WOODWORK

BY DALTON

THERE'S A YOUNG lady by name of Conchita Goumes in a little village in Spain who claims to have talked with the Virgin Mary and with the archangel St. Michael.

She reported that the archangel "gave me an important message which I shall impart at the proper time in writing."

The natural and most common reaction to the girl's claim, or to the entire story, is a smile of dismissal. Anytime a person starts trying seriously to convince anyone else that he or she has talked with the angels, that person immediately is a candidate for the happy house.

That's as incredulous as a yarn told by some fellows in the Holy Land who claimed that they saw and talked with a man who had been dead three days earlier after being crucified.

So maybe the girl's story is true, for all I know.

THREE-FOURTHS of the pharmaceutical prescriptions offered today are for drugs that were not available in 1950, we understand.

It's getting harder and harder for a conscientious hypochondriac to be able to take every kind of pill there is. Expensive too.

THERE'S THIS guy who is a real fan of wrestling, and he informs me that wrestling attendance is increasing all the time, and that each match is greater than the one before it, and so forth.

He even tells me about this "80-year-old lady" who sat behind him at a match the other night and who was also an enthusiastic fan. I don't know how he knew she was 80, nor am I sure she was a lady.

Personally, I can't think of anything I have less use for than wrestling, although it takes all kinds of people to make the world.

Some people who really ought to know better actually pay money to see these flaccid put on by a bunch of bums who can claim more pain with less injury than one of my kids.

And every one of these guys is the champion of something or other, even if it's just the block of the residential district in which they live.

IN 1964, there were 2,3 million construction workers in the United States, a gain of 300,000 since 1961. This goes to show that it takes more people to make up a job than it used to.

Missionary To Brazil Visits Here

Dr. Thurman Bryant, President of the Baptist Theological Seminary in Sao Paulo, Brazil, and his family have been visiting in Sudan this week. Dr. Bryant and his wife, Doris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Morris graduated from Sudan High School in 1947.

Dr. Bryant said that he came home at this time because he had a chance to attend the Baptist World Alliance that will be conducted June 25-30. The president of this year Baptist World Alliance is a Brazilian pastor, so Brazil is very interested in the Alliance this year.

The Southern Baptist allowed each missionary to Brazil who wanted to pay his own way to the United States and back to Brazil to have a month leave and attend the Baptist World Alliance. The Bryants were very glad to get the opportunity to come home, one reason being that neither of their families had seen the newest Bryant son who is now nine-months old.

In speaking of his family, Dr. Bryant said that his two elder boys, Larry, 9 and Danny 7 were born in Texas, but his two younger boys, David, 3 and Randy, 9 months were born in Brazil. Bryant said that family life is conducted much the same as it is in the United States. Larry attends an American school in Sao Paulo. Danny, however, attends a Brazilian school. Doris Bryant teaches in the seminary, works with the churches and with the Women's Missionary Union.

Whenever Dr. Bryant begins to speak about Brazil he becomes very enthusiastic and in his words he says, "I can hardly stop talking about Brazil when I begin." The Bryant family now consider Sao Paulo their home and plan to spend their lives working here for the Lord.

Dr. Bryant and his wife both graduated from Baylor University in Waco in 1951. In 1959, Bryant received the Doctor of Theology Degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He pastored Baptist churches in the Dallas and Fort Worth area for eight years before coming to the mission field. Bryant has now been on the Brazilian Mission field for seven years. Before moving to Sao Paulo, the Bryant family lived in the interior of Brazil in a town of about 80,000 people. In this town, Bryant stated the Baptist Bible Institute of Brazil, where the Bryants are now stationed has a population of 5,000,000 people. He said that the city is ultra modern and is the fastest growing city in the world. The city is noted for its big automobile industry even though the largest percentage of the Brazilian people do not own automobiles.

The Baptist Theological Seminary that Dr. Bryant is president of has 62 students enrolled with a faculty of 23 persons. The seminary is also very old and is located in downtown Sao Paulo. The seminary at present consists of one building, but they are planning to tear down the building and build a chapel and a four-story building. The total cost of the building project will be $120,000.

Other than serving as president of the Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. Bryant also pastors two churches, writes Sunday School lessons, teaches in the seminary, writes articles for newspapers and magazines, and is also working on three different books which should be published this year.

Dr. Bryant is also working with the Department of Vocational to encourage the Brazilian youth to consider the ministry as a full-time vocation. At present the department has enrolled 700 students who are receiving help and orientation before they go into the ministry.

Brazil is now involved in a great evangelistic campaign. Bryant says that a big part of his time in Brazil is now taken up in revivals that he is sponsoring for the revival campaign. Bryant stated that the Brazilian people are very receptive to the gospel and many of them are accepting Christ as their Savior.

Besides all the other above named duties of the busy missionary, Dr. Bryant is also responsible for looking after the personnel and needs of 235 missionaries in Brazil. Even though Dr. Bryant is very busy on his Sudan field, he said that his work is a very interesting and rewarding experience.

Dr. Bryant also is trying to start an evangelistic radio program in Brazil. He also plans to offer a Bible correspondence course with the program for the Brazilian people.

In speaking of Brazil, Bryant said that it is a land that has no wind, storms, no tornadoes or cyclones, and no earthquakes. It is a progressive country with highways and railroads being built toward the interior of Brazil. Brazil is made up of 22 states with one state three times as large as Texas. Through this state flows the Amazon River which is 60 miles wide at its widest point.

In describing the economic status of the Brazilian people, Dr. Bryant said that the average income of the Brazilian workman is $50.00 each month. He said that the standard of living of the average Brazilian is low. The average Brazilian considers himself very lucky if he can eat meat once a week. Most of the time, the Brazilian meal consists of rice and beans.

The prices in Brazil would seem low for the American, but to the Brazilian who makes only $50.00 a month, the prices are very high. For instance, the price of meat is 35c per pound. The automobile prices, however, are very high. The average automobile made in Brazil costs $4000 and an imported Impala Chevrolet cost $15,000.

The Bryant family stays in the mission field for five years and come home for one year on furlough. The last time the Bryants were home on furlough, they took 9 big boxes of clothing back to Brazil with them. Dr. Bryant said that the clothing was a tremendous help and he expressed his appreciation to the Sudan people for their generous gifts.

The Bryants left yesterday to go to Miami, Florida to attend the Baptist World Alliance. They will be back in Sudan next week and will leave July 15 to go back to Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Mrs. Willie Wood announced that Dr. Bryant will speak at the First Baptist Church, Sunday morning, July 4.

TRAVEL TIME FASHIONS

On summer vacation, who wants to spend precious time worrying about wrinkles in her travel wardrobe? A girl can find better things to do on holiday. Knowing this, Douglas Marc has designed two perfect travel dresses in permanently pleated fabrics of Eastman Kodak polyester and cotton. The permanent pleating gives with body movements just as a stretch fabric does. As a matter of fact, both fashions give you a performance similar to that of most knits and are machine-washable-and-dryable. The Seral print (left) has a shallow neckline with shoulder ties and low, loose belting. A slender shift (right) in solid color bypasses the waistline, has a loose tie belt and a band of pleating at the hemline. Colors include turquoise, white and black.

TIPS for OUTDOORSMEN
 Macaroni for Bait
 Cooked macaroni cut into short chunks makes a fine bait for bream and other small fish.
 Keep Baiting Bag Handy
 If you're in a fishing tournament and catch a fish you think might win a prize, wrap it in a wet burlap bag for transport. A fish can lose as much as 10 per cent of its weight drying out.
 Use for Cheese Cloth
 Fresh beef liver makes a good catfish bait. But it is difficult to keep on a hook. Try wrapping the liver in cheese cloth. Fibers absorb the blood and bind with the liver but hold the bait together.
 Lock Makes Gun Safe
 A common lock can make a gun safe.
 Get one with a U-shank big enough to prevent the trigger from having enough room to be pulled back and fired. Then lock it in place.
 Bread-Made Guts
 A shell from an oven or old refrigerator makes a fine complete gnat.
 Prevent Flying Snails
 If you must clean fish at home, try inserting fish in large plastic bag before scaling. Clear bag allows you to see what you are doing, but snails can't escape.
 Warm Soak Shiner Bait
 When applying dressing to your favorite baits, heat baits of hot water. Warm baits catch better than cold baits.
 Wash Spoons in Potato Bath
 Tarnished and dull spoons and spinners can be polished by soaking overnight in water your wife boils potatoes in. Next morning they gleam.
 Bobber Keeps Keys Afloat
 When fishing it's wise to tie a fishing bobber to your key chain. Then if you drop the chain into the water it will float until you can retrieve it.
 To Free Jammed Shells
 A fingernail file makes a handy tool to free shells that jam in automatic shotguns.
 Quick Refreeze Helps
 Here's a tip for keeping wild game in better condition in your freezer.
 Freeze game the regular way, then remove and dip in water. Refreeze immediately.
 Gassed ice covering provides an additional seal to help keep oxygen out.
 Waxed Line Works Smoother
 Run your spinning line over a block of wax if you want to make it slide through reel guides much easier.
 Good Water Cover
 An old long-sleeved work shirt makes a good cover for an outdoor table.
 Baited shirt and slip it over power head. The cover underneath to hold cover securely in place.
 Steam Snapper Baiting
 Steam a thin rubber band against your line before adding a pinch-on sinker. Cut the excess rubber band away after cinching. Sinker will stay put.
 Quick Pressing Job
 Clothes get wrinkled in duffel bags.
 If you need a quick press in a motel, hang your clothes in the shower room, then turn the shower on hot. Steam heat fills the room and relaxes the wrinkles.
 Lure Decouraging
 Know how you can retouch your lures to get tiny scale-like dots?
 First, trim the bristles on a painter's duster. Then dip bristle ends in paint, shake off the excess and just barely touch bristles to lure.
 Use Spoon to Make Lure
 If you're on a camp-out fishing trip and fish are hitting but you run out of lures, here is one answer to your problem.
 Take an ordinary tablespoon and drill a hole in the handle and one in the end of the spoon. Then with a piece of string tie in a tackle hook to the lip of the spoon. Tie your line to the hole in the handle.
 Make a few practice casts, then bend the spoon to provide the right action.
 Line Straightener
 These last few feet on a spool of monofilament line have a way of getting kinky. These making it difficult to fish and to retrieve line on reel. You can take out the kinks by rubbing the line back and forth over the rubber band of your foot.

General Telephone Installs New System

A faster, more efficient method of receiving information on long distance telephone calls will be placed in effect this month in General Telephone Company of the Southwest's Littlefield toll center.

Called "mask meter" ticketing, the new procedure is described by General's Littlefield district manager Alan Waldrop as "... a purely automatic operation once it has passed from the operator's hands."

Using specially treated graphite lead pencils, operators record information such as the calling exchange, the calling number, whether the call is station-to-station, person-to-person, collect, etc., on a laboratory designed ticket which includes zones of boxes or "bubbles." From these tickets are fed through a machine which sorts and bills the customer.

From the time that the operator completes the long distance ticket until the toll charge appears on the customer's bill, all rate computation, sorting and other mechanical handling of the information is purely automatic.

General Telephone's Littlefield toll center serves as the "master" long distance office for 14 area communities. Exchanges include Amberst, Anton, Earth, Mulenshoe, Olton Speda, Springlake, Sudan and Whitarral. Long distance calls originating and terminating in Bula, Fieldton, Larist, Lubuddle and Needmore are also handled in this office. A total of 45 people are employed in the Littlefield toll center.

Waldrop pointed out that one year ago we were handling around 1400 long distance calls per day, whereas today the average is running close to 3400. This calls for more valuable means of handling long distance messages.

In addition to its long distance operations, General's Littlefield district also provides local phone services for 12 South Plains communities.

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

The Texas Forest Service has 91 fire lookout towers located on high ridges throughout the pine-hardwood area of East Texas. These towers, manned during fire weather, help to protect 114 million acres from forest fires. Each tower is equipped with a two-way radio. Quick communication about the origin of a fire permits speedy suppression.

In him we live, and move, and have our being.

—(Acts: 17:28).

We live in a good climate, a God climate. God or good is all around us. We see only good, because we are surrounded by it. Since our climate is God, we have only peaceful happy feelings. No longer do we let other people or situations upset us. Because we live in good, we are not anxious. God is our all.

There's ever walking side by side,
To be accepted or loved,
A right or wrong that fills each day,
That never fails
to come our way.
A task that we're to live, to do,
In making choice between the two;
We find it's our continuous fight,
To choose ahead for what is right.

BLESSED ARE YE.....
WHEN ?

Scripture: St. John 6:28-29, St. John 14:6.

"And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?"

Stand on a street corner, any corner, and ask each one who passes by: "Where are you going, to heaven or to hell?" Then check to see how many answer you get that are "I am going to hell."

But Jesus, the only begotten Son of God, said why call Him Lord, and do not the things which he said. And, He also said, "No man cometh to the Father, but by me."

So, if only Jesus can reconcile us to our Creator and Father if there truly is no other way into the eternal Father's house as His eternal Child, then why do you turn away from accepting Jesus as your personal Savior and Lord?

God cares so much, wants you and me so much, that He gave His only begotten Son to die in payment of our sin that we might return unto Him. No other way has ever been provided, or ever will be, for man to live eternally. God chose to save us, redeem us from sin and death, after man chose to leave Him to die. God had given His death sentence for sin to man, and His word given is eternally given, never changed.

So, still loving man even in his wickedness, God provided a perfect sin-offering in Jesus, who died in your place and mine, that we personally might choose life or death. There is no life outside of Jesus Christ—only physical existence, then death and hell eternally. God seeks even unto death to save you and me from that fate. Does anyone else love you that much?

Certainly no one else but God has the power of life and death, and also loves you enough to willingly die in agony, pain, sorrow, and shame to pay for your sin. God cares about you; do you care in response to such great love?

One person this week was telling me about their experience with Christ, as they saw themselves before Him, and accepted Him as a free gift as their way into eternal life in God's family. One thing said was that they, being reared in a Christian home, was aware that they needed to do something in order to live forever with God in heaven—and hearing church bells one Sunday morning they thought they should go to church, but the idea came that it would be so many "going to church" for so long every Sunday, doing so many things, in order to be saved—and they almost despaired of being able to do all this.

Then turning on a radio, the message of God came forth that only in Christ are we saved, not by any of our works. And this person witnessed that she was a changed person—changed from a sinner to a

THE ETHERAL WIND

By MERLE HUGHES

In our reading this week, we see some other statistics on Telstar. Robert G. Lee in his Handbook of 200 Discoveries gives some of the following statistics on Telstar.

"Telstar is a 36 1/2 inch sphere, it weighs one hundred and seventy pounds and has fifteen thousand parts. The planned orbit around the equator, 5,705, feet high, 5,400 miles. Orbit period one hundred fifty-six minutes. It has an expected life of two years. Spemann Bell Telephone Laboratories and Telegraph Co., in cooperation with National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The purpose: Test broadband microwave communication in space; study effects of radiation and micrometeorites on satellites. Cost: About fifty-million dollars."

In his book, Lee went on to say, "It is considered to be one of the greatest scientific advances in the history of mankind. Research engineers sent a newspaper front page into space and back in one minute via Telstar. Among other things, the method used in the experiment could be applied in publishing a world-wide daily newspaper, with the same edition being printed within minutes in locations thousands of miles apart. At its closest point during the experiment, Telstar passed 1,207 miles away. Its farthest point was 5,705 miles. Telstar's capacity is six-hundred telephone channels on one television channel."

It always fascinates us to see the new inventions of scientist stems saved by God's grace (unearned love) through accepting Christ.

Knowing this forgiveness, in response to such love, Christians seek fellowship with each other, and especially seek to be together in worship of the Lord who is their light and life forevermore. Christians daily strive eagerly and joyfully to be more like Jesus, to do His will and work.

So, where are you going? Will you seek life, or drift on to death and hell? The choice is yours, and you are making a choice. God wants you, seeks you, died for you, forgives you when you repent, waits for you... Choose Jesus, and let Him give you eternal life. The works that you do then for His glory, as His Child, are no longer unlovely dreary, but a joyous love-offering and wonderful opportunity to have a part in His service to others.

Where are you going? Is Jesus truly your Lord?

Workers in the Nursery Department were: Mrs. Raymond Simpson, Mrs. Jennie Simpson, Mrs. O. L. Turner, Mrs. R. C. Wilson, Mrs. Willie Dutz, Mrs. May West, Mrs. Louisa Ray, Mrs. Betty Williams, and Mrs.

SPEAKING OF AREA-DIFFERENCES

in our highly scientific world. We have seen over television, events that have happened across the ocean via Telstar. How wonderful it is to live in such a scientific age, but how sad it is to see some look to mankind for the answers to life's problems instead of to the Father.

Even though Telstar can do the various things that have been proved, we are still of the conviction that we have something that is far more wonderful than the satellite or any other great achievement that our scientist have invented. We do know that we can expect to live a longer and more normal life than we could fifty years

Gilbert Churchman.

The Primary Department workers were: Kay Baker, Andrea Ritchie, Rue Jean Hancock, and Mrs. Louise Bullock.

Beginner workers were: Mrs. John Buth, Mrs. Dan Provence, Miss Fisher, Nancy Lance, Mrs. Gus Bellamy, and Mrs. Tom Chisholm.

The Junior Department was divided into two age groups. The ones working with the 9-10 year old Juniors were: Mrs. Louell Serratt, Mrs. Fred Meeks, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Oscar Vincon, Mrs. Jean Harvey, Mrs. Emma Turner, and Mrs. Pete Lanca.

Adults working with the 11-12 year old Juniors were: Mrs. Evelyn Ritchie, Mrs. Sue Chester, Mrs. James Arnold, Miss Hardy, Mrs. Betty Seefield, Charlene Powell, and Martha Markham.

Intermediate workers were: Mrs. LeVerne Hazel, Mrs. Hazel Savage, and Mrs. Edgar White.

Rev. Hazel said that the First Baptist Church had a good Vacation Bible School this year. The school collected $34.00 for the mission offering that was sent to the Southern Baptist Cooperative Program. They also collected $491.00 that was used to take care of the Vacation Bible School expenses.

The First Baptist Bible School was preceded by a one week Bible School that was held at the Mexican Baptist Mission. The school at the mission had an enrollment of 65 and an average attendance of 57.

'Schott Cap' Road Is Rugged Trail Into Area History

Visit To Region Today Like Journey Into Past

By DONALD HOOD

SILVERTON — Three wagons, loaded with supplies, pulled to a stop at the rim of Schott Cap. Their canvas, although tied securely over their cargo, whipped sharply in the Caprock wind. Otherwise, only an occasional bird-call disturbed the silence of the train's lofty resting place and the panorama of rugged ranch land below.

The drivers crawled from their wagons and stood quietly, studying the new road that would take them down the Cap.

A tall lanky man took off his hat and wiped sweat from his balding pate. He was thinking of past years when only a half-road led off Schott Cap and his mind could feel how the ropes had burned his hands as he helped ease the wagons down steep drops. He welcomed this new road with its hairpin curves that would enable him to ride down normally. He had heard even Model T's could scraggle down this grade.

The men returned to their wagons.

A weather-beaten hand snapped a long black whip, and the wagons moved out, cranking along between sage brush and cedar, past yucca and the yellow blooms of sprawling prickly pear.

Ghost Road

Five decades later, at the same point on Schott Cap where that long-forgotten wagon train paused to rest before descending, little has changed except the road. Weather and abandonment have wrinkled its once proud face. Sage, weeds, clods and crevasses are reclaiming it as part of the natural terrain.

Otherwise, time has stood still at Schott Cap.

Stretching from the brink of the Cap is the same wild beauty of the brakes country — miles of it.

Now-deserted Schott Cap road, built by Briscoe County about 1913 as a transportation lifeline between Plains and Caprock towns, snakes an angled descent down the steep cliff and meanders across rolling ranch land to lose itself in the horizon.

And in the sky, visible only to those who care to remember, ghost wagons rock along on the clouds.

Retracing The Past

A woman who remembers vividly is Mrs. W. E. Schott, owner of Schott Ranch.

During a recent tour of Schott Cap guided by the vigorous 82-year-old Mrs. Schott, a colorful narrative dating back to Indian days was unfolded.

Despite a cedar-bending gale blowing from the southwest, the petite Mrs. Schott stepped unhesitatingly onto a precipice about 12 inches square which sheered straight down — too many hundred feet.

With arm outstretched, Mrs. Schott pointed. "Over there, near that round hill, is where we found the Indian camp. We still have some of the teepee poles."

Turning northward, she continued, "That mountain in the distance — toward the east — is where Mr. Schott lived in a dugout when he first came here."

Then she asked, "Would you like to see the old Indian trail down the Cap? Come this way."

Skirting the rim of the Cap, she led the way to a rock-filled cleft. Spiraling dizzily downward was the faint remnant of a footpath.

"When my husband first arrived, this was the only trail down. Ranchers have filled it with rock now to keep stock from straying."

Strolling back, Mrs. Schott calmly stepped out onto a craggy overhang and said, "If you will come here and look straight down you can see the first hairpin curve of Schott Cap road."

Down The Road

Back at the point where the road first dips off the Cap, we crawled into the station wagon — Mrs. Schott in the passenger seat — and began, slowly, to make our descent.

Huge clods — the boulders of tomorrow — had broken from cliffs and rolled onto the road. Weeds claimed the center and sides of fading wheel tracks.

As we inched along, sizzling cracks weathered into the ledge began creeping closer and closer to the car's wheels.

Up ahead loomed a buckled once-underground culvert. The car stopped.

"We can drive on as far as the first hairpin curve," Mrs. Schott insisted. But a green-busied Herald photographer got out and walked.

Graciously, Mrs. Schott joined the hike.

Several rock-strewn leagues later, we rounded a bluff and the hairpin curve lay in sight.

To our right was an enormous crevasse — varying six to ten feet deep before it disappeared below. Car wheels would have been forced to pass over one edge of it.

So washed was the road that in places it resembled a dry river bed. Jarring depressions and rises lay here and there and the big clods were everywhere.

"You see," Mrs. Schott remarked, "We could have driven down without trouble by stopping and removing a few rocks."

Remnants of First Road
Mrs. Schott had easily gained

MRS. SCHOTT WITH ARTIFACTS -- Ranch owner Mrs. W.E. Schott holds a mano and displays a metate used by Indians to grind corn. A metate three times the size of that depicted, as well as a perfectly round one, have been found on the Schott Ranch.

FADING CONTOUR -- Time and abandonment are covering Schott Cap road with prairie growth, fusing its once well-traveled outline into the surrounding countryside. Picture shows road as it appears today near its starting point.

CREVASSE -- Dug by washing rains, crevasses are creeping across the deserted road. Wheels of a car would pass over six-foot deep point at bottom of picture.

the lead and was several feet ahead.

She called back, "Would you like to see the first road off the Cap?" She was pointing upward toward canyon walls.

To our left, large heaped rocks cascaded from the rim of the Cap to disappear in foliage near our feet.

"That road was built to replace the Indian trail," she said. "Road? And, 'Who used it?"

"Why, everyone, of course."

"How?"

"Oh, with wagons, horses — like any other road."

"Straight up."

"It's filled with rocks now," she explained, "because of stock."

As the reporter paused to contemplate the enormity of the task of getting wagons down that jump-off first road, Mrs. Schott said, "Here, Dear — let me carry that camera. You look tired."

A Little Further

Around the hairpin curve, on a lower and more level ledge, the view was less alarming and the rugged beauty of Schott Ranch more easily absorbed.

Mrs. Schott designated where the county road diverges with the original Schott road which curved to our left and led to the ranch house. The portion which continued straight, although densely overgrown, was fairly visible cutting down — country, occasionally disappearing — led a hill to reappear again and continue into the distance.

As we walked, the road grew steeper. Looking over the water gulf, we turned back toward the cap.

Back on the cap, Mrs. Schott pointed the road and said, "This is the road that led to the cap."

"You will have to look the way up to the top."

"Which way, after a visit to the ranch house and a look — on teague poles, an oldtime ONT thread box and other conveniences from the past, we were driving along a blunderingly solid ranch road.

Mrs. Schott spoke up. "Slow down a bit. Over to our right is where we found the ancient levees along the creek. They are very old — left either by the early Spaniards or Indians of that period."

Breeding Indian

In later conversation, Mrs. Schott related, "There is one memory that has always haunted me."

"Soon after the Cap road was built, my husband and I were driving along when we stopped an Indian standing at the top of the old original road. Nearly was his big car and a driver.

"The Indian was very old — with long white hair and broad, wrinkled face. He stood very still, shading his eyes with one hand.

"He was staring out across the countryside below — completely deserted. We watched a long time. He never moved — but kept looking, looking, looking as though something were being done in his memory. Or perhaps looking on last remnant with something due to him.

"I had the feeling he had lived down there once — which would have been many, many years ago. Curiously something told me my dream."

"We did not disturb him, but down at I have always imagined that we did not talk with him — he might have told us many stories about our land."

looked back and he still stood there — motionless. Like a statue. And now we will never know the secret things he was seeing."

ROAD BUILDERS -- This early-day photo taken around 1912 shows workmen clearing boulders from the path of Schott Road when it was under

EARLY CAR, NEW ROAD -- One of the Schott family's first automobiles travels Schott road when it was newly completed and a major improvement in area transportation. Picture was made about 1913 and is a family treasure.

Palo Duro Theater Opens

A "Best of its kind" theater for the Palo Duro region opened today in Palo Duro Community Center.

Flower arrangements, built into the side of the canopy, was built through a joint effort of Canyon area residents and the show. It was designed to accommodate large crowds to preserve the history of the area.

The first production to be shown in the amphitheater will be "Thundering Hoops of the West," directed by their producers at "a show in the night and sound."

The show will trace the development of the area from its beginning through the history of the area since the 1800,000 years ago, through its gradual change to a ranch, until it reached its present form.

The second part of the show will trace the expansion of the area from the first Indian occupation, through Spanish occupation and into settlement by early ranchers.

The Texas Petroleum Heritage Foundation conceived the idea for the theater and received guidance and advice from playwright Paul Green, who's specialty is writing outdoor spectacle dramas.

The theater will remain open each day except Tuesday during the summer, closing Sept. 6.
