Morton goes against Mules

Through Muleshoe Mules in Indian-land this Friday night Morton's home football open-house for the non-conference game at Indian Stadium is 7 p.m.

Muleshoe brings a 1-0 record in their opener last week while Morton is looking for a first 1965 victory, having won a 14-0 decision to Olton in Friday's lid-lifter.

The Mules sport a powerful attack, based around 195-pound Ronnie Swint, a senior who was shifted to the backfield after starring in the Muleshoe line several years. Ransom Jones, a junior scored twice last week against Dimmitt. Joe Adams, a senior speedster at 145 pounds, was a thorn in the sides of the visiting team for two years, and was the same again this week. Don Douglas, 180, and Gary Edwards, 198, both seniors will be at tackle, while seniors Charles Jones, 160, and Sandy Culbert, 170, will hold down the guard slots. Rounding out the line at center will be Terry Kendall, a 190-lb. junior.

The Mules have changed their offense somewhat, fashioning it after the Denver City offense, which has been so successful in recent years. The line men are split fairly wide, and their backs are exceptionally close to the line of scrimmage. This type of offense is especially effective on power plays up the middle and quick-opening plays, which Muleshoe used a great deal of the time against Dimmitt.

Morton Coach J. P. Jones will go with approximately the same line-up that went against Olton. Jerry Elliott, center, who sustained a knee injury last week, will probably be held out of action against the Mules, with sophomore Ray King, a 161-pounder, filling that slot. Willy Moore will step into a defensive tackle position for the Indians this week.

Ends for Morton will be Eddie Holloway and LaMell Abbe, with Larry Shaw and Kenny Coats filling the tackle positions. Eddie Lyons and Mike Irwin will be at the guards. The backfield will see John St. Clair at quarterback, Timmy Petree and Jimmy Joyce at halfbacks, and either Jimmy Studdard or Randall Tanner at fullback.

Cochran county voters ballot for amendment in opposition to cities

Cochran County voters, as opposed to most of the rest of Texas, balloted over two to one in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment to raise the number of Texas senators from 31 to 39.

One hundred and twenty-one voted for the amendment and fifty-eight voted against it. The precincts voted as follows:

Precinct No.	For	Against
Morton 1	78	27
Whiteface 2	23	6
Bledsoe 3	4	13
Star Rt. Gin 4	9	5
Lehman 5	0	4
Townsend 6	4	3
Absentee	3	0

The major cities, with a few exceptions, voted against the bill. Lubbock was one of the few cities

City Council holds special session Tuesday evening

The City Council met in special session Tuesday at 5 p.m. to try to decide on a replacement for Bobby Word, who resigned from the police force.

Word handed in his letter of resignation around Aug. 23. Police Chief Curtis Cloud spoke briefly explaining how the present police officers were having to work overtime to fill the vacancy. He also said that the radio in the city police car was in pretty bad shape and was in the repair shop a good deal of the time. The Council decided to get estimates on a new radio or a good second hand one from several companies.

The Council decided to wait until next week at the next regular session, Monday night, to decide upon the new patrolman. The Council reasoned that a little more time was needed to let persons who wanted to apply for the job to submit their applications to the City Council. There are now five applications before the City Council.

Mayor Dean Weatherly asked the Council if any one would like to attend the Texas Municipal League meeting at Lubbock. The meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. at the Coco Inn and state senator Doc Blanchard will speak. City Secretary Elra Oden, and Councilman Walter Taylor, said that they

Applications

Applications are now being received for city patrolman, to replace Bobby Word who resigned Aug. 23. Applications may be submitted to Mayor Dean Weatherly, City Secretary Elra Oden, or members of the City Council. Applications should be in before Monday, Aug. 12. On Monday, at the regular City Council meeting, members of the City Council plan to choose one applicant. There are now five applications in for the position, and City Secretary Elra Oden urged that anyone else who might be interested in the job to submit their application.

Dog and cat law gets an extension

A 15 day extension has been granted for the new dog and cat ordinance, city hall announced today.

Originally, all dogs and cats were to have had their city license and tags by Sept. 1. But, with the new extension, the deadline will be Sept. 16. To keep dogs out of the pound after Sept. 16, all dogs must have a city license and a tag for rabies. The license costs four dollars. Dogs that are in heat or are dangerous must be kept penned up.

School attendance drops by 69 compared with first week of last year

Total school enrollment in Morton public schools for the first week is down 69 students from last year, Superintendent Ray Lanier announced today.

At the end of the first day in 1964 there were 1126 students enrolled in Morton schools. The first day of school this year, Monday, Aug. 30, there were 1057 students that enrolled for classes. At the end of the first week in 1964, a total of 1221 students were recorded as being enrolled. At the end of the first week this year, from Aug. 30 through Sept. 3, 1152 students have been enrolled in Morton schools. This is a drop of 69 students for the first week of school in 1965 when compared with the enrollment for the first week in 1964.

Lanier said that the Morton schools would probably continue to pick up students, especially until Christmas. He said that usually just before Christmas enrollment is at its highest peak. He said, "I don't know for sure why the enrollment dropped some for the first week this year. I do know that we had a lot of families move away last spring."

Lanier said that everything went pretty smoothly the first week. He said, "Of course the first week is usually pretty hectic. But I am happy with the way things went in general." Lanier said that he is

Chamber votes to award two bonds

Members of the Board of Directors of the Morton Chamber of Commerce met Monday and voted to give bonus government bonds for the first load of grain and the first bale of cotton.

It was decided to give $25 in government bonds for the first load of grain and $50 in government bonds for the first bale of cotton. It was also voted that the farmers who win the bonds will have to be present at the Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet to receive the bonds, and if they are not they will automatically lose the prize money. The prize winners will be given tickets to the banquet.

The meeting began at 7:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce building and adjourned around 8:30 p.m. Those present were Don Workman, Gene Snyder, Tommy Hawkins, Tommy Lynch, Jack Russell, Woody Dickson, Jerry Daniel.

Tickets are $1.00 each, and the holder may have all the pancakes and sausage or bacon he can eat. Tickets may be obtained from most booster club members, or may be purchased at the door.

The supper is one of the money-raising projects of the booster club, and the proceeds go to help buy the film for the movies of the Indian football games.

Murray Cone and S. M. Monroe are co-chairmen for the event, Monroe taking over for Ray Lanier, who was originally appointed, but who could not serve. Members of the booster club will assist in the serving and clean-up work. If possible, Morton coaches will even be pressed into service.

After the supper is completed, See SUPPER page 2

Bill Watts

Bill Watts tells of years away from United States

A local man who was born in Morton, grew up here, and was graduated from Morton High School, is home visiting his parents after doing almost seven years of missionary work in New Zealand.

Bill Watts, his wife and four children are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Watts of Morton. Bill has been doing missionary work for the Church of Christ. Ever since 1958, except for a brief six months leave in 1960, Bill and his family have been in New Zealand.

Bill went to Abilene Christian College for two years, and then See WATTS page 2

Police still look for Robinson in Sunday stabbing

J. T. Daniels, Morton, was stabbed about 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Shamrock Service Station north of Morton on the Muleshoe highway.

He was taken to the Lubbock Methodist hospital where he was listed in critical condition Sunday night. Tuesday night he was listed in fair condition in the intensive care ward. Sheriff Hazel Hancock said that a warrant for "assault with intent to murder" had been issued for C. L. Robinson of Morton. Sheriff Hancock said that the whereabouts of Robinson is not known.

Chester Miller, Sheriff's deputy, who investigated the incident, said that the stabbing allegedly occurred over the paying for or the price of the gas. It was reported that Daniels was stabbed 12 times.

Clarence Dunaway dies from injuries

Clarence Dunaway, 57, of Portales, New Mexico, expired on the way to Lubbock Methodist Hospital Thursday at around 4:30 a.m. He was being transported by Singleton ambulance.

Burial will be at the Wheeler Mortuary in Portales. Dunaway, turned over Aug. 25 in a 1962 Volkswagen about 12:25 p.m. 11.8 miles west of Morton on State 116. Investigating officer T. A. Rowland said that apparently the vehicle ran off the right side of the road, going west, crossed over the highway and turned over one and one-fourth times on the left side of the road when the driver attempted to bring it under control.

Melton brings in first load of grain

The first load of grain was brought in by Gary Melton, of Whiteface, to the Beseda Grain Co. Tuesday, Aug. 17, at 2:00 p.m.

It was previously reported by the Tribune that Floyd Rowland was the first farmer to bring in the first load of grain on the same date. He had trouble with his truck and got to the gin about 4:15 p.m., which was a little more than two hours after the first load had been brought in by Melton.

Watts tells of New Zealand

preached one year in Texas. He preached two years in Kansas and seven years for a church in Los Angeles. The Los Angeles church is the one that has been sponsoring Bill and his family in New Zealand.

The Watts have been living in Nelson, New Zealand. The population is approximately 25,000. Bill said the climate is pretty mild, but that it gets damper than Morton in the winter. He said the scenery in New Zealand is beautiful, with pretty lakes, green hill sides, neatly laid out farms and good beaches along the sea shore. He said that actually New Zealand is two islands, but that it is big enough so that one "doesn't get the feeling of living on an island," even though in places the diameter of the land is only five miles.

The Watts have built up a small congregation at Nelson. The group has 18-20 full time members and have built and paid for their own meeting place which can hold 170 in the auditorium. The vacation Bible school in the last four years has steadily increased until now it totals 237.

Bill said that primarily his job in Nelson was to try to get the congregation to become self reliant and independent. He said that each Church of Christ is independent in a community, and that there is no central governing organization on a national basis. The churches are self governing and have their own ministers. Some churches, such as the one in California that is sponsoring Bill do send out missionaries, however.

When the Watts return to New Zealand, they will go to the city of Auckland to try to build up another congregation. They will be leaving for Auckland in January or December.

The Watts said that living in New Zealand was quite different in some aspects than living in Morton or anywhere in the United States. They said, "It takes a little time to get used to New Zealand. It is different type of culture and one has to adjust over a long period of time."

The Watts said that the homes are nice, but that they have no extras like American homes do, such as central heat, garbage disposal units, or central air conditioning.

The hotels have no central heating either, and that is one complaint American tourists have in New Zealand. The Watts said one New Zealander told them, "You Americans certainly like your heat don't you?"

The houses are painted in what Americans would probably term a wild array of colors. Mrs. Watts said she said the New Zealanders think nothing of using four or five colors on a house. The Watt's landlord painted their house yellow, trimmed the windows and doors in black, painted the roof gray, and was going to paint the shutters and door turquoise when Bill stopped him.

"The cupboard doors in the kitchens are painted alternate colors, and it looks as if the painter were trying to use up buckets of different colored paint," Mrs. Watts said. She also said the cupboards are too narrow for the American twelve inch dinner plates.

Mrs. Watts added, "The furniture in the New Zealand home isn't as comfortable as American furniture and there just isn't such a thing as a hide-a-bed in the entire country." She said that most of the houses were of a brick or frame nature and they had very few accessories, such as light fixtures. She said, "There are no lamps or fixtures for the lights. The lights just hang from the ceiling without any fixtures around them."

The Watts said that in New Zealand there is not a wide variety of food. Bill said, "They don't have the kind of food Texan's like. They don't have black eyed peas or corn bread, and they haven't heard of pizza and they don't have shortening." He added, "The oleo comes in big chunks and is non colored. It looks kind of like paraffin." Mrs. Watts said there were no dill pickles and that one English woman jokingly complained of having "withdrawal symptoms" from the lack of dill pickles.

New Zealand is trying to raise its population and therefore has a good maternity and child care program. Mrs. Watts said that she thought the mortality death rate in New Zealand was the second lowest in the world. She said the women are required to stay in the hospital eight days to two weeks after they have given birth. After the mother leaves the hospital nurses come to the home and help the mother with the new child. These nurses belong to the Plunkett Society, a non profit organization which is supported by donations. It received its name from the man who was Governor General of England at the time the society was founded. The maternity care is free and the government gives the mother $2.10 a week per child up to the age of fifteen as an incentive for people to have children.

The Watts said the country is highly socialized and that the telephone company, railroads, electricity company, medical profession, and airways are controlled by the government. Mrs. Watts said that she thought almost everyone in New Zealand had ridden an airplane at one time or another. She said that this was because the buses stop running at night and then travelers have to find a hotel until the next morning, and that most people just find it cheaper and easier to fly. She said that most of the planes are DC 3's and that their safety record is excellent. Most of the air fields are small and of grass.

Bill said that the business attitude was not quite as aggressive as it is in the United States. He said that quite possibly if a businessman didn't have an article at his fingertips that a customer where else he could find it.

Bill said that quite a few American tourists give the United States a bad name. He said, "A lot of Americans jump off the boat in New Zealand and spend a lot of money, and the New Zealanders get the impression that all Americans are rich and don't have to work."

The Watts said that weddings have to be between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. The weddings have to be public and the doors of the church have to be left open because of the old English law "if anyone has an objection to this wedding let him say so now, or forever hold his peace."

Bill said that New Zealand has thermal springs and heat, and has power generators that run off the thermal heat. He said that it was possible to fish in one of the lakes and then drop the fish in one chased for building, remodeling, or adding on to residences. Most of the residences were of a frame nature, with a few being brick veneer. The prices for permits ranged from $16,000 for building a new home, to $75 for remodeling. The largest permit for a residence was issued to Merritt & Stoker for the $16,000 home of B. D. Elliot. The home is of brick veneer and is 74 X 35. The permit was issued March 5.

None of the above figures apply to businesses or residences outside the city limits.

the regular meeting of the booster club will be held, featured by the movie films of the Morton-Mule shoe football game this Friday night. All those attending the supper are invited to stay for the meeting. Booster club officials pointed out that the ladies are issued a special invitation to watch the game film.

Council

might like to go. Mayor Weatherly also reminded the council of the Annual Municipal League meeting to be held in San Antonio Oct. 31 through Nov. 2.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Dean Weatherly, Councilmen T. K. Williamson, Walter Taylor, Kenneth Thompson, E. C. Seany, City Secretary Elra Oden, and police Chief Burtis Cloud.

Labor Day weekend visitors in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. McSpadden were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Longino and family of El Paso.

of the thermal springs and have it cooked in a few minutes. Mrs. Watts said that occasionally a child feel into the thermal springs and was scalded to death.

The New Zealanders have a different terminology for driving and automobiles. A windshield is a windscreens, a hood, a bonnet, a truck, a boot They dip their lights and don't dim them, and they over take another car, not pass it. Automobiles are expensive in New Zealand. Bill said that he knows of a man who paid $2700 for a 1958 Chevrolet.

The Watts said that New Zealand has been a nation for about one hundred years and that it is pretty well developed. The standard of living is not as high as that of the United States, but high when compared on a worldly basis. The people are socially and economically stable. Taxes are high and the school system up to high school is based on the American school system. The land offers good hunting and fishing, tourist attractions, produces timber, wool, and mutton, and has good farms. Farmers with problems can go directly to the government with their problems, where as the American farmer usually go to the county agent.

The Watts have had two children born in New Zealand, a girl six, and a boy three and one half years old. This is the first time the boy has been to America, and instead of New Zealand seeming strange to him, America seems different.

Olton blanks Indians in Friday opener

The Olton Mustangs used a combination of a three-year letterman and a young fellow who wasn't even listed on the program to put a crimp into the opening grid festivities of the Morton Indians, as the Mustangs blanked the local eleven, 14-0, at Olton Friday night.

Joe Priest, who has been quarterbacking the Mustangs for three years, proved himself worthy of his new tailback position, and Ben Akin, a freshman who joined the squad after the programs were printed, tallied the two Olton scores. Akin broke loose for 33 yards and a TD early in the second quarter, and Priest rammed into the promised land from four yards less than four minutes later. Don Mitchell kicked both extra points.

Morton seriously threatened to score only twice, getting inside the ten yard line both times, but they just couldn't get to the double chalk mark. The Olton club was also within the ten yard stripe on one other occasion and didn't score.

Penalties hurt the Indians when they got close to the goal line. In the first period, Morton had a first down on the Olton 20. Jimmy Studdiford carried for four to the 18, then quarterback John St. Clair kept for ten yards to the six for what would have been another first down, but Morton was detected clipping, and the ball brought back to the 26. Randall Tanner moved the ball to the 14, and St. Clair carried to the eight for a first down. St. Clair was then thrown for a two yard loss, and the next two plays netted no yardage. Eddie Lyons attempted a field goal from that point, but it was inches off to the left.

A pass interception by Timmy Petree in the third quarter set up another scoring opportunity for the Indians. He grabbed off an aerial at the Olton 35, and then reeled off a 17 yard scamper to the enemy 14 yard stripe. A backfield in motion penalty set the Indians back five yards, but even so the fourth down play was less than the length of a football shy of making a first down on the Olton four.

The Indians missed another golden opportunity to tally very early in the contest. An on-sides kick by the locals to start the ball game was recovered by Eddie Holway on the Olton 45 yard line. Morton racked up a first down on the 34, but Petree fumbled the pigskin and Jackie Burkhalter recovered for the Olton eleven.

Olton's first touchdown drive came after the missed field goal try by Morton. The Mustangs took over on their own 20 yard stripe, and with Burkhalter and Priest doing most of the ball carrying, they moved down the field.

As the first quarter ended, Olton had a first down on the Morton 43 yard strip. Priest carried for six, then a play netted no gain, and Burkhalter went to the 33. Freshman Akin was inserted into the Olton lineup, and he circled his own left end on a reverse and outran the Morton defenders into the endzone. There was 10:10 left in the second stanza. Mitchell's kick was long and true and the Mustangs led, 7-0.

A long punt return by Priest set up Olton's second touchdown just a few minutes later. After the Mustangs scored their initial TD, the Indians couldn't move offensively and were forced to punt. Priest gathered Kenny Palmer's punt in at his own 30 and raced to the Morton 21 before being brought down by Palmer, injured shoulder and all. Dale DeBerry picked up 17 yards to the four and then Priest bulled his way into the endzone with 6:51 left on the clock in the half. Mitchell's foot made the tally 14-0 and closed out the evening's scoring.

Priest raced some 65 yards to score late in the game on another punt return, but the play was nullified because of a penalty. Priest was not only outstanding on offense for Olton, but on defense as well, as he kept the Indians from scoring several times by getting the Morton ballcarrier when he was loose. Mitchell and Gail Bizzell, middle guard, were stand-outs on defense in the Olton forward wall.

St. Clair was the leading Morton ball carrier, making most of his yardage on the option play. Petree also looked good carrying the ball for the Indians. Petree did a fine job on defense also, while Eddie Lyons was probably the stand-out man on defense in the Morton line.

Flower arranging is shown to Garden Club

The Cochran County Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Don Workman on September 6, 1965. Mrs. W. B. McSpadden presided in the absence of the president.

Mrs. J. L. Schooler reported that the club had received the Junior Gardeners Handbook and that nine meetings per year had been scheduled for Junior Gardeners. The meetings will be on the third Tuesday, immediately after school. Members volunteered for hostess duty and program duty for these meetings.

Mrs. Don Workman, projects chairman, announced committees for the Tour of Homes in December. She also announced the "Pais and Gals" system for the Fall Flower Show to assist new club members. Each experienced club member was paired with a new member for the purpose of understanding the flower show schedule and activities of the Flower Show.

Mrs. C. B. Jones distributed the 1966 Flower Arrangement and Garden Calendars to each member to be sold for $1.50 each.

Arrangement of Jewels was the program title with "lovely flowers are the smiles of God's goodness," as the quotation for the evening. Mrs. Bobby Travis was the program leader. Mrs. Don Workman made an abstract flower arrangement and gave some of the qualifications for this type as simplicity, the qualities of form, color and texture. Mrs. W. B. McSpadden made a crescent shaped arrangement using yellow flowers with ivy in a yellow container. She explained the crescent arrangement as coming from the circle and the imaginary completion of the upward curves of the crescent would produce the circle. Mrs. Bobby Travis made a Hogarth Curve arrangement using analogous colors. Analogous colors being hues that are close together on the color wheel. In this type arrangement, at least three hues must be used. The colors in this analogous Hogarth Curve were orange though yellow-green.

Mrs. J. L. Schooler made a horizontal arrangement suitable for a table. She told members that an arrangement of this type should cover no more than one-third of the length of the table. Mrs. Murray Crone made an arrangement in the Japanese manner stating that color was not an important factor in this type arrangement. She said that the three main lines of the Moribaba style were Heaven, which must be the length and the depth of the container in height, Man, which must be two-thirds the height of Heaven, and Earth, which must be one-third the height of Heaven. These three lines form a triangle placement when viewed from the top looking down in to the arrangement.

Mrs. Roy Hill made a French-influencing arrangement. She gave the history of the different periods in French arrangements and told the members that many of our garden flowers of today were used in the French periods, also. She said that it was in this era that the Hogarth Curve was first used, and that a French arrangement should be light and airy around the edges with the beauty of individual flowers prevalent. Mrs. T. M. Tanner made a vertical arrangement in a bottle using pink glads, one deep pink dahlia, and grapes which she had made by dipping pecans in colored wax.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Thompson on September 20, 1965.

Those present were Mesdames W. B. McSpadden, Bobby Travis, C. E. Belk, Murray Crone, C. B. Jones, T. M. Tanner, Clyde Brownlow, Wayne Porter, J. L. Schooler, W. E. Hovey, R. L. DeBusk, Kenneth Thompson, and Don Workman.

Special guests for the meeting were Misses Charlotte Jones, Susan Schooler, Gail Sanders, Christi Sanders who are prospective Junior Gardeners.

In one pocket—out another

The welfare state comes high—and the price goes ever higher. Take these opening words of an AP dispatch: "Millions of middle-bracket taxpayers may be startled next year when they start toting up the bill for medical care for the aged and increased old age cash benefits. For the typical wage earner, the increase in Social Security taxes will wipe out 60 per cent or more of the income tax cut he received in 1964-65."

As an example, the dispatch tells of a man with a wife and two children earning $6,500 a year, which is the top base on which social security taxes are levied and which is also about the national median income. His income tax reduction was around $140. Next year's social security tax boost will take something like $103 of that—and, under current schedules, there will be a further increase of $13 in 1967 and still another of $33 in 1969.

In other instances, taxpayers in the middle brackets will find that their total social security plus income tax bill is actually larger than it was before the much-ballyhooed income tax reductions went into effect.

Here is a perfect example of how the government puts money into one of our pockets—then promptly takes it out of another. And if the drive toward a total welfare state continues, the take-out is going to be vastly larger than the put-in.

Right-to-vote and work?

Some of the most important and far-reaching legislation the current Congress is still considering has to do with labor.

At the top of the list is the drive to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartly Act which permits states, if they so choose, to enact Right-to-Work laws. This has passed the House and is now in the Senate. If the Senate succumbs to the powerful, even ruthless, political pressures which demand repeal, rank-and-file working people will be deprived of an absolutely essential right and protection. No matter what their beliefs and wants, they will be forced to join and pay dues to a private organization, a union, or lose their jobs. This is as unthinkable as if Congress passed a law denying a man the right to join a union.

Along with this, another vital issue is at stake. It is the Right-to-Vote. This simply means that no union should be certified as bargaining agent for employees without a secret ballot election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. As of now, certification can be gained on the basis of a card count. The weaknesses in this are glaring. As the Cincinnati Enquirer has said, "Certification of a union as the bargaining agent for a group of employees should not be made on the basis of signatures to cards, as pressures conceivably could be used to obtain these that would not be operative in a secret election. . . . Nor should there be a recognition simply on the basis of a contract between employer and union leader because there have been cases where so-called sweetheart contracts scratched the back of the employer and the union boss but sold out the working man."

The weary charge that Right-to-Work and Right-to-Vote laws are "antiunion" is as phony as a three dollar bill. They are, instead, protections against exploitation and misrepresentation of the desires and beliefs of the working man who should have freedom of choice.

U.S. code of conduct

A British woman delegate of an organization called "World Council of Peace," recently visited North Viet Nam. According to a report by the woman published in the "London Observer," two captive U.S. Air Force officers were brought into the presence of that "peace" delegation and engaged in conversation by a North Viet official whom the delegate referred to as "commandant." During the conversation, so the woman reported, one of the U.S. officers asked the Communist official "exactly what his (the prisoner's) status was under international law." She described the Communist's response as follows: "The commandant replied that since the United States had not declared war, prisoners were being held not as prisoners of war, but as murderers."

During the Korean conflict the Communists demonstrated repeatedly that they abide by only those elements of international law which serve their purposes at the moment. Nonetheless, we consider it both improper and unnecessary that Americans should be sent into combat under circumstances where, legally and technically, they may not actually qualify as prisoners of war when captured by the enemy. The U.S. Fighting Man's Code of Conduct, issued by the President shortly after the Korean Armistice, requests of our servicemen, if they are captured by the enemy, that they shall "keep faith" with their country and their countrymen. That's as it should be, but the Code also implies that a serviceman can count on his country to keep faith with him. And this, we think, is not being done when a man is sent into war without a clear declaration to that effect by his nation's government.

If, as some contend, Congressional resolutions now in effect

Need to promote . . .
"Everybody knows about my store," is the common retort of many of our older business establishments.

And this is absolutely true, if the merchant is speaking only of old-time residents. But it isn't true at all if he is referring to the many newcomers to our area, who presently outnumber the old-timer about five to ten to one. It is hardly likely they will know about any store.

This is why the old and new merchants here must promote.

This is why we must resort to seemingly frivolous and unusual schemes such as the Panorama of Homes, a sidewalk sales day, bargain days, crazy day sales, or special individual store or shopping center promotions.

Let's take an example of a Dallas shopping center. The businesses are composed of sound, sedate, dignified merchants in every place. But they're in a highly competitive area. They must compete. So they do.

And they employ some of the most outlandish schemes imaginable. But they work!

They've had mock hangings, a fake bank hold-up, free airplane trips bathing beauty contests, and old Santa Claus landing by helicopter.

No longer can any business flourish simply by moving in some shelves, counters, and merchandise, then open the doors and beckon the public to rush in and make the owner rich.

The merchant who is to survive today either has to be in a financial position where he can just exist and keep his store as a hobby or place to hang out, or he has got to get with it.

He has got to promote, then promote some more.

New hope for young offenders

Both the United States and Great Britain have been developing more effective methods for reforming and rehabilitating young offenders. Progress in both countries has been uneven. Both have a long way to go.

In both, theory far outstrips practice. In most American states juvenile and family courts are overworked and understaffed. So are probation officers, volunteer agencies, and training schools. In Britain facilities are similarly overburdened and inadequately staffed.

Now in Britain there are proposals for major reform. A White Paper on "The Child, the Family and the Young Offender," proposes to remove those under 16, so far as possible, from the criminal law and the courts. It also proposes to separate, insofar as possible, offenders between 16 and 21 from the ordinary criminal courts and from the adult penal system.

Children under 16, instead of being dealt with by juvenile courts, would appear before local family councils appointed by local authorities. Councils would try to reach agreement with parents as to appropriate remedial treatment. Should they fail to do so, a family court would then make the determination.

Those between 16 and 21 would appear before a young offenders' court. Sentence would be either a short term in a detention center or a longer period in a youth training center. Certain more serious cases would be committed to a superior court, and homicide would continue to be dealt with at assizes. Borstals and senior approved schools would be reorganized into a comprehensive system of residential training.

The White Paper moves in the right direction. It recognizes the importance of working with the family as well as the child. It sees the welfare of the young person concerned as "the determining factor in deciding what is to be done."

At a time when some young people have been involved in acts that shock the public conscience, the report reassuringly states: "There is no intention to deal lightly with young offenders — quite the contrary. What is needed is firm discipline and constructive treatment directed to the welfare or rehabilitation of the individual child or young person."

Go on strike

In the earlier days of the labor union movement, the unions went out on strike only after all other avenues failed, and it was not something to be taken lightly.

Times have changed. Unions strike at the drop of a hat, at the slightest excuse. Unions strike because they don't like employers, maybe because they don't like another union.

Picket lines and striking workers are common in this country and we have become used to it.

Too often the strike now seems to be viewed as a primary weapon, to be flourished for trivial reasons.

The American Motors Co. fired a union steward for insubordination, and the union went on strike, idling 18,000 men at the AMC factory and crippling the company which is fighting to hold a slice of the automobile market.

The maritime strike which tied up most of the country's ships for two months, was called because of trivial reasons that had nothing to do with dislike of an "impartial arbitrator."

Unions apparently do not care who gets hurt by a strike. Most strikes, if prolonged, lose more wages for union members than is ever reclaimed by terms of a settlement. The steel strike of 1959 caused a recession in 1960 which hurt people all over the country.

The government, due to powerful union voting strength, condones strikes and even encourages them. Right now the government solution to the steel dispute is for the steel companies to grant a 50 cent an hour wage increase but keep steel prices where they are, absorbing the loss themselves.

Unions are riding high in the saddle now, having the administration and Congress firmly by the nose. It will take a massive wave of public resentment to change this situation.

Ochiltree Co.-Herald

concerning Viet Nam can be interpreted as a declaration of war, why leave it subject to misinterpretation by either foe or friend? During his press conference last July 28, President Johnson was asked at what point he might "have to ask Congress for a declaration." The reply of the President was: "I don't know. That would depend on the circumstances."

Well, if the Commander-in-Chief doesn't know, perhaps the Congress should tell him. Which is, incidentally, the way the Constitution says it should be done.

Like that school

The new school term is just beginning across the country and there are some 2,400 young people in the Perryton schools this year, part of the 17 million youngsters in schools across the land.

President Johnson has estimated that there will be more than 750,000 boys and girls drop out of school before receiving a high school diploma.

This is tragic. It has always been bad, but in this day of specialized skills, an education is an essential. A high school diploma is a necessity if a person is to hold down just about any kind of a job. Lack of a high school diploma indicates to a prospective employer that there is something wrong with the applicant or else he would have finished school.

There is a nation wide campaign now on to convince young people that they should remain in school and not drop out in order to take some job that looks good now but will fare poorly by comparison a few years from now.

The drop out problem is not confined to the low income classes and to the big cities.

We have that problem in Perryton. A study of the current school enrollment figures is quite revealing. All of the grades in school are 200 or above, including junior high grades.

But there is a sharp drop between junior high enrollment and high school. The sophomore class right now has 187 and the juniors have 145, with the seniors 141. This attrition is due to dropouts, for the most part. A few years ago this year's senior class was crowding the 200 mark in junior high. As the class advanced, more and more dropped out.

The crucial age is between junior high and high school, when far too many youngsters feel that they have their education, they have a diploma, even if it is just from junior high, and they are tired of school. So they quit.

There was a time when a young person could leave school and get a job where he could look forward to making a living by hard work. But the number of unskilled jobs is declining each year in this country, and this trend will continue. The kind of jobs that are being created nowadays call for at least a high school education.

It is pitiful that in this country, where an education is handed out free of charge to every child, that so many turn up their noses and refuse it.

School dropouts are hurting only themselves. If we had any advice to give them it would be: Learn to like that school.

Durham story

The "Little Rock Story" some years ago and the "Birmingham Story" more recently gave the nation glimpses of the Old South's "last stand." Now a less publicized "Durham Story" gives a glimpse of the Changing South, 1965 version.

When the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) held its convention in North Carolina's Durham early in July, Negro delegates were amazed by signs in the windows of 14 stores along Main Street. The signs, printed by the Durham Merchants Association, said in bold green letters on white placards: "Welcome CORE. Stop in for a visit with us."

The executive vice president of the Durham Merchants Association said his organization "decided a long time ago" that it was going to print welcome signs for any convention bringing more than 200 delegates to Durham.

Highlights and Sidelights —

State argues to keep poll tax

AUSTIN, Tex. — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr came up with some interesting arguments in answer to the Federal suit which attacks the Texas poll tax.

Suit filed by the U. S. Justice Department seeks to get the poll tax ruled invalid as a requirement for voting. Contention is that the poll tax discriminates against Negroes.

That isn't so, Carr argued Friday in a pre-trial hearing before U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears. Carr claimed that a survey this spring by the Southern Regional Council showed that 57.7 per cent of the Negroes in Texas eligible to vote paid poll taxes and registered to vote, but only 53.2 per cent of the Caucasians registered in that fashion.

Carr also contended that the $1.50 State poll tax, levied in 1837 as a "head" tax, was tied to the right to vote in 1902 not to keep Negroes from voting, but to assure collection of the head tax. He added that revenue from the present $1.75 poll tax goes to the Available School Fund of the state, amounting to more than $2,000,000 last year.

The Federal suit citation — which centers on an all-white Austin precinct — was filed under the new federal voting rights act. Carr noted that the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights in 1961 found no discriminatory disenfranchisement.

Poll tax procedure is the only form of voter registration in Texas. So, a Federal court invalidation of the poll tax would mean a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of enacting a new voter registration law.

Carr also asked the court to order U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to clarify whether his suit is aimed at striking down requirements that only property owners may vote in bond elections.

DAM AUTHORIZED — First action of the new State Water Rights Commission was to solve a long-pending problem. It approved the Colorado River Municipal Water District's application to locate its next dam at Robert Lee in Coke County, instead of the earlier authorized site in Mitchell County.

Proposed dam will boost the water supply of Big Spring, Odessa, Snyder, Midland and other areas of West Texas.

Reservoir on the Colorado River will have a 489,000 acre-foot capacity with 40,000 acre feet of water annually diverted for municipal use, 8,000 acre feet for oil well flooding and 2,000 acre feet for industrial plants.

Commission specified that use must come first from existing Lake J. B. Thomas and total diversion from new dam and Lake J. B. Thomas will be limited to 73,000 acre feet a year.

LCRA General Manager Sim Gideon praised the commission's order and said the compromise would effect better use of Colorado River water.

Commission also authorized construction of a system of low-flow diversion works in the Colorado River channel in Scurry and Mitchell Counties as a salt water

The New York Times considered the "Welcome CORE" signs significant. It published a dispatch from Durham which drew this contrast:

"For the many who had taken part in CORE anti-segregation demonstrations, the signs did seem unbelievable. Just five years ago, Durham was a racial battleground, the second city in the South struck by CORE-backed sit-in demonstrations against segregation at lunch counters.

"In April and May of 1960, two Negro demonstrators were beaten, one of them hospitalized with a brain concussion. Eighty-six more were arrested on a complaint filed by the manager of S. H. Kress Variety Store."

"At 12:05 p.m. today (July 1, 1965), Kress had two 'Welcome CORE' signs in its windows was serving 15 Negroes at its lunch counter."

"Just outside The Kress building at the intersection of Main and Mangum streets, a Negro policeman directed white and Negro traffic alike."

"When CORE delegates visited Durham stores, they found Negro as well as white clerks to serve them. Four years ago CORE waged a selective buying boycott to win employment for Negro clerks."

The fitting climax of this "Durham Story" is a comment by a Durham business woman who shook her head when she examined a leaflet handed out by a member of the Ku Klux Klan a few feet from one of the "Welcome CORE" signs. Speaking for the Changing South, 1965 version she remarked in an apologetic tone: "We still have people here that still want to fight change, but the overwhelming majority of our people have accommodated themselves to the times."

MEXICAN COTTON — Texas border will be sealed to free movement of Mexican cotton beginning September 25. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

White said late cotton plantings in excess of 6,000 acres and "abandonment of mutual cultural practices against the destructive pink bollworm in Mexico" required the border control action. Pink bollworm has destroyed as much as $4,000,000 of Rio Grande Valley cotton in one season alone, the commissioner stated.

NEW AGENCIES MEET — At its first meeting, new Board for Mental Health and Mental Retardation named Dr. Horace Cromer of Austin its president and Dr. C.

J. Ruilmann as acting commissioner.

State agencies may continue to operate under merit system plan agreement with federal government.

Business forms firm is entitled to pay for game and fish license printing reorders.

SHORT SNORTS — Legislative Budget Board has requested an official opinion from Attorney General Carr to back up his earlier informal advice that the governor cannot veto non-budgetary items from state general appropriation bill.

State Insurance Board is feeling the effects of the "situation" in Viet Nam through a sudden rash of approval requests from insurance companies who want new clauses in life insurance policies.

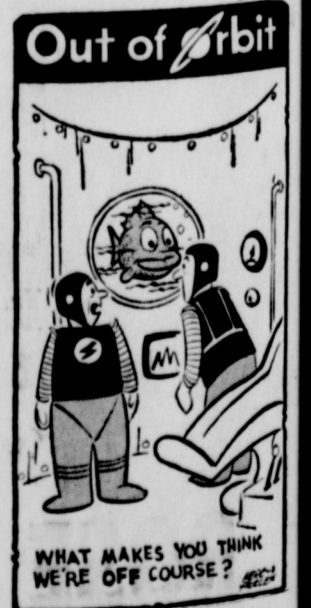

Reps. Bob Armstrong of Austin, David G. Haines of Bryan and James E. Nugent of Kerrville were named by House Speaker Ben Barnes to new Committee on Proceedings in Criminal and/or Civil Courts, completing the 11-member committee appointed by the Governor. Lee tenant Governor and Speaker of the House.

Legislative Budget Board concluded that Governor Connally should approve state agency budgets for spending of $82,000,000 through new federal school aid act ($77,300,000 in U.S. funds).

Texas leads all other states in number of programs and enrollees receiving benefits from Project Head Start programs for underprivileged children (170 grants aiding 44,952), Governor Connally reports.

With Interstate Highway Program and user taxes which finance it due to end in 1972, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer will work with planners from metropolitan areas to get faster congressional action on highway legislation so states and cities can plan ahead for changes.

Austin district court threw out Dallas lawyer Bert Bader's attack on 13.4 per cent boost in auto insurance rates, will consider AFL-CIO challenge separately.

THE PROFESSIONAL PHOTOGRAPHER gives careful thought and study to lighting his subject. Contrasts must be right and reflections must be right to achieve the best effects.

Individuals' lives reflect how they think and what they believe. Our lives count most, when we attend church regularly and walk in the light of the Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
