

PLEASURE-PACKED PROGRAM PLANNED FOR FARM FAMILIES

No less than six brand-new movies are on the program for the annual John Deere Day show to be held for farmers and their families on January 30 at Mrs. F. P. Shackelford and Son Hardware Store in Putnam, according to Mrs. Shackelford, sponsor of the affair. Farmers who have not yet received their tickets, may obtain them by calling for them at the Shackelford store in Putnam.

The feature picture, "Gallahad Jones," features Richard Crane, Marjorie Lord, Elizabeth Patterson, Jonathan Hale, Ed Brophy, and four other Hollywood personalities. The story centers around a farmer's son, recently graduated from law school, who thwarts the efforts of a big-time crook to profit from his political connections.

It is a present-day problem picture with a moral and plenty of laughs.

Leading the pack of five more applause winning films is "The Big Payoff," featuring Tom Gordon who, along with his typical American family, has won so many friends in previous John Deere pictures. The four films that complete the parade of entertainment offer something new and different in dealing with subjects close to the hearts of today's farmers.

"Those who attend this year's John Deere Day," says Mrs. Shackelford, "have a real treat in store for them, a day so packed with entertainment for the entire family that they will remember it with pleasure for months to come. Don't miss it. Get your tickets now. Refreshments will be served.

I. G. Mobley Asks For Re-Election

To the People of Precinct No. 3:

In announcing my candidacy for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of our precinct, I wish to express my sincere thanks to all who have supported me in the past, and for all favors in my behalf during the time that I have been in office.

In as much as I have served as your commissioner for the past seven years, I feel a certain obligation to offer myself for re-election to another term. I will say that I have gained a great deal of experience during the time I have been in office. This experience better qualifies me to serve in the future.

My record of your commissioner is an open book. The improvements in our road system during my tenure in office will speak for themselves. I offer my candidacy for your consideration upon my record. If you see fit to vote for me and to support my campaign, I will be deeply grateful.

Sincerely yours,
I. G. Mobley.

Price Daniel Announces

Price Daniel, attorney general, announced this week that he would make a vigorous race for the democratic nomination for the United States senate. In a hard-hitting, militant address he advocated a house-cleaning in scandal-ridden Washington bureaus, lashed out at "blunders of the foreign policy in Korea and the Far East" and demanded an end to government waste and increasing taxes. He pledged a continuation in the senate of his fight for Texas to keep its islands for the public free school funds.

R. B. Taylor For Commissioner

Subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, I announce as a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, Callahan County.

In my race for this office two years ago, I stated my qualifications: A graduate of the Public Schools of the state of Mississippi. I taught in the public schools there before coming to Texas in 1922. Have been farming and ranching in Callahan county since that date.

I also stated I knew what it meant to live in the country and at times, on account of the condition of the roads, be unable to get my mail, get my children to school, or get out to town for supplies.

I now have a "farm to market" road and the conveniences of it has made me more road conscious and more sympathetic for the ones who do not have a good outlet.

Since making the race two years ago, I have given much thought to the office I am seeking. I have been a very close observer of road conditions as I have traveled over the precinct. I have observed the methods used in building and maintaining roads in the precinct. I have also made some inquiry into the practices carried on in handling the purchasing for the precinct and the handling of other financial transactions. I am confident that I can improve on both.

I want to thank you again for the support and vote you gave me two years ago when I lacked 6 votes being elected. I want your support and vote in the coming election and if elected I assure you that any promise I make you will be one that I shall endeavor to carry out and will not be just idle words.

R. B. (Slim) Taylor.

Britain L. Webb Writes Editor from Phoenix Recalling Incidents of the Past

The editor received an interesting letter this week from Britain L. Webb. The letter, in part, follows:

"I am receiving weekly copy of The Star and I get much pleasure in perusing its columns and occasionally find the mention of someone whom I know or whose name is familiar as a present day member of one of the old time families, resident of Baird when I lived there as a youngster before the turn of the century, and that's a long time ago. To be exact some 56 years past. As a young lad about town along in the mid 90's I recall that W. E. (Uncle Billy) Gilliland was the publisher and editor and I well recall an instance that all but ended in tragedy. On a hot afternoon I ran through the plant to the rear of the building where I helped myself to what I thought was a drink of ordinary water and it proved to be a mild solution of lye water used, I presume, as I have since forgotten, in the cleaning of type. After considerable excitement created by my mother and the kindly services of Dr. Sartor I came out of it in good condition. It was a lesson profitably learned and an experience long remembered. With much sorrow I learned from time to time, of the passing of such beloved pioneers as Herman Schwartz, T. or J. L. Jackson, Tow Powell, Judge B. L. Russell and a long time ago, Gen. James, erstwhile president of the First National Bank and one of Baird's early day and prominent business leaders.

"After leaving college, I spent several years in the newspaper business, first with the Fort Worth Star, later the Star-Telegram, from which paper I went with General Motors taking my first employment with Buick in Motor Company; leaving that organization in 1932, retiring from the management of its San Antonio branch after 23 years service with the company.

"I am now residing in Phoenix, spending the summers in Southern California. I will always cherish a memory of fondness and affection for "good old Baird."

M., and two grandchildren.

Lone Star Gas Co. Sues to Recover Taxes

The Lone Star Gas Company Friday filed suit in the 126th District Court in Travis County to recover the amount of tax which it has paid and will be required to pay under the new Texas gas gathering tax law which was enacted by the 52nd Legislature.

Chetser L. May of Dallas, vice-president of Lone Star, stated that "Lone Star is filing the suit to protect its customers." In its petition the company emphasizes that, if the law is invalid as to interstate commerce it cannot be applied to gas transported and sold in intrastate commerce.

In this connection Lone Star points to specific provisions of the statute which are designed to prevent enforcement of the tax against gas produced and sold in Texas in the event it cannot be enforced as to gas going out of the state.

Mr. May emphasized that, if Lone Star had not filed this suit and the Court should hold that the tax is invalid when applied to interstate gas, Lone Star would be unable to recover for its consents the taxes paid, even though no taxes would be collected on gas going out of the state.

The gas company executive stated that Lone Star had protested payments of the gathering tax for the months of September, October and November, totaling $157,013.52. This represents a small portion of the estimated amount for a year. If the tax is held invalid the company will refund to its customers that part which has been collected directly from them.

"The only manner in which Lone Star can protect its customers against a discriminatory application of this tax in the event it is held invalid as to interstate gas," Mr. May said, "is to pay the tax under protest and file a suit, as has been done. A number of companies transporting gas out of the state have already instituted suits claiming, among other things, that the tax is invalid when applied to gas going out of state. In the event their contention is sustained, then it would follow that Lone Star Gas Company customers could be protected by the suit which Lone Star Gas Company has filed."

Mr. May pointed to the fact that Lone Star itself and many of its industrial customers had protested the tax before the Texas Legislature.

PARASITE CONTROLLED BY SPRAYING

County Agent Glen Green. Most of the parasites attacking cattle can be controlled by thorough spraying done at regular intervals.

Cattle lice are more abundant and injurious during the winter and spring months when the hair is long. Both rotenone and DDT are effective for lice control. If rotenone is used, two treatments at 14 day intervals must be given for control. A single treatment thoroughly applied of DDT will control lice, this will control hornflies also.

The spinose ear tick is common throughout most of Texas. It attacks cattle, horses, sheep, goats, deer and occasionally man. The immature stages of the tick are attached in the ears: When fully fed the nymph drops to the soil and molts to the adult stage. The adult never feeds.

Treat all salt, mineral, and feed troughs with equal parts of kerosene and lubricating oil. The outside of the trough can be sprayed with the above material and the surrounding soil should receive the same treatment. Treating the ears of livestock with formula 1029 has proved to be very effective in combatting this pest. The best method of application is by using a one-inch paint brush, completely covering the inner and outer surfaces of the ear.

The nation's scrap iron drive continues. This scrap is needed for the production of steel and we all know why we need more steel. GET IN YOUR SCRAP.

Eula Episodes

Mrs. R. G. Edwards Elevating Elucidations for the Enjoyable Enlightenment of Everybody Everywhere.
Two big news stories broke this past week. Number one was the second oil well that was brought in on the J. W. Gray place. Some believe that when the flow is gauged it will be one of the best wells in that territory. A location has been made on the Hilton Tarrant place and the rig is now engaged in drilling on the Nellie Harrison place. It should be ready to bring in by Thursday night of this week.
The second story which should have been placed first, perhaps, is the fact that Eula girls beat the Denton girls in one of the hottest basketball games of the season. The players on both teams were at a disadvantage because of the flu bug. Our girls made a magnificent show and it wasn't given to them by any means. It was surprising at the fight they put up when they had been beaten some twenty or thirty times by the Denton team, without even one single win.
Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Green spent part of last week visiting in the home of relatives in Fort Worth.
Doris Black is back in school after several weeks illness.
Grade school teachers report that flu and colds have been keeping several out of school.
Johnny Downing is still confined to his home from third degree burns he received two weeks ago while burning trash. Johnny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Downing, and is a fourth grade pupil.
Gordon Smith, Reo Jolly and Burrus Miller are taking turns at the bedside of their uncle, Rod Kelton, of Baird.
Joe Ross Milliron returned to Arizona early this week where he is stationed in the Army. He has been visiting the past two weeks in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Milliron.
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rosinbaum, of San Antonio, visited in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Rosinbaum over the weekend.
Rev. Walter Devers, of Clyde, will preach at the Baptist Church at a revival meeting, beginning March 9 through 16. Preaching services will be held only in the evening.
Mickey Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Johnston, left early this week for Ft. Worth where he enrolled in the Baptist Theological Seminary. He is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons, and for several years he was an employe of the El Paso Natural Gas Company. This past year he has been teaching in the Clyde school. He resigned that position early this year upon the decision to become a minister. Friends and neighbors of this community are glad that he has made this step forward.

Price Daniel Announces For U. S. Senate in Radio Speech Monday

Attorney General Price Daniel became a candidate for United States Senator Monday in a fighting speech, the 41 year old lawyer from Liberty County called for "a change in the direction our country has been going since World War II" and asked for at least 10,000 plain people of Texas to become active supporters in his crusade against corruption and over-centralization of power in Washington.

Help of the people from the grassroots will offset the huge sums of money expected to be poured into Texas by friends of the Administration in support of their candidate, Daniel said.

He outlined an affirmative program calling for a non-partisan housecleaning of graft and dishonesty in Washington, a stop to extravagant spending and high taxes, a positive and understandable foreign policy, a preparedness program which can outlast the Communists, restoration of Texas tidelands and a return to simple honesty and integrity in government.

Daniel asked that a minimum of 10,000 Texans write to him at Austin and tell him they will join him in his battle. He said he would return to the radio in 10 days — on January 31 — to report the reaction he receives from his announcement speech which was delivered in Dallas, Monday night, on two radio networks.

"There is a desperate need for a change in the direction our country has been going since World War Two," Daniel said. "The change can be hastened by one who has no obligations to present government officials."

Connally was not directly referred to or mentioned by name. Daniel said he would fight hard on the issues but would keep his campaign free of personalities. By inference, however, he linked his most likely opponent, Senator Tom Connally, with Harry Truman and Dean Acheson at one point saying that those who approve the Truman-Acheson foreign policy in Korea and the Far East should vote to maintain "those in power who are the architects and defenders of that policy."

Those who are for a change should vote for him, Daniel said. Pinpointing elimination of graft and dishonesty in government as his number one platform objective, Daniel called for a non-partisan housecleaning of all corruptions and disloyalty which may exist in any agency of the federal government. "We must expose, eliminate and punish those who have violated their public trust," he said.

"I place this first in my platform because our country must be morally and spiritually strong before we become physically and economically strong. My experience in fighting crime and corruption of the state level equips me to do it on the national level. I remind you that in recent years the most important forces fighting against corruption and waste in government have been freshmen senators serving their first term in office."

"New brooms, if you please." Among these "new brooms" he listed Senator Kefauver of Tennessee, Johnson of Texas, Douglas of Illinois, and Williams of Maryland. "Another 'new broom' will be of considerable help in making a clean sweep of the dirt and waste which have accumulated in government agencies in Washington," he said.

Daniel said that in seven years of the Truman administration the federal government had taken more taxes from the people than the combined total of all taxes collected during the 156 years of previous administrations, including two World Wars.

He came out flatly against more new taxes and strongly for eliminating every item of wasteful and unnecessary expenditure. "Short of world-wide war" Daniel said, "I will not vote for higher total expenditure of federal funds and will work for immediate reductions of present total expenditures." He said it was the surest way to stop inflation and the high cost of living.

"Not one dollar of new taxes should be saddled upon the people of this nation short of total war," Daniel emphasized.

The new candidate for the United States senate saved some of his most telling shots for the current foreign policy in Korea and the Far East, saying that for the sake of unity Secretary of State Dean Acheson should resign or be removed.

He blamed the State Department for influencing the leaders of the nation in the decision which allowed China to fall to the Chinese Reds, predicting history will record this as the greatest blunder of American foreign policy. "Except for this disastrous policy we would not be fighting a war and taking humiliating insults from the Chinese Communists in Korea today," he said.

Daniel spoke out bluntly on the Korean war: "In my opinion, we should bring this Korean war to an end. Either we should untie the hands of our men in Korea and support them with everything it takes to defeat the enemy or we should get out of Korea." Also he said "As your senator, Price Daniel promises you never to approve sending American boys into battle anywhere again until we are ready to win and willing to support our men with every means necessary to defeat the enemy."

Daniel called for a "positive and understandable" foreign policy which will eliminate politics and unite the people. "Only when our political leaders fix their eyes on future generations, and place our foreign policy in the hands of men well known for their opposition to Communism can our people be united in this fight against our deadliest foe," he said.

On government spending, Daniel said, "I am fully aware that we must spare no necessary expense in our preparedness program and in military aid to our allies. We must be physically strong and we must co-operate with those who can be depended upon to fight against threat of world domination, but wasteful spending in these programs must not be allowed to weaken and destroy our economic strength and reduce us to financial ruin."

"Both Lenin and Stalin have written that it would never be necessary to conquer our country by force of arms. Instead, they said they would make the United States spend itself into bankruptcy and destruction."

"I favor a continuous national defense program of such proportions that we can afford to maintain it from year to year without overspending and without finding ourselves in one emergency after another. The threat of Communist aggression may last many, many years. What we need is a defense program that can outlast the Communists and, above all, a program that will disappoint them by not spending ourselves to death."

The tidelands issue brought Daniel to reiteration of his announcement several months ago that he is opposed to the renomination of President Truman. "The blame for breaking the Texas annexation agreement and seizing our tidelands falls squarely upon President Truman and those whom he placed in power."

"Under these circumstances I said months ago that we Texas democrats should take the lead in trying to find a presidential nominee for 1952 who will keep the contracts and promises of the United States and no longer trample upon our solemn agreement of annexation."

Daniel said: "A few of our fellow Texans seem to think it a breach of Democratic Party loyalty to oppose the nomination of present Democratic officeholders. This is not so. It is the right and duty of every democrat to support or oppose whom he pleases within the party primaries and conventions. I shall cast whatever influence I may have in favor of a nominee other than Mr. Truman because of my sense of loyalty to my state, my nation and my party requires it. In this connection I will keep my campaign for the senate strictly within the Democratic Party of Texas and will not accept aid or assistance from outside the Party or from outside the state.

Daniel said he had confidence that the tidelands fight "for our public schools and the protection of property right" can be won in congress. He said: "This legislation should have been passed by congress long ago when the controversy first arose (before Truman became president) and long before we were sued."

HERE'S WHY - you see more every day!

EVER stop to ask yourself why you see more and more husky GMC's on every highway every day? Why so many cost-wise buyers are singling out GMC's as their first choice?

The answer is, "GMC" spells profit to the man whose business depends on the performance of his trucks.

To light-truck users, "GMC" means the highest horsepower in its class—for GMC 1/2- to 2-tonners are second to none in pulling power.

And to commercial haulers, "GMC" means America's most popular Diesel —for efficiency, for long-lasting, fleet-footed power and lowest operating cost.

And in between, throughout the GMC line—from the smallest gasoline-powered pickup truck to the largest Diesel—the story's the same:

Power, brakes, comfort, safety and stamina—the right combination of everything essential to low-cost hauling—in the right vehicle for your loads.

Before you buy another truck—come in. See for yourself why GMC is the best truck buy you can make today.

PRICE DANIEL TAKES HIS STAND

People all over Texas who listened to the announcement speech of Price Daniel for the U. S. Senate, are cheering him on since last Monday night. It was one of those often hoped for but seldom realized talks that reflect the feeling of the people from all corners of our great state. The good people of Texas now have their man. In his speech he did not leave anything in the shadows to make you wonder about, but brought the issue out in the sun where every Texas citizen could know what he stands for.

There wasn't any mud. There wasn't any slander in Mr. Daniel's speech. If there had been, we would have been greatly disappointed. We have known him for many years. He is a friend in whom we place much confidence. It has been the desire of this writer for many years to see Price Daniel seated in Washington. After hearing his announcement speech Monday night, we believe he has everything it takes to win over his opponent, Sen. Tom Connally.

Senator Connally went to the senate away back in 1929. He was a valuable man for Texas for a long time, but we believe he has outlived his usefulness. He should be retired with honors, and a younger, more vigorous man like Price Daniel should be elected to represent the people of this great state of Texas. Those who heard his message last Monday night and again Thursday night surely know what he stands for, and that he has the ability to get the job done in real Texas fashion.

THE RAILROAD AND THE TOWN

There was a day not so many years ago when almost every community in the United States was working to get a rail connection. Wherever a railroad went, it made business. It spent a great deal of time and money to locate industries along its line because industries meant greater development and increased freight and passenger revenues. That policy was followed by the railroads from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf. It was a framework of steel on which the strength of our nation was built.

Baird did not have to go in search of a railroad. The railroad came to establish the town. While many Baird people can remember when the T. & P. maintained shops here, and this was a bustling railroad town, few of us realize that the railroad company today is working just as persistently to locate employing industries along their tracks here as they were twenty-five and fifty years ago. If the Baird business people had matched the T. & P. in trying to attract new industries to this locality, Baird might present a different picture.

Baird has benefitted by the railroad down through the years, and the town is still receiving good things from the railroad company. The big payroll paid by the railroad has surely helped local business firms. At the present time Baird is purchasing the T. & P. lake near town. The agreed price is about a tenth of its real value, but the railroad officials wanted the city to get the good of the lake since the use of diesel engines minimize their need for water.

The T. & P. is placing attractive advertising now to present the advantages of this section for manufacturing, processing, packing, distributing, warehousing, etc. There are many more ways in which the railroads are helping Baird.

Indian Problem Can Be Solved

HELENA, Mont.—Success of the postwar displaced persons' resettlement program offers a guide to the solution of the Indian problem in the United States, a welfare consultant for the National Lutheran Council said here.

Henrietta Lund, who was here for the governors' interstate Indian council meeting, said "we have proved in our service to war refugees that we can tackle and surmount staggering human projects. What we did for the New Americans, we can do for the First Americans."

Miss Lund, who spent two years abroad in resettling Lutheran displaced persons and who has worked with two different Indian tribes in past years on relief and rehabilitation, said:

"Our help in the adjustment of the Indian to satisfying and useful citizenship probably involves a more difficult service than to immigrants, because of the primitiveness, non-literacy, non-industrialism, tribal differences, language barriers and generations of mistreatment."

She described the Indians as "a fine people—likable, proud, dignified, artistic and inherently rich." But, she said, they "profoundly need our help to make them self-supporting, useful Christian citizens."

zens. We have it in our power to bring faith, hope and strength into their lives."

While advocating a joint spiritual-social ministry by church agencies, Miss Lund also suggested three ways whereby individual church members can help the Indians:

(1) Study the history and culture of the Indian tribes in our home community and state. "This will help to dispel false or unrealistically sentimental pictures of the Indian. He is neither 'a cruel, blood-thirsty savage,' nor 'a noble, high-minded and picturesque son of nature.'"

(2) Respect the Indian as a person and help remove race prejudice and discrimination. "Americans were recently shocked when an Iowa town refused burial to an Indian killed in Korea. As disturbing as this is the experience of an Indian scholar who met a 'no Indian allowed' regulation in a California community."

(3) Help the Indian to feel at home within our churches and to take part in community activities. "Fuller participation in the American life of church and community is necessary. We can profit by his talents and abilities in our stream of life as he needs the best that we have to offer. Human sympathy and a social conscience are requisites."

THIS WEEK IN Washington

AVOWED PURPOSE of Winston Churchill is to solidify British-American friendship more on the lines which were in evidence throughout the war, and which have become a little ragged since that time.

The President's plan for reorganization of the internal revenue bureau by abolishing the offices of internal revenue collectors in the states and setting up 25 regional offices with all appointments except the top men under civil service is a long range plan, and has generally received favorable comment. However, it will mean taking from the members of the congress traditional patronage and just how this congress will take the plan remains to be seen. The plan was President Truman's answer to charges of graft and corruption in the tax collection bureau of the government, and it's announcement was followed by action by the attorney general in calling grand juries throughout the country to hear testimony in tax fraud cases.

In political circles, backers of General Eisenhower are jubilant over the general's careful admission that the "general tenor" of his political conviction is that he is a Republican. Some Republicans here see in the general's admission a tendency to be a little too careful in that he did not come right out and declare his Republicanism. General Eisenhower answered the assurance of Senator Lodge, his campaign manager, that he was in fact a Republican with these words: "Senator Lodge's announcement of yesterday, as reported in the press, gives an accurate account of the general tenor of my political convictions and of my Republican voting record."

However some Republicans have expressed the opinion they had hoped General "Ike" would have been more forthright. If Eisenhower has gone as far as he can go, ethically, while still in his general's uniform and is in fact a candidate, the political dopesters here see the fight for the GOP nomination narrowed down to Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Eisenhower. They place both Harold Stassen and Governor Warren of California in the "stalking horse" class as seeking to corral delegates which will go to Eisenhower in the GOP convention in the move to "stop Taft."

This session of the congress will be a wordy session, probably one of the noisiest of record, and there is indication that little will come from it in the way of solid sound legislation. From his state of the union message, however, the President has not completely given up hope in getting through some of his Fair Deal program. Some of that program however has been placed in moth balls for the duration. In this class comes his program for national health insurance which is now in the hands of a bi-partisan commission, headed by Dr. Paul Magnuson, an outstanding medical authority. This commission is out of the realm of politics since it does not report until after the election, and the American Medical Association is being criticized by some of its own membership for the refusal of AMA President Dr. John Cline to serve as a member of the commission.

Another Fair Deal plank, now in the moth ball class, is Missouri valley authority which likely will not see daylight during this session, despite the need for some legislation to stop disastrous floods on the Missouri and other western rivers. Also Taft-Hartley law repeal, civil rights legislation and other lesser programs are deemed insofar as this session is concerned.

Top battles will be fought out on further support of the North Atlantic Treaty nations, a new agricultural policy and a new national production act for 1952. The seasonally high prices of potatoes and attempt of the Office of Price Administration to enforce ceilings on white potatoes has brought the farm price support program directly into the limelight, for just a short year ago, under mandate of the congress, the department of agriculture was dumping potatoes after paying out hundreds of millions of dollars of taxpayers money in price supports.

"Lift Truck, I'll Crawl Out," Says Wreck Victim Pinned in Truck

A 39-year-old Clyde construction worker, pinned under the wreckage of his late model pick-up truck after it turned over south of Baird Sunday night, narrowly escaped death or serious injury.

All highway patrolman and other bystanders could see was the feet of David H. Cox. "We thought sure he was dead, or near dead," said Baird highway patrolman Ray Hatten.

Hatten said the first he knew Cox was alive was when he looked under the cab, and Cox said calmly, "Just lift the truck up, I'll crawl out."

Hatten summoned a wrecker 300 yards away, which was engaged in clearing the wreckage of an accident minutes earlier. The wrecker lifted the truck, and Cox came out little the worse for the harrowing experience.

Hatten said Cox had been thrown from the truck, evidently at the last minute, and had been pinned in a crouched position on the driver's side of the truck.

Cox works for a Brownwood construction firm, and is presently employed on a Lampasas project. He was on his way to Clyde when the accident happened, about a half mile east of the intersection of U. S. 183 and State Highway 36. The accident occurred about 9:20 p. m.

Cox was alone at the time. He was examined by a doctor in Abilene, who found no serious injuries. Cox was complaining of a bruise on his leg.

"COMMON COLD" MORE PREVALENT IN WINTER

The so-called "common cold" strikes at any time of the year, but is most prevalent during January and February, and it can be most serious in its effects when it strikes during those months.

Colds are the most common of all illnesses in this country, and it is estimated that the majority of people average two or three a year. While a specific preventative or cure has not yet been found, scientific studies in recent years have given us some facts which can help us ward off colds, or lessen the chance of complications once a cold has started.

We know, for example, that the cold is highly contagious, and that it is caused by a tiny virus which gets a foothold in the respiratory tract. A person who has a cold transmits it to others on the first day or two after his cold appears. It is possible for a person to "give" his cold to others from four to six hours before he himself begins to cough and sneeze.

It is agreed, too, that when the cold virus sets up infection in the nose or throat, the area affected becomes more vulnerable to others, more deadly, germs like those which cause infected throats, influenza and pneumonia.

While chilling, exposure, or fatigue alone do not bring on a cold, they can break down resistance and give the cold germs a chance to set up infection. As far as we know, the cold virus can exist in the nose or throat for some time without producing symptoms until a sudden chilling or wetting of the skin, or exhaustion, causes a change in the tissues surrounding the virus.

We have heard a great deal about experiments with vaccines, drugs, or "vitamin treatments" to avoid or cure colds. But these studies are still in the experimental stage and specific preventives or cures are yet to be proved.

Meanwhile, a person can and should take measures to avoid colds, particularly during the winter months. The most obvious precaution is avoiding close contact with those who have colds, but this is not always possible. So it is wise for all of us to guard against excessive chilling and undue exposure to rain and snow and try to keep resistance against illness high with sufficient rest and sleep and a balanced diet.

If a cold does take hold, the best treatment is still complete rest in bed during the acute stage. Besides taking care of his own health, the cold sufferer who stays home in bed shows thoughtfulness towards those whom he would otherwise infect with his easily caught illness.

Mrs. Tee Baulch sustained a sprained foot in a fall on the back steps of her home Saturday morning.

Mrs. Arnold Colclasure returned to her home Jan. 13, much improved, after several week's illness at Mineral Wells.

March of Dimes to Reach New Heights This Year, According to Lloyd Gregory

AUSTIN — The March of Dimes, January 2-31, will reach new heights this year in Texas, believes state chairman, Lloyd Gregory of Houston.

"With the assistance of thousands of volunteer polio fighters in every Texas county, better organized, better supplied, and better informed than ever before about the service program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis good results should be predetermined," Gregory said this week.

An example of outstanding co-operation pointed to by Gregory is the support offered by representatives of 57 state-wide organizations, many of which have organized for the campaign in their local units throughout Texas.
