SONS In the Service

The following poem by Private J. D. Terry, was handed to the Star by his mother, Mrs. Rosa Terry, and we are publishing it as his offering to this column:

"The Leathernecks"
You can have your army khaki,
You can have your navy blue;
But there is still another fighter,
I'll introduce to you.

His uniform is different,
The best you've ever seen;
The "Huns" call him a "Devil Dog";
But his real name is Marine.

He trained at San Diego—
The land that God forgot—
Where the sand is fourteen inches deep,
And the sun is scorching hot.

Where the rain comes down in gushes,
And it's cold as hell all night;
That's where they send the "Leathernecks"
To teach them how to fight.

He has peeled a million onions,
And twice as many spuds;
He also spends his leisure time
By washing out his duds.

Now girls, here is a little tip—
I'm handing it on to you—
Just get yourself a good Marine,
There's nothing he can't do.

And when he gets to heaven,
To St. Peter he will tell—
"Another Marine reporting Sir,
I've served my time in hell."

Pvt. France N. Welch, who is stationed with the 84th Air Base Squadron, at Lubbock Flying Field, at Lubbock, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Welch.

Bomber Makes Forced Landing Near Friona

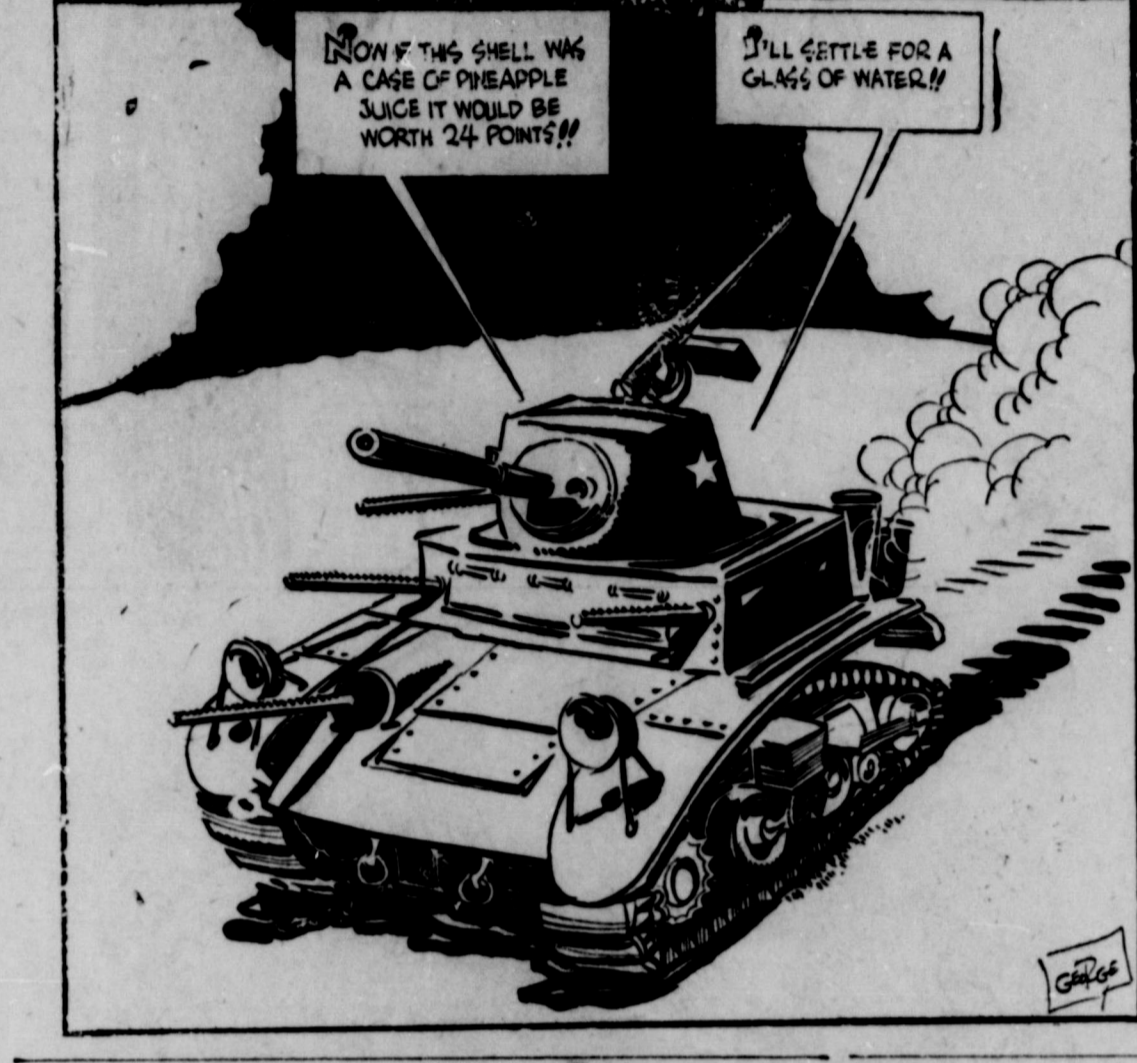

A four-motored army bomber, enroute from Dallas to Clovis and carrying a crew of nine men, made a forced landing about sun-up Wednesday morning in a wheat field belonging to Russell O'Brian, 13 miles southeast of Friona.

The plane had stopped at Lubbock on its way to Clovis and soon after the resumption of the trip motor trouble began to develop. By the time the big bomber reached Lazbuddy three of the motors had gone out and the pilot ordered all men except the co-pilot and crew chief to bail out. All six soldiers parachuted safely and were picked up soon after landing by a farmer of the Lazbuddy community who brought them to Muleshoe.

Later the fourth engine stopped and the pilot made a forced landing, in which none of the remaining crew were injured and the plane itself was not damaged. The plane will be flown out Thursday.

Let's Double That Red Cross Gift

Just this word about the American Red Cross. Anywhere our fighting men are today the American Red Cross is there to serve them. The Red Cross is the REAL SERVICE agency through which OUR PRECIOUS BOYS receive help in time of SUFFERING. No other agency can do this as the Red Cross is doing it.

Now, your American Red Cross is asking us for the funds with which to deliver this SERVICE. The least any of us can do is to respond to the URGENT CALL. One hundred Twenty-five Million Dollars is the Goal, $1,700 for Parmer County Chapter. Surely we will not default. Our boys are fighting and dying out there to preserve our form of Freedom. Can we afford to let them down?

Now, we ask you who have not been personally solicited to go to the Drug Store and make your CONTRIBUTION. Let us answer the Challenge of our President and Eddie Rickenbacker and ALL WHO CARE and go over the top for OUR AMERICAN RED CROSS.

McFarland Sale Scheduled For Next Wednesday

Bills are out announcing the sale at public auction, by J. B. McFarland, of all his livestock, farm machinery, and many other articles at his farm home four miles west and one mile north of Friona, on Wednesday, March 10.
Mr. McFarland has engaged in extensive farming operations since moving to this territory several years ago and is disposing of his farm equipment because of poor health and the scarcity of farm help.
This promises to be one of the largest farm sales ever held in this locality, and there will be lots of good dairy cows and other livestock and a complete line of good farm machinery on sale.
The sale will be in the hands of the popular auctioneer, Lloyd Otten, of Hereford and Amarillo, with Frank A. Spring, of Friona, as clerk.
The ladies of the Friona Woman's Club will be on hand with an abundance of prepared food, so that all present may have the pleasure of a noon-day lunch. Mr. McFarland announces that if the sale is hindered or prevented on account of weather conditions, it will be held on Wednesday of the following week.

The program of the next regular meeting, or a special day may be set for it.

Blackwell placed in the highest honor group with a perfect grade card, according to an announcement by Dr. D. A. Shirley, registrar. Other students having perfect grade cards were Mrs. Morene Allman of Amarillo, Mrs. Christine Gibson of Canyon, Beulah Hammond of Canyon, Thelma Hunter of Wheeler, Evelyn Jeanne McCarty of Amarillo, and Sybil Mitchell of Abernathy.

Farm Commando School Success

The "Farm Commando School" conducted by Allis-Chalmers representative at the Reeve Chevrolet Co. building last Saturday afternoon, was a pronounced success as to attendance, entertainment and information given.
The instructions by factory-trained men gave valuable conservation tips on the care of tractors.

The entertainment feature of the school was a number of talking films showing the planting, cultivation and harvesting of all the common crops and the addition of several crops that are new to this locality, but which are being introduced here because of their value in the prosecution of the war. More of these crops will likely be introduced here before the end of the war.

The purpose of the entertainment feature was to cause our local farmers to become more appreciative of the importance which the agriculture of the Panhandle has to the successful prosecution of the war and of the necessity for proper care of machinery to get maximum farm production. An admirable feature of this was that the instructions given were just applicable to all makes of machinery and Reeve Chevrolet Company is to be commended for their progressive spirit in bringing the school to Friona.

C. H. WHITE MOVES TO HOT SPRINGS

C. H. White, who for the past several years, has lived on his farm west of Friona, last week moved his family and household goods to Hot Springs, N. M.

Mr. White stated that he has purchased a poultry ranch at Hot Springs and plans to devote efforts in the future, to the poultry business. He has left his farm in the care of his sons.

Try a Star Want Ad

Figures given in a report of the Texas Wheat Improvement Association for what it calls District No. 1-N, comprising twenty-three of the Panhandle counties, of which Parmer is one, may be of interest to our local wheat farmers and others as well, the report being for the 1942 crop.

The report shows Parmer county as having had a wheat acreage of 76,577 acres, with a production of 1,371,984 bushels, or an average production per acre of almost 189 bushels. This was on seeded acreage for which the production is definitely known.

In addition to this, Parmer had 6,236 acres on which the production is not known, and 18,202 acres of volunteer wheat with a production of 146,442 bushels or an average of eight bushels per acre.

According to these figures Parmer County had an acreage of 94,779 with a known production of 1,518,427 bushels.

In the list of 23 counties, there were eleven with a higher acreage and eleven with a lower acreage. Ochiltree ranked highest in acreage and also the highest production; and Potter with the lowest acreage and Briscoe with the lowest production, leaving Parmer with perhaps, the nearest medium in both.

Poindexter Buys A. S. Curry Place

A. S. Curry has sold his farm home, four miles northeast of Friona, to Mr. Poindexter of Martin county, according to reports this week.

Mr. Curry had one of the largest and best equipped farms in the Friona locality and has kept it in a good state of cultivation, and for the past two or three years, has had the service of a good irrigation well on the land. But scarcity of help and health conditions have caused him to dispose of his large acreage and seek some other line of agricultural activity where he can do most of the work himself—probably devoting his time to cattle raising. He and Mrs. Curry will probably move to Friona while seeking another location.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of Jodok

Several months ago, perhaps a year or more, I made a statement to the effect that of all worthwhile sentiments or conditions to which the human mind might give heed or take notice, there was none, perhaps, more worthy than that of friendship. As it then occurred to me, there was none that had from sage, seer or poet, as this received so little attention same subject—"Friendship."

I gave as the basis of my opinion the fact that I had been looking for quotations or expressions relative to it but had found very few. In fact, in one small book, given entirely to short quotations either in rhyme or prose, nearly all of which were pert, catchy or impelling, and treating on nearly every sentiment or passion from love to devilry, in all that collection of 100 or more, I was able to find but three pertaining to "friendship."

Well, it seems that I had just been reading the wrong book for that purpose, for within the next week or two after that effusion had gone into the mail, I received a host of information about "friendship" providing the error of my statement. From a lady friend I received quite a collection of clippings; from others I received excerpts from lectures, books and magazines, all about "friendship." And from my good friend Dr. H. H. Lindeman of Oklahoma City, I received a small pamphlet, the contents of which was all about "friendship," and my good friend and pastor, Paxton Smith, loaned me a fair sized book which was entitled "Friendship," and which treats of the subject from every conceivable angle, and all this has caused me to devote so much of my spare time to a study of the subject, that I have arrived at the conclusion that FRIENDSHIP is not merely a sentiment, but in my mind has assumed the status of a religion and while it may not be fully the same in nature as the Christian religion, I am inclined to believe that a follower and strict practitioner of such a religion would not be tally disowned by the Great Head of that religion.

Well, so much by way of preface. But what has called this all to my present attention is the fact that my beloved pastor told me last week that the third Sunday in February in each year is "Brotherhood Day", throughout the United States, and that he would preach on the subject—"Brotherhood" on that day, which was the past Sunday, which he did and his sermon was such an encomium on the subject of "Brotherhood" as I may ever hope to hear. And as I listened to this potent appeal for the brotherhood of man to become universally accepted and practiced by all mankind throughout the whole world, it seemed that I could sense a distinct relationship between "Brotherhood" and "Friendship" and that Brotherhood must be the off-spring of Friendship.

There is, however, as I see it, this difference in "Friendship" and "Brotherhood," and that is, that Friendship is wholly individualistic and must exist between individuals, while Brotherhood must be more group-minded and to be effectively practiced must be community-wide, state-wide, nation-wide, world-wide, and if I may use the term—"religious-wide." Only when the religion of "Friendship" becomes strong enough and popular enough to beget "Brotherhood of Man" throughout the world, can there be a total elimination of war and a world-wide and lasting peace. Just as long as the spirit of individualistic Friendship and Brotherly Love are baffled and beaten out by the passion of individual enmity, national hate and race prejudice, there "will be wars and rumors of wars."

God created all races and nationalities of people and placed them upon the earth and each race and nationality therefore has a God-given right to its existence here. Therefore, no nation, however strong and enlightened has any right save that of might to lord it over any other nation or race or to impose upon it any form of government that is objectionable to a majority of that body of people, simply because it is weaker either in numbers or in mentality. In the same sense, no man nor group of men has any right to impose upon any body of people any form of government that is objectionable to the masses of that people. Government without the consent of the governed is tyranny, be it ever so lenient.

I have often wondered why the missionaries do not teach and preach these fundamental virtues, rather than always harping on what they term, Christianity but the only answer that comes to my mind is that so many of them, while their intentions are honest and of the best, yet they have not secured the correct concept of what they, as they see it, have been taught to call "Christianity." I am not particularly blaming them, but it occurs to me that there is too much of "the blind leading the blind."

Jesus said, "Go ye and teach all nations." He did not say teach Christianity to all people." But enough of this. I did not intend to give a dissertation on either religion or the Holy Writ.

I had the pleasure of a short visit in Hereford, Saturday night, and I saw lots of soldiers on the streets there, just as I saw a "Clovis on the previous Saturday night. I also had the pleasure of a short visit with my good friend, Dr. Heard. However, all my visits with Dr. Heard are a pleasure to me, even when I used to make professional visits to his office, and including the visit when he yanked all the teeth out of my mouth; for in doing so he gave no physical pain, but did relieve me of the cause of a great deal of pain that I had had in the past.

While talking with Dr. Heard, he told me that he had had several conversations with the soldiers that are now in Hereford and that they had told him that as soon as this war is over and all the soldier boys come home, they are going to have a whole lot to say about the manner in which our government is to be managed in the future. They propose to set in motion an entirely different regime to what is going on now at Washington. There will be no more dictatorial or bureaucratic government, and NO MORE Wars, for this country to get into.

Dr. Heard and I agree pretty well on all questions of importance, and it seems that there is plenty of this work to be done, and I suppose that the soldier boys can attend to the job just as well, or, perhaps better than, any other group can do it. I feel that I can say that I am for them, for if they have not been made the "goat" in this mixup, I am sure looking at it from a wrong view point.

True, they may make some mistakes, but they can hardly make matters worse. They can get something started, and if what I read in the papers and hear on the streets is any criterion by which to judge of the public mind, they will have plenty of help in almost anything they may undertake. And using that as a criterion, those union labor people who have been striking and holding up production in defense, will receive some of their attention. That sort of business has not been going well with the people hereabouts.

During the past few weeks I have heard several remarks about an active chamber of commerce for Friona, and it occurs to me that the organization of a new chamber of commerce of a new chamber of commerce of the old one should be one of the most important steps that can be taken for the economic welfare of the city and community.

Sharing, rationing—is something new for most of us. The home makers of America have a great responsibility to make it work; they have a difficult task.

Farmer John SEES THINGS

This year the anniversary celebration of George Washington's birth served as the signal for the opening of the 1944 Presidential campaign. From both party camps there came belching forth the wisest sayings that each side had to offer. Anything that sounded like popular propaganda was displayed to the public. If scripture had a probable promise it was skillfully read. But the criticisms which everybody knows is bitter in the hearts of each side was generally clothed in polite language. The unselfish, wise patriotism of the Father of Our Country was generously lauded and appreciated by all. But the heart beat of the contestants girding themselves for the race a year and a half away almost drowned the typical Washington story.

For the cherry tree and Hatchet story typifying personal honesty, the sanctity of the WPA, AAA, the grandeur of the developed labor unions, the pride for the depression of big business, the justification for the commodity rationing and faith in Bureauatic government was made the subject for the shouting. When it came to chanting over bravery and personal courage the "crossing of the Delaware" was nothing to be compared to the secret meeting at Casa Bianca or even the meeting somewhere in the Atlantic. Washington's devout and humble reverence to the God of freedom and personal responsibility, displayed in the secrecy of the snow-laden woods of Valley Forge, was too sacred to be held up to public gaze and to be made use of by ambitious politicians.

The Republican effort to do honor to the first President was also largely grounded in their self-centered aspirations. The non-understanding and the stupid attitude of the public in tolerating the New Deal after the George Washington pattern of two presidential terms was a mystery to them. They could not conceive of the name "Democrat" with its indefinitely perpetuate a set of impractical statements, but shrewd politicians. About the only comment after crying over the world and national mess was, "I told you so." They seemed to think, people should have seen the thing ten years ago. But, surely, until recently their own leaders saw only dimly the New Deal threat to individual liberty and free enterprise. They seem not yet ready to swallow part of the blame for representative government's near collapse. It is hard for them to openly confess that their own weak or fearful leadership during the past two campaigns is partially to blame for the moral let-down of the people and the crack-up of rugged individualism.

Washington's birthday was considered an appropriate time for the publication of such stories as the Louisiana group of congressmen unanimously condemning by resolution, the President's appointment of James V. Allred to the Judgeship, as being unpatriotic and contradictory to the spirit of the Hatch Act, in that the appointment was doubtless in payment of a political debt. Another story was, that Wendell Wilkie, on Washington's birthday, addressed the Arkansas Legislature. The interesting

Let's Cook Something

Mammy's Southern Gingerbread

- 3-4 cup shortening
- 1-2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon ginger
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup sorghum molasses
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1-2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger together and beat hard. In another bowl beat the three eggs until lemon colored and blend with the molasses. Add this to the first mixture and add the buttermilk to which the soda has been added, and mix thoroughly. Add the flour, to which has been added the baking powder and salt, and beat all as long as you can. The longer you beat it—the better. Pour in a greased, long flat baking pan and bake in slow oven for an hour.

Unlike most gingerbread, this is as good cold as it is when served immediately after removing from the oven.

The days of glib ordering of ingredients that go in the makings of many favorite dishes are over, for awhile at least, but here is a recipe that will outlive the wartime simplicity which prompts its use today. This old fashioned gingerbread of our childhood—used for many generations—will likely be enjoyed by many more. Mrs. J. E. Gyles got it in Atlanta, Ga., many years ago and considers it the best of all gingerbreads. If the whole recipe makes too much for your family, the recipe may be halved.

CHANTS from the Chanticleer

The wheat crop in the Friona territory is making and retaining a good appearance, and there are very few fields that do not have a sizeable herd of Whiteface and dairy cattle grazing on them. The fields are therefore serving a double purpose in the war effort, by supplying both "bread and meat," and "bread and butter." There seems to be still plenty of sub-soil moisture, but a good fall of rain or snow will be acceptable and gratefully received by our farmers in order that this moisture may be conserved for later use by the crop.

If everybody in the nation will become as war-conscious, and do their duty as well and feature was that, counting Wilkie, there were three Republicans present. Also there is the story in some Eastern political circles that two of Texas' most popular statesmen are accused of possible slanderous intent in sponsoring unorthodox New Deal philosophy, and of having Republican leanings. The victims are Senator O'Daniel and Governor Stevenson.

But Friona did have a Washington's birthday. The bank was closed all day; the post office, part of the day and John White, had Old Glory on display over his office.

practically as the Friona farmers are doing with their greatly curtailed help and equipment, there should be no fear as to an early and successful ending of this war.

We do not have to loiter and listen long on our streets to learn that our people are getting mighty well "fed up" on the theory that our farmers have not become "war conscious," and are getting tired of having it continually thrown in their teeth by the big-wigs and propagandists, and it will put a much better "taste in our mouths" if a good sized army of these same propagandists should be ousted from these non-essential and high salaried jobs and be added to the ranks of our fighting forces.

Many of our people are already shipping in large stocks of baby chicks, and getting all ready to do their bit in the production of poultry and poultry products for feeding our boys in uniform in whatsoever branches of the armed forces they may be. And it seems that everybody is reading the "Sons in Service" column in the Star. And are they interested in the whereabouts and welfare of our boys in the service? Yea, verily.

In a conversation with Everett Talbot a few days ago, he stated that his father, W. J. Talbot, who moved to California several weeks ago, is well satisfied with his location. Two of Everett's sisters had been there for some time and both are engaged in "defense" work. Mr. Talbot reports that he has a nice garden planted and already up and growing nicely. He has also secured employment in some line of defense work.

It seems that there is still a scarcity of residence buildings in Friona, and quite frequently we have inquiries concerning rent property from people who wish to locate in our city.

A few families have moved to other cities where they have secured employment in defense plants, but it seems that the buildings which they vacate have been engaged by others before these occupants have moved out.

Only two filling stations are now operating in Friona, and they do not remain open at night, owing largely to the government regulations prohibiting them from selling gasoline after certain hours of one day and before certain hours of the next day. These stations are the Friona Consumers Company and the Magnolia Petroleum Company.

It is gratifying to note that a number of our people have adopted the suggestion put out by the Star of beautifying their home premises and the city as a whole by planting roses in their yards. The orders are still coming in for those rose collections. This scheme is a good place to apply the maxim of "Keeping up with the Joneses."

Rockwell Bros. & Co., under the efficient management of our good friend and citizen, O. F. Lange, is still doing its bit in helping the community by getting in at least one car load of lumber each week, and in building cattle feeders and hog houses for our farmers and our stockmen.

Points are the same in every store all over the country—you can still shop around if you wish.

Your grocer is rationed on supplies just as you are rationed on your purchases. He must have both money and points to restock. The ration points have nothing to do with quality.

Your Income Tax!

INCOME OF FARMERS

Farmers, which include livestock raisers, fruit and truck growers, poultry raisers, and operators of plantations and ranches, are liable for Federal income tax returns provided their income is sufficient to require the filing of returns. Primarily, due to the reduction in the credit for personal exemption, many farmers will be liable for returns and to the tax for the first time for the year 1942. Farmers may maintain their records and file their returns of income on either the cash receipts and disbursements basis or on the accrual basis of accounting. A consistent method must, however, be employed. If a cash basis is used, Form 1000F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses," is required to be filled out and filed in conjunction with Form 1040. Use of Form 1040F is optional in the case of farmers who report income on the accrual basis. A farmer who reports income on the cash receipts and disbursements basis (in which no inventories to determine profits are used) must include in gross income for the taxable year (1) the amount of cash or the value of merchandise or other property received during the taxable year from the sale of livestock or produce which were raised, regardless of when raised; (2) the profits from the sale of any livestock or other items which were purchased; and (3) gross income from all other sources.

Under the accrual basis in which inventories are used to determine the profits, farmers' gross profits are ascertained by adding to the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the end of the year the amount received from the sale of livestock and produce, and miscellaneous receipts of income during the year, and deducting from this sum the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the beginning of the year and the cost of livestock and produce purchased during the year. All livestock, whether purchased or raised, must be included in inventory at their proper valuation. Livestock acquired for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes and not for sale, may be included in the inventory instead of being treated as capital assets subject to depreciation, provided such practice is consistently followed.

If farm produce is exchanged for merchandise, groceries, or the like, the market value of the articles received in exchange is to be included in gross income. The value of farm products which are produced by a farmer and consumed by his family does not constitute taxable income. Rents which the crop shares are reduced as income as of the year in which the crop shares are reduced to money or the equivalent of money. Proceeds of insurance, such as hail and fire insurance on growing crops, are required to be included in gross income.

Amounts received from the Commodity Credit Corporation may, at the option of the taxpayer, be considered as income and included in gross income for all subsequent years unless the Commissioner approves a change to a different method of accounting. Amounts received under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, the Price Adjustment Act of 1938, section 303 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, and the Sugar Act of 1937 constitute taxable income to the recipients for Federal income tax purposes.

BUY MORE WAR BONDS AND STAMPS!

--THE PAPOOSE--

Fourth Grade News

We have two new pupils, Jackie Loooper and Ona Lee Hicks. We are glad to have them, too.

In the music club we have decided to have a party, so we are having a Tacky Party Saturday night, March 6. We elected new officers at our last meeting. Vera Ann Jones is president; Ruby Mae Shaffer, vice-president; Jimmie Hughes, secretary; Keith Brock, party chairman, and Jo Ann Howard is program chairman.

Last week we had our six-weeks test and we are glad they are over. We also had a two-day holiday because of rationing.

Seventh Grade News

The seventh grade, on Feb. 19, organized their Pan American Club. The officers were: president, Jeane Turner; vice president, Verdell Thompson; secretary and treasurer, Betty Lou Reid; program chairman, Pattie Grace Southall; vice chairman, Sharlene Todd.

The six-weeks test were given on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Lillie Mae Renner, who was absent for one week, returned to school today. We were all glad to see her.

The seventh grade had 100 per cent in the stamp drive. We hope to do as much in the month of March.

Pattie Grace Southall, Jeane Turner.

Grade Students Continue War Stamp Purchases

Grade school students are really buying the stamps and bonds now. Last week the total purchased was $244.05. This is mighty good for a small grade school.

For the month of February they purchased $364.10 worth of war stamps and bonds. Although the grade school did not reach the 90% mark, three rooms have reached the 100% mark. They are Mrs. Bates' room, Mrs. Holmes' room, and Mrs. Vestal's room. The room that is ahead in total amount purchased is Mrs. Lewellen's third grade. They have purchased close to $150.00 worth.

Students of F. H. S. were really surprised last Wednesday when Mr. Ginn announced that pictures of them would be taken again. It is prophesied that these pictures will look more natural as the victims did not know it was going to happen. The girls did not have time to comb their hair and the boys had no neckties.

The pictures are five cents each, three for fifteen cents, six for twenty-five cents and eight, with an enlargement, for fifty cents.

Let's get a "Schools-at-War" flag and keep it flying by buying War Savings Stamps and Bonds regularly!

and will not be able to fly a "schools-at-war" flag, they are doing their part for the war effort. We hope that they will reach this mark next month.

FHS Reaches 90 Per Cent Goal In Stamp Purchases

For the month of February the Friona High School reached its goal of 90% and above in the purchase of war savings stamps. The average was 94%, three classes out of the five having gone 100%.

The school has a certificate of award for this good work and also has a permit to purchase and fly a "schools-at-war" flag. "This will be ordered soon."

Now the student body must maintain the 90% average or quit flying the flag after one month. Students, let's keep 'er flying!

Cafeteria Goes Under New State Program

Mr. Brown, State Supervisor of School Lunch Rooms, visited the Cafeteria, Wednesday, Feb. 24. The "lunch room" project has been taken out of the hands of the Federal Government and turned over to the State Department of Education. The Cafeteria committee will receive a reimbursement of 7c for each "A" meal served, instead of receiving commodities.

Sp. First Class, C. D. Holmes, U. S. Coast Guard, former grade school principal, arrived for a ten-day leave Wednesday night from Corpus Christi, where he is now stationed. And while here he helped referee a district tournament in Clovis, N. M.

Miss Pearl Eller, high school science and math teacher, was unable to attend school Monday due to illness.

Teachers Issue 1,709 No. 2 Ration Books

As elsewhere, the Friona schools were dismissed Thursday and Friday in order that the members of the faculty might assist in issuing food ration books. During the three days of registration, the teachers issued 1,709 No. 2 ration books and 17 No. 1 books to people in this district.

The students report that they enjoyed their holiday, especially since they had just finished six-weeks exams and had no lessons over the weekend. Many of the students acted as ushers for those who registered. A census was also taken of the people who had children of school age.

Squaws Turn In Fast Performance For Last Game

With a determined spirit the Friona Squaws were able to defeat the Oklahoma Lane Cowgirls last Tuesday night by a score of 19-13. This was one of the roughest and fastest games the girls have played this year. The game was the second played with the Cowgirls and the first time the Squaws have beat them.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 2-2, and at the half it was 2-4 in favor of Oklahoma Lane. The Squaws then started to work and scored 17 points in the last half to Oklahoma Lane's 9. The final score was 19-13 in favor of Friona.

Massey was Friona's high-point player with 13 points. Lee (No. 44) was high point player for Oklahoma Lane, with 7 points.

Chiefs Defeat Cowboys in Last Game of Season

In a low scoring game last Tuesday night the Friona Chiefs were able to defeat the Oklahoma Lane Cowboys the second time of the season. The Cowboys have defeated the Chiefs once on their own court. The score at the end of the half was 13-6 in Friona's favor, and at the end of the third quarter it was 11-15 in Friona's favor. Neither team scored any points during the last quarter and the final score was 11-15.

Stark was high point man for the Chiefs with 7 points, and Watkins was high point man for the Cowboys with 4 points. As far as we know, this is the last game of the season for the Chiefs.

two points for "B's", and one point for "C's". Some student (namely Bob) piped up, "What do you get for the rest?"

Miss Stanford: Vialo, do you drink one pint of milk every day?

Vialo: Shoot, no!
Carolyn: What do you drink, Vialo?
No answer!!!

Why did Fern act so innocent when Mr. Gee asked her why she wasn't at Senior play practice Thursday night? (Eva Dean and Margie weren't there either—were they all sick?)

Applications were made this week for general membership in the Victory Corps by the student body of Friona High.

The three requirements were: 1. the student must be doing something to keep physically fit; 2. the student must be studying courses in school which are valuable to him during war times as well as in post-war times; 3. and he must be actively participating in some wartime activity or service.

After a student has become a general member he must make fifteen points per month in order to maintain active membership. A person desiring to take part in a special service division—production, community, or land service—must earn at least 20 additional points.

The Student Council with the faculty advisors have worked out a list of activities with the point values for each.

Eddie Rickenbacker is chairman of the National Victory Corps Policy Committee, and he says, "The Victory Corps helps boys and girls preserve the American way of life—developing in them initiative, imagination, self-realization—and individuality."

Will some of you experienced high school boys please give Vialo some instructions on how to pat a girl's hand affectionately?

What's this we hear about June taking her bottle to play practice? Don't you think that's going a little too far, June?

Sons in Service

ing a ten-day leave here with Mrs. Holmes, and meeting his many Friona friends.

George W. Manderscheid's present address is, now stationed at Sheppard Field, Tex. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Manderscheid, of the Lakeview community.

Travis W. White, S. 2-c, a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. White, has written the following short but interesting letter to the readers of the Star:

U. S. N. T. S., San Diego, Calif. Feb. 22, 1943.

Dear Mr. White: The Star has been arriving here regularly for some time. It seems to have gone astray for the first month or so, but I am glad to say that it is getting here in a very short time now. Thanks a lot for sending it. I enjoy reading it a lot. I recall having seen a picture in the Star of the new transport plane that Lockheed has just built. I had the privilege of getting a close view of it and it is colossal. It is capable of carrying a light tank and crew. When tanks start flying that's something. I'm in the machinist training school at present. Navy life seems to agree with me. I've heard that military life is a game of give and take. My part of it, so far, as it is with all new recruits, has been "ake." We will have PLENTY to Give when we meet the Japs in the coming battles in the Pacific. Thanks again for sending me the paper. It is the only way I have of knowing what's happening to the other fellows.

Sincerely,
Travis White, S. 2-c.

The following bit of information has been received from the Headquarters 11th Replacement Battalion, Fort Knox, Ky.

Feb. 20, 1943
Friona Star, Friona, Tex.

It is my pleasure to inform you of the marksmanship of Private Marvin Key, son of J. H. Key, of Friona, for the interest of his friends and fellow townsmen we feel the information of his ability should be passed on to those who know him.

Thanks to his mental alertness and conduct during the course of instruction. Private Key attained a thorough knowledge of the handling of the small-bore rifle, with which he fired a score of 97 out of a possible 100. This weapon reacts in direct proportion to the skill with which it is operated. Pvt. Key's performance justifies our belief that a man who is physically fit and mentally alert cannot help but become a good soldier. Praise for trainees of this type is a privilege. We suggest that a copy of this article, when published, be forwarded to Private Marvin Key, Co. C, 11th Battalion, APRTC, Fort Knox, Ky.

Amel F. Kisonak, Major, Infantry, Commanding Private Key's name is on our mailing list and he should receive the copy of the Star as suggested. —Ed.

And here we have another letter from our friend, Pvt. Floyd L. (Lee) Spring, written of course, before he had received last week's copy of the Star. But Lee's letters are always interesting and witty. Westover Field, Mass., Feb. 25, 1943.

Dear Mr. White:

Well, I'm fairly well settled again and have time to write. I'm here in Massachusetts and am supposed to be getting practical experience working on airplane radios. Actually I get very little practice, but I do get to see lots of planes. I belong to a squadron which uses the Army's fastest fighters. The other day I went into the Post library here and guess who I saw—Merle Harry! We had quite a little chat, and then he offered me THE STAR, which he had just received. I had already read it at Tomah, so it must take some time to get here. He lives quite a distance from me, and thinks he may move soon. He had just heard from Hurd Whitefield, who is starting the same radio course. I have, except that he is in Chicago. According to his letter he didn't like the big city very well and I imagine he had rather be on the farm at Friona. C. L. Lillard is south of me in Virginia, and the last I heard of Roy Hughes he was at Boca Raton, Fla., so we have the East Coast well defended. I guess the Landrum boys and Murl Sylvester can hold down the West Coast, so you folks have nothing at all to worry

CHDA NOTES

Steps in Making Hominy
By Elsie Cunningham
Home Dem. Agent.

With Farmer County home-makers carrying point ration books to market, new ways of managing are in prospect. And judging from many requests for recipes, food has been given their careful attention. Several say they have a lot of corn on hand and want instructions on making hominy. Here are the steps in making it.

HOMINY
1. Let corn soak several hours or over night in warm water. If corn has been gathered a long time or has been grown under dry conditions it might help to loosen the hull by boiling in clear water for 20 to 30 minutes, after soaking several hours.
2. Use iron, enamel or porcelain kettle for lysing process.
3. Make lye solution by dissolving 2 full tablespoons of concentrated lye to each gallon of boiling water. Usually 2 lbs. of corn may be treated with 1 or 1½ gallons of lye solution.
4. Add corn to lye solution and boil rapidly for 25 to 40 minutes. Stir often and at the end of 25 minutes drop a few grains in cold water and see if the hull and eye slip out easily with a little pressure of the finger. Avoid cooking so long that the grains begin to get soft or the lye begins to burn the corn, making it dark.

5. Drain off lye solution.
6. Pour on cold water. Either allow cold water to run over it, or let it soak in cold water for 3 or 4 hours, changing the water 6 or 7 times to remove all traces of lye.
7. Cook the hominy until tender and salt to taste if it is to be eaten fresh. If it is to be canned, boil for about 20 minutes.

Canning Hominy
While boiling, hot pack loosely in pint glass jars. The corn should be about 2 inches below the rim of the jar. Add ½ teaspoon salt per jar. Then fill with boiling liquid to within 3-4 inch of top of jar. Seal and process at 17 lbs. pressure for 50 minutes. Cool jars as soon as possible; and store in a cool dark dry place.

Loans For Small Business
Small business men are urged to make loan applications direct to National War Production Board offices, according to Frank Prince, Chief Loan Agent of the Smaller War Plants Corp. Such loans are intended to enable small plants to secure war contracts.

Cheddar Cheese For War
Fifty percent of all cheddar cheese (commonly known as American cheese) will be reserved for direct war uses by food distribution order No. 15, effective Feb. 15. Producers of more than 8000 pounds in any month since Jan. 1, 1942 are required to set aside 50 percent of production for sale to military and governmental agencies as designated.

Who Voted For Alarm Clocks?
Alarm clocks styled for "war time" will be on the market by April 1. They will be spring-wound, to save critical materials, and enough will be made to take
