ANNUAL MEETING SET HERE NEXT MONDAY...

COTTON COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVES TO STRESS CRISIS FACING COTTON INDUSTRY IN MEETING

Representatives of the National Cotton Council will discuss the fate and future of the U. S. Cotton Industry in their annual meeting with Cochran County farmers, Monday, May 5th, at 8:00 p.m. in the County Activities Building — and the discussion this year should be one of the utmost importance ever held here.

With the cotton industry facing a real crisis, the question of whether or not the U. S. cotton industry can hold and increase its markets, has taken on renewed importance. A three part analysis of this question is on tap — an analysis by John Grigg of Lubbock; E. W. Sears of Memphis, Texas; and Dale Anderson of Durant, Oklahoma, of the Council's field service staff.

These men will explain in detail cotton's competitive situation at home and abroad, industry activities aimed at increasing consumption of its products, and potentials for cotton provided it competes effectively in price, quality and promotion. The discussion offers an excellent opportunity for both farmers and businessmen to see the problems of the industry as a whole, and to ask questions that will better enable them to get together with the industry, on an approach for solving them. Needless to say, it will also offer the long needed get-together of businessman and farmer, for a look at how the cotton industry affects both groups.

The Cochran County Cotton ginners and growers, both of whom were represented in a planning group that

WILLARD COX BRINGS MESSAGE TO FARMERS... Better Packaged Bale; One Variety of Cotton Shortest Road to Higher Cotton Prices, Spinners Tell Farmers

A better packaged bale, a more uniform staple - at least 1 and one sixteenth inches - and less variety in types were cited this week by Willard Cox, farmer representative to the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., from Cochran County, as improvements sought by cotton spinners.

Cox returned last week from South Carolina where he and 35 other Texas High Plains cotton producers, ginners and businessmen spent three days viewing cotton & synthetic textile mills.

The 36 men left Lubbock early April 21 by air for Greenwood, S. C., returning April 24.

(Cox said that spinners expressed no particular objection to light spot cotton if it could be bought at a lower price than white cotton.)

The group, touring the plants in numbers of four and five under plant supervision, viewed some exclusive cotton mills, some that used cotton and synthetics, one mill that employed only synthetics, and one mill that used glass fibres.

F. E. Grier, president of Abney Mills, which blends cotton and rayon, told Texans that the fact that they — cotton producers — were becoming more concerned with cotton prices instead of Federal loan prices, was a healthy sign. He added that cotton may be pictured as not competing successfully with synthetic fibres in a time when success depends on competition.

At the Lowenstein Cotton and S-4 Corp. at Anderson, near Greenwood, S. C., Robert W. Smith, who said he buys as much as 375,000 bales of cotton annually, took the visitors through his warehouse showing them neatly packaged bales of synthetic fibres stacked next to ragged, dirty, poorly packaged bales of cotton.

"Better packaged bales of cotton could cut mill waste on cotton and perhaps result in more cotton being used," Smith said.

P. S. Bailey, vice - president of the South Carolina Textile Manufacturers Association, told the group the two - day period for operations that may cover a period up to 24 hours in length.

During the exercise the local observer post is to make Aircraft Flash calls on all aircraft movements in their area of responsibility.

VETERAN 4-H CLUB MEMBER?

This is the 50th anniversary of 4-H clubwork in Texas. The State Extension Service would like some information to publicize the Anniversary.

If any former members of the early Corn or Tomato Clubs from 1905 through 1912 live in Cochran County, this office would appreciate talking with them.

FLIES ON EVERGREENS?

Lice infestations attract large numbers of flies to trees and shrubs to feed on honey dew. Sprays Lindane, Malathion or Nicotine should control the aphids that cause the honey dew or dusts of 1 percent Lindane, 4 percent Malathion or 2 percent Nicotine may be used to control the aphids (plant lice).

SCALES ON EUCONYMUS?

Scapes, such as San Jose, Obscure, Euconymus, Soft Brown, Mealy Bugs et al, suck the sap of plants. Most of them lay eggs that hatch into active crawlers. Infestations build up primarily during the growing season. They are inconspicuous and usually go unnoticed until plants are severely damaged.

Sprays for Scales are Lime - sulfur, Malathion, and Nicotine sulfate soup. Extension Bulletin L-199, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Ornamental Plants," is available from this office.

Cards of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

Words seem inadequate to express our thanks and appreciation to the wonderful folks who have done so much to help us during the lengthy illness and death of our loved one. May God bless each one who sat up with him, the blood donors, the ladies who prepared and served the food and the ones who have given financial aid.

Your kindness and sympathy are more deeply appreciated than any word of thanks can ever express by the family of Nolan Harvey Lovelace.

meetings were 174 boys and girls, adult leaders and parents, Ken Coffman and Ralph Cadjev are the instructors and leaders. They are doing an excellent job and enthusiasm has been increasing the attendance regularly when the weather permits.

Visual aids are used to stress shooting safety training at each meeting. The dads and mothers are lending a big hand at the rifle range in support of the important program assistance on the firing line. Several dads and mothers said this was one of the finer 4-H programs.

The firing positions are prone, sitting, kneeling and standing. Only rifles with bolt action are allowed on the range for safety reasons only. No ammunition is brought to the range by the members. The training period has been each Wednesday afternoon at 5:00 P.M.

A 4-H Rifle team is to be selected from the group this week to represent the county in the district contest to be held May 3, at Lubbock, Texas. Four members make up the team and Mr. Coffman and Mr. Cadjev will select the 4 members either Wednesday or Thursday before the meet at Lubbock, Saturday, advises the County Agent.

area, the Hubert Taylors. This was a planning meeting and both the extension agents visited in the Hubert Taylor's home. Our visits were most informal and a great deal of planning was accomplished at this first meeting.

4-H ENTOMOLOGY

Three meetings were held for training 4-H boys in entomology the month of April. Fifteen 4-H members are working hard on the study of insecticides, insect identification, harmful and beneficial insect knowledge, and control of harmful insects on the various crops.

The boys are trying to make the 4-H entomology team to represent Cochran County in the district elimination contest to be held May 3, at Lubbock. Four members will be selected on Friday (tomorrow), through a written examination.

There are two adult leaders who are assisting in this training. They are Don Avery with Wood Chemical Company and Bob Pierce, the High School Science teacher. They are doing an excellent job with the boys.

A film was shown at one meeting on outworms. Three sets of color slides were shown for identification of insects. The sets were "Genetic Sanitation," "Cotton Insects and their Control," and "Beneficial Insects."

Two more training meetings are scheduled before the district meeting. This is one of the best training schools for boys and dads. All dads are invited to attend these meetings too, advises the county agent.

4-H ELECTRIC TEAM

A 4-H electric team is being trained for the district elimination contest to be held Saturday, May 3rd, at Lubbock.

Curtis Chapman is the training instructor and adult leader. These boys met in the county agent's office Saturday afternoon on April 26. The boys demonstrated inadequate wiring of a house or for certain types of electrical appliances. One demonstration conducted was in the use of an electric toaster, two pictures of bread, and 100 feet of No. 18 wire as an extension cord. As the toaster was hooked up to the outlet plug directly, it did a better and quicker job of toasting. When the 100 feet of No. 18 wire extension cord was connected to the same plug outlet and the toaster was attached to the other end of the 100 foot cord it took longer to toast, and it was not toasted so well. It proved that a drop in voltage occurs, heating of wires increased, and this could be dangerous as well as offering proof the equipment did not function so well.

Wire your house for the job and the electrical equipment you have to and expect to use.

On the vacuum cleaner demonstration, the RPM of the motor was less when voltage in the line dropped. Try this experiment sometime and see for yourself, advises the agent.

4-H CLUB MEETINGS

The six 4-H clubs for boys all held regular meetings in April. The county agent met with all clubs. Two hundred boys attended all six meetings. Demonstrations on cotton, beef calves, swine, entomology, electricity, rifle and grain sorghums were discussed. Safety was discussed in one of the meetings and a film "Control of the Cutworm" was shown to another group.

The seventh and eighth grade 4-H club of Whiteface held a coffee can supper Friday night April 25, in the caliche pit 7 miles southwest of Whiteface, and the 5th grade Morton 4-H Club had an evening of entertainment at the roller skating rink on Friday, April 25th.

On Thursday, April 24, a 4-H Tractor Maintenance school was held at Bledsoe in the evening. About 20 club boys and dads attended. The meeting was held in the Griffith Tractor Shop building, Bledsoe. Free soft drinks were served by Marvin Griffith.

At the meeting Clide McCormack, adult leader, gave a lesson on tractor safety. Ralph Cadjev, another adult leader gave a lesson on lubrication and cleaning the air filter. County Agent Homer E. Thompson showed a film to the group on "The Care of a Tractor." More community meetings on tractor training are to be held at Bledsoe, Whiteface, and Morton, after the planting season is over.

Pioneer Village

A Glimpse Into Our Past

Mechanical banks, now returning to popularity, first appeared on the American scene not quite a century ago when it was first learned how to cast iron in thin sections.

At right is shown the bank on which the first patent was issued in 1869. When the doorbell was pulled, a monkey popped up in the cupola and received the coin.

This bank portrayed a corrupt politician. A coin placed in his hand was dropped into his coat pocket.

This mechanical bank portrayed President Theodore Roosevelt shooting a bear in a hollow tree.

These and many other mechanical banks are on display at Harvia Ward's Pioneer Village at Minden, Nebraska, on U. S. Highway 6-34. Twenty buildings containing 20,000 different items show America's progress since 1830 at this unique place on the prairie.

WHY?

YESTERDAY it wasn't there. Today, he picks it up and his mind is filled with wonder: why did it grow like that?

The miracle of growth! Whether it's a "toadstool" that springs up overnight or a cancer cell that suddenly comes into being, we've a lot to learn about the whole beautiful process of orderly growth . . . and the dreadful, senseless growth that is cancer.

The cancer puzzle is tied up in growth—growth of body cells smaller than the periods on this page.

Scientists, working under grants from the American Cancer Society, are ceaselessly studying cells—normal and cancer cells. And they too are asking: Why?

Why do cells suddenly change from normal growth to uncontrolled, disorderly growth? This question can be answered only by the most probing, painstaking and costly research.

Your contributions to the American Cancer Society will support hundreds of scientific studies necessary to save lives today and tomorrow.

Remember: Cancer can strike anyone. But you can strike back hard with your dollars. Send your gift—a generous one, if possible—to CANCER, c/o your local post office.

BETTER SCHOOLS — AND YOU

EDUCATION — A BUSINESS PROBLEM

It's a long time since one of the nation's top businessmen mocked Congress by appearing before one of its committees with a dummy on his lap and saying: "The public be damned!"

Henry Toy, Jr., President of the National Citizens Council for Better Schools.

With the disappearance of the robber baron and the death of the tycoon, American business assumed a role of corporate responsibility for the general welfare. It has gone far beyond lip service and service and today finds the local businessman and the corporation executive realizing that his thinking and his help is needed to deal with the problems of education.

It's really a magnet of mutual need that draws the schools and business together. Industry is expanding; so are schools. Industry is reaching out for new ideas and new methods; so are schools. Industry needs a climate of favorable opinion in which to survive; so do schools.

In the midst of the postwar boom, industry found itself faced with a growing manpower shortage. Surveys showed it would probably continue. Automation arrived, but time needed for more highly skilled manpower. And then Sputnik flashed across the sky! Analyses, commentaries and predictions by experts all stress that how far and how fast science and industry can push ahead depends on the quality of the future educational output.

Today there is a foreseeable shortage not only of specialists and technicians in all fields, but also of management personnel. The complexity of modern business requires these men to have far wider grounding in general education than had their predecessors. The management man of today is called upon to have the broader view, the ability to work and communicate with varied groups, the talent for synthesis as well as analysis, and a familiarity with psychology and philosophy as well as propulsion and parity.

Only good education can supply such demands. Business and schools are drawing toward each other to help supply that good education. Both are eager to find more and better ways to work together.

A new booklet called "How Business Helps the Schools" is designed as a guide for both businessmen and educators. It describes 30 tested ways to work with schools, as well as the underlying principles to be observed for best results.

For your free copy, write Dept. A, Better Schools, 9 East 40th Street, New York 16, New York.

set up this meeting, announced the final plans Saturday and pointed up the seriousness of the challenge to U. S. cotton, not only from a host of man-made fibre substitutes and foreign cotton production, but also from the many goods and services being offered consumers and promoted aggressively.

The Cotton Council presentation is to employ numerous slides to portray graphically where the cotton industry stands at present, what is being done about its situation, and where it is headed. The Council field representatives will describe the progress that is being made to achieve a competitive price for cotton through efficiencies in production, marketing, processing and manufacturing.

Through the entire program, one fact continues to stand out clearly — though not near enough emphasis has been placed upon getting the fact over to farmers and others dependent on cotton for their existence. The fact is that quality cotton, can be sold by farmers of the Plains, indeed as much quality cotton as they can produce.

But it must be TOP QUALITY, and efforts must be made toward gaining this objective. The presentation will analyze the role of quality in cotton's competition for markets, revealing how fibre must not only appeal to consumers but also to the textile mill and those who merchandise textile products. It will give specific examples of how consumption has been expanded by capitalizing on research and promotional opportunities.

The alternatives for cotton, as it now stands are:

Either a substantial increase in markets by keeping pace with the rapid expansion in population and standing against us.

ards of living at home and abroad; Or, dwindling markets, reduced acreage and volume, and a constantly shrinking income, not only for the cotton industry, but for all who are dependent upon it.

This is a must meeting for you. A must meeting in order to give you needed insight into just what the real problems are — just what the real fight is — just who is on your side and my side — and who is on the other side. A must meeting to enable all of us dependent on cotton to pull together instead of thinking that segments of our own group are pulling against us.

The Thinker . . . are you one?

A lot of drivers give very little thought to the care of their cars. Most any gasoline will do, or indifferent service. Not so the thinking man!

He knows his car is a big investment. He wants the best gasoline and motor oil and the best service he can get to prolong his car's life, improve its performance, maintain its value.

We believe that most of the men and women who come to Phillips 66 Stations are the thinking type . . . people who appreciate expert service performed by trained men.

Stop at Phillips 66 stations. See what we mean by "Hospitality on the Highway."

Cole, President of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturer's Association, put the finishing touches to the sculpture. The "Lone Star of Texas" in ice was presented to Governor Price Daniel of Texas during the ceremony in which he officially designated May 2 as "Texas Ice Day."

"Texas Ice Day" is being observed in recognition of the great part the ice industry has had in the growth and development of Texas industries and economy. 'The Cowboy' Is Real Western; To Show May 4-5

In all the 50 years of motion picture history, more stories have been filmed about the west than any other subject. Now at last comes an adult Western, Columbia Pictures' "Cowboy," starring Glenn Ford, Jack Lemmon, his first Western role, Ann Kashfi and Brian Donlevy. said to capture the authenticity, excitement and greatness that is the real American cowboy.

"Cowboy," come to the big screen in Morton, is said to be the real life story of Frank R. Adams, an adventurer and would-be boy, a tenderfoot who leads a tough rancher into taking his cattle drive along the trail to the west and back. The relationship between these two men, as they meet, the gunning and roaring gusto that mark them are said to make "Cowboy" the best because it really is the West. Ford plays the hard bitten rancher who sobers up one night in Chicago to find hotel clerk Lemmon, his partner.

Miss Kashfi plays a Missouri title Baron's daughter and Brian Donlevy, a gunman who joins Ford's rough crew of cowboys.

The picture shows at the Sunday and Monday, May 4 and 5.
