; John Osorio, former president of National Bankers Life Ins. Co.; Frank Sharp.

Leaders Of LULAC Rip Nixon For Intervening

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Several controversial resolutions, including one concerning President Nixon's stand on desegregation, were passed Sunday at a state conference of the League of United Latin American Citizens here.

Approximately 75 statewide leaders of LULAC passed a resolution criticizing Nixon for "intervening in desegregation cases."

Nixon's action, the resolution read, "has had the effect of discouraging the Health, Education and Welfare Department and the Justice Department from working for desegregation in a more enthusiastic manner."

LAST RESORT

Other approved resolutions called for: —LULAC officers to file a federal court suit against the Texas Youth Council for alleged discriminatory hiring practices, saying that less than 5 per cent of the council's employees are Mexican-Americans, while more than 30 per cent of the boys confined at Gatesville State School are Mexican-Americans.

LULAC also condemned the council's requirements that all letters to and from boys at Gatesville be in English.

—The use of "whatever lawful means are necessary to achieve the highest quality education for our children." A spokesman said this applies to a planned boycott of Houston schools because of a federal court's ruling that pairing of Mexican-Americans and blacks meets desegregation requirements. It also applies to busing "as a last resort," the spokesman said.

MINORITY GROUP

—Recognition of Mexican-Americans as an identifiable minority group for educational purposes and condemnation of their being paired with "any other socially or economically deprived minority group."

—Creation in every city of a civilian board to review complaints against police, establishment of police sensitivity training programs and appointment of a community relations officer.

—Opposition before appropriate congressional committees of the Green Card program that permits Mexican nationals to cross the border and compete for jobs in this country.

—Encouragement of qualified Mexican-Americans by all school boards to seek election to those boards.

SPECIAL SESSION

—The governor to open a special session of the legislature to bi-lingual and adult basic education bill.

—Making Spanish a compulsory course in public schools.

—Hiring persons who teach Spanish "who have an appreciation and understanding of the culture and behavior patterns of the Mexican-Americans."

Plane Crash Kills Trio, Injures Three Others

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — A small twin-engine airplane crashed near this northwestern Arizona Community Sunday, killing three persons and injuring three others.

All six persons aboard the Twin Beech Super 18 plane were believed to have been from Houston, a spokesman for the Yavapai County Sheriff's Department reported.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Delores Noe, 41; Dr. J. C. McMinn, 51, and Mrs. Polly McMinn, 47.

Injured in the crash were Harry Noe, 42, the pilot; Alfred Dula, 51; and Patrick Henry, 48.

The three survivors were airlifted by Air Force helicopter from the site of the wreckage to Phoenix' Maricopa County Hospital.

All three were badly burned, and Henry was reported to be in critical condition.

Undersheriff Walt Sanders said the plane left Las Vegas, Nev., at 2:30 p.m. en route to Houston.

At 3:10 p.m., according to Sanders, Noe radioed Prescott Airport and said that one of his plane's engines was out.

Sanders said that the craft went down about nine minutes later.

SCHOOLS CLOSED — Sunday was the last day for the Free University held in Dallas' Lee Park during the summer months. Of the courses offered were: an open "rap" session with Dallas Mayor Wes Wise (left), and a "white faced" play by the Janus Players entitled "Day of Absence."

'Rap With Establishment' Closes 'Free University'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas Free University closed its second academic year Sunday night with no graduation ceremony but confident it had helped the nation's eighth largest city through another long, hot summer.

Mayor Wes Wise, in sports shirt, slacks and loafers, brought his 15-year-old son, Wesley Jr., along for moral support when he faced the city's hippie youth in a confrontation billed as "Rap With the Establishment."

'PIGS' ROUGH

He squatted yoga-fashion on the grass of Lee Park, home of the city's self-styled freaks, while the long-haired fired questions and criticism at him. Their main beef: that some hamburger joints and ice cream parlors won't serve them and that the "pigs" act rough.

Wise asked for a list of eating places that discriminate against hippies and said he would see what the city attorney could do. Complaints about the police, he said, could always be brought to the city council. His audience looked skeptical on both counts.

While cicadas buzzed near at hand and a rock band blasted the night asunder in the middle distance, Wise warmly defended Dallas.

JESUS FREAKS

"Would Mayor Daley do this in Chicago?" he asked. "Would Mayor Alioto in San Francisco?"

The area around Lee Park is the nearest thing Dallas has to Haight Ashbury. A once elite housing area, it's a little run down now. The park people have taken over some older buildings for community homes.

Busing Order Review Vowed

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas school attorneys, claiming the district doesn't have the money or the buses to implement a busing plan, were to ask today for a stay of the busing order.

U.S. Dist. Judge William Taylor promised Sunday he would give a prompt review of the plan in which 7,000 Negro pupils are to be bused to further integration.

"I'll hear it as quick as I can—maybe Monday," Taylor said.

The district has also asked that schools be allowed to open Sept. 7 with no changes in the current integration setup.

The court-ordered busing plan is now before the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals where school attorneys hope it will be voided.

Today's hearing is the third request the school district has made to stay the judge's desegregation plan.

Posse Adds Another Trophy

The Howard County Sheriff Posse added another first place trophy to their list last week in Roby at the Fischer County Fair and Rodeo Parade.

This gives the posse nine first place awards and three second place awards for the year for a total of 108 points for American Association of Sheriff Posse and Riding Clubs competition.

Second place winner in the Fischer parade was Scurry County Sheriff Posse, and the Sweetwater Blues won third.

MIRACLES DO Happen

Leonardo da Vinci first showed how steam could be used to do work. Da Vinci built a machine he called "architruono" or "circular thunder" in Latin. It was a large metal cylinder, sealed and heated over a fire until steam was produced. The steam took up more space than the water, and it had no way of escaping, therefore, the cylinder exploded. This proved the steam had more force than man or animal could exert. After this simple experiment, others progressed until Robert Fulton, in 1807, perfected the Clermont steamship to run from New York to Albany, and was the forerunner of all steamships. Steam engines are still in use today because of their reliability and economy of operation.

Designed and manufactured by the most basic manufacturer in the water field today, the Miracle Water refiner is time and field proven to remove chlorine, detergents, pesticides, taste and odors, and essentially all organic man-made pollutants, as well as hardness. Miracle Water is backed up by a written warranty to give outstanding performance, and long durability, and the value of clean water, extra convenience, unnecessary possible damage, and satisfaction for every member of your family.

Skyscraper Cemeteries

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A future visitor to a gravesite in Sao Paulo may ride up an elevator 30 or 40 floors rather than make the conventional trip to the far-off grassy field on the outskirts of the city.

The population is going up, the accident rate is going up, the mortality rate is going up and all the while the available land space is diminishing.

So Sao Paulo city planners are thinking of making the cemeteries go up.

Plans under study by the mayor's office call for the construction of high-rise cemetery buildings in lieu of expanding present burial grounds or setting aside new ones.

DIFFICULT TO DIE

"Sao Paulo is a city where it is becoming increasingly difficult to die," architect Fernando Martins Gomes told an interviewer.

Martins Gomes is the man credited here with introducing the idea of the "vertical cemetery" as a solution to the problems of overcrowded cemeteries and decreasing land area.

The vertical cemetery, Martins Gomes said, "would prevent the trappings of death from becoming more lugubrious than death itself."

He explained that high-rise cemeteries which are architecturally integrated into the urban landscape would eliminate some of the complexities of modern-day dying. He mentioned the transfer of the corpse to a wake site and the morose trek to the stone-covered field.

PARKING LOT

The high-rise cemetery would contain a morgue, autopsy facilities, funeral parlors and a bar and meeting room for visitors as well as a parking lot.

In terms of space, a proposed 40-story cemetery could be built in an area of 52 x 104 yards and would have room for 40,000 "gravesites." By comparison, this city's second largest cemetery holds 30,000 dead, and takes up a lot more ground.

With ever-increasing population, space continues to be an acute concern of Sao Paulo officials. The growth of the city has been so rapid municipal services cannot maintain the pace.

In 1960 Sao Paulo had a population of 3.8 million. Today, six million people are crammed within the city limits. Another two million inhabit the outlying areas.

Sao Paulo is bigger in area—576 square miles—than Los Angeles with 458 and is No. 2 in population in the Western Hemisphere. All indications are that it will overtake New York by 1980.

On top of this growth problem, Sao Paulo has discovered it has a markedly high death rate: 8.2 per thousand inhabitants compared to 7.1 in Japan and 7.6 in Canada.

Heroin Use Has Greatly Increased

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Finlator, deputy director of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said Sunday night the nation has not yet seen the worst of the drug crisis.

"I wish I could say drug abuse has reached its peak and is dropping off, but I can't," Finlator said. "We had hoped it would slow down in the late 60s, but in the last two years heroin use has greatly increased."

Finlator is in Kansas City for an address.

"In the '60s the hippies said they would use marijuana and LSD but never turn to heroin," said Finlator in an interview.

"But just two years later it's common knowledge that heroin is our major drug problem."

He said drug abuse has spread from older teen-agers to junior high and even grammar school pupils.

"This isn't a scare tactic—everybody knows this is going on," he continued.

"The sad thing is that many young people today think heroin is the ultimate drug experience. Really, it's the last drug experience."

Finlator said "police can hit the suppliers but curbing the market is the only way we can eliminate drug abuse. The most effective antidrug abuse education," he said, "comes when every man and woman on the street, every educator and parent, works to discourage the use of illegal drugs."

Captain Of Burned-Out Ferry Jailed By Cops

BRINDISI, Italy (AP) — Italian police arrested the captain of the burned-out Greek ferry Heleanna early today as he was trying to leave Italy and charged him with homicide.

At least 26 persons died after fire ravaged the ferry Saturday about 25 miles off Brindisi in the Adriatic.

Capt. Dimitrios Antipas was seized aboard another Greek ferry, the Egnatia, and was put in the Brindisi jail.

In addition to homicide in the deaths of some passengers, Antipas was charged with overloading his boat, sailing without adequate firefighting and life-saving equipment and leaving the boat himself while "numerous passengers were still aboard."

'I BEG YOU'

Police said although the fire occurred in international waters, the body of at least one victim was found floating in Italian territorial waters.

No other ship's officers were arrested.

The charges against Antipas stemmed from accusations made to police by many of the 1,089 passengers who survived the disaster. A number said they saw the 43-year-old captain and his wife jump aboard one of the first lifeboats to leave the ferry.

Antipas' wife, Anastasia, left Brindisi hospital where she was being treated and, planned to join her husband for the trip back to Greece on the Egnatia.

Later she met newsmen briefly at a Brindisi hotel.

"I prefer not to talk about the arrest, I beg you," she said. Instead she gave an account of how her husband reacted to the fire.

Mrs. Antipas said a crew member awoke the captain and her at 5:30 a.m. announcing the fire. "My husband left the cabin without dressing," she said, "taking with him a shirt and pair of pants."

Chill Won't Help Tricia, Husband

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (A) — President Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze won't help his daughter Tricia and her husband Edward Finch Cox when they move into their new apartment next month.

The Coxes signed a $180-a-month lease on their two-bedroom third-floor walkup in June and it took effect July 1, so it is not covered by the administration freeze. Cox will be paying $25 a month more than the previous tenant.

The apartment on Langdon Street, in a quiet neighborhood, is within walking distance of Harvard Law School, where Cox will study.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1 — Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one spade. As South you hold:

♠9 6 ♥KQ64 ♦KJ63 ♣42

What is your response?

A.—This type of holding is awkward to manage for there is no completely satisfactory response and the lesser of evils must be chosen. The hand is not strong enough to justify the naming of a new suit at the level of two. It is within the limits of a no trump response, but the worthless doubton tends to steer me away from that bid. I think it may be stated as a rule that where the responding hand contains a worthless doubton, a raise of partner's suit should be made with a little less than normal trump support in preference to making a no trump response. We therefore vote for two spades.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q9 ♥K109 ♦AJ1064 ♣J9

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four no trump, provided partner will not construe it as a Blackwood bid. This is intended as a raise of the no trump and an invitation to bid a slam if the two no trump was made on a maximum. Your hand is not far removed from the equal of an opening bid in high cards and your partner has opened the bidding and jumped which should make you aware of slam possibilities. If partner has no excess values he should pass.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQ543 ♥107 ♦K9 ♣A103

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Five clubs. It is somewhat unusual to make a slam try when one has previously made a minimum rebid. Yet it is perfectly logical in this case. At the time North made his first response of two diamonds, South's hand was still in the minimum range, worth 15 points, but now that North has vigorously supported spades, the hand on revelation is worth 18 points.

Q. 4 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♥Q54 ♦Q1097632 ♣A83

The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1 ♠ 2 ♥ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. A seven card suit is not sufficient excuse for making a free bid at the level of three. The void in partner's suit should serve as a danger signal. If you bid three diamonds, partner will be forced to rebid. It will no doubt be three spades. What then?

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q9 ♥AKQJ98 ♦KQJ4 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded: North East South Pass Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Four hearts. This is normally too strong a hand for a preemptive bid, but inasmuch as partner has already passed, considerations of slam should be dismissed. The preempt may have especially good effect if the opponents have a spade fit.

Q. 6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K64 ♥AJ10763 ♦763 ♣Q4

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two hearts. Any excitement induced by possession of the fifth heart is not justified. This hand is worth only 10 points in support of hearts. Just a sound free raise.

Q. 7 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠5 ♥AQJ64 ♦53 ♣KQ1042

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two hearts. At these prices you cannot afford to show the club suit. Your hand is not strong enough to support a rebid at the level of three. Had partner's response been one spade, your proper rebid would have been two clubs.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠J5 ♥J1053 ♦Q108632 ♣2

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North Pass Pass 1 ♥ 1 NT Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Three diamonds. It is true that you have already warned partner by your diamond bid that your hand lacks the essentials for a raise of his no trump. Since he chose to proceed, he evidently hopes to find you with a hand that is just short of a raise. Inasmuch as your hand contains only four high card points partner is entitled to another warning. It would be a mistake to pass two no trump. Three diamonds would be safer.

Thug Lifts Cop's Marijuana Plant

SPANISH FORK, Utah (AP) — Police Chief Ned Grant had been nurturing a marijuana plant—used for educational purposes—for several months.

It grew eight feet tall, something of a botanical wonder, at least for a Utah grown marijuana plant.

"We were using the plant during lectures to show people what marijuana looked like," Grant said.

A thief broke the front window of the police station and stole the plant.

NIXON'S PROGRAM DIDN'T START OUT THAT WAY

Biggest Tax Slash In Decade Shapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — It didn't start out that way, but President Nixon's new economic program may lead to one of the biggest tax cuts in a decade.

The administration's proposals are more heavily weighted toward business tax relief, but it is taken for granted now that Congress, if it goes along with the plan, will enlarge the relief for individuals, and quite likely broaden the business cuts too. How much remains to be seen.

The Nixon proposals alone add up to a $7.5 billion tax reduction over a full year.

COMPARISON

If the various modifications already being discussed by various congressmen come to pass, the figure could balloon to $16.5 billion.

By way of comparison, the 1964 tax reduction pushed by Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson to speed an economy then, as now, suffering stagnation amounted to $11.5 billion the first year.

The 1969 Tax Reform Act, some provisions of which are still coming into effect in stages, is expected to yield about $7.3 billion in tax relief next year for individuals, offset by business tax increases that would reduce the next revenue loss to less than $2 billion.

CAR SAVINGS

Here are some elements of the present tax situation, and some of the possibilities:

Nixon has proposed restoration of the investment credit, worth $3 billion to businesses investing in equipment; speedups of the 1969 law provisions increasing the personal income tax exemption and the standard deduction, estimated to save individual taxpayers $2.2 billion in 1972, and elimination of the automobile excise tax, for a $2.3 billion saving to car buyers. The investment credit and excise figures are for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

CREDIT FIGURE

The investment credit figure is based on an effective date of Aug. 15, 1971, the day Nixon announced his sweeping program. But principal handlers of the legislation in the House have said they consider themselves committed to set the effective date back to April 1, when the possibility first was publicly discussed. So far, the Treasury has made no loud objection.

Such an advance would substantially increase the tax relief — perhaps by $1 billion. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he expects the House Ways and Means Committee to write more tax relief for individuals into the legislation. His own preference is for enlarging the minimum standard deduction, or low-income allowance, that benefits the smallest taxpayers.

NOT POSSIBLE

Mills says he has not decided on a figure, so no estimates are possible, but any enlargement would have an important revenue effect. The official estimate is that the allowance, as it now stands, would save taxpayers more than $2 billion in 1972.

The biggest potential tax break suggested for addition to Nixon's package is postponement of scheduled increases in the Social Security payroll tax.

Under a benefit increase bill passed by the House, and virtually certain to win Senate approval, the payroll tax would increase sharply next year. A worker earning $10,200 or more would have $145.20 additional withheld from his pay, and his employer would pay a matching amount. Even if the bill doesn't pass, existing law provides a maximum stepup of $62.40.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Arguing that these Social Security taxes would more than cancel out the income tax relief most workers would get — and any accompanying stimulation for the economy — a number of Congress members and economists have called for postponing the increases, but not the stepped-up benefits.

Acknowledging that its figures may be somewhat high because they are based on optimistic earnings forecasts, the Social Security Administration calculates that freezing the payroll tax at the 1971 level would mean a tax saving of $7.8 billion, shared equally by employers and employees, compared with the amount that would be collected under the House-passed bill.

Even a freeze at the presently established 1972 level would mean a tax saving of $4.5 billion.

Mills has spoken out against postponement, which would break with a long tradition of balancing Social Security benefit increases with tax raises. His opposition alone is enough to dim the chances, since any such legislation would have to go through his committee. But the effort seems certain to be made, at least in the Senate, with considerable support.

Money Runs Out Before Streets Do

Street department crews will wrap up the annual sealcoating program today, as 143 of the expected 206 blocks will be topped with new rock and asphalt.

"We fell shy of the expected amount of work to be done, because we ran out of money," said Tom Dignon, street superintendent. The streets were in worse condition than anticipated, he said.

The street department was allotted $15,000 to do the work and the department employees had hoped to complete 245,361 square yards of pavement.

Streets worked Sunday and today are: Virginia, from Eleventh Place to Washington Blvd.; South Monticello, from Birdwell Lane to Eleventh Place; North Monticello, from Birdwell Lane to South Monticello; Pickens, from Eleventh Place to South Monticello; Grafa, from FM 700 to Eleventh Place; Morrison, from Grafa to Birdwell Lane; Alabama, from Grafa to Miami; and Auburn, from Baylor to Columbia.

Ends 36-Day Attempt To Fly Around World

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A 66-year-old Dallas, Tex., man has ended his 36-day quest to fly around the world alone and set the flying record for light planes.

Despite his unsuccessful attempt, Sam Marshall was still cheerful and in high spirits Sunday at his Tehran hotel. He described his trip, which began last month in Morristown, N.J., as "adventurous, interesting, quite risky and very expensive."

On Friday, he crawled out of the wreckage of his Cessna 172 near Karaj, about 45 miles west of Tehran, unhurt except for a few bruises. Marshall had run out of fuel after flying into head winds. His plane turned upside down in a ditch when he tried to avoid a village.

Marshall said he slept on the ground beside his plane until helicopters picked him up in the morning.

Aside from the final mishap that ended his record attempt, Marshall had encountered several misadventures.

He was refused permission to land by Brazilian Air Force authorities before his trip even started, so he revised his route, skipping South America, and took off for Washington, D.C. on July 22.

He also survived a sandstorm on the way to Valencia, Spain, and was urged to avoid Pakistan by U.S. State Department officials.

Charge Filed In Shooting

Charges of assault with intent to commit murder have been filed in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court against Jessie Cuellar, 27, of 210 Walcot, Midland, in connection with a shooting incident Saturday night in Big Spring.

Cuellar was in Howard County jail this morning in lieu of $5,000 bond set by Slaughter. He was arrested Saturday night nine miles west of the city by Texas Highway Patrolmen.

Gregory Salazar, 33, of 209 NW 7th, was shot three times with a small caliber pistol, but was reported today to be in satisfactory condition at Cowper Clinic and Hospital.

Police officers searched a section of IS 20 West Sunday but they were unable to find a weapon.

"The shooting apparently developed from a domestic argument," said Detective Avery Falkner, investigating officer.

U.S. Dollar Dips In Paris

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar fell today to the lowest level on the Paris market since France set up the two-tier system and also dropped in Frankfurt. But in Zurich the dollar was up slightly.

The turnover was too small in European markets for any real trend. London markets were closed for the August bank holiday.

Dealers on the Tokyo market reported the dollar holding steady in quiet trading.

Trading opened slowly in Paris where banks quoted 5.34-5.35 financial francs to the dollar, down from 5.39-5.40 at the close Friday. Today's rate corresponded to a devaluation of about 3.8 per cent.

Dealers reported initial trade very quiet in Frankfurt, where the dollar opened at 3.3940 marks, down from Friday's closing price of 3.3970. Within the first hour, the dollar fell to 3.3925 marks but recovered somewhat to 3.3935.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 3.973-98 Swiss francs, up from 3.9625-3.9775 Friday. This amounted to a dollar devaluation of 2.2 per cent from Aug. 13 and 2.7 per cent from the previous official parity.

In Tokyo, the dollar held steady just above 341 yen. It closed at 341.60 in interbank dealings, a 5.1 per cent decline from its old value of 360 yen. During the day it traded as high as 341.70, but dealers estimated volume at less than $100 million.

Lt. Gen. Gordon M. Graham, commander of U.S. forces in Japan, ordered the temporary suspension of yen sales at U.S. military facilities in the country. He said the suspension would be lifted as soon as the monetary situation settled.

MISSION, Tex. (AP) — An irrigation canal carrying water from the Rio Grande to irrigation pumps collapsed Sunday, and 80 families were forced from their homes in a subdivision of this Lower Rio Grande Valley city.

A Mission Fire Department spokesman said no estimate on flooding damage would be forthcoming until late Monday morning.

The flooding was confined to the Leal addition of Mission, which has three 15 to 20 block-long streets. A fire department spokesman said there was up to eight feet of water in some places.

Several families chose to remain in their homes in areas where the water was not deep.

Charges of assault with intent to commit murder have been filed in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court against Jessie Cuellar, 27, of 210 Walcot, Midland, in connection with a shooting incident Saturday night in Big Spring.

Cuellar was in Howard County jail this morning in lieu of $5,000 bond set by Slaughter. He was arrested Saturday night nine miles west of the city by Texas Highway Patrolmen.

Gregory Salazar, 33, of 209 NW 7th, was shot three times with a small caliber pistol, but was reported today to be in satisfactory condition at Cowper Clinic and Hospital.

Police officers searched a section of IS 20 West Sunday but they were unable to find a weapon.

Accused Of Blowing Up Houston Radio Station

HOUSTON (AP) — A self-described Klansman, accused of blowing up a radio station here, goes on trial today in federal court charged with conspiring to blow up two stations of the same chain in California.

Jimmy Dale Hutto, 24, who says he is a member of the United Klans of America, will be tried before U.S. District Court Judge James Noel.

Hutto was arrested last January by FBI agents and charged with planning to blow up stations owned by the Pacifica Foundation in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

In June, a state grand jury indicted him and Louis R. Beam Jr., 24, another self-described Klansman, with bombing the Pacifica station here Oct. 6, 1970.

Hutto also is charged with violating federal firearms laws by carrying a handgun and with mental defectives from purchasing weapons.

The Pasadena, Tex., chemical workers and two other men were arrested last January by the FBI near Houston as they were allegedly driving to California.

FBI agents said the arrests were made on the basis of a tip for "a confidential informant." Agents said they found a gun and Ku Klux Klan literature in the car.

Hutto, unable to make $100,000 bail, has been in jail since his arrest. After being indicted, he underwent mental tests at a federal institution and was found fit to stand trial.

What Comes After 90 Days?

Phase II of the price-wage freeze is undefined. Attempts to define it are emerging with interesting developments.

Treasury Secretary Connally acknowledged the possibility of an extension beyond 90 days. Three veterans of past freezes were unanimous in their recommendation for setting up a bureaucracy to handle the details — even to phase out of the 90-day freeze. They spoke in terms of a corps of 5,000 persons.

The three — Paul Porter, Mike DiSalle and George Taylor — are skeptical that Americans will voluntarily discipline themselves in the national interest. Their skepticism is well founded. The loophole artists abound. Political opportunists, spearheaded by Texas' own Gov. Preston Smith, challenged the President and — in Smith's case — reluctantly retreated when he was persuaded the law is on the President's side.

Overwhelming public acceptance of the controls indicates most Americans are ready to tighten their belts in an attempt to make their dollars worth more. Raises too readily absorbed by prices were too similar to a treadmill to nowhere.

We are a greatly productive country but we violated basic laws of economics for much too long. Everybody agrees with that. Even AFL-CIO President George Meany would agree with that, even while he cries "discrimination." He and other critics of the freeze want interest rates frozen, too. They have a valid point for debate. The freeze tends to make money more valuable and the rent on it higher. What effect on credit demand there will be is debatable. Individual borrowers — not businesses with new tax credits almost certain soon — may need easier credit (lower interest) for awhile.

While it's early to talk of coming off the freeze, it is time to plan. An extension of the freeze will require more persuasion than the 90-day controls do. An extension virtually assures a bureaucracy to administer it. Unless the present freeze can indicate salutary results along about the three-quarter period, pressure will increase to do something more effective. People are past being weary of money whose value erodes between the payroll window and the corner grocery. And that's the stuff that loses elections.

He Bettered His State

The state of Texas and its journalism fraternity in particular lost a distinguished leader last week.

He was Walter Humphrey, long-time editor of the Temple Telegram and later the Fort Worth Press. He was recognized by his colleagues as a man of keen professional skill, unusual discernment and a wonderful quiet humor that enhanced his genuine interest in his fellowman.

Humphrey made a distinctive mark in two areas that might not be as unrelated as first appears. He was a real pioneer in Texas in soil conservation work, used his own talents and the prestige of his newspapers to point the way toward making the farms of this state more productive.

He also gave much personal attention to the recruiting and training of young novices in the newspaper business. He developed for the Texas Daily Newspaper Association an "intern" program, and saw to it that every budding young writer within his knowledge got fair attention, guidance and encouragement.

He thus was showing the way, a long time ago, to a better environment in the state, both in its natural and its human resources. This is an admirable contribution.

The Earth And Space

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

The most refreshing people I know are those with original ideas, who mutiny to break the mold of mundane living, who balk at going over the precipice with the other sheep.

I offer you the noted British historian and moralist, Arnold Toynbee, who suggests our moon adventure was, in reality, moon madness, that it may not only be a folly but a crime.

MR. TOYNBEE reminds that mankind is in the grips of a world economic plight, that only one-third of us are being adequately fed, that most of the bipeds who walk this earth are in sub-standard housing and a large percentage do not have ample raiment to put on their backs.

It makes a better story to shoot for a landing on the moon, however. Preparing for it insures the living standard of a lot of people not directly involved in the departure from Cape Kennedy, too.

THE COST of the Apollo project was said to be $24 billion, give or take a few million. Think of it as a $24 billion mortgage on your future, and that of your children and grandchildren, because that is what it amounts to.

Some of the most eminent astronomers have long predicted that man will never reach the stars. If you think he's already there, I might remind you that the moon hovers about the earth like a kitten that hasn't been weaned, that a star is something else again.

THE STUDENTS of space, who, no doubt, applauded as hard as the rest of us when our men stepped onto the lunar surface, nevertheless have insisted they see no future in the colonizing of the universe. The nearest star is no closer than three light years away.

We've satisfied our curiosity that the moon isn't made of cheese, that it is virtually without oxygen, that Dick Tracy's moon people do not live on its surface if we carried our own water, and wheat is what we need more of, that and the means to get it to people desperately in need of it.

CLIMBING A mountain because it is there is one thing. Exploring space because it is there is something else again. This is a prison in space we live on but it is a bountiful prison if we use its gifts as they should be used.

McGovern's View

Andrew Tully

(Andrew Tully is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by leading figures on the Washington governmental and political scene.)

By SEN. GEORGE MCGOVERN

Careful examination of the new economic game plan disclosed by President Nixon this month shows serious faults despite the fortunate presence of a few positive elements. The net impact of the program is likely to be a combination of short-run optimism — based on the apparent end of the Administration's do-nothing economic policy — and a real measure of grave economic injustice for many millions of Americans.

IT IS, OF course, reassuring that the President has finally responded to the overwhelming need for action to restore the American economy to health. He chose dramatic action in an attempt to cut inflation, reduce unemployment and bolster the international position of the dollar, but it remains to be seen, however, if the measures he has chosen are the right ones.

I believe that in most respects they will not work and that where they do achieve some degree of success, it will be at the expense of American working men and women, farmers and small businessmen while, at the same time, corporate giants reap huge profits.

NOW I HAVE long urged the Administration to take dramatic action to meet this nation's economic crisis and some believe that this is what the President has done. More dramatic and appropriate, however, would have been the announcement that the United States was totally ending its involvement in the Vietnam war by the end of this year. Coupled with this, the President could have declared a massive federal attack on the problems of housing, health, transportation and the environment which would have signaled a turn, finally, to the kind of new priorities spending so many in the nation want today.

THESE ANNOUNCEMENTS on a Sunday night during prime time would have had a positive effect on the stock market, would have allowed the international community to immediately place more faith in the dollar, would have been the first step in the immediate creation of 500,000 new jobs, and would have indicated, finally, that the President understands what the nation really needs.

Instead we got half-a-loaf from the President and a half-baked half-a-loaf at that.

HIS ANNOUNCEMENT of a wage-price freeze is a positive measure — in theory at least. I have long advocated a six-month selective freeze covering profits as well and am pleased that the President has at least taken the first step in that direction.

It seems clear, however, that the 90-day freeze will be inadequate and will have to be supplemented by either an extension or a mechanism for holding wages and prices in line — or both.

WHERE THE Administration went wrong, however, was in its futile attempt to extend the freeze to all parts of the economy when it should have been limited to those sectors having the greatest impact on the economy. A selective freeze of this type could have been administered successfully while the attempt to administer the Administration's across-the-board freeze is obviously doomed to failure, especially in light of the pitifully inadequate agency now given that job.

Sees A Better System Ahead

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Speculating on what may happen after the scheduled end of wage-price freeze Nov. 13, business, labor and even some Cabinet members are talking about either an extension or the imposition of another form of controls.

That need not be so, says Pierre Rinfret, an economist and business consultant who has advised President Nixon in the past and some of whose thoughts can be detected in the new game plan.

Rinfret's views were given after he read the somewhat critical comments of a fellow consultant, Elliot Janeway, who sees something "nutty" in the way the administration swung from hands off the economy to both feet in.

"First there's a clamp on government expenditures," he said. "Second, it returns money to the private sector." And when the wage-price freeze ends, he feels the soundness of the new approach will be demonstrated.

"It is erroneous to think it can only lead to controls," he said. "There are exciting possibilities."

"Such as?" he was asked, and he suggested a script that he said not only was possible but which may very well be involved in administration thinking.

"The wage-price freeze is merely a time-buying device," he said, restating the obvious. "You have to see how a freeze works and what the economy looks like with a freeze in order to know what to do next."

During this time, Rinfret suggests that both labor and business might be re-enlightened about the basic beauties of the American economic system, a possibility that he related in question form:

"What will be the attitude of American labor as it undergoes the delightful experience of seeing its money buying more goods? What will happen to American industry when it learns that profits can rise while labor costs remain stable?"

He feels, in other words, that in the next 11 weeks labor will be reminded that stability can mean greater buying power. And business will learn that it need not constantly raise prices in order to be sure of profits.

"But," he was asked, "will 90 days be enough time?" Rinfret didn't answer. He was in the midst of his plan and was carefully laying it out.

"Assume the modest experience of higher volume, better profits and greater productivity resulting from the freeze," he said. "In that case it would be eminently fair to allow labor a 4 per cent wage increase."

Greater productivity, he reminded his listener, means more money for all to share, management in the form of profits and labor in the form of higher wages. And because of production efficiencies, neither would be inflationary.

Social Aides

Omar Burleson

By ANN BLACKMAN (Substituting for Omar Burleson)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should a guest at the White House suddenly feel faint, someone will quickly step to his side and help him to a chair.

Should an unescorted woman be left looking like a wallflower, someone will swirl her around the dance floor.

Should a guest get a bit too much into the spirit of things at a White House function, you can bet that someone will get him a cab, and see that he gets into it.

THESE ARE among official duties which fall to the White House social aides, 36 military officers, all young and single, stationed in the Washington area.

The detail is extra duty, but there's no shortage of candidates, even though the job carries no pay, and entails additional expenses.

Still the job is not without its compensations. The main lure, say former social aides, is the chance to mingle among the great and near-great at White House functions. And, while this administration no longer can offer any such incentive, there's always the case of Chuck Robb, who got into the White House as a social aide and departed as the husband of Lynda Bird Johnson.

SOCIAL AIDES are nominated by their respective services. Requirements include an impeccable military record, poise and personality. Those who pass these tests get a final screening by the White House social secretary. Although the aides' role is purely a social one, the White House carefully guards their identities. No names are released, no interviews permitted.

However, half a dozen former aides willingly related details and anecdotes of their White House experiences, although only one of them would permit use of his name.

"There are remarkable differences between the administrations," said Navy Capt. George Watkins, a social aide during the Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon administrations.

"THE KENNEDYS were very personable in the sense they would talk with us," Watkins said. "We didn't get that attention under the Johnsons, but the Kennedy social events were a lot stiffer. They had a lot of white-tie functions, there wasn't much consuming of alcoholic beverages, and parties didn't last past 11:30 at night. Under Johnson, we were like guests and had some damn good times."

Another officer who had the White House duty under the last three administrations said the Nixoners are friendlier to the social aides.

"President and Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Johnson were very nice to us," he said, "but LBJ didn't show a lot of affection to anyone. He was a tremendous leader and got maximum work out of everyone. But the Nixoners are the friendliest of any of the other first families."

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

This is known as "the longitis season" among politicians. No matter how loud they shout their promises, it is almost impossible for them to woo the American male's attention away from the pro football games. What the great game of politics needs now is a more inspiring quarterback.

Speaking of weddings, my idea of a bridegroom with savoir faire is one who can borrow money from the minister during the ceremony.

Most people believe that the best way to win over a growling, suspicious dog is to slowly hold out a hand, palm out, toward it at a level below the dog's head. Some experts contend, however, that the hand should be extended palm downward so the dog will recognize that it cannot clutch at him.

What is a good meal? A good meal is one during which at least two kinds of wine are poured and which is eaten by at least two persons in love with one another.

What is a good day? A good day is one which finds you at bedtime faintly puzzled because you haven't thought of a reason in 24 hours for reaching for a stomach pill or aspirin tablet. But a fellow doesn't get days like that very often anymore.

The honeymoon is over when a guy on a business trip opens his suitcase and finds his wife has stuffed an overdue bill in one of his socks instead of a love note.

My Answer

Billy Graham

About 32 years ago I swore in court to a lie, and caused two children to lie in court also. I had switched a little boy in school with a switch much too large for a little boy, and I swore in court that the switch presented for evidence was not the one I used, I would like to make amends, at this late date, but I don't know how. Please help me.

It is good that you want to right this wrong, even at this late date. If any of the people concerned are living, and I presume that some of them are, either go to them in person, or write them a letter and say you are sorry for your perjured testimony. You say you have since been converted to Christ. I would make it clear that it is Christ in your heart who has prompted you to confess your wrongdoing.

Your letter points up the anguish of unconfessed sin, and should be a warning and help to others. When the Bible tells us to confess our sins, it is putting forth a spiritual law which also has sound psychological basis. Past sin, harbored in the heart can create strong gut feelings which can hamper our mental and spiritual health. Sin like cancer, is better dealt with when it is removed and brought out into the open.

You say that God has forgiven you. Now, give others a chance to forgive you, and above all forgive yourself. You will find great relief when you shift this burden from yourself to a forgiving, loving God.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Jesus made up his mind and set out on his way to Jerusalem. (Luke 9:51, TEV)

PRAYER: O God, we rededicate ourselves to You and to Christ, who redeems us. Perfect us in love and guide us in work You would have us do. Amen.

West Texas Women Named For Awards By Economists

Two West Texas women will be honored by the National Association of Extension Home Economists during award presentations at its annual meeting Sept. 25-Oct. 1 in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Mary A. Scott, Winkler County home demonstration agent, has been named to receive the highest award given by the association, the Distinguished Service Award for 1971. She is one of five Texans selected for the award; the others being Mrs. Jewel Robinson, Hockley County; Mrs. Dorothy Ives, Orange County; Miss Margaret Guy, Dallas County; and Mrs. Fay Roe, Cooke County.

The Florence Hall Award, also presented during the convention, will go to Mrs. Mildred Crump, Dawson County home demonstration agent. She is one of eight agents in the nation selected for the award. The $200 grant is given for "creative and original development of an adult Extension home economics program," according to Miss Pauline McWilliams, Midland County home demonstration agent and chairman of the County Home Demonstration Agents' Association of Texas awards committee. Mrs. Crump was nominated by the state association.

Mrs. Crump is cited particularly for her work in a county beautification and home improvement program. Called STEP (Steps to Encourage Pride), the plan involved neighborhood groups and various community agencies in county-wide cleanup projects such as old car and appliance round-ups, vacant structure removals, "yard of the month" awards and an anti-litter campaign.

Mrs. Crump received a BS degree in home economics from Texas Tech University. She has also done graduate work at Tech.

Active in professional and community groups, she is a member of the Texas and American Home Economics Associations, the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, and the American Association of University Women. She is also a member of the County Home Demonstration Agents' Association of Texas, currently serving as district chairman for professional improvement.

In addition to her Extension employment, Mrs. Crump has been district supervisor of the Work Projects Administration for school lunch programs, headquartered Lubbock; and a child welfare worker with the State Department of Public Welfare.

Mrs. Scott was nominated for her award by the county association, and approved by the national group, according to Miss McWilliams, who is also chairman of the state association's Distinguished Service Awards committee.

Winners of the top award have shown their abilities as leaders, organizers and educators in both 4-H and adult Extension work, Miss McWilliams continued.

Mrs. Scott has more than 12 years Extension work to her credit, having been home demonstration agent in Childress County for nine years before moving to her present position in Winkler County. She received a BS degree in home demonstration work from Texas Woman's University. She has been particularly active in work with young, mobile homemakers. In cooperation with the Family Living Committee, she conducted a series of programs entitled "Food for Young Families" teaching nutrition, food buying and preparation.

In addition to her Extension employment, Mrs. Scott has been assistant home supervisor of the Greenville Farmers Home Administration and home supervisor of the Cleburne FHA. A long-time member of the National Association of Extension Home Economists, she has also served as district director and district chairman of the research, recruitment and publicity committees in the state organization. She is a member of the American and Texas Home Economics Associations.

Tea Marks Start Of BSP Year

The "Beginning Day" tea for Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi was held Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edward Cole, 2700 Carol. The tea marked the beginning of the new club year for the chapter. Regular meetings will be held the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Mrs. John Knoepfel presided, and committee chairmen reviewed scheduled projects for the year. The chapter plans a garage sale Sept. 11, the time and location to be announced. A luau is scheduled at 8 p.m., Sept. 25 at the Webb Air Force Base pavilion. Husbands and rushees will be invited to attend.

Guests at the tea were members of the Nu Phi Mu Chapter, BSP. Refreshments were served from a table centered with a styrofoam arrangement depicting the chapter's theme, "Life Begins At Forty," honoring the fortieth year of the sorority.

Fall Styles Show Plaids, Mufflers

Fashion will have a fling this autumn, not only with the plaids, but with the long fling about wool mufflers and the giant-sized squares that convert to huge shoulder-flung stoles.

The mufflers, frequently with their own matching headgear in the form of tams, floppy brims, helmets and watch caps, are meant to start the season tossed over jacket and pant or skirt marriages, carry on in colder weather as throat wrappers over coats.

Crocheted in lacy weaves knit in multi-colored stripes and in tweeds or tartan-patterned, these mufflers are always deeply fringed, come in enough colors to coordinate.

A LOVELIER YOU Relieve Flaky Skin With Terry Towels

By MARY SUE MILLER

Some of the best things in the beauty department are free, or nearly so. With nothing more than a large terry towel and a little elbow effort, it is possible to relieve a dull, flakey look of the over-all complexion. The ailment is not uncommon at this date, when the effects of heat and sun become fully evident.

Interested? Then wield your towel this way for five minutes daily after bathing and, please note, there's a firming as well as a smoothing action:

Grasp towel behind shoulders and briskly pull from far side to far side, covering length of back. Hips especially! Next work down back holding towel on long slant — right shoulder to left hip; reverse slant and move upward.

Now rest one foot on low stool, cradle thigh in towel and, with short tugs, cover leg to ankle. Then sling towel under foot and draw it back and forth until sole tingles. Similarly towel other leg.

By using slant-towel motion cover front of body, ankles upward. Finish by massaging arms with rotary motion of towel from wrist to shoulders. Results get a nudge if you use an oil or moisture-rich bath product: if you follow up with applications of body lotion. Make a habit of the entire routine. It will play no small part in maintaining smooth, glowing skin.

STRICTLY PERSONAL Everything you need to know about deodorants, antiperspirants and depilatories is contained in my leaflet, "Strictly Personal." All doubts are cleared up about why, what, when and how to use these safeguards of femininity. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Club Hosts Buffet At Lake Home

The Mary Jane Club of Coahoma began their fall season Friday with an annual meeting of members and their families at the lake home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Choate.

Approximately 60 persons, who were served an informal buffet dinner, were seated in an area overlooking Signal Mountain and Moss Creek Lake. The buffet table was covered with an orange cloth and centered with a crystal bowl filled with oranges.

The regular club meetings will begin Sept. 2 in the home of Mrs. Bobby Roman of Coahoma.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

I was visiting my neighbor Doris Maynard this morning, and would you believe that she was baking meringue pie shells like I have never seen before? And I mean never. (I've wasted more eggs than you can shake a stick at, trying to make these shells.) Well, she showed me her secret from start to finish and here 'tis:

Take four egg whites and let them sit in your mixing bowl until they reach room temperature. Then beat them at full speed until stiff and dry and they stand up in peaks. She says you cannot overbeat them!

SLOWLY add one cup of sugar — beating all the while — and then add one teaspoon of vanilla and one teaspoon of white vinegar and beat again until extremely dry and stiff.

Using the BACK (that's upside down, so listen and heed her word) or her UNGREASED aluminum cookie sheet (you can also use the bottom of a pizza pan, etc), she plopped this angel stuff in six great globes. Don't put them too close together. They grow to over twice their size when cooked.

She then took a spoon and made little "wells" (or holes) in the center of each to hold the upcoming goodies, and baked them on the MIDDLE shelf of her oven at ONLY 250 degrees F. for about an hour or until a pinkish beige color. This will not look anything like meringue on a pie. The tips don't get darker.

Now the top secret: Before removing them from the oven, using your finger, gently touch the bottom of each "well." Be sure it's NOT sticky. If any wells are, they need more baking.

Using a metal spatula, she carefully scoops them off the cookie sheet, the MINUTE they come out of the oven, onto either a piece of waxed paper or directly onto the dessert plates themselves.

She very carefully explained that if you let these set even a few seconds while you answer that phone they will break. "This true, I didn't believe it but made her waste one so I could try. Don't waste your egg whites and energy, gals, just take my word for it. These shells are very fragile, folks, so handle them with tender loving care.

They might have tiny cracks but the fruit hides that! I promise you, they won't ever weep; not even tomorrow will they cry!

Doris fills the shells with strawberries and tops each one with whipped cream, or, when strawberries are out of season, she fills them with canned or fresh peaches.

You know, sometimes people give you these recipes, but you come home and do them in your own oven and they don't work. Take no offense, Doris, my love, but I tried it in our own oven right after I left your house. I thought perhaps I couldn't do it as easily as you. I envy people like you who do everything with ease.

I filled my shells with a few spoonfuls of chocolate pudding, a dip of vanilla ice cream and another dab of BORDO (yeah, I use it) "choc pud."

I think these goodies would also be wonderful filled with a mixture of sliced bananas and that boxed inexpensive dessert topping. Could even let a bit of vanilla ice cream partially melt, and stir in the bananas or peaches.

Her husband Jack snatches a plain shell every once in a while and says they are great just plain.

So on my second batch, I took Jack's word for it and made the "boats" smaller, just made tiny blobs like drop cookies.

Bakes in a shorter time, but he's got the right idea... 'swonderful!!! Thanks oodles for the recipe and the cup of coffee, 'ol dear. I'm sure all our friends will love you, too, and wish they could have seen you whip up this truly elegant dish. Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: Here is a tried and tested recipe for all new brides: To one cup of his "demands," use three tablespoons of "yes, dear!" You'll find the recipe is most rewarding... J.J.

This column is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Correction For Cake Recipe

The Applesauce Cake recipe which appeared in Thursday's Herald with an article about Mrs. Jerry Snodgrass should have read 1/2 cup shortening rather than 4 cups shortening. The complete recipe follows.

APPLESAUCE CAKE
2 1/2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 1/2 tsps. salt
1/4 tsp. baking powder
3/4 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. cloves
1/2 tsp. allspice
1 1/2 cups canned applesauce
1/2 cup water
2 eggs
1 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 1/2 tsp. baking soda
Blend all ingredients with electric mixer for one-half minute at low speed, scraping bowl constantly; then for three minutes at high speed, scraping bowl occasionally. Pour into a greased and floured pan and bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 55 minutes. Cool and frost.

Waitress Gripes

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In regard to that "Independent Widow" who likes separate checks: I'm a waitress, and can you imagine a party of 12 wanting separate checks? All that writing! And getting the right check to the right person, then taking 12 checks and the money to the cashier and trying to get the correct change back to the right person. Meanwhile the other customers are wondering why their service is so slow.

And while I'm writing, I'd like to mention that people are getting very conservative about tipping. We would be happy with a straight 10 per cent. I get $1.30 an hour, but my take-home is about $1 because I have to tip the bus boys and bartenders myself.

Most people don't realize many waitresses are the heads of their families and have children to support.

A WAITRESS IN CYPRESS, CAL.

DEAR WAITRESS: I know your story well. My late beloved father was not a "rich" man, but he was rich in character and compassion. He always left a quarter tip for a 11-cent cup of coffee. I once said, "Daddy, isn't that an awful lot?"

He replied, "Not for a waitress. They're nice, hard-working girls who have one of the toughest jobs in the world."

DEAR ABBY: I bet my brother I could get at least one phony letter into your column. The bet is over now and I lost. What bugs me is that I sent in at least 10 very believable letters and not one of them got printed.

Now will you please tell me how you can tell the real letters from the fake ones? CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: It's easy. The fake letters strive too hard for believability, and the most unbelievable ones are real.

DEAR ABBY: For the last two years I have been going with a widower I'll call "Mac." (I'm a divorcee). Mac's wife died four years ago after they had been married 30 years. Mac lives alone in a lovely big home. Recently his deceased wife's sister came to town with a lady friend. Both these women are unmarried. These ladies stayed at Mac's home for a whole week!

I told Mac I didn't think it looked right for a single man to have two single women staying with him. He said I had an "evil" mind.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Gas Poisoning

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last winter our four youngsters were overcome with carbon monoxide from a central gas heater in our house.

They were in real bad shape but seemed to get over it all right except our 11-year-old girl. She has been losing color, getting rings under her eyes, has headaches and burning eyes. She says she just hasn't felt good since then. She gets sick all the time but she was never sick before.

I consulted one doctor and he said the blood cells can be destroyed for six months to a year before improving. My question is, can this harm her for the rest of her life? — Mrs. M.R.

Ordinarily recovery from monoxide poisoning is complete — you get over it, or you don't survive at all.

The poison works by combining with the hemoglobin of red cells of the blood, so these cells cannot carry the oxygen that the body (including the brain) needs.

Severe monoxide poisoning can affect the nervous system, and particularly the brain, but such a degree usually is fatal.

Otherwise the patient recovers gradually since, in any event, red blood cells are discarded and replaced by new ones every 30 to 60 days.

Whether, months later, any brain damage could account for your daughter's headaches and general unsatisfactory health, I cannot say. Blood studies and an electroencephalogram (brain wave study) can give information in this respect. Personally I would want such tests done.

But I must also suggest the possibility that the monoxide episode may merely have been the added strain that touched off whatever other trouble was brewing.

Meantime keep in mind that you were fortunate to have brought all four through that poisoning. When a person is knocked out by monoxide, death is only minutes away.

Monoxide has no distinctive odor. In fact, it has neither odor nor color. The only protection against it is adequate ventilation, and care to see that heaters, no matter what fuel they use, are properly vented.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is electrolysis safe and how does one find out a reputable place to go for this? — What about the System advertised downtown? — Mrs. E.M.S.

Yes, electrolysis is a safe method of destroying hair roots and thus removing unwanted hair, but it should be done by an expert. Trained experts have the title R. E. (registered electrologist). Your regular doctor probably can refer you to one; if not, phone book and other business directories list them.

I'm not familiar with the particular system you mention, so cannot comment on it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 56 and have been going through menopause for three years. I have never had hot flashes but have a terrific burning of the tongue. Sometimes it feels as if my tongue were full of tiny cuts.

I have had a hemoglobin test and urinalysis. Would burning tongue warrant more extensive tests? — J.M.

Yes, I would say so. A burning tongue would warrant a complete blood count to look for pernicious anemia. The burning also might be due to a vitamin deficiency. Or allergy to denture or toothpaste material. Possibly the menopause.

Death Toll Below Normal Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

Violent deaths in Texas over the last weekend of August were held below normal although traffic accidents, as usual, accounted for the majority of deaths.

The Associated Press began its regular weekend tabulation at 6 p.m. Friday and continued the count until midnight Sunday.

The death toll by midnight Sunday stood at 19 dead with 12 killed in traffic and four others shot to death. Miscellaneous incidents accounted for the remainder.

Killed when two cars crashed head-on on U.S. 77 about two miles south of LaGrange were Alupe Martinez, 24, of Burleson; her 18-month-old son Victor Martinez, and Maria de Montemayor, 62, of Monterrey, Mexico. Baustino Jasso, 53, was the most critically injured of six persons hospitalized at LaGrange. Four others were reported in serious condition.

Jeff Milburn, 17, of Austin was killed Sunday and a companion injured when their car and an M-K-T freight collided at a Texas 95 crossing in Smithville.

A horse wandered onto a traffic lane on a street in Fort Worth's east side Saturday night and was blamed for a blazing collision that killed three persons.

Three other persons suffered critical injuries in the crash.

The dead were identified as Guadalupe Gutierrez, 26, of San Antonio; Wylie Drummond Jr., 58, of Arlington, and Mrs. Josejina Hirschel, 40, of Daly City, Calif. Mrs. Hirschel's husband was one of those critically injured.

Investigators said the collision occurred when one of the vehicles tried to miss a horse that had wandered onto a highway. The collision ruptured the truck's gasoline tank, spewing flames over the truck driver, Gutierrez, and the smashed automobile.

Freeze Blocks Insurance Firm

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Blue Cross-Blue Shield, blocked in its plan to raise rates Sept. 1, announced Friday no new individual health insurance policies will be sold until the wage-price freeze is lifted.

Ross Robinson, Oklahoma City Blue Cross-Blue Shield manager, said expenses of the organization have exceeded membership fees. He said the organization had only two choices—raise rates or suspend issuance of new policies.

Robinson said the suspension will have no effect on expansion of group policy coverage or on individual policies now in effect.

Couple Arrested On Kidnap Counts

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A Missouri man and a San Francisco woman were to appear today before a federal magistrate on charges of kidnaping and flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

The FBI said federal agents arrested Saturday night without incident Kenneth Parnell Rose, 25, of Eureka, Mo., and Wendy Holzwarth, 22, at a motel.

The two had been sought since Aug. 10 when the bodies of a couple were found at the couple's home near Cedar Hill, Mo., south of St. Louis.

A Sellersville, Pa., man, Raymond E. Webb, 27, was arrested Aug. 18, at Doylestown, Pa., in connection with an abduction near there and later also charged in the slayings of William Redden, 30, and his wife Joyce, 22, near Cedar Hill.

Webb, Rose and the Holzwarth woman are charged with kidnaping Donald Rowlands, 29, of Tamaqua, Pa., in Pennsylvania on Aug. 6.

The car of Rowlands was found at the Reddens home in Missouri and the Reddens car later found abandoned near Trenton, N.J.

The FBI revealed no information on how Rose and the Holzwarth woman were traced to Palo Alto.

MIGHT TEACH Janitor Gains Four Degrees

DETROIT (AP) — Thirty-one years ago Elmer Fischer started work at Wayne State University as a janitor. Next July, when he is 65, he will be leaving with four academic degrees, his mops and pails far behind him.

"I might go teach sculpture in some small Negro college in the South," he said, "or I could open my own studio . . ."

" . . . Or I might just find some nice small town that needs a funeral director," Fischer said with a grin. "I might do just that."

In December, he will receive a master's degree in fine arts. Fischer, married and the father of an adult son, has already earned bachelors degrees in history, mortuary science and sculpting.

RECALLS LAYOFFS

It all started in 1940 when he left his job as an ironworker for Ford Motor Co.

"I was living in a flat," he recalled Sunday, "and I would say it was very ordinary. I didn't have too much of anything. You had to watch your money in those days."

Because of frequent layoffs, Fischer only worked about five months a year. So when a friend went to apply for a job as a school janitor, he went along.

His partner on the janitorial job was Lloyd Richards, a graduate student earning his tuition.

"Well, Richards, he talked me into starting classes," Fischer said. "So when he and I were done cleaning the halls, we'd take a free shower in the men's locker room, change, and go to class."

WON'T FORGET

"First class I took was English composition. I never will forget it. I was 33 years old and started right at the bottom."

By 1953, Fischer had his bachelors degree in history, but he was still a janitor. He was plagued by his memory of the Great Depression he said, and did not want to give up a secure job.

Subsequently, Fischer was transferred to a janitorial job with the school's mortuary science department, began taking courses in science, embalming and restoration.

By the time he earned his mortuary degree, Fischer had become the department's laboratory supervisor and was helping to teach chemistry and bacteriology.

JUST NOT SURE

He could have gone out on his own as a funeral director then but he was still haunted by the depression.

In addition, the man who taught Fischer restoration — making bodies look better — convinced him he had a great talent for sculpture.

So he stayed at the university and enrolled in fine arts classes, earning a bachelors and, next December, a masters degree.

And in July, Fischer will be able to retire with a pension — just the security he says he needs to leave the university.

But, with all his degrees, he's just not sure which way he's going to go.

He will continue to Washington that evening.
