MY SON, THE STRIPPER—

I suppose readers of the Scoop column get a little tired of family reports but the older I get the less I know about anything else and I did think that you might be interesting in knowing that my son is now a full fledged stripper. Now I know that as a rule, this sort of thing is done by the women-types in most places. I recall having seen one, a pretty young lass, who had to be one of the best strippers I've ever seen. She simply had no lost motion and made every move count. I would hope that, if he continues in this line of work, that son Hal will be as talented at stripping as she was.

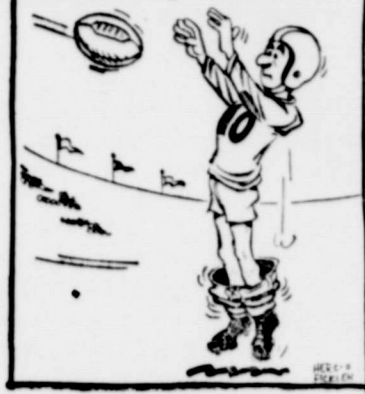

Stripping, as you know, is a term used in the printing business in which pictures and layouts are prepared for shooting by camera onto zinc or paper plates for offset printing. In the printing business, we have a lot of odd names like a stick, for instance. It's not something you use to pound a snake with; but to hand-set type in.

a good long while now it een my contention that we n a one-way track in our nment affairs — namely, ve have crossed a line of turn in which big govern-can never be reduced and ick more and more is go- taken from us in the form ce—call in income, social ty or oil imports—to sup- and partially finance an expanding bureaucracy.

those who saw the CBS al news report last Sunday called "Mr. Rooney Goes ashington," I think you must y have reached this same usion. It was one of the uch television reports that een that was not politically ed and made no effort to own any particular branch e government.

at it did show was that we now have in Washington a set-up that even Congress or the President, whoever might be elected, can do very little, if anything about bringing under control. As to what the eventual outcome of it all will be, I have no idea and I don't think anyone else does.

There might be some indication; however, in the fact that at a time when we are seeing large numbers of people laid off and big business cutting back, the monster in Washington gets ever bigger and keeps right on spending more and more. It's not pleasant to contemplate and for one to be optimistic these days, he is either very stout hearted or is living with his head in the sand unwilling to face the facts as they now stand and the almost foreboding evil that lurks ahead for us along the route we now travel. I honestly wouldn't know which nor can I make up my own mind as to the position I hold.

BY NATURE -

Sometimes over a coffee cup, Bill Miller and I discuss an assortment of situations. Those of you who know Bill are aware of the fact that he will debate you on just about any subject—and will take whichever side you don't want.

Now it has long been my contention that the biggest mistake ever made in Texas was when we joined the Union—that we could have been an independent nation and, much like the Swiss, have sat out all the wars that have been carried on by the U. S. and done business with both sides while remaining neutral; thus the Republic of Texas would have today been one of the richest and most prosperous nations in the world.

But Miller shot that theory full of holes. He maintained that had Texas remained a free Republic, one of two things would have happened: (1) the U. S. would have found an excuse for starting a war with us and would have taken us over by force; or (2) we would have found an excuse for starting a war with the U. S. and would have taken over the rest of the country.

I'm afraid I'll have to admit that Bill has a point well put there. In any case, I guess it's better to have Briscoe as Governor of Texas than President, as he would be if we were still a Republic.

Card of Thanks

THERE are no words we can use to properly express our thanks and appreciation to the people who have been so good to us during Mrs. Helmer's stay in the hospital. About all we can do is just say "Thank You" and that goes for everyone including Dr. Gossett and the hospital staff. Better neighbors would be hard to find.

Over the last weekend I had the opportunity to study at first hand the space program and was astonished and proud once more at the amazing achievement of American technology in sending man to the moon. This extraordinary achievement required a strong leadership, a firm national commitment and the cooperative efforts of American business and labor.

The undertaking took less than ten years, and achieved what few of us at the start thought possible.

I believe that it is now time for America to launch a similar effort to provide for the energy we need to allow us to continue to improve our standard of living and to maintain our position of world leadership. I will be writing more about how your government is working to assist in meeting our future energy needs, as I have been appointed to those committees in the Congress most concerned with meeting America's energy requirements. At this time, I would make only these few observations. (1) America today consumes 2½ times the energy it did in 1950. (2) Our energy consumption has been increasing much faster than either our population or our discovery of additional reserves. (3) Whereas we spent $3 billion on foreign oil in 1970, we spent $24 billion on

Austin Report

BY TOM CRADDICK
State Representative
68th District of Texas
P. O. Box 2910
Austin, Texas 78767

The 64th Texas Legislature officially got down to business with the election of Rep. Bill Clayton from Springlake as the Speaker of the House. Speaker Clayton has promised to provide strong yet impartial leadership in facing the many important issues this session. Lt. Governor foreign oil in 1974. (4) It takes several years from planning to completion to provide for new additional sources of energy. That means that in the next few years, we are likely to run short in energy supplies.

The newspapers may be talking of possible tax cuts and short-term moves to stimulate the economy, but the real task for Americans over the years ahead will be to find the means of fueling the economy of this great nation, and of maintaining a strong competitive, innovative economic system. That will require cooperation and ingenuity of all Americans. But I am convinced that if we could put a man on the moon in ten years, we can solve the energy needs of this nation.

ED. NOTE: Mr. Congressman, I was not aware of the fact that newspapers initiated tax cuts or economy stimulating plans. I've always labored under the apparent false assumption that those were among the duties of the Congress and the Administration. Just what is that you are supposed to do aside from writing pep talks?

Bill Hobby will again preside over the Senate. It was good to have my wife, Nadine, Christi, Tommy and my parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Craddick, with me at the swearing-in ceremony.

One of the first actions taken by the House was the adoption of the Rules under which the House will function. The new rules increase the number of committees and limit members to service on only two. This will serve to spread legislative power more evenly among members. The abolition of the daily oral roll call is seen as a move of trust in members to be honest about their attendance.

Governor Briscoe and Lt. Governor Hobby were sworn into office January 21 in a ceremony reflecting the general mood of all Texans in these days of economic instability. Lavish inaugural balls and parades of the past were cut in favor of economy. Also, for the first time since 1876 the executive officers of the State will be serving four year terms.

Last week, I was fortunate enough to be sent by Speaker Clayton to Washington to attend a White House briefing on economic and energy aspects of

A Reserve Champion Finewool

NICCI STEPHENS

President Ford's State of the Union message. In addition to President Ford, we met with Vice-President Rockefeller, Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton and William Simon, Secretary of the Treasury. It was truly a valuable and rewarding experience.

Speaker Clayton announced his choices for House Committee Chairmen and has also assigned each Representative to serve on two committees. I have been chosen as chairman of the Natural Resources Committee which will have jurisdiction over matters pertaining to the conservation of the natural resources of Texas. The committee will also deal with the development of land and water, irrigation and forest development and preservation. I will also serve on the Energy Committee which will be concerned with oil, gas and energy-related matters.

The legislature faces a heavy work load this session as bills are steadily being introduced. Public school financing, the possible establishment of a State Utilities Commission, and what to do about our Texas Constitution following the ill-fated Constitutional Convention of last year are all issues we need to have resolved.

A measure concerning an emergency pay raise for State employees was passed last week and is expected soon in the House.

from the Intensive Care unit in the hospital to a private room and converses daily with members of his family. Doctors report that he is in amazingly good physical condition to have withstood the rigors of his illness and operations.

Eagles... What Eagles

West Texas ranchers, who report losses each year of lambs to eagles—a point often disputed by conservationists who say the bird lives primarily from rodents and fish—will be encouaged to know that the Texas Wildlife Department reported a total of 646 eagle sightings in all of Texas last year.

According to some area ranchers, most of these must have been seen on their land.

The Department further reports that only one bald eagle was known to have been hatched in Texas last year, "although biologists report one other possible fledging."

Girl Scout Cookie Sale is More Than Your Ordinary Fund Raising Effort

Good salesmanship has always been an important facet of American financial life. So, the next time you are sold a box of cookies by an eager, green-clad youngster, take a moment to reflect.

That Girl Scout, as part of the largest voluntary sales force in the country, is not in the fundraising business for Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. What she is doing is selling a valuable means to a necessary end. She is earning some of the funds for her own troop's activities which may encompass a wide range of projects. At the same time, she is learning intelligent money management, its use, and the whys of budgets.

Each time you take a bite of the tasty, quality cookies; you are contributing in part to a special way of life here in the community. Proceeds are used to help local girls participate in special Girl Scout opportunities; purchase equipment in their behalf, maintain and improve the council's campsites, and provide for campership. Every penny earned by these sales remains in the Permian Basin Girl Scout Council.

So, enjoy your Girl Scout cookies—their sale alone makes such things possible.

The same five delicious varieties of cookies will be sold — peanut butter, mint, chocolate chip, butter flavored shorties, and assorted sandwich.

The cookies sale mean camp for hundreds of girls throughout the Permian Basin. Please say "yes" when a Girl Scout knocks on your door.
