Neighbors Pitch In To Help Troubled Family

It's nothing new for folks in the Sudan area to assist their neighbors, but the recent experience of the W. E. Shaffer family of Sudan underlines with emphasis just how far the community will go to help out friends in trouble.

A lifetime resident of Sudan, Shaffer, 50, learned just before Christmas that he has leukemia, and since has been forced to divide his time between home and hospitals, with continuing treatments for the disease.

Although the news made the outlook for Christmas rather bleak for Shaffer, his wife, Thelma, and their daughter, Laurie, a 20-year-old McMurry College student, the gift of a "money tree" sprouting all $500 brightened the outlook considerably.

Members of the Fisherman's Club of the Sudan First Methodist Church donated most of the money, with additional donations coming from other Methodists and friends from outside the church. The dollar bills tens and fives were pinned to a small Christmas tree and taken to the Shaffer. Shaffer has been a member of the Sudan Methodist Church since the summer of 1924, and is other present member of the church has been a member any longer.

Then, between Christmas and New Year's, 19 men combined their efforts, tractors and equipment to put Shaffer's farm land in shape. Eleven tractors were sent to the farm. Among those who took part in the project by working personally, lending equipment or hands were the following:

James Wallace, Webb Watts, Claude Rosson, Kenneth Burgess, Truman Parrish, W. C. Masten, Bob Masten, Mike Masten, Ken Minyard, Chub Morrow, Frank Lane, Byron Ford, Jimmy Ford, Donny Ford, Doyle Terrell, Audrey West, Coleman Terrell, Tom McKinzie, Bruce Newman.

"It's difficult to put into words any statement that will fully express how grateful we are for everything that people have done for us", Shaffer said. "But it does make you appreciate how good people can be."

Amherst girls, coached by Willis Hodges, came from behind a 11-2 first quarter deficit and a 17-10 halftime score which had Sudan leading. Amherst finally won it 32-28 in a double overtime, after the regulation game ended at 25-25, and the first overtime ended 28-21. In the second overtime, Amherst guard Sherry Tumes stole the ball twice, and guard Katie Hendrich grabbed a couple of rebounds to prevent Sudan from scoring, while Wade Duhon hit one free throw and Kirby Campbell hit two in a row to tie the game for Amherst.

There's ever walking side by side,
To be accepted or denied,
A right or wrong that fills each day,
That never fails to come our way.
A task that we're to live, to do,
Is making choice between the two.
We find it's one continuous fight,
To always stand for what is right.
