IN ALASKA Weather Break Rallies Search Party Again

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Taking advantage of the best weather since the search began, 73 military and civilian aircraft renewed the hunt today for a light plane missing since Monday with House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and three others aboard.

Coast Guard cutters and a team of mountain rescue experts also joined the intensified search along a rugged, 560-mile stretch of coast between Anchorage and Juneau.

Broken to scattered clouds hung over most of the area and an Air Force spokesman described the weather as "the best we've had since the search began."

"It could be a make or break deal," he added.

Planes flew over the entire area, but the main effort was centered around two areas — the Portage Pass area 50 miles southwest of Anchorage and mountain areas northwest of Juneau, about 500 miles to the southeast.

Fog, rain and generally poor flying weather prevented all but the briefest of visual searches over the two areas Wednesday. About 40 planes took part in the hunt.

The missing twin-engine Cessna 310 left Anchorage Monday on the last leg of a whirlwind campaign tour by Boggs on behalf of Alaska's lone congressman, Rep. Nick Begich. It has not been heard from since.

With the 58-year-old Boggs were Begich, 40, his aide, Russell Brown, 37, and the pilot, Don E. Jozz, 38, of Fairbanks.

While the planes and helicopters crisscrossed the 45,000-square-mile search area, three Coast Guard cutters plied the rough seas in the Gulf of Alaska searching for a trace of the plane.

A crack 11-man mountain rescue team moved out for another ground search over glaciated valleys and steep mountainsides of the Portage Pass area. The team climbed to the top of the pass Wednesday but reported it had found no trace of the plane. Two additional climbing teams were being held on standby.

Growth Rate Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy slowed down in the July-September quarter, but still scored solid gains while the rate of inflation edged up, the government said today.

The Commerce Department reported that the Gross National Product, market value of the nation's output of goods and services, advanced at a 5.9-percent annual rate during the third quarter compared with 9.4 percent in the second. The rate of inflation moved up to 2.2 percent compared with 1.8 percent in the second quarter.

Although the growth rate was slower than in the previous quarter it was well within the over-all performance forecast by the Nixon administration.

The administration has predicted that the economy will grow at slightly more than 6 percent for all of 1972 while the rate of inflation will be about 3.25 percent.

A Commerce Department analyst, Asst. Secretary Harold C. Passer, said the figures announced by his department made it virtually certain that 1972 "will be a banner year for the U.S. economy." He said they show the economy is continuing to expand rapidly and that inflation has been held in check.

Passer said prospects are excellent for the administration to reach its goal of a 3 percent inflation rate at the end of the year. According to the GNP figures, the rate of inflation increased by 3 percent in the first three quarters of the year.

The department said that GNP increased by $22.8 billion in the third quarter to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,162 trillion. In terms of current dollars, this was a growth of 8.3 percent.

But in subtracting the effects of inflation, the government figured it as a real gain in output of 5.9 percent.

In the previous quarter, the GNP increased by $30.3 billion. The administration said at the time that it would be difficult to sustain a growth rate of 9.4 percent and as low a rate of inflation as 1.8 percent.

Washington Is Investigating Dallas Banks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department confirmed today it is investigating the existence and nature of relationships between commercial banks in Dallas County, Tex.

A spokesman issued a statement in which the department said the investigation is concerned solely with the existence of "affiliations" between various commercial banks in Dallas County, either through minority stock ownership or otherwise and their possible effects on banking competition in Dallas County.

The statement said the investigation is not directed at any particular form of business or organization such as bank holding companies "but rather is focused solely on possible 'affiliations' between legally separate and independent banking organizations."

Similar questions concerning "affiliations" between legally separate and independent banks have arisen recently in two actions brought by the department challenging bank mergers or bank holding company acquisitions, the department said.

The federal government filed antitrust suits against the Southern National Bank in Atlanta and the Trans-Texas Bancorporation in El Paso.

"Various applications filed by banks to form bank holding companies and to acquire other banks have contained information which suggests the existence of such 'affiliations' in the Dallas area," the statement said. "The inquiry currently in progress simply represents an attempt to develop information on this issue."

The Justice Department declined to name the banks it was investigating.

The statement said the announcement was made today "because of the widespread public speculation as to the nature and purpose of its banking investigation in the Dallas, Tex., area."

Newspaper reports have indicated that the Justice Department's antitrust division sent a six-page letter last week to a number of Dallas banks, in which it told of its investigation "because of questions raised under the federal antitrust laws."

The letter allegedly asked the Dallas County banks for detailed information on their financial condition and asked a lengthy series of questions relating to the bank's direct or indirect ties with other commercial banking institutions in Dallas county.

The letter asked the banks to supply the "preliminary" information to the department "at your earliest convenience."

At the time, an official in the antitrust division said the letter was sent to "many and not all" of the banks in the county.

Congress' Battle Endured To End

IN STATE FAIR

Ackerly Youth Shows Champ

Gary Webb, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Webb of Ackerly and a Dawson County 4-H youth, showed the reserve champion Polled Hereford at the State Fair in Dallas in the junior steer division.

The youth is an eighth grade student at Flower Grove. Lee Igo of Sterling City showed the reserve champion crossbred junior lamb.

Many of the top junior winners announced Wednesday were from West Texas. The grand champion junior steer was Patch, an Angus-Charolais owned by Jim Dyer of Fort Davis and the reserve champion was Stag, an Angus owned by Dale Wilfong, Rotan.

Reserve champion Angus was owned by Ross Carter, Dalhart; reserve champion Hereford, William Donham, Cisco, champion Polled Hereford, James Hinton, Floydada.

Welby House Call Benefits Center

HOUSTON (AP) — Television's "Marcus Welby, M.D." made a "house call" here Wednesday night and picked up a "fee" of $102,000.

Actor Robert Young collected the check at the home of oilman Johnny Mitchell. He immediately endorsed it over to the Houston Chapter of the American Medical Center, a cancer research institute and hospital in Denver. The money was collected by local citizens.

Houston sponsors of the event had set a goal of $100,000.

Unwrapped Pumpkin Mailed By Woman

RUTLAND, Mass. (AP) — "You can mail anything as long as it got the right postage on it," says Mrs. Harold B. Janes.

And she proved it by mailing an unwrapped but adequately stamped pumpkin to her granddaughter for Halloween.

The foot-high pumpkin travelled the 13 miles between Rutland and 3-year-old Katrina Janes' home in Rochdale and arrived intact.

It carried two 50-cent stamps. "I wanted her to have that particular pumpkin," said Mrs. Janes, "and I know she loves to get things in the mail, just as all children do."

English Pound Is Troubled Again

LONDON (AP) — The British pound fell to its lowest level in 22 months today under a wave of selling orders from continental centers. In two hours of hectic trading it dropped 1.5 U.S. cents.

Dealers said the pound apparently came under attack as a result of Britain's persistent high rate of inflation and the threat of a national power strike.

The pound dropped to $2.394 shortly before noon, down from Wednesday's closing of $2.4082.

This was its lowest level since December 1970. Sterling had lost more than 15 cents since June 23, when the British government freed the pound to float at the mercy of market forces to halt a run on the pound.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Congress, battling with President Nixon to the end, killed about as many major bills as it passed.

Even before adjournment Wednesday night, the Democratic-controlled Congress had its two-year record thrust into the national political campaign.

Nixon accused the legislators of excessive spending and raised the issue again in his response to his twin defeat on the last day of the session.

Congress overrode his veto of a $24.6 billion water-pollution control bill and killed the $250-billion federal spending ceiling he sought along with unlimited power to make the cuts to achieve it. Nixon characterized the votes as an invitation to a tax increase.

Democrats replied that the President exaggerated the cost of the clean-water bill, that he has repeatedly vetoed funds urgently needed for education, health and other programs treating social ills, and that he has protected the Pentagon budget from their effort to pare what they call wasteful spending.

Nixon's only major domestic legislation to survive Congress was the $30.2 billion revenue-sharing bill which he plans to sign in ceremonies Friday at Constitution Hall in Philadelphia.

But Congress killed the welfare-reform plan which Nixon repeatedly called his most important domestic proposal. It killed anti-smoking legislation, all of the President's broad government reorganization proposals, and all of the various national-health-care plans.

Congress fought and lost battles with the President on foreign policy and military issues in both the 1971 and 1972 sessions.

Amendments calling for an end to U.S. involvement in the Indochina war cleared the Senate three times in 1971 and twice in 1972, but none ever got through the House.

A watered-down version of a proposal by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to fix a time for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam did go to the White House last year but Nixon announced he would ignore it.

Midwest Has Christmas Card Look After Snow

By The Associated Press

The Midwest had a taste of winter today with snow bringing a Christmas card look to many northern sections.

Metropolitan Chicago was whitened and state highway salt trucks made their first appearance of the season to keep expressways and the interstate system passable. Snow continued to fall to midday and rush hour traffic was so tied up that main feeder lines into the city resembled huge parking lots.

Most of the snow as dumped off Lake Michigan into the eastern portions of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Sault Ste. Marie received 2 1/2 inches of new snow and had a covering of 4 inches.

Meanwhile, temperatures skidded to record lows for the date in a 10-state area. Among the records were 9 at Sioux Falls, S.D., 15 at Minneapolis and Madison, Wis.; 17 at Des Moines; 21 at Kansas City; 22 at Springfield, Ill., and 25 at St. Louis.

Snow showers or flurries occurred from the Great Lakes to New England and south along the Atlantic Coast to the mid Atlantic States.

Freezing temperatures and some snow and sleet hit as far south as West Texas, especially around Big Spring where it was 32 degrees.

By contrast temperatures soared into the 90s and to record highs for this time of the season in the Gulf Coast section of the South.

Rain, some locally heavy, was widespread through the central and southern intermountain region of the West. Flash flood warnings were up for southern Utah, the western and northern mountain section of New Mexico and the central and northern parts of Arizona.

Workers tried to control an oil slick in the swollen San Juan River near Lake Powell in southern Utah. About 38,000 gallons of oil from a broken pipeline spilled into the scenic river last week and flowed 100 miles downstream toward Lake Powell.

An intense, short-lived storm lashed Southern California during the night and one death was attributed to it. Los Angeles International Airport was flooded for a time by 1.52 inches of rain but remained operational.

Low-lying residential areas were inundated, some highways and railroad tracks were washed out and power failures were common in much of Los Angeles' eastern suburban areas.

Smith Is Hopeful Solons Will Act

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith has admitted defeat in his attempt to get competitive car and home insurance rates but said he was hopeful the 30-day session just ended had paved the way for a thorough reform of Texas insurance law by the 1973 Legislature.

Gleeful legislators headed home Wednesday after Smith made a delayed announcement that he would not call still another special session of the 62nd Legislature.

The 4th Called Session ended at midnight Tuesday in a stalemate after a House-Senate negotiating committee failed to produce a compromise between separate competitive rate bills approved by the House and Senate. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Rayford Price told their respective houses they thought Smith would have them back at work the next day.

However, Smith issued a statement near noon Wednesday saying "despite my disappointment that no competitive rate bill was finally passed and my belief that the need and the legislative desire for competitive rates has been well established, it is my judgment that it would be fruitless to call the legislature back for a fifth called session to deal with insurance reform. The differences between the two houses of the Legislature at this time appear too great to be worked out."

Smith added that he remained firm in his conviction "bolstered by the legislative de-

Sound Of Rain Not Music To Farmers

Rain and cold wind pelted cotton fields in the Big Spring area this morning.

Reports of rainfall as high as two inches were not music to farmers ears, who wish that winter weather would wait until winter. Ranchers, however were delighted to have their pastures freshened.

Some persons reported snowflakes and frost, but no confirmed readings backed up the reports.

The snuggling weather comes at a time when cotton fields beg for hot wind and blistering sun.

The temperature is expected to rise somewhat on Friday. Forecasts indicate a high Friday near 60 degrees.

Probability of precipitation for the remainder of today and tonight is 60 per cent with a forecast of 50 per cent for Friday.

The John Couch place at Luther reported two inches, 35 degrees and wind.

Coahoma school agriculture office reported from one inch to one and a half inches in the Coahoma area.

Sands High School, Ackerly reported receiving one inch in 38 degrees and wind.

Forsan Oil Well Service reported a low of 35 degrees and about one-half inch of rain.

Bert Shive, Lomax noted a low of 36 with 0.6 inch of rain the early morning.

In Southwest Big Spring one gauge measured 0.7 inch.

Webb AFB reported 0.3 inch with a low temperature reading of 39 degrees.

John McKee Has Yet To Hear Sentence

DALLAS (AP) — Almost three months after he was assessed a seven-year probation sentence for embezzling Masonic funds, one-time Dallas Crime Commissioner Chairman John McKee still has not been formally sentenced nor started his probation.

McKee was convicted in Criminal District Judge John Mead's court July 29 and the jury assessed him the probation sentence two days later. The next move was for him to appear before the judge for formal sentencing so that the term of his probation could begin.

Not on Probation

Asked if McKee had not yet appeared before him for sentencing, Judge Mead said today: "That is correct." He added: "The delay may seem unusual to you, but it's not unusual."

J. C. Ledbetter, director of the Adult Probation Department, confirmed that McKee is not officially on probation.

Sentencing was first delayed because McKee's lawyer, Bill Alexander, filed delaying motions. These are understood to have expired some weeks ago.

McKee, 66, was found guilty in a seven-day trial last July of embezzling $3,802—money which he spent on purchasing a luxury car for Charlotte Weirauch, then his girl friend and now his wife. Since the trial they have continued to live in a house he owns in suburban Irving.

McKee headed the Greater Dallas Crime Commission from 1957 until Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and Police Chief Frank Dwyne disclosed last February that McKee is really James Kell Zullinger, a one-time Navy deserter from Pennsylvania and living under an assumed name.

McKee, who held high Masonic rank as chairman of the executive committee of the four Dallas Scottish Rite bodies and was the personal representative of Lee Lockwood of Waco, the Sovereign Grand Inspector-General of the Scottish Rite in Texas, was said to have used checks drawn on Masonic funds for non-Masonic business. He was stripped of his Masonic titles after being indicted.

After Critical

While head of the Crime Commission, McKee was sometimes critical of the police department and the district attorney's office.

He thought Dallas citizens were lukewarm in their approach to crime and he once told guests at a luncheon: "If I were a criminal, I would come to Dallas to commit my crime." He added that the chances of being brought to trial here were "quite remote."

When he is placed on probation, McKee will have to make regular reports to Dean Chafin, his probation officer, at weekly or monthly intervals. He will be required to pay the usual probation fee of $10 a month and seek permission before changing his address or travelling out of state. It will be up to the court to decide what further restitution, if any, he should make to the Scottish Rite body.

Shriver: Nixon's Hand Was Forced

By The Associated Press

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has returned to the campaign with a denunciation of antiwar protesters "who have exercised their lungs... much better than they exercised their minds."

Meanwhile, his Democratic rival, Sargent Shriver, said that win or lose, the campaign will have been worth it if it forces President Nixon to accept peace in Vietnam.

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern, campaigning in Ohio, also touched on the war issue Wednesday, saying Nixon "is going to be traveling all over the world in search of the peace that was promised four years ago."

President Nixon did not have any campaign appearances scheduled for Wednesday or today. A radio broadcast that was planned for today was postponed until sometime during the weekend.

A Nixon spokesman did deny that anyone at the White House "had any involvement, awareness or association" with the June 17 break-in at Democratic party headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington.

"If anyone had been involved in such activities," said press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, "they would not long be at the White House."

Vice President Agnew made his first campaign appearance of the week at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Green Bay, Wis., and was scheduled to go to Bridgeport, Conn., today.

Confronted by antiwar hecklers at Calvin College in Grand Rapids, Agnew repeatedly chided them. "I am certain that the many students—the majority of students—who have sat and sat courteously through my remarks... are somewhat embarrassed by the lack of civility on the part of those few who exercised their lungs," he said to cheers.

Shriver, the Democratic candidate for vice president, said in Chicago that if the McGovern-Shriver campaign "can achieve nothing more than to force President Nixon to accept peace terms in Vietnam, that will have been a great achievement."

At Yonkers, N.Y., he told a black that any black who votes for Nixon this year "has lost his brain."

McGovern said in Toledo, Ohio, that he wishes Kissinger well in his current efforts to work out a peace agreement, but added: "I do not honestly believe that's what is going to happen."

Weather Lays Shadow On Dawson Prospects

By MARJ CARPENTER

LAMESA — Until the cold snap hit here Wednesday night, Dawson County was eying a cotton crop that might make the top producing county in Texas this year.

What the cold weather will do to prospects is not yet determined, but if weather clears and warms quickly, it will probably not slow down what had begun to look like a record-breaking crop for the county.

LATE LINT DOUBTFUL

The crop estimate for Dawson County, according to County Agent Lee Roy Colgan has climbed another 10,000 bales. This estimate is within range of the all-time cotton production record in Dawson County of 213,217 bales in 1962.

Colgan explained that there is some doubt on the late cotton development. "It all depends on the weather." As long as it remains around 65 degrees at night and climbs to the 80s during the day, we're in good shape," Wednesday night changed that.

Figures released by Plains Cotton Growers show that only

Speaker Stresses Need For Friendly Image

Big Spring, along with many other Texas cities, stands at a crossroads, Fred Driskill, Austin, said Wednesday in a talk to the Downtown Lions.

What happens to it largely is in the hands of a majority of citizens and the way they project a concern for other people, he added. Driskill has been conducting a public relations course at the junior college.

Industries have come to cities which display a friendly spirit and project an image of welcoming new businesses, he said.

He cited cases of small-town retail stores which do extraordinary volumes of business, and the reason for this, he added, that "people don't buy merchandise, they buy people."

The key to successful merchandising is to have quality merchandise, give good service and develop a personal interest in customers and make them feel welcome, he noted.

"If you develop a reputation for indifference, your growth is limited," Driskill said. "But if

Ellis W. Britton Named TEC Manager

Ellis W. Britton, who farmed near Stanton prior to entering job placement service, has been named manager for the Texas Employment Commission (TEC) office for Howard and Sterling counties.

He replaces Leon M. Kinney, office manager in Big Spring since 1948. Kinney died Sept. 15. During the interim, Joe R. Wallis, an interviewer, served as acting office manager.

Born in Loraine, Britton was graduated from Stanton High School in 1955. After 19 years of farming, he started work for the TEC in Midland in 1965.

Britton comes to Big Spring from San Angelo where he was TEC supervisor of farm labor and domestic help. In Big Spring, he is supervising five employees.

He and his wife, the former Janelle Jones of Stanton, are buying a house at 1415 Edwards. They have two children; Jimmy, 13, and Julie, 11.

During the last year, the local office processed 2,403 new applications for jobs and placed 961 persons. Of those placed, 230 were veterans and 137 obtained jobs in agriculture.

A's Blame Acoustics For Loss

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Athletics blamed nobody, just poor acoustics, for the run that gave the third game of the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds.

"The runner's supposed to score on that play," center fielder George Hendrick said Wednesday night, patiently going over his part of the ball handling on Cesar Geronimo's game-winning hit in the seventh inning.

PEREZ ON SECOND
The Reds' Tony Perez was on second base and started running when Geronimo singled by the middle. Hendrick, going by the book, threw toward second base—just before Perez fell flat on his face rounding third base. Shortstop Bert Campaneris took the throw near second and checked to see if Geronimo was trying to stretch the hit into a double.

'SAW PEREZ FALL'
"I saw Perez fall down and I yelled for Campy to go home with the throw, but the crowd was yelling and he couldn't hear anything," third baseman Sal Bando said. "If the throw had gone home right away, we would have had him."

Catcher Gene Tenace said, "I was yelling 'home too,' but I knew Campy couldn't hear us." The shortstop said, "When I see the guy, he's sliding into home."

'STILL AHEAD'
After the 1-0 loss, A's Manager Dick Williams said, "We're still ahead, two games to one, and I still think we're going to win the World Series. I won't predict how many games it will go."

"It won't be a sweep. I can tell you that." Williams was hoping his team would be able to take batting practice—something it hasn't had since Sunday—before tonight's fourth Series game.

'GOOD PITCHING'
"But I've always said good pitching will beat good hitting, and the pitching in this game was excellent," he added.

Reds' starter Jack Billingham, who was relieved by Clay Carroll in the ninth, gave up only a bunt single and two infield singles.

A's starter John "Blue Moon" Odom went seven innings, giving up three hits and striking out 11, three more than he fanned in any regular season game.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

HE BROUGHT THE A'S TO THEIR KNEES — Pitcher Jack Billingham, left, who held the Oakland A's to three hits for eight innings in the Reds' 1-0 victory last night in Oakland, went to the knees himself in the eighth inning when he and teammate Tony Perez, right, collided when they went after a foul off the bat of the A's Matty Alou. The Reds now have one victory in the World Series battle, having lost the first two games to the A's.

THREATENED TO PUMP GAS

Reds' Hurler Almost Quit

OAKLAND (AP) — Jack Billingham once told the Los Angeles Dodgers to fork up a $50 a month raise or he was going back to pumping gas and changing oil in his dad's Orlando, Fla., filling station.

Fortunately for the Cincinnati Reds, the Dodgers kicked in with the money, and Billingham forgot his gas pumping threat to continue a baseball career.

Billingham remembers being so nervous the day he started his first minor league game that he became nauseated and threw up. But, the 29-year-old right-hander pitched with poise and savvy Wednesday night as he rescued the National League champions from the brink of disaster in the World Series.

"I was playing for Santa Barbara (Calif.) in 1964, when I thought seriously of quitting," said Billingham. "I was engaged and pretty disgusted after four years of struggling."

"I called Fresno Thompson (director of the Dodgers' farm system) and told him I wanted more money and out of Santa Barbara. He said he couldn't do it. I repeated, 'Give me the $50 and get me out of here or I quit.'"

"It was a week or so later when a Santa Barbara club official telephoned me and said, 'I hate to tell you this but you're going to St. Petersburg. And I got the 50 bucks a month, too. It was all uphill from there.' It was still a long hill for the 6-foot-4 native of Winter Park, Fla. It was five years before he made it to the Dodgers in 1968, pitching 49 times in relief, starting once, posting a 3.0 record and a 2.15 ERA.

His reward for that fine year job in the National League was being selected the first pitcher in the 1969 expansion draft by Montreal. The Expos sent him to Houston in a trade for Rusty Staub. In three years at Houston as a starter and reliever he won 29 and lost 32.

"I halfway thought I might get traded last winter," Billingham said. "I had an operation for varicose veins in my right leg and the Houston team physician told me a deal for me was in the air. Two weeks later I got the call. All I asked was 'Who?' They told me Cincinnati and I was satisfied."

Reds Slip Past A's, 1-0

Billingham Handcuffs Oakland On Three Hits

OAKLAND (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and Oakland A's enter the "twilight zone" again tonight for the fourth game of the 1972 World Series. And because of it, both teams look forward to another low-scoring game following Cincinnati's 1-0 triumph Wednesday night that outlasted the series lead to 2-1.

"The twilight made the difference for me," said winning pitcher Jack Billingham after gaining the victory with ninth-inning help from Clay Carroll.

"You'll see another good one tonight with Don Gullett pitching," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

"Maybe the rest will be one-run games too," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams.

The first two games of the best-of-7 series were played in Cincinnati last weekend, but the 3-2 and 2-1 Oakland successes were fashioned without any assistance from nature.

When the Series switched to the Oakland Coliseum this week, the starting time for the contest in California was 5:30 p.m. That's the worst time for a hitter because of the fast-fading light.

Cincinnati slugger Johnny Bench, who went 0-for-4 Wednesday night and struck out three times, had been apprehensive about the conditions.

"I hate to hit in the twilight in Oakland," he had said.

But while it hurt the major leagues' top home run hitter, it also didn't do too much for the Oakland team.

"I don't usually strike out that many batters," said Billingham, who fanned seven Athletics. "The twilight no doubt helped me."

There was no twilight, however, when Billingham tired in the ninth. The journeyman right-hander, who gave up three hits through eight innings, started the ninth by throwing three straight balls to Mike Epstein while the crowd of 40,401 at the Coliseum cheered.

Anderson then decided that Billingham had gone far enough.

Carroll then came in to preserve that shaky lead by getting Epstein on a bouncer, Sal Bando on a soft line drive and George Hendrick on an easy hit to the mound.

While he was in, Billingham, a right-hander with an unimpressive 500 lifetime record, was a superman as far as Oakland was concerned. He fed the A's a steady diet of sinker balls and allowed only three flies during his tenure.

The only hits that he gave up were a bunt single by Joe Rudi in the fourth and infield hits by Dick Green in the fifth and pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez in the seventh.

His only jam came in the sixth inning, when the A's had men on first and third with none out and the bases loaded with one man gone. But Billingham finished off the A's by hitting Bando on a rally-killing double play.

John "Blue Moon" Odom was equally good for Oakland, striking out 11 before running into trouble in the seventh inning, when the Reds scored the game's only run.

Umps Did Reds Favor, Says Bench

OAKLAND (AP) — Cincinnati slugger Johnny Bench says the World Series umpires have gone the Reds a favor.

"We got a few calls that upset us tonight," Bench said after Cincinnati's tense 1-0 victory over Oakland Wednesday night.

"Our ball club is riled up," he said. "Now maybe we've worked out our frustrations."

Bench was anything but a key factor in the Cincinnati triumph, being called out on strikes three times, once with teammates on second and third base.

He was particularly upset about a call at first base in the Oakland sixth, when umpire Frank Umont said Bench's throw had drawn Joe Morgan off the bag.

That play put Oakland runners at first and second, but the Reds worked out of a bases-loaded jam moments later with a double play.

Bench said his inability to hit didn't stem from the pressures of low-scoring games in which the Reds look to him for home run power.

"Naturally you want to drive in men," he said. "And tonight was the first time (in the Series) when I've come up with men on base."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

CUNNINGHAM LEADS RALLY

Cougars Drop Colonels

By The Associated Press

Billy Cunningham did some traveling over the summer from Pennsylvania to North Carolina but all indications are the distance didn't effect him one bit.

Cunningham, who left Philadelphia of the National Basketball Association to join Carolina of the American Basketball Association, showed Wednesday night he's still the same old player who is "great" in capital letters.

The rangy forward led the undefeated Cougars back from a 20-point deficit to beat the Kentucky Colonels 105-100. In the fourth quarter he scored 17 points and pulled down seven rebounds. He finished the game with 25 points, 15 rebounds and eight assists.

Kentucky, which got 30 points from Rick Mount, had a 51-39 halftime lead and a 63-43 margin in the third period. But Carolina, with a full-court press, pulled to 81-72 at the start of the final period. Then Cunningham scored 11 of his fourth quarter and finished with 15 for the Pacers, who also got 16 points from Billy Keller and 15 from George McGinniss. The Stars' Willie Wise led all players with 21 points.

Marvin Roberts scored a career-high 27 points and Dave Bustin hit for 18 for Denver. Virginia was paced by George Irvine with 20 points.

Kennedy fouled out.

Indiana lost an 11-point lead and had to fight to hold on against Utah. Donnie Freeman, acquired from Dallas in the off-season, scored 10 points in the fourth quarter and finished with 15 for the Pacers, who also got 16 points from Billy Keller and 15 from George McGinniss. The Stars' Willie Wise led all players with 21 points.

Marvin Roberts scored a career-high 27 points and Dave Bustin hit for 18 for Denver. Virginia was paced by George Irvine with 20 points.

There were no games scheduled in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

George Thompson scored 20 points and Warren Davis had 16 points and 19 rebounds for Memphis. The Tams managed to come back strong against Dallas when the Chaps' Steve Jones, Rich Jones and Gene

Colts Send 'Johnny U.' To Bench

BALTIMORE (AP) — The proposed youth movement of the Baltimore Colts won't be accomplished overnight, but the oldest player will feel its effects first.

When Coach Don McCaffery was fired Monday, General Manager Joe Thomas said Baltimore youngsters would be given much more playing time during the remainder of the season.

In Sunday's upcoming game against the New York Jets, however, 39 year-old quarterback Johnny Unitas will be the only player actually bumped out of his job so far.

Taking over for Unitas—second to the Jets' Joe Namath in the AFC with 1,044 yards passing this season—will be Marty Domres, who spent four seasons as a backup signal caller at San Diego before being acquired in a trade by Thomas.

Rookie Glenn Doughty also will start at wide receiver, replacing rookie Cotton Speyer, who is injured, and second-year players Don Nottingham and Don McCauley will start in the backfield for the second straight week while veterans Tom Matte and Norm Bulovich nurse injuries.

It was McCaffery's refusal to bench Unitas which helped lead to his dismissal after the Colts lost to Dallas last Sunday for their fourth loss in five starts, with defensive line coach John Sandusky taking over.

In a story published in a Baltimore newspaper Wednesday, Thomas denied having instructed either McCaffery or Sandusky to start Domres.

After Wednesday's practice, however, Unitas reiterated that Thomas had telephoned him Monday after McCaffery had been fired and informed him that Domres would play.

"I told him, 'that's your decision,' and hung up," Unitas said.

DALLAS MAY ACTIVATE STAUBACH

Morton Gets Nod Against Washington

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry made it plain Wednesday Craig Morton is his quarterback against Washington unless disaster strikes.

Landry said it was possible the Cowboys will activate injured Roger Staubach, the hero of Super Bowl VI.

But Landry added "We would have to be in bad shape if we go with him (Staubach). The game would have to be gone or Morton would have to be hurt. Roger just doesn't have the competitive edge he needs for a game the magnitude of this Washington contest."

The Cowboys and Redskins are tied for the lead in the National Conference East and meet Sunday in Washington.

Staubach is 98 per cent healed from a shoulder separation he suffered in an August exhibition game against the Los Angeles Rams.

Landry said "It's unfair to look at Roger the way you saw him last year during the stretch drive. It doesn't say much for professional football if you could be out as long as he has been and come back and play a good game."

Staubach agreed that it's only fair Morton be the quarterback in the crucial Redskins game.

"I don't want to rock the boat," Staubach said. "Craig did a tremendous job last week. I just want to be part of the team ... to help if they need me. I feel I'm capable of helping now. I feel I can win for them. I'm pulling for him last week."

Morton but he's got my job and I want it back."

Landry said Washington "overall is a better football team than last year. Their offense is excellent and Larry Brown is as good a runner as there is in the National Football League."

Landry said he wasn't particularly concerned about the slump experienced by field goal kicker Tom Fritsch, who missed three against Baltimore last week.

Weather Sends Porkers Inside

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks had to spend half of their workout Wednesday inside because of a steady drizzle and cold temperatures.

"The rain delayed our progress a little," Coach Frank Broyles said. "We did get our passing work done before the rain. It was a short, light workout with no pads. We went inside to complete our team work."

Broyles said the reason for no pads was because he didn't want to get anybody hurt.

The Razorbacks play the University of Texas Saturday night in a nationally televised game at Austin.

MORTON WILL BE THE QUARTERBACK — Dallas Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry, left, has indicated that veteran Craig Morton (14) will be the quarterback for the Super Champions when Dallas meets the Washington Redskins Sunday although All-Pro quarterback Roger Staubach is recovered from a pre-season injury.

Tech Holds Onto Top Spot

Louisiana Tech, unbeaten in six games, remained the No. 1 college division team in the weekly Associated Press poll announced Wednesday.

Tech drew eight of the 18 first-place votes from a panel of sports writers and sportscasters to keep the top spot for the second straight week after displacing Delaware.

Delaware, which received seven first-place votes, was second with a total of 312 points as Tech increased its point margin after leading by only 18 points a week ago.

Third-ranked North Dakota, which downed South Dakota State 51-21 for its sixth triumph, held onto the No. 3 spot and landed two No. 1 votes.

USC'S McKay Rating Game Madness Claims New Victim

By JACK MURPHY
College football is one thing, and the ratings game is another, and I am persuaded the time has come to abolish the wire service polls published by most daily newspapers. It was John McKay who convinced me. Perhaps you have read of McKay's churlish behavior, the University of Southern California coach is celebrated for his wit and wry sense of humor. But he was unable to enjoy USC's recent nine-point victory over Stanford, the school which occasionally prevents the Trojans from playing in the Rose Bowl. "I'd like to have beaten them by 2,000 points," grumped McKay. "They have no class. They're the worst winners we've ever gone up against." Even now he refuses to recant this strange criticism. After cooling out, he says he has no regrets about his post-game remarks. "If I end up a bad guy," he says, "I end up a bad guy." "It's weird, McKay, for all his success, has remembered that football is supposed to have an element of fun. He brings laughter into a room, he makes sport of his own human limitations. This performance was so untypical of McKay it resisted easy explanation. It seemed he was charging Stanford with being so rude as to defeat USC in 1970 and 1971. Imagine such impertinence. Now comes the explanation that McKay has had a hate on Stanford since 1965 when USC defeated the Cardinals, 14-0, and drew a growl from the throat of John Ralston, then the Stanford coach. "The better team lost," jeered Ralston, who has since moved along to the Denver Broncos. But how can he transfer that animosity to Jack Christiansen, the current Stanford character builder? In 1965, Christiansen was the coach of the San Francisco 49ers. Incidentally, when Christiansen was advised of McKay's comments he said something to the effect that he didn't care to get into a spitting contest with a skunk. That, you understand, is a rough translation. Lacking a better explanation, I suspect that McKay's anger and disappointment reflect some unspoken dislike for the Stanfords, USC was (and is) the No. 1 team in the polls and perhaps McKay decided a nine-point victory wasn't enough to maintain that station.

Bristol Gets Phils' Post

OAKLAND (AP) — Dave Bristol, who already has managed in both the American and National Leagues, is the choice to be the new manager of the Philadelphia Phillies. The Associated Press has learned. The selection of the 39-year-old Bristol was learned Wednesday from sources who are here to attend the World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Oakland A's. Bristol, who managed the Reds four years and the Milwaukee Brewers 2½ seasons, is scheduled to be officially named manager the last week of October or the first week of November. Paul Owens, the Philadelphia general manager, did not deny that Bristol was his choice for the job, but said he still had other candidates to interview for the position. Bristol has confirmed that he has talked to Owens about the manager's post. Frank Lucchesi began the 1972 baseball season as the Philadelphia manager but was fired in June. NEW PHILLIES MANAGER — Dave Bristol has been selected manager of the Philadelphia Phillies. The Associated Press learned Wednesday. He will be named manager either the last weekend in October, or the first week of November.

Coahoma Moves Into Top Spot In Loop Stats

Following two big wins, the Coahoma Bulldogs have moved into first place in total offense statistics of District 7-AA. The Bulldogs have picked up 1,602 yards on the ground and 371 aerial for a per-game average of 394.8 yards. Stagion is in third place in total offense with an average of 316.4 yard per game. The Buffaloes are also in third place in total defense allowing an average of 183 yards per game. Coahoma is in last place in the district in total team defense. The Bulldogs have allowed 292.4 yards per game. Roland Beal has moved into second place among the league's leading rushers. The Coahoma quarterback has 58 carries for 451 yards. Dwayne McMeans of Stanton is fourth in District 7-AA with 409 yards on 91 carries. Coahoma's Freddie Franklin is fifth with 390 yards on 61 carries. Beal is the second leading passer in the district. He has taken to the air 61 times completing 30 for 371 yards. Rick Wilson of Stanton is third with 20 completions in 54 attempts for 329 yards. Paul McAllister of Stanton continues to lead the league in receiving. The elusive Buffalo split end has 16 grabs for 308 yards. Troy Kerby of Coahoma is third in the league with nine catches for 204 yards. Beal leads the loop in punting with a 47.8 average. He has punted 11 times. Beal also leads the district in scoring with 57 points. The Bulldog signal-caller has scored eight touchdowns and added nine PATs for the total.

RISETTER TOP LINEMAN

Poss Grabs 'Top Back' Award

Nate Poss, a 180-pound senior defensive halfback and split receiver, earned "Back of the Week" honors for his performance for the Big Spring Steers' 17-16 loss to Midland High Friday night. Poss made several key tackles and broke up passes from his halfback position to earn the award. Mark Risetter, a 210-pound offensive tackle, was selected by the Steer coaches as the "Lineman of the Week." Dick Conley, a 205-pound linebacker, was named the winner of the "Steer Award" for his outstanding performance in the Big Spring-Midland game. "It was extremely difficult to choose an outstanding back and lineman since everyone on the team did an outstanding job against Roby," said Forsan.

DISTRICT 5-AAAA STATS

Reynolds Among Top Rushers

Big Spring running back Earl Reynolds is ranked eighth among the top District 5-AAAA Rushers in the district statistics released today. Reynolds has carried 16 times for 112 yards and a seven yards-per-carry average. Reynolds is also third in the district in scoring with four touchdowns for 24 points. Reynolds picked up three TDs in the loop-opener against Abilene and added one touchdown on a 78-yard kickoff return against Midland Friday night. Alan Davis is third in the league in punting. Davis has 12 punts for a 40.3 average.

With the price of our new Beetle still under $2,000,* the Volkswagen Beetle is a bigger buy than ever before. More warranty, for instance, than you get with any other small car. Twice more: 24 months or 24,000 miles.  More attention to specific details than ever (and that's quite a lot). More than 1,000 inspectors meticulously scrutinizing more than 3,000 parts. Some two or three times. For us, it's not enough to get it right, we want it perfect. Volkswagen also has the most advanced automotive service system in the world. A brand new computer is, or soon will be, waiting in our service area. We simply plug it in to your VW, and it checks, via sensors and probes, vital service parts and spells out the results in plain English. That's service. Maybe all of this explains why VW owners have gotten more resale dollars after three or four years than the owners of any other comparable car.† Obviously, it's not only the price of the '73 Beetle that reminds you of the good old days. It's also the quality.

Congress Backs Off

Congress, Ralph Nader charges, has abdicated its responsibilities to the president, the executive branch bureaucracy and special interest groups.

There is enough truth in these charges for Congress to re-examine its operations, authority and responsibility. If it does not insist on the powers granted by the Constitution, this nation could eventually lose its functioning democracy.

The executive branch, headed by the president, has increasingly taken over congressional functions. The executive signs orders to replace congressionally written laws, it writes the budget and tax laws, under "executive privilege" White House aides and advisers are not answerable to Congress, it makes executive agreements with foreign countries without congressional concurrence and refuses to spend appropriated money. The administration does all of these, but it is only the latest in a string of increasingly powerful presidents. The added power stems not only from Congress' refusal to use its powers, but from an apparent public wish for a single leader. The president has become a national father figure, a single man upon whom the nation relies.

While this may give the public a target for admiration or anger, it is bad for our three-branch system of government. Under the Constitution, Congress is the pre-eminent branch and the closest to the people. The House, especially, should be responsive to the votes with its frequent elections and local issues. Instead, within the past week Congress has abdicated, in part, its authority over spending.

While Congress has a responsibility to reclaim its function, the voters also have a duty to know the men they elect to push for legislation in the public interest and to hold representatives accountable for their performance.

A government designed for the people will not work unless the people do their part.

Good Choice

The Army's new chief of staff is a soldier of outstanding ability.

He is Gen. Creighton W. Abrams. He won Senate confirmation Thursday on an 84-2 vote.

Gen. Abrams' appointment was held up since July while a Senate committee probed unauthorized bombing strikes against North Vietnam during the time Abrams was commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

The general handled the U.S. commitment well while in Vietnam and proved to be a worthy successor to Gen. William C. Westmoreland in the conduct of the American war effort.

Watergate

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The big mystery of the present political campaign is what really is involved in the "Watergate Affair." Many reports have been printed and attributed to various persons who directly or indirectly had some information about the episode. But nobody has clearly set forth the story of why there is so much furor.

THE QUARTERS of the Democratic National Committee at the Watergate were entered by five men on June 17, and they and two others have been indicted on charges of conspiracy to use illegal means to monitor phone calls and conversations of Democratic party officials and to steal or photograph certain documents. They also are accused of illegally entering the offices with intent to steal property and to intercept conversations.

IT WAS determined that some of the money found on the men arrested came from a bank account in which Republican campaign funds were deposited. All kinds of charges began to be heard of involvement of Republicans in political espionage and violation of laws governing political contributions. Allegations are made of Republican attempts to interfere with the Democratic convention or to promote dissension in the campaigns of the Democratic candidates. But whatever the "evidence" actually is, no clear statements have come out as to what they amounted to and where they occurred.

SO, DESPITE the large amount of publicity, all that is known thus far is that the Democratic offices were entered and that Republican funds did figure in the incident. Republican campaign officials say that some contributors did not want their names revealed and were permitted under the law to have their contributions remain secret if they were made prior to April 7. In order to do this, some of the money was transferred to banks in Mexico and back to this country so that the identity of the donors would not be disclosed. One of these was a prominent Democrat, and he did not want to have publicity about his contribution to the Republican cause.

THE REPUBLICANS came up with countercharges that the Democrats had violated some of the election laws in connection with filing information about contributions, and the public has gotten a confused idea about the whole controversy. The Republicans evidently don't want to see the trial of the suspects begin until after the elections for fear the Democratic side will get some benefit from it. President Nixon says that nobody "presently employed" in the government has been involved in the Watergate affair. But this doesn't shut off gossip about the possibility that somebody of importance who had previously served might have known about the surveillance operation.

IF THIS WERE not a political campaign year, individuals trying to gain information by tapping telephones or other illegal means would have been detected and punished without rany persons in the outside world knowing very much about it.

SOME THINGS CAN WAIT—AND SOME CAN'T!

Trade Future Is Bright

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A China authority who represented 14 American companies in trade negotiations this year at Canton and Peking estimates that within 10 years the United States could be selling $5 billion worth of goods a year to China.

Harned Petus Hoose, a Los Angeles attorney who was born and raised in China, noted in an interview that a sudden increase in China trade not only would mean a vast outlet for the huge U.S. production machinery but a source of raw materials also.

In "hundreds of hours of talks" with high-level trade officials of the People's Republic, Hoose, who helped brief President Nixon for his February visit, was told, "We are a very, very rich nation in minerals because we came into the industrial world late."

Among those in great quantities are copper, iron, lead, manganese, zinc, molybdenum and tin. "All are in oversupply," he was told. And China is already recognized as having the world's largest tungsten and antimony reserves.

In addition, it has oil reserves large enough to make the nation self-sufficient. These supplies have been estimated to place the Chinese 12th among oil reserve nations, but Hoose now believes those reserves are grossly underestimated.

The Chinese think their offshore reserves are very significant, especially in the northeast, Hoose reported, adding that a Chinese geologist told him that inland "there is a vast ocean of oil under and adjoining the Gobi Desert."

These, he said, are among the assets the Chinese believe will permit them to afford massive imports of American industrial machinery. A second great asset, he said, is the people. "Our people will work very hard," negotiators told him. "They are very hardworking. The Chinese, Hoose concludes, are now ready to enter Phase Three of their development. The first phase was the revolution, the second the solution of material problems.

"They have solved their material needs," Hoose said flatly. "I reject the notion that they are starving equally. China is now well fed and clothed, and in some medical areas, such as in eradicating venereal disease, they exceed our accomplishments."

Phase Three is the industrialization, he said, "has decided it shall have industry forthwith even if they have to buy it with the money they earn."

The situation presents Americans with an unparalleled opportunity to present their wares and show their skills if, said Hoose, using the words reiterated so often by the Chinese, "our relations continue."

The Big Splash

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

Last week, my long gangling 16-year-old son went with a church group to Six Flags. The last time he had gone he was nine. And just as I expected, he came back and grinned and said, "I saw where you made the big splash." He hadn't dared mention that subject for seven long years.

THERE'S AT LEAST one teacher out here in the high school that went along on the Girl Scout trip to the amusement park on the momentous occasion when I fell in the brink.

It has to be one of the funniest things that has happened to me through the years. Mrs. Ray Whitley, the school superintendent's wife from Pecos, and I had accompanied about 35 Girl Scouts and my 9-year-old son on the trip. It was Memorial Day and the park was full, up to its ears — if it has ears.

We turned all of the girls loose on the buddy system, to watch each other, and Maurine and I were to watch one small boy. We got over on Skull's Island — or whatever that is, and lost him.

WHEN WE WERE right out in the middle of that bucking bridge, I spotted him, and I stupidly stepped to the edge of the bridge to call out. About that time, people on either end of the bridge tromped on it at the same time and I went up in the air, over the railing and into the brink.

I was carrying an umbrella (so I wouldn't get wet) and a camera. I hung on to both. I thought it would be shallow and I hit that slick mud and slid back past the point where I was shallow. My friend, Maurine, said she watched while I went all the way under down to the fingertips and wondered what she was going to do next.

About then I came flailing out of there... I laid the camera and umbrella on the bridge and went back for a shoe, stuck in the mud. When I came out the second time, some college students working there for the summer, said, "Lady, will you please get out — if you've lost anything else, we'll find it."

AND THERE WAS my son. I'd found him. He had wandered over to see what the crowd was watching, so diligently and he says disdainfully, "Mama, just what in the world do you think you are doing?" I gurgled out an answer — but we can't print it here.

Around Stump

William F. Buckley Jr.

Last week the Supreme Court, with something very much like a yawn, affirmed the decision of the lower court, which refused Ohio the right to pass along money to the private, church-related schools on the grounds that what Ohio was up to was circumvention. As a matter of fact, that is exactly correct. The Supreme Court has during the past few years honed its fanatical construction of the First Amendment into a fine blade, which cuts through any attempt by any accumulation of parents, priests, ministers, rabbis, school boards or legislatures to stitch together a plan that provides parents with fundamental freedoms to organize their own schools with some reference to religious principle.

WHO SAYS A) the philosophers never tire of reminding us, must say B) if it is true that it is a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution to allow a tax dollar to end up at a parochial school, no matter how circuitous the route, then it is true that Ohio has no business permitting parents of private school children to receive the little $90 annual subsidy the legislature of Ohio thought to return to them, in modest compensation for their saving the taxpayers of Ohio the approximately $1,000 per student annual tuition they'd have cost the state by attending the public schools.

The decision of last week disposes of most of the public intentions of prominent American politicians for relieving the religious schools of their plight. George McGovern backed, in effect, an extension of the Ohio plan. So did Richard Nixon. So did Nelson Rockefeller. Well, it's gone now. Where do we go from here?

PROF. ROGER FREEMAN of the Hoover Institute at Stanford University has been arguing for a very long while a distinction he considers constitutionally crucial. He says: The Supreme Court insists that once a dollar has slipped into the public treasury, you can never get it out for use by a religious-oriented school without constitutional cavil. The only way to do it is to grant the relief before the dollar becomes public property, i.e., before it is taxed. And the way to do that, obviously, is by tax remission.

WE SHALL see. Meanwhile Mr. Nixon and Mr. McGovern should be asked to give their positions on the matter.

THE COURTS appear to be hospitable to the argument. In the 1970 (Walz) decision arguing against direct subsidies, the court said: "Obviously a direct money subsidy would be a relationship pregnant with involvement." On the other hand, "The grant of a tax exemption is not sponsorship since the government does not transfer part of its revenue to churches but simply abstains from demanding that the church support the state."

THE GOOD news is that Wilbur Mills caught the signal and though two years ago he was in the Oval Office of the White House pounding his fist in disapproval of the notion of tax remission, this year, mirabile dictu, he emerges as the sponsor of a bill which would provide relief for the private schools by exactly that expedient. The Congress will close momentarily, and it is unlikely that it will vote during this session on the Mills bill, but particularly after the Ohio rejection of last week, it looms as the last hope this side of a constitutional amendment.

ESSENTIALLY, the Mills bill would grant a straightforward tax credit ($200 is the figure they speak about) to any parent who sends his child to a private school. There are any number of variables, i.e., will it be $200 per child no matter how many children; does the tax credit inure even to the benefit of rich parents — and so on. But the principle is comfortably lodged. If it is constitutional for the Congress to say that Mr. Jones's gift of $100 to his church decreases his adjusted gross taxable income, then why can't Congress say that Mr. Jones's expenditure of $50 for his son's education at St. Bartholomew's decreases his tax bill by $200? Who says A must say B. If Congress can constitutionally permit tax deductions for religious gifts, why not tax credits for religious expenses?

WE SHALL see. Meanwhile Mr. Nixon and Mr. McGovern should be asked to give their positions on the matter.

Facing Expulsion

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Thousands of foreigners may be expelled from the Brazilian state of Mato Grosso for not reporting to immigration authorities, the Brazilian news agency AJB reported.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Our youth group has been discussing problems of young people. One of the subjects is: Is it wrong to go out with one who is not a Christian, even though you have an agreement that you will not go steady? T.J. There is, perhaps, not any rule on such a matter, but I cannot help raising the question, "What fellowship could two young people have when they are so opposite in their religious convictions?" This question you might put forward at your discussion group. I think you would find that any such friendship would be reduced to a sub-Christian basis.

More important, even, is the fact that you can never tell what your casual association will lead you to. You may have no intention of going steady, but there is an attraction that you cannot always predict. You can't be sure how you will feel after the first evening out. You shouldn't be serious, of course, but you can't control certain emotions apart from an ever more powerful force in your life. Always remember that in such intimate associations we are admonished in the Bible, "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." This gives the safe pattern for our associations.

A Devotion For Today

Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. (1 Thessalonians 5:5)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, accept our gratitude for sharing with us Your own nature as revealed to us in Your Son Jesus. Grant that all we do may reflect His light in our lives. Help us as we try to live in the faith and hope expressed in the prayer Jesus taught us: "Our Father who art in heaven... Amen."

WASHINGTON — The most damaging part of the revelations concerning the Dirty Tricks Department of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President is the paranoia it has caused in the American voter. He doesn't know whom or what to believe any more.

A CHANCE meeting with Havelock M. Honeycomb confirmed to me the nervous state the electorate is in.

Havelock said, "I don't know whom to have faith in. You think one thing and then it turns out another thing."

"Please be more explicit," I begged.

"Okay, you were down at the Republican convention in Miami. They had about 700 or 800 Veterans Against the War. They threw eggs at the Republicans and let air out of the tires of the delegates' buses and shouted obscenities at Ronald Reagan. I was horrified. It made my American blood boil."

"MINE, TOO," I admitted.

"But now I read there was a secret slush fund and agents of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President were sent down to the Republican convention to cause trouble there. Suppose all the delegates were really Republicans themselves?

"I never thought of that," I said. "They would have more to gain throwing eggs than the Democrats."

HAVELOCK CONTINUED. "Every time Agnew goes out to make a speech there are hecklers in the audience trying to shout him down."

"Yes," I said, "and I think that's a terrible way to treat the Vice President of the United States."

"Yeah," said Havelock, "if they were 'really' (unital) hecklers. Suppose they're heckling just to get sympathy for Agnew?"

"I can't believe it," I said.

"Look," said Havelock, "Maurice Stans has a safe stuffed with money and he has to spend it on 'something.' One of the things I read in the newspapers was that the Committee for the Re-Election of the President had ordered its agents to infiltrate the McGovern staff. Suppose all the gaffes made by the McGovern people were engineered by the Republican agents?"

"Now wait a minute, Havelock. You can't tell me the Republicans were responsible for most of McGovern's goofs."

"It would explain why he's doing so badly in the polls," Havelock said.

"How do we know McGovern doesn't work for 'them'?" Havelock asked.

Connally Not GOP Worker

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, head of Democrats for Nixon, says he hopes the organization will be disbanded after the election.

Connally, in Chicago Wednesday to tape a television program sponsored by Democrats for Nixon, stressed that he is working only for the President and not the Republican party.

He said he would reassess his political allegiance in the future "if it appears clear... that the Democratic party follows the policies Sen. George S. McGovern is now enunciating."

Connally said he disagrees with the Democratic nominee on the issues of defense, international affairs, Vietnam, marijuana, amnesty and welfare.

He added he believes a third of all Democrats in the country will not support McGovern.

He said he is supporting the rest of the Democratic ticket in Texas, but would not endorse candidates in Illinois or other state races.

Connally scoffed at reports the President would spend $40 million on his campaign, saying Republicans have money problems as serious as those of the Democrats. He said Democrats for Nixon has raised $500,000 and hopes to raise $1 million.

Revenue Sharing May Take Place Of Grant Programs

By CHARLES TEAGUE

Revenue sharing was conceived to provide a stronger local voice in governmental expenditures and to eliminate federal red tape, said J. Robert Massengale, director of finance for the City of Big Spring.

These two purposes were advanced in a Department of Housing and Urban Development conference Monday and Tuesday in Dallas, Massengale said.

"A Regional Approach to Revenue Sharing — Strategies for Returning Power to State and Local Governments," title of the program co-sponsored by HUD and the Southwest Federal Regional Council, set the tone for the pitch for the organization established by the President to implement his "New Federalism," Massengale said.

Several government programs, such as urban renewal, open-space land, water and sewer grants and model cities, will be phased out as a result of the revenue sharing program, Massengale added.

A second program, named special revenue sharing, is expected to clear early in 1973, Massengale said. It is intended for community development, education, law enforcement, manpower training.

General revenue sharing is distributed to cities, counties and states on a formula basis, including considerations of population from 1970 census and local tax loads, excluding school taxes.

One-third of the funds is earmarked for the state government, two-thirds channeled to the cities and counties.

The money is restricted in three ways: 1) It cannot be used in a manner which will cause discrimination. 2) Wage scales affected by the program must comply with the Davis-Bacon Act. 3) It cannot be used to match federal funds for other programs either directly or indirectly.

Matching funds requirements will be rare, and when they are instituted, the maximum requirement will be 10 per cent, Massengale said.

SMALL CITY—SMALL END

Funding schedule for special revenue sharing allows 80 per cent of the monies to be distributed to cities of 50,000 plus population on the basis of population and tax load.

The remaining 20 per cent, called "discretionary funds," will require application from smaller cities for distribution, Massengale said, noting that these funds are allocated at the discretion of HUD within 90 days of application.

The purposes of the special revenue sharing program, according to Massengale, include the building or improvement of institutions, improvement of housing, and improvement of living environment.

Fina Earnings Show Gain

DALLAS — American Petroleum, Inc., today reported that net income for the third quarter, 1972, increased 30 per cent on a 4 per cent gain in gross revenue as compared with the same quarter last year.

Net income for the quarter ending Sept. 30, was $6,620,000, or 86 cents per share, and for the year-to-date, $12,800,000, or $1.67 per share. Earnings per share during the preceding year were 67 cents in the third quarter and $1.23 for the first three quarters.

Gross revenue amounted to $74,321,000 in the third quarter of the current year and $71,398,000 in the similar period of 1971. Cash income was $11,657,000, as compared to $9,183,000 during the third quarter of last year.

The outlook for the remainder of 1972 is optimistic, provided the restoration of realizations on gasoline to more normal levels, from the depressed conditions of the first half, can be maintained," said R. I. Galland, president. "Additionally, the strengthening in demand for the company's petrochemicals and plastics is encouraging."

—Earnings in the third quarter exceeded those of the first two quarters of the year combined.

A semi-annual dividend of 55 cents per share is payable Nov. 1, to stockholders of record on Oct. 18, 1972. The total dividend per share in 1972 is $1.10.

Jailed Longhairs Get Their Locks Shorn

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — If you're a longhair and you land in Reeves County jail here, you're guaranteed a free haircut. By law officers. Prompt service. No waiting.

"We run a jail like any other in Texas; no better, no worse," says Sheriff A. B. Nail, who has represented the Law West of the Pecos, at least so far as Reeves County is concerned, for the past 16 years.

"We cut their hair because that's the jail rule," the sheriff told one recent visitor. "We shave their beard if they have one and we make them take a shower—all for sanitary reasons."

"You know, hippies with lice are not uncommon," he added as an apparent afterthought.

bound for New Mexico or California. In fact, he used to hitchhike himself, he said, riding the freight trains all over the country, "but that was back in the Depression and I didn't try to rob anyone."

Things are different now. Texas vagrancy laws have been declared unconstitutional but "there's a state law against hitchhiking and we apply it."

Hitchhikers picked up in Reeves County can expect it to cost them a $10 fine or two days in the jail, plus the loss of a head of hair.

"Had Jesus Christ walked through Pecos, Tex., he would have been picked up for long hair," one visiting preacher told an astonished local congregation.

When there is a barber among the prisoners, the cutting job is professional. When there isn't, a deputy does it.

The sheriff was questioned about John, son of a wealthy physician from Glencoe, Ill., who had his hitchhiking interrupted by a weekend in Reeves County jail.

"I'd always been kind of curious about what it would be like to experience jail," John was quoted as saying afterwards. "But I'd never been to Texas before. Man, you wouldn't believe it. I'm not curious any more."

John lost his shoulder-length locks. He lost his beard, too, after being warned by another prisoner that it might be ripped out with pliers if he fought back.

Sheriff Nail called in Gary Ingram, his chief.

"Remember that doctors son that caused us all that trouble?" he asked. Ingram nodded. The boy was fined $15 and sent on his way.

"He was picked up by the highway patrol," Nail recalled. "He put out a lot of propaganda, but it wasn't so. Half he said wasn't true. He quoted prisoners out of context—the other hitchhikers that were in jail with him."

REALISTIC

Asked about the reputation his deputies have gained for being unduly tough on males with long hair, who can get picked up for hitchhiking or even walking on the wrong side of the highway, Sheriff Nail said:

"Eighty-five per cent of the people in this jail are—were—longhairs. That indicates to me that practically all thugs wear long hair. It's a kind of badge. And their clothes. It's the type of dress that pushes use. So there might be a tendency for my deputies to be suspicious, though certainly they don't put 'em in jail just for long hair."

The sheriff sat at his desk on the first floor of the county courthouse. Above his head was a blown-up photograph of a pretty, smiling girl in a western hat.

"My daughter Penny, aged 16," he said. "The sweetheart of the sheriff's posse."

Sheriff Nail denied that he is hard on the hitchhikers who pass through Pecos in a steady stream all summer, westward

CITES FIGURES

Sheriff Nail, a short back-and-sides man himself, cited figures "from the FBI. I think," tending to show that 85 per cent of hitchhikers who get picked up have some criminal record, while 44 per cent are wanted for a felony.

"This is the age of identification," he said. "A man has a driver's license, a social security card or a draft card. When they have no identification and cannot say where they last worked or when and where they have no permanent address—they're a pretty good suspect, so we jail them and check 'em out."

The haircut follows booking and precedes a court appearance.

"If they won't submit to a haircut, we cut it, using whatever force is necessary," said the sheriff. "We run the jail. We don't let the prisoners run it. But we are never rougher than necessary. When they rebel and refuse to have a haircut, they generally see we mean business and let us go ahead."

STILL THERE

The sheriff agreed that a Vietnam veteran John encountered in the jail was still there after almost a year. But he wasn't there for having one marijuana cigarette, Nail said, but because he was a heroin addict who had been convicted and is now awaiting an appeal of his sentence.

Asked about George Lex Sorters, who made a sworn affidavit to a Los Angeles lawyer about the treatment he said he received when arrested for hitchhiking and fined $70.99 or 14 days in jail back in October 1967, Nail said he didn't remember the case.

Sorters, in his sworn statement, said he was dragged from his bed, kicked and held down on a table while his hair was cut. Later, a specialist in Palo Alto, Calif., took X-rays and then told Sorters he had a fractured sinus and broken nose "believed caused by a hard, blunt object such as the toe of a boot."

"That's absurd," said Nail. "We never drag anyone out of bed to cut their hair."

What do Sheriff Nail's fellow citizens say?

Mayor E. W. Schmidt, a local physician, doesn't find much to make a fuss about.

"There are probably some law enforcement officers who are a little vigorous in their attitude to some details such as cutting hair, but my general feeling is that the people who have to face these problems are there because of their own actions. Consequently, they can't expect to be treated like royalty," Schmidt observed.

Roddy L. Harrison, a Pecos lawyer who has himself prosecuted hitchhikers, feels that the law governing "the arrest of citizens soliciting a ride" should be eased.

Earnings Gain, Chain Reports

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Hartle-Hanks Newspapers, Inc., headquartered in San Antonio, has reported earnings for its first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30.

The company said earnings amounted to $683,459 before extraordinary items, and $1,171,815 after extraordinary items on revenues of $16,321,540 for the quarter. For the same period of the previous fiscal year, it had earnings before extraordinary items of $742,345 and earnings after extraordinary items of the same amount on revenues of $12,812,670.

Per share earnings for the quarter were 25 cents before extraordinary items and 30 cents after extraordinary items, compared to 20 cents before extraordinary items and the same amount after for the first quarter of the previous fiscal year.

The company said revenues and earnings for the first quarter of the previous fiscal year have been restated to include two acquisitions accounted for as poolings of interest.

Hartle-Hanks and its subsidiaries publish daily, Sunday and weekly newspapers in 21 communities in Texas, California, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio, South Carolina and Washington. It also publishes a weekly advertising publication in California and operates a television station here. It also has agreed to acquire a group of weekly newspapers in San Diego County, Calif.

One-Time Lamesa Man Is Found Dead Near Bronte

BRONTE — A 40-year-old man, formerly of Lamesa, Wednesday was found hanging by a rope from a tree about seven miles north of here near U.S. 277.

Noel Wayne Oswald was found dead about 11 a.m. Wednesday by Coke County Deputy Sheriff Don Thorp of Robert Lee. A woman who lived near the location of the hanging became suspicious Wednesday morning after seeing something hanging in the tree Tuesday evening and notified authorities.

Coke County Sheriff Melvin Childress said the body was hanging in a tree about 200 yards from a dirt road one mile east of U.S. 277.

Justice of the Peace Cecil Kemp of Bronte said late Wednesday he had not made a ruling in the death. He said he expected to make a ruling sometime today after more investigation. He said it was uncertain how long Oswald had been dead, but that it could have been 24 hours or more. He said he had not ordered an autopsy.

Funeral for Oswald is pending with Branon Funeral Home in Lamesa.

Mr. Oswald, a Lamesa native, was born Nov. 15, 1931. He was believed to be employed by a Clovis, N.M., trucking firm.

GRANTS GOING

He related the report of Travis Miller, assistant regional administrator for Community Development, HUD, who explained the problems with federal programs: 1) Grants have become so complex that independent firms have developed to search out grants for cities; 2) the effectiveness of programs has been lost in red tape; 3) local governments are restricted to programs designed by federal agencies which are not necessarily aware of the needs of the cities.

SECOND PROGRAM

There will eventually be two revenue sharing programs, Massengale said, general revenue sharing being the program recently approved by congressional committees.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The executive editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be in the area in Nov.-Dec. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation) please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. Please mention your phone number. You will promptly receive confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Foster, Rice Take Honors

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Songwriters Jerry Foster and Bill Rice won nine awards each Wednesday night at the seventh annual awards dinner for the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

Among the winning songs written by the two are "Would You Take Another Chance on Me" and "Think About It Darlin'" recorded by Jerry Lee Lewis; "Think Again," recorded by Patti Page, and "Love Is a Good Thing" and "Someone To Give My Love To," recorded by Johnny Paycheck.

Writer Ricci Moreno won four awards and Ann J. Morton and Jerry Gillespie took two each for their songs.

In the publishing category, Jack and Bill Music Co., the Bill Hall and Jack-Clement enterprise which publishes Foster and Rice, took 10 awards.

United Artists Music and Terrace each won four, and Leeds and Milene Music received two each.

More than 300 top country music writers, artists, record producers and publishing executives gathered from across the country for the awards ceremony, held at a country club.

Osage's Life Is Described

What's it like to live on a mountain with nearly 75 astronomers?

This question is answered in Sunday's Texas Star by Carl and Barbara Ponca, managers of the Transient Quarters at The University of Texas McDonald Observatory. James Overton describes the lifestyle of an Osage Indian on Oklahoma and his wife, a professionally trained interior designer, at their remote quarters on Mount Locke.

A former football star of East Texas State University at Commerce will be inaugurated as the school's president during next week's homecoming ceremonies. The story of F. H. (Bub) McDowell and how he has helped change the image of ETSU from "cow college" to a successful and innovative institution appears in Sunday's Texas Star.

Just where the real Victoria county courthouse is became an important issue to Victorians after the county sheriff asked where the courthouse door was located. This anecdote and other facts about Victoria are reported by "Early Stars" columnist Weldon Hart.

Also in this week's edition of the Star, recipes to help cooks celebrate October as "Cheese Month" are offered by Star Hostess Mary Faulk Kooch.

Grass Fire

The Sand Springs fire department was called about a small grass fire and car fire three-quarters of a mile east of Cosden about 4 p.m. Wednesday, the sheriff's office reported. There was no report of damage from the fire.

Howard Is Ranked 27th In Oil, Gas Income

Sale of Howard County oil and gas production accounted for $56,911,473 of the county's income for 1971, according to a study by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn.

In producing 15,791,249 barrels of crude oil and 8.7 billion cu. ft. of natural gas, the county ranked 27th in Texas. Value of its crude oil was $55,585,196; natural gas value was $1,326,277.

The county is among 190 Texas counties with oil and gas production value topping $100,000, although 211 counties produce oil and gas.

"Howard County oil and gas wells made a significant contribution to Texas' share of the nation's energy needs last year, but growing demand is sapping reserves in Texas faster than they can be replaced," Robert A. Buschman, Association president, said. "As fewer new fields are discovered, due to less drilling, the continuing strong economy and tax base of many Texas counties may now depend on updating Texas oil conservation laws to encourage wider use of new recovery technology," he said.

The Association study showed that Howard County farmers, ranchers, and other royalty owners received $7,113,534 as their share of the production.

The county's wells generated $2,556,919 in crude oil production taxes for state government and $99,471 in state taxes on natural gas. Oil and gas producers spent $9,429,364 in drilling 94 wells in the county last year, $3,313,714 of which was lost in drilling 19 dry holes.

Texas Employment Commission figures showed 1,605 oil and gas industry employees in the county last year, with an annual payroll of $15,168,172.

Processing plants also added to the county's economy. The Oil and Gas Journal lists one refinery with a capacity of 58,000 barrels a day; two carbon black plants, two petrochemical plants, and one natural gasoline plant with a daily capacity of 70 million cu. ft.

Common Market Units Told To Stay United

PARIS (AP) — Leaders of the enlarged Common Market met in their first summit conference today and urged a stronger community with closer ties to the United States.

Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany called for an "organized dialogue" with the United States.

"Western Europe and America need each other as self-confident and equal partners," he told the meeting.

President Georges Pompidou of France added a note of caution: "But the very closeness of these links requires that Europe affirm its individual personality with regard to the United States."

A just and stable relationship with Japan as well as the United States was urged by Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain.

The differences in emphasis among the three leaders marked historic differences in policy. Any West German government must rely on the presence of U.S. forces in the country.

France under Charles de Gaulle developed strong resistance to what he saw as American hegemony.

British opinion is divided between those who want to preserve old ties with the United States and those who would invest all British energies in the new partnership with Western Europe.

The expanded group must remain united in the international monetary and trade negotiations to come, Pompidou warned the other government chiefs.

Such a common position will not be a cause for confrontation but a factor of balance," he said.

He added that the Market must also promote economic and technical relations with Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Two staunch allies of the United States, Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain and Willy Brandt of West Germany, were among Pompidou's listeners.

As they met, the British pound dropped a full cent to $2.3975, its lowest level in 10 months, because of persistent inflation in Britain and the threat of a national power strike.

TALKS DELAYED
The weekly session of the Vietnam peace talks was postponed until next Thursday as Pompidou took over the meeting site in the Hotel Majestic for the two-day summit.

Britain, Ireland and Denmark will become members of the Common Market on Jan. 1. They will have the same status as the six founders: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Another half dozen West European countries will be joining their customs union, though without a voice in the management of the organization.

Efforts are being made to bring in more countries on both shores of the Mediterranean.

The present six members are already the world's biggest trading bloc. Now the question is whether the enlarged Common Market can become much more — a force in the world such as Britain, France or Germany were before World War II.

Immediate prospects are dim. The six founding members have been trying for two years to get together on foreign policy with almost no success.

Their one joint venture, a common policy on the Middle East, failed when West Germany backed away because Israel considered it pro-Arab.

One decision expected from the meeting is the creation of a European Monetary Fund with resources of about $14 billion dollars. Its purpose will be to help keep the exchange values of European currencies closer to one another.

One day — perhaps about 1980, the hope is — there will be a single West European currency.

Mitchell Jury Indicts 14

COLORADO CITY — The Mitchell County grand jury indicted Ernest Luera, 22, Colorado City, for rape here Tuesday.

The indictment alleged a 22-year-old Colorado City woman had been assaulted Oct. 10. The victim told authorities that the attacker was hiding in her bathroom and seized her when she entered the room.

The grand jury returned 14 indictments, among them six for driving while intoxicated. These included on second offense, Simon Martinez, 42, Lockney; Robert Castro, 22, Lorraine; Joshua Cato, 61, Big Spring; Jose Gonzales, 20, Roscoe; David Vernon Tate, 59, Westbrook; and Clyde William Jarnigan, 48, Colorado City.

Raul John Rivos, 22, Lenora, was indicted for theft in connection with the alleged theft of a rifle from an automobile; John Berry Jackson, 25, Fred Biggers, 26, and William Tryon, 17, all of Colorado City were charged in separate indictments with the theft of $52.78 in pennies from an automobile.

Terry Dean Hall was charged with breaking and entering. David Lee Green, 18, James William Ausbie, 17, and George Edward Miles, 17, all of Colorado City, were charged with possession of narcotics.

Few Jews Allowed To Leave Russia Without Paying Fee

MOSCOW (AP) — Jewish sources say the Soviet government is letting 20 families emigrate to Israel without paying the controversial education tax, but they warn that this probably does not mean an end to the levy.

The 20 families received permission Wednesday to emigrate without paying the tax if they leave by Oct. 28, the sources said. They added that the members of the families were not considered activists in the Jewish emigration movement.

Six of the families had previously been told they would have to pay the equivalent of $200,000 to reimburse the state for their education.

The sources could not explain the tax exemption and the departure deadline on which it was contingent. But they suggested the government might be trying to appease U.S. congressional critics of the heavy tax which the Soviet government began to levy on emigrants in August.

Seventy-six senators, or more than two-thirds of the Senate, are sponsoring an amendment to block trade concessions to Moscow unless the heavy exit fees are rescinded.

Ten Jewish scientists held a clandestine news conference in Moscow Wednesday and said some would-be Jewish emigrants in Moscow are so desperate for money to pay the education tax they would welcome help from the West.

Meeting foreign newsmen in an apartment, the scientists said individual Moscow Jews have helped some emigrants collect money for the taxes, but that these informal funds are "exhausted."

NORMAN NORELL

Show Goes On Without Dean Of Designers

NEW YORK (AP) — Norman Norell, the 72-year-old dean of American fashion designers, has been hospitalized with an apparent stroke.

But the 40-year retrospective show of his work went on without him — at his own request.

When asked by his doctor this week if the show should go on, Norell gave an energetic yes, according to John Everett, president of the Parsons School of Design, sponsor of the event.

The show included some 250 of Norell's creations, dating back to 1932, on loan from a number of his customers, including Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and actress Lauren Bacall.

The clothes were collected by Ann Keagy, chairman of the school's fashion design department.

ELEGANCE
Through the years Norell, who was hospitalized Sunday, has been famous for his superb tailoring, elegance and timeless designs — the all-over beaded dresses, the sailor look, the classic blazer, the immaculate double breasted coat.

Norell's clients have away of collecting his clothes as if they were fine works of art.

"I save all my Norells. They're so beautiful... I wore one 11 years old to the symphony, and people thought it was new," said Mrs. Sidney Goodman of Minneapolis, Minn. She's bought 25 Norells.

Norell was born in 1900 in Noblesville, Ind. and came to study at the Parsons School of Design in 1919. He was commissioned to design costumes for "The Sainted Devil," with Rudolph Valentino, and then Gloria Swanson's costumes in "Zaza."

The retrospective show began with the graceful, elegant clothes he did in the 1930s, starting with 1932: bias-cut dresses in candy stripes, white fox trimming, long dresses with trains.

In the 1940s, during the war, he showed "subway clothes" glitter dresses hidden beneath quilt coats.

NO-WAIST DRESS
He also started the no-waist dress at this time, to save on fabric.

In the late 1940s and 50s, the spirit of fashion became exuberant, and Norell joined the fun with the tiny-waisted, full-skirted dresses and petticoats underneath.

As skirts went up in the 1960s, Norell showed short clothes, and kept them simple. In June 1960, he set up Norman Norell Inc.

In the 1970s, Norell has continued his elegant look, with the dolman sleeve, full-backed coats, wrap jackets and his famous knits and jerseys for day and evening.

Hall Suggests Nixon Trial

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Gus Hall, Communist party presidential candidate, says President Nixon should be tried and jailed as a war criminal.

Hall, general secretary of the Communist party USA, said Wednesday night that Nixon's entire cabinet and Pentagon officials should be tried for "crimes more heinous than any committed by Adolf Hitler."

Selling Of Space Flight Items Brings On Probe

LAMARQUE, Tex. (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Wednesday night the FBI and Justice Department has entered a probe here into the sale of items taken aboard the Gemini 7 space flight in 1965.

The investigation was launched after a NASA investigator said he saw two newspaper advertisements offering space gear, books and tapes relating to the Gemini 7 flight by astronauts Jim Lovell and Edwin E. Aldrin.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the person involved may have sold government property," said Glen V. McAlvoy, a regional inspector for NASA for the past 10 years.

"We've never had a case like this before," McAlvoy said he found the items at Pirate's Market in this Gulf Coast town 25 miles from the Manned Spacecraft Center.

The shop's owner, E. E. White, said he took the items in trade two years ago from a man who identified himself as R. E. Waite, a NASA employee who said he had a sensitive role in the space program.

White said the man told him he was being transferred by NASA and wanted to rid himself of some items in his possession. White said he couldn't recall what he traded for the space items, identified as a data card, a mouthpiece and several technical books and tapes relating to an in-flight experiment aboard Gemini 7.

White said he forgot about the items until the recent investigation into stamp covers taken aboard Apollo 15 which resulted in reprimands for several astronauts and windfall profits for collectors.

White said he tried to reach Waite at the Manned Spacecraft Center later by telephone but was instructed instead, to write to Waite.

White said he wrote the man earlier this month but has as yet received no reply.

McAlvoy said he feels the removal of the Gemini items involves an "illegality."

White said the man who identified himself as Waite "obviously had a high position with NASA... he was very impressive and intelligent."

McAlvoy said the items came to his attention through display ads placed by White in the Galveston News Oct. 1 and the Houston Post.

White said it wasn't until the space stamps affair that he dusted off the Gemini items, thinking they might be of considerable value.

McAlvoy did not say if the items carried any sensitive government classification but stated that the FBI and Justice Department has been called into the case.

FBI confirmation of its role in the case was not immediately available.

White said he forgot about the items until the recent investigation into stamp covers taken aboard Apollo 15 which resulted in reprimands for several astronauts and windfall profits for collectors.

Arms Limitations Talks To Begin Anew Nov. 21

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to open the second round of strategic offensive arms limitation talks in Geneva on Nov. 21, the White House announced today.

The new set of negotiations will seek a permanent treaty to follow up on the interim curb on offensive nuclear weapons signed by President Nixon during his Moscow summit in May.

The brief announcement of the date for resumption of the talks was made simultaneously in Washington and Moscow.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said ambassador Girard Smith, who headed the U.S. negotiating team in the first phase of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), will continue as chief U.S. negotiator.

The announcement read by Ziegler said: "Pursuant to the agreement reached during the summit meeting in Moscow last May to continue active negotiations for limitation of strategic offensive arms, the governments of the United States and USSR will resume talks on this subject on Nov. 21 1972, in Geneva, Switzerland."

The new talks will focus only on offensive weapons. A permanent treaty covering defensive missiles was signed by Nixon in Moscow and ratified later by the Senate. Congress also approved, after extensive debate, the interim agreement freezing the bulk of both countries' arsenals of long-range nuclear missiles for five years.

At the Geneva talks, the United States is prepared to press for a permanent curb not only on long-range missiles but also on other categories of nuclear weapons.

Ziegler said Geneva was selected as the site for the talks because it was "inconvenient and expensive" to alternate the negotiating sessions between Helsinki and Vienna, as was done in the initial SALT talks.

Posse Plans Trail Ride

The Howard County Sheriff's Posse will hit the saddle Saturday.

A trail ride has been scheduled to start at 1 p.m. at Knott, where trailers may be left at the Knott Community Center.

Participants will ride until 6 p.m. when they return to the center for a turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

Though the event is sponsored by the Posse, any rider is invited to take part. There will be a $2 per person charge, but no more than $5 for an entire family. More information may be had by calling 3-7409 or 7-7488 by Friday noon.

Suspect Will Not Be Taken Now

The Howard County sheriff's department has notified Tucson, Ariz., authorities that they will not pick up Weldon Carter, on hold there. Carter was charged in Howard County with felony theft of a tool chest worth $100, but District Attorney Wayne Burns told the sheriff's office that he did not feel the $100 case merited a trip to Tucson at this time, since Carter is on hold for other points.

AMONG IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED AT FORSAN — Open House will be observed at Forsan High School from 2:00 until 5 p.m., Sunday, at which time several new or refurbished departments will be on display. One is the $40,000 band hall pictured here. A $160,000 gymnasium, which has been equipped with a special kind of floor and walls, will also be shown.

Pioneer, Houston Firm OK Merger Principle

AMARILLO — The managements of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., Amarillo, and Houston Natural Gas Corp., Houston, have agreed in principle on a merger of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. into Houston Natural.

Burton P. Smith, president of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., and Robert R. Herring, president of Houston Natural Gas, said that the proposed terms of the merger called for the exchange of one share of Houston Natural common stock for each 2.25 shares of Pioneer common stock.

They said that the merger, which could be consummated as early as January 1973, would be subject to satisfactory mutual investigations, the approval of the directors and stock holders of both companies, and other conditions. Pioneer has 7,468,132 common shares outstanding and Houston Natural has outstanding 6,767,031 common shares and 748,472 convertible preference shares.

The stocks of both companies are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

SERVES 235,000

Pioneer Natural is engaged principally in intra-state transmission and distribution of natural gas in the Texas Panhandle and West Texas. The company serves 235,000 customers in 69 communities including Amarillo, Lubbock and Big Spring, and operates 9,824 miles of transmission and gathering lines.

Pioneer subsidiaries carry on oil and gas exploration and production, extraction of natural gas liquids, sales and service of franchised lines of heavy construction equipment, and uranium exploration, milling and marketing.

Consolidated operating revenues for the 12 months ended June 30, 1972, were $94.3 million. Net income was $9.6 million for $1.28 per share.

Houston Natural's primary business also is natural gas. It serves more than 345,000 customers in Houston and 116 other Texas Gulf Coast communities and utilizes a 2,300-mile intrastate transmission and gathering system, generally paralleling its marketing area.

NEW RESERVES

A 50 per cent owned affiliate recently completed a 36-inch pipeline system for the movement of new gas reserves in West Texas some 500 miles to the Gulf Coast.

Related activities include oil and gas drilling and production, and natural gas processing.

A wholly owned subsidiary, Liquid Carbonic Corp., is the world's largest supplier of carbon dioxide and produces and markets CO₂ and other industrial gases and utilization equipment in the United States, Canada and 19 other countries.

For the fiscal year ended July 31, 1972, Houston Natural Gas revenues and sales were $277.2 million. Net income of $20.7 million produced earnings of $2.68 per common and common equivalent share.

Herring said that no personnel changes in the Pioneer organization are contemplated and that Pioneer, after the proposed merger, would continue as a separate entity in its service area.

SAYS ASTRONAUT Uneasiness Not Machines' Fault

HOUSTON (AP) — An astronaut says there is no logical reason in blaming technology for the failings of man.

Lt. Col. Henry W. Hartsfield Jr. said he could not support the belief of many that science and technology, as instruments of change, are the roots of worldwide uneasiness.

"Technology is merely a tool for the capability of men," he said in a speech before a convention of the American Land Title Association.

He said those who produce most of today's technology "only produced what was demanded by a hungry world—world demanding better living conditions, more comforts and luxuries, a world with little or no concept of the price that nature would demand in return for its wasteful practices."

If all mankind works together, "with the determination of the team that achieved the lunar landings, we can and will find ways and means to solve our earthly problems—land, water and humanity," he said.

"The knowledge we have gained thus far is only the beginning and men with vision will look ahead to the future," he said.

Hartsfield, who has not yet flown in space, said the massive effort it took to enable men to walk on the moon "involving the investment of men and materials and the assembly of vast organizational systems," can be made again to solve the problems that beset the world today.

New Sweeper Is Not Yet In Use

The City's street seal-coat program will be delayed longer because the new Wayne street sweeper acquired early this summer is still inoperable, said Director of Public Works James Campbell today.

The sweeper broke down about a month ago, Campbell reported, and was supposedly repaired. Plains Machinery Co., Odessa, returned the machine earlier this week.

The sweeper was operated a half-day when it broke down again, Campbell said.

The street seal-coat program cannot begin until the sweeper is in order, Campbell said, and cold weather, which is not ideal for seal-coat projects, is threatening.

Aunt Lina Given Birthday Party

OPPELO, Ark. (AP) — Lina Wood, affectionately known as "Aunt Lina," celebrated her 100th birthday today.

A celebration was planned at the Oppele United Methodist Church, which included the ringing of the bell in the church steeple 100 times.

Mrs. Wood's late husband erected the steeple.

Terry Culley Sentenced To 3,000 Years In Pen

DALLAS (AP) — Terry Eugene Culley was sentenced Wednesday to 3,000 years in prison, the longest term ever assessed by a Dallas jury, for the murder of insurance broker Jean Geron.

The jury of nine men and three women in Judge James Zimmermann's Criminal District Court No. 3 fixed the penalty for Culley, 21, after deliberating two hours and 10 minutes. Culley pleaded guilty in the case but chose to have a jury set punishment.

Defense lawyer James Martin said the sentence will be appealed.

Geron was shot Sept. 24, 1971, when Culley, posing as a policeman, and a woman entered the broker's North Dallas home in an attempted jewel robbery, according to testimony given in the three-day trial.

In their final arguments, Asst. Dist. Atty. Jim Barklow and Kelley Loving asked the jury to return the 3,000 year sentence, because Culley had "executed a well-thought out crime."

"I can't ask for the verdict I would like to ask for in this case, the proper verdict," Barklow said referring to the death penalty recently outlawed by the U.S. Supreme Court.

After the trial jury foreman Rudger E. Jones said, "It was the consensus of the jury that the punishment should be very severe."

Culley set passively, looking down as the sentence was returned. Several members of his family, who had sat in the courtroom during the proceeding, broke into tears.

Under state law Culley will be eligible for parole within 20 years. However, Barklow said the state board of pardons and paroles has indicated that when a jury returns an unusually long sentence it will not parole that man.

"If the 3,000 years serves as a deterrent, which I think it will," Barklow said, "it will save another family from going through the same thing as the Geron."

Dear Abby
 Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The woman who wondered whether she was "Honest or Stupid" for returning that which she had found, was obviously disgruntled because no rewards were offered. If one expects to be rewarded for honesty, it means that honesty today is a rarity, and I don't believe it.

A number of years ago I was stranded in Durham, N.C., after having lost my wallet. A Negro bellhop paid my hotel bill plus breakfast, and when I obtained cash by wire to send me on my way, I left a repayment plus a reward for his kindness to me.

When I returned home I found a letter with the reward money returned to me from the bellhop, stating there was no price on his friendship to man. I was deeply moved by his action and shall never forget it. By the way, I am white, which made no difference to my black humanitarian friend.

Drilling Holds Firm In Basin

A slight decrease was noted in the weekly survey conducted by the Reed Drilling Equipment of active rigs in the two-state Permian Basin area.

There were 189 active rigs, according to Reed, down four from the previous week. A year ago only 165 rigs were turning.

Pecos County led with 20 rigs, a loss of one, and in New Mexico Eddy edged Lea County by having 18 rigs going as compared to 17.

In this vicinity Dawson County had two, the same as the previous week; Howard had two, the same; Martin eight, down one; Midland seven, up one; Mitchell two, the same.

Mitchell County gained a location, the Majestic Petroleum Corp. No. 3-A Doolif, 2,173 from the south and 1,067 from the west lines of section 35-28-1n, T&P, one mile north of Westbrook and projected to 3,200.

The operator's No. 2-A Doolif, 973 from the south and 467 from the west lines of section 35-28-1n, T&P, total depth 3,206, set 5 1/2 in. on bottom, perforated 2,864-3,130. It made 70 barrels of oil and 10 barrels of water on potential test.

In Dawson County, an Ackerly North (Cisco) venture will be Conoco No. 1 A. V. Stanfield Jr., 467 from the north and west lines of section 14-34-4, T&P, 11 miles southeast of Lamesa and projected to 10,000. It is a diagonal southeast offset to a recent Cisco strike.

Fair Park Key Is Missing

DALLAS (AP) — The $50,000 key used by Gov. James V. Allred to open the gates of the Centennial Exposition at Fair Park in 1936 is missing.

After the exposition closed, the late Arthur A. Everts, who designed it, placed it on show in his pioneer jewelry store as a permanent exhibit. Someone walked off with it in 1952.

Frank Everts, grandson of the store's founder, says he believes the historic key was disassembled and melted down to be sold piece by piece.

When it was crafted in 1936 it was valued at $50,000. On today's market, its gold and jewels might be worth $200,000 experts say.

Trigg N. Wilkinson, a master jeweler and diamond expert, made the key from Everts' pencilled sketches. It took him almost seven weeks.

The nine-inch key carried engravings of many of the high points in the first 100 years of Texas. The original center diamond, with an oil derrick and the six flags of Texas resting on top of it, weighed nearly 14 carats.

There were more than 20 other diamonds, along with 215 rubies, emeralds, sapphires, amethysts, zircons and pieces of opyx. It also contained 188 oriental pearls and a Texas azure topaz.

Inequitable Tax Claim Discounted

DETROIT (AP) — A 45-year-old Detroit man is still married after attempting to win a divorce on grounds that inequity in income tax laws penalized married couples.

Charles Hammond, a postal clerk, and his wife Marie took the decision of Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Maher philosophically Wednesday and left the court smiling, arm-in-arm.

"We love each other and we did this mainly as a protest against income tax laws that penalize people for being married," Hammond said. "But we are going to appeal this."

Their combined income of $18,000 was taxed $357 more because they were married than if they had been single and living together, Hammond said.

Under questioning, Hammond stated that he and his wife were still living together and intended to continue living together even if they received a divorce.

Father Of Communism Buried In England

Copley News Service
LONDON — Asked where Karl Marx is buried, most of us would probably say Moscow's Kremlin.

That guess, though, would be off by just the width of the European continent. For 89 years the Father of Communism has been resting in seedy Highgate Cemetery on the north edge of London.

To it come hundreds of faithful sons, daughters, and grandchildren of the Bolshevik Revolution, paying their respects under the watchful eye of a Cockney caretaker who treats the whole thing with that easy condescension for foreigners and their ways that is ingrained in so many Englishmen.

GOING DOWNHILL
Highgate Cemetery is going downhill these days, a victim of vandalism by neighborhood hooligans.

The Marx grave, though, is carefully tended and has not been defaced. It is covered by a "hunking grey granite" slab topped by a heavy bronze head of Communism's prophet. Gold letters on the stone proclaim, "Workers of all lands unite," followed by the words, "The philosophers have only interpreted the world in various ways. The point however is to change it."

Marx, his wife, daughter, and grandson are buried in the plot, and it strikes a visitor somehow incongruous and yet typically British that the next grave is that of an utterly undistinguished London resident, one John H. Griffiths, who "fell asleep 26th July 1952 aged 49 years." Directly behind the Marx memorial is the burial place of 2nd Lt. Leon de Barr Kelsey of the London Regiment who died Sept. 16, 1916 at the Battle of the Somme.

NUMBER RISES
The Highgate caretaker, Edward Herman, says "a couple of hundred" persons may visit the Marx grave during the week, but the number rises on weekends and when Communist ships are in port.

On occasions he gets as many as 30 large buses simultaneously disgorging pilgrims to Communism's shrine.

"They're all different nationalities," says Herman. "Greeks, Russians, Chinese. A lot of them can't speak English. I generally take them for a walk around."

On May Day, Communism's Fourth of July, flowers are put on the grave by officials of the Soviet Embassy.

London has for centuries been a city of refuge for political, social, and religious exiles from the European continent, so that a home of many years' and final resting place for the man who foisted Marxism on the world is not as unusual as it would seem at first glance.

Flemish and Walloon weavers poured in 400 years ago when Spain controlled the Low Countries, from France - 80,000 Protestant Huguenots arrived in the 17th century, and a hundred years later thousands of French aristocrats streamed across the English Channel as they fled revolutionary terror.

Napoleon III; Garibaldi supporters; Jewish victims of Czarist massacres, 17,000 anti-Bolshevik Russians; anti-Hitler Germans, Austrians, and Czechs; 124,000 members and their families of the World War II Polish army in the West; victims of the 1956 Hungarian revolution and the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia — uprooted people from all over the world have come here to ride out the storm or stay and mingle and make their homes.

OUT OF PLACE
But of them all, few seem so out of place as Karl Marx — with the possible exception of his later disciple, Lenin, who spent a year in London in 1902 and left shaking his head in incomprehension of the British.

"They would not make good revolutionaries," Lenin, said, writing them off in disgust.

But where Lenin used the name Jacob Richter and spent a good deal of time conferring in dark corners and corresponding in coded letters, Marx, expelled from Prussia and France in 1849, spent the remaining 34 years of his life here as a respectable family man.

He did voracious research at the British Museum (they will show you the desk cubicle, G-8, which he used), wrote voluminously, and argued his theories with associates.

WROTE FOR PAPER
When he was not busy writing for the New York Tribune, he founded the First International with Friedrich Engels and devoted his attention to publishing Das Kapital.

Marx lived for awhile on the third floor of a rooming house on Dean Street, now in the heart of Bohemian Soho. It is a street of sleazy bookstores, strip joints, and exotic restaurants. Marx' one-time home now houses a well-known Italian restaurant on the ground floor, while a blue-and-white plaque, frequently put up by the Greater London Council to mark buildings once inhabited by men of varying degrees of fame, notes that "Karl Marx lived here."

Lenin, on the other hand, is like a cloud that passed across the London sky in the night. At Oakley Square not far from Regent's Park, where he lived for a period, the house has disappeared, blitzed by Nazi bombers.

The vicar of the neighboring church has never heard of Lenin's presence in the area, and the American School in London, across the street, is equally ignorant of the later-to-be-famous exile.

But, nevertheless, Lenin has had his revenge on his teacher. He lies embalmed in a massive mausoleum in Moscow's Red Square, the very crossroads of the Soviet Union and heart of the Communist movement, with hundreds of thousands of people annually passing silently before his glass-fronted coffin.

His master and the movement's apostle, on the other hand, must be satisfied with six feet of English earth for a grave in a run-down, distant cemetery.

Sound City Hit By Night People

A business was burglarized Tuesday evening after entry was gained through the roof of the building.

Sound City, 1009 Gregg St., reported to police this morning that two speakers, an air suspension speaker, a tape player with AM-FM radio and a black and white television set were missing.

Also taken in the burglary was $30 in change, reported Jim Hale of Sound City.

Value of the stolen goods was not known.

Net Loss By LTV Drops Significantly In '72

DALLAS (AP) — The LTV Corp. has reported a net loss of only $292,000 during the first three-quarters of 1972, compared against a net loss of over $35 million for the same period in 1971.

The corporation also said the third quarter loss totaled $24,000 as compared with $9,515,000 for the same period a year ago.

After disclosure of these figures Wednesday, the company claimed its operating results were essentially at the "break even" point.

The third quarter showed a against $2,410,261,000 (b) last year. Previously reported, 1971 sales were re-stated to exclude E-Systems Inc. and Altac Corp., former LTV subsidiaries disposed of last May.

LTV chairman Paul Thayer Corp. has its best nine-month performance since 1966, while LTV Corp., despite lower sales, was having a better year, primarily due to improved cost performance on its aircraft contracts.

Consolidated sales for third quarter of this year were approximately $636 million. Figures for the first nine months were $2,511,510,000 (b)

RECOMMENDED RECIPES Of Mrs. McMullan

LEMON FRUIT CAKE

Cake:
1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
3 cups sifted flour
3/4 cup milk
6 egg whites, stiffly-beaten
Cream butter and sugar with mixer, and beat until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Fold in egg whites. Pour into 3 greased, round 8-inch layer pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, or until top springs back when touched lightly. Cool on racks.

Filling:
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
6 egg yolks
Rind of 2 lemons, grated
Juice of 2 lemons

Combine all ingredients in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thick. Cool. Place between layers and on top of cake. Sprinkle with coconut if desired. Seven-minute white icing may be used on sides of cake.

RICH PASTRY

2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup milk
1 egg yolk
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 cup milk

Sift flour with salt and sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Beat together egg yolk and lemon juice. Blend in milk. Add to dry ingredients, tossing with fork into a soft dough.

COLE SLAW

1 head cabbage, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 small can pimentos, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1 cup vinegar
1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup honey
2 tbsps. sugar
2 tbsps. salt

Mix cabbage, pepper, pimentos and onion. In a saucepan, combine remaining ingredients for dressing. Bring to a boil, and pour over vegetables while hot. Do not stir. Cover and place in refrigerator. Salad will keep two or three weeks if kept covered.

CHICKEN CRUNCH CASEROLE

2 chicken breasts, flaked
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
2 hard boiled eggs, diced
1 cup English peas, drained
1/2 cup potato chips, slightly crumbled

In a one-quart casserole, blend soup and milk. Stir in chicken, eggs and peas. Bake

Hearty Meal In Canned Stew

Beef-stew-in-a-can provides quick nourishment for cold days. To give the meal a special touch, add a pinch of paprika and serve on a platter of hot, buttered noodles. Or top with biscuit mix dumplings and make it a hearty oven dish.

CHICKEN CONTINUES AS FAVORITE
Peaches are unique addition

New Chicken Flavor Is Simply "Peachy"

In the early 17th century American settlers brought chickens to raise for their feathers for featherbeds. As the American cuisine developed, chicken became a popular dinner dish, prepared differently in different parts of the country.

Today chicken is almost always a good buy, an excellent source of protein, very good to excellent source of niacin and a fair source of iron. Broiler-fryers (the most desired of the flock) are lower in fat and calories than most other meats.

If you are discouraged by today's food prices, you can save money and energy by preparing Peachy Oven-Fried Chicken. Teamed with yellow cling peach halves, this main dish is truly a delicious combination — ginger, peach and chicken. If you desire an oven meal, put your potatoes in at at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Top with chips and bake five minutes longer, until brown.

RICE CAKES

2 cups flour
1 cup cold boiled rice
2 eggs
2 tbsps. baking powder
1 tsp. butter
1/4 tsp. salt
Milk

Mix all ingredients, adding just enough milk to make a thin batter. Drop portions onto hot griddle to fry.

CHERRY MOUSSE

1 pt. whipping cream
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 8-oz. jar maraschino cherries
1/2 cup Grapenuts
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1/2 tsp. vanilla

Whip cream and powdered sugar. Chop cherries. Soak Grapenuts in cherry juice. Combine all ingredients and freeze. Serves 10 to 12.

PINEAPPLE DESSERT

1 small can crushed pineapple
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
4 egg whites
Whipped cream

Cook pineapple and sugar until thick. Dissolve gelatin in cold water and pour boiling pineapple mixture over it. Beat egg whites stiff, and pour hot mixture over them. Beat 15 to 20 minutes. Pour into mold. Cool. Top with whipped cream to serve.

PORK CHOPS AND RICE

8 medium pork chops
3/4 cup rice
2 green pepper, quartered
8 slices onion
1 can tomatoes

Season and flour chops, and brown well. Place one onion slice and one-quarter pepper on each chop. Spread rice evenly over all. Add tomatoes and bake at 350 degrees until rice is done. Add more tomato juice if needed.

LEMONADE PUDDING

2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk
1 3 or 3 1/2-oz. pkg. vanilla pudding
1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 6-oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
2 tbsps. walnuts, chopped
2 tbsps. butter or margarine, melted

Beat egg yolks slightly, and combine with milk. Prepare pudding according to package directions, using the egg-milk mixture as the liquid. Add cream cheese and beat smooth with electric or rotary beater. Stir in lemonade concentrate. Cover and cool for 10 minutes. Beat smooth again. Beat egg whites to soft peaks. Gradually add sugar, beating to stiff peaks. Fold egg whites into pudding. Combine crumbs, nuts and butter. Sprinkle half the crumb mixture into 6 sherbert glasses. Spoon in pudding, top with remaining crumbs, and chill. Just before serving, stand a vanilla wafer in each glass. Serves 6.

Mrs. McMullan said it didn't

JUST PLAYING AROUND — The piano is a place to relax for Mrs. W.H. McMullan. She admits she doesn't qualify as a concert pianist, but her talents provide a pleasurable means to use her leisure time.

Store Bought—Bread Was Special Treat

By BARBARA LORD

"We had a cook when I was growing up, and we used to think it was a real treat if mother let us get bread from the store," said Mrs. W. H. McMullan. "Of course, that's all changed now. If I make our bread, that's a treat."

Mrs. McMullan related advantages and disadvantages of having a cook. Although she thought it was great at the time, she realized when she got married that she knew very little about the art of cooking.

"Aunt Sarah was a great cook, but she had eight people to feed and didn't have time to teach me anything in the kitchen. I didn't really mind, because I would always rather be swimming in the creek or playing outside. Then I got married at 22 and didn't even know how to cook brown beans!"

PANTRY PICK-UPS

For interesting scrambled eggs at brunchtime, add briskly cooked crumbled bacon and drained canned whole-kernel corn to the egg mixture just before it is set.

To stretch a package of frozen okra, after cooking, add canned whole-kernel corn and reheat.

Stuff soft pitted prunes with pecan halves. Wrap a half-slice of bacon around each prune. Place stuffed, wrapped prunes in a jelly roll pan and bake in a very hot oven until the bacon is crisp.

Allspice comes two ways—in whole berries and in ground form.

When you are rolling pie pastry, lift the dough often to make sure it is not sticking, but do not turn it over.

If your cookie dough includes a large proportion of shortening, you may not have to grease the cookie sheets on which they are baked.

For an interesting sandwich filling mix flaked tuna fish with very finely shredded green cabbage, mayonnaise, prepared mustard and lemon juice.

Drained crushed pineapple added to sweetened whipped cream makes an excellent filling for white or yellow cake layers. The cake may be covered with plain whipped cream or with a vanilla-flavored frosting.

Want a pretty garnish for salad or sandwiches? Cut small sweet sherkins in thin lengthwise slices from tip almost to end and spread the slices apart like a fan.

(take her long to grasp the cooking idea when she found herself faced with the responsibility of three square meals a day.)

McMullan is co-owner of Cue and Triangle with his son, W. L. (Buck) McMullan. Another son, Charles, lives in Marshall with his family. The couple has three grandchildren.

GARDENER
Although officially "retired," McMullan still spends most of his evenings at his place of business, but during the day he is often found working in his garden.

"He's always been a great gardener," said Mrs. McMullan. "Recently he started organic gardening, and that takes a lot of his time. He mixes up some pretty wild concoctions."

Organic gardening allows no use of commercial sprays or fertilizers. McMullan grows tomatoes, okra, green beans, squash, strawberries and several other items which Mrs. McMullan incorporates into her noon meal.

"We like to have our main meal at mid-day because it leaves the afternoon free to come and go as we please," said Mrs. McMullan. "I'm always running here and there for various reasons, and don't want to worry about fixing an evening meal. We just snack when my husband gets home."

Even though she doesn't bake her own bread, Mrs. McMullan does enjoy the time she spends in the kitchen.

"I like to cook so I do a lot of experimenting in the kitchen," said Mrs. McMullan.

"If I can't experiment it takes all the fun out of it." Whenever she pulls out a recipe, she said her husband laughs because he knows she will change several ingredients anyway.

Besides being an able homemaker, Mrs. McMullan is a traveler, collector and philosopher. She likes anything that is old and has a collection of antiques that would be the envy of anyone in the antique business. Many of them are

Great Souffle For Ham Dinner

Give ham a new partner — a souffle made with cornmeal and cheese.

CORNMEAL CHEESE SOUFFLE
2 cups milk
1/2 cup enriched cornmeal
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 tsp. minced onion
4 eggs (separated)

Scald 1 cup of the milk. Mix remaining 1 cup milk with the cornmeal; add to the hot milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, stirring often. Remove from heat; add salt, cheese and onion stirring until cheese melts. Beat egg yolks and stir into hot mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Turn into a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) over 50 to 55 minutes — until golden brown. Serve at once.

Salmon Offers All You Need In One Convenient Casserole

There are so many wonderful ways to use canned salmon in family meals that it is hard to know where to begin, but salmon loaf is one of the best places to start. The following recipe is not only different in texture and flavor, but different in shape. The combination of fresh apples, canned salmon and cheddar cheese is truly delicious. It's easy to make; it's low in calories per serving, and it's economical. What more could one ask for?

APPLE SALMON LOAF

1/2 cup crumbled cornflakes
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
4 tbsps. melted butter
1-lb. can salmon
Milk
2 eggs
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 cup shredded apple
3 tbsps. minced onion
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 cup stale bread crumbs
Lemon slices
Parsley clusters

Line an 8-inch layer cake pan with waxed paper. Combine cornflakes, cheese and 2 tablespoons of the melted butter. Spread mixture in bottom of pan.

Drain liquid from can of salmon into measuring cup and add enough milk to make a total of 1 cup liquid. Combine this liquid with eggs, lemon juice and the remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Combine salmon,

Gardeners Get Advice On Terrarium Plants

The history of terrariums and methods of planting terrariums were discussed by Mrs. Jessie Chrane for After Five Garden Club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Ed Shive, 604 Bucknell.

accidentally by an English physician about 143 years ago, according to Mrs. Chrane. The physician was saving larva in a glass jar that also had some seeds in it. When he discovered the seeds were growing, he allowed them to grow for four years. The plant thrived in a tightly closed jar. Eventually, the lid rusted and allowed dry air to enter and kill the plants.

Mrs. Chrane said the container for terrariums can be large or small, but must allow some light to enter and must have an opening at the top at least as large as a dime. She demonstrated techniques of selecting plants and placing them in a terrarium. She used small tools fashioned especially for working in containers with small openings.

Mrs. Dealon Stanley presided, and members agreed to assist Big Spring Garden Club in selling 1973 flower calendars. Plans were made to plant a tree at Howard County Junior College in observance of Arbor Day, Jan. 19, 1973.

The next meeting is at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21 in the home of Mrs. Dealon Stanley, 613 Tulane.

B&PW Club Exec Is Speaker At Dinner

The local observance of National Business Women's Week continued Tuesday when the Business and Professional Women's Club held a dinner meeting and program at Coker's Restaurant.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Elvis Williams of Seminole, District 8 director-elect, who was accompanied by Mrs. Ruby Ownby, also of Seminole.

Mrs. Williams is a member of the B&PW state membership committee, the District 8 personal development committee and is legislative chairman for her club in Seminole. She presented a brief history of the legislative accomplishment and growth of B&PW clubs since the first one was founded in 1919. There are now 200,000 members.

Mrs. Williams noted that the organization supported legislation which enabled women to serve on juries. Also, it campaigned for the participation of women in the merit system of civil service, as well as allowing them to serve in policy-making positions.

The B&PW clubs are continuing to push for equal rights for women under the law, along with equal pay for comparable work.

The meeting was hosted by the legislative committee, Miss Moveida Rhee, chairman, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Philip R. Palmer and Mrs. Laura Erhardt.

The local club will have a "Dutch dinner" at 7 p.m., Friday at the Spanish Inn with guests from chapters in Midland, Lamesa and Andrews.

Mrs. Faith Hotchkins of Andrews, District 8 director will be the honored guest. The next business meeting will be Nov. 14 in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Westbrook Area Residents Travel

WESTBROOK (SC) — Sunday guests of the J. K. Williams were her aunt, Mrs. J. E. Terry and daughter, and Mrs. James Cartwright, all of Elgin; and Mrs. R. L. Patterson, Big Spring, who is the daughter of Mrs. Terry.

Mrs. Charley Iglehart of Colorado City, formerly of Westbrook, underwent surgery at Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City Tuesday.

Lee Shaw is a patient at Medical Center Memorial Hospital, Big Spring, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. A. G. Andersons and the Rev. Roy Johnson.

Mrs. D. G. Rollins and children spent Monday in Odessa with her mother, Mrs. Charley Buchanan.

The Hoyt Roberts are visiting relatives in Hemphill.

The D. J. Barbers were in Lubbock Friday where she received a medical examination. Sunday guests in their home were the Harold Gainays, Monahans.

Committee Will Nominate Slate

A nominating committee composed of Mrs. Bill Rogers, Mrs. Kay Williams and Mrs. A. D. Jenkins was appointed for the Benevolent and Patriotic Order of Dees Tuesday evening at the Elks Hall.

Mrs. Robert Boodle presided, and Mrs. Alma George announced members will serve at a Christmas party at Big Spring State Hospital Dec. 14. An invitation to Veterans Day services at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Oct. 23, was extended by Mrs. L. D. Jenkins.

Mrs. Harvey Clay won the attendance prize. The next meeting is at 8 p.m., Nov. 7 at the Elks Hall.

Mrs. K. Summy Joins Auxiligr

Mrs. Kenneth Summy was welcomed as a new member of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary during a coffee held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. C. R. Wiley, 1721 Yale. Mrs. Jim Holmes presided, and members made individual donations to the crippled children's camp at Kerrville. The next meeting will be a pot luck luncheon at the home of Mrs. Dan Conley, 308 W. 15th.

Suburban Growth Mostly Unplanned

Most Americans are suburbanites. And, according to the 1970 census, suburbs are the fastest growing communities in America. For all practical purposes, the growth of most suburbs over the last few decades has been unplanned.

A study of Fairfax County, a fast-growing suburb of Washington, D. C., shows that one of the major forces determining where growth and subdivision will take place is the laying of sewer lines.

"Once you lay down that sewer," says the Population Bulletin, "it's back and watch the bulldozers come roaring in."

Newcomer Club Bridge Winners

Mrs. Dana Macklin was high scorer at Newcomers bridge Wednesday at the Pioneer Gas Flame Room. Mrs. Owen Ge won "brido." Three guests who decided to join the club were Mrs. Doug Warren, Mrs. David Westerman and Mrs. Daniel Roybal. The next meeting is Nov. 7. Anyone wanting more information concerning the club may call 267-8834.

Area Residents Have Visitors

WESTBROOK (SC) — The Larry Bells of Odessa were guests Sunday of his parents, the W. A. Bells.

The David Hardins have returned to Memphis, Tex., following a visit with her parents, the George Sweatts.

Mrs. Hardin and her son spent a week with the Sweatts, and Hardin spent a weekend. Other guests were the George Sweatts of Lake Colorado City, who also visited her parents, the Henry Turnages.

Mrs. A. C. Moody accompanied Mrs. Truman Henderson and Mrs. G. C. Stevens, both of Colorado City, to Big Spring Tuesday to visit the Clyde Millers at Veterans Administration Hospital.

The Homer Rices were honored for their birthdays Sunday at the home of the Dovie Rices, Big Spring. Also attending were the Floyd Rices.

Plan Bathroom For Efficiency

If the bathroom is the scene each morning of kids and adults bumping into each other, one solution to the problem, provided the room is large enough, might be to install a sturdy room divider between toilet and lavatory areas.

A divider will keep the traffic in line as well as provide a greater degree of privacy.

Sometimes, too, a half-bath can be made to do double duty by the installation of a compact shower stall which will take up little space.

A talk with a good bathroom planner and-or plumber will show that in many cases the cost of adding a shower will not be excessive.

ELECTED SWEETHEART — Miss Berlinda Saldivar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fidel G. Saldivar, 307 NE 11th, was recently elected 1972-1973 sweetheart of La Macarena, a Spanish organization at West Texas State University. She will preside at social activities of the group throughout the school year. Miss Saldivar is a freshman majoring in secretarial sciences. She graduated from Big Spring High School in 1972.

A LOVELIER YOU Housework, Exercise Sensibly Combined

By MARY SUE MILLER

There is a secret about housework that escapes many women. It is simply learning to turn chores into lovelifying exercises. The method makes the chores go faster, lessens wear and tear, and keeps your figure trim and firm. If that's for you . . .

1. To make a bed, instead of running from side to side, stand in the center of one side. Place feet wide apart, bend, stretch and reach to arrange covers. That way you cut time off the chore and, better still, cut into any extra laches at your waist.

2. Consider dusting. You can turn this often dull routine into an exercise that contours the legline. Here's how: To reach low spots, never bend over. Instead, place feet apart and go down to a squat, holding back erect. Come up slowly. The pull in your leg muscles is the beauty part of the action.

3. When picking up objects from the floor, do bend from waist — stiffened knees, feet apart. Good as a visit to the gym.

4. Vacuuming is the time to practice perfect and slimming posture. Stand tall, pull abdomen in and tuck hips under. Walk as though entering a drawing room, not as though cleaning one.

6. No matter what you are doing, whistle while you work.

Not so much to impress the family with your sunny disposition, but to firm your facial muscles. Fooled you, I'll bet!

HOUSEWORK

Attention, Homemakers! If housework saps your energies, looks and nerves, send for my booklet. "Beauty of Housework." It explains how to keep home and self sparkling in an effort-saving work plan, shortcuts in housekeeping, and advice on how to give yourself a beauty treatment while engaged in your duties. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 25 cents in coin and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Keeps Fires Going For Eleanor

By ANN BLACKMAN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For months, Eleanor McGovern wrestled with a problem that plagues most politicians' wives: how to keep the home fires burning from the campaign trail.

Her answer: Libby Strauss, a good-natured Florida woman who once volunteered to cook breakfast for Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern and his family during the Democratic convention at Miami Beach. Now she's the resident McGovern house-mother whose favorite pastime is turning out gourmet specialties while Mrs. McGovern campaigns for her husband.

"I went to the hotel to cook breakfast for them and came out five days later," Mrs. Strauss said in an interview at her new headquarters, the McGovern's Japanese-style house in Washington.

"I suppose you could say I'm Eleanor's assistant," she said, "kind of a surrogate mother. Right now I act as everything: secretary, shopper, cook. They gave me carte blanche."

Mrs. Strauss arrived at the McGovern household two weeks ago, bringing along two folders of her own recipes. "Oh heavens, there must be at least 1,500 of them," she said. "I brought everything: hor d'oeuvres, souffles, mousses, everything."

Ever since, she's been turning out dishes like chicken tetrazzini and aubergines farcies (stuffed eggplant) for the McGovern entourage of children, grandchildren, in-laws and friends.

Steven, 20, and Mary, 17, live at home; so do Susan, 26, her husband James Rowen and their 8-month-old son, Matthew. Ann McGovern Mead, 27, lives nearby with her two children, Timothy, 2, and Kevin, 3 months. Ann's husband, Wilber Mead, is a student at Augustana College in South Dakota.

Another daughter, Terry, 23, lives in Charlottesville, Va. but often comes home on weekends.

"I never know who's going to be here for dinner, and I never say no when they ask if friends can come for dinner," said Mrs. Strauss. "I never say no in my own home."

Home for the 47-year old Mrs. Strauss is a Miami suburb where she has lived for 18 years with her husband, Dr. Harold Strauss, a professor at the University of Miami, and their three children, ages 19, 16 and 8.

Her biggest worry, she said is the family she's left behind but she added: "When I call home, they just say 'Don't worry, mother.'"

Fall Festival Slated Friday

The public is invited to attend a "fall festival" sponsored by John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153, beginning at 8 a.m. Friday at the IOOF Hall. The festival will feature booths of canned goods, baked goods, hand-made linens and gift items.

Final plans for the festival were made at a lodge meeting Tuesday at the IOOF Hall. Mrs. A. G. Hall, District 11 deputy president, conducted lodge instruction and outlined the program of Mrs. Leona Moore, Rebekah international president. Mrs. Moore plans to devote her term to urging Rebekahs "to become involved through concern and action."

Mrs. W. E. Rayburn presided, and members of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 were guests. The lodge charter was undraped for the late Mrs. Maggie Jordan, past president of Texas Rebekah Assembly, and for the late R. B. Hughes, Mrs. J. C. Pye, funeral marshal, was assisted by Mrs. B. N. Ralph, Mrs. D. L. Rodricks, Mrs. W. C. Cole, Mrs. Ralph LaLonde and Mrs. Jessie Barker.

Mrs. Grady Beck was nominated as lodge deputy, and Mrs. W. R. Hall and Mrs. W. J. Harris placed first in duplicate bridge games held Wednesday at Big Spring Country Club. Other winners were Mrs. Elvis McCrary and Mrs. Hayes Stripling, second; Mrs. Jack Irons and Mrs. Wally Slate, third; and Mrs. J. H. Fish and Mrs. Morris Patterson, fourth. Five tables were in play.

Fashions In Tech Show

LUBBOCK — More than 140 years of feminine fashions — from 1830 to the present — went on parade at the "Flashes of Fashion" style show presented Monday at the Museum of Texas Tech University.

Two complete showings were held in the museum's main hall under direction of the projects committee of the Women's Council of the West Texas Museum Association.

Ninety-four ensembles, all from the museum's historical costume collection, were presented. They included several garments that, because of their fragility, are only rarely offered in public showings. The selection was varied, featuring fashions for the boarder and the business woman, for weddings, tea-time, sports, graduation, inaugurations and other auspicious occasions. Forty-six models appeared in the show.

Protestants Call Off Irish War

BELFAST (AP) — Protestant guerrillas called off their war with the British army Wednesday night after two nights of widespread shooting and rioting in which at least four persons were killed and 80 wounded.

Some rioting and gunfire continued after the truce, but on a decreasing scale, and army headquarters reported all quiet soon after midnight.

British army officers and local police met with commanders of the Protestants' Ulster Defense Association. After two hours of talks, the British announced that both sides would "do all in their power to take the heat out of the situation."

"Our war with the British Army is now over," said Tom Herron, a UDA vice chairman. "We agreed to try to stop the situation deteriorating any further. We agreed to try to cool it."

He added, "We could not expect the situation under 100 per cent control immediately. But we can in a few nights."

The UDA claims it can put 50,000 armed men onto the streets.

UDA gunmen took to the streets and started shooting at the army after two Protestant youths were killed by armored cars during riots Monday night. The UDA charged the killings were deliberate. The military said the deaths were accidental but appealed the UDA by promising that allegations of army brutality would be investigated by the police.

Meanwhile, there was some activity by the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army. An IRA sniper hit a British soldier in the leg, and bombs blamed on the IRA damaged a car showroom and a factory in Dungannon and Sion Mills.

WINS NOBEL PRIZE — Heinrich Boll, 55-year-old German novelist, won the Nobel Literature Prize Thursday.

First German Since Mann Wins Award

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Heinrich Boll, a war veteran whose writings depicted postwar Germany's way of life, today became the first German novelist to win the Nobel Literature Prize since Thomas Mann 48 years ago.

The 55-year-old novelist, who became International Pen Club president last year, was cited by the Royal Swedish Academy for "his writing which through its combination of a broad perspective on his time and a sensitive skill in characterization has contributed to a renewal of German literature."

Boll, born in 1917 in Cologne which was then occupied by allied forces, was wounded several times during service as an infantryman on the east front in World War II.

He made his literary debut in 1949 and in his novels has pierced the facades of the post-war German bourgeoisie life.

Dr. Karl Ragnar Gierow, permanent secretary of the 18-member Swedish Academy of Literature founded in the 18th century, said after announcing the prize:

"It is not the smallest German miracle that after such years of destitution a new generation of writers, thinkers and researchers was ready so soon to shoulder their country's and their own essential task in the spiritual life of our time."

The literature prize is the second prize to be awarded this year under the terms of the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. The medical prize was announced Oct. 12.

The prize for physics and chemistry will be awarded Friday and that for economics Oct. 23. It was announced earlier that there would be no peace prize this year.

Boll is the sixth German writer to win the literature prize, awarded since 1901. The first German prize went to Theodor Mommsen in 1902, the last to the novelist Thomas Mann in 1929.

Some reports had indicated Boll might have to share the prize with his younger colleague, Guenther Grass, a many-sided writer and controversial leftist politician. The Swedish Academy in recent years has become increasingly oriented toward the left.

Alvin Walker Is First To Vote

Alvin Walker, 506 Bell, was the first person to vote absentee in Howard County Wednesday, Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said. Wednesday, 16 persons voted absentee. Mrs. Petty said the office also has mailed 485 ballots for absentee voting.

Scouts Ask For Unused Uniforms

If you have Cub or Scout uniforms, outgrown by your boys, they may be useable for other boys unable to afford them.

Gene Bobo, executive for the Lone Star District, has invited residents to call him after 6 p.m. at 263-8787 if they have any part or all of a Cub or Scout uniform they are willing to share with a boy. This includes shirt, trousers, caps, neckerchiefs, belts, etc.

After uniforms are sized and cleaned, they will be given to boys who cannot afford to buy them, said Bobo. The boy or his parents should contact Bobo for arrangements. In some cases, exchanges of uniforms may be made for boys who have outgrown one size.

Sandy Duncan Is Granted Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Sandy Duncan, 26, has been granted a divorce from actor Bruce Scott Zahariades following a year's separation.

Superior Court Commissioner Jules D. Barnatt granted the divorce Wednesday.

Chances Poor That Cost Of Beef Will Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new quarterly inventory of feedlot operations in 23 states points to fewer cattle moving to slaughter next winter than Agriculture Department officials had estimated earlier.

The inventory and another report on the livestock and meat situation issued Wednesday also indicate prices of live cattle at the farm and beef in supermarkets may not drop much from current levels.

As of Oct. 1, the department said, cattle and calves in feedlots totaled nearly 11.8 million head, 10 per cent more than a year earlier. However, the report said, producers placed 2 per cent fewer animals in fattening pens last summer than they did during the July-September quarter in 1971.

Although sales of cattle for slaughter this fall-October through December are expected to be up seven per cent from a year ago, the supply after Jan. 1 may taper off to about year-earlier levels, according to officials.

The inventory report on Oct. 1 feedlots numbers and the placement of new cattle on feed during the July-September quarter was based on more recent USDA information than economists earlier had used in writing a more general livestock and meat outlook report.

Lamesa C-C Board Named

LAMESA — New directors of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development were elected there Wednesday.

They will take over at the chamber banquet on Nov. 14, which is one of the earliest held in the area. Their speaker this year will be Lt. Gov. George Nigh of Oklahoma, humorist.

The new board includes Ed Allen, Fred Barrington, Walter Buckel, Elwood Hamilton, Dorothy Haney, John Hegi, Jimmy Hughes and Bob Krahl. Incoming president of the chamber will be Bob Capps, local insurance man. Hegi will serve as vice president and Nelson Hogg, treasurer. They replace Dallas Woods, Richard Gentry and Joe Coffee. Balloting was by mail.

Masonic Visitor

Sam Hilburn, Midland, district deputy grand master for the 4th District of the Grand Council Royal Select Masters of Texas, will make his official visit here at 7:30 p.m. today at Staked Plains Lodge Hall 589. Officials urged all select masters to attend the meeting.

Do Your Banking Friday, They're Closed Monday

Some Big Springers will observe Monday as Veterans' Day by taking a day from their work schedule.

Banks and savings and loan institutions urged that persons transact business on Friday, as financial offices will be closed Monday.

Cubs' Roundup Set For Today

A rally for boys who are and who want to be Cub scouts will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at Marcy School.

Boys 8-10 years of age, together with their parents, are urged by district Scout officials to attend the meeting, obtain details on the program, and join on the spot if they desire.

The rally is being sponsored by Pack 46, which generally serves the southwest area of the City. Gene Bobo, district executive, stressed that every boy is eligible to join this or some other pack.

a few skeleton emergency crews.

The Webb Information office noted that many base people have made plans to attend the Veterans' Day ceremony at the VA Hospital at 10 a.m. Monday.

Postal service will continue as usual Saturday and Sunday, but no local deliveries will be made Monday. However, box service will be furnished Monday.

City and county offices will be open on Monday.

The Chamber of Commerce will close but reported that no other business houses had announced closing for the holiday.

Republicans Like Chances In Cotton Belt

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The death since 1970 of two veteran senators and the primary defeat of a long-time Democratic incumbent have raised Republican hopes of electing the first GOP senator in at least three Southern states.

Republicans are counting on a re-election sweep by President Nixon to boost their chances in those states: North Carolina, Louisiana and Georgia. In addition, they are making major efforts in Alabama, Arkansas and Virginia while trying to retain seats from Texas, Tennessee and South Carolina.

NO SUPPORT

A Republican is running in Mississippi but without the support of the Nixon administration. The administration says it favors Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland over Meridian businessman Gil Carmichael. Eastland frequently votes for administration proposals.

The Louisiana race was left wide open by the death of Democratic Sen. Allen Ellender last summer.

In Georgia, Democratic Sen. Richard Russell, dean of the Senate and chief spokesman for the Southern bloc, died in 1971. His appointed Democratic successor has been beaten in a primary. "If we ever had a serious chance, this is it," said Bob Shaw of Atlanta, state Republican chairman.

In North Carolina, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, 76, was defeated in the Democratic primary by a 43-year-old congressman who faces a former television commentator in the Nov. 7 election.

Here's how races for the Senate shape up in the south:

—The North Carolina race pits Rep. Nick Gallifianakis, a Democrat, against Republican Jesse Helms, who has become well known in the eastern part of the state through a decade of editorials over a Raleigh television station.

Helms' biggest problem is making himself known in the Piedmont and western sections of North Carolina, where the bulk of the votes are. He has attempted to identify himself with Nixon, but Gallifianakis countered by showing he has voted with the administration most of the time.

—Louisiana has a four-way race. Democratic former state Sen. J. Bennett Johnston of Shreveport is opposed by Republican Ben Toledano of New Orleans, American party candidate Hall Lyons of Shreveport, and Independent former Gov. John McKeithen.

McKeithen wanted to run in the Democratic primary but the party refused to reopen qualifying after Ellender's death. The former governor won a place on the ballot through petition. McKeithen has told voters that the election of an independent senator would give the state an important swing vote in the Senate.

Toledano, a New Orleans lawyer, has said the election of a Republican senator would insure cooperation of the national administration on settling the tidelands case and other matters of critical importance to Louisiana. The Republican is not well known outside of New Orleans and the state has only 40,000 registered Republicans out of 1.7 million voters.

HE DECLINES

Johnston has attempted to separate his race from the presidential contest, declining to say for whom he will vote. The Democrat is widely known in Louisiana and came within 5,000 votes of winning the last gubernatorial primary held by his party.

The American party candidate has done little campaigning and is given virtually no chance of winning.

—The Republican candidate in Georgia, Rep. Fletcher Thompson of the Atlanta suburb of East Point, has stiff opposition from Democratic state Rep. Sam Nunn of Perry, in central Georgia.

Thompson, a three-term congressman from Atlanta's 5th District, has been placed on the defensive by Nunn for most of the campaign.

Nunn has attacked Thompson for his acknowledged use of free mailing privileges to distribute statewide his congressional newsletter.

Thompson has attempted to rally by painting Nunn as a McGovern Democrat, but Nunn has responded by disclaiming the support of black state Rep. Julian Bond, a top McGovern worker.

Winston Blount, former postmaster general in the Nixon administration, is the Republican candidate in Alabama. He is opposing Sen. John Sparkman's bid for another term. Sparkman, 72, has spent 26 years in the Senate.

Sparkman has been endorsed by fellow Democrat, Gov. George Wallace, and many think that will offset President Nixon's popularity in the state.

Sen. John McClellan, 76, of Arkansas, weighed in against a tough primary fight against predictions that his age would cost him the race. The five-term senator faces Republican Wauna H. Babbitt in the general election. McClellan campaigned hard in the primaries, but has done little campaigning for the November election.

Babbitt's handicap is a Republican party that has fallen apart since GOP Gov. Winfield Rockefeller was defeated in his race for a third term. Babbitt has found few issues to use against the conservative McClellan and has resorted to blaming the state's low per capita earnings on the senator.

—Democratic Sen. William Spong of Virginia is running for a second term against Republican William L. Scott of Fairfax and Independent Horace Henderson of Virginia Beach. Virginia has a Republican governor.

The polls of both candidates show Tower ahead, but Sanders appears to be closing the gap. Tower is running a well-financed campaign that is being aided by the campaign to reelect Nixon. He has spent much of the campaign trying to tie Sanders to McGovern.

—In Tennessee, Republican Sen. Howard Baker is running for a second term against Democratic Rep. Ray Blanton, who is from the thinly populated western part of the state.

And, in South Carolina, Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond, a close ally of the Nixon administration, is trying to beat back a challenge from Democratic state Sen. Nick Zeigler.

Opposing Politicos Are Roommates

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Together is not talking politics. At least for Cathy Jones of DeSoto, Mo., and Debbie Svoboda of Hebron, Neb.

Miss Jones is president of the College Republicans on the William Woods College campus here and Miss Svoboda is president of the Young Democrats—and they are roommates.

Trapped Killer Wounds Pair

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A convicted murderer wounded two guards by gunfire today, Sheriff Claudio Castaneda said, then held off scores of officers trying to reach him on the second floor of the Hidalgo County Jail.

In late morning, shots still came from the jail, answered by a burst of gunfire from the officers outside the two-story brick structure in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Jailer Maiké Garcia remained on the first floor of the jail when the first shots were fired, and he was joined at mid-morning by other officers.

Sheriff Castaneda identified the prisoner as Geronimo Quintanilla, recently convicted of murder and sentenced to 50 years in prison. He was in the jail while appealing.

The guards were taken to Edinburg General Hospital where their condition was reported as satisfactory.

The sheriff was able to call to the prisoner, ordering him to surrender, but there was no immediate response.

Shortly thereafter, Chuck Dudley, assistant district attorney, said officers had entered the jail.

Dudley said five prisoners were out of their cells and said they were "trapped."

Lamesa Slates Music Rally

LAMESA — Country music lovers in the area will have their very own Western Jam-boree Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Lamesa Booster Club.

Among the groups who will appear are the Sands Chaparrals, which includes Brad Ingram, Buddy Dyer, Bennie Green, Marshall Dyer and Gay Mosley, all from Ackerly; and the Rangers, including Bob, Paulene and Royce Suggs, Phyllis Yeager, Clarence Nieman, B. W. Weaver and Stan Dunagan, all from Welch.

A Lamesa brass and string group will include Dale Merrick, R. T. Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jensen and Bob Stewart. The Country Kings include Ricky Lee, Gary Jones, Doy Ferguson and Danny Osborne.

Lee Bartlett will serve as master of ceremonies and expects about three more area country Western groups.

Choate Put On Key Panel

Mayor Wade Choate has been appointed to the Texas Municipal League legislative committee on general municipal affairs.

The appointment was made by Alfred H. Koebig, president of the Texas Municipal League.

"In structuring the special TML committees required to deal with the legislative objectives of our cities, I feel that Mayor Choate's personal participation in the league's program of policy development is essential," said Koebig.

The initial meeting of the committee is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday in the Commodore Perry building in Austin to review TML's legislative policy to be put before the legislature next January.

IN GHETTOS Neighborhood Cop Idea Pondered

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Police chiefs worried about poor community relations in the ghettos have heard a proposal for improving the situation: recruitment of paraprofessionals from the neighborhoods to work with regular officers.

The proposal was made at the International Association of Chiefs of Police annual conference Wednesday by James W. Shumar, chief crime and delinquency adviser for community development of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Shumar said that police frequently are trained to be impersonal in performing their duties, which they primarily regard as catching criminals. "However, when it comes to dealing with human affairs — with people problems — the attitude of detachment and the cold, impersonal approach simply does not work," Shumar added.

He said that police cannot properly perform even their criminal-catching duties without support from the community.

Shumar, in an interview prior to his presentation to the chiefs, said the paraprofessionals would be recruited right out of the neighborhoods in which he would work, and would be conditioned to accept responsibility for overseeing services to his community.

Shumar acknowledged that such a recruit isn't always going to fit the old-time image of how

Famed Chef Dies In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — Swiss chef Albert Stockli, 54, author of the cookbook "Splendid Fare" and culinary director at such restaurants as the Forum of the Twelve Caesars and The Four Seasons in New York, died Wednesday. Magazine Sold By Sooners

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Four long-time employees have bought The Farmer-Stockman magazine, edited for agricultural interests in Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma, Edward L. Gaylor, executive vice president of the Oklahoma Publishing Co., announced recently. The price was "in excess of $1 million, payable over a number of years," he said.

The magazine was established in 1911 by Gaylor's father, E.K. Gaylor, who still heads the Oklahoma Publishing Co., and current circulation is about 388,000.

The younger Gaylor said Alex M. McCommas Jr. of Dallas, who joined the magazine as an advertising salesman in 1949 and now is advertising manager, is president and publisher of the new Texas-based firm that bought the publication, The Farmer-Stockman Publishing Co.

Other officers and directors are Ferdie J. Deering of Oklahoma City, present editor and manager; Jim G. Brya of Dallas, circulation manager, and Jack B. Blakeney of Dallas, assistant circulation manager.

Ernest Shiner, Oklahoma editor of the magazine for more than 20 years, has been named editor-in-chief. Charles Taylor of Dallas will be editor of the Texas edition, and Paul Zech of Wichita is editor of the Kansas edition.

Cocker Case Is Carried Over

MELBOURNE (AP) — English rock star Joe Cocker and three of his friends, who face assault charges stemming from an incident at the Chateau Commodore Hotel, have had their cases continued in City Court until next Thursday.

After hearing legal arguments Wednesday, a judge renewed bail for the group and carried over the case.

Cocker, 28, faces a total of 10 charges, including assault by kicking. Also charged were a road manager, Keith Douglas Robertson, 26, and two women, Eileen Weaver and Eileen Webster, both 26.

The charges stem from a scuffle which broke out after the hotel management asked Cocker and his English friends to leave.

Cocker already faces deportation from Australia as a result of a drug conviction.

Houston Voters Crowding Polls

HOUSTON (AP) — A record 1,104 Harris County residents cast absentee ballots Wednesday encouraged by mild weather.

The turnout more than doubled the previous record of 522 on the first day of absentee voting in 1968, the last presidential election. Eight years ago, 415 voters showed up the first day.

Wednesday's first day vote in Harris County compares to a first day vote of 115 for the May party primary elections this year.

GOP Spy Was Demo Worker

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Donald H. Segretti, named as a key figure in an alleged Republican spying and sabotage campaign against Democratic presidential candidates, is listed here as a volunteer for George McGovern.

McGovern-Shriver rallies, canvasses or other volunteer work. No one at the Santa Monica office could recall seeing the man identifying himself as Segretti.

Barbara Bennett, manager of the McGovern-Shriver campaign headquarters in this Los Angeles coastal suburb, showed newsmen Wednesday three index cards bearing Segretti's name but indicating he had never taken part in any

Miss Bennett said, however, that volunteers sometimes appeared at rallies and other events without signing themselves in and therefore she could not say categorically that Segretti actually never did any campaign work.

Segretti, 31, a registered Democrat and former Treasury Department attorney, has been unavailable for comment since Oct. 10, when he was first linked in news accounts to alleged operations by the GOP to disrupt Democratic campaign.

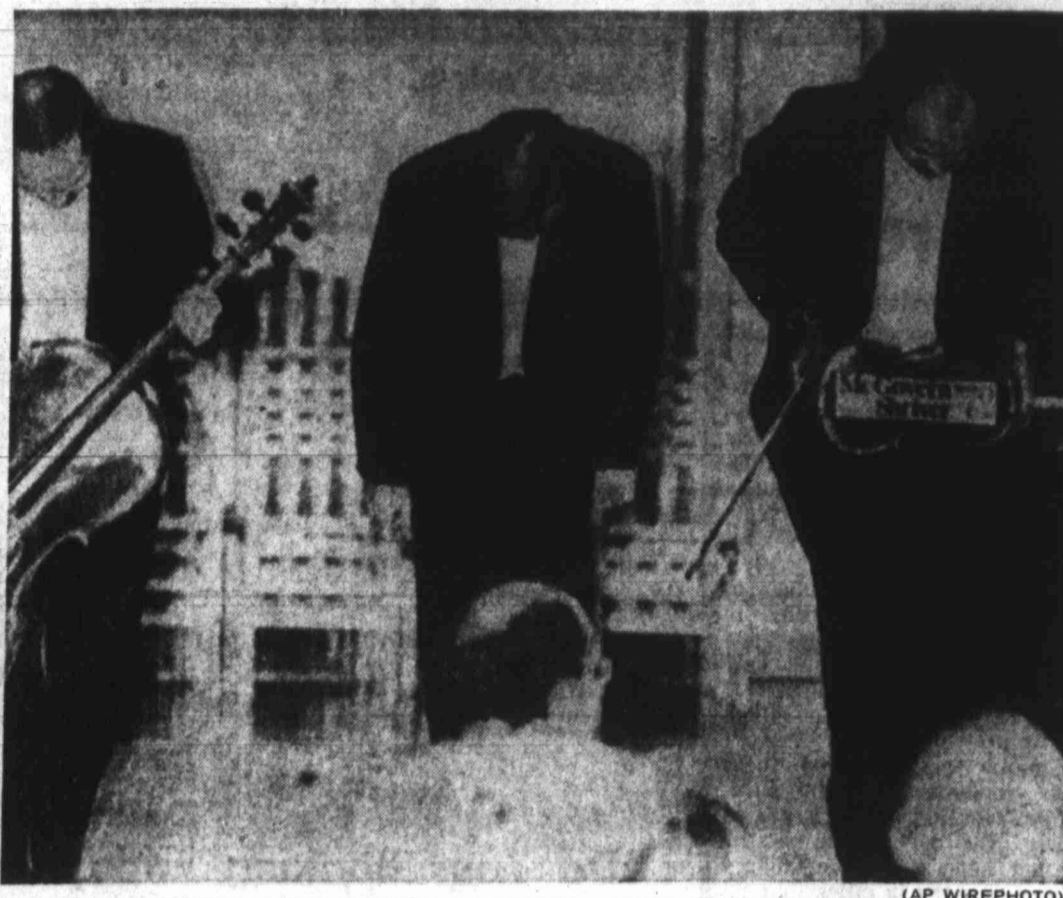

Efforts to reach him Wednesday night were unsuccessful.

Earlier Wednesday the New York Times joined the Washington Post and Time magazine in publishing stories linking White House aide Dwight Chapin to Segretti.

The Times said it had learned that at least 28 calls made from Segretti's home telephone and charged to his credit card were directed to the White House, Chapin's home, and to the home and office of E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former White House consultant indicted in the June 17 break-in at Democratic National headquarters.

Time magazine said this week that it was Chapin who hired Segretti as an undercover agent to "subvert and disrupt Democratic candidates' campaigns this election year" and that more than $350,000 was passed to him through Herbert Kalmbach, President Nixon's personal attorney.

Earlier in the week, White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler said he would not "dignify" with comment stories based on hearsay, character assassination, innuendo or guilt by association.

FIDDLING WITH POLITICS — The University of Colorado Trio took a bow at the CU Music Hall at Boulder after a concert and it gave violinist Ozzie Lehnert an opportunity to show where he stands on the upcoming election. With him are Jurgen deLence, cello, left, and Paul Parmelee, piano and harpsichord.

Judge's Statements Will Be Read In Corona Trial

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Secret session statements attributed to the judge at the Juan Corona mass murder trial will be aired at a public hearing Friday, the jurist announced Wednesday.

Hawk left court Wednesday with several hundred pages of documents he had seen for the first time the day before. Hawk spent the last two days going through Sutter County sheriff's office files to determine whether the prosecution was complying with a court-issued discovery order.

The judge held Hawk is entitled to see everything the prosecution will use for evidence in the anticipated six-month trial.

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Patton set the public hearing for Friday on a motion to free Corona on bail and added the hearing also will deal with published statements attributed to him.

The trial has been recessed until Tuesday.

The remarks were carried in a Los Angeles Times story this week which quoted Patton as saying "inept, the preparation inefficient, and the prosecution inadequate."

Patton said Wednesday "Whatever appeared in that Los Angeles Times article will come out in court Friday, which will be in a public session."

Corona, a Mexican labor contractor, is accused of murdering 25 itinerant farm workers and burying them in orchards near Yuba City, Sutter County, in the spring of 1971. The prosecution has conceded that its case is circumstantial.

The newspaper article quoted Judge Patton as saying the murder investigation "outraged" him "because of the prosecution's attitude and procedures ... it has been most disturbing to me ... it is an absolute outrage."

The story further quoted the judge as saying, "Apparently there wasn't even an attempt that this case be investigated until this case got down here in Solano County after your client had been held in jail 16 months." The judge was reported addressing his remarks to defense lawyer Richard Hawk.

The jury of 10 men and two women will not be present Friday when Hawk argues to have Corona released on bail.

Judge Patton has ordered the jury to return Tuesday morning when testimony will continue

Calm Assured For Time In Oklahoma Schools

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — here and school is out across the state.

Racial fighting flared again Wednesday at two schools, and 11 pupils were suspended at another school because of fighting there Tuesday.

Apparently no one was seriously hurt in any of the incidents, although a white boy at Southeast High School, where violence has flared for two weeks in a row, was stabbed.

He was treated at the school and taken home. A black pupil was arrested and taken to a juvenile detention center.

The stabbing apparently was the only incident at Southeast, but a number of fights erupted at Hoover Middle School.

Hoover Principal Olen Labor said the situation was tense, but not as serious as rumor had it. He said the fights followed a day of verbal sparring between blacks and whites Tuesday.

Labor said the sparring continued Wednesday morning and the fighting started when a white boy with a bicycle chain started chasing a black down a hallway. The white boy was suspended.

He said that minutes later, a large group of blacks started running up and down halls and hitting white pupils.

Order was restored, Labor said, but three more fights broke out during the noon hour as clusters of blacks and whites roamed outside the building.

The 11 suspended pupils were from Capitol Hill Middle School. Five were suspended for fighting and six for harrasing and incitement, officials said.

Experts say that theft crimes rise in times of poor economy. Economy reports in the area claim good health, but apparently West Texans have gotten where they will take anything from paintings to trash cans.

Just last week, women were attending a club meeting in the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Company and somebody came in the back door and lifted the billfolds out of the ladies' purses while they were at the meeting.

Pork Stars In A Fall Feast

Pork Loin Roast Is Savory Symbol Of Autumn's Plenty

Get set for gemutlichkeit — good food, fellowship and fun! Bringing in autumn's bright bounty has been ample reason for feasting for centuries. "Demeter" in Greece, "Ceres" in Rome, "Harvest Home" in early England — all were harvest festivals of rejoicing.

The timing is perfect for feasting now. Fall's fresh produce peaks in quality and quantity just when pork is building in supply and bearing most attractive price tags. This happy situation makes for America's "October Porkfest" — today's version of traditional harvest celebrations and an echo of Munich's gregarious Octoberfest with its rivers of beer and tables laden with favorite foods.

Feast Tables Feature Pork

Pork is no newcomer to the feast table. From early times hams, suckling pigs, roast loins and fresh legs of pork have been chosen to occupy the platter of honor in front of the host at holiday tables all over the world. Plan a Porkfest menu around one of these special-occasion favorites or select spareribs, chops, pork steaks, a picnic roast or a smoked boneless shoulder.

A pork loin roast weighing four to six pounds will provide an ample feast for the average American family. The meat will be at its tender, juicy and delicious best when roasted in a moderate oven to an internal temperature of 170°F.

Stuffing Balls Share Pork Platter

Add a plus to the meat platter with spicy sausage stuffing balls that extend the savory goodness of the roast while making a flavor contribution of their own. Easy to make and quick to bake, the recipe for the balls can be doubled if desired as yield is not limited by available space for stuffing.

Give the meal an appealing German flavor accent with red cabbage cooked with autumn's tart red apples, onion and caraway seed. Present yet another taste treat — carrots garnished with bacon.

Pork loin roast — sausage stuffing balls — bacon-garnished vegetables! Variety, yes, but only the beginning of a long list of delightful dinner table offerings provided by the fresh and smoked cuts of today's lean and meaty pork that's packed with valuable protein, vitamins and minerals as well as flavor.

Pork Loin Roast

4 to 6-pound pork loin roast

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) until the thermometer registers 170°F. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for roasting a center loin; 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a half loin; 40 to 45 minutes per pound for an end roast (total time — 2 to 3 hours).

Note: Have the meat retailer loosen the chine (back) bone by sawing across the rib bones. When roasting is finished, the back bone can be removed easily by running the carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the platter to be carved.

Sausage Stuffing Balls

1 pound fresh pork sausage
1 package (7 to 8 ounces) seasoned stuffing mix
3/4 cup hot water
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1 egg, beaten
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Combine stuffing mix with hot water. Break sausage into small pieces and add to moistened stuffing mix. Slice in onion, celery, egg and baking powder until evenly distributed. Shape into balls, using 1/4 cup mixture for each ball, and place in baking pan. Cover with foil, securing tightly around pan. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) 15 minutes. Remove foil; increase oven temperature to 350°F. and continue baking 25 minutes or until sausage is done. 18 to 22 balls.

Pork Gravy

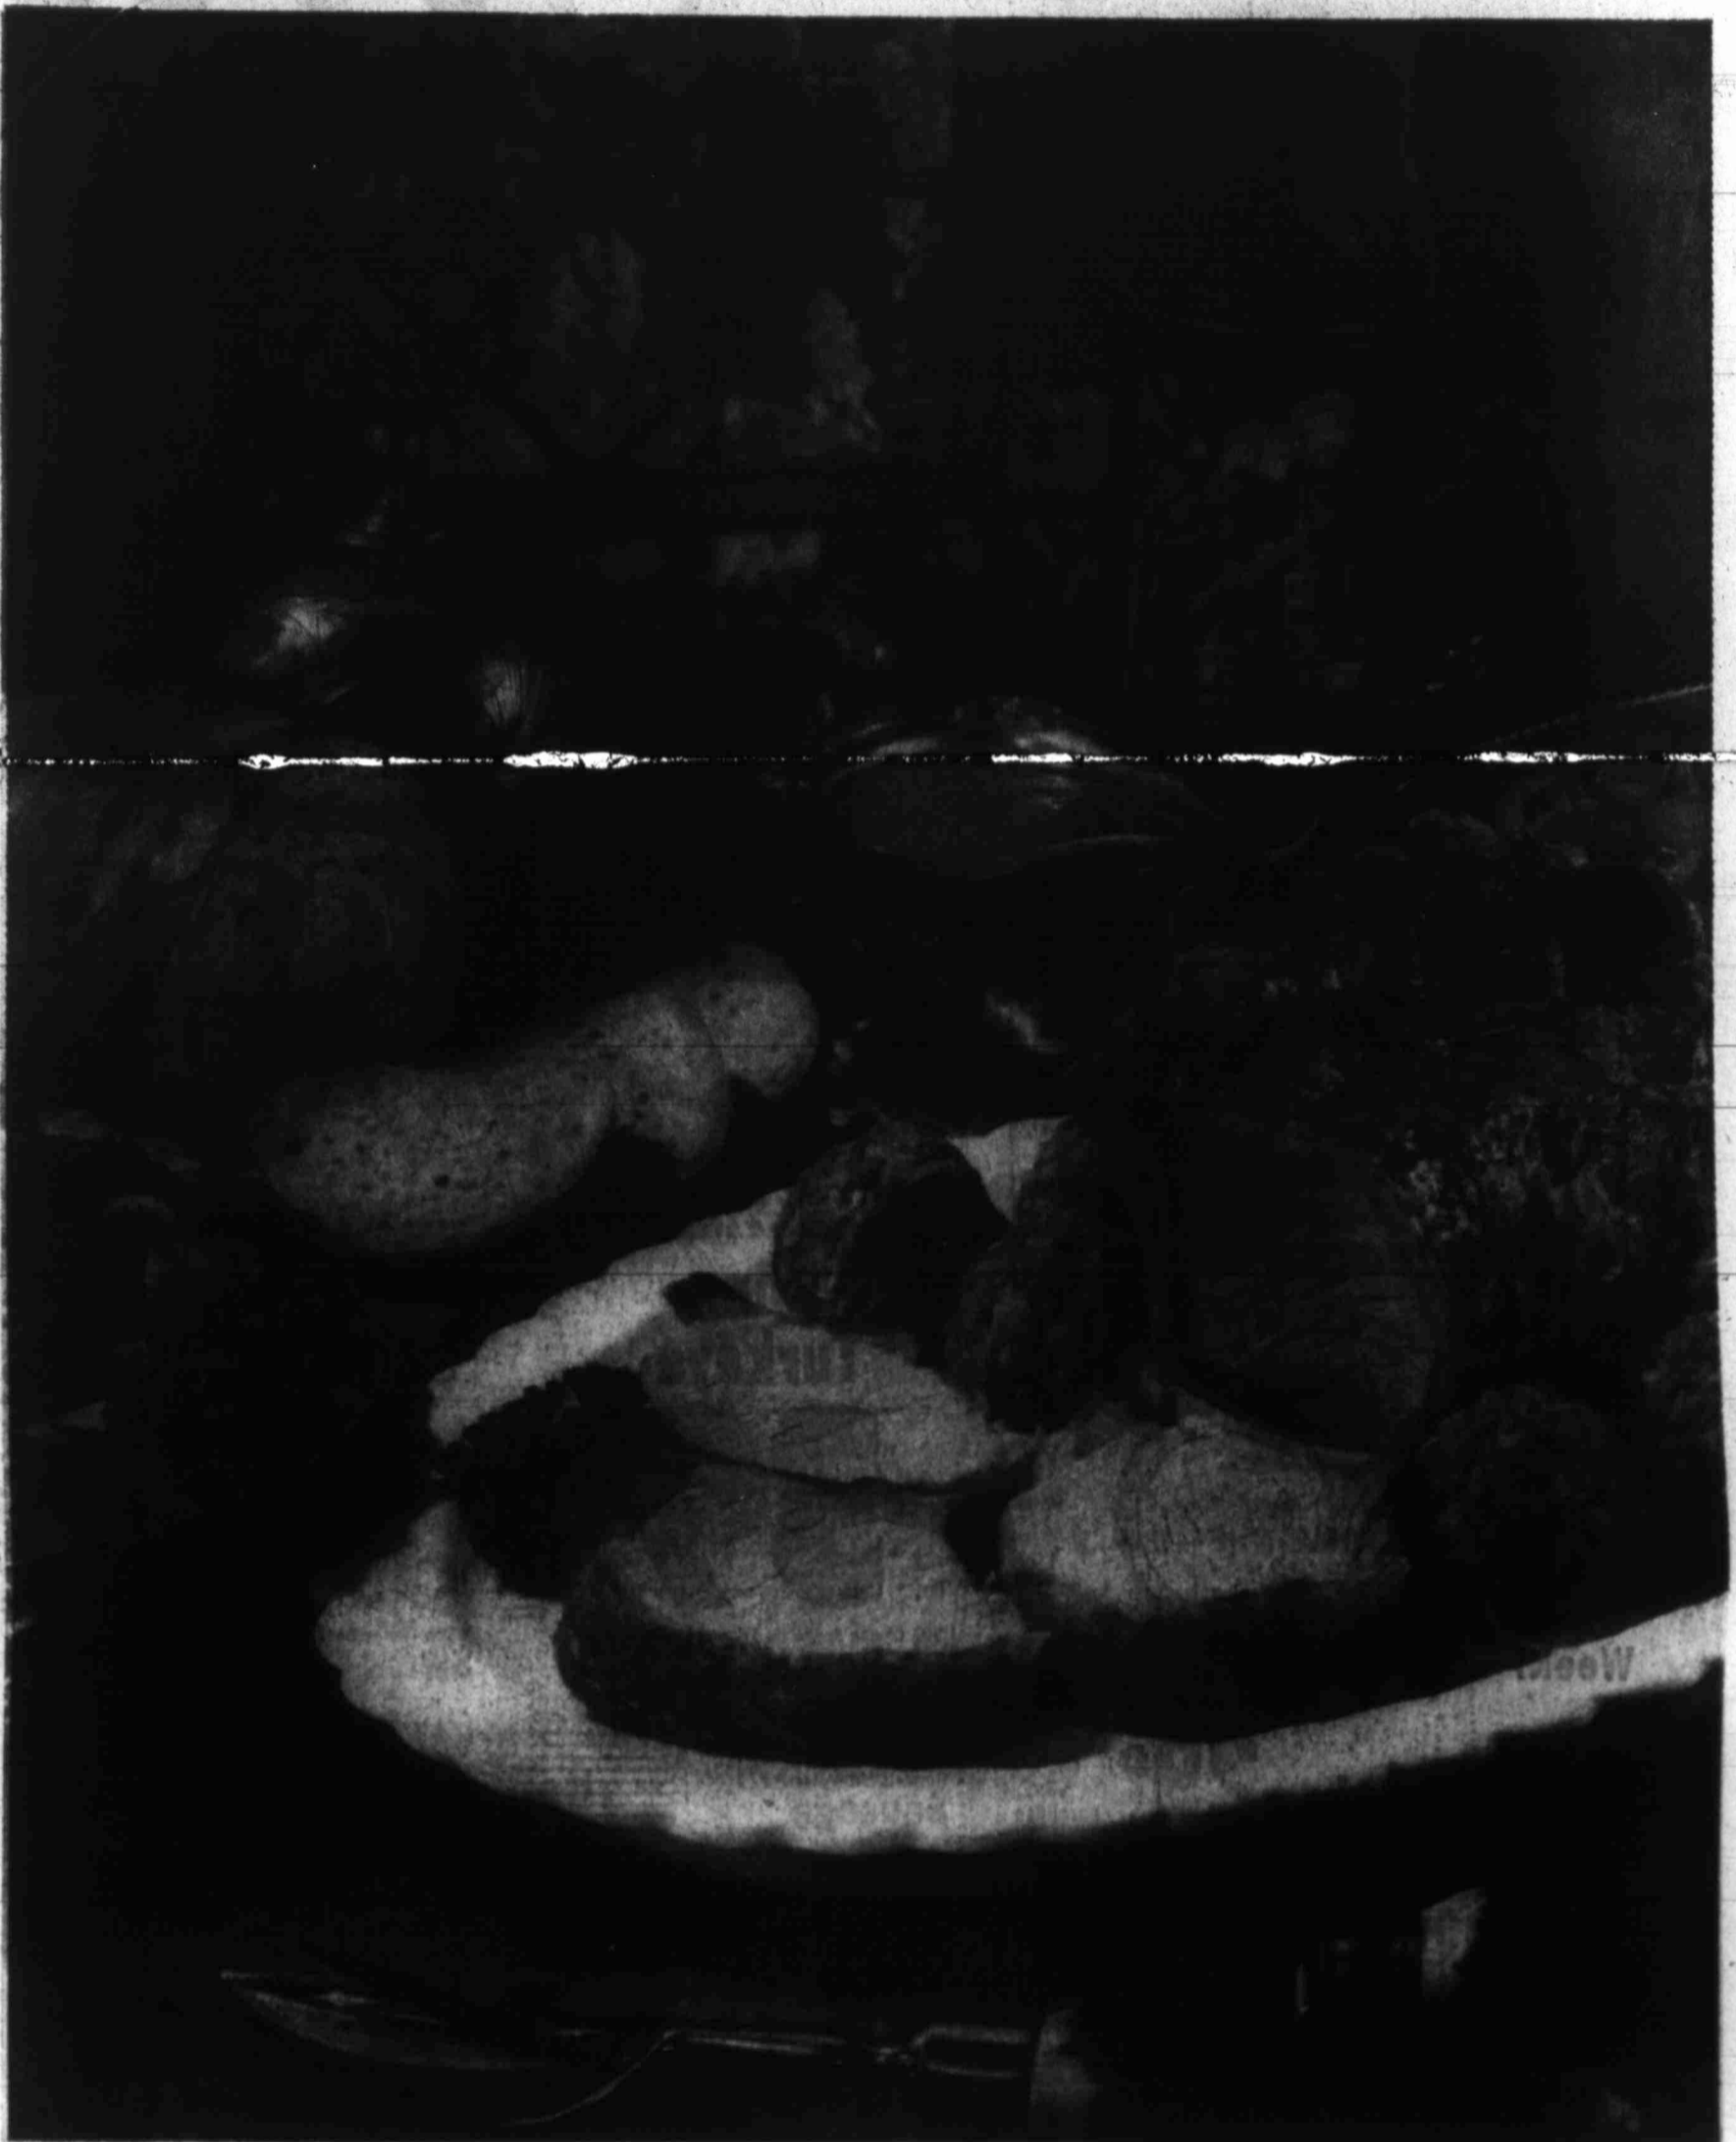

1/4 cup pork drippings
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups water
Salt
Pepper

Remove roast from pan and place on carving board. Pour off all but 1/4 cup drippings, leaving brown particles in pan. Blend flour and cook, stirring constantly, over low heat until mixture is lightly browned. Remove from heat. Gradually add water, blending well after each addition. Return to heat; bring to a boil, stirring constantly, and continue cooking until mixture thickens. Cook slowly 3 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Red Cabbage with Apple

2 jars (16 ounces each) sweet-sour red cabbage
1 medium-sized tart red apple, cut in thin wedges and halved
1 medium-sized onion, halved and sliced
1/4 cup raisins
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed

Combine cabbage, apple, onion, raisins and caraway seed in frying-pan or saucepan; bring to boil, cover and reduce heat and cook slowly for 15 minutes or until apple is tender and raisins are plump. Drain if desired. 6 servings.

Three Cheers for Autumn's Plentiful Pork

1. Good Nutrition!

Pork rates a rousing cheer and wins an important place in family menu plans because of its high nutritive value. No meal planner can afford to overlook it for pork provides the valuable high quality protein necessary to build, maintain and repair the body tissues and to increase resistance to infection and disease. A single serving (3 1/2 ounces of cooked lean pork with separable fat removed) provides 44 percent of the protein recommended for the daily diet of the average man; 52 percent for an average woman.

Pork also is an excellent source of the B-vitamins — thiamin, riboflavin, B₆ and B₁₂ — that are associated with a healthy nervous system and healthy skin and hair. Pork is, in fact, the top food source of thiamin, so important in today's fast-paced life. Pork also provides iron which together with high quality protein is vital in the formation and maintenance of red blood and in prevention of anemia.

Weight watchers of the family need not slight pork. They, too, can enjoy its pleasing taste and benefit from its nutrients for the calories per serving of the cooked lean meat from cuts such as loin roast, pork chops, ham and tenderloin are under 250. When pork is included in the diet, the dieter is less likely to be tired and hungry and to eat between meals.

The whole family can cheer for pork as a wholesome nutritious food!

2. Good Value!

Autumn is pork time. This popular meat, now moving into a season of more plentiful supply, merits a second cheer for the good value it represents. A shopper looking for good buys in pork will find them.

Shoppers get more edible meat per pound from today's streamlined porkers, bred lean and meaty, and more eating per pound from a pork loin roast. Roasting pork to an internal temperature at 170°F., as now recommended, cuts down on oven time and results in juicier roasts and less cooking loss. This means more servings per pound of purchased meat.

Now's the time to take advantage of the pork values offered at your market. Look for the boneless cuts with minimum waste; for meaty loin roasts and chops. Porklets (pork cubed steaks) make a good meal in a hurry, while the price tags on pork steaks allow for generous servings. Smoked cuts have special appeal in autumn. When buying ham it's wise to make a large enough purchase to allow for leftover meat that can be converted into a good second-day meal. Don't forget that old-time favorite, smoked pork shoulder.

Buy a variety of pork offerings and keep them handy in the freezer. Fresh pork cuts retain their quality and high nutritive value when properly wrapped, quickly frozen and stored at 0°F. for 3 to 6 months; ground pork 1 to 3 months. Cured and smoked pork such as hams, picnics, smoked loins and shoulder rolls and fresh sausage can be stored frozen 60 days.

Now and for weeks to come pork will provide better meals at lower cost. For a good value, look to pork.

3. Good Eating!

People cheer for pork simply because it tastes so good and provides a variety of satisfying meals. This is especially true in the fall when chill winds whip up appetites that can only be satisfied with something substantial.

Visions of tender, juicy pork chops, crusty barbecued ribs or a succulent man-pleasing baked ham bring shoppers to the meat counter to pick a pork buy. The variety of pork offerings keeps family interest high.

Now's the time to try a different pork cut or to give a new face and flavor to a familiar one. Autumn fruits and vegetables make delicious combinations with pork — fresh or smoked.

Interest in breakfast, that too often overlooked meal, will mount when the aroma of sausage drifts from the kitchen. Better breakfasts are built around sausage, links and patties, and other meats such as bacon, regular or thick slices or Canadian-style, or slices of ham. Now, too, is the time for a pork chop breakfast!

Treat pork right and it responds by providing tasty table treats. Follow recommended cooking methods and avoid high temperatures and overcooking which will dry out the meat. Roast pork uncovered in a 325°F. oven — broil at low to moderate heat — braise over low heat and simmer gently in liquid, as the case may be.

Cheer for pork for the wonderful meals it provides!

Keep Trying

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SLOW GO: (Q.) I've been 16 since November 1971. Last January, my dad said I could get my driver's permit. I got it and that was all. He told me I got what I wanted, and that was it. The months have gone by and I have not touched a steering wheel.

My hair is short, too. My dad makes me keep it cut. I tell him I don't want it down to my shoulders, just long enough to look like somebody and not a jerk.

My mom talked it over with my dad and they decided to let me drive this semester. But there's an ultimatum that goes with it. I don't drive unless my hair stays short — real short. I can't stand it. — Sad Square in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You are making progress. You now have an agreement that you can drive. Maybe longer hair will be next. Be patient with and respectful to your father, but don't let him forget that boys are wearing their hair longer these days, and that it is not like the day when he was a boy. At that time a long-haired boy was an outsider. Today a short-haired boy is.

MAKEUP: (Q.) My mom says makeup ages the skin faster than it ages naturally. Is that true? I'm 18 and use a moderate amount of makeup. I could get by on less. I certainly don't want to look 40 when I'm 30. — Clear Skin in Connecticut.

(A.) A teen-age girl usually looks better with less makeup than with more. But makeup, properly applied, and removed fully and faithfully each night, does not age your skin. Actually, it protects it. Just remember to remove your makeup thoroughly every night, without fail, and cleanse your face. That means seven nights a week, 365 nights a year — 366 on leap year.

About Warts

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 9-year-old daughter had three verrucas burned off her feet three weeks ago. Now another is starting in another area. She does a lot of swimming and I figured that is where she got them, but I have heard of people who hadn't been in a pool for a year and I wonder how they got theirs. Are they as catching as I've always been led to believe? If at a pool, can a disinfectant or something kill the germs? Or are verrucas caused by a virus, which I've also been told? Our doctor says there is nothing you can do except burn them out, and I wonder if other remedies have been found. — Mrs. E.R.O.

Verruca is a technical name for wart. It's as baffling under either name. You are correct that they are caused by a virus of some sort, but nobody has been able to pin down exactly what virus it is, or how to prevent it from spreading. I don't know of any valid evidence that swimming pools have anything to do with it. Probably they spread from person to person. How? Who knows? Studies of children in institutions reveal many more with warts than among other children. The same studies indicate that warts last about two years and then disappear with no more explanation than was afforded in their appearance. They just do.

Worst place to have a wart usually is on the sole of the foot. That's the so-called "plantar wart," so named not because it is a different kind of wart, but because it happens to be on the sole, or "plantar" part of the foot. It's a lump and it hurts to walk on it, whereas the same wart somewhere else wouldn't be painful, just unsightly.

There are more favorite remedies for warts than there are for hiccupes, and that's saying something. Some of these "sure cures" work; a lot of them probably derive their "effectiveness" from the fact that people have monkeyed around with all sorts of remedies for a couple of years, and the "sure cure" is the one they happen to be using when the warts, in their own sweet time, decide to go away. One simple procedure is to scrub the wart gently with a nail brush everyday. Rubbing with a shiny quarter has had good results — they say. Maybe the moderate irritation helps establish immunity. Castor oil or linseed oil applied to the wart is supposed to work. It never did for me, though. Ditto for slices of onion, potato or other edibles. There are more sophisticated methods, of course. Injection with Vitamin A, and use of ultrasound have their advocates. Simply shaving the thickened tissue or burning off the warts with salicylic or trichloroacetic acid are used by some physicians. Or various other ointments.

Removal by electro-cautery (electric needle) is an accepted method. X-ray has been used in the past, but isn't recommended today. No better than other methods, and why use X-radiation unless necessary?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that green potatoes are poisonous. Would it be all right to eat them after the green part has been pared away? — Mrs. C.H.

When part of a potato is green it can be poisonous, containing an atropine-like substance. Cut away the green part and the rest of the potato is safe. STARS

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does a "Class I" in a Pap-test report mean? What should be done? — I.J.

It means everything was normal, and nothing needs to be done. Just have the routine test when it comes up next, in six to 12 months, or whatever schedule you follow.

By colitis is meant a variety of intestinal ailments from very serious to merely uncomfortable. For a better understanding of its causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Opening lead: King of ♠ East's total passivity proved fatal to the defense in today's hand and enabled South to salvage his four heart contract.

When South's opening one heart bid was overcalled by West with one spade and passed by the next two players, the former properly reopened the proceedings with a double since he had 19 points with a good six card suit. Altho North only bid two hearts, South gave him another chance by carrying on to three. Without a ruffing value, perhaps North should have declined the invitation but—influenced by the heart fit—he persisted to game.

West opened the king of spades on which East gave an encouraging signal with the eight and declarer played the jack. A small spade was continued and East put up the ace which South ruffed with the three of hearts.

It appears that the success of declarer's contract hinges on finding the ace of diamonds favorably located, but South despaired of East's holding that card after the latter turned up with the ace of spades, for, holding two aces—he might have been expected to take some action when his partner overcalled. South sought for a method that would enable him to cope with adverse distribution and finally, he decided that his best chance was to end play West.

A heart was led to North's nine and a third spade was trumped in the closed hand with the ten of hearts as both opponents followed suit. The ace, king, queen of clubs were cashed next and when the sequence of plays survived without casualty, South was ready. A heart was led to the jack and the West showed out, the last heart was permitted to remain at large. A space was led from dummy on which East gave up his last club. Declarer discarded the deuce of diamonds and West was in.

A spade return would permit South to ruff with North's ace of hearts while another diamond was sluffed from the closed hand. In desperation, West underled the ace of diamonds in the hope that East held the king. South showed up with that card, however, and claimed his contract—conceding one diamond to his opponents. In all, he lost two spade tricks and one diamond.

East had two opportunities to thwart his adversary. He could have overtaken the king of spades at the opening gun and switched to a high diamond which would have enabled his side to cash out the setting trick before the initiative was surrendered. We do not charge him with an error on this account because the issue was by no means clear at this stage.

When the fourth round of spades was led from dummy after clubs were stripped out, it should have been obvious that West was threatened with an end play if nature was allowed to take its course, and East should have bent every effort to thwart declarer's plans. If he ruffs in with the worthless eight of hearts, South must overruff to prevent a diamond shift and then the latter is forced to play diamonds himself after which the defense cannot be prevented from winning three tricks in the suit.
