The Three Way School will open for the 1957-58 school term on Monday, September 2nd. It was announced this week by Supt. Artie Sims.

Rules of Use of Mexican Nationals Are Explained By TEC Official

Farmers who cannot find citizen workers may make application for Mexican Nationals, it was announced this week by B. T. O'Connell, office manager of the Texas Employment Commission Lubbock.

Citizen workers must be given preference, Mexican workers are only a reserve, says O'Connell, in passing the information as handed down by the U. S. Department of Labor.

The TEC is now ready to certify that a shortage of domestic labor exists in this area.

Farmers desiring Nationals must first contact the TEC for a release showing a shortage of citizen workers.

Second, the TEC gives the farmer an order for workers, but let the farmer must sign a housing statement. Then he will pay $7 per worker at the border, $1 for insurance, provide housing and other considerations.

And Nationals must be paid at the prevailing wage scale. (See other story in reference to this in this issue of the Tribune.)

A TEC office, sponsored by the Leavelle Chamber of Commerce, is located east of the square in the Old Stenfield Building, Leavelle. Area farmers are welcome.

The Department of Labor has ruled that "It is the policy of the Federal Government that Mexican workers cannot be admitted to the United States for agricultural work unless all practicable sources of our own workers have been exhausted."

Continuing, "a U. S. agricultural worker may displace a contracted Mexican worker in any agricultural job which the domestic worker is qualified. If the domestic worker is unempleado, or if he is employed and is looking for a job that takes greater skill or pays higher wages, he must be given preference over contracted Mexican workers, wherever they may be employed and in any kind of agricultural activity for which the domestic worker is qualified."

TEC BEGINS WAGE SURVEY NEXT MONDAY

Beginning Monday, the Texas Employment Commission — by order of the Secretary of Labor, will begin an area survey to determine the prevailing wage scale.

B. T. O'Connell, office manager of the TEC, Lubbock, said the survey is to determine wages to be paid to Mexican Nationals.

O'Connell was interviewing farmers Tuesday in the County Agent's office.

The TEC, O'Connell said, would greatly appreciate farmers making wage schedules available at their homes, with the wife, if the representative should call while the farmer is away.

Also, the TEC would appreciate the farmer accompanying the TEC representative when he interviews crew leaders.

The prevailing wage schedule is based on the actual wages the worker receives, and not what is paid the crew leader.

Four Mortonites to Leave Tuesday For Annual Boy Scout Jamboree

Four Mortonites will leave next Tuesday on what is perhaps the biggest thrill in Scouting for the boys who are able to make the trip a 21-day journey to the Boy Scout Jamboree — this year being held at Valley Forge.

Elra Oden, Explorer Scout advisor, and a leader for all Morton Scouts for many years, is being sent to represent the Mustang District. Robert Wilson will go as a representative of Morton Troop. And two last minute additions were announced, Lee and Dalton Oden, the two Eagle Scout sons of Elra Oden, whose trip is being made possible by a grateful group of Morton citizens.

The Oden boys are being sent as a gesture from the people of the city to partly thank Mr. Oden for many years, and many dollars he has devoted to helping other people's boys in Scouting. The group figured the way they could best attempt to repay Mr. Oden was to send his boys on the trip with him.

It will be one of the larger groups to go from Morton. In the past years several Morton boys and leaders have made the trip. Among them are Tommy Hawkins and Lee Benham.

The group will leave Tuesday in a group with other district Scouts, and will return on July 23rd. They will send back periodic reports and plan to take motion pictures which they hope to show to civic organizations and local Scout leaders on their return.

ESTIMATED 3,000 ACRES HIT BY HAIL

A killing hail swept a wide path through Cochran County cotton late Saturday night leaving in its wake an estimated 3,000 acres of cotton damaged from 50 to 90 per cent.

Remainder of Babe Ruth League Schedule Is Set

The remainder of the Morton Babe Ruth League schedule for this season was announced late last week and at the same time a called meeting of managers and league officials was set for tonight, (Thursday) at 7:30 o'clock at the District Courtroom.

Managers and sponsors have some very important problems to talk over in conjunction with the operation of the league.

This week it was decided to play the second game each week on Tuesday evening instead of Wednesday. This will take effect next Thursday and continue for the remainder of the season.

The reason for the schedule change was that games were running so late in the evening the players, managers, and fans could not get home and get to Prayer Meeting on time.

Here's the remainder of the schedule of play.

Dollar Day Is Boon For Pre-Holiday Bargain Shoppers

Monday is Dollar Day on Texas' Last Frontier, and indications are it will be a good time to shop in Morton.

Since July 4 comes next Thursday, area residents are being urged to shop this weekend and the first of next week for vacation, picnic and holiday needs.

Apparently most businesses in Morton, and throughout the nation, will observe July 4 as a holiday.

Closing hours will be the First State Bank, the county offices, Federal offices including the Post Office, City Offices, and almost all other businesses.

Only recently, members of the Morton Lions Club, and Jaycees, in the absence of a Chamber of Commerce, voted to close July 4th.

Advisory Council Makes Report to School Board

The Citizen's Advisory Council, studying the problem of the condition of the Negro school, and the possibility of segregation or continuing separate schools, or integration, presented their written proposals and reports to the Morton School Board at a called meeting on Monday night.

No formal action was taken by the Board since three of the seven members were out of town. However, Supt. Barnes and the Board have thanked the group for their efforts, and action will probably be taken in the very near future.

In the main, the reports carried out the trend of thinking reported in the paper last week when the committees reported back to the overall chairman. These recommendations embodied, basically, three points: (1) An overwhelming majority of Negroes and White favor the continuation of separate schools; (2) An overwhelming majority feel that a great deal needs to be done to improve the Negro schools; (3) The possibility of integrating the high school only has received some strong support.

Lions Club Takes Two Months Off

Neal Rose officially took over as President of the Morton Lions Club Wednesday noon, at the regular weekly luncheon.

Jaycees Name Rodeo Chairmen

Bill Glasford was placed in charge of the Rodeo Program and as helpers on his group he has any Jaycee who is not on another Rodeo Committee, or who will volunteer, even though on another Rodeo Committee.

Tubby Holloman, Babe Van, Roy Tarver, Jr., and Walter Sander were appointed on the two day booster trip committee to be held Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the rodeo.

Snoopy Russell, Bob Huckabay, and John Barnes are on the Committee to set up and carry out the "Fishing Beauty" or Queen Contest.

Each of these committees is to present a plan for the operation of the project to the Jaycees next week.

Two guests were on hand.

TORNADO TERROR was visited on this west Dallas apartment house (right), while the twister which hit the afternoon of April 2 also showed a grisly pranksness (left). Returning residents found only debris, and workers from Dallas County Civil Defense, police, firemen and Red Cross guarding the wreckage and ready to provide temporary shelter. ## Red Cross Funds Are Collected

All donations for the recent Red Cross fund drive were collected & tabulated last week, but the total fell far short of the original goal.

The quota was set at $1,380 and total donations amounted to $387.05. One of the unfortunate things was the theft of $8 to $15 worth of Red Cross money in the school break-in last winter. But even with that, the fund would have been far short.

Below is a complete breakdown of donations by groups, prepared for the Tribune by Dub Hodge, the drive chairman.

COMMUNITY	AMT.
Morton High School	$192.50
Jr. High School	$24.55
Grade School	$19.92

SMALL BUSINESS

Members of the national independent businessmen voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have just voted against repealing state laws against union closed shops.

On the other side, some labor leaders brand these drives as "union busting." On this basis, it might be erroneously interpreted that the nation's independent businessmen wish to see unions dissolved.

Such is not the case. With the growth of almost monopolistic Big Business, the independent businessman knows that labor must have organizations.

But by and large, the nation's independent businessmen are realists. In the usual closed shop operation, union dues are collected by employer via paycheck deductions for union.

Thus, there is no need for union leaders to exercise economy, or prudent handling of union funds. This has been borne out by Beck investigations.

Above all else, successful businessmen must know human nature. And they know that it is just human nature that when funds can be collected by the compulsion route, all manners of abuse arise. Yet, a sizable share of independent businessmen so strongly believe in principle of unionism that they still hold the gouging they are having to take in high interest rates. The Administration's policy is aimed at always getting a little more for lenders & toward charging the borrowers a little more.

As independent businessmen, they are also accustomed to selling their goods and services, and in that selling process, justify the price charged.

This, then, as it does with government, breeds financial irresponsibility. And in this day and age, it is believed majority of American labor can be sold on wisdom of supporting a union, rather than being forced to do so.

There is nothing undesirable in the minds of the nation's independent businessmen in groups organizing to promote their common interest. In fact, a large share of the independent businessmen are organized on a free will basis in the National Federation of Independent Business.

But the big difference is in the fact that such organization is on a free will basis. The element of compulsion is not present.

And thus, these businessmen voted against the closed shop idea. Not from a standpoint of being anti-union, but from the viewpoint that most organized labor's lies stem from the principle of compulsory payment of dues. The necessity to sell, as contrasted to compulsory methods, is still the greatest guarantee of organizational efficiency whether it be in the field of trade or labor associations, or in government.

MAPLE SPLITS TWO GAMES WITH LUBBOCK GRAHAM HOLMES

Maple's Morton League Softball team, winners over Graham - Holmes, one of Lubbock's better City League teams in two games played in Morton a couple of weeks ago, made it three out of four by splitting a double header with the Lubbockmen Saturday night on windswept Slide Field.

The Lubbockmen, thanks to a homerun, way over the left fielder's head and a triple with two men on base, both by their cleanup hitter, posted a 4-1 win in the 5 inning opener.

Maple's only run was driven in by Mike Flanniken. Most of the Maple batters were well shackled.

and Maple left 5 men on base in the first three innings, and eight in the game. Two spectacular catches cut short Maple rallies.

In the second game, Maple hurler, Don Lamar, got better support both in the field and at bat and Maple took home a 7 to 5 win.

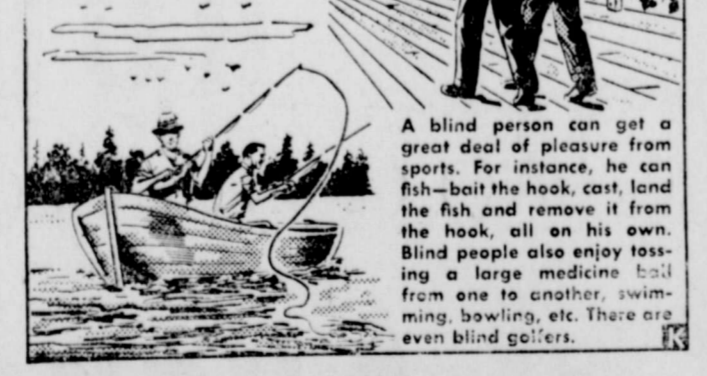

Maple scored twice in the first and twice in the second and three times in the 3rd for a 7 to 1 lead they made stand up.

Ed Neutzler homered down the left field line for Maple's longest hit of the evening. Maple had racked up 2 to 1 and 8 to 5 wins when the teams met in Morton recently.

When You Meet A Blind Person ...

You can help a blind person enjoy his vacation more, if you follow these tips offered by the American Foundation for the Blind. On a picnic, be sure to tell the blind guest what the various dishes are and where they are located. This will save him embarrassing groping for food.

When walking with a blind person, on the boardwalk or on country paths, let him take your arm. The motion of your body usually lets him know what to expect. To increase his enjoyment of the stroll tell him about the interesting sights and scenery you pass.

A blind person can get a great deal of pleasure from sports. For instance, he can fish—bait the hook, cast, land the fish and remove it from the hook, all on his own. Blind people also enjoy tossing a large medicine ball from one to another, swimming, bowling, etc. There are even blind golfers.

Earle E. Partridge (above), CONAD commander, uses the new 28,000-mile net for the first time on May 1. From this central center, or one of two similar centers on the East and West Coasts, information on an impending attack can be voiced directly to 300 warning points throughout the nation. From these points, local warning nets would take over. WHAT TO DO WHEN BREATHING STOPS

These five figures illustrate, from top to bottom, the steps in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation now being taught in Red Cross First Aid courses.

(1) Mother, using middle finger of one hand, clears child's mouth of any foreign matter. With same finger, she holds the tongue forward.

(2) Mother places child in a face-down, head-down position, and puts him firmly on the back with the free hand, to help dislodge any foreign object in the air passage.

(3) The child is placed on his back, and the mother, using middle fingers of both hands, lifts the lower jaw from beneath and behind so that it "juts out."

(4) With one hand only, the jaw is held in this jutting-out position.

(5) The mother, covering the child's mouth and nose with her mouth, breathes into the child with a smooth, steady motion. The free hand applies constant moderate pressure to the child's abdomen, between navel and ribs, to prevent the stomach from being filled with air.

The 1957 Maid of Cotton, Helen Hamilton, tries on trick earrings which become sudsy cotton washcloths when dunked in water. The earrings were made up as a gag by Mauri Ryan, New York, cosmetics creator. THE GRAND NATIONAL BAKE-OFF will be held this year in the glittering new Beverly Hilton hotel in Beverly Hills, Los Angeles county. Bake-Off dates are Oct. 13-15.

Nation's Top Baking Event Moves To Glamor Capital of the World

Weekend in Sunny California, Plus More than $100,000 in Prizes, Awaits Bake-Off Winners

The Grand National Recipe and Baking Contest will move this year to a dramatic new setting in Southern California, according to an announcement by Pillsbury Co., Inc. Traditionally held in New York's Waldorf-Astoria, the Bake-Off this year will take place in the new Beverly Hilton hotel in Beverly Hills, Los Angeles county.

The move to the west coast is planned to give the world's biggest food event a fresh, spectacular look. Pillsbury pointed out that the new setting will appeal to millions of American housewives who when in all expenses to southern California is a dream come true.

As in previous contests, 70 senior contestants, 15 brides and 15 juniors will vie for more than $100,000 in prize money and General Electric appliances. Entry blanks are now available in grocery stores throughout the country. They can also be obtained by writing to Ann Pillsbury, Minneapolis 2, Minnesota. Entries must be postmarked before midnight July 31, 1957.

Baked foods with imaginative twists to their recipes have won fame and fortune for eight American housewives to date. "California Casserole", a well-seasoned dish of meat and baked dumplings in gravy, won top honors and 25,000 dollars for Mrs. Hildreth H. Hatheway of Santa Barbara, Calif., last year.

Just a Lotta Beans By WALDMAN

The Romans not only raised beans for food—they bought votes with them! An ambitious candidate for the Senate often balanced his plea for election with a handful of the precious beans.

Superstitious folk of the 17th century believed that witches used certain beans in their magic brews for casting evil spells. For many years a "Bean King" reigned as monarch of revels from Christmas until Twelfth Night.

The first navy beans were planted in Michigan after the Civil War. A Michigan farmer, visiting relatives in the East, brought back sample seeds. Today Michigan grows 90% of all the navy beans in America.

The Michigan Bean Shippers Association, formed in the state's capital in 1892, was the first organization of its kind in the U.S. It set a precedent by introducing the careful inspection of beans. For free recipe booklet write BEANS, 1004 E. Jefferson, Detroit 7.

Try Pineapple Almond Torte

A Handsome Dessert That's Sure To Please

Golden pineapple makes any dessert party-pretty. Here it is used as a filling for a torte made in a ring mold. The foundation is a light meringue—a variation of that old-fashioned recipe called "Forgotten Cake." The final trick is sliced almonds arranged decoratively around the meringue.

Prepare this dessert at a buffet, luncheon or dessert party. One of the brightest ways to serve it is to bring it to the table for all to admire.

Pineapple Almond Torte

- 4 egg whites
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 4 drops almond extract
- 1/2 cup sliced blanched almonds
- 1 can (No. 2 1/2) pineapple chunks
- 1 cup whipping cream

Bake oven to 450°F. Place egg whites in electric mixer. Beat until stiff peaks form. Combine sugar, cream of tartar and salt. Gradually add to egg whites, beating slowly. Fold in flavorings. Pour into lightly greased 8-inch ring mold. Stick top thickly with almond slices, porcupine-fashion. Place in oven and turn off heat. Leave until oven cools or overnight. Chill pineapple in can. Remove sliced torte carefully from ring mold with the aid of a small spatula, keeping almond side up. Drain pineapple. Frost outside of ring as shown with whipping cream. Fill with pineapple. Garnish with frosted grapes. Serves 6 to 8.

Just as the Red Cross is known throughout America as the symbol of mercy and succor, the Red Crescent is recognized in the Arab World as the emblem of human charity. One of the many projects sponsored by the Iraqi Red Crescent is the Home for Orphan Girls.

The emblem of the new moon is prominently displayed on the Home's attractive building with its spacious lawns.

Construction of the orphanage was financed almost exclusively by the Women's Branch of the Iraqi Red Crescent Society, an affiliate member of the International Red Cross Societies. Twelve years of careful saving and hard work were required to build the Home for some 50 girls ranging from six to fifteen years of age. Today those once unfortunate girls enjoy a remarkably homelike environment with everything to be found at home including love and gaily striped draperies and floral-printed bedspreads.

Besides receiving a general education, study in English and Arabic, the girls learn sewing and handicrafts. They make the furnishings for their own rooms, using ingenuity and inexpensive materials, thus learning that good taste is possible even with limited means. This training in sewing and handicrafts is designed to serve a dual purpose: to equip each girl to become a good housewife or to earn her living when she leaves the Home at the age of eighteen.

Exercise, folk-dancing and singing are all part of the Home's program to produce for the nation happy, healthy young people and responsible and useful citizens whose influence will be felt in other social groups after they have left the Home. But most important of all, the girls are given love and affection. Each one is treated as an interesting individual, and each one receives personal attention from the members of the permanent staff, the voluntary workers and the administrative committee.

Candidates for the Home are chosen from the poorest Iraqi families, irrespective of race or creed. After entering the Home, the girls are not allowed to lose contact with their relatives, who are encouraged to pay weekly visits. Thus every possible effort is made to give the institution the atmosphere of a happy home—an approach which is making a notable contribution to the physical and emotional growth of these girls by bringing hope and confidence to their sensitive minds.

Milestones in Medicine by Marguerite Clark

The wild Rhesus monkey, swinging in the treetops and depending for survival upon the sharpness of its teeth, had almost no dental defects. The primitive chimpanzees, gorillas, gibbons, and orangutans led a somewhat better existence. And as a result, they had less carious teeth than the monkey.

The Stone Age man proved too clever for his own good, dentally speaking, when he entered the cave and, in his struggle for life, discovered the use of other tools in addition to his own strong teeth. The oldest tooth specimens from the Stone Age period show poor calcification and other serious defects.

However, there still is hope for modern man's teeth. Future generations may prevent severe dental defects by incorporating in their teeth important elements such as fluoride and other mineral factors. One way to make sure fluoride is incorporated into teeth is through the use of a dentifrice containing stannous fluoride which prevents decay by strengthening the enamel.

Laundry Room In Fancy Dress

No longer must a homemaker dread wash-day because the laundry room resembles the Black Hole of Calcutta. Unhappy tile and damp concrete floors are a thing of the past. And along with dressing up the laundry room has come developments that cut the arduousness of toiling and wringing clothes. Doing the weekly wash today is a pleasant interlude, not a hardship.

An example of how smartly a laundry room can be shown in an interior design, using a modern "kitchen" style. A built-in laundry sink and dryer look as attractive as any kitchen. The high-top "hidden hamper" cabinet has perforated doors, and the deep-dish sink provides a convenient economy or serves as a soaking basin. The built-in cabinet is handy for springing clothes or cleaning the tub. These versatile units come in a variety of sizes most applicable for good room arrangements.

Adding glamour and color to the setting are the bold striped vinyl tile flooring and textured sea green simulated tiling in contrast to the rough stone look of a built-in laundry table that serves for sorting finished wash, yet is so attractive it moves, too, as a snack bar. High stools raise the worker up close to table top for greater comfort and ease. Thus efficiency, color and clean-to-clean modern materials combine for a laundry room in party dress.

There's a New Day Coming in food shopping

"What will they do next?" is an expression one hears often as homemakers express their amazement at innovations in chain super market shopping. Air curtain doors and open front refrigerated displays are among the new developments being seen in some areas of the country. And the day when a clerk will merely put the foods you've selected in a bin and they'll pop up all packaged—is not too far away.

A new checkout counter that does its own bagging—in a matter of seconds—is due to be tested by super markets soon. The first model shown at the National Association of Food Chains' Annual Meeting recently met with an enthusiastic response and you are likely to see the automatic checkout counter in your own city before long.

Completely mechanized, it consists of a conveyor belt that brings your purchases to the cashier. The checker then places your items in a moveable bin which feeds into an open shipping bag. A button is pressed, the bag is closed and automatically tilted for a quick pickup. The entire operation works so smoothly that eggs, light bulbs, glass containers can be packed without breakage.

Not only will the new bagging machine save time at the counter, but possible savings in the cost of bagging operation may also help chain super markets in their never-ending search for ways to give you "Better Living at Lower Cost."

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

A correction is in order concerning last week's news article. The clover grown on the R. J. McCasland farm, referred to as "Hubam" should have been called "Madrid" sweet clover. Madrid is another one of the legumes that seems to be adapted to this area.

With the increasing interest in irrigation and the recognition of an adequate well, we would like to take this opportunity to reproduce the last in a series of radio broadcasts by W. E. Crabtree, Agricultural Engineer with the Soil Conservation Service.

The diameter of the well cannot be used as a reliable guide to the amount of water it will yield. Wells do not yield water in proportion to their diameter.

Research has shown only an approximate 15 percent increase in yield by doubling the well diameter in an identical formation.

For most wells the important consideration is to have the diameter large enough to install the pump easily with a few inches clearance around the bowl assembly. Where water is coming from a rather thin sheet of fine water-bearing material, a larger diameter hole will often have an advantage. In fine materials the increased velocity of water entering a small diameter hole is often partly to blame for sand pumping troubles. Also, if there is a small total open area of the screen the high velocity of water entering the well could cause trouble. Where a gravel treatment is to be used the hole is ordinarily drilled about 12 to 16 inches larger.

or than the casing diameter.

It is important for the well to penetrate the entire depth of the water-bearing formation. With deeper penetration more water is obtained per foot of drawdown; also often found just above the impermeable underlying strata. Well studies have proved that doubling the depth of penetration in water-bearing material is much more effective in increasing the well discharge than doubling the diameter of the well. There is no particular advantage in bottoming a well more than a foot or two into the underlying impermeable layer.

A gravel treated well consists of placing five to nine inches of gravel between the screen and the natural formation. This practice is helpful primarily in a uniform sand formation.

There seem to be many conflicting opinions on the use of gravel treatment. A few known principles should be kept in mind in deciding whether and how to use a gravel treatment. First ask yourself, "what is the purpose of the gravel treatment?" Most would agree it is used to keep sand particles from entering the well. This being true, there is little benefit in treating a well in which the lower portion of water-bearing formation particles are larger than a sorghum seed. Many wells have actually been harmed by gravel packing. This could result from improper size and uniformity of pack or packing when there is no need for such treatment. In fine, uniform sand the well should be gravel packed to enable a larger, more practical size perforation or screen openings.

Researchers generally agree the average size of the gravel should be four to seven times the average size of the water formation to hold back the sand. In a fine water sand, the so-called gravel treatment might be the size of coarse building sand. One would never expect to hold wheat in a corn crib, but it isn't uncommon to see someone try to hold back fine sand with coarse gravel. A sieve analysis is the only reliable method of determining proper use of gravel treatment.

Since the selection of a gravel treatment will depend on the size and uniformity of formation sands, a screen should be selected that will not permit the passing of gravel material. It is further desirable to have a gravel and slot or screen size relationship that will minimize the reduction in effective open area of the screen.

If the gravel treatment is fairly uniform, a slot opening such that 90 percent of the gravel is coarse is recommended.

Researchers agree that the gravel treatment should be of rounded material, quite uniform in size. Few well owners or drillers go to the trouble of double screening to a specified size by passing it through one screen and using what is retained on a smaller size screen.

In a naturally completed well a screen is selected to allow 50 to 60 percent of the immediately surrounding formation to be pumped into the well and to be removed in the "development" process of the well before new equipment is purchased.

chased. If the right size screen is selected & the well is developed properly by surging, intermittent pumping, or compressed air, it will not pump sand. No gravel is placed into the well but the well is "developed" to remove the "fines" around the screen and obtain a gradual grading of particles away from the screen. The amount of water flowing through a formation will be determined by the smallest particles and this type of well completion is best in mixtures of sand and gravel where the main portion of the material is larger than 25 one thousandths of an inch. With a naturally completed well it is usually best to purchase a specially manufactured screen of corrosive resistant material.

Provisions for the water entering the well in loose materials are made by many methods and materials. The well drilling log should serve as a basis in choosing the best type and length of screen or perforated casing. Generally, casings slotted with a cutting torch will not give a well its best possibilities for a maximum quantity of sand-free water. This is particularly true in the finer water-bearing materials.

It is well known that when a well is being pumped the water draws down as it approaches the well. This drawdown will increase depending on the rate of pumping. Screen placed above the drawdown level during pumping is a needless expense.

It is important to have a sufficient open area in a screen or casing so that there will be a very few feet differences in the water level inside and outside the well during pumping. A screen or casing will need at least 10 percent open area. The larger the percentage of open area up to about 25 percent the better the opportunity of producing a good well.

All perforations or screen openings should widen toward the inside. A long narrow opening is more effective than a square or round shaped one. With an opening wider toward the inside, particles passing the entrance section are prevented from accumulation in the passage-way and blocking water entrance. Now that the well is properly completed why not take care of it. A drawdown gage is very important equipment. The pumping depth can be checked every few days & the water level kept in the upper portion of the water bearing formation. It is but that the drawdown does not exceed one-half of the water bearing formation. If the local Soil Conservation Service can be of help to you, please let them know.

Wonderful World by GALDIAN

A complete replica of a bustling early-day Oklahoma oil field development, Boomtown USA, will be a popular attraction of the Oklahoma Semi-Centennial Exposition in Oklahoma City June 14 thru July 7. Actual wooden rigs, as well as the newest in portable drilling equipment, will be in operation.

For those who like their action rough and ready, a full-scale Wild West Rodeo will be presented in the exposition grounds. Bronco busting, chuck wagon races and trick riding exhibitions will be featured.

For the first time anywhere, the Oklahoma Semi-Centennial Exposition will have a complete village for teenagers. It will be built around a huge dance pavilion and will house record shops, milk bars and teenage fashion exhibits. The nation's top disc jockeys will be on hand to entertain.

Theme of the exposition is "Arrows to Atoms"—combining Oklahoma's Indian heritage with its plans for the next half-century. A towering, 200-foot arrow piercing the symbol of atomic energy with a map of Oklahoma as the nucleus is the focal point of the exposition grounds. Brilliantly lighted, it will be a giant red, white and gold landmark which will be visible for many miles to welcome visitors to Oklahoma's Semi-Centennial celebration.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

Probably always in American courts witnesses have been sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

American justice has long recognized half truths are oft worse than no truths. Yet this principle appears missing in appeals made to public to support foreign aid squandering, under fire in Congress. Nation's independent business, voting through National Federation of Independent Business, have opposed foreign aid continuation as unwarranted drain on domestic economic system on several occasions.

It is significant public defense of world-wide give-aways leave much more unsaid than is said. No mention is made, for example, that major beneficiary of largest share of $70 billion given away so far has been British lion.

Rather, instead, emphasis is placed on need of poor people of Free Viet Nam since their fight with communists.

But no mention is officially made to public on millions being given away to bolster Tito's communist government in Yugoslavia. Neither is any mention made that right at the time stirring appeals were being made for public support, foreign aid bureaucrats on just one of those days gave away another $14 million to India whose leader Nehru, on the basis of the record, is a great friend of both Russian and Chinese communist leaders.

Rather, public sold without National Federation of Independent Business

American aid for economic development, Viet Nam people would suffer. On other hand, nothing was said about fact another day during this period another $8 million was given France, almost $5 million given West Germany.

As every schoolboy knows, one of greatest French troubles is refusal of people to pay taxes; large share of taxes collected goes to subsidize French alcohol trust. And economists generally claim West Germany is experiencing greatest prosperity in German history.

Neither was anything said about large sums given Brazil, because every American housewife constantly paying higher prices for coffee, most of which comes from Brazil, would wonder why Brazil, of all nations, needs part of her tax money, too.

So whole question of foreign aid is ballyhoed to public with tactics comparable to slickness commonly expected of carnival pitchmen.

And while carnival pitchmen are artists in their own right, all but the very naive discount their claims heavily, knowing there is joker somewhere.

But in public mind there is a distinction made between carnival barkers and statesmen. From statesmen the public expects the whole truth.

In fact, as exemplified by modern French history, a republic whose statesmen adopt slick tactics heads into stormy times. But if the proponents of full scale foreign aid have their way, they will have put over on the American public a far greater bill of goods than the wildest of French politicians has even been able to put over on the Gauls.

OLDSMOBILE

GEARED TO SOUTHWESTERN LIVING

"Lasting Value is the thing that sold me on Olds!"

Attendant: Well, I've looked at Olds from every angle, underneath, under the hood, and I can tell you—Olds really knows how to put 'em together!

Owner: Yes, and Olds has style that you know will stay in style. Ever check on how much more you get for an Olds trade-in?

Attendant: You get more than lots of higher priced cars bring.

Owner: Right! The way Oldsmobile value lasts makes it a smart investment. And there's lots more . . .

Attendant: Sure, take that Rocket Engine . . . there's still nothing quite like it. I always talk it up, even though the new J-2 Rocket does mean I pump less gas.

Owner: When you add it up, and take a look at the price—it really makes sense to own an Olds.

Attendant: That's for sure. I'm driving a Golden Rocket 88, too! And more and more of my customers are going over to Oldsmobile.

Bring on the mountains! This new Chevrolet takes steep grades with such an easygoing stride you hardly even give them a thought. There's new lean-muscle power tucked away under that hood, just rarin' to handle any hill you aim it at. And no matter how curvy the road, a light touch keeps Chevrolet right on course. You'll like the solid, even-keel way it stays put on sharp turns. A car has to have a special kind of build to handle and ride and run like a Chevy. It has to have Chevrolet's low, wide stance, its outrigger rear springs and well-balanced weight! Drive this sweet, smooth and sassy performer at your Chevrolet dealer's.
