Potato Artist

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a widower with a 13-year-old son. Last night I served roast turkey with mashed potatoes and gravy. There were just the three of us. David (that's not his name) started to put his fingers in the mashed potatoes, making "road maps, and rivers and valleys." I told him it wasn't good manners to put his fingers in his food or play with it. He didn't talk back to me, but he looked at his father for support, and his father said, "It's okay to eat however you want at home, as long as you remember your manners when you eat out or have company over."

David brightened up and continued to make road maps, etc. in the mashed potatoes with his fingers. You can see, Abby, my husband is the boss and what he says goes. I told him I was going to write to you and ask how you felt about this and he said, "Go ahead. I'll bet she says I'm right."

Well, what do you say? ANONYMOUS, PLEASE DEAR ANON: Your husband loses. First, David is much too old to be playing with his mashed potatoes, but more important he should not be allowed to play the "divide and conquer" game, which appears to be what's happening at your house. You and your husband had better get on the same team — fast.

DEAR ABBY: Y This is my first job and I am ready to climb the walls. I am in a one-girl office with 18 men including my boss. Everything I do or wear causes comments from the men. If I wear a colorful print, someone says, "Where's the party?" If I wear black, they say, "Where's the funeral?" If I wear a short skirt, I hear, "Wow, look at those gams!" If I wear pants, someone says, "Hi, Sam!"

The money is good and I have to work, but I get so nervous from all the remarks around here, I'm a wreck. Can you help me?

SENSITIVE DEAR SENSITIVE: Learn to tune 'em out, or develop a thicker skin. Chances are, they're just being friendly.

DEAR ABBY: I have an explanation for your male reader who said women knit in company to give them something to think about while they're talking.

I learned to knit to give myself something to think about while my husband was talking, which he did incessantly.

MEG FROM MINONK DEAR MEG: Touche. You're great with the needle!

CONFIDENTIAL TO LINDA OF MASS.: Your mother's right. If you have someone else's husband, you have someone else's troubles.

Big Social Security Changes Upcoming

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security bill now being prepared for Senate debate will make the most important changes in retirement levels since the system first was set up in 1935.

Congressional supporters say enactment of the legislation will mean for the first time that Social Security will pay monthly benefits which will assure a good life for the elderly. The payments could go as high as $2,000 a month in 21st-century dollars for a young person just now starting to work who reaches 65 about 43 years from now.

In the early years of the system after it was signed into law by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, payments were so small officials described them merely as a base of support for the aged.

MOVING UP

But Social Security levels have been moving upward steadily in recent years, climaxed by a burst of activity since 1970.

In January, 1970, a 15 per cent hike took effect and, a year later, an additional 10 per cent was granted.

The bill to come before the Senate in mid-July is certain to contain at least another 10 per cent, which the Finance Committee has approved. But it seems more likely to be 20 per cent since 64 of the 100 senators have endorsed the higher figure.

In another provision there would be an adjustment in benefits and taxes every time the price index rises 3 per cent.

Taking into account all these factors the Social Security Administration was asked to calculate what benefits would be in 2015 for a young person starting to work now at age 22 and retiring at 65 after paying maximum Social Security taxes each year of his life.

It was assumed that prices would advance 2 1/2 per cent each year and wage levels by 5 per cent.

An individual who worked through his life under the $10,200 wage base—the amount of annual earnings on which taxes would be paid—would get $1,990 a month or $2,985 for a couple under the proposed 10 per cent increase.

For an individual who worked through his life under a $12,000 base, the amount needed to finance the 20 per cent across-the-board increase, the answer was that his benefits would be $2,360 a month, or $3,540 for a couple.

These startling figures compare with present average payments of $133 for individuals, $223 for couples.

NOW $216

The maximum payment which an individual can receive who retires this year is $216. A young person who started work this year and retired in 2015 would get $295 under present law.

Inflation obviously would take a toll of the sharply higher future payments the bill would provide.

However, the Social Security Administration figured that, even in constant 1972 dollars, the monthly check for a person who worked a lifetime under the $12,000 base and with the 20 per cent increase would be worth $735. This compares with the $2,360 he would receive in 2015.

The taxes to finance these payments also would go up but not in the same proportion.

Hard To Tell

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a doctor to know his patient has had an abortion if no one tells him?

Several years ago I had an abortion and have been embarrassed to tell my doctor about it. Could this affect the possibility of a future pregnancy? —Mrs. M. W.

Dear Doctor: I had an abortion in New York by D. and C. method a few months ago. My periods have returned to normal. My family physician does not know about the operation.

Will it be necessary to tell him? Will this in any way affect a future sex relationship if I marry? Will my husband have to know? Recently I have been getting hot flashes. I am only 22 and wonder if this could be caused by the abortion. —T.Y.

Ordinarily it is not possible to tell whether a patient had an abortion, particularly after several years have passed.

The procedure might be suspected fairly soon afterward if there is bleeding, spotting, or indication of infection — which, unfortunately, occurs all too often in "back alley" abortions — but that is far less likely to occur when the procedure is done under suitably sterile operating-room conditions.

If there has been no subsequent infection to cause scarring of the Fallopian tubes, there is no reason to think that pregnancy would not be possible afterward.

I see no reason why some future husband should be told about an abortion; if it is a present husband, father of the unborn child, that's a quite different matter.

If there are no after-effects from the abortion, I see nothing to be gained by telling your doctor. Again, it can be a different matter if there ARE after-effects (bleeding, spotting, infection). The doctor may be aided in treating the case if he knows the background.

Hot flashes after an abortion, at 22? Not unless the ovaries were damaged, the essential risk being that infection spread up the Fallopian tubes to the ovaries.

I would have to say that a thorough pelvic examination would be wise, and the doctor will have a better chance of success if he knows the background and knows what to look for. But if the pelvic examination shows nothing out of the ordinary, I'd suspect that the "hot flashes" might be the result of nerves.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is "obstructive lung disease," and is it considered serious? —R.G.

It means that exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs is impaired. Emphysema, certain cases of asthma, and fibrosis (scarring from any of several causes) are the chief disorders in this classification.

Serious? Depends entirely on the degree of the trouble. You'll have to ask the doctor to give you some indication of that. He's the only one who can answer in your case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went to a throat specialist to have my larynx examined for hoarseness. I had about a dozen X-rays and he told me that there was no cancer or polyps.

But I still talk hoarse. Can you tell me why? —M.S.

With any physical obstruction ruled out, I'd check out your personal habits — excessive smoking, your occupational environment, excessive use of the voice (ball games, singing, etc.) or mouth breathing.

Are you grossly overweight? Such persons tend to have such voices.

'Changing Priorities' Are Blamed For Board Demise

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For 18 years the Race Relations Information Center and its predecessors chronicled the tortuous struggle of a nation at war with its conscience. That struggle, it seems, is over. On June 30, the flow of factual information from the front will cease—a victim of something called "changing priorities."

"We're all a little sick over it," said the center's executive director, Jim Leeson. "But we've done about all we could... we're looking for jobs." Tom Cooney, a Ford Foundation project officer who has been close to the center for almost three years, explained it wasn't that Leeson's staff wasn't doing a good job. "Changing priorities—that's really the key to it," Cooney said.

The nation was still wondering over a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the Kansas City school system had to admit a Negro child when a group of Southern newspaper editors and educators foresaw the need for a source of factual information about racial developments in the schools. The Southern Education Reporting Service was born out of that need.

Financed by the Ford Foundation's Office of Education, the SERS used a network of correspondents—each a professional newsman—to compile reports about desegregation developments. The reports were published in a monthly magazine, "Southern School News," for almost 11 years.

With the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Leeson recalled, the board of directors felt the agency's job was about over. The focus changed from race relations in the schools to educational developments—mainly among the culturally deprived. The name remained, as did most of the staff, but Southern Schools News became a bimonthly, "Southern Education Report."

race relations thing in 1964," Leeson said. "But people—the board and the foundation—seemed to think the congressional act had fixed everything."

It wasn't until 1969 that the center got back to concentrating on race relations. The SERS became the Race Relations Information Center, although the staff, library and headquarters in Nashville remained virtually the same.

In a news release at the time, the center's new task was stated: to "gather and disseminate information about major aspects of race relations in the nation."

At the time, the Ford Foundation had provided more than $2.6 million in grants to the center.

With the change, however, the foundation's funds came from Cooney's Office of Social Development rather than the Education Office.

As the change was made, C. A. McKnight, editor of the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer and one of the board members, assessed SERS' role in the changes that had been made since 1954.

"Future historians will have to evaluate the contribution of SERS to public education," he said. "But it would seem clear even now that without the factual information made available throughout the South, and without the central store of information that guided journalists, magazine writers, radio and television networks and public officials at all levels, the South would have had more difficulty picking its way along a dim and uncertain path. In thoroughness, accuracy, and objectivity, it is without parallel in the history of U.S. journalism."

The staff of six or seven journalists roamed the country, delving into the racial aspects of politics, employment, economics, public health and welfare, lawmaking and enforcement and the courts.

"We are the only ones doing this," said Leeson. "The emphasis, as far as we're concerned, is on objectivity. We don't take an activist role." As a result, the center's publications, including the Race Relations Reporter, have been used extensively by both the "establishment" press and the black news media.

with the black news media. One reason, he said, has been that "the center has employed some very brilliant and creative black writers—people know their integrity. This has been a tremendous help in establishing the credibility of the center's work as far as the blacks are concerned."

They (center officials) wanted to try to improve the performance and sensitivity of the news media, and that was squarely within what we were trying to do," Cooney said. "That's what it turned out to be—they were successful... but we don't consider ourselves a bank on which good projects can draw indefinitely," he went on.

At the same time Ford agreed to fund the project, foundation project officers were looking around in other fields. The idea, Cooney said, was to try out numerous projects and then concentrate the foundation's resources on a few good ones.

Learning Center Opens Soon At Church Here

Enrollment for youngsters aged 2 through 5 is to begin July 1 at Baptist Temple Church's Child Development Center.

According to the Rev. Dan McClinton, minister of education at the church and over-all director of the new center, the center will offer three programs, day-care for youngsters aged 2-3, and separate kindergarten classes for four and five-year-olds.

"It's going to be more than just a custodial center. It will be a readiness program. We will try to ready the four and five-year-olds for the first grade through our kindergarten classes, and we will be trying to alert the two and three-year-olds to sizes, shapes, color and nature," said the Rev. Mr. McClinton.

"It will be a learning program in which we will help children come to an awareness of themselves and who they are," added the Rev. Mr. McClinton.

Enrollment is to be limited to the first 50 children, according to the director, to enable the instructors to work on an individual basis with each child as much as possible.

Cost of use of the facilities, which will include classrooms, study facilities and a fenced-in, fully-equipped playground, is $10 per week for the day-care program and $5 per week for the two kindergarten programs.

With the change, however, the foundation's funds came from Cooney's Office of Social Development rather than the Education Office.

As the change was made, C. A. McKnight, editor of the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer and one of the board members, assessed SERS' role in the changes that had been made since 1954.

More Blacks Are Sought In Biomedical Field

By RORY LEEPER
Copley News Service
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The Carnegie Corp. of New York has awarded the University of Tennessee at Knoxville a $232,000 grant for the training of more black students in the biomedical and science departments. The funds will enable the university's graduate school to support summer training and research for undergraduate students planning careers in the biomedical field. It will also provide summer research opportunities for faculty members from selected colleges. The funds will be disbursed over four years.

Alan Pifer, president of Carnegie Corp., said that even with the 35 per cent increase of blacks in the program this year, they still account for only 4.1 per cent of all the graduate students in the arts and sciences. According to the Government Reference Library, black people constitute 11 per cent of the total population of the United States. Students majoring in biology, chemistry and physics at selected black colleges will be admitted to the program beginning in the summer following their junior year. During this 10-week period, they will take courses at the university's Oak Ridge Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences. They will work on specific research projects with third-year doctoral candidates, receive counseling on graduate school admissions, and plan their senior year courses. They will be expected to return for another summer's training upon graduation.

The corporation president said that the program will hopefully serve as a catalyst to increase the number of science Ph.D.s awarded to blacks. It is expected that some of the talent will teach in black institutions. Successful completion of the program will insure the admission of students to one of the university's graduate schools.

JUAN LIMON GETS HIS GED CERTIFICATE IN EDUCATION PROGRAM Wife Mary, watching, working on hers; Mary Ivery makes award

Families Share Honors In School Ceremonies

Three husband-and-wife combinations along with a mother and daughter shared in honors at the concluding session of the Adult Basic Education classes at Rannels Junior High School Thursday evening. Juan Limon, who works at the VA Hospital, was recognized for having passed his GED (high school diploma equivalency) test. His wife, Juana, is not far from trying for hers. He has been holding down two jobs in addition to attending school, and she has had responsibility of rearing two children. Others spotlighted were Mr. and Mrs. Santos Lujan and Mr. and Mrs. Chon Garcia, as well as Isabell Carmona and her daughter, Eva Valdez. Sun Mae Mutton from Korea, and Frances Wiggins from (London) England, and Luz Perez from Mexico were recognized as students from other countries. While the ABE program, sponsored by the Big Spring Independent School District, is not funded for high school work, it nevertheless helps lay out programs which several have followed successfully to taking the GED tests at Howard County Junior College. Armed with this, the students are at their own rate.

Music Lovers Mass Again

LENOX, Mass. (AP) — A box lunch, a bottle of wine and a blanket have been synonymous with Tanglewood for thousands of music lovers for nearly four decades.

On Sunday, the 1972 Tanglewood season opens here on the spacious, 210-acre estate that has been the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer home since 1934.

The estate is located in the fashionable Berkshires, and overlooks Stockbridge Bowl, a view of such scenic scope that writer Nathaniel Hawthorne, who once lived on the grounds, remarked he could barely work in the presence of such natural beauty.

The estate was once owned by the Tappan family, proprietors of the Tappan gas range business. The grounds were first opened for concerts about 1930.

The New York Philharmonic was the first orchestra to perform here, followed by the Boston Symphony, whose conductor, the late Serge Koussevitzky, fashioned the dream of making Tanglewood an annual music festival.

Despite war years, in which there were no festivals, Tanglewood remains the oldest and most continuous major music festival in the country. Last year's attendance for the eight-week series of weekend concerts was 237,000, the highest ever.

The Boston Symphony members, having completed their winter season, will begin arriving next week for the first Berkshire Festival concert on June 30.

Tanglewood artistic director Seyi Ozawa will conduct a traditional all-Bach concert. The performance will launch a season that will include conductors Leonard Bernstein, Eugene Ormandy, Colin Davis, William Steinberg, Karel Ancerl, Bruno Maderna, Michael Tilson Thomas and Stanislaw Skowaczewski.

Arthur Fiedler will present his annual Boston Pops at Tanglewood on Aug. 15. Three Mahler symphonies, all four Brahms symphonies and four Beethoven symphonies dominate the concert programs.

CANCER PROGRAM APPROVED—Pictured are members of the facility's cancer committee, who were present Friday when it was announced that Medical Center Memorial Hospital had received three-year approval for the cancer activities program. ## Local Hospital's Cancer Activities Program OKed

At the regular monthly meeting of the cancer conference Friday, Dr. C. B. Marcum, director of the cancer program, announced that Medical Center Memorial Hospital has received three-year approval for the cancer activities program.

This program includes diagnosis and treatment of cancer and a registry for follow-up of cancer patients.

Approval notification came from Dr. Andrew Mayer, FACS, assistant director, Professional Activities, American College of Surgeons, Chicago, Ill.

The cancer activities of MCMH were surveyed by Dr. Irwin Schulz, March 8, 1972. Three times yearly, the Approvals and Executive Committees of the Commission on Cancer and the Board of Regents of the American College of Surgeons review the Survey Report of accredited hospitals visited during the previous trimester. Only hospitals accredited by Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals are considered for approval.

Apple Wine Big Drink

NELSON, New Zealand (AP) — Here in this northern province of the South Island apple wine is the drink, and it's a big industry too.

Every year apples from the district are crushed to yield a million liters of juice for wine. The drink comes sweet, medium, or dry, fortified or unfortified.

It's only 20 years since the apple wine-making industry really got under way, but today it's the popular drink in the district, and much is sent to other areas.

"It is a plain straight forward drink with none of the mumbo-jumbo often associated with wines," says Tom Robinson, one of Nelson's principal winemakers. "Most of our customers today are housewives who have on the grocery list a flagon or two of apple wine as a matter of course."

The juice is a mixture of whatever apples are available at the time of crushing: Gravenstein, Jonathan, Golden Delicious, Cox's Orange, Sturmer, and Gannox Smith.

One company crushes apples on behalf of all commercial winemakers, but the art of the individual winemakers makes the wines different.

area are invited to attend this meeting. The program includes the study of all types of cancer.

ANOTHER MILESTONE — Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Sheldon and their children have an interesting background of experiences and a diversified list of hobbies that make life enjoyable. Their latest challenge involved moving to Big Spring where Dr. Sheldon has joined the staff at Big Spring State Hospital. Shown with the couple are their children, George, 12; Patti, 11; Susan, 15; and Martha, 14.

Experiences Develop Fascinating Hobbies

By BARBARA LORD

A diverse range of individual interests and a close family bond typify the R. B. Sheldon family which recently moved here from Huntsville.

The wide range of hobbies explored by the Sheldon children is perhaps instinctive. They have been reared by a father who, since his first job as paper boy at age 10, has held positions as short order cook, librarian, hotel clerk, physician for Beaumont Exporters baseball team, farmer, psychiatrist and medical doctor.

Dr. Sheldon is the new director of outpatient and outreach clinics at Big Spring State Hospital. He and his family arrived in Big Spring June 1. Mrs. Sheldon spent the two weeks unpacking and organizing the family home at 1506 Bell, as well as supervising the remodeling and decorating being done on the house. Ample assistance is available from the couple's four children, Susan, 15; Martha, 14; George, 12; and Patti, 11.

PROFESSOR

At Huntsville, Dr. Sheldon was a professor of criminal justice at Sam Houston State University. He also served as chief of psychiatry and neurology services at the Texas Department of Corrections.

The Sheldons lived on a farm in the small Bohemian community of Schulenburg for two years. They raised registered Red Angus cattle and commercial cows, and still own the Dubina Custom Farm Company there.

The Sheldons enjoy country living, and although their new home is not in the country, it is large enough and on grounds spacious enough to accommodate their leisure interests.

Carpentry is a family hobby. They have already added a bath and combination study and sewing room to the house. In addition, they have closed off a window and paneled their living room and made many plans for smaller alterations such as built-in book cases to house their vast supply of reading material.

Patti and George are most interested in the carpentry work and are readily available to help their dad whenever needed. Susan and Martha are more homemaking enthusiasts and prefer to help their mother with that end of the chores. Susan, a clarinetist, and Martha, a saxophonist, hope to join the high school band in the fall. George is more interested in baseball and football.

Mrs. Sheldon (LaVelle) is a registered nurse and may go to work when school starts. Around home she enjoys gardening, and Dr. Sheldon said she "could stick a pencil in the ground and make it grow."

"I'm not very familiar with the flowers and plants that grow in this part of Texas," said Mrs. Sheldon, "so I may have a little trouble getting started. In Huntsville, she was a member of the Medical Society Auxiliary and of garden clubs. She also

Excellent Gift Books

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Time was when a gift book was considered a little something extra. But many books of interest to homemakers in our "how-to" society may become the piece de resistance.

Ones on needlepoint, knitting, beaded flowers, organic foods cooking, antiques, and home furnishings are among those with sure-fire woman appeal.

Here are some:

"Bouquets From Beads" by Virginia Osterland tells how to use beaded flowers in Oriental and Western style flower arrangements. There are step by step diagrams for making the flower, and explanations of the principles and techniques of the arrangements. There are bead patterns, too, for decorating Christmas ornaments.

"Do - It - All - Yourself Needlepoint" by Joan Scooby and Lee Parr McGrath has a wide range of needlepoint information, including how to go about choosing your own design. Direct tracing and composition are explained if one chooses to work with a pattern from a wall per, fabric or poster.

There are also ideas on how to formulate your own design with patterns shown on grids that are spaced like the canvas ones.

"The Large - Type Knitting Book of Babies' and Children's Clothes" is touted by the author, Joan Rattner Heilman, as being the first of its kind. In addition to the big type, the book is printed on special paper which increases the visual possibilities of the dark type even more, and its design, soft cover and large size pages were made so the book will stay flat.

There is a collection of patterns for babies up to size 3, and others for a pant suit, fisherman's sweater and jumper for the little people.

"How to Stay 10 Pounds Slimmer" by Edith Miller Berman and Charlotte Leighton tells how to maintain that 10 pound loss you worked for. It begins with a basic diet based on one developed by the New York Board of Health Obesity Clinic.

"Antiques You Can Decorate With" by George Grotz is again available for people who want a guide to antiques and their prices. The book is useful for new collectors as it discusses things as coded pricing used by antique dealers, and the prevalence of fakes. The author points out the most widespread fakes are those paintings done on glass for the doors of old clocks.

"Color in Decoration" by Jose Wilson and Arthur Leaman is one of the really fine books on color because of its more than 100 color photographs obtained from the best design sources. These illustrate set-

Vows Are Exchanged In Church Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Jo LaNae McMillan and Lynn Olen Adams was solemnized Saturday evening in First United Methodist Church with Dr. Jordan Grooms as the officiating minister. The altar was graced with candelabra holding white tapers and entwined with emerald fern. Twin arrangements of white gladioli completed the setting. A prelude of organ music was presented by Mrs. Bob Simpson.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. McMillan Jr. Sterling City Route, and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Adams, 3206 Auburn.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Big Spring High School. She attended Odessa College and is employed at McMillan Printing and Office Supply Company. Adams works for the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company. After a trip to Arlington and other points in Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Adams will reside at 311 Edwards.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of Chantilly lace over white peau de soie; the empire bodice featuring a Sabrina neckline and long-fitted sleeves trimmed in satin and seed pearls. The A-line skirt formed a wattleu train of Chantilly lace bordered with a wide band of satin. A cluster of lace petals, highlighted with seed pearls, held her shoulder-length veil of English illusion. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis, pompons and babies'-breath centered with a pale green orchid.

MAID OF HONOR

Miss Barbara Eason, maid of honor, wore a formal-length gown of apricot peau de soie overlaid with silk screen chiffon. The gown featured an empire waistline, scooped neckline and long sheer sleeves gathered to buttoned cuffs. The bridesmaids, wearing identical attire in light yellow and mint green, were Miss Teresa Johnson, Miss Jamie Langley and Miss Susan Plowman. Their garden hats were trimmed with chiffon streamers, and each carried a nosegay of apricot, yellow and green carnations interspersed with babies'-breath.

Ruddy Noble served as best man, and groomsmen were Michael Adams, brother of the bridegroom; Rex Rainey and Tommy McMillan, the latter of Plainview. The ushers were Stanley Adams, brother of the bridegroom; Van Barton, Forsan; and Calvin Brown. The bride's brother, Rodney Max McMillan, was ring bearer.

Altar tapers were lighted by Miss Johnson and Tommy McMillan. The flower girl, Darla Witte, wore a mint green chiffon gown styled like the bride attendants.

HOUSE PARTY

Guests attending a reception in the fellowship hall were registered by Mrs. Larry Rawlings of Lubbock. Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Benny Doran, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Deniz McMillan, Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert O'Neil, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gross, Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Touchstone, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Snodgrass and Miss Janis Bollinger.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with her bouquet. A white Spanish scrolled wrought iron stand held the tiered cake at nine levels and was topped with musical bridal figurines. Appointments were of crystal and silver. The bridegroom's table was covered with a lace-edged green cloth and centered with an arrangement of flowers and candles. A tiered chocolate cake was served, and a brass coffee service was used. Those serving were Miss Danna Baker, Miss Valencia Rankin, Miss Donna Stanley, Miss Brenda Thomas and Miss Gayle Webb.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Val Perry, Lovington, N.M., grandparents of the bride; Mrs. Harry McMillan Sr., Tahoka, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. George Perry, Lubbock, great-grandmother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Adams, Trent, grandparents of the bridegroom; and Ed Ballinger, grandfather of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday at Carlo's Restaurant. Twenty persons attended, and floral decorations accented the tables.

Two Women Honored By Legion Auxiliary

Two local members of the American Legion Auxiliary, Howard County Unit 355, were honored at a dinner meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Ollie Bransom, auxiliary president, praised the contributions made by Mrs. Fern Smith and Mrs. H. D. Bruton.

Mrs. Bruton was recognized for the many hours she had contributed to volunteer work at the Veterans Administration Hospital. It was about two years ago that Mrs. Bruton was presented a 5,000-hour service bar by hospital officials, and she has served approximately 700 more hours since that time.

Her volunteer work began over 20 years ago with members of both the auxiliary and the Eager Beaver Sewing Club. At that time she helped in central supply, later going into ward work where she ran a film projector. In 1957, she started assisting with the comfort item carts on the wards, and she has also helped on a regular basis with refreshments during the chaplain's Bible study and coffee hour.

Mrs. Bruton was a charter member of the American Legion Auxiliary at Roscoe in 1932, serving as president in 1935. Later, she was a member of the chapter in Coahoma and joined the local chapter in 1958. She has held various local offices, and was district representative from 1959 to 1964.

Mrs. Bruton and her husband have one son, C. R. Bruton, who resides at Sand Springs. They have two grandchildren.

Mrs. Smith was honored for her 50-year membership in the auxiliary and will be presented a special pin at a later date.

A LOVELIER YOU Cosmetics Enter Into World Of Automation

By MARY SUE MILLER

If you cannot handle makeup like a pro, now's your chance. Many cosmetics are newly packaged in automatic dispensers. Will wonders never cease!

Let's examine a problem or two and see how automation solves them.

—How do you do with pressed powder blushers? Your brush takes up too much, too little; applications streak? Blushamatics solve those troubles. A small, portable cylinder contains blushing powder and a natural hairbrush. Your simply swish the brush end around and it picks up just the right amount of blusher for a sheer, natural application. Becoming shades are of course available.

—Can you draw a neat lipline? Is your fill-in smooth and glowy? If not, investigate new lip brushes with color and sheen built in. Shaped like slim pencils, brushes are protected by caps when not in use. During applications glowing, fluid color flows through the brush, automatically in correct measure. Shades are multitudinous. Some brands add treatment ingredients so as to improve as well as color the lip complexion.

—What about eyeliner? You always need a practiced hand to apply liner evenly, without smear or smudge. But now that subtly is the mark of tasteful eye makeup, a liner-brush combination could draw a sure, fine line for you. No color brush or water is needed. All are inside the slim container. Automatic!

TIPS FOR TEENS

Fifty ways to ideal skin and natural makeup for young adults — ages 13 to 19 — are detailed in my booklet, "Model Tips For Teens." Advice covers corrective-skin care; how to use makeup to accent good points and play down problems; fashion model makeup tricks. # Fabric Solves Color Problems

Can't make up your mind about a new color scheme for a room? Just leave it up to a fabric. Pick a pretty cotton print with a combination of colors that pleases you. Then build your decorating scheme around the fabric, echoing its color in other room accessories.

Often a distinctive fabric can change a room's entire personality. For instance, a cotton chintz printed with big flowers in a bold, yet liveable, material that would be ideal for a one-fabric room.

You might follow the lead of a famous interior designer who featured a colorful flower-strewn chintz in her own den. She used the fabric for a wide window shade that covered two windows, for a sofa cover, and as slipcovers on two wicker chairs and a wicker hassock. The den walls and the wicker furniture were all painted white to set off the cheerful colors and sharply defined flowers in the cotton chintz.

Bridesmaid Luncheon Saturday

Miss Jo McMillan, who was married Saturday evening to Lynn Adams, was honored at noon that day with a bridesmaids' luncheon in the home of Mrs. R. E. Hickson, 2708 Crestline. Mrs. Hickson's daughter, Mrs. Charles Lacy of Arlington, was cohostess.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of mixed flowers.

The honoree was attired in a long dress of yellow and green dotted Swiss. She was presented a corsage of white daisies.

After the luncheon the bride attendants made rice bags for the wedding. Twenty-five guests attended, and gifts were presented to the attendants.

Simple Wardrobe For Vacations

The one-bag wardrobe for vacation trips is a cinch to plan if you can sew your own. A number of patterns are available that contain mix-and-match separates ideal for traveling. And cool, packable cottons in sharp color combinations of red, white, and blue are ideal choices for vacation separates.

Start your one-bag wardrobe by sewing a skirt and loose cardigan jacket from navy cotton knit. Add two sleeveless blouses to wear with the navy suit. Make a dressy blouse from white waffle pique, and choose red cotton duck for a sportier blouse.

The same red duck can be used to make wide-leg long pants, which become a pantsuit when combined with the red blouse and navy jacket.

For a third outfit, pick a bright cotton print in red, white, and blue. Use this print to sew the same blouse and skirt design you made up in solid colors. Now you have an endless variety of mix-and-match possibilities in your one-bag wardrobe.

Woman Pilot Irate Over Discrimination

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Betty McNabb says she would find piloting a commercial airliner boring, but she's irate because American women appear to be banned from the controls.

Mrs. McNabb is international president of the 99s, an organization of licensed women pilots. She is a lieutenant colonel in the Civil Air Patrol and has been flying since 1951.

"I think it would be a boring job, just going from one point to another," she said in an interview Friday, "but there isn't any real reason why a woman couldn't do it."

"I don't know of anyone who tried to get a pilot's job recently, but they haven't tried because they knew it would end in failure."

Women are airline pilots in Scandinavia, England and South America she said, but U.S. companies still haven't seen fit to hire them.

"I can tell you women have been trying for jobs off and on since there were airlines," she said, "but the companies say they are unsuitable because they get married, they get pregnant, they are emotionally unstable and they aren't physically strong enough to handle the airplanes."

Mrs. McNabb, 62, didn't dispute the first two points, but she said she knows of no evidence that women are more emotionally unstable than men, and she added, "You don't have to manhandle an airplane."

Western Kerchiefs Influences Styles
Summer fun fashions have snatched another look from the Western cowboy. It's the cotton bandana kerchief that used to grace the cowhand's neck.

Now these colorful red, white, and blue squares are being stitched together patchwork fashion for ankle-length skirts that are pretty enough to go out dancing in or casual enough to be worn over bikinis.

The navel-bearing scarf skirts are often teamed with whimsical tops, calypso blouses, or T-shirts with embroidered sayings.

Lady Pilots Of WWII At Sweetwater
SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP) — A reunion of some 450 former women aviators is under way here where they trained during World War II.

The 30th Memorial Reunion of the Women's Air Force Service Pilots WAFSP is the official name, but the lady pilots call their group the "Order of Fifinella." Fifinella, if you didn't know, was the name of a special character created in their honor by Walt Disney.

The ex-pilots began arriving Friday evening, and were to dedicate a monument commemorating their war efforts Saturday. The publisher of Flight magazine, George Haddaway, was to be the featured speaker. Film star Bob Cummings will be the emcee.

The women flew non-combat supply missions in the United States during the war to free pilots for overseas duty.

Teenage Boy Learning Textile Business Early

By VIVIAN BROWN
Ap Newsfeatures
A college education isn't for everyone, points out Jerry Daub, a 15-year-old high school junior who is a good student, from Tilford, Pa., and who is learning the textile business from the sheep up this year on Nantucket Island.

"For some people college is a hang-up. When they graduate all they have is a piece of paper. Many things may have been learned that will be of little value if a student chooses a career that requires him to start from scratch," he explains.

Jerry says one can get a head start by studying a special interest early.

He says he has wanted to be in the textile business since he was 7 and attended a crafts fair where he saw a college boy spinning at a wheel.

Two summers ago he pursued that interest and took a course in vegetable dyeing on Nantucket. Last summer he studied fleece dyeing. He persuaded his parents to let him stay on the island and attend school so he could apprentice at the Nantucket looms directed by Andy Oates, a skilled weaver and graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design.

"I want to learn everything about textiles so I can have my own business some day," Jerry explains. "Next year I would like to travel to Europe following up the history of spinning and to visit Ireland where the fleece of sheep is particularly beautiful."

The youth has learned to handle chenilles, rug yarns and mohair on the looms. "When I start my own textile business I hope to incorporate spinning and dyeing," he says. "Maybe even restoration work. And another good thing about my apprenticeship is that I will have the looms to back me, if I need help."

It isn't easy though to get small quantities of yarn for experimentation. In the United States the minimum order mills will take is about 200 pounds.

WHAT IS THE MOST COSTLY AILMENT?
If you said the "common cold," you are correct. Those colds people get—and that includes just about everybody—cost billions of dollars every year in lost wages, lost production and medical expenses. While science has given mankind the ability to go to the moon, we still don't have a cure for the cold virus.

Summertime colds often are just as bad if not worse than the winter variety. They are highly contagious, too. Therefore, we suggest that people with colds should cover their coughing and sneezes and stay away from others as much as possible. Follow your doctor's advice, and if medication is prescribed, we'll have it for you. Remember—prompt treatment can help to get rid of that annoying cold in the shortest possible time.

Miss Nelson Weds William W. Thrasher

Miss Linda Ellen Nelson became the bride of William Walden Thrasher June 17 in the Salvation Army Citadel, Muskogee, Okla.

The bride is the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Donald T. Nelson, 602 W. 4th, Big Spring, and Thrasher is the son of Mrs. Tom Morris of Lubbock.

Maj. Harold Hinson of Birmingham, Ala., presided at the service, and Maj. Nelson read vows for the couple at an archway entwined with greenery. Standing baskets of white gladioli and branched candelabra flanked the altar.

A prelude of traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Albert Witson of Oklahoma City, Okla., pianist, who also accompanied Maj. and Mrs. Hinson and Captain William Powell of Tulsa, Okla., vocalists.

The bride wore a formal-length white gown of silk organza with Chantilly lace accents and a chapel-length train. Her illusion veil was elbow-length and edged with lilies of the valley. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Israel Artega of Big Spring served her sister as matron of honor, and bridesmaid was Miss Linda Bryant of Wagoner, Okla. Miss Sonja Gudgeon was flower girl, and Kevin Foster was ring bearer.

The bridal attendants wore bright pink gowns trimmed with rose ribbon. They wore matching picture hats with olive green ribbon accents, and each carried a single long-stemmed pink rose.

Grady Brown was best man, and groomsmen were Paul Thrasher of Panama City, Fla., the bridegroom's brother.

Mrs. Thrasher is a graduate of Northeastern State College Tahlequah, Okla., where she was a member of Delta Zeta. She taught school this past year in Houston.

Thrasher graduated from the Salvation Army School for Officer's Training in Atlanta, Ga., and did his field training in Big Spring.

A reception honored the couple in the Salvation Army Youth Hall following the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs.

MRS. WILLIAM WALDEN THRASHER

Leonard Moore, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Bentley Roy, Okmulgee, Okla.; Mrs. Ray Gudeon of Lubbock, the bridegroom's sister; and Mrs. Rudy Koschequetah, Lawton, Okla.

Out-of-town guests were Brig and Mrs. Sven Ruthstrom, Maj. and Mrs. David Jones, Brig and Mrs. Leonard Moore, Col. and Mrs. Albert Witson, and Mr. and Mrs. William Swanson, all of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Pretty Young Bookie Operates 'Bet' Shop

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A woman running a betting shop? You've got to be kidding. But Mrs. Paula Fudge isn't.

You go into a betting shop on a side street and place your bet, and there she is — a pretty young woman bookie. Her friends told her she would never make a success of it. But after four years she has done so well that she's opened a second shop around the corner and has a staff of five to help her.

But Paula went about it cautiously. She was unmarried when she started her business, and had her name, "P. Whelan," put above the shop. She figured that if bettors didn't know P stood for Paula they wouldn't worry about betting with a woman. They might even think it was her brother Pat Whelan who has bookies' shops of his own.

"It was Pat's idea in the first place," Paula said. "We weren't sure what people would think about betting with a woman. I mean, if there was an argument over a bet they might think a woman wouldn't pay up. But there was no need for me to worry really. All my clients know me now, and I'm friends with all of them."

Bookmaking is in Paula's blood. Her grandfather was a bookie on the racing tracks, long before betting shops became legal in Britain. The bookies set up their stalls at the side of the racetracks, shouting odds on the horses and inviting fans to have a bet.

"That's something I couldn't do," Paula said. "I couldn't hold my own with men at the tracks. But when I was a teenager I acted as clerk for my brother at his pitch on the dog tracks, so I learned the business from the inside."

More and more of Britain's betting shops are being taken over by nation-wide combines. But Paula keeps her independence.

One day Malcolm Fudge called at Paula's shop and offered to sell her his bookies' security service, including time clocks, cameras and spot checks on betting slips. Paula bought his

Smocks Big In Fashion World

Summer's newest cover-up is the smock. Gathered or flared, the smock shows up in sportswear as either a blouse, a jacket, or a coat.

A lace-banded short smock appears as feminine topping for knickers. Cotton in an all-over tiny floral print in the fabric choice for both the smock and knickers.

A floor-length smock closed with tiny shoe buttons all the way to the hem doubles as a coatdress for the city and a sweeping cover-up for the beach. It's done in plaid cotton seersucker with a curved yoke and soft gathers for extra fullness.

Careful Buying In Teen Styles

"Please — mother — please" isn't the answer to a teenager's dressing on a modest allowance. If you must stick to a budget, buy your clothes extra carefully with switching-about in mind. If you have sisters who wear the same size, you might merge your clothing allowances and buy parts within a pre-determined color scheme so you can have a larger number of items to mix and match.

NO MORE VANILLA FOR MEN Perfume Chemist Theorizes About Scented 'Attractants'

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newstfeatures

Some day we may be classified by our "odor prints" observes perfume chemist Art Lorenson, one of the well-known "noses" of the industry. Scientists are at work on that theory, and their research may even show whether people are attracted to each other by scents. It may clear up also the mystery of why one perfume may survive for a half-century, and the popularity of another fade in a short time.

"The Illinois Institute of Technology is evolving the odor print theory but many new ideas are coming out of the study. These even include lures for insects and fish," he explained, adding that work is being done on the effects of scented attractants on men and women.

It is known one person may enhance a particular perfume more than another might, and this may have something to do with one's own built-in chemistry additive. The idea isn't new. The ancient Greeks believed that people's own odors shouldn't be improved upon. Lorenson points out. Ancient tribes rubbed noses (and still do) which may have been a ceremony in the interest of personal research.

Tests have shown men and women have different odor acceptance levels. At certain times women are greatly susceptible to musk, an ingredient of many perfumes, a finding that has led many experts to suspect a relationship between musk and trogen, a hormone. Women can smell one part in a billion of musk, whereas men can hardly smell it.

Lorenson works with more than 3,000 scents in his Boston laboratory as chief perfumer for Gillette's toiletries division. The biggest challenge to all perfume chemists is trying to find that elusive combination of essential oils and other ingredients that will give a scented product special appeal, he explained. In formulating products for men, one must be particularly aware of the degree of scent.

"Five years ago scents for men were too strong. Essential oils in men's colognes have been reduced from about 6 to 3 ounces in a gallon of alcohol. In shaving lotion there now are only about one and a half ounces of oil to a gallon of alcohol. Vanilla, a sweetener, has been taken out of men's scents. They like clean, spicy or lemony odors."

There is a resurgence in the use of natural essential oils, Lorenson said, playing down synthetics, and this may be due to ecological influences. Rose and jasmine can not be duplicated synthetically, anyway, but lilac and lily of the valley can be made to smell like the real flower from which it is impossible to extract oil. Twenty-four to 36 ounces of essential oils are used in a gallon of alcohol for perfume. Five to 10 ounces goes into a gallon of alcohol for cologne.

Most perfume chemists can duplicate just about any perfume on the market, and occasionally Lorenson will make his wife a batch of one.

Miss Allen Marries Ronnie Wayne Ward

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Cathy Lynn Allen and Ronnie Wayne Ward in a candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m., Friday in the Coahoma Church of Christ. The Rev. Ralph G. Beiste performed the rites, and music was provided by a choir comprised of Mrs. Bob Kiser, Terry Kiser, Sandra Kiser and Kyle Kiser, all of Sand Springs; Mrs. Larry Pherigo, Mrs. Truman Anderson and Mrs. Lonnie Anderson.

MRS. RONNIE WAYNE WARD

The couple stood at an altar decorated with greenery and flanked by arching candelabra. A sunburst arrangement of white gladioli centered the archway, and a spiral candelabra with votive candles lit the background. Baskets of white gladioli and candelabras completed the setting. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Allen, all of Coahoma.

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white peau de soie overlaid with white Chantilly lace which was fashioned with a high rounded neckline and long organza sleeves accented with lace appliques and featuring satin cuffs. The hemline of the skirt was bordered with lace appliques and seed pearls. A cluster of chiffon roses and seed pearls held her bouffant illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of stephanotis, lily of the valley and babies'-breath centered with a purple orchid.

Miss Karen Kiser of Sand Springs was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Darlene Jacobs, Gayla Roberts and Marlene Swinney. The attendants wore lime green floor-length gowns fashioned empire-style with short sleeves and round necklines. They carried nosegays of purple, lime and orchid camellias, centered with matching votive candles and streamers.

Jimmy Ward of Sand Springs served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Bruce Allen, the bride's brother; Tommy Ward, the bridegroom's brother; and Larry Bennett. Serving as ushers were Lee Bennett and Tim Tindol.

Flower girls were Scarlett Parker of Aspermont, and Tina gingham, seersucker, polka dots, checks and stripes for oodles of bright patterns and prints. Pantaloons are her newest party caper. Briefly showing from under flouncy dresses they allow little misses to become Southern Belles on occasion. Skinny cotton ribbed dresses with dropped waistlines, sometimes patent belts, are simply cool attire.

Summer Fun Fashions Appeal To Little Girls

Outwear adds lots of new detailing. Yoke and smock top, tent shaping, big notched collars and back belts live up spiffy little coats. Brightly piped capes are a new look that young gals everywhere love. Spring fabrics see to it that a gal's wardrobe of dresses and separates stay fresh with easy care knits, polyesters, acrylics, cotton jerseys and linens — many wash 'n wear.

Say Vows In Church Rites

Miss Marjorie Kay Fiveash and Stephen Forrest Oyer exchanged nuptial vows at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Wesley United Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mrs. David McClanahan of Dallas, pianist, provided a prelude of nuptial music, and a c o m p a n e d the vocalist, Charles Ray Boland, the bride's brother-in-law. White bridal satin overlaid with scalloped lace, fashioned the bride's formal-length gown which featured empire lines and long sleeves gathered to form cuffs. A white tiara highlighted with small velvet bows and a circle of white pearls held her illusion veil, and she carried a Victorian bouquet of pink roses, blue feathered carnations, orchid asters and a white orchid.

Wedding Performed In Baptist Church

Miss Terri Lyn Kimzey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kimzey, 606 Steakley, became the bride of Bruce Wayne Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols of Knott, Saturday evening in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Robert D. Lee in Birdwell Lane Baptist Church. The altar scene included sunburst arrangements of white gladioli accented with palms of emerald foliage and candelabra. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, and Nichols graduated from Sands High School and attended Howard County Junior College. He is now engaged in farming at Elbow where the couple will reside following a wedding trip to Dallas.

A traditional bouquet of white carnations and orchids showered with picot ribbon was carried by the bride, who was attired in a softly fitted peau de soie gown with lace forming a redingote effect which swept to a chapel-length train. A bow, encrusted with pearls, centered the back of the gown. The long lace sleeves and collar were circled with pearl bands, and the lace on the gown was dotted with pearls. The full-length veil of illusion was edged in matching lace and held by a lace-flowered cap accented with pearls. ## Before You Buy . . . .

An Information Service For Consumers
BY MARGARET DANA

All over this country scientists are alarmed at their discoveries of what noise pollution is doing to us, and what it may do that's worse in the years ahead.

Some manufacturers have made an honest attempt to quiet their products despite the fact that such quieting may add costs to their production process and thus place them in a poor competitive position relative to others, who can produce cheaper noisy products . . . The willingness of the consumer to pay an additional cost for a quieter piece of equipment could provide an incentive to industry to manufacture such equipment.

noise pollution. The experts give 65 dB-A as about the acceptable sound level.

It is not hard to believe that the noise of jet aircraft, building construction machines, or heavy truck traffic is harmful. We already know it is disturbingly upsetting. Already some communities have moved to control or diminish this kind of "air pollution."

HOUSE NOISE
An electric blender gives an average of 93; a refrigerator, 65; your sink drain gives 88, and a water faucet, 68; An electric knife sharpener reaches 78 decibels; and an electric shaver, 85. Even the doorbell contributes with a sound level of 100 dB-A.

Soft-touch cottons are prominently featured in the summer fashion line-up. The new softies range from nubby crochet yarns with raised surfaces to feather-weight cotton jerseys, drapable and smooth to the touch.

Coral Gables, Florida, for example, passed a noise control ordinance a couple of years or so ago, limiting the noise outdoor machinery can make anywhere in the city. Legislation was passed in New York State limiting the noise produced by motor vehicles on the New York State Thruway and other state roads. Connecticut has initiated a program to measure the sounds of motor vehicles on its roads and crack down on those which exceed the sound limits set by concerned experts.

NERVOUS STRAIN
Dr. Samuel Rosen, of the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York, for instance, has said that no one becomes indifferent to noise, which inflicts "stress, tension and sometimes intolerable nervous strain." It may also raise the blood pressure, cause gastrointestinal illness, exhaustion, and even permanent hearing damage.

Cotton jerseys are especially popular for fashion's new clingy T-shirt dresses. These knitted fabrics are often brilliantly printed with tiny Art Deco patterns, argyles, diamonds, and geometrics.

But until recently not nearly as much scientific attention was paid to noise pollution within the average home. Back in 1969, Dr. Alexander Cohan, Chief of the National Noise Study of the Bureau of Occupational Safety and Health, wrote me in answer to some inquiries. "Your question about industry efforts to reduce the noise of machinery can draw a variable reaction. Some manufacturers have made an honest attempt to quiet their products despite the fact that such quieting may add costs to their production process and thus place them in a poor competitive position relative to others, who can produce cheaper noisy products . . . The willingness of the consumer to pay an additional cost for a quieter piece of equipment could provide an incentive to industry to manufacture such equipment.

The next question is: What sources in the home create noise pollution, and how do we measure it to find the dangerously high level? A very thorough report of an intensive study by the University of Wisconsin was released last year, giving some startling answers to these questions. The study, financed as a public service by the Koss Corporation, makers of hi-fi equipment, used the "decibel" or "dB-A" as a measure of sound.

Mrs. Elton Alexander served as matron of honor, wearing a long pink gown with an A-line skirt, empire waist and long bell sleeves. Rows of lace highlighted the front bodice, and she carried a medley of blue, pink and orchid flowers in a colonial bouquet. Mrs. Norris Dickenson was matron of honor, and Miss Kimberly Page Boland was maid of honor. They wore blue and orchid gowns, respectively, and which were styled identical to Mrs. Alexander's. They carried

Try Bottle Gardening For House Plants

By SHERRY MULLIN
County HD Agent

House plants not only add interest and color to our indoor living area, but they can also contribute to our continued well being by aiding in the battle to clean-up the air we breathe. Admittedly, a few house plants cannot do a great deal in this regard but the sum total of the effect of all plants has a great deal to do with man's continued existence on this planet.

If you hesitate to grow plants indoors because you cannot locate a source of good soil, you are afraid the container will leak or overflow on to furniture or carpet, or you feel you do not have the time to spare for growing potted plants, maybe you should consider bottle gardening. All you need is an empty bottle, some cut branches of your favorite shrub, tree or herbaceous plant and tap water. Actually any waterproof container will suffice for a bottle garden — beverage bottles, vases, antique canning jars, old fish bowls, aquariums or anything else your imagination can dream up or you think might look attractive as a container.

Wash the containers with a kitchen detergent and hot water as they must be clean. After rinsing and draining fill with ordinary tap water.

Select branches from plants such as myrtle, geraniums, oleander, wax begonia, coleus, or hibiscus for cutting. In fact, almost any plant having a fairly sturdy stem will do provided you find it attractive to you. When cutting the stem make sure to use a good sharp shears so it will make a clean cut without bruising or crushing the stems. Remove the lower leaves so no leaves are below the water line when you place the stem in the container. Arrange the branches to create a natural appearance. No need to spend too much time in arranging as the leaves will usually turn to the light and fit together to create a pleasing composition.

These bottle arrangements can be used in almost any area of the house and will last for long periods. When no longer attractive, they can be easily replaced with fresh branches making sure first to thoroughly clean out the container. Add fresh tap water at frequent intervals to replace that lost by evaporation or used by the plant. Turn the arrangements at least weekly to keep them developing from all sides.

About once a month, empty the bottles and wash them thoroughly with hot water and detergent to kill algae and bacteria that may have accumulated. Scrub the stems with a soft brush to remove any algae and make a fresh cut to facilitate the uptake of water.

Frequently these branches will develop roots while in the water. These can be planted in soil, giving you new plants if you need them. By replacing branches that may have deteriorated you can always maintain an attractive arrangement in your favorite container.

Fabrics Printed In 18th Century

Cottons were the first fabrics printed by the block and roller method instead of by hand.

Produced in France in the 18th century, the fabrics depicted pastoral scenes in one color on a light ground. Today, these pastoral printed cottons are still popular. They're called "toiles," the French word for cloth.

Airy and light-looking, toiles are usually one-color etchings of country scenes or landscapes. The National Cotton Council suggests you use toile-printed curtains or slipcovers in a room with French provincial furniture. To best complement the scenic print use a lively one-color stripe elsewhere in the room.

Former Local Resident Married Saturday In Lansing, Michigan

Miss Wanda Lou Ball, a former local resident, and Darwin D. Shunk were married Saturday in Lansing, Mich., and plan to make their home in Mason, Mich., after a wedding trip to the northern part of that state.

The Rev. James C. Dotson performed the church ceremony before an altar accented with baskets of white mums flanked by candelabra entwined with ivy. Organ music was by Matthew Vandlen, and the vocalist was Mrs. Steven Wilcenski.

The bride's white Victorian gown was of silk organza over satin with full sheer sleeves, fitted bodice and gathered skirt. Re-embroidered lace trimmed the cuffs, bodice and high collar. A ruffled overskirt extended into a slight train. Anchoring her illusion veil was a headpiece of lace and pearls. The bridal bouquet was of pink sweetheart roses circled by button mums.

Mrs. Michael Hutcheson, Holbrook, N. Y., attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a long apricot gown trimmed with white eyelet.

Bridesmaids were Miss Julie Luttrell, Miss Diane Wisner, Miss Bonnie Jenkins, Mrs. Douglas Ball of Mason, Mich., and Miss Debbie Shunk, sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were identical to the matron of honor's but in pastel colors. They carried white roses tied with ribbons to match their dresses.

Darnell Clark was best man, and groomsmen were Douglas Ball of Mason, brother of the bride; Tim Siegrist, Robert Kellogg, Rex Bauer and Steve Church. Dan Ball, brother of the bride; and David Luttrell were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlor where refreshments were served by Mrs. Roscoe Luttrell, Mrs. Robert Proctor and Mrs. Gerald Shunk. The bride's table featured pink and white decorations and a tiered cake topped with wedding bells. The bridegroom's table was accented with a candle arrangement.

Out-of-town guests were Mr.

Ralph Dowden, head of the Howard County Junior College music department, has made an interesting discovery in preparing for "Forum," the July 3-8 musical comedy offering by the HCJC drama and music departments. It's a dinner-theatre affair ($3) by reservation.

A choral director, he is accustomed to starting from scratch to teach a number note by note but when he assembled a 15-piece orchestra, he discovered that the musicians pitched right into the book. Consequently, the band is taking on a polish much faster than he imagined.

The orchestra includes five woodwinds, three trumpets, two trombones, bass, piano, two percussionists, and a harpist, Mrs. Harry McClintock who is coming from Midland to fill this role. There are 24 orchestral numbers, including the overtures, incidentals, fanfare, etc.

The initial offering will be in the opening production number, "Comedy Tonight," replete with dance and song. Among the singing parts, the spotlight falls on Pseudolus singing "Free," joined later by three other male voices, in "Everybody Ought to Have a Maid." Pseudolus and

Altrusa Club Holds Officer Installation

Miss Jeanette Barnett, past service member-at-large for Altrusa Clubs International, installed officers for the 1972-1973 club year of the local Altrusa Club, Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Thirston Orenbaum, 504 Dallas.

Mrs. Beth Kay was installed as president. Serving with her will be Mrs. Willard Sullivan, vice president; Mrs. Horner Petty, recording secretary; Mrs. M. S. Knowles, treasurer; Mrs. Loyd Wooten, executive board officer; and Mrs. Dorothy Ragan and Mrs. A. O. Vandorf, board directors.

As Miss Barnett outlined the responsibilities of officers, she emphasized the importance Altrusa Clubs play as service organizations throughout the world.

"If your club accomplishes the seemingly impossible tasks it sets out to do, it is your accomplishment," said Miss Barnett to the members. "Whichever occurs, success or failure, it will not be these officers alone who are responsible, but you who have given them your wholehearted support — or failed to do so."

Mrs. V. F. Michael was unable to attend and will be installed as corresponding secretary at a later date. Mrs. Kay presided, and annual reports were given by committee chairmen. Mrs. Kay reported the club gained three members and lost one during the year, making a current membership of 20.

Altrusa projects for the year included assistance to Boys' Club of Big Spring, Big Spring State Hospital, grants-in-aid, Founders Fund Vocational Aid and the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Mrs. Kay also reviewed programs presented during the year.

Guests were Mrs. R. B. Hooper of Memphis, Tenn., Miss Agnes Currie, Mrs. J. B. Apple, Mrs. Bob Lee, Mrs. E. B. Martin and Mrs. C. F. Huling. A garden supper was served by Mrs. Orenbaum. Tables were decorated in a patriotic theme, and the meal was prepared by Mrs. Houston Cowden.

'Quotable Women'

"Far too often, the only avenues by which a woman can express herself are through publications controlled by men. Consequently, much of what women have had to offer has been labeled trivial or ignored as typically feminine, a term which carries all those delightful connotations of sugary, flowery, naive or simply poorly written." —Becky Backus, one of a group of college women who have begun publication of a literary magazine created and edited by women.

"When I was a girl I was very fond of horses, and I told everyone I was named after the horse and not after Abraham Lincoln's mother." —Nancy Hanks, chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, receiving a Currier and Ives print of the world's champion trotting horse of 1892, "Nancy Hanks."

"My door was always open and students would often come by and talk about their love affairs or homework. I always enjoyed it. I really have followed my students and I am very proud of them." —Pat Nixon, formerly a teacher, receiving a logo from the National Association of Retired Teachers.

"This year the women voters want to know about things like the economy and Vietnam" —Mrs. Edmund Muskie, wife of the Democratic presidential candidate.

"I don't think people judge a wife so much anymore on how she dresses or how she looks. People are more interested in how she thinks" —Mrs. George McGovern, ditto.

"It's a great likeness" —Tricia Nixon Cox when shown a painting of her father on an egg at the White House Easter Egg Roll.

"I read what I type, and I remember reading that" —Susan Lichtman, former secretary to IIT lobbyist Dita Beard about a controversial memo.

"When it stopped, you suddenly realized the place was just like a church... the clientele were very reverent" —Barbara Ponce, a sociology student, of her research at a bar that showed hard core pornography films.

In U. S.: Year Of The Chinese Look

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Writer

In China, 1972 will be the year of the Rat, but in the United States it will be, no doubt, the year of the Chinese Look in fashion, home furnishings, entertainment.

The Chinese influence is just in time for the new social season. Oriental fashions include everything from the authentic Chinese work suit to elegant Mandarin jackets that will no doubt be worn by hostesses as they serve lichee nuts at the buffet.

One of the "in" things to provide extra seating will be platforms. In China one of the earliest uses of platforms was incorporating them into the structure of the house to run from wall to wall. These are heated below and provided a place to recline. The idea of a platform evolved into the couch as we know it with arms and backrest.

But back to the American pagoda-pad. This easy inexpensive way to provide seating should have big appeal for young married people who haven't yet completely furnished their homes.

The home handyman version begins with a box frame — some designers use plywood. Or, one can use wood or plastic cubes as a base for the fabric cover. Many designers use carpet on the platforms. A well-known designer suggests carpet tiles for amateur workmen. The platforms can be built to accommodate the tiles you plan to use and no cutting will be involved.

A new snip and stick carpet may provide the exact size.

One designer covers the platforms with foam and uses expensive velvet and silks over them. It all depends on the effect one wants to achieve. It even may be a good way to use a fabric that is no longer useful in its present style.

All sorts of looks may be achieved with platforms. A long low platform used against the wall with others of different heights on either side of it can replace a sofa. And the three pieces are available for moving about in any fashion you choose. Youth likes low-seating so if platforms are adopted, another level can be evolved with floor cushions.

Different Fabric For Men's Jeans

New for now are men's jeans in textured cotton upholstery fabrics. With a hand-loomed look, the fabrics come in high voltage multi-color stripes.

Even more elegant in men's wear, is a California sportswear with Western styling. The surprise fabric for the suit is sculptured white cotton matelasse. The short-cropped jacket with shoulder tabs and buttoned patch pockets is teamed with flared-leg pants which also have buttoned belt tabs and patch pockets.

Pale On Pale Fall Forecast

NEW YORK (AP) — The pale dress with the pale jacket—that's Chester Weinberg for fall.

"I just feel paleness, as opposed to murky, dark sadness or bright bugles," said Chester following the fall of Chester Weinberg Ltd., Chester Now the less expensive line, and C.W. for Samuel Robert, a line of leathers.

He uses all one color for his ensembles.

"It's monochromatic, where one color changes only with the textures," said Chester.

Picture a pale peach suede jacket over a long pale peach dress. That's Chester. Peach on peach. White on white. Blue on blue.

"That's what I wanted to do and I did it. I'm never going to be halfway anything I believe in again—instead of trying to be all things to all people," said Chester.

buttons, just a clean, straight shape.

"I have a few belts and buttons as possible. It's very uncomplicated. For me, it's the culmination of everything I started three years ago, the unconstructed look," said Chester.

When Chester doesn't use the cardigan jacket, he uses the deep v-necked jacket, with an elasticized waist.

These two jacket styles go over all manner of simple A-line skirts, or pants.

It's very simple. The trick is in the tone-on-tone look, and it's a very good collection. It's clear and pale and luxurious. It has a distinct style all its own.

Mollie Parnis stuck to her ladylike feeling with good colors.

Giorgio di Sant'Angelo brought out his knit line for Great Times with a great flourish of grape and grey patterned dresses and jackets. They are busy-looking and sort of fun, with layers and sweaters and so on.

As for decorating the house for parties, one might adopt a Chinese theme on a table cloth by emblazoning it with a set of Chinese characters strokes that make the Chinese words. If one has a Chinese friend or knows a Chinese businessman who will cooperate, one might get one's name written in Chinese, and since it will be a matter of a few strokes, no doubt, the large characters might be sewn to the center of a cloth with bias binding or ribbon. Or, one might like to sew small characters around the border of a cloth. If one can't get characters to use as models for the cloth one might think pagoda-type Ts. Two Ts one below the other might produce the desired effect.

If paper cloths are to be used, the idea is even simpler. Make the characters with a brush and indigo ink.

Chop sticks might be used on the buffet table with silver flatware kept handy for hungry types who can't cope. Silver chopsticks are being shown in gift shops.

For table lighting, a row of jade colored tapers placed in large red apples could be charming. One great thing about Chinese decorating may be the probability of the return of big Oriental lanterns to the party scene. But one can find strings of little lantern lights that might be placed around the buffet skirt.

NUDIST PLAYGROUND—Yugoslavia's long, winding Adriatic coastline is attracting thousands of nudists from all over Europe and other parts of the world. Since the Koversada nudist camp opened in 1961, nearly half a million nudists have found their way there.

LAST DECADE BRINGS CHANGES Adriatic Coast Attracts Nudists By Thousands

KOVERSADA NUDIST COLONY, Northern Yugoslavia — While a group of bronzed Scandinavians romp about in the raw here, local workers — are carpentering and painting Koversada into readiness for a forthcoming international nudist convention.

A little over 10 years ago, Koversada and Vrsar, just a few minutes away on the mainland, were sleepy fishing villages well off the beaten track. Situated at the mouth of the serene Limski fjord, jutting into the Istrian peninsula, both the island and mainland villages fished for tuna and cultivated oyster beds while the tourists world passed by.

But things have changed over the last decade. Since the Koversada Auto-Nudo-Camp — as brochures describe it — opened in 1961, almost half a million nudists have wound their way down Vrsar's narrow Boulevard of the National Army to the quayside. Before vacationing nudists can board the ferry, they must produce a valid membership card from their local nudist club; and controls are more stringent than at any national frontier crossing.

CONGRESS SET — Jerko Sladoljev, a young tourist official from Vrsar, reckons some 10,000 nudists from 35 countries will turn up on Koversada at the beginning of August for the 13th congress of the Antwerp-based International Nudist Federation.

"And we will turn out a force of nudist security police to insure there are no gate-crashing Peeping Toms," he said.

Koversada is not without competition in the area. On the other side of the Limski fjord from Vrsar lies Valalta, the largest international nudist camp. The entire area is covered in dense forests, which reach down to the beach and small coves. The Valalta colony boasts the world's largest nudist restaurant, seating 600 people with one section catering solely to vegetarians.

Nudism has become an increasingly important aspect of Yugoslavia's rapidly expanding tourist industry over the last few years. Last year alone, over 500,000 nudists plowed an estimated $30 million into the country's economy.

"This is only the tip of an iceberg. New camps are opening all the time, most of them geared toward naturists who drive over a thousand miles to the Adriatic coast," said one tourist official.

With Koversada chosen from a long list of vying Mediterranean nudist havens as the site for this year's INF congress, revenue is expected to soar.

Although there are today over a hundred secluded nudist camps along the 647-mile-long Adriatic Highway stretching from the Italian frontier down to Ulcinj on the Albanian border, it is the Istrian peninsula, forming part of the Croatian and the whole of the Slovenian coastline, which has gained most popularity with Europe's nudists in recent years.

The doyen of Yugoslavia's nudist colonies is the island of Rab, also a favorite with nudists, just south of Istria in the Kvarner Bay. The boat to Rab from Rijeka docks daily during the season at the tiny port of Lopar to disembark nudists. The other bay islands of Krk, Cres, Mali Losinj and Veliki Losinj also have areas set aside purely for nudists in the summer.

COLONIES BENEFITED — Many of Istria's nudist colonies have benefited from the vast United Nations' North Adriatic Project which has pumped considerable finance and expertise into resorts such as Porec and Rovinj. The ancient city of Porec, which was conquered by the Byzantine armies as far back as 539 A.D., is today being invaded by thousands of sun-seeking nudists from distant parts.

The Riviera Hotel group six miles from Porec has set aside a nudist beach, Solaris, complete with bungalows, camping facilities and sports grounds. In Rovinj, local tourist officials developed Maschin, a small island, exclusively for nudists. And this year, a hotel company at Medulin near Pula on the southernmost tip of the Istrian peninsula is opening a colony for 10,000 nudists.

Skyscrapers Popping Up All Over Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fifteen years ago, a visitor from the East standing atop Mulholland Drive and looking out over the sprawl of Los Angeles, might have said "It's very impressive, but it's flat. It isn't a skyline."

Now, the same visitor, standing at the same spot would remark: "Aren't you afraid an earthquake will knock down all those skyscrapers?"

It's the same city, all right, but since the late 1950s, when virtually the only tall building was the 28-story City Hall, skyscrapers have been popping up everywhere, dwarfing City Hall.

The newest—and tallest—is the 62-story, 858-foot United California Bank Building, expected to be finished by the end of 1973.

It is the tallest building west of Chicago and is touted as the tallest bank building in the world.

It will stand among lesser high rises in downtown Los Angeles, which is becoming an increasing maze of high-rise office and apartment buildings.

Already completed are the 32-story twin towers of Atlantic Richfield Plaza—667 feet 42-story Crocker Citizens Bank—602 feet, Union Bank Square—42 stories and 516 feet, and the 32-story Occidental Life, Mutual Benefit Life and Bunker Hill Towers.

Los Angeles' skyscrapers are spread throughout the city, stand much stronger tremors.

Texas Traffic Toll Declines — AUSTIN (AP) — A total of 1,514 persons have died this year in Texas traffic accidents, a decrease of seven or 4 per cent from this time a year ago, the Department of Public Safety reported Saturday.

The department said there have been 1,287 fatal traffic accidents this year, 20, or 2 per cent, more than a year ago.

999 Years For Stabbing

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — After hearing a prosecution request for a 1,000-year prison sentence, a Hunt County jury sentenced a Dallas man to 999 years.

Raymond Rodriguez, 24, had been convicted in September, 1971, for the stabbing of Lonnie B. Warren. Warren's body was found in a ditch in Hunt County, permeated with knife wounds.

Dist. Atty. Larry Miller asked the six-man, six-woman jury to give Rodriguez 1,000 years in prison for the crime.

According to testimony during the trial, Warren had given Rodriguez a ride at Lee Park in Dallas. En route to Lake Tawakoni, according to testimony, Rodriguez stabbed Warren.

Children Can Still Enroll

More children were enrolled in the Citywide Summer Recreation program last week.

And there's still time for more to enroll. Pat Owens, director of the program, said that children can be enrolled at the program headquarters in Comanche Trail Park or at Lakeview YMCA. Activities begin at 9 a.m. daily and operate to 12 noon, capped by a recreational swim, and there is no charge. A trained staff supervises the program at both points.

At Comanche Park there are now 127 enrolled, although warm weather cut cumulative attendance somewhat to 260 for the week. Lakeview had 598 in attendance, peaking at 136 one day. The teen-age program at Runnels Gym had attendance of 44 for two sessions.

Owens emphasized that all children of elementary age (and those in the junior high-high school bracket for the Runnels program) are invited to take part. The City of Big Spring, United Fund, Big Spring schools and Y cooperate in financing the program.

Raquel Gets Her Revenge In New Flick

Paramount Pictures' offbeat Western, "Hannie Caulder," starring Raquel Welch in the title role of a lady gunslinger, opens soon at the Cinema Theater.

Miss Welch, a sensuous beauty, has turned up in films in such out-of-this-world spots as "One Million B.C." and taken a "Fantastic Voyage," in a miniature submarine, through the human body.

As "Hannie Caulder," Miss Welch turns gunfighter to avenge the brutal murder of her husband by a trio of bandits, portrayed by Ernest Borgnine, Jack Elam and Strother Martin. Robert Culp plays a laconic bounty hunter who teaches her to shoot.

The movie progresses through "Hannie Caulder's" meetings with the trio of bandits and her husband's murder to the final scene in an abandoned prison.

"Hannie Caulder," produced by Patrick Curtis and directed by Burt Kennedy, was filmed in Panavision and color, on location near Almeria, Spain, on the celebrated Costa del Sol. Interiors were filmed at Twickenham Studios, in London. Edward Scaife was director of photography.

The screenplay for "Hannie Caulder" is by Z. X. Jones; original story by Peter Cooper; based on characters created by Ian Quicke and Bob Richards. S. Tony Tenser was executive producer. Ray Aghayan designed Miss Welch's costumes.

SHAFT'S BIG SCORE — Richard Roundtree as Shaft is chased by a helicopter through a building. The scene is from the sequel to "Shaft," a hit private eye story.

Star Concerned About Children

Richard Roundtree, who achieved instant stardom as a tough private eye named "Shaft" is concerned about how young Blacks react both to him and to his character John Shaft on screen.

"The thing I've noticed most," says Roundtree, "is the fact that many of the kids, especially those between the ages of about eight and 13, are like little Shafts, man. They really emulate that character. And many parents of kids in this age range tell me they youngsters really identify strongly with Shaft, which I think is beautiful. It's a positive thing."

"I don't think all the things John Shaft does up there are admirable and I wouldn't teach all of what he does, and is, to my own son if I had one. But the fact of Shaft's presence is enough to redeem whatever negative aspects he may possess. I mean, let's face it, our kids have had an overly prolonged diet of John Wayne and Doris Day."

With Roundtree starring in his second MGM film "Shaft's Big Score!" he's certainly providing whatever he can for diversified film appetites.

And what does Roundtree think of the over-all image of Blacks on the tube and in movie houses?

"Basically," he reflects, "I think it's all positive. There's something good to be found in all of it. A lot of people put down 'Sweet Sweetback' for example, had, along with the exaggerations, images they could relate to in a real sense. We haven't had that. That's why at this point I feel that everything Black on film deserves examination."

"But in another three or four years I think we'll be seeing everything from Black sex exploitation on films to love stories and historical films. It's all part of a very natural ethnic movie revolution."

Movie Theater Run By One

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) — The neighborhood motion picture theater has fallen on hard times, and David Lynnes is facing the challenge of an old-time approach.

The former machine shop employe has gone into business as a combined owner, usher and projector operator for his recently opened West Side Theater which seats only 89 persons.

"So many small-town theaters have closed because of high operating expenses," he said. "All I have to do is plug the projector into the wall and the movie takes care of itself."

His format stresses family films from the 1920s and other bygone ages. He uses a 16-millimeter projector rather than costlier 35-millimeter equipment normally found in larger movie houses.

When remodeling the building in which he leases theater space, he fashioned an ice cream parlor in the style of the 1890s rather than a modernistic theater lobby.

"I'm not interested in competing with the big theaters," Lynnes said. "This is a different situation. I prefer to play back the oldies and the top box-office hits of the past."

Rod Serling Rankled Over Loss Of Control

HOLLYWOOD — Rod Serling is furious. His series, "Rod Serling's Night Gallery," has been sharply revamped for next year, reduced from an hour to 30 minutes and altered in tone and concept. And he would like to walk away from the project. But he is bound by a contract and NBC refuses to yield.

"It is simply this," said Serling. "I have lost the creative control on a series that I created. What the show is going to be now is 'Mannix' in a cemetery. I'll still be fronting it, giving my little spiel, but the title is strictly a misnomer. It won't be Rod Serling's anything anymore. Contractually, I have no control at all on what goes on the screen. It was always that way but I never knew it."

I asked Serling why on earth he signed such a contract in the first place. Doesn't he have a manager, an attorney? Doesn't someone read the fine print when they are tossing all that money around?

DIDN'T LOOK

"Frankly, I didn't even look at the contract when I signed," Serling admitted rudely. "And for that I guess I have to blame my ego. I figured, well, obviously I would have control on the show. Gradually, after we went on the air, I began to realize the position I had allowed myself to be placed in. The people at Universal Studios found me, thereafter, to be irascible, a persistent gadfly, but with, I believe, some justification."

"I suppose I could just say I'm leaving and then they'd wave that contract at me. But I won't publicize the show. If anybody is kind enough to write fan letters to me about a show, I'll forward them on to NBC and Universal. So I'm not actually washing my hands of the show. I'm just toweeling them off."

Still, as Rod says, he will function as the reluctant host. "I'll still be standing in front of the cameras — 5 feet 5 of solid gristle," he said. "Otherwise, except for the five shows I wrote out of the 15 for next season, I won't even set eyes on the material. I have no say in choosing the actors."

"My main objection is the way they want to change the show — to make it more 'suspenseful,' they say. There was even rash talk of changing the title to 'Rod Serling's Suspense Gallery.' For all I care, they can call it 'King For A Day.' All they want now is 'suspense' and wailing winds, which isn't what 'Night Gallery' was ever supposed to represent."

It was about midway this last season, says Rod, that the sniping began. He was the target.

"Suddenly, I'd look at a 'Night Gallery' film and I couldn't recognize my script," Serling said. "I couldn't ever find out how or where it had

'Forum' Play Will Open Five-Night Run Monday

"Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" shapes up as a big bargain for next week.

First, there's a dinner; then there is the play with vocal numbers and elaborate choreography; and finally a 15-piece orchestra. All for the price of $3.

However, theatre-goers were reminded to call their reservations into Howard County Junior College (7-6311) as soon as possible in order to pick the evening they want. Opening night is 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 3, followed by productions Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Jack McCormick and his Quality Food Service is catering the pre-show meal in the college cafeteria where an octagon-shaped stage has been erected.

"Preparing for a musical in five weeks is almost unheard of," said Dan Shockley of the drama department who is directing the five-night stand of "Forum."

"But everything is falling into place just fine and I think we're really going to have something fine. It looks like it will easily out do last year's summer production which was so popular."

Ralph Dowden, head of the music department and who is working with the vocalists and directing the orchestra, echoed Shockley's enthusiasm. He said he was delighted with the performance of the orchestra.

Much of the choreography, which has stirred excitement in the rehearsals, has been done by the students themselves. The young actors are putting in three hours or more daily in practice sessions.

McGovern Sets Texas Visit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Presidential contender George McGovern will visit San Antonio next week, making his only Texas stop on a six-state southern campaign tour.

McGovern is scheduled to arrive here Monday afternoon for a rally that night and a Tuesday breakfast with newsmen.

Organizers said he also is expected to meet Monday evening with South Texas delegates to the National Democratic Convention.

McGovern picked up 34 delegates at the recent Texas Democratic Convention here.

He did not attend the convention, although he sent his national political coordinator, Pierre Salinger, to represent him. This will be McGovern's first campaign appearance in San Antonio, where his Texas state headquarters is located.

He is to arrive here from Oklahoma City and will then visit Little Rock, Ark., Atlanta, Ga., Columbia, S.C., and Richmond, Va.

CROP REPORT

Cotton Progress On South Plains

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Summer came in in style this week as temperatures soared past the 100-degree mark in a number of locations. Rain showers continued to fall in a few areas although a number of counties still need rain. Moisture from the preceding week gave a big boost to crops, ranges and pastures in many areas. However, rains have delayed harvest operations in South Texas.

Crops are generally growing well over the state, and planting is moving to completion of the High and Rolling Plains, said Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Most of the acreage still to be planted is dryland. The small grain harvest continued active except where delayed by rains. Small grain yields are generally good on the High Plains.

Peanut planting is still active in East and Central Texas.

Hay making continues across Texas with second and third cuttings in progress. Rain is needed in some eastern counties to boost additional cuttings. Hay is plentiful and of good quality in many counties.

PEACH HARVEST

The peach harvest is gaining momentum as it moves northward over the state, noted Hutchison. Most of the crop is of good quality with good yields. The pecan crop is also progressing well in most areas.

Ranges and pastures got a big boost from recent rains. Cattle marketings are heavy in some sections where grazing is still short.

The Extension Service director pointed out that insects are beginning to build up on grain sorghum and cotton in central and southern areas. And screwworms are plaguing livestock across the state with the month of June a certainty to set the all-time record for the number of cases for that month since 1962, the first year of the Screwworm Eradication Program. Cases were confirmed in 15 new counties during the week ending June 17.

District agricultural agents report the following conditions in their respective areas of the state.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton is making good progress except in a few areas where hail destroyed stands, noted Billy C. Ginter, Lubbock. Some replanting is underway. Dryland cotton is also being planted in the southern part of the area. Planting of grain sorghum is complete and the crop is growing rapidly. Vegetable crops are making good progress, and pastures and ranges look good due to recent rains.

RAINS HELP

FAR WEST: Light to heavy rains continue to improve the soil moisture situation, reported Ray Siegmund, Fort Stockton. Planting of dryland crops is about complete and the small grain harvest is over. Irrigated crops are making excellent growth. Harvesting of alfalfa is active with good yields and excellent prices. Livestock are in good condition but screwworm infestations continue to mount.

WEST CENTRAL: Grain sorghum and peanuts are making good progress but will need rain soon. Some peanut planting is still in progress. Pastures and ranges look good across the area but need more rain. Livestock are in good shape with marketing ranging from moderate to heavy. Screwworm cases continue to pop up over the district.

SOUTHWEST: Field crops are making good growth with good yields projected, according to Doyle Moore, Uvalde. Hay yields and quality are above average. Watermelons and cantaloupes are moving to market in good quantity with the onion and carrot harvest about complete. Ranges and pastures are in good condition as are livestock.

SOUTH: Prolonged rains have damaged crops in some counties and have delayed harvest operations. Timely insect control programs in cotton have also been hampered and bollweevil and bollworm populations are increasing. Delay of the grain sorghum harvest in southern counties has brought on the danger of sprouting heads. Pastures and ranges are in excellent condition.

August Draft Call Is Made

AUSTIN — The August Draft Call was announced by Col. Melvin N. Glantz, the State Director of Selective Service for Texas. Men in the First Priority Selection Group with numbers of 75 or lower will be subject to induction in August. This priority group is made up of men born in 1952 or older men who have lost a draft deferment during Calendar Year 1972 and who are classified in Class 1-A, 1-A-0, or 1-0.

Glantz noted that his is an increase of 25 in the lottery number for induction from the July draft call.

There is also an increase in lottery numbers for pre-induction Armed Forces Examinations from 90 in July to 100 in August. Men in the First Priority Group are those who are subject to examination orders.

The August Induction Orders will be issued between July 3rd and July 28th, with 30 days notice from the date of mailing. Under the Uniform National Call system there is no quota for Texas; however, Glantz indicated that he expects approximately 500 men to be inducted in Texas in August.

Peel-O-Matique the revolutionary skin care cream that gently peels away the dead skin layer that may cause superficial lines and wrinkles

A look in the mirror reveals your expression lines, thought lines across your forehead, smile lines around your eyes and laugh lines on your cheeks. They make you look older than you really are. These are normal lines but they become more pronounced with the accumulation of dry outer skin and later become wrinkles. The lines over your lips are also caused by a layer of dead, dry skin, the same layer a man removes in daily shaving. That's why the lower part of his face is wrinkle free . . . why women's faces age faster than men's faces. Peel-O-Matique cream removes the dead skin layer. It works in three safe, easy phases. PHASE I works with the friction of your fingertips, going beneath the dead skin layer to break it down and rub it off the surface. PHASE II tones and firms the "new" skin and protects it from sun and impurities. PHASE III restores the normal balance of protein in the skin that stabilizes and protects. Peel-O-Matique does not contain any abrasive substances that tear down skin tissue, and is free of chemical acids. The 3 PHASE Kit, 20.00

Mr. Kal Ghosen, Peel-O-Matique representative, will be in our store Monday, June 26th, through Saturday, July 1st, to demonstrate this revolutionary new skin cream.
