Students Might Get Choice

A directive from state headquarters of the Selective Service received by Terrell Williams this week, stated that college students might have the right to enlist in the service of their choice during the last month of the college year. Mr. Williams, member of the local draft board, was advised as follows:

"Quoted herewith for your information is a joint release of the Department of Defense and the Director of Selective Service.

"The Congress is currently considering legislation affecting future military and Selective Service policy which if enacted as now written, should entail the reopening of the classifications of many students. In the light of this fact, the Department of Defense and the Selective Service System took two actions today to make effective the new basic policy for voluntary enlistment in the Armed Forces by college students.

"The Secretary of Defense, General Marshall, issued orders officially rescinding, in the case of college students, the interservice agreement of August 9, 1948, under which no armed service would accept a voluntary enlistment after a man had received notice to report for his pre-induction physical examination.

"Simultaneously, the Director of Selective Service, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, announced that he would reopen, in the last month of the college year, the classification of all students who were ordered to report for induction during the year, but whose induction was postponed under section 6 (1) (2) of the Selective Service Act of 1948, as amended, and who desire to volunteer by enlistment in a service of their choice. General Hershey stated that the act of reopening these classifications would require the cancellation of any order to report for induction which might have been issued and therefore automatically renew the right of these students to enlist in the service of their choice. To the extent of available openings, as in the past, each service would accept enlistments only to the extent that places were open for those who desired to enlist.

"This implementation of the basic policy announced January 19th will make it possible for those already ordered for induction, as well as those who may be ordered during the balance of the college year, to select their service at the time their classifications are reopened in the final month of the academic year, provided the service is able to take them. This policy is designed to implement the intent of Congress to encourage students to continue college to the end of their academic year and, at the same time, preserve their right to indicate the service in which they wish to serve.

General Hershey, in announcing his intention to reopen such cases and thus reinstate the right to enlist at that time, emphasized that no change in the obligation of students to serve was contemplated. He further pointed out that procedures for accomplishing reopening of classifications would be announced later.

"Students will not have to select their service in the two months immediately preceding the final month of the academic year, as previously announced.

Signed, Hershey, Director of Selective Service, Washington."

Callahan county boys who reported to the draft board in Abilene on January 26th, left the next day for Camp Chaffee, Ark.

A report from there this week stated that they were receiving their shots and clothing, and before the week ended would be sent to some other camp for training.

Those from Baird were Beth H. Freeland, Jr., Dewey E. Hinkle, Hugh E. Shrader, Jack M. Hunter, Charlie S. Freeman, and James H. Webster.

Reporting from Clyde were John W. Allen, Clois W. Versyp, Bobby F. Estes.

From Cross Plains were Arvil C. Joy, Hillary E. Brown, Calvin N. Tankersley, Richard R. Grider and James H. Garrett.

Stabilization Edict Put In A Nutshell

The government's new stabilization order at a glance:

It freezes all wages as of midnight last Thursday, and almost all prices at their highest levels during the period from last Dec. 15 to Jan. 25.

It is applicable immediately. It is designed to hold back rising prices and wages while government officials work out ceiling formulas aimed at staving off dangerous inflation.

For prices, it specifically prohibits buying or selling "in the regular course of business or trade" any commodity or service at a price higher than that charged during the Dec. 15 - Jan. 25 period — "regardless of and contract or other obligation."

For wages, it prohibits paying or receiving of wages higher than those in effect last Thursday. New employees must be paid no more than the Jan. 25 rate for the "jobs for which they were hired." Overtime, vacation, and holiday pay, pensions, benefits, etc., also must be held at the level in effect Jan. 25.

However, the wage regulation allows for appeals and the price order lists numerous exceptions and exemptions — especially of agricultural products sold on the farm.

Both were apparently drawn up with an eye to future adjustment — either up or down as conditions dictate.

Violations are punishable by fines up to $10,000, one year in prison, or both.

CLYDE MAN IN CHARGE OF MARINE RECRUITS

Pfc. Carl Allen Taylor of Clyde was placed in charge of the 172 Marine recruits of the North Texas special Marine group while they were entrained for San Diego, Major E. L. Bale, commanding officer of the Dallas district reported.

In a letter to M-Sgt. W. E. Norton, Abilene Marine recruiter, Bale told of the appointment of Taylor, 25, who is a veteran of four years Navy service and three years in the Air Force.

The specially recruited group, who will receive their boot leaves at the same time, arrived in San Diego Monday.

Abilene men in the group included Eugene Newland Nichols, James Carrol Smith, Cecil Eugene McFarland, and Robert Henry Henshaw.

$5,000 Cash Prize and Gold Medal For Distinguished Texan Who Has Done Most for Texas Rural Life

RENNER, TEXAS — Organization of committees is being perfected throughout the state by the Texas Research Foundation, which will result in the award next spring of a $5,000 cash prize and gold medal to some Texan who has distinguished himself in the agricultural field.

The presentation will consist of the Hoblitzelle Achievement Award for the advancement of Texas Rural Life, which will go to the citizen of Texas who has done the most to improve rural life during the past two years.

A State-Wide Committee and five Regional Committees are being set up to begin, in the near future, the intensive canvass of agricultural achievements of this type throughout every county and community of Texas. Dr. C. L. Lundell, Director of the Texas Research Foundation at Renner, near Dallas, announced Saturday.

Terms of the Award specify that the contributions considered for this award and medal must be in fields other than scientific, and they must have been achieved during the two-

Feeding Study At Clyde Monday

A. G. Black, manager of the Callahan County Farmers Co-op, advised The Star today that a meeting will be held at the co-op building in Clyde at 7:30 p. m., Monday February 5, to study better methods of feeding cattle. Everyone interested in feeding cattle is invited to attend this meeting.

C. R. Fry, of Ralston Purina Company, will show a film on cattle feeding, as well as some feeding charts as a phase of the study.

After showing the film, there will be a round table discussion of the subject when everyone will be asked to present their views on any particular feeding problem. The meeting will last about two hours and promises to be well attended. "Cake and coffee will be served," Mr. Black stated, "if the ladies will bring the cake."

The cattle feeding meeting is another feature conducted by the farmers co-op to assist farmers in this county in improving their business methods. The meetings are not confined to the membership, and the general public is invited. The officers of the co-operative believe that business people and farmers alike will benefit from these programs, and all working together, business in general in our county can be improved.

'Just Round About

As we walked up and down the street . . . John Shrader braved the snow and ice to come down town in the interest of the magazine subscription campaign now being made by the grammar school. This is an annual drive, Mr. Shrader said, whereby the school makes some needed money. He further stated that there is no need for Baird people to order their national magazines from traveling salesmen. They can trade at home, with the local agents or patronize the annual school campaign and help the folks at home. The drive is extended until February 9th. The school gets from 30 to 50 per cent of the subscription price. The boy and girl taking the most subscriptions will receive $45 watches. If local people order their magazines through the school or some local agent, they are sure to receive them. Ordering from a traveling salesman, even though it be a prissy, sweet talking she, there's no guarantee . . . Rev. A. A. Davis was stepping high to keep out of the snow drifts . . . There was no mistake about which way the wind was coming from. When the mercury drops to 0 like it did last night, it's cold in Baird. This weather has not been seen here in years. Last year we almost by-passed winter, and it looked like we would do it again, but now it's coming all wrapped up in one crisp package. When we stepped outside this morning we thought we were stepping into Ray Black's frozen food locker plant . . . Oscar Stiffler walked across the street in his shirt sleeves . . . Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rockey were on their way up the street for the nearest coffee counter. Just back from a 10-day trip to Mexico City, the Rockeys were telling of their trip by Ford car over the high mountain highway to the Mexican city. They enjoyed the scenery and hospitality that only ~~is~~ ^{is} found in the land of Manana can give. Leaving Laredo the straight smooth highway gives one a feeling that he is leaving civilization, and the Monterrey Mountains, far ahead lend mystery to the trip. It is not until the Mexico visitor reaches Tamazunchale and starts the 20 mile climb up one mountain that he gets the real meaning of traveling in Mexico. The giant pine trees and snow-capped peaks make it a delightful trip. In Mexico City, they said, the climate was perfectly wonderful. The statuary, the national museum, the plazas, cathedrals, Chapultepec Castle and national park, the pyramids, and many other interesting scenes. Just one regret, reported Mrs. Rockey, the trip ended too soon . . . Frank Koneczak and his daughter Jeanne were over from Clyde. Miss Jeanne is leaving today for Charleston, South Carolina, making the trip by air. She will meet her sister, Mrs. Johnny Munson, and the two will return by car. Mrs. Munson will remain at Clyde while her husband, a Marine, is in service . . . Mr. and Mrs. Buford Tyson and son, John Rylee, accompanied by Charles Bairon and Rob Roberson, were on their way to the Tyson farm near Cottonwood to kill hogs. Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Whitehorn of Cross Plains and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shelton of Cottonwood joined them for a hog-killing good time.

1,700 Poll Taxes Expected in Co.

Due to the rush at the tax collector's office here on the 31, Deputy Collector Tee Bauch did not have the total number of poll taxes paid, but expected the figure to be around 1,700. This is unusually good for an off-election year. The number of exemptions will make the total climb even higher.

There were 2300 poll taxes paid last year, but that was caused by the interesting campaign year. Although there will be some elections such as city, school, etc., to be held this year, no campaigns were brewing to cause property owners to pay their poll tax. Many who did not pay their poll tax, however, might wish they had before the year ends. While there is no contests in any of the 1951 elections showing at present, these political tides can turn pretty fast at times. Interest in the city and school elections in April so far has been slight and continues to so be as the last filing date for candidates draws nearer.

"ICELANDIA" TO SHOW AT ROSE FIELD HOUSE FEB. 9-10

ABILENE — A big-time musical ice show "Iceandia" will be presented in Abilene for three performances Friday and Saturday, February 9 - 10.

Featuring a company of more than 30 professional ice skaters, the musical "stage show on ice" is returning to Abilene for the second time under sponsorship of the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboy Club.

"Iceandia" will be staged in Rose Field House at Hardin-Simmons University.

The show has its own portable ice rink, measuring 30 by 40 feet, complete with its own compressors, brine coolers, 27-ton trailer and tractor, stage settings and personnel.

It is the only completely self-contained traveling ice show in America, and is able to reach communities never before visited by shows of the kind, and in parts of the country where ice skating is something you read about.

Included in the cast of entertainers are Marie Purviance, a veteran of ice ballet; Buff McCusker, one of America's leading male skaters and at one time Sonja Henle's skating partner in the movies.

Also featured are Dot McCusker, leading comedienne of ice-dome and former performer in "Icecapades" and "Ice Follies"; Joanne McCusker, formerly of "Ice Follies," and speedy Jim McCusker, youngest of the skating family, who specialized in figure skating on 15-inch blades.

The Achievement Award is one of three, all carrying a cash sum of $5,000 and gold medals to the winners, created by Mr. Hoblitzelle.

The Hoblitzelle National Award in Agricultural Sciences will go to the person making the greatest scientific agricultural contribution in the U. S. during the past two years. This announcement and presentation will also be made at the forthcoming Renner Open House in May.

The Hoblitzelle State Award in Agricultural Sciences, which rewards the most outstanding scientific agricultural contribution made by a Texan within Texas during the preceding two years, will be effective first in 1952.

Baird's Opportunity For Development

While business in general is slowing down throughout this area due to the continued drought, Baird's long-hoped-for opportunity might be knocking at the door. A number of army camps in this west-central Texas area are going to be re-activated. At present the camps are occupied by numerous small industries that will be forced to seek new locations. This might be Baird's cue to obtain a number of these businesses.

Callahan County Club has established an industrialization committee to work on such projects as this, and in the near future some of these manufacturers will be invited to consider Baird as a location.

Before Baird can attract these businesses, which include shirt factories, pants factories, and the like, the manufacturers must be given quite a lot of information about our town and county. Among questions that will be answered is "How is your water supply? How much available labor do you have? Type of local people available to work." And there will be numerous other questions as to climatic conditions, taxes, citizenship, farm crops, and the like. To answer these questions will require a complete survey and a study of our area. As such a study is made there will be many benefits come to light that we would never dream about otherwise. It always pays to check-up on our assets, and each time we do we can see hidden treasures that have been overlooked for years.

There are many Baird people who would desire employment in some of these factories. We have quite a number of high class people, both men and women, who are not working at the present time because there is no industry here that can employ them. Several small factories would be much better for our town than one giant industry. The requirements are much less, and usually the small businesses are manned by a higher type personnel — people living right here at home.

A number of small industries would make Baird a better town in several ways. Usually such businesses are not affected by droughts as farming and ranching is. The payroll would be a fine thing for the town.

Baird has everything the small industrialists are looking for. We have water, transportation facilities with routes running east and west and north and south, climatic conditions, the type people they want, and all. The thing we must do now is to tell them what we have. They won't come to Baird if they never hear about us and our wonderful assets. This is Baird's opportunity for growth.

Darrell Young, Baird Star employee, is making this survey, gathering material to go into the directory. It is his last assignment before he enters service in the armed forces, for which he has already received his call. We do not have much time left in which to finish the work on the directory, and any assistance or encouragement you can give him will certainly be appreciated. We hope that all the home people will lend their support in making this directory complete and of the utmost value.

Star To Produce City Directory

A city directory — something that has been needed here for a long time — will soon be off the press and ready for distribution. A house-to-house survey has been made of the town, and now only the business district is left to cover in the survey.

At the outset, we do not want you to confuse this city directory with a telephone book. It is not a telephone book, but will give much more information than a phone book could give. Every family in Baird will be listed in the directory. The survey will render much valuable information that will assist people in finding the location of a particular resident, the number of people residing at a given address, names and locations of streets in Baird, types of businesses operating here, and other information. The directory will be an aid to the industrialization work that is being carried on by the Callahan County Club, and in this effort to build a better town the directory will be of valuable help. The grocery stores will turn to the directory to find the address of their customers when a bill of groceries is to be delivered. The garage man will know where to come when your car won't back out of the garage at home. The doctor may save time finding your house when called to treat the sick child.

The work on this directory began with the installation of name plates on the streets and numbers on houses. It will be a good looking book, printed on fine book paper. The page sizes will be 6x9 inches — a size that will be convenient to handle and easy to read. What is more, it will be produced in Baird without the assistance of some out-of-town promoter. We hold to the idea that when we want something done right, we must do it ourselves. This was the secret of the huge success of the Baird Star's recent subscription contest, as you probably already know. To finance the printing of the city directory, we must depend on the support of the home people. Business firms will be listed throughout the directory in black-face type, making them easy to find. The book will not be cluttered up with ads, but advertising matter will have its place in the book, in the proper form. Advertising in a directory is usually not worth what it costs, but we believe that the use of the directory will prove to be a valuable asset to those who support and help pay for the production of the book through advertising.

The directory will be an annual publication. It will be much easier to publish after the first edition is out. Instead of making a house-to-house survey of the town, we will be able to merely correct the list each year, bringing it up to date. This will bring the production cost down and thereby make the project cost the town that much less. Rates for advertising will not be charged by the month, as an out-of-town promoter would probably do, but there will be just one bill, and that as low as is possible.

Darrell Young, Baird Star employee, is making this survey, gathering material to go into the directory. It is his last assignment before he enters service in the armed forces, for which he has already received his call. We do not have much time left in which to finish the work on the directory, and any assistance or encouragement you can give him will certainly be appreciated. EDITORIAL

FOR FIREMEN ONLY

"The privilege of riding the fire trucks to fires may be only by members of the Baird Volunteer Fire Department," stated Chief Billie Walls this week. He told The Baird Star that a number of fellows who are not members of the fire department have been climbing on the fire trucks recently when the truck responds to an alarm. Some of them do not know it is against the rules to do this, and do not realize that they are in the way. They might even think that they are helping the firemen, but actually they are a handicap. No one can assist the firemen successfully fight a fire except a person who has been trained along with them. Only the firemen themselves have taken this training and they are the only people who know exactly what to do at the fire.

The firemen do not fight fires for the thrill of it, but rather to save property and lives. A person who jumps into his own car and chases the fire truck to the scene of a fire is doing more harm than good. But the person who jumps on the fire truck when it leaves the station is not only in the way, but is endangering his life and probably the lives of others.

This practice is not going to be repeated many times, Chief Walls stated, until those guilty persons are being prosecuted under the law. He urges men who want to fight fires to join the fire department and take the training and learn how to fight fires along with the member firemen.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH BUSINESS?

We have heard a number of business people at various points in Callahan county ask the question recently, "What's wrong with business?" Well, there's a double answer as we can see it. First, this area is going through severe drouth and people are hesitating to buy merchandise until they see their way clear. A good rain would help things up considerably in this respect. Secondly, there is too much business slipping off to the big towns. Business people themselves are more guilty of this practice than anyone else. Instead of setting an example to do business at home, some of them, not everyone, keep the roads hot to the big towns to buy everything from groceries to garments.

During previous critical times, many a business man, though concerned with the situations, was more concerned with his own self preservation. To that end he stiffened in his own mind, the seizing of every opportunity to strengthen his own position, even when the doing so was in conflict with the best interests of his town and county. To win out this time will require a strong determination to do right by others. We must cooperate, every one of us, in the fullest degree possible with the best interests of Callahan county in mind. If business firms in our county expect people to trade with them, they should by all means, help keep business dollars turning back into the channels of trade within our county. If you would have your customers to trade at home, why not be the first to set forth an example for them to follow. I hope you will not look through your rear-view mirror and see him following you to some big trading center beyond the precincts of our own trade territory and beyond the hopes of ever seeing those trade dollars circulating in our midst again.

AUSTIN—The last Legislature, says Representative Pearce Johnson of Austin, was worried about the rising cost of state government and the existence of a large number of boards and bureaus. "So," he observes, "we created another one."

But the purpose of the new agency — the Texas Legislative Council — is to help improve state government by working between sessions to find facts and make recommendations to the lawmakers.

The council's staff is headed up by John D. Moseley, whose title is executive director. He is blackhaired, bespectacled, scholarly, and youthful looking. He is intent on his work and insists that it must remain objective.

"It's not our business to tell the Legislature what to do," he says. "Our job is to analyze the problems handed us and then suggest the various possible solutions, based on the facts we find."

Moseley is a native of Greenville, holds degrees from East Texas State Teachers College and the University of Texas, and has worked in several state departments and for the federal government in Washington.

Some of the council's reports will be coming along later.

At the moment, prospects seem bright for solution of the state's financial problems. But there are bound to be snags along the way.

The Legislative Budget Board's recommendation that $10,000,000 be whacked off the four main money bills will certainly bring objections — mainly, perhaps, from heads of departments.

These executives are most likely to insist that they cannot get along with less money, that their work is piling up, that it is well-nigh impossible to employ capable help without paying higher salaries, and so on.

There will also be wailing from higher educational institutions, although this may be softened by shrinking enrollments because of mobilization.

The transportation question sharpened when a bill regulating truck operations was introduced in the House by Representatives Joe M. Kilgore of McAllen, William S. Fly of Victoria, Callam Graham of Junction, A. W. Moursund of Johnson City; and in the Senate by Senator John Bell of Cuero.

This is the one single transportation bill that is likely to get the most attention in the Legislature this time.

It removes the 48,000 gross weight limit, increases legal truck length from 45 to 50 feet, and retains the present rule that axle weights must not exceed 18,000 pounds.

Sponsors of this bill say that it can bring as much as $5 million in added revenue to the state by increasing registration and license fees.

The bill tightens up control of overloading by increasing fines for violations. Fines are graduated from one cent per pound on overloads in excess of 1,000 pounds to five cents per pound for overloads greater than 5,000 pounds.

Thus a truck with an overload of 20,000 pounds would pay a fine of $1,000. The present Texas fine for overloading usually runs $38.

There is progress along the line of legislative redistricting, with committees in both houses working on this problem. Conferences have been held in an effort to iron out differences between the two bodies.

fore a redistricting bill goes on the floor of either house.

The squeeze comes from East Texas legislators, some of whom are going to lose their jobs because of the change in population, proportionately, from the eastern to the western parts of the state since redistricting was last done 30 years ago.

County Agent's Column Oliver F. Werst

Insecticide and Fertilizer Supply Situation

There is a shortage of insecticide material of all kinds. The reason for the shortage is that manufacturers cannot stockpile the materials used to make the insecticide. The government allots raw material to them only as fast as they sell out the present supply. This same thing applies to fertilizers.

Ranchers and farmers who plan to kill lice and flies and insects on their livestock this spring and summer should begin to order and get part of their insecticide supply on hand now. There will be plenty of insecticide material for everybody if each man buys part of his supply now or at least gets in an order for the material.

There is already a definite scarcity of cotton poison material and cotton farmers who haven't already got a supply of the material should see their dealers and talk over this situation with them.

The fertilizer situation is very similar to the insecticide deal. Nitrogen is one of the main elements of most fertilizers and is also one of the main ingredients of munitions. The increased production of munitions due to the war has made nitrogen a critical item. Manufacturers of fertilizer are allowed only a certain amount on hand at one time and can only get more as they make and sell the fertilizer. Therefore if farmers will get part of their fertilizer supplies now, there will probably be enough for everybody at planting time.

Any dealer or person who needs help in locating a supply of these materials may contact the county agent.

Poultry Outlook Economists have pointed out some interesting facts about poultry outlook for 1951. The low price of eggs now along with high food prices has caused a lot of people to not plan on having as many baby chicks this year. It is estimated that there may be 3% fewer pullet raised in 1951 and fall egg prices should be even better in 1951 than usual.

Since seeing this report from the economist, it may be a wise thing for Callahan County poultry raisers to plan on getting a few more baby chicks than was planned. Your pullets should be in full production by fall and that is when the expected extra good price for eggs is expected.

Of course, the wage and price freeze which the government invoked on January 25 may change the whole situation as outlined above. If the top price on eggs happens to be set too low, then it would be unwise to plan on more baby chicks at the present time. One should study the whole situation carefully before buying any extra chicks at the present time.

NUTRITIOUS SWEETS

Marguerite Mickelsen
Already appreciated for its goodness at mealtime, the plump and yellow sweetpotato shouldn't be underrated for its nutritional value, say food specialists of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.
The specialists point out that sweetpotatoes are especially rich in two food nutrients important to well-being. One of them, vitamin A is particularly abundant in sweetpotatoes. This vitamin is not only essential to the young for growth but at all ages helps maintain normal vision, especially in dim light. Vitamin A is also important in keeping the skin and linings of nose, mouth, and inner organs in good condition.

In addition, sweetpotatoes provide a good amount of vitamin C, the vitamin well-known for its richness in citrus fruit. One medium size sweetpotato, an average serving for most persons, gives at least a third of the vitamin C needed for the day. If meals for a day include a medium sweetpotato and a half cup of citrus fruit, the entire day's need for vitamin C is taken care of by these two items. Vitamin C, also called ascorbic acid, helps keep body tissues healthy.

HEALTH FACTS

AUSTIN — Progress being made in the prevention and control of dental disease through scientific and proper care daily of the teeth was described by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer...

cer. in urging the observance of Children's Dental Health Day, February 5. Dr. Cox said it was with children that modern dentistry has had its greatest success in preventing tooth decay. He told of the research being done by the Division of Dental Health with sodium fluoride in preventing tooth decay—both by flouridation of community water supplies and the application of sodium fluoride to surfaces of the teeth by dentists.

A control test showed that in one Texas city where the water supply was flourinated, the rate of decayed, missing and filled teeth among six year old children dropped 47 per cent in 29 months. In a nearby city where no fluoride was added to the water supply the rate remained at eight decayed teeth per child.

The Texas State Health Department recommends that teeth be brushed after every meal to remove particles of food which may cause decay - producing acids. Brushing teeth a few minutes after eating candy is especially important because acid which attacks tooth enamel is formed by action of bacteria on carbohydrates, especially sugar in a few minutes.

Dr. Cox said children's 20 first teeth should be given the best of care to permit the children to chew properly, to promote facial development and to preserve the space for the 32 permanent teeth which will come in later. Children should pay their first visit to the dentist when all 20 first teeth are in and then see him each six months thereafter.

National Dental Health Day is a splendid time to resolve to do your utmost every day to see that children follow simple dental health rules and are given treatment as required

Nothing Better Than Good Food, Says Ohio Man

If a man isn't able to eat the foods he likes he's in mighty sorry shape—imagine going through life without being able to enjoy a fine big platter of bacon and eggs. That is the way

Here is Mr. Damillot's statement: "My first bottle of HADACOL convinced me that HADACOL was what I needed for the gas on my stomach at nights. I could not keep food on my stomach, but after the first bottle I was going great. Now I eat bacon and eggs, and other foods that never would stay with me. I also can sleep well at nights. Thanks to HADACOL, I will never be without it, and can recommend it to all who suffer with the above ailments that I had. I know because I have suffered for quite some time."

the Railroads RESPECT... What is the TRUTH? the Labor Unions seek to REPUDIATE this agreement!

At various states in the present dispute with the brotherhoods of railroad operating employees... the railroads agreed to arbitrate. The union leaders refused. ... the railroads accepted the recommendations of President Truman's Emergency Board. The union leaders refused. ... the railroads accepted the White House proposal of August 19, 1950. The union leaders refused. Finally an Agreement was signed at the White House on December 21, 1950. Now the union leaders seek to repudiate the Agreement. The railroads stand ready to put the terms of this Agreement into effect immediately, with back pay at the rates and date indicated. The Agreement is given in full below.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT Washington, D. C. December 21, 1950 1. Establish 40 hour week for yardmen with increase of 23 cents effective October 1, 1950, and additional 2 cents effective January 1, 1951. 2. Set aside 40 hour week agreement until January 1, 1952, and establish 6 day work week for yardmen. Effective with the first pay roll period after 30 days from the date of execution of the formal agreement, yardmen required by the carrier to work on the 7th day to be paid overtime rates except engineers who shall receive straight time rates for the 7th day. This does not create guarantees where they do not now exist. On and after October 1, 1951, three months' notice to be given of desire to go on 40 hour week. Provide for consideration of availability of manpower and 4 cents-per hour if and when the 40 hour week actually becomes effective. 3. Settle rules for 40 hour week and 6 day week. 4. Grant yard conductors and brakemen other rules such as daily earnings minimum, car retarder operators and footboard yardmasters as recommended by Emergency Board No. 81. 5. Settle following rules: Initial Terminal Delay (Conductors and Trainmen) Interdivisional Runs Pooling Caboose (Conductors and Trainmen) Reporting for Duty More than One Class of Service Switching Limits Air Hose (Conductors and Trainmen) Western Differential and Double Header and Tonnage Limitation (Conductors and Trainmen, all Territories) 6. Road men to receive 5 cents per hour increase effective October 1, 1950 and additional 5 cents per hour increase effective January 1, 1951. 7. Quarterly adjustment of wages on basis of cost of living index (1 point to equal 1¢ per hour. First adjustment April 1, 1951. Base to be 176). 8. Agreement embodying principles applicable to yardmasters to be entered into for benefit of yardmasters. 9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate. Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month shall be the same as that now paid for the 225-hour month. Except that four dollars and ten cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951. 10. In consideration of above, this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows: No proposals for changes in rates of pay, rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees, parties hereto, within a period of three years from October 1, 1950, except such proposals for changes in rules or working conditions which may have been initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however, that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy, workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called annual improvement increases, the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952, to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for employees covered by this agreement are justified, in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be, shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote. 11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision. The usual protections for arbitrators, miscellaneous rates, special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.  The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates, rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement. Lubbock Girl Compares Life in Venezuela and US

Lubbock Avalanche

Venezuela, land of small, isolated colonies, is a far cry from Lubbock with its network of highways, railroads and air lines, and Sybil Elder, new interior decorator at Dunlaps who grew up in Venezuela, feels that Lubbock would come out best in any comparison between the two areas.

HOLMES DRUG

Miss Elder, Texan by birth, has spent most of her life in the South American country where her father is an engineer with Mini Grande Oil Company, a subsidiary of Gulf Oil Corp. She came to Lubbock after graduation from the University of Texas to live with a cousin, Becky Griggs, who is a medical secretary, and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Griggs of Baird.

"There are so many parts of Venezuela I've never visited because there just aren't any ways to get there," the attractive young blonde said. "My family lives in Puerto la Cruz, a seaport and center of eastern Venezuela's oil activity. There is a road to Caracas, the capital, but it is more like a trail. Anyone traveling over most of Venezuela's so-called highways takes his life into his own hands."

When she was ready to enter high school, she came to the U. S. and studied at Gulf Park school for girls in Gulfport, Miss. Her parents felt it would be better for her to be gone from home nine months at a time and absorb American culture than it would be for her to stay in Venezuelan schools.

"I think most Americans get the wrong ideas when I explain life in South America. The fact that each American child has a governess and most families have servants, we have three, gives Americans the idea that we're snobbish. It is simply that labor is so cheap in Latin America and the natives are more capable of standing up under work in the tropical climate," she said.

"The climate of Venezuela is not too bad if it is possible to be in the mountains or near the sea, but in other areas the proximity to the equator causes a type of heat which most Americans could not endure," Miss Elder explained.

Intermixing of Spanish and negro blood has created a class of people along the Venezuelan coasts which most Americans find completely impossible to accept," the girl explained. "However, in Caracas and other centers of culture, many of the people are pure Spanish and are wonderful."

"Evita Peron, wife of Argentina's dictator, sets the styles for Latin America. She is beautiful and very clothes conscious. She also starts fads which are picked up throughout the continent. It was because of her love of lavish jewelry that bangles, bracelets extending from wrist to elbow, and other such jewelry has become so popular throughout the world."

Miss Elder went on to explain that most of the Americans in the country came to the U. S. to buy their clothes. "They buy them up here, then go back and wear them two or three years until they return to the U. S. again."

"When we first went to Venezuela, Americans followed the country-wide custom of wearing formal clothes for all events after 7 p. m. Now, Americans are rather getting away from the custom and dress formally only a few times a week," she continued.

The Communists are very active and strong in Venezuela. They often cause riots and do sabotage work, but Sybil said they had never bothered her family. "The largest newspaper in the country is Communist, and most Americans buy newspapers from the U. S. The news section of the New York Times, completely without advertisements, is flown to Venezuela each day and our news is only one day behind that in this country."

American interests predominate the economic life of Venezuela. The large American population brought there by the oil industry has caused a heavy influx of American industry. "The General Motors and Ford plants there are very large . . . the Venezuelan people buy the Cadillacs and the Americans buy the Fords," she said.

The first American and British oil companies to enter the rich oil fields there, incorporated in the country under Venezuelan names, but now oil companies going to Venezuela use their own names," the girl said.

Eastern Venezuela is now experiencing a great boom because of a discovery of high grade iron ore in the Orinoco River valley. Ciudad Bolivar, a river port, is the center of the boom. "It always seemed like an unusual city to me because it is built on both sides of the river, but there isn't a bridge."

She told further that the steel companies were faced with the problem of either dredging the river or building a railroad to the coast as a means of getting the iron ore out of the interior. "They eventually decided to dredge the river which won't do anyone any good. If they had built a railroad to the coast, it would have given the interior people a method of communicating with the coast. They adopted a policy much like most other Latin American policies which keep the countries down there in a perpetual state of backwardness."

The girl speaks Spanish and English fluently and at one time learned German and French — the former in German grammar school and the latter from a French governess employed by the parents of one of her friends. "Life is easier in Latin America, and if interior decoration had advanced as far as architecture down there, I would think seriously about working in Caracas. As it is, they construct beautiful buildings, and practically forget about doing any interior decorating. That rather explains the whole life of Venezuela — some things are done with careful regard to minute details while others are completely disregarded."

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Sparks, Miss Maxine Williams, and Jerry Loper visited Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Johnson at Pecos the past weekend. Miss Bea Hickman of Big Spring met the party there.

LAUGH HIT COMING TO PLAZA WEDNESDAY

For the dizziest, daffiest, train ride of your life, M-G-M invites you to hop aboard the Midnight Flyer with Marjorie Main and James Whitmore in "Mrs. O'Malley and Mr. Malone," arriving at the Plaza next Wednesday and Thursday. This streamlined comedy of errors, off the beaten track on a railroad track, is played largely aboard a Chicago to New York express train, whose destination is — LAUGHS. Marjorie Main, beloved star of the "Ma Kettle" comedies, now creates a howling new characterization as Mrs. O'Malley, the housekeeper from Proudford, Montana, who wins a radio quiz contest, starts out for the big city to collect her prize money, and ends up as a murder suspect.

Teamed with her is James Whitmore, who scored his first big hit in "Battleground" and followed with outstanding roles in "The Asphalt Jungle" and "The Next Voice You Hear." This time he shows his comedy mettle in the role of Mr. Malone, artful attorney with a penchant for helping out crooks — and cuties. Heading the supporting cast are Ann Dvorak, cast as an all-mony-hunting divorcee; Phyllis Kirk, playing the role of a super-efficient secretary; Clinton Sundberg as a comic bookie; and Douglas Fowley as the jailbird who wants to go straight — to where he hid the stolen money. Fred Clark, Dorothy Malone, Willard Waterman and Don Porter round out the passenger list.

Letterheads, envelopes, office ruled forms, and for all your printing needs, The Baird Star offers fast, efficient service.
