WOODWORK

BY DALTON

A BUNCH of the boys were whooping it up the other night when someone asked someone else if he wanted a drink. Someone Else answered, "I'll take sassa-parilla," and almost immediately I came up with this question: "What is sassa-parilla, anyway?"

"I dunno," came the reply. "But it must make you awfully strong, because every time one of those fellows in the movies orders the stuff, he whips about six guys before he gets out of the saloon."

So I determined to do a little research, and in my own scientific way, questioned the next 10 people I saw about what is sassa-parilla. Nobody knew, which proves either that (1) the stuff just isn't in demand anymore or (2) I travel with a pretty stupid crowd.

Finally I went to Webster for enlightenment. The first thing I discovered is that it's not sassa-parilla. It's SASSAPARILLA. In Webster's New World Dictionary, college edition, which Plainview Herald Sports Editor Foster Johnson uses to hide his unpaid bills in, one may find sassa-parilla about midway between sardine and sassafras. Sassa-parilla surely can't be too tasty, lying between those two.

Anyway, Webster says sassa-parilla is "any of a number of related tropical American plants with large fragrant roots and toothed, heart-shaped leaves, or the dried roots of any of these," used for flavoring. It goes on to mumble something about carbonated water.

So the best I can figure is that when the smooth-faced hero in the white hat saunters up to the bar amongst all the bearded tobacco-chewers and orders "sassa-parilla", he gets carbonated water, with fragrant dried roots and maybe some toothy leaves in it.

No wonder he goes on a tear and wrecks the joint.

Lumpkin Food Store Burglarized Sunday

A break-in at Lumpkin Food Store early Sunday morning by persons unknown resulted in the theft of a large safe which was taken out of the store by breaking through the front glass door. The robbery occurred sometime between midnight and 6:00 a. m. Signs indicated that the safe had been loaded on a pickup or truck at the store, and then fell off or was dropped, and dragged down Main Street, south on Hwy. 303 for about two miles out of town before it was loaded again into the truck.

Noel Lumpkin, owner of the store, discovered the theft when he came to check on equipment about 7:30 Sunday morning. He reported that the stolen safe contained a considerable amount of cash and checks, as well as other items. He also stated that nothing else in the store was taken by the thieves. # Devotional

By HAZEL HOUSE

Selected verses of scripture from Isaiah 45, 53, 59, and from St. John 3.

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me:

That they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else.

I have made the earth, and created man upon it; I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their hosts I commanded.

Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else.

Who hath believed our report? And to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For He shall grow up before Him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground: He hath no form nor comeliness; and when we shall see Him, there is no beauty that we should desire Him.

He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from Him; He was despised, and we esteemed Him not.

Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted.

But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed.

All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all.

Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither is His ear heavy, that it cannot hear:

But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid His face from you, that He will not hear.

"And looking upon Jesus as He walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!"

For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved.

Is This Way to Eliminate Crime?

Concerned about the increase in crime in our country, some Americans have decided to do something about it.

It is hardly news any more when the Federal Bureau of Investigation reports, as it did recently, that crime is up again in all categories. We should be shocked, angered, and incensed when we read that there were 29 percent more robberies in 1968 than in the previous year—which also showed a deplorable increase in crime over the year before.

How Much Longer? But we're not shocked. We apparently take it as a matter of course, now, that conditions will become worse every year. How long can this be allowed to continue?

Over-all crime was up 18 percent in cities and suburban areas, 12 percent in rural parts of the country.

However, in Indianapolis, the Women's Anti-Crime Crusade is working to bring crime under control in that city. Women there have been working together for seven years in this program to make the city safe for law-abiding citizens. Progress, while not spectacular, has been encouraging.

On the other hand, the members of the Detroit Common Council have voted to try a different approach to the problem of controlling one kind of crime—prostitution.

By a 6-2 vote, the Common Council has approved a Model Cities program which includes legalized prostitution in isolated areas of the city.

The plan has been submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development with the hope of getting a $100 million grant for this purpose.

This reminds us of Al Capp's reply to the question, "Should marijuana be legalized?"

Capp's answer, according to Time magazine, is, "By all means. Also murder, rape, and arson. Then we could do away with all crime."

Repeat God's Laws? Is the answer to our problem to repeal God's moral laws—as some have, in effect, been advocating?

Or is it, instead, to ask God's help in meeting the challenge of the prolonged assault on everything that is good and wholesome in our society?

There are some hopeful signs. Postmaster General Blount decided to include the Scriptural quotation, "In the beginning God" in the design of the Apollo 8 commemorative postage stamp.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has overruled the Army decision to require chaplains to eliminate God from their lectures on moral responsibility. Let's hope—and pray—that the tide is turning in Washington and that our nation will qualify for the benefits included in the Scripture, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

WHAT IS AN AMERICAN?

He is the fellow who yells for the government to balance the budget, then takes the last dime he has to make the down payment on a car.

He whips the enemy, then gives him the shirt off his back.

He hollers for speed laws that will stop fast driving, then won't buy a car if it won't go 100 miles an hour.

He knows the line-up of every baseball team in the American and National Leagues, but does not know half the words of the "Star Spangled Banner."

He will spend half a day looking for vitamin pills to make him live longer, then drive 90 miles an hour on slick pavement to make up for the lost time.

He will work long and hard on a farm so he can move into town where he can make more money so he can move back to the farm.

He couldn't fight his way out of a paper bag, but he spends 10 bucks for ringside seats and tells the professionals how to fight.

We're the country that has more food to eat than any other country in the world and more diets to keep us from eating.

We're the most ambitious people on earth and we run from morning until midnight, trying to keep our earning power up with our yearning power.

We're supposed to be the most civilized, Christian nation in the world today, but still can't deliver payrolls without an armored car.

Most of the world is itching for what we have, but they'll never have it until they start scratching for it as an American does.

Yes, neighbors. Calling a person "A REAL AMERICAN" is the best compliment you can pay him.

I'm proud to be one. Aren't you?

LOGSDON SPEAKS ON COTTON SEED

Cotton farmers in Lamb County should make an extra effort to select and plant high quality seed this spring, emphasizes County Agricultural Agent Buddy Logsdon.

Careful seed selection is important since there was a large amount of low germinating seed produced last year. Much of this seed came from hail damaged as well as late maturing cotton.

Logsdon points out that on an areawide basis, the best germinating seed was produced under dryland conditions in the southern portion of the High Plains. Fields receiving extra or late irrigations often produced seed of low germination, especially in northern areas.

Factors which contribute to immature fiber (low micronaire) also are responsible for immature seed which results in decreased germination. A heavy cleaning of light, immature seed during cleaning and grading operations is often necessary to improve germination of these seeds.

Both high and low germinating seed may be found in any one location in the area, adds the agent. But growers should make sure they know the quality of the seed they are planting.

The analysis tag on seed tells the story regarding germination, points out Logsdon. Here the farmer will find the germination percent and date of the test.

For growers saving their own seed, the agent recommends sending a sample to an official seed laboratory for purity and germination tests.

Planting seed should be sound; that is, it should have no excessive mechanical damage. And

LIBRARY SPONSORS BOOK REVIEW

Miss Selma Rae Henry, with the Extension Department of the Lubbock City-County Libraries, will present a book review Sunday afternoon, April 20, at 3 p.m. in the District Courtroom of the Lamb County Courthouse.

The review, titled, "Everything But Money" is being sponsored by Friends of Lamb County Library. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Henry has been awarded a citation for meritorious service from the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped. She says she is "crippled but not handicapped," and that she decided early in life that "if God lets me live, I'll not be a burden to anyone—the world doesn't owe me a living."

Although her childhood was spent for the most part in undergoing radical treatment for a twisted spine, she completed her studies and received a BA degree in library science from North Texas State University.

She at one time had dreams of being a teacher, and chose to go into library work, saying, "it seemed closest to teaching."

Since the death count of 2,254 in 1960, Texas has gained steadily each year. The Sergeant stated, "If the number of deaths continue to increase as they have since 1960 by 1975 they will have increased 100 per cent."

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Great strides have been made by the fishing tackle industry during the past 20 years, one of the greatest being development and perfection of the fiber glass rod.

Despite the fact that exceptionally good rods have been produced by all the major manufacturers better ones seem to hit the market every season.

Reel manufacturers, however, have kept pace with the rod makers in improving their models. For years we have had the conventional, spool type casting reel. But year after year it too, is being constantly improved.

That old Model 25 Cox reel was a wonderful free-spooler. Then it was discontinued for a while. Later importers brought in other free-spoolers. Finally, along came the bail-type spinning reels. Most of these early models also were imports — and excellent ones.

Although the spinning reel dated far back in Europe, it didn't hit the United States until some 15 years ago. Since that time no well-dressed fisherman would be without at least one. Many anglers use them exclusively today.

Then... zoom... came the momentous break-through with the spin-cast reel. It was an enclosed model. Generally it was used in the reel-cast of the conventional casting reel—them) under their own name. Little attention, however, was paid to balanced equipment.

Today, nearly all manufacturers advocate balanced equipment... a reel and a reel built for each other. Basically it's the most efficient and effective arrangement.

Next came the Bronson Reel Co., with a balanced outfit built in one piece, so to speak. Bronson designed a reel that combined both the conventional and the spinning features... and made the reel part of the rod handle. Thus fishermen got a rod especially designed for the reel, thus making an efficient combination. So far it's the only one of this particular type.

Nearly all the tackle manufacturers now sell balanced outfits of one type or another. And that's good! It gives you a feeling of teamwork of unit effort, of handling gear that is designed for a single purpose... graceful, accurate, effortless casting and retrieve.

At Pfluger's Fishing Party for outdoor writers during the National Sporting Goods Association show at the Astrohall in January, Pfluger exhibited its newest in a balanced spinning rod and reel combo. Rod is a black and white beauty with a "Slide-Matic" seat. Spinning reel is a new design concept made of space-age materials and construction. It's ideal for fishing the salt water bays or for medium fresh water fishing. As a special feature the crank can be switched to either side of the reel in seconds. For either right or left-hand retrieve.

So the trend goes!
