WE WERE trying to explain something about the process of printing a newspaper to one of our farmer friends recently, and some of it was a bit difficult to explain without being able to show him just what I meant. He finally commented that he just doesn't know a thing about the newspaper business.

I explained that there's nothing wrong with that—I don't know anything about the farming business. He said that if I would come out to his place about 6 a. m. someday, he'd try to show me something about it.

Then I told him that he had pinpointed the main reason I don't have much interest in doing any farming: they just hold it too early in the day.

Newspapering, on the other hand, is held mostly later in the day, and frequently far into the night. And the way you get it printed is by praying a lot.

TALKING ABOUT food prices is depressing, and it looks like everyone is going to have to eat less. For most of us, this would be perhaps desirable from a health and beauty point of view, but that isn't likely to make us want to do it. In the last week or so, there's been a pretty good run on food and we understand this holds true also for clothing, which supposedly is scheduled for big price increases Aug. 12, and some more on Sept. 12.

The only way people can keep abreast of the skyrocketing prices is to make more money. This of course just keeps the old inflation wagon going.

Incidentally, don't blame the merchant for the big price hikes. He is paying more at the wholesale level, and simply has to raise the retail prices in order to stay in business.

WHY A MAN would want a wife is a mystery. Why a man would want two wives is a big-amystery.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Limon are parents of a daughter, Margreta, born August 10 at 7 a. m. in the South Plains Hospital in Amherst. Grandmother is Mrs. Nellie Martin Rodriguez. The couple have another daughter and one son.

AREA CENSUS TO BE TAKEN

During the week of August 20-24, the U. S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its regular monthly survey in this area on employment and unemployment, according to Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Dallas.

Local households in the survey are part of the 50,000 across the country that have been scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all households.

The survey is taken by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor. It provides monthly information on conditions in the labor force, a prime indicator of the economic health of the Nation. For example, results of the June survey showed the unemployment rate to be 4.8 percent, the first time in three years that it has been below 5 percent.

Employment rose substantially (by 650,000) to a seasonally adjusted level of 84.7 million. Nationally, over the past year, employment has risen by 2.9 million.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is confidential and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Tips on Wood Finishing

HOW TO LIFT DENTS OUT OF WOOD FURNITURE

Pine and other soft woods make beautiful furniture, as long as you remember to handle with care. Soft woods are very susceptible to denting. There is one easy way to raise minor dents and depressions from such woods—by steaming. Simply place a damp cloth over the dent and hold a medium hot iron against the cloth. For deep gouges and cracks, you'll need to mix animal glue with sanding dust from the same piece of furniture. Tamp in the mixture, let cure, and smooth with a razor blade. These and many other hints are contained in a 16-page booklet, "Tips on Wood Finishing." For a free copy, write Minwax Company, Inc., Dept. A.C., 41 Oak Street, Clifton, N. J. 07014.

FISHING REPORT

Bill Curry fished Tuesday, August 7, at Flagg Lake catching 21 catfish, using his own special hoppers.

Today Americans eat 115.6 pounds of beef a year compared to 63.4 pounds per individual in 1950.

If food had risen since 1952 at the same rate as wages in industry, a quart of milk would cost 55¢ in the store, a dozen eggs would sell for $1.61, and a whole, dressed frying chicken would cost $1.46 per pound.

HISTORY OF DRUGS XII

Prepared by the Staff of the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education

This week we will continue to examine the Harrison Narcotic Act of 1914. This act was initially sponsored, supported and passed by Congress.

The American delegation to the first International Opium Convention at The Hague in 1912 had pushed strongly for all governments concerned to establish internal controls over narcotics. Rather embarrassingly, America itself had no such controls and the Harrison Act was drafted for this purpose in hopes that it would serve as a model for other countries as well.

Immediately after the Spanish-American War the U.S. War Department took over the chore of governing the Philippine Islands. At the same time it inherited a system for licensing narcotic addicts and supplying them with legal opium. Missionaries from the U.S. opposed this system on moral grounds and fervently appealed to President Theodore Roosevelt to call for an International Conference which could propose alternatives.

Some political leaders of the U.S. Government were very concerned about the continuing struggles between China and England over opium trade. (Two 19th Century "opium wars" between China and England had been fought over this issue.) The U.S. saw an International Convention as a possible solution to this diplomatic struggle between the two countries. (It was also a great moral issue to U.S. missionaries in China.)

On the face of it the Harrison bill did not appear to be a prohibition law at all, but in the next column we will examine some unexpected consequences which were a direct result of the passage of this supposedly non-prohibitory act.

"The Special Enrollment Examination is not a test to obtain employment," Mr. Coppinger said, "It presents an opportunity each year for those who are not attorneys or CPAs to establish proof of competence. This is required of tax practitioners who seek to acquire enrollment status in order to represent their clients at all levels of procedure before the IRS."

RURAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE HOLDS MEETING

More than 700 of the state's rural electric cooperative leaders met August 8-10 in Houston to discuss future problems and solutions to the shortages of energy in the state and nation.

The occasion was the 33rd annual membership meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives--this year with the timely theme of "Achieve the Impossible... Again!"

In a major convention speech, Jim Langdon, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, laid the blame for petroleum shortages squarely on the U. S. Congress.

Just as with farmers who recently had to kill baby chicks, the oil industry has been burdened with rising costs which exceed the government-fixed prices nationwide that it can charge for its product, Langdon said.

But the most far-reaching implication of the fuel predicament, Langdon added, is that fuel consumers have reached the end of an era of low-cost power as our traditional energy sources dwindle in this country.

Charles Robinson, engineer with the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association in Washington, D. C., took issue with Langdon and put most of the fuel shortage blame on the oil industry itself.

"The oil companies are making more profit this year than earlier, so to demand a 10-cent hike in gas prices shows little concern for the welfare of the public in general," Robinson said.

He agreed, however, with Langdon that low-cost energy is no more. The change from an energy based on use of petroleum products to one based on coal and nuclear power must come within the next 20-30 years, the engineer added. He cited fusion nuclear energy as the ultimate answer.

Another major speaker, Robert L. Armstrong, commissioner of the Texas General Land Office, pointed to another critical roadblock in the energy shortage problem, namely red tape from governmental regulatory bodies.

"The government has a vital role to play in assuring both adequate supplies of energy and protection of the environment, but it must do both with the utmost speed so neither side will be left hanging in mid-air," Armstrong said.

Voting delegates to the TEC annual meeting recommended several solutions to the energy crisis in a resolution calling for massive research and development of the fast breeder nuclear reactor. The resolution also called for prompt installation of the Alaskan gas and oil pipelines and for the open development of the nation's coal as electricity-producing resources.

In another resolution, delegates urged the expansion of Rural Water Supply Corporations in Texas to meet the water needs of rural residents. They also promised support for Amendment Number 1 on the November 6 special election which would raise salaries for state legislators.

Newly elected to the TEC board of directors are: Ray Raymond of Kaufman Electric Cooperative, Kaufman; L. E. (Red) Gross Jr. of Medina EC, Hondo; and Ross Segrest of Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, Waco.

New officers of the TEC board are: Robert H. Bunting of J-A-C Electric Cooperative in Bluegrove, president; Charles Stenholm of Stamford ED in Stamford, vice-president; and Lyle Robinson of Swisher EC in Lula, secretary-treasurer.

Overheard from a wife to her husband, "I wish you had the spunk the government has. They don't let being in debt keep them from spending."—Clarín D. Ashby, "Remember when the doctor was giving you a good bill of health when he told you that you were sound as a dollar?"—William R. Lewis, The Lynden (Wash.) Tribune.

COTTON MARKET REPORT

Activity in Western Region cotton markets continued to be centered around contracting and the approaching South Texas harvest, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA. Foreign mills showed a strong demand for both 1973 and 1974 crop cotton for forward delivery. Growers on the Texas Plains continued to contract 1973-crop cotton at around 26.00 cents per pound over loan rates for Light Spotted grades 52 and higher, 3.5 to 4.9 mike cotton. In Arizona and California the bulk of market activity was around 60.00 to 61.00 cents per pound, basis grade 31, staple 35 in the San Joaquin Valley. In South Texas where harvesting has begun, the bulk of current ginnings was being delivered against contracts made earlier in the year.

The cotton harvest in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas was behind normal. A late crop and rains early in the week kept growers from making harvest progress. Elsewhere in the Western Region, crop progress was described as good to excellent. Insect infestations increased at some locations but were reportedly being controlled.

New Irrigation Ideas Are Needed, Expert Says

The greatest challenge facing the irrigation industry today is the need to develop new ideas and new concepts that will help protect the environment, Edwin J. Hunter, a pioneer in the development of modern irrigation systems, said in Lake Arrowhead, Ca.

Our concerns, he said, must be:

... Preservation of our diminishing water resources.

... Preservation of the green spaces that contribute so much to the air we breathe.

... Conserving the soil.

... Irrigating the dry areas to make them green and growing.

... Preserving the esthetics of our world.

Mr. Hunter, who is vice president and general manager of the Irrigation Division of The Toro Company, said solutions to environmental problems must be predicated on the gathering and evaluation of factual data, and translating that data into courses of action.

Debt Interest Doubled

In 1964, only 9 years ago, the interest on the federal debt was $10 1/2 billion. In the next fiscal year it will require more than double that amount—$27 1/2 billion—to pay the interest on the debt.
