LISTEN TO LUKE

Albert:--
 The nation lost a good man Friday with death of ex-President and General Eisenhower. There was a dedication in this man to the service of his country; there was a compassion in him for the good of his fellow man; there was an understanding of "the good life" that few men are able to match, and that few have matched.
 There was no act of his in his dedication and service that could be truly called selfish.
 During a part of our stay in Europe, we were stationed only blocks at one time, and only 10 miles another time from his headquarters, and any time that we were able to see him, it was with an awe and respect for what we knew he stood for that a salute was given - and it was always given gladly.
 We cannot help but feel that the lives of many people of the world are better because of his passing this way. And we sincerely believe that his actions as Commander of SHAFB were in the best interest of his quest for freedom for all men and that he personally mourned and was completely sympathetic to many and all the hardships of those who were trying to win that freedom in whatever capacity.

We have been seeing a lot more of - and each time it's more and more disgusting - the use of hyphenated phrases to denote a person's background. We think this is another mistake of daily and national newspaper writers. If a person wants to hold onto his background so much that he insists on being called a hyphenated American, he is asking the ridiculous, in our humble opinion.

Wouldn't it be silly for us to say: "Joe Schmuck, Polish-Irish-Alsatian-American, with a touch of questionable villainy on his maternal grandfather's part, visited here last week." And few of us would want all of our ancestry bared for the pleasure of our friends and maybe our own embarrassment.
 If we are Americans, that's it! If we are not, that's it, too!

We predicted not long ago, that it would happen and it has. There has been some curtailing in the armed forces and there will be more due to the outspoken activities of those who profess atheism or similar philosophies. There can be no mention of God in guidance lectures, and we believe that the chaplain system will be abandoned since it is tax-supported and religious - unless some counter action is taken soon by those who believe that it is right to continue the chaplain service.

The information in the paper this week about the investigation of feasibility of a natural gas system here is going to cause a lot of talk up one side and down the other about this and that going to happen. We have the word of the man that was here that he will keep us informed so that all possible known information continued to second page

Natural Gas Service Here Is Possibility

A representative of a pipeline company was in Sanderson Friday of last week to investigate the feasibility of the installation of a natural gas trunk line into Sanderson and distribution to local customers.

The man stated that presently his company was making installations in other towns in Texas, and they were looking for towns in any part of the country to investigate feasibility. Sanderson, according to the representative, is one of the few towns of any size in West Texas that does not now have natural gas and that preliminary surveys indicated that the investment would be feasible for his company, but that further information was being sought before any commitment was made.

He stated that it was customary for the company to enter into a 20-year contract or franchise with the possibility of a municipality or town purchasing the system after that time. More information and details, he said, would be forthcoming if future investigations proved the situation to be economically feasible for the company.

Traffic Deaths In Texas Hit All-Time High, 3,481

AUSTIN — Col. Wilson E. (Pat) Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reported today that motor vehicle traffic deaths in Texas reached an all-time high of 3,481 in 1968, an increase of three per cent over the 3,367 deaths recorded in 1967. The previous high was 3,406 deaths in 1966. However, Speir said, due to an increase of 8 percent in the total number of miles traveled in Texas streets and highways, the death rate per hundred million miles was reduced to 5.5 deaths, compared to 5.8 in 1967.

On the rural highways of the state where the DPS has primary jurisdiction, he added, traffic fatalities rose only one-half of 1 per cent, increasing to 2,146 from 2,136 in 1967. The rural traffic death rate dropped from 6.1 deaths per hundred million miles in 1967 to 5.7 deaths in 1968.

Traffic deaths statewide during November and December 1968 totaled 355 and 369 respectively, exceeding previous highs of 305 in November 1966 and 363 in December 1965.

In announcing the official traffic data for 1968, the DPS director noted these facts: traffic deaths in urban areas increased eight per cent, from 1,231 in 1967 to 1,335 in 1968; those in towns increased from 214 to 226 for a six per cent increase; those on interstate highways decreased two per cent from 191 to 188; those on US and state highways increased seven per cent from 1,171 to 1,251; those on Farm to Market highways decreased 12 per cent from 331 to 293; and those on county roads decreased 18 per cent from 229 to 188.

Speir said that last year total estimated accidents on the streets and highways of Texas came to 940,268, compared to 885,268 in 1967. In the same comparison, there were 216,972 injuries in traffic accidents against 205,308 in 1967, and the estimated total economic loss was $836,802,000 in 1968, compared to $793,094,000 in 1967.

In addition to the 3,481 traffic deaths on public streets and highways during 1968, 11 persons were killed and 1,090 were injured in 19,364 accidents occurring on parking areas such as shopping villages.

"In order to point up the tremendous losses suffered in America through traffic tragedy, our Statistical Services Bureau figures that from 1900 through 1968, a total of 1,721,754 persons have died in traffic accidents in the United States, compared with a total of 1,161,007 American deaths in all the United States wars from 1775 through 1968," Speir said.

Jack Riggs went to Del Rio Monday to visit with his mother, Mrs. W. E. Riggs.

Flowers placed in your church as a memorial for one you loved add to the beauty of the Easter service and are enjoyed by all as they worship. We deliver... RIGGINS FLOWERS, adv.

Mrs. Paul Prunty came by plane from Redwood City, Calif., to El Paso and accompanied her sister, Mrs. Robert Hays, and family to Abilene to attend funeral services for her grandmother, Mrs. Susie D. Gabbert. She returned to Sanderson with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wrinkle, and will visit here for another week before returning home.

Local Thinclads Fare Well In Area Meets

Sanderson track teams fared well in meets over the area last weekend, considering the competition they had.

The varsity track team made their best showing of the season at the Cactus Relays in Iraan last Saturday. They were second in a field of five with the hosts winning the meet.

The 440-relay team finished second. They were Danny Galvan, Hector Chalambaga, Emilio Martinez, and Manuel Olivias.

Martinez was second in the 440-yard dash.

Leslie Hall was third in the intermediate hurdles.

Olivias was second in the 220-yard dash.

Eulalio Ybarra won the mile run.

The Sanderson mile relay team, the same as the 440-relay team, won that event and set a new record.

Other teams competing with Sanderson and Iraan were Wink, O'Donnell, and Christoval.

Chalambaga placed 4th in the 440-yard dash; Villegas was 5th in the 880; Bill Littleton was 5th in the 100-yard dash; and Galvan was 6th in the 220-yard dash.

Sanderson was awarded a trophy for placing second in the meet and another trophy for the mile relay win.

James Druse was the only one scoring points for the freshmen in the Kermit meet. He placed 2nd in the 70-yard high hurdles to give Sanderson a 9th place in a field of 11 Class 3A and 4A schools.

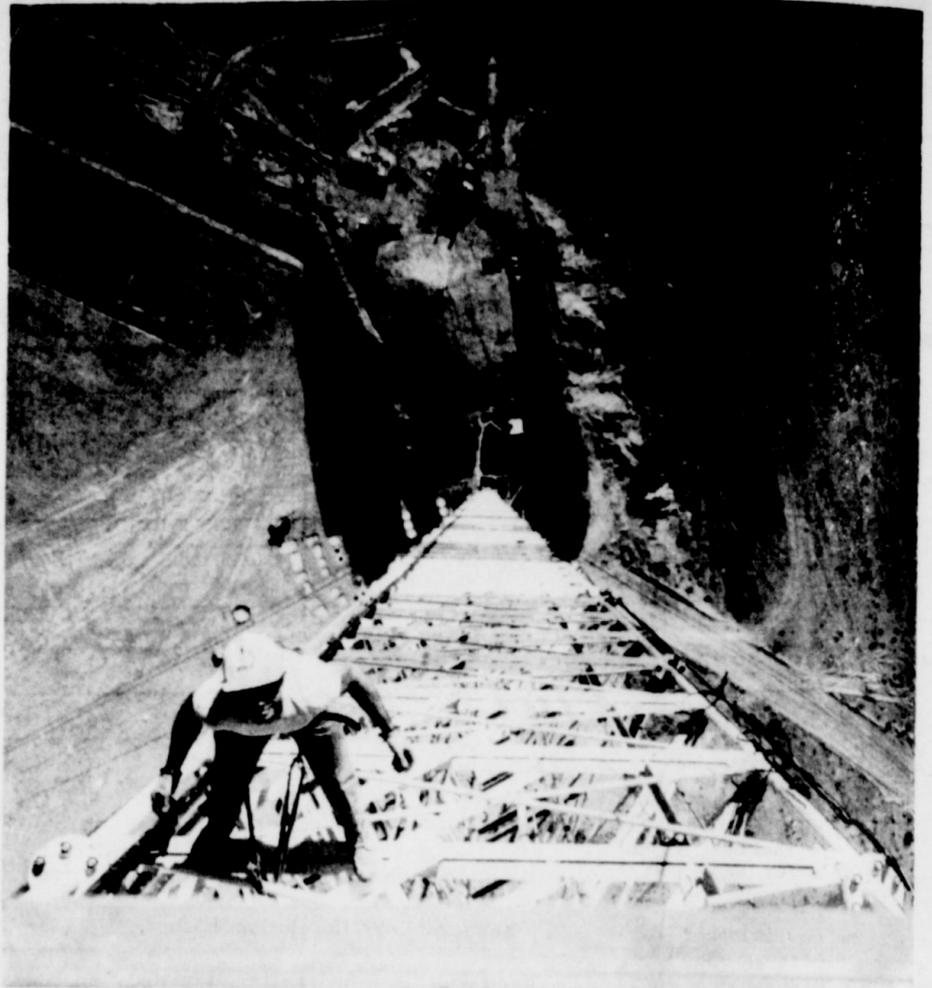

The seventh graders, weak from recent illnesses, failed to place in their meet at Kermit. But, according to Coach Roger Goertz, they were up against 3A and 4A schools with Rankin being the only other Class A team competing.

The eighth graders had the same competition but fared better - placing seventh in a field of 12 and being beaten by Kermit, Monahans, Big Spring, Pecos, and Fort Stockton.

Kendrick Harrell, Chago Flores, Raymond Galvan, and Juan Saenz were 3rd in the 880-relay and 3rd in the 440-relay.

Saenz was third in chinning, 3rd in the broad jump, and 4th in the 100-yard dash.

Raymond Galvan was 6th in the discus and 2nd in the 330-yard dash.

A small accelerator—commonly called an atom smasher—is mounted on a tower hoist. By raising and lowering the hoist, the distance and angle of radiation from the accelerator to experimental targets can be varied. One use of the facility is to measure the radiation shielding characteristics of various materials.

Easter Seals Aid Handicapped

"Do you know a handicapped person who needs help and isn't getting it?" is the question being asked by Charles G. Riggins, the Terrell County Easter Seal representative and the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

The Easter Seal Society offers rehabilitation services to help disabled persons and their families to find and make the most effective use of resources which will be helpful to them in developing their abilities and living more purposeful lives, Mr. Riggins said.

This is accomplished through direct treatments, services, education, research, and cooperative efforts with all other health agencies, private, state and federal. The Easter Seal Society does not duplicate, services, but strives to fill all unmet needs of the disabled, he added.

The Texas Easter Seal Society is carrying out its fortieth annual Easter Seal Appeal to finance a program of rehabilitation services for crippled children and adults. The Texas Easter Seal Society helps support 21 treatment facilities where children and adults are treated regardless of ability to pay. Physical therapy and speech and hearing programs are offered to help the disabled make their lives fuller, despite their handicaps.

Mr. Riggins urged every person in Terrell County to increase his or her support of the Texas Easter Seal Society and its program of services to the crippled children and adults.

He added that anyone who could benefit from rehabilitation services should contact him at the Riggins Jewelry Store, Sanderson, to request services from the Easter Seal Society.

Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Gilbreath and Mrs. Ben Martin were in Fort Stockton Friday for medical treatment.

Miss Ofalia Ochoa was in a Fort Stockton hospital for several days last week for medical treatment.

Traffic Accidents at Record High, Institute Reports

The annual economic loss from traffic accidents has doubled during the past ten years, the Insurance Information Institute stated, climbing from $7 billion in 1958 to more than $14.2 billion in 1968. The 1968 total was 14 per cent higher than the previous record figure of $12,442,000,000 in 1967.

Last year's tragic toll of death, injury and destruction on U.S. streets and highways represents an economic loss averaging $285 for every family in the country, the Institute said.

During 1968, there were 55,500 traffic deaths—the most fatalities ever recorded for any year, and 4.5 per cent above the death toll of 53,100 for 1967.

In addition, the number of persons injured in traffic accidents was estimated by the Institute at 4,560,000, an all-time high and an increase of almost 15 per cent above the 1967 figure of 4,200,000.

"Statistics of deaths and injuries do not begin to tell the story of the unnecessary personal grief and suffering that traffic accidents inflict each

Dr. Layton Cochran, Former Resident, Receives Honor

Two San Antonio doctors, Dr. Joel Layton Cochran and Dr. Max E. Johnson, were honored Sunday during Doctor's Day observances in that city. The festivities were sponsored by the women's Auxilliary to the Bexar County Medical Society. Citations were presented to the two doctors.

Dr. Cochran is well known here and is a brother of Carl Cochran of Fort Stockton, a former resident, and an uncle of Mrs. E. E. Harkins Jr., as well as having other relatives here.

He has served as president of the Bexar County Medical Society, president of the Texas Medical Association, president-elect of the Alamo Chapter of the Academy of General Practice, president of the International Medical Assembly of which he was district counselor for five years, leader of District 5 American Cancer Society, and a lay reader at the Travis Park Methodist Church.

Dr. Cochran served in the Army Medical Corps during World War II as chief of the surgical staff at Fort Amador, Panama. He was decorated for gallantry while with the 97th Evacuation Hospital in the European Theater prior to the Battle of the Bulge.

Accompanying the Eagle Band to Crane last Friday were Mmes. Louise Causey, Ray Clifford, Jack Riggs, Herbert Brown, and Malcom Bolinger, and Elaine Brown.

Virtually an exact reconstruction of a recently discovered Indian burial is a new exhibit at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

The skeletal remains of a woman, buried some 2,000 years ago, were discovered on the Martin King Ranch near Comstock in Val Verde County.

Using dirt found in the original burial to cover a plaster of paris type form, fabricators duplicated the unique burial.

She was buried in a foetal position, knees drawn up under her chin and head bowed.

At the time she died, she was considered to be old---between 35 and 45 years of age.

Despite the objects placed in the grave, as marks of her survivors' affection, the woman must have led a hard life.

Supper Honors SHS Seniors

The first social event to honor the graduating seniors of the Sanderson High School was the supper given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Stutes, Mrs. Wandah Alexander, Mrs. B. G. Maples and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carr, parents of four of the graduates, John Dewey Stutes, James Alexander, Buddy Carr and Barney Maples.

The supper was served in the dining room at the Oasis Restaurant on a U-shaped table covered in white cloths. The centerpiece on the head table was a boy and girl graduate, dressed in white and gold, standing beneath an archway covered in white daisies. The base, surrounded by a white ruffle edged in gold, was covered in green imitation grass. Further emphasizing the color scheme of gold and white were the mortar board and miniature diplomas attached to the place cards and a gold wish bone was tied with the bow on the diploma. A large world globe was on each side table.

After supper the group enjoyed a sing-song.

Besides twenty four seniors and the hosts, others present were Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Card, and Miss Patricia Reece, class sponsor.

Mrs. Gilbert Bell took her children to Odessa Friday for medical attention.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe N. Brown had their children in Fort Stockton Friday for medical treatment.

Rather slight, she was about five foot three to five foot six, and had tooth trouble. The few teeth she had left were bad, with many cavities and abscesses.

She was dug up August 14, 1968, by Archaeologist Robert K. Alexander of the Texas Archaeologist Salvage Project at Balcones Research Center in Austin, a part of the University of Texas.

The Indian woman, Institute

Research Associate Diane Johnson closely examines a recently discovered Indian burial, a new exhibit on which she worked at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio. The burial contained the skeleton of an Indian woman buried some 2,000 years ago.

HOUSE SPEAKER AND MEMBER DONATE ORGANS TO LIVING BANK

Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives Gus F. Mutscher signs forms donating organs of his body for transplantation or medical use through The Living Bank of Houston. Looking on are (left to right) Representative Jack Ogg of Houston, who also signed forms; Mrs. Floyd L. Karsten, president of The Living Bank and Dr. Robert D. Bloodwell, a member of Dr. Denton Cooley's transplant team and the first surgeon to sign up with The Living Bank. Speaker Mutscher and Representative Ogg co-sponsored a House Resolution commending The Living Bank for pioneering in the field of providing help to persons wishing to donate parts of their bodies. The Living Bank can be contacted at P. O. Box 6725, Houston, Texas, 77005. Representative Ogg is also a co-sponsor of House Bill 244 governing the gift of all or parts of the body after death. It is known as The Texas Anatomical Gift Act and hearings were completed recently concerning it.

researchers say, ate lizards, insects, spiders and occasionally rabbits, deer and rats. But, more often, her diet consisted of fibrous desert plants like lechuguilla and sotol leaves, or the fruit of the prickly pear. They were baked or roasted over coals. For variety, she had persimmon and wild walnuts.

She is believed to have been a member of a small nomadic band that roamed the countryside hunting, fishing and gathering seeds, fruits and plants. She was also probably a member of a typical tribal group that consisted of mother, father, children and grand parents.

And she had to travel by foot. Oxen were unknown, and horses had not yet been brought to Texas by the Spaniards.

Her home changed with the seasons. But she usually lived in a cave or in the shade of a river bank.

Upon her death, presumed to be from natural causes, she was buried in a pit, two feet in diameter and a foot and a half deep, dug in ash-filled soil.

They filled the pit with long-stemmed grass and wrapped her in a rabbit fur blanket. Mountain laurel were draped on her chest. Then she was covered with a layer of grass, checker-weave mat of sotol fibers and burned limestone rocks.

Her body was so well preserved by the heat from cook fires built several months after her death and by the dryness of the climate that part of her brain, viscera and muscles still remained. They are currently under analysis in an Austin laboratory, where tests are being run to determine what she ate for her last meal and the season of her death.

Her final resting place was in a large cave high up on a canyon wall.

The Beauty of it all
 by MARY LEE

And how do your orchids grow? Better with soap and water? Believe it or not, chemists at the University of California are investigating the beneficial effects of detergents on the growth of orchids seedling tissues. Who said soap suds aren't exotic! Other gardening experts tell us that you should always treat any seedlings with care and cleanliness. Apparently it's important to prevent infecting healthy young plants—to say nothing of the gardener—after handling any diseased plants. So, always wash hands thoroughly before handling seedlings, and also use fresh, clean water to dampen the flats.

Among other lesser-known soap and water facts is a new recommendation to wash music record discs occasionally. Seems that a major jukebox distributor suggests using a soft sponge, lukewarm water and light suds to wash the discs. Be sure to rinse thoroughly before laying the discs out to dry.

"People are surprisingly ignorant about proper leather care," says Larry Probeck, president of a leather company in Dallas (Mohawk Leather Co.). Although fine leather furniture should occasionally be treated to professional refinishing, he suggests that homemakers can keep it clean simply by using cheesecloth to wash it with a soapy lather. Rinse off the suds, wipe with a damp cloth, then a dry soft clean cloth. "It is never necessary to oil leather," he adds.

See what love the Father has given us.—(1 John 3:1).
 Some people need to know that they are important, that they are worthwhile. We have the capacity to help these people to find themselves—to become aware of their importance in God's good world. Your prayers, your faith in them, the love you pour out on them will help them to hear the voice of God in them saying, "You are my beloved child."
