Attention Farmers!

Yes, there are good, practical reasons why so many West Texas farmers are changing to Panhandle Mutual Hail Association hail insurance. A few of the reasons are listed below

The Pnhandle Mutual Policy is the only cotton policy that does not have a replant clause. We do not adjust cotton on the stand population basis.

We do not defer our losses until fall.

Our adjustments are prompt and honest adjustments made by local adjusters. This is a farmer's company.

No interest charge on our notes until after maturity. The only company which has an arbitration clause in conditions. We limit our liability per townships and PER section so as to avoid overloading.

Our policy is written to fit the West Texas cotton farming

Another important feature is the fact that we now have catastrophic reinsurance with the Lloyds of London as added protection to our west Texas farmers against heavy hail years, showing money in use from the early days of our Country to the present.

> In this interesting presentation is paper money from early Colonial days that in our imagination we might see as having passed through the hands of George Washington, Alexander Hamilton or Thomas Jefferson.

There is money that was in use when the White House was burned in the War of 1812 ... money that could have been used to buy or release slaves . . . Texas' own Treasury Notes from the stirring period when this State was a Republic . . . money used on both sides while the battle of Gettysburg raged. Practically all phases of history are represented by the money currently in use in each period.
