WOW!...at last we have the new offset printing press unloaded without the help of some good men and equipment from Martin & Co., Jones Bros. Contractors, Carthel Fertilizer & Oil Co., and Curry Motor Freight.

We all suffered some anxious moments when the huge winch truck almost reared up with us, but finally the huge press, piece by piece was inside. Just looking at the many crates and parts scattered all over the plant, we wonder if it can all ever be put together and performing the job for which it is intended.

A Goss press erector flew in from Chicago Tuesday...but he can put her together and make her print... here's hoping. TWO VERY exciting races are developing; the school board election Saturday and the city councilman and mayor election next Tuesday.

Several good men have offered their time, experience, (See CAPROCK on Page 7)

$1,020 County's Screw worm Program Share

Livestock producers in Floyd County are being asked to contribute $1,020 to keep the screw worm eradication program operating through the end of June.

The USDA has in its budget a request to Congress for an amount sufficient to run the normal program after July 1, 1965, but $300,000 must be raised by producers to keep the program in operation until that time. The $1,020 to be raised in Floyd County is based on the number of animals in the county. Producers are being asked to contribute at least ten cents per cow or horse and two cents per sheep or swine that they own.

Checks can be made to the Floyd County Screwworm Association and deposited in either First National Bank in Floydada or First National Bank in Lockney, or given to Jay S. Hale, Jr., Chairman of the Floyd County Screwworm Eradication Association.

In the past two years Floyd County has not had one screw worm case reported to the County Agent's office, due to the eradication program. The state-wide program has already saved the livestock producers millions of dollars and has acclaimed one of the greatest successes in modern agriculture. The Floyd County fund drive will continue through April 12.

SECOND BURGLARY IN TWO NIGHTS

Lumber Firm Safe Hit

A DIFFICULT WAY--There are easy ways to open safes and there are hard ways and the one shown above is the hard way. The burglars that broke into this one belonging to Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company encountered a hard door and some tear gas before they were able to reach the contents. They got away with $117 in silver and bills. (Staff Photo)

The second burglary in two nights occurred last Thursday when someone broke into the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company Safe and got away with $117. About $30 was in silver and the rest was in bills.

The burglars took time to go through several desk drawers while they were on the scene, but they did leave several bonds and other financially valuable papers in the drawers. The only thing taken was money.

According to investigating officers the people that did the job are definitely the same ones that broke into the safe at Junior High School Tuesday night of last week. Over $400 was lost in that burglary.

The culprits tore a hole in the bottom of the screen on the Lumber Company's office window, reached through, unlatched the screen, broke out a window pane in the top portion of the bottom half of the window, reached through, unlatched the window, raised it, and crawled through into the office.

From there the burglars went (See SAFE on Page 4)

New Amendment Requires Casing Of Wells Drilled Below Red Bed

At a recent meeting of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District a new amendment was passed that requires all wells drilled into the Triassic or Red Bed formation be cased off. This will prevent the water in the Ogallala formation from draining into the lower formation and will keep the brackish (salty) water from seeping into the Ogallala formation by any form of capillary action.

This rule amendment is adopted principally to:

1. Keep the water in the Ogallala from draining into deeper reservoirs;
2. Keep brackish water from rising from deeper formation and polluting the Ogallala water.

Ned Bradley Catches Huge 62 Pound Catfish Near Here

Possibly the biggest fish ever caught in this area was caught this week from the Roaring Springs River just below the swimming pool by Ned Bradley, farmer, who lives south of Dougherty.

When a Hesperian reporter interviewed Bradley, Bradley reported that the huge catfish weighed 62 pounds. Just to prove his point, Bradley still had the fish and the Hesperian photographer snapped a picture of it chained to a hoist with Bradley and his fishing pole.

The big catch was unusual for several reasons. The Roaring Springs River is not noted as one of the good fishing rivers in this area, and Bradley is possibly one of the least experienced fishermen on the South Plains...according to his wife.

Bradley, very modestly, admitted that he did like to go fishing...and of course did have a natural knack for catching big fish if the opportunity presented itself.

According to the report of the Hesperian reporter the big catch went something like this: With spring weather beginning to blossom out, Bradley's wife suggested that he might take their gold fish down to the river and exercise them. She said that she had heard the river was up and the fish had been cooped up in the gold fish bowl all winter...they needed to get out.

Bradley said that he would enjoy getting in his boat and exercising the fish, so pulled it down to Roaring Springs and proceeded to begin the outing.

THINGS IN HELL THE CHURCH NEEDS

Geo. Elkins

(Lk. 16:19).

(1) Here we learn that in Hell people will PRAY. In life Dives had no time for religion or God and he just "couldn't pray. He pleaded for mercy from God, though he had shown no favor to Lazarus while he lived. A religion that will not do to live by will be inadequate to die by.

(2) A MISSIONARY INTEREST in others who are lost now becomes his primary concern while in life he himself did not care for salvation. "Church-goers" are not soul-savers. But in Hell everyone will be missionaries to save their own families from the lake of fire. Too many "religious" people have no time for others and company in Hell will be little comfort for our indifference.

(3) A RESPECT FOR GOD'S WORD was one teaching of this preview of "coming attractions" to Dives. He had "Moses and the prophets" but he wanted something else and God did not provide it. We have Christ and His teaching today (Heb. 1:1) and all else is useless to our redemption. God said, "Hear ye Him!" (Matt. 17:5). We must either go God's way or not go to Heaven at all.

(4) This rich man finally realized that LIFE IN SIN will result in DEATH in the eternal fire. Dives was too poor to help others with his plushness. Now he could not buy or beg a single drop of cool water in exchange for his possessions. Sin's brutal fruits were now to be harvested with no crop failures.

This account explains the distinct separation between sin and rightliving. This difference should be seen in our present day "church members". In Hell you can tell the difference between right and wrong. Hell may someday teach us many things, but it can never deliver us to a better life once that is our assignment.

Spain is a land of vivid contrasts with a colorful national cuisine, at one time striking and subtle. Fields and orchards throughout the land produce some of the world's finest fruits and vegetables although the majority of the people cannot afford the finest.

In our country, frozen fruits and vegetables are actually more economical than fresh produce and the finest is well within the reach of even the most modest budget. Commercial fast-freezing and zero storage bring the American consumer garden or orchard-fresh products. With these high quality foods, the renowned, succulent dishes of Spain can be duplicated in any American kitchen, any season of the year.

Boys Seventh At Inglelake Meet

Floydada heaved 135'6" and tossed the 135'6" to be an individual double in this past weekend. The three of Friona and other individual marks in two events and the 100 yard dashes.

At the Inglelake meet Monday finished third in the 500-yard run to add to team's total points and the relay team finished fourth and out the scoring for the day.

The Floydada team placed eighth in the AA-AAA division with 36-1/2 points. Dunbar was second with 64 followed by Levelland with 62. They placed twelfth in the team travels to Kress an invitational meet this weekend and the district events to be the following weekend.

Dyess Ties For Low Amateur In AM-AM Tourney

Max Dyess, of Floydada, tied with two other players Saturday during the AM-AM Tournament for the Low Amateur honors. The players each had a score of 72 for the eighteen holes.

The winning foursome of the tournament was composed of C. L. Davis of Ralls and Orville Newberry, T. L. Holland, and Preston Watson of Floydada. The team that finished second was comprised of Gus Masom of Plainview, Morris Merriweather and Bob Kropp and Bob Shields. The winning team shot a 53 and the team finishing second had 54.

The game played was Low-Ball. The team was given the lowest individual score on each of the holes.

According to Bobby Westfall, pro at the Floydada Country Club, there were 104 players, comprising 26 teams, that entered the tournament.

Coons Drop Blowhards In Powder-Puff Game

The highly-spirited Coons took command of the annual Powder Puff Game midway in the first quarter, stayed off a couple of touchdown threats by the Blowhards and went on to take a 14-0 victory before a very enthusiastic crowd at Wester Field Tuesday night.

Ann McIntosh, a senior, was hero of the night as she cracked the middle of the Blowhard line in the first quarter for one touchdown and iced the game when she swept end from 18 yards out to step across the double stripe with only three seconds remaining in the game. Charlotte Pierce went up the middle for the two-point conversion.

A brilliant, well-planned and practiced routine was presented by one of the area's outstanding bands during the halftime ceremonies. The highlight of the program was the crowning of the Powder Puff Queen, Brynn Waiding by Zeke Robertson.

The entrance of the queens on their convertibles (motor scooters) was most charming and the anxiety of the crowd awaiting the crowning of the queen could be felt even down on the field.

At press time it was not known how much money was made on the receipts of the game, nor how far the Student Council is from having the $750 needed to bring a foreign exchange student to Floydada for the 1965-66 school year.

Normally it will take at least $1,000 before the year is over because of entertainment and some clothes the student needs after he arrives here.

has raised 100% of the funds, even though there are several local organizations that could "kick-in" to help get the amount needed.

The Powder-Puff game and the movie furnished by the Capada Drive-In Theatre are the big fund-raisers for the organization, but the group fell short of its mark on the movie this year.

The Student Council is planning more activities in the years to come to raise funds for this most worthwhile project of bettering international understanding and relationships.

Amendment

The amended rule will be published in the near future and become effective in approximately a month from this date. It is as follows:

PROPOSED RULE FOR PLUGGING TRIASSIC WELLS

Any water well or test hole drilled through the Ogallala into the underlying Triassic or Red Bed formation shall be so completed as to eliminate any movement of Ogallala water into the underlying Triassic formation.

I. If it is proposed to produce the Triassic water, then casing must be set through the Ogallala and into the Triassic a minimum of 10 feet and cemented to the surface.

II. If it is proposed to abandon the Triassic portion of the well, then the following procedure will be observed:

1. If no casing is placed in the well below the top of the Triassic, the hole will be filled with dirt, rock, mud or similar material to a level no less than 50 feet below the base of the Ogallala, and sufficient cement added to fill the hole to the base of the Ogallala.

2. If casing has been set through the Triassic with perforations below the Ogallala, all such perforations shall be closed with cement and a cement plug at least 10 feet in height placed in the casing below the base of the Ogallala, and above the highest perforation in the Triassic.

3. If blank casing (no perforations) has been set through the Triassic, then either (a) cement shall be pumped below the shoe of such casing and the wall of the hole up to the base of the Ogallala, or (b) the casing shall be removed from the well and the Triassic formation plugged in accordance with pp. II (1), above.

Flying Queens Tryouts Set In Plainview Saturday April 3

Plainview, Texas (Special): Wayland Baptist College's famous women's basketball team, the Hutcherson Flying Queens, will hold tryouts for interested high school seniors with good academic records at 2 p.m., Saturday, April 3, at the Wayland College Gymnasium on the campus in Plainview.

The April 3 tryout is the second of the season. The first tryout was held in Dallas on March 20, and was primarily for interested girls in that area. Girls from Oklahoma, New Mexico and West Texas will find it more convenient to attend the April 3 tryout.

Coach Harley Redin stresses that there is no necessity of attending a tryout for girls who are planning to enroll at Wayland next fall.

"We do award some scholarships as a result of the tryouts, but it is very difficult to judge a person's ability in two practice sessions," says Redin. "We had much rather have a girl attend Wayland and then come out for basketball. After a year of competition on our freshman team, a girl will have a fair chance to demonstrate her basketball ability. Scholarships for capable ball players with good academic records can then be awarded a girl for her sophomore year, and it will be renewable each spring on the basis of her achievements in college and on the basketball court."

Interested high school seniors may stay in a college dormitory and eat in the college dining hall as guests of Wayland. Redin requests that girls attending bring their own linens and practice equipment. Room and board for other persons at the tryout are not available, but spectators are welcome at the session.

It seems that he had just got the fish strung out in the river with their special exercising chains attached, when this huge 62 pound catfish lunged to the surface and grabbed one of the little goldfish.

Of course Bradley was alarmed at the size of the fish, but his immediate thought was, "What will my wife say if I lose one of her goldfish?"

He quickly grabbed the log chain that was in the bottom of the boat...snagged the hook into the fish's jaw and hung on for dear life.

When the fish had worn himself out dragging Bradley's boat back and forth across the river...he was finally pulled into the bank, loaded into the back of the pickup and hauled home.

What about the gold fish? Yes, here's the tragic ending to the story, the goldfish were lost during the struggle of the huge catfish to regain its freedom!

Well, it makes a good fish story, doesn't it. Well, that's what it is...just a good "April Fool's Day" story!

SINCE I belong to the solid, stable, reliable, sober, unbiased, solemn Rotary Club in Floydada, I have never really been concerned for our more young, loud and boisterous (just to mention a few descriptive adjectives) Floydada Lions Club.

However, a story has come to my attention that overwhelms me...in fact I suspicion that I feel some sort of sympathy for our local Lions.

It seems that the Lockney Lions Club invited our Lions up for dinner and program. You know what the program was?... it was the film of the Floydada-Lockney football game!

women to demonstrate actively their concern for one of the nation's critical problems. Independent drives raise the largest share of the $9.3 billion contributed annually to private philanthropy. Over $500 million are raised by United Funds. The goal is unlimited dollars to wage an unlimited fight to help save through research all Americans who now die of cancer, and to conduct the Society's life saving education and service programs.

How soon can we expect a cure for cancer? It is a disease of tremendous complexity, yet research gains already made have led some scientists to predict we will see the problem solved within our lifetime.

There is reason for this hopeful outlook. Within the short span of 25 years, we have made such progress as this:

A drug has been developed in treating a rare type of cancer found in women after pregnancy. It is the first solid tumor ever to respond favorably to chemotherapy.

The "Pap" smear was developed, making it possible to discover uterine cancer cells in an early and curable stage. The mortality rate of cancer of the uterus, once the most feared of all forms of cancer in women, has dropped 50 per cent in 25 years.

At present, there is no preventive or cure for leukemia, but the lives of patients are being prolonged with new combinations of drugs, and many scientists believe that cures will be found for this type of cancer sooner than for any other cancer.

Hundreds of scientists in many branches of cancer research are working long hours in laboratories across the country to find new clues to fathom the mysteries of a disease which takes the lives of more than 800 Americans a day.

The head of one of the largest research centers has said, "People think there is a lot of money available for cancer. There really isn't. There are many things we wish could be done..."

This is worth keeping in mind when you are asked to contribute to the American Cancer Society during its annual April Crusade against Cancer. The pace of support for cancer research must be stepped up to bring closer the day of victory. Your dollars can help.

A Vote For Ross Is A Vote For Continued Progress For The City

Study these accomplishments of Floydada's City Council for the past four years and see if you would like to have two more years of the same kind of administration:

- Capital investments in excess of $40,000 (without borrowing) -- new electrical and waterworks warehouse, building to house the new power units, needed repairs to roof and rearrangement of City Hall offices, etc.
- "Disaster Fund" of $140,000 set up, invested along with sinking funds in government bonds (and drawing enough interest to pay the salary of a tax auditor).
- Spent or have in hand to spend funds to bring all equipment up to date without borrowing.
- Eliminated the practice of borrowing operating funds to see through from one tax collection period to another.
- Solved the dump ground problem by purchasing and paying for a new site of 60 acres now in use.
- As the city's progress permitted have given salary raises to all employees (two in the four year period) (more than 20 employees, not counting elective officials.)
- Set up a bookkeeping system that details the financial condition of all departments and instituted a general and complete annual audit by an independent auditor. (Adopted and living up to 1965-66 budget).
- Employed a City Manager (Wm. A. Feuerbacher, acting manager) who has saved the city thousands of dollars.
- Reduced the city's bills for fuel for motor vehicles by about 40 per cent. (contract for gasoline delivered to the city's pumps).
- Helped organize a credit union for employees of the city.
- Spent $10,000 in 1964 for seal coat on 30 blocks of paving and set up funds for similar work in 1965.

Present personnel of the City Council, who have ably supported and counseled Mayor Ross in these undertakings are: Roe Jones, Lon Davis, Aldine Williams, Clement McDonald, and W. H. Simpson, Jr.

DON CHEEK
Health and Safety Committee

Although the Health and Safety Committee of the Chamber of Commerce hasn't had an official meeting, the work of that group is outlined by past year's work and projects that have come into the limelight of people during past months.

"The annual Clean-up, Fix-up campaign held in the city each year is one of the largest projects of the committee", said Don Cheek, chairman of the committee recently in an interview.

"Other projects of the committee concern the hospital and proposed rest home, community charities and school safety", he continued.

The school safety portion of their work, the group has tried to coordinate the work of other organizations with the Police Department and the Highway Department.

"An example of this occurred a few years ago when the PTA was attempting to get speed limit signs at the outskirts of the city erected that would reduce the limit from 60 MPH to 55 and down to 45 and eventually to 35 as a vehicle approached the city and the school zones. It was found by the Chamber of Commerce that the work was being duplicated by another organization in town. Besides being active in the Chamber of Commerce, Cheek is a member of the First Baptist Church, a member of the Lions Club and director of the Club, a member of Toastmasters and the Floydada Young Farmers Chapter.

Cheek and his wife, Carolyn, have three children, Derek, Jett and Don Breck.

FFA PROGRAM OF A SENIOR BOY (by Larry Patton)

Bill Ross feels that he has learned more from being in the chapter conducting teams in FFA than by any other means of learning in Vocational Agriculture. Every student who takes Vo. Ag., in Floydada High School learns parliamentary procedure and gets a chance to try out for the chapter conducting team.

Bill had more interest in this than any other activity in Ag. His interest in parliamentary procedure helped him to make the junior chapter conducting team his freshman year and the senior chapter conducting team his senior year.

The junior chapter conducting team that Bill was on won district. He supervised farming projects as follows: 1st year, three acres of cotton and 15 acres of wheat; 2nd year, five acres of cotton and ten acres of wheat; 4th year, 10 acres of wheat. Bill skipped his junior year.

Bill has participated in the senior chapter conducting team and in the farm shop contest this year.

Connally Defends Teacher Salaries, Public Schools Stand

LUBBOCK, Tex. — Connally said Thursday that emphasis on high school does not mean he is in a drive for more schools.

He said teachers pay will go up once again. Connally said the Greenville Chamber of Commerce reaction to this led him to believe Connally had put pot well water at the for these institutions are $41 million below the amount requested—simply because we must consider the overall needs of the state and a realistic view of available revenue," he said. Citing statistics which he also used last week in a talk to a joint civic club luncheon at Amarillo, the governor said not one of 102,000 teachers under the Gilmer-Aikin minimum foundation program makes less than $4,014 a year.

Local Support Cited
He said he is irritated that some have accused him of trying to destroy the Gilmer-Aikin program, which recommended 75 per cent state financing and 25 per cent local financing of minimum teacher standards.

He said the salary plan he has recommended maintains an 80-20 per cent ratio, "considerably more state financing than the original 75-25 ratio."

The governor said Texas' teaching salaries are below the national average because other states provide more local support.

"The state has not been negligent in meeting its responsibilities to support the local schools," he said.

Connally said it is "100 per cent correct" that his plan would cost local property taxpayers slightly more than the TSTA plan and that the teachers would receive more money under the association plan.

"We're talking about the difference between a $93 million bill and a $64 million bill for the biennium—nearly $30 million, or $15 million a year. That extra $30 million is not free money. It's going to have to be raised from sales taxes or some other source," he said.

Shelby Calahan has his right foot in a cast with three bones being broken last week in a volleyball game at the South Plains School house. Shelby jumped to hit the ball and came down with his foot in a twist-position on Sterling Cumming's foot. If this had to happen, we are glad it occurred before the farmers are too busy in field work.

"First Men In The Moon" Set At The Capada

A very unusual science-fiction motion picture, "The First Men in the Moon" will be shown at the Capada Drive-In Theatre tomorrow, April 2. The movie is billed as the most astounding of all H. G. Wells' adventures, in the motion picture miracle of Dynamation. Those attending the movie will have the opportunity to win a 50-power telescope for moon viewing or one of several other prizes being given away that night.

Ag Scientist Pioneering Light Study

BEAUMONT — A young scientist at a nearby agricultural experiment station is pioneering the study of an almost unexplored element of commercial crop production — light. Thirty-year-old J. W. Stansel, an agronomist at Texas A&M University's Rice-Pasture Research and Extension Center, began studying the effect of light on rice in 1961. He believes other agricultural researchers will be more concerned with light in the future. "As problems of soil fertility and moisture control are solved," Stansel said, "the effect of light on production will become more important." So far, Stansel has learned that the combination of the cloudy, Gulf Coast conditions and heavy nitrogen fertilization can sometimes cut yields of present rice varieties.

Madrid Customs Make Enchanting City

Editor's Note - Ric Burrow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burrow of Floydada. He left Floydada last year for a visit to Paris and Madrid where he is studying painting. This is his first letter to the Hesperian since he left this country.

Madrid - Swirling flamenco dancers, brave angry bulls, and striking customs intermingle in this ancient but modern city in the heart of Spain.

The food and eating habits combined with a wholly different night-life, make the Spanish scene slightly strange to an American. First, lets look at the cuisine.

Here we find a great misconception, namely that Spanish foods are similar to Mexican dishes. This is not the case. None of the food here is hot and is comparative to that of the United States except for its preparation and nomenclature.

For example, if an American orders a "Tortilla" in Madrid he may well be surprised to find an omelette placed before him. As for preparation, foods are usually cooked in olive oil which leaves them juicy and gives them a tantalizing taste. Also, Spanish chefs seldom cook anything without a sizable amount of garlic and onions.

One of the delicacies of Spain are "calamares", better known to Americans as squid. These are usually served either fried to a golden brown or stewed in their own ink, the latter preparation being not overly popular with some tourists.

As in many European countries, no table is complete without a bottle of wine. Even small children often drink it mixed with water at their meals.

But if wine is the national drink, the runner-up beverage is "cafe con leche", a mixture of coffee and milk. This along with butter and bread which is similar to French bread constitutes the average Spanish breakfast.

Another difference between Spain and America is the eating hours. Breakfast is ordinarily served about eight or nine o'clock. At two o'clock most businesses close for lunch and siesta, reopening from five to eight p.m. The evening meal is served anytime between nine and eleven o'clock.

Time also plays a major role in the city's night-life.

For example, in Floydada a boy usually picks his date up about seven or eight o'clock and returns her to her home at eleven or twelve. His Spanish counterpart, however, calls for his girl at six or seven o'clock and takes her home at 10 o'clock. Dancing clubs catering to Madrid's younger set are open from seven until ten in the evening, with more adult clubs doing business from 11 p.m. to 3:30 a.m.

Perhaps, the strangest practice found in Madrid is that of being locked in one's home at night. At ten-thirty the front doors of virtually all the buildings are secured by men known as "Serenos". When a resident wishes to leave he must go out his balcony and clap his hands until the sereno comes and unlocks the door. The same holds true when one wishes to enter his abode.

These are just a few of the customs and practices which make Madrid a truly enchanting city. Combining with the scenery - distant snow draped mountains, narrow streets and ancient tile roofed structures, sleek modern buildings - they offer the visitor a truly varied scene.

Jimmy Wilson Conducts Workshops

Jimmy Wilson was in charge of two workshops for officers and members of area Masonic Lodges this past week. One was held in Abernathy and the other was held in Tulla.

The one at Abernathy was for the officers of Hale Center, Petersburg, Plainview, Floydada and Abernathy Lodges. The one at Tulla catered to the officers of Happy, Plainview, Lockney and Tulla Lodges.

The Workshops are part of a statewide, semi-annual program authorized by the Grand Master of Masons in Texas, J. Carrol Hinsley of Austin. The program is conducted for nearly 1,000 Lodges with a membership of 250,000 men. The Masonic Order is the state's largest fraternal organization.

The purpose of the Workshop is to enable Masons to study common problems of Masonic Lodges and their operations. The Workshops were conducted by Jimmy M. Wilson, Jr., a Floydada building materials distributor and Chairman of a Masonic Workshop area which includes ten counties.

One who delivered an oratory on the subject "What Local Ownership of Lighthouse Means to This Area" Mr. Henry explained.

They will be among 100 young people from all over the state participating in the first annual Texas Electric Cooperative Government in Action Youth Tour to the nation's capitol city, June 4 to June 14. Expenses of the youth tour are shared by other electric cooperatives which sponsor oratorical contests similar to the one sponsored by Lighthouse Electric Cooperative.

SEED PLANTS

Farm Land Near Plainview Set For Okra Crop

PLAINVIEW (Special) Approximately 70 acres of farm land east of Plainview have been contracted for growing okra for seed.

L. B. Brandes, 13 miles east of here, contracted 25 acres and Albert Scheele and Warren Mathes about 22 acres each.

Russell Preison, Altus Okla., contracted the acreage and is providing the Clemson variety of okra for seeding the crop. There have been other okra-growing projects for seed in this area in the past.

Brandes said the okra will be planted about the time cotton is planted, possibly a little later, as cultivation and growing of the crop are similar to that of cotton.

Charge Planned Ten pounds of seed will be planted with a grain drill per acre. The growers will be charged for the seed when they sell their crop.

Brandes said the crop generally produces around 1,100 pounds of seed per acre with exceptional production reaching 1,900 pounds.

The Plains okra fields will be harvested with combines. The seed will be cleaned at a commercial seed-cleaning unit, will be sacked and shipped to Altus where they must undergo a fumigating process before they are marketed.

Brandes said he was under the impression most of the seed he and the farmers in his vicinity are to grow will be marketed in the eastern states.

One in every nine Texans today faces life with a physical disadvantage identifiable as a handicap requiring special care, says the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Easter Seal Society.

Pioneer Natural Gas Receives Award Of Excellence In Dallas

AMARILLO - An award of excellence was presented to Pioneer Natural Gas Company this week in Dallas, Tex., by the National Security Traders Association. The award was in recognition of an outstanding stockholder information and education program conducted by the company in 1964.

Pioneer Natural was among a select group of 21 companies in the nation and three in Texas picked from some 5,000 whose stocks are traded in the over-the-counter market by the National Security Traders Association.

The award was made by C. Thomas May, Jr., president of the Dallas Security Dealers Association, at a luncheon in the Chaparral Club on Tuesday, March 23. Accepting the award for Pioneer Natural were C. I. Wall, president; B. P. Smith, vice president and treasurer; K. Bert Watson, attorney and secretary of the company, all of Amarillo, and W. E. Walker of Dallas, a director of the company.

"These annual awards were established to give deserved recognition to outstanding stockholder information programs by companies whose stocks are traded in the over-the-counter market," according to NSTA President Allen

L. Oliver, Jr. "We feel that these companies are rendering important and constructive public service by creating better informed stockholders and a wider knowledge of the investment process."

"Think First... of The First"

Hesperian Editorials

REQUIRE A DEPOSIT - Although the scene in the picture above is faked, it typifies what a person can see at almost any time as they travel down the highways in Floyd County (a dry area). It is believed that a deposit of 10¢ on each container would virtually eliminate such scenes from the roadsides of Texas. (Staff Photo)

Require A Deposit

The highways of any particular state or area to the tourists and others passing through typify the "Front Door" of that particular section of the country.

Texas particularly should make their highways the showpiece of the state since the Lone Star State boasts the No. 1 highway system in the United States.

Since travelers began using highways, whether hard-surfaced or a dirt thoroughfare, litter has continually plagued those in charge of keeping those roads and highways in repair and attractive.

Beautification programs, laws, and campaigns of all sorts have been instituted in an effort to keep litter off the sides of highways. In Texas a person can find a trash can put on the side of the highway for the one purpose of disposing of litter that might otherwise fall at the side of the road.

The next time you are traveling on a road leaving or approaching Floydada make it a point to take a mental poll of the majority of the litter. Naturally a lot of paper will be found and several cans and bottles will be noticed.

However, it strikes most people as being very peculiar that in a dry county, as far as liquor is concerned, the bottles that normally contain alcoholic beverages will outnumber the soft-drink bottles about 25-1 or perhaps more.

Several reasons can be mentioned that would explain why this is true. One is that even though people may drink they don't mind being caught with a soft-drink bottle in their car, but they dislike to have a liquor bottle found inside the car.

Another reason, and we think the primary one, is that a deposit is required on soft-drink bottles and it is not on a liquor bottle. For 30¢ a housewife will carry a carton of soft-drinks back to the grocery store when she goes shopping. Since there is no deposit required on a liquor bottle there is no reason to return the bottle to the place the contents were purchased, the bottles remain on the side of the roads until the Texas Highway Department can "police", clean up, the area.

We believe that a required deposit of 10¢ per bottle would be an added incentive to the person who is considering depositing his bottle at the side of the road, and that he would take it back to the place he got it and get his deposit back.

The amount of tax money that could be saved is almost impossible to measure, but it would be several thousand dollars a year.

This money spent by the Highway Department could well be used to build more and better roads and keep Texas well ahead of the other states in this nation in this aspect as it has been for the past several years.

series, "cry room," fellowship hall with kitchen facilities and rest rooms. The building will contain of 12,000 square feet of floor space.

Cotton Shipper Cites Problems

A letter came last week from J. D. Butler of Weil Brothers, a big cotton merchandising firm with branch offices in six states, including Texas.

He commented on a recent column which appeared in this space on the economic impact price support cuts are having on the South Plains and other problems confronting the area cotton industry.

The column was reproduced by a national cotton trade publication.

Writing from Weil Brothers' headquarters office in New York, Butler, after some complimentary introductory remarks, had this to say:

"We are faced with this catastrophe because you and I, the farmers, merchants, and mills did not cooperate in attacking the problem 10 or 15 years ago.

Problem Grew Worse
"It, therefore, inevitably grew worse as government intervention always must introduce more problems than it solves, particularly in the field of commodities.

"I fully understand the problems facing the cotton communities you represent in view of a reduction in income from government (price) supports and, still worse, a loss of markets.

"The 'day of reckoning' which many predicted for cotton some years ago appears to be arriving.

"We can all pretty well analyze the problems, but none of us seems to have the solution, most of all the government itself.

"I think, however, that the more we try to reach the root of the problem . . . the more likely we are to find a solution.

"But we can be sure that nothing will happen quickly to bring us relief as the causes have gone too far and too deep.

Cites Basis Of Troubles
"I would like to make one simple point that may appear complex before I have finished. This point is the basis of our problems.

"We are growing each year about 15.2 million bales and we can assume for purposes of this discussion that 9 million bales of the crop will be taken by our (domestic) mills as they cannot go elsewhere for their needs.

"The question, therefore, is the additional 6 million bales which must be considered surplus production as no law on earth can require Japan, England, Germany and others to buy one bale of American cotton.

"Now you and I know that across the river from your Texas production, the Mexicans are growing a large volume of good quality cotton at six to eight cents per pound below the cotton on our side of the river.

"This example extends to 50 or 60 established producing countries from whom the consuming countries can draw their supplies.

"We receive in our offices each month buyers from consuming countries all over the world.

"They tell us continually and emphatically that they receive offers almost daily from any number of countries which produce very satisfactory cotton for their requirements.

"Some of these countries might run out of cotton before the season is over, but there are always others to step in. And, of course, the American crop, including the CCC crop, is always available as a last resort.

"If the term 'last resort' is a slight exaggeration, it is certainly correct to say that we are no more than residual suppliers, since these other suppliers have only to look at our fixed price and undercut it.

"You see, our price is inflexible whereas their price is based on supply and demand and therefore is competitive.

"In the past few weeks the price of Nicaraguan cotton has declined by two cents per pound and now stands roughly four cents per pound below our cotton.

"The price of Indian cotton increased by four cents per pound from last November to January.

"These examples occur in most markets at some time or another during the season.

"It is, therefore, an exercise in futility for us to use the term 'world price' as if there were some fixed price set for 12 months.

"I would defy anyone to calculate a true world price for any given day. Yet we base our whole program for 12 months on what someone in Washington calculates as the 'world price'.

Says Flexibility Needed
"We will, therefore, continue to lose markets until we drop the approach of fixed loans and subsidies and introduce a competitive approach with flexibility.

"The Congress and the USDA must soon bring about this price flexibility - not because the trade wants it, but because that 6 - million - bale annual surplus and the 14 - million - bale carryover will not find markets without it.

"If the present program continues we ask ourselves these questions:

"What will happen when the Commodity Credit Corp. owns 20 million bales?

"Will Congress still allow a minimum national allotment of 15 million acres and a 29-cent price support loan?

"Suppose exports dropped to 2 million bales. Would we increase the subsidy to 10 cents per pound? The answer is 'no'.

Urges Direct Payments
"It's as if the sale of cigarettes were banned, cutting the demand for tobacco in half. It's hard to imagine the USDA continuing the same acreage and support price.

"For the sake of the farmers' markets, we must sell cotton in competition with Mexico and all others, and we must guarantee the farmer a satisfactory difference between his costs and the Mexican or foreign producer.

"This difference must be paid direct, not by CCC 'buying' the farmers' cotton - this has caused all the trouble - but by a fair, well-calculated system of compensatory payments.

"As for the CCC surplus, it must be frozen and doled out in years when the crop is short or applied against foreign aid sales.

"I write as a member of the board of the New York Cotton Exchange, but my background is in the Southern end of the cotton business and even in farming." Lubbock Avalanche

Teachers Need More Money

Governor Connally has done much to create an interest in higher education in our state, and we honor his high aims, but for some reason he has done little to consider the immediate needs of the 95,000 teachers in public schools. As lofty as his ten year program is, it is just too slow to compete with other states that are luring away our better teachers every year.

In the Governor's plan, the beginning teacher would realize a $486 raise over ten years, which simply means any teacher with financial responsibilities would immediately look for another profession, or another state in which to teach, what with the cost of living rising every year.

The Teachers of Texas today are writing the Legislature which is the American way to let your feelings be known. . . We hope that many of us whose children are in the hands of these teachers will join them in letting our law making officials know that Texas teachers need a lift - a lift in salary, and the sooner the better for everyone concerned. 10 Easy Steps

"How to Ruin a Town." This sort of article has been done in many ways, but the ingredients are similar everywhere:

1. Never attend any meetings. Just sit around and criticize about the way "they" are doing things.

2. Vote against any kind of tax levy - whether the purpose is good or not. "They" just want your money.

3. Make fun of the fire and police departments. "They" are just out there for the glory and pay.

4. Don't ever go to the movie, school concert or ball game, benefit program, or exhibit. Sit in a half-trance in front of that "idiot box."

5. Knock your city council. This is a must. Every one of them is just on the council to get a little kick-back.

6. Stay out of church. You might go on Easter and Christmas just to prove to yourself that the minister does not know what he's talking about and everyone there is a hypocrite.

7. Buy everything you can out of a discount catalog or mail order book. These firms are the first to come forth with donations and service to the community.

8. Don't support your town's newspaper. The out-of-town papers are a lot better and contribute much more to your town than the local bugle. But jump on your paper's editor the first time Aunt Hegatha's visit is left out - forget the other 10 times it was in.

9. Spread any story or rumor that is defamatory or uncomplimentary about the town. Never say nothing nice about nobody. All kids are delinquents, all businessmen are crooks.

10. Above all, always be skeptical and cynical about anything supposed to be good for the progress and betterment of the community.

Your motto should be: "If it's good, it can't happen here." - The Marceline, Mo., News.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Doubts Man's Interest In Space Will Dampen Interest In Himself

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm looks at one aspect of space exploration this week.

Dear editor:

During the flight of the two astronauts around the world which I watched from start to finish on television - I didn't use the occasion to take off from work because it was something special, I'm way ahead of most people, I didn't have to wait till space exploration arrived to take off from work, been doing it for years on my own - a television commentator came on and told how such exploits are widening the horizons of man and making earthly feats seem commonplace.

I seemed positive that the wonders of the earth are losing out to the wonders of space, that hitting an exact spot on the moon with a television camera-bearing rocket or maneuvering a rocket ship around in space and bringing it down where you want to will dampen man's interest in the ordinary things.

I'm afraid the moonbeams have gotten him.

As exciting as it is to see man explore space, a fire down the street will still outdraw a moonshot, a rain when you need it is more exciting than finding out how deep the lava dust is on Mars, a wreck still stops traffic on the highway, a fist fight in the stands outdraws the playing on the fields, sports are more fun than space, especially if you have a son on the team, and where's the man who wouldn't take his eyes off an orbiting rocket to pick up a five-dollar-bill fluttering on the ground?

Watching a man land on the moon will be over-powering excitement the first time it's

Dear Fellow Texan:

Sgt. Paul Womack Top Recruiter

Master Sergeant Paul Womack, U. S. Army Recruiter, stationed at 814 Broadway, Plainview, has been selected as Top Recruiter for the month of February for the entire Panhandle and South Plains area. His area covering the Panhandle of Oklahoma, eastern New Mexico, and South Plains.

Sergeant Womack topped nine other recruiters throughout the area by enlisting eight non-prior service men from the Plainview area for their choice assignments in the U. S. Army. Sergeant Womack is the local Army Recruiter for Castro, Lamb, Swisher, Hale, Briscoe, Floyd, Hall, and Motley Counties.

Lieutenant Colonel Enoch G. Martin, Commanding Officer, U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station, Amarillo, presented Sergeant Womack with a plaque and a letter of appreciation. Prior to being assigned to Plainview in May, 1963, Sergeant Womack was on duty in Okinawa from 1959 to 1962. Other assignments include Europe, the Far East and various stateside assignments.

per month; the recruit or draftee starts at $78.

With these facts in mind, I have recently co-sponsored a bill introduced by Senator Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, which would provide a military pay increase to end present inequities and help pull the lower military ranks out of poverty.

By raising the pay of entering servicemen, we will correct a long-standing injustice which has permitted only token pay increases for servicemen, in their first two years of military duty, while providing substantial and continuing raises for all other ranks since World War II.

The entering serviceman has not had a pay raise for thirteen years, since 1952; at that time, he had a paltry $3 raise, increasing his pay from $75 to $78 per month. His last raise before that was in 1946.

Since the middle of the war, all ranks beyond men in their first two years have received raises amounting to 133% of their wartime pay; civilian pay has gone up 203%, yet the entering serviceman has received a 4% raise.

Former Ambassador Kenneth Galbraith has described the draft as "a device by which we use compulsion to get young men to serve at less than the market rate of pay." At the present time, the Defense Department is considerably concerned because of their lack of ability to attract sufficient qualified servicemen.

Yet, at the same time, the Defense Department opposes every conceivable program which might serve to benefit our young soldiers - the Cold War GI Bill has met with fierce opposition from them, although it could serve as a powerful inducement to attract young men who need an education.

So long as we need a qualified, technical, alert defense system to protect freedom around the world, it is essential that we begin to show some basic appreciation for the efforts of our young soldiers.

We must provide them with equivalent pay instead of penalizing them for maintaining freedom, just as we must show our interest in their future as civilians by giving them educational opportunities through the Cold War GI Bill.

TO TAXPAYERS: Are you aware that the Governor's proposal for teacher salaries would require a substantial increase in the local ad valorem taxes on your home, business, and personal property by charging the cost of textbooks and teacher retirement matching funds against your school district? Read the letter below for fuller information.

TO LEGISLATORS: You should know that the Governor's program provides now less than half the raise provided by "$45 for '65," and forces your local districts to increase their school tax to raise almost twice as much money locally as necessary under "$45 for '65"? His ten-year program promises less than half the increases approved in each of the two preceding ten-year periods. Read the letter below for fuller information.

DO YOU WANT THE WHOLE TRUTH?

An Open Letter to the Editor, Austin American-Statesman

Beginning with editorials in the Austin American and Austin Statesman on Wednesday, February 17, 1965, and continuing with subsequent items in the news columns, you have endorsed the complicated ten-year teacher salary proposal offered to the Legislature by Governor Connally. Certainly you have the right to endorse what you please in your editorial columns.

But there are so many omissions of fact, erroneous conceptions, and apparent misunderstandings of the Governor's program, compared to the TSTA-endorsed salary plan, that we are taking this means of providing you and your readers some information which you apparently have not considered. These are facts which affect all citizens, not just teachers.

First, let us point out that the TSTA request for a teacher salary increase was begun almost two years ago. The Governor and all legislators received written information about it and knew exactly what it did. It does just two things: Provides a $45 per month increase in the minimum salary schedule, and continues the provision that the state pay 80 per cent of this cost and the local district 20 per cent under the Minimum Foundation Program.

The public knew nothing about the Governor's program until January 27, 1965, when he delivered his message to the Legislature. Therefore, teachers have neither created nor sought any fight with the Governor or anyone else. Indeed, there are no personalities involved at all, but merely a difference of opinion. We identify the anti-TSTA plan as the "Governor's program" because he first publicly espoused it and the press has so labeled it.

The Austin American editorial on February 17 deserves special mention. It used all "good" words for the Governor's teacher pay plan, such as "gratifying," "orderly," "well-thought-out," and "business-like." For the TSTA program you chose words such as "strong-arm political tactics," "trying to overrun the Legislature," and "standard TSTA bulldozer approach." Even the non-journalist can spot this loaded language. This treatment certainly falls within the category of "grossly unfair."

When your American editorial refers, in such unsavory terms, to "TSTA" it is referring to almost 95,000 individuals who happen to be Texas teachers. No attempt to color such statements by reference to an inanimate identification such as "TSTA" can sugarcoat the personal affront to teachers. These are the people who teach your children, who live next door, who go to your church, who pay taxes, and who vote. They are not some sinister, foreign invaders who must be vanquished.

You also owe your readers some definitions and explanations along with the American editorial. What are "strong-arm tactics," and who is applying them?

The only "tactic" being used is the writing of letters by teachers to members of the Legislature. It will be shocking news to civics, government, and history classes to learn that this is "strong-arm tactics," with the implication that teachers do not have the right to write to their representatives. What would be your reaction if teachers were writing in support of the Governor's proposal which you have endorsed?

Incidentally, we are told by our legislative friends that the vast majority of teacher letters being received in Austin are well written and correctly spelled. The only ones which get front page attention, of course, are the minority which have errors. If spelling is the issue on which teacher pay is to be decided, however, then perhaps the solution is to offer high enough beginning pay to attract better spelling teachers who will compete with these poor spellers for their jobs.

In this American-Statesman barrage there is either no mention or only slight mention of four extremely important points in the Governor's proposal:

1. The fact that local districts will, for the first time, have to pay 20 per cent of the cost of textbooks and teacher retirement matching funds, which the state has always paid.

2. The fact that placing these two new items in the Minimum Foundation School Program will mean that, although on the surface the 80-20 state-local financing ratio is continued, the net effect is to require local districts to pay 70 per cent and the state only 30 per cent of the Governor's new program. This means $28 million would be paid by local schools and only $12 million by the state during the next biennium. This is for an average increase of $184 per teacher the first year in straight salary.

3. The fact that this will not only place an extremely heavy burden on already overloaded ad valorem taxes in local school districts, without a new source of revenue, but will also curtail local "enrichment" efforts which most schools make.

4. The fact that the $50 per teacher per year in "selective salary increase" funds offered by the state would not go to every teacher, that each local district would have to match it 50-50, and that schools now unable to raise salaries above the minimum very likely could not participate at all, thus compounding the present inequity in salaries. For these reasons, this money cannot be counted in comparing the TSTA and the Governor's programs.

There has been some uninformed comment to the effect that "School people don't seem to understand that the state is going to abandon the state ad valorem tax so they can levy this tax locally to pay for the Governor's program." But it doesn't work that way.

In the first place, if the Legislature approves this tax abandonment it is not planned to be effective until 1971. Salaries have to be paid now.

Second, schools already are receiving most of this state ad valorem tax through the Available School Fund.

Third, if the state levy is abandoned, it would not automatically revert to the coffers of the local school districts. It would be up for grabs by every municipal district such as cities, water districts, hospital districts, schools, and all the others. And local people would have to vote for the tax.

Either way, under the Governor's proposal there will be heavy additional ad valorem taxation on the Austin American-Statesman, the businesses which advertise in your papers, on teachers, newsmen, and everybody else who owns property. This is part of the Governor's clearly declared intent to push more costs back to the local level, where there is only the old ad valorem tax to fall back on. There may be some local tax increase needed if the TSTA program passes, but if so it would be relatively minor. The state has many more sources of tax revenue than local schools.

Teachers don't mind paying their share of new taxes. But it was "significant" in the American editorial that the Governor's plan would avoid a big tax bill. The TSTA bill would not cause a tax bill any more than any of the many other needed increased expenditures which have been proposed.

We've heard a lot of talk lately about "excellence in education." Unless we're willing to pay for it, we ought to quit talking about it. Perhaps we can't expect such excellence when in Texas we don't even pay teachers an "average" salary. Texas teachers now are $800 below the national average.

If we buy the Governor's program the beginning teacher will get a $486 raise spread over ten years, an average of $48.60 a year. In ten years Texas would be so far behind that we wouldn't have any new teachers wanting to teach here and trying to survive to become a career teacher. The most any career teacher would get is $1,296 spread over ten years.

Apparently you have overlooked the fact that in the last two decades the maximum salaries for teachers (for the experienced, career teacher) have been raised $3,000 and $2,000, respectively. During the same two periods the beginning teacher salary was increased only $1,500 and $1,600, respectively. This illustrates that the career teachers most assuredly have received special attention and will continue to receive it. All these raises were backed by TSTA and would not have been obtained without such organized effort.

The TSTA "$45 for '65" plan is not a ten-year plan, as is the Governor's. The TSTA-endorsed program is effective immediately, and any attempt to compare it per se with the Governor's program in total money over a ten-year period is patently incorrect and "grossly unfair." Teachers certainly would ask for additional increases during the next ten years, in keeping with an expanding economy.

Keep in mind that local districts pay far more than 20 per cent of the cost of operating our schools. Under state law, local districts pay all of these costs:

- All of the cost of school buildings and equipment.
- All of the salaries paid above the minimum schedule.
- The total salaries paid to teachers employed in excess of the allotment under the Minimum Foundation Program.

Basically, then, there are two questions involved:

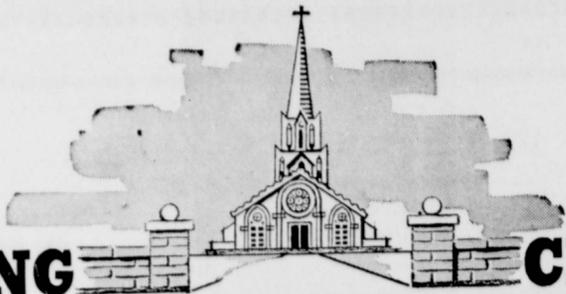

1. Is the salary offered by the Governor's program sufficient to attract and hold the qualified teachers Texas needs now and in the future? It is not, and spokesmen elected by the teachers have said so plainly. They have time and time again endorsed the TSTA plan, and did so as recently as February 5, after the Governor laid out his plan.

2. Should local districts be forced to pay a much larger share of the school costs, as the Governor's program demands, when such revenue can come only from more ad valorem taxes on property? You can answer this question.

The best and most unbiased information you can get is simply to ask the local school districts in your circulation area. Ask them how much money they would receive under the TSTA program and how much they would have to raise locally. Then ask them how much they would receive under the Governor's program and how much they would have to raise locally. And compare the salaries teachers would get this biennium under the two programs.

Your own reporters can do this. We challenge you to do so, fairly, and let the chips fall where they may.

BLACKED OUT

God made two great lights—the greater to rule the day and the lesser the night. He made the stars also. Are you discouraged?

Does it seem that your life is a "flop"... that your light is too small...

that you just don't count? Then you're blindfolded. You're blacked out. Sure, He made the great lights, but He made the stars also... He made you. When it is dark about you and you think your licks don't count, just remember

... God never creates worthless things nor useless lives.

As much as God needs great men as great lights... He also needs small, humble men as stars to take stations as reflectors.

God uses His church to woo men to the better life. The church must have great lights and great leaders and it must also have small lights and ordinary people as reflectors. God has no place in His plan for blindfolded people... those who blackout for convenience. He made the great lights, but to reflect them to all His world,

He made the stars also. Are you a star, or are you a blackout patient?

of Hershell Maneese, son-in-law of Mrs. Albert Cardinal who is the first cousin of Mrs. Walls, was found Sunday March 28, exactly three months from the day he was drowned at Webber Falls, Oklahoma, in the Arkansas River.

His body was found 3 miles down stream from where he was last seen on Dec. 28, 1964.

The family of Mr. Maneese and his wife's family had searched every day up and down the river trying to find some trace of the body.

His father-in-law, Albert Cardinal and a friend, found Maneese's body Sunday and notified the sheriff at once. His funeral has been set for Tuesday at Wayne, Oklahoma.

John Tower Newsletter

The Senate Judiciary Committee is now hearing testimony on President Johnson's bill to establish voting standards in all elections, state, local, and national. The Committee is under instruction to report back to the full Senate by April 9, and our leadership has indicated that the Senate must act on the measure by April 15.

For that reason, I want to report to you today on my feelings on this matter, so that you will understand my action on the bill when it comes up for Senate consideration.

I support, as I believe all Texans support, the principle that the right to vote must be granted to all citizens without discrimination on the basis of race.

I support, as I believe all Texans support, the Constitutional principle that states set the qualifications of voters.

I will support a voting rights bill guaranteeing that Constitutional state qualifications are equally administered and equally applied to all citizens.

If the bill, as finally drafted and reported by the Judiciary Committee, satisfies this criteria, it will have my strong support. I sincerely hope it does. It is my firm belief that such a bill can be written if the Administration is honestly trying to draft a bill that guarantees the voting rights of all our citizens, through the non-discriminatory application of constitutional state and federal voting rights.

The voting rights bill hastily presented to the Congress two weeks ago appears to raise Constitutional questions in that it abridges the right of states to set voter qualifications, and in that the bill is not to be equally applied for the benefit of all American citizens.

I will offer amendments designed to correct these points and an additional amendment assuring that the bill also covers cases of fraudulent voting. Ballot box stuffing and fraudulent counting of votes infringes the rights of our citizens just as surely as the denial of the right to vote, for it alters the outcome of elections and denies an honest decision by honest citizens. This basic right of our citizens to have their votes counted legally and not diluted by ballots cast dishonestly--must also be protected.

If these provisions are in the final bill--provisions guaranteeing non-discriminatory application of state voting qualifications for all our citizens, regardless of race or color, and provisions guaranteeing honest elections--I will support and vote for the bill.

This week I introduced, for Senate consideration, an income tax credit bill for assistance to education at all levels. It is similar to a bill I introduced last session.

My bill has three main provisions: It provides a tax credit for homeowners for that portion of their real property tax which is used for maintenance, operation, and construction of public elementary and secondary schools. Every such taxpayer would obtain this education assistance whether or not his children attend public schools.

It provides a tax credit for individuals and corporations for gifts and contributions made to nonprofit institutions of higher education. This contribution credit could not exceed $100 for an individual and $1,000 for a corporation.

It provides a tax deduction for taxpayers who are themselves students or whose spouses or children are attending college. College expenses covered by this bill would include tuition and fees; books, supplies and equipment; and room and board. Total deductions would be limited to $2,000 for each student attending college, and the coverage for room and board would be limited to no more than $90 per month. A progressive limitation feature would curtail the amount of deduction granted to taxpayers with higher incomes.

I also introduced a bill this week that would grant a temporary moratorium on FHA or VA home mortgage payments for servicemen and federal employees who are affected by the sudden closing of military installations. I believe this bill will not only ease the burden placed on servicemen and federal employees who are purchasing their homes and who are suddenly forced to transfer or seek employment elsewhere, but it would save the taxpayer a great deal of money by delaying or preventing the foreclosure of homes that must later be disposed of at a loss.

Additional time would be granted the serviceman or base employee to dispose of the home before foreclosure proceedings are instituted.
