LISTEN TO LUKE

Time draws nearer for the big July 16th celebration. Beards of all descriptions and stovepipe and derby hats are creating all kinds of speculation from visitors from out-of-town. There are those who think they are in the midst of some religious cult; and some who possibly think they have landed in a colony of nuts escaped from an institution.

Regardless of tourists' thoughts, the word is getting around and we should expect a big crowd for the fiftieth Anniversary Celebration.

Sander son had an opportunity to do a little plugging last week when three local men drove a 1928 model Rolls Royce to Fort Stockton and got in the parade there in connection with the Water Carnival. The car and men got a lot of attention and came home with first prize in the commercial division. The sign on the car also caught the eye of the radio announcer and its words were aired to listeners of the area.

Our parade committee states that splendid cooperation is being shown in that field. The food committee has been doing a lot of work and is showing results. The Roping Club has assured us that the rodeo events will be ready and that a good show may be expected there. The V.F.W. has arranged a ball game for the afternoon. Plans are completed for two big dances to be staged Saturday night.

We have already reported progress of organizations working on exhibits and it looks like the plans are complete for a big to-do.

We continue to hear about damage done to Highway 285 by rains and we hear also of the possibility of a bridge being built to span the draw where we have had so many wash-outs in recent weeks.

The local maintenance crew has done wonders in repairing the road with all possible haste following the wash-outs. But practice makes perfect. And they have had lots of practice lately.

The washouts have been detrimental to the traffic through our section, as word gets around fast of dangerous routes — the result of high water, and the like, and tourists are reluctant to start on a road knowing the possibility of having to turn back or spend the night between draws.

We hope the powers that be in the Highway Department see fit to erect a bridge, and we hope that some who are interested will express their desires and our need for a structure of some sort that will not hamper travel over the north-south highway just because of water running down a draw.

Look around you in Sanderson and notice all of the work that is going on for a change. It is pleasing to see the exemplification of local interest and business betterment that is being expressed.

The decision of the people of Sanderson and Terrell County to put up a fight against the railroad company's proposal to move the terminal is also a noteworthy bit of information.

The application for a court decision on the merits of the decision rendered by the railroad commission was made on the grounds that the commission's decision was unjustifiable in the light of evidence submitted and the local petitioners are asking for a reversal of that decision.

Such a reversal by a district court would render the commission incapable of rendering another decision favoring the railroad company, submit new or different evidence was submitted that would warrant such a decision favoring the original petitioner.

This would cause the railroad company, the original petitioner, to submit new or different evidence to support their application for movement, and would also have an effect on the railroad (Continued to Page 2)

3.19 Inches Rain Falls in June

The good rain of Sunday afternoon brought the total rainfall in Sanderson for June to 3.19 inches, according to the gauge at The Kerr Mercantile Company. Sunday's rain totalled 1.55.

During the month, rains have come over the entire county with some areas more favored than others but it seems that the five-year drought has an opportunity to be broken.

The areas visited by hail and heavy rainfall have suffered some damage by stock being drowned, corrals and pens washed away, broken window panes, brush stripped and cars damaged.

Last Thursday afternoon, 21 window panes were broken at the W. R. Stumberg ranch including their home that had only recently been remodeled and redecorated. Some damage was also done to the roof and water damage resulted.

The Fort Stockton road was washed out again Thursday, repaired that afternoon and Friday morning, to be washed out again Sunday afternoon when what was said to be "the most water yet" came down the canyon and did severe damage to the road bed.

These washouts were at the large dip at Web Townsend's ranch turn-off on US285.

Monday and Tuesday of this week were clear and hot over the county, but rain clouds gathered in the north hand northeast and northwest portions of the county Wednesday afternoon to give rain to some sections of the county.

Miss Billie Chandler of Ozona, granddaughter of Mrs. Roy Harrell, was the runner-up in the contest for "Miss Southwest" and Miss Dorothy Thompson of Kermit was third. Miss Sandra Taff, the entry of the Sanderson Lions Club did not place in the contest.

The 1928 Rolls Royce belonging to Mr. French in Comstock, was driven to Fort Stockton Friday by W. W. Sudduth, Dudley Harrison and J. A. Gilbreath, as an entry in the parade and advertising Terrell County 50th birthday celebration. Julian Perez met the group in Fort Stockton and rode in the ancient car in the parade.

The Sanderson entry was awarded first prize in the commercial division of parade entries.

The car held a sign proclaiming "Celebrating 50 years of freedom from Pecos County, Terrell County's birthday celebration, July 16." The car was also decorated with crepe paper streamers.

ANTELOPE HUNT SEEMS LIKELY

Austin — The first apparent and notable hunting dividend from the improving weather conditions was foreseen by the Director of Wildlife Restoration for the Game and Fish Commission in the nature of a possible fall antelope harvest in both the Big Bend and Panhandle country.

He said census counts now underway indicate sufficient antelope numbers may be present to warrant an open season. The Commission which has authority to regulate harvest conditions on the basis of on-the-spot developments, decided against a shoot last fall.

The Director pointed out that, while conditions now are favorable, the final decision will not be made until the Commission meets in July.

Previously, it had been pointed out that the long dry spell had at least been partly broken in most Texas areas and that wildlife was rallying accordingly.

The director emphasized that although the overall antelope population is limited, it is generally scientifically desirable to authorize a restricted shoot to absorb local surpluses.

Tentatively, on the basis of preliminary reports, he said up to four hundred buck antelope might be available for taking in an early October season West of the Pecos.

Because buck antelopes ordinarily are harvested while herded up with does, close care has to be taken to avoid hunters' mistakes. Game wardens accompany the hunters who are issued permits for their privilege of stalking the fleet game animals.

The actual hunting designations are made from drawings held in Commission headquarters in Austin. It was stressed that, for the time being, the proposed hunts are strictly in the possibility stage and that nothing official will be available until after the aerial counts are taken and following the formal Commission decision next month.

"This is all we know about it now," the Director said. "We will announce the decision about the suggested open season when the facts are known. We hope sportsmen will refrain from writing us now. They will have plenty of time to make known their interest after the Commission has acted."

Well-Rounded Education Needed

In this age of science and technology the education profession of America, and the American citizenry, must not lose sight of the need for "thinkers" as well as "doers". This was the essence of a thought-provoking and stimulating commencement address at Harding College by Dr. Samuel Miller Brownell, United States Commissioner of Education. Since his words were directed not only to Harding graduating class, student body and faculty, but to the nation as a whole, I wish to pass them along to this column's wide-spread audience.

"The effectiveness of education would seem," said Dr. Brownell, "to depend in a large measure on how well it fulfills its basic responsibilities to strengthen good citizenship, to keep alive and to transmit the best of mankind's cultural heritage, to provide some understanding of the scientific bases of modern life, and to teach the student how to think as well as pursue the quest for the good life — the end product of all education. All schools and colleges — whatever their origin, or however supported — share in the obligation to meet our national needs in the ways that fit them best."

A Danger
Speaking particularly of specialization in education, Dr. Brownell asked: "Where, in this intense time-consuming effort to master a special field, is there going to be a place for thinking, for philosophy, for reflection? How are we going to find men and women who can see what they do in relation to what others do, who can form balanced judgments, who are capable of cutting through to the heart of the matter, who can find the simple truth, and recognize it as such?"

"There is grave danger that we will, as a nation, lose our way in a labyrinth of formulae, figures, and facts, that we will bog down in a sea of technical problems. I say this because it seems to me that almost every major technical advance creates a philosophical problem."

Beyond Technology
"To illustrate: the technical solution to the atomic bomb poses the awesome problem of what to do with it. We cannot ask the scientist to dispose of his Frankenstein any more than we can ask the printer to solve the comic book menace that rolls forth from his million-dollar high speed presses. The technical-specialist, I repeat, is limited in his usefulness, and he is creating problems he cannot solve. . . . It is quite evident, I believe, that we need scholarship, not just specialization.

"I do not want to say anything which is disparaging to scientists. We need them if we are to make progress. We need many more than we are preparing. The survival of all that we cherish may well depend on our preparing more and better scientists."

The Need Stated
"What we need, if our contemporary society is to survive," said Dr. Brownell, "is the young man or woman who is technically proficient, but who is also capable of reflective thought, of understanding, who is capable of love, and of courage. The students here, and the graduates, and tens of thousands of young men and women like them can bring about a new scholarship — part fact, part thought, part reflection, part action."

"Looking ahead, it seems to me that this country has a right to expect that every institution of higher education will bend its efforts to be increasingly effective as a preserver and transmitter of learning and as an extender of the boundaries of knowledge and scholarship. In this effort, Harding College will, I am confident, share fruitfully. As it does so, in concert with its sister colleges and universities across the land, it will prove again that the United States needs strong private and public institutions of higher education aware of their obligations and zealous to fulfill them."

commission in that it would cause them to study new or different evidence a little more closely so as not to have the threat of a second reversal facing them in case they rendered favorably again for the railroad company.

The point was reached in the thinking of local citizens that they were not going to sit idly by and let the railroad company or the railroad commission do as they pleased without being heard from to a very great extent by the opposition.

The railroad men are doing what they can in negotiations that have been started with some of the brotherhoods and with the help of the local citizens can give them in opposing the decision of the railroad commission.

The suit is now in the process of being filed with the legal assistance of Bennett Smith of Dallas and Judge Brian Montague of Del Rio representing the local plaintiffs.

In a ceremony performed in the chapel of the First Christian Church in San Bernardino, California, on May 6th, Miss Mary Allen became the bride of John C. Scruggs. William B. Decker, minister of the Church of Christ, San Pedro, Calif., performed the ceremony.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Allen of Comfort, former Terrell County ranchers. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl George Scruggs of Jackson, Mississippi.

Mrs. James Parrott was organist for the traditional wedding music.

When given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white tulle over net over taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with a low neckline outlined with lace medallions. The bouffant ankle-length skirt was also sprinkled with lace medallions. A shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion was attached to the pearl-edged lace hat. She wore mitts of white tulle and pale blue sandals with pearl flower clusters. A white orchid was atop the white Bible she carried.

The maid of honor was Miss Patricia Plauman of Armada, Mich., who wore an ankle-length gown of aqua taffeta. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and her headband was of yellow daisies.

Joe Mura served as best man and Al Bakos was usher.

A reception followed in the church parlor. The three-tiered blossom-decked white wedding cake was topped with wedding bells. Serving the cake was Ruth Duffek, Grand Rapids, Mich., assisted by Lu Galvani, Nashville, Tenn., and Pat Dondlinger, San Bernardino, Barbara Mercer, Pontiac, Mich., poured the punch. Mrs. Marjorie Owen, San Bernardino, was at the bride's book.

For traveling the bride wore an ensemble of navy blue and white with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Sanderson High School and received her B. S. degree from Abilene Christian College where she was a member of Zeta Rho, Gamma Epsilon and Campus Service Organization. She was employed as a social worker for the San Bernardino County Welfare Department. The groom was graduated from Central High School, Jackson, Miss.; attended the University of Alabama and served in the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II. He is assistant manager of the L. B. Marsh Allied Refrigeration Co. of San Bernardino.

After a short wedding trip to Laguna Beach, the couple is at home at 3963 Genevieve, San Bernardino, California.
