A PUBLICATION called Man and Manager reports on a ruling by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission which is typical of many government rulings. A woman applied for a job with large company and was asked the ages of her children. She told them age 7 and 10, then was asked if she had any child care problems. She looked startled and replied, "No more than other mothers." Then she wanted to know why that question had been asked. "It's important background information for placing married women," the interviewer said.

When she failed to get the job, she was sure it was because of her child care situation. She went to the EEOC and said: "It's sex discrimination. I'll bet they don't ask men to furnish this data."

The company admitted the answer had a bearing on the decision. "We have a right to know," the company said. "Women with young children have a higher rate of absenteeism and lateness than other employees. It's better to find out before you hire them than after."

The EEOC ruled the question was discriminatory and the company should stop asking it—it is in violation of the Civil Rights Act. The federal big brains said "An employer may not request pre-employment information from female applicants that it does not request from male applicants."

We can recall several years ago when we supervised several women in one department of the Plainview Daily Herald that on two occasions women took the jobs and about the time they finished a one-month training period they announced they were leaving because they were pregnant. So later on we asked all married prospects if they were expecting. The EEOC wouldn't have liked that.

The solution, of course, is to also ask all the prospective men if they are pregnant.

MRS. CHARLES F. SCHROEDER, the former Glenda Lou Kitten of Slaton, recently wrote her mother about some of her experiences as the wife of a stockman, a tale from the Land of Moo. The Schroeders live at Windthorst, a community between Wichita Falls and Jacksboro, and Mrs. Schroeder, who is frightened of cows, tells about her dealings with them recently.

Two calves were born, and since they were ill, she wound up having to feed them with a bottle, keeping a wary eye on the calves' mothers at the time.

"Charles put the calf in a little lot we have beside the barn and says "Now you better feed that calf a bottle of something, because it looks so weak. At 9 o'clock, I sneak down there with a bottle in which I have two eggs, a little flour, some milk, an aspirin and a good dose of pepto-bismol all heated and shook up.

"Climbing around fences and oozing around corners I quickly close the two gates and start feeding the calf. All the while that cow is standing next to the fence pawing dirt and snorting...

BAND PARENTS TO MEET
The Band Parents Organization will meet Thursday night, May 31, at 8:30 p. m. to elect new officers for the coming year.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS

At 11 o'clock I'm down at the barn and the calf is up and wobbly... About 2:30 in the afternoon back to the barn I trot. This time the calf is laying in the hot sun next to a fence in a bigger lot—still looking pretty sick. So I fix another bottle just like before and lay on my belly reaching under and through bull wire fence which isn't the easiest thing to do, and try feeding that calf, all the while the mama cow is just a foot away, with her head nearly touching mine and she's pawing dirt and snorting... At 5:30 I feed the calf another bottle.

"During the night another brama heifer had a calf, and it doesn't look too hot, so I fix another bottle, leaving out pepto-bismol and aspirin and down to the barn I go. She eyes me and I eye her and think that mama cow doesn't look any too gentle, so I lay the bottle down and climb the fence—about that time, here she comes after me and I just fly over that fence and when I landed, I turned my ankle... so I limp to the house and get a rope and standing on the fence I finally get around the calf's back part and pull it to the fence where back on my belly I stuff the bottle down the calf's throat, trying to get it to swallow. A couple of times that mama ran up to the fence trying to scare me.

"So anytime you hear someone complain about the high cost of beef, you might explain this little incident—I'd like to see some of those women out at the barn..."

What does it take a year to maintain and support an Army enlisted man?

About $10,116, according to figures developed by the Department of the Army. The total is higher for officers.

The $10,116 figure is based on pay and allowances, permanent change of station costs, training costs, medical and dental care, post exchange services, legal advice, and certain other costs, including survivors' benefits, educational benefits, and income tax adjustments.

But the expense is worth it—to produce the best possible men and women soldiers for today's Army.

Making one all-American football team is tough enough—but Jim Youngblood, an Army ROTC cadet at Tennessee Tech in Cookeville, Tenn., managed to make six of them. Jim, a 230-pound defensive tackle was named an all-American by Time Magazine, the Newspaper Enterprise Association, Associated Press, Football News, Kodak, and Universal Sports.

IN APPRECIATION:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the many people who have done so much for me. Your kind words, deeds, and the support you have given me have been greatly appreciated. I will truly miss the association of the fine people here in Sudan.

People are the same wherever you go,
They have the same goodbyes and the same hellos.
But the time in between tells us how we stand
With the people who are living in our land.

Four years ago I came to this town.
I met the people and this is what I found.

You never meet a stranger, only a friend;
And since the day I came, this is how it's been.

Friendships are made wherever you meet,
In homes open wide or upon the street,
And I don't believe that anyone can
Find friends like I've found here in Sudan.

Friendly faces have always smiled hello.
A warm handshake said, "I like ity Center.

The meeting opened with the group singing the TOPS song. Roll call was answered with the number of pounds lost or gained. A loss of 11 3/4 pounds was recorded with Rosabel Coldiron losing the most.

Eight members were present. New members are welcome.

you so".
A kind deed done made me feel so grand
When it was done by the people of Sudan.

And wherever I go and whoever I meet,
They will always make me stop and think,
That I'll never find in this great land
People like I've found here in Sudan.

Brighten your outlook...

Strong cast aluminum shelters Reddy as he does his job of discouraging unwanted visitors and yet warmly welcomes those you want... those who need not scurry about in the shadows. And, a Reddy-Lite knows day from night. Reddy automatically turns on at dusk... and when the sun peaks over the horizon,

Reddy turns himself off... you don't even have to worry about him. Four beautiful Reddy-Lites let you choose the one that most enhances your home. See the new Reddy-Lites in our office, and let us put one on your electric bill... works great in front or back yards.

THOUGHTFUL FUNERAL HOME

We all are blind until we see
That in the human plan
Nothing is worth the making if
It does not make the man
Why build these cities glorious
If man unbuilds goes?
In vain we build the world... unless
The builder also grows.
