Whiteface "dry" under Attorney General's reversal

The 33-year-old debate on the status of beer sales in Justice Precinct 2, Cochran County which has raised many legal questions and interested eyebrows in the past few months was decided in less than 15 minutes at a hearing Friday morning on an off-premise beer license application by George Bennett of Lubbock.

About 50 county residents, including nine students from the local high school civics class, looked on in the courtroom of the courthouse here as County Attorney Jim Walker revealed an opinion received the day before from the office of the state attorney general which declared void all beer elections held in the state on a precinct basis prior to 1935.

The latest opinion contradicted and voided an opinion from the attorney general's office two weeks ago which upheld the legality of a 1933 vote for the sale of 3.2 beer in Precinct 2.

The announcement of the opinion came following a presentation of a request for an off-premise retail beer license by Bennett and a request from Lubbock attorney Roy Bass representing a group of individuals in Precinct 2 calling for the application's rejection.

Bass noted half a dozen legal points which he said warranted the rejection of the license application. Among these he included assertions that five full days had not elapsed from the date the application was filed to the date of the hearing as the law requires, that no certificate was on file in the county clerk's office properly indicating that the proposed retail business was in a legally "wet" precinct, and that the building to house the business was neither adequate nor complete.

Walker then announced receipt of the new opinion and told the court that, after reviewing the do-document, he believed the precinct in question to be "dry".

Bennett did not challenge the two men's remarks, saying only that he was aware of the new opinion and Bass's exceptions to his proposed business facilities.

"Due to the fact that the area is 'dry,'" said Judge Love after hearing the remarks of each of the three men, "I declare the beer application rejected."

A letter from Don Woodman was received in Judge Love's office requesting the withdrawal of his recent application for a beer retail license and the cancellation of a hearing on that application originally scheduled for July 5 in the commissioners court.

Jaycees staying busy during summer months

The Morton Jaycees announced plans to bid for the gate and concessions at the West Texas Last Frontier Rodeo in August and voted to pay a third of Ernest Chesher's $400 salary as director of the 10-month Summer Recreation Program at their regular Tuesday night meeting at the Wig Wam restaurant.

The Summer Recreation Program is sponsored jointly by the Lions Club, and Morton City Council which each have voted to contribute a third of the director's salary for the annual program.

Joe T. George, state external vice-president of the Jaycees, told club members that the local organization has "a good chance" of being selected the outstanding Jaycee chapter in the state because of its projects and enthusiasm since its founding less than a year ago. George stressed, however, that an improved system of activity records and minutes should have to be kept to insure the proper judging will be held in April at the Jaycee state convention in San Worth.

Morton area homeowners saluted by merchants for their improvements

A special "Salute" to the homeowners of Morton? Your taste in homemaking would make any community proud. The city and farm homes in the Morton area depict the prosperity that Morton enjoys.

Morton homes always will stand as a challenge to other communities. You, Mr. and Mrs. Homemaker, indeed are to be congratulated for the way you keep adding to your home's comfort and beauty.

Some of you are fortunate enough to have the ready cash you need to keep your homes the way you want them while others must operate their homes within a limited budget. But, whether you run your home on a budget or with unlimited capital, you can have any type home you desire. The local financial institutions can and will finance all types of home construction or improvements.

If you feel your home is not up to par and in need of repairs or modernization, consult any local contractor or building material firm, paint store, furniture or appliance dealer. Tell them your wishes, and they will supply you with the latest material, dependable labor and best possible service — all at a price to fit your budget.

You, as a homemaker, should take advantage of these wonderful opportunities while our nation is

The second Summer Recreation Program got underway in the Morton High School gymnasium Monday as scores of local youngsters, free from the toil of school work, returned to school to take part in a wide variety of organized sports.

Ernie Cheshir, director of the program for the second consecutive year, predicted a total registration in the program of over 100 persons. Last year's activities attracted 130 area residents ranging in age from four to 45 years.

Activities planned for this year include basketball, volleyball, tennis, weight lifting, and many others.

A fee of 25 cents is charged for the entire summer and optional accident insurance is available at the gym for $1, Cheshir reported.

The program, supported jointly by the Morton Jaycees, Morton Lions Club, and Morton City Council, will continue from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. six days a week till the start of school.

Chesshir, a sophomore at Lubbock Christian College in Lubbock, said he would coach organized team basketball games each Tuesday and Thursday night until his return to classes in the fall.

Chamber will meet Thursday with Bill Crumley, Tech textile advisor

In slightly more than one hour, directors of the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce covered a wide range of topics.

Most important was a decision to invite a textile specialist to a meeting here this week to discuss ways to locate a cotton spinning mill in Morton. Bill Crumley of the Texas Technological College textile department is expected to meet this week with Chamber directors and members of the agricultural and industry development committees.

Little League names 1966 All-Star roster

Morton Little League named 14 All-Stars and two alternates during a managers' meeting Tuesday night at the Wig Wam restaurant.

The team will meet Olson at 4 p.m. Thursday, July 21, in the opening round of the area tournament at Littlefield. The tourney will continue July 22 and 23.

Included on the roster are six members of the Sox, first place finishers in the six-team league. The Sox manager, Harvey Lee Bako, will manage the All-Stars. He will be assisted by Jerrell Sharp, manager of the second place Colts.

Following are members of the All-Stars: Larry Neutzler, 12, Giants; Eddie Turney, 12, Sox; Ronny Arnold, 12, Pirates; Rush Coffman, 12, Cards; Dee Woolam, 12, Cubs; Sidney Hunt, 12, Colts; Willie Ray Harrison, 12, Giants; Ron Risinger, 12, Sox; Ted Thomas, 11, Pirates; Bryan Lewis, 11, Colts; Keith Embry, 12, Sox; Mario Gomez, 12, Sox; Larry Clawson, 12, Sox; and Dub Hill, 11, Sox.

Alternates are Jack Sublett, 11, Cubs; and Charlie Marina, 12, Pirates.

Only 11 and 12 year old players are eligible for the All-Star team, according to league president Herman Bedwell. The alternates will be used in the event one of the regular players becomes ill, injured

W. W. Williamson, 71, Morton's bank founder, is buried here on Wednesday

Funeral services for W. W. (Bill) Williamson, 71, retired banker and resident of Morton for the past 25 years, were held at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church. Officiating was Rev. Fred Thomas, pastor of the church with Rev. Bill Hobson, pastor of the Missionary Baptist Church assisting.

W. W. WILLIAMSON

Burial was in Morton Memorial Cemetery under the direction of Singleton Funeral Home.

Mr. Williamson died Monday at his home here in Morton.

Born October 31, 1895 in Yell County, Arkansas, W. W. Williamson went to Childress County, Texas in 1905. He started in the banking business at First State Bank at Kirkland in 1917 and later served for 15 years at the First State Bank of Lakeview in Hall County. He moved to Morton in 1914 and organized the First State Bank and remained president until 1960 when he became Chairman of the Board.

Mr. Williamson was a great booster of Cochran County, having served as president of the Chamber of Commerce several times and also director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and the Antelope Lodge, A.F.A.M. No. 1245.

Survivors include his wife, Lillian, one son, T. K. Williamson, Morton, two daughters, Mrs. Jerry Winder, Morton; Mrs. W. D. Walker, Corpus Christi; five sisters, Mrs. B. F. Taylor, Los Angeles, California; Mrs. Marvin Andrews, Amarillo; Mrs. W. B. Mitchell, Pampa; Mrs. Lem Weaver, Silverton and Mrs. Fred Arlett, Ft. Worth; four brothers, Paul, Fairland, Oklahoma; Douglas, Amarillo, Jimmy, Tyler and Woodrow, Ft. Worth; and five grandchildren.

★ Meetings

The next few days are crowded as far as the public agenda is concerned. Cochran County, Morton Independent School District, Bledsoe ISD and Three Way ISD all have boards of equalization slated. Next Monday, County Commissioners are scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. and Morton City Council plans to meet at 8 p.m.

★ Club closing

Following a meeting of the board of directors Thursday morning, Morton County Club president Neal Rose announced that the organization now has enough members to start architectural work on a new clubhouse and swimming pool. Rose said that charter memberships would remain at $50 until the July 20 deadline. After that time, Rose said, they will be increased. Architect's drawings of the new facilities will be made during the last of the month, Rose said.

HOTTEST IN ITS CLASS

James Butler's bomb—tops at drag races

James Butler has spent most of his life either behind the wheel of a race car or under one.

To most people around Morton, he is the owner of a wrecking yard a couple of miles north of town with a knack for fixing cars. But to dragsters across the country, he is the holder of every strip record in his class where he competes and the automotive artist whose car usually leads others to the finish line.

Butler, originally from Fort Cobb, Okla., began his racing career in the early 1940's on small town circle tracks. It was not long before he held all the track records in his car's class from Lubbock to Hobbs, New Mexico.

One of his early cars was a 1932 Ford with an Oldsmobile engine that soon became such a constant winner that its battered, unnumbered body soon became known to track fans as simply "The Little Black Ford."

Butler's move to the quarter mile strip came in 1955 with an Oldsmobile. His winning car the next year was a 1956 Ford. He has raced with Ford engines ever since and with such continuous success that he has earned the unofficial title of "Mr. Ford of West Texas."

"I never had a car I didn't win with," Butler said after reflecting on a moment on the long list he has run. The walls, tables, and floor of his home are lined with well over 200 trophies that stand as a shining testimony to the truth of his remark.

He won the Texas State Championship in 1957 and 1958 with a Super Stock Ford Rancho, and again in 1960 with a Super Stock Ford Starliner.

"We set new strip records in our class everywhere we raced up in 1957 and 1958," Butler recalled almost casually.

He drove a A-Gas Supercharged Ford-powered Willis know as "Rowdy Willie" to a third place world championship in 1960 under the point system of the National Hot Rod Association.

"The big races give points for winning in your class," Butler explained, "and points for winning in the eliminator."

The eliminator race is handicap competition pitting winners from various classes, in which cars matched to run against those in hotter classes are spotted predetermined headstarts by time from which they begin the race.

first place and failure.

"And in drag racing," he solemnly observed, "if you don't win first place, you don't win anything."

Butler's latest Ford, a 1963 Falcon Rancho with a stock bore and stroke 289 cubic inch engine, is doing its share to crowd him and his family out of their home with trophies.

The Falcon is built to compete as a Formula I B-Hot Rod, a class restricted to cars with multi-carburetion and a maximum stock weight of 2,600 pounds. Butler claims the engine can develop more than 450 horsepower.

He pointed to his recent win at Green Valley Raceway in Fort Worth to illustrate his point about altitudes.

"A car runs leaner up in this country where the altitude is about 3,800 feet than it does down in Fort Worth. You need to have bigger jets on the carburetor to get a richer gas mixture if you plan to win down there." He pointed out that a change in the carburetor jets as small as one thousandth of an inch could alter a car's time on the quarter mile by a fourth of a second.

Weather changes only minutes before the start of a race will send Butler and his wife making alterations in tire pressure, carburetors and weight distributions on the hot rod.

"If we are on our way to a race and it should start to rain or something," remarked Mrs. Butler as she moved about the garage acting as assistant mechanic to her husband, "we become shade tree mechanics on the spot."

"When we see that something needs to be changed, we do it right then and there. We don't wait," added Butler.

"You take this eighth mile race at Great Bend, Kansas, we just got back from," he said. "The track was wet, so we had to detune the car to keep it from developing so much horsepower. We stopped up the air scoop so that not as much air could get to the engine. The air pressure there was so low that we aired up the tires to keep them from digging into the track and turning the car over. Besides that," he added, "we richened the carburetor to make the car idle off the line instead of revving up like it usually does and added a 200 pound weight to the rear end."

These measures helped his fiery Falcon win first place in its class although the car later spun out in the eliminator as heavy rain began to fall.

Results of his latest race left him no more than 20 points away from a world championship in his class under the point system of the American Hot Rod Association. He has until Labor Day to better his standing.

The absence of a well-equipped garage for making the ever-present last-minute adjustments does not seem to hamper Butler's efficiency.

Even his workshop contains no special tools or secret gadgets for creating a winning car that would not be found at a typical service station. Still, each month dragsters come from all over the country to entrust their hot rods to his capable hands. Actually, the visiting cars are being entrusted more to his ears than anything else. Recently he has "set-up" cars from Lubbock and Midland, just to mention a couple.

"James uses his ears to tune the cars," said Mrs. Butler as she slid from under one of the out-of-town autos in the shop. "I bolt them together," she admitted, "but James is the one who makes them run like they do. He can listen to a car and tell if it is running right."

"I even work on cars that run in competition against me," Butler said with a grin. "I will do anything to a car that a persons wants done."

He said it really does not matter what class he runs in. "I pick the car I want to run and then build it to fit whatever class I please."

For Butler, now middle-aged, the thrill of the racing game is no longer in driving the cars but rather, in building them to win.

The task of driving his car was turned over to Bryan Teal, a young man in his twenties from New Deal less than a year ago.

Butler is quick to give equal credit to his wife.

dit to the skill of the driver as a reason for winning races, although the last two were won by drivers new to the car.

"I just race now for the advertising," Butler said frankly, looking out at the maroon Falcon shining in the sunlight. "I would even sell that car. I would just have to build another one to out-run it."

"You see," he said, "there are only about three months in the fall of the year around here when you can make any money from regular cars in this business. But the racing business is year round."

He pointed to the decals that cover the car, advertising motor oils and other automotive supplies and equipment.

"They don't put those on just any car," he said with pride. "It has to be a car they know will win." Butler cited the need for greater advertising as the main reason for his entering races throughout the country.

"People already know me around here," he said. "Besides, this gives me a chance to run against different cars."

He noted that much of the expense of keeping a race car can be absorbed through advertising if the car is a winner.

"We just had the cam shaft flown to Los Angeles to be overhauled," Mrs. Butler said as she worked on the Falcon getting it ready for the upcoming races this week-end. "And it didn't cost us anything since we advertise this brand of cam shaft on the side of the car."

Butler admits that there is still another reason for remaining in the racing business besides for the advertising of his shop.

"I guess it's just to do something somebody else can't do," he once said. "To take a car and build it to outrun what anybody else builds. To win over the other fellow. It's like any other sport that way."

The Butlers will be bound for the quarter mile track in Springfield, Mo., and the eighth-mile tracks at St. Louis, Mo., and Evansville, Ind., this weekend where they will again put their car and their reputation on the line. A new national ruling requiring Butler to spot competition in the eliminator races an additional 30 feet has made him consider changing his Falcon to an F2 with a single four barrel carburetor instead of the two four barrels it now has.

"We run pretty good everywhere we go," he said, "so they figure we could run a little higher in our class."

He paused for a moment and then continued.

"Well, I will outrun 'em no matter what. I don't own that class. I can move anywhere I want to pretty doggone quick. I'm not running from anybody. I'll give 'em hell."

Farmer attends management conference

Lloyd C. Miller of C. C. Slaughter Farms in Morton attended the three-day summer conference of the American Society of Farm Managers and Appraisers at Fort Collins, Colo. June 26 to 28.

The conference, held on the Colorado State University campus, was designed to improve the skills of association members in farm management and appraising. The meeting also offered an opportunity to learn about Colorado agriculture.

Miller participated in an intensive study tour of farm management and appraisal problems on the John Watson farm north of Greeley. Several of the nation's leading appraisers and farm managers reviewed the economic appraisal of the property and discussed Watson's sound management program.

The touring agricultural consultants also visited the Ted Sutter feed-lot, an intermediate size operation, and the Monfort feeding operations near Greeley. The Monfort operation is one of Colorado's largest and most modern beef cattle feed-lots.

More than three hundred professional farm managers and appraisers from across the United States and Canada attended. The conference was hosted by the Colorado Society of Farm Managers and Appraisers and the university.

Relatives visiting over the weekend in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merritt were Mrs. Ray Kennedy and daughters, Karen and Sheila, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Mrs. Montah Bash, Edmond, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Kennedy, Stillwater, Oklahoma.

said that both of these towns had formed private corporations to finance the plants, with much of the equipment being bought in the southeast, where mills are installing new equipment. Directors are not limiting their investigations to spinning, however. They also are looking into the possible production of other finished goods from cotton products. If they could just figure out a way to manufacture a dollar that still had a dollar's worth of buying power, they would really have a good product.

Our older son was introduced to the sport of model rocketry a couple of weeks ago in El Paso. This last week, he got his first kit and called on us for help. We assisted with the construction of an electrical launch system. When it was finished the whole family was shocked... it worked! Son finished the rockets himself and we held our first launches on the Fourth of July. Both models fired successfully, although they still need some work on weight distribution. The rockets are powered by solid propellant fuel, ignited at 550 degrees by electrical current. When perfectly balanced, they should reach an altitude of about 2,000 feet. The larger rocket was particularly delectable to watch. It zoomed up and rapidly despite some wobble. At its peak, a second, smaller charge fired. This blew the nose cone off, pulling out a plastic parachute. The two pieces of the rocket then floated to earth below the parachute and landed not more than 50 feet from the launch pad. Some of the more sophisticated models offered by the Colorado manufacturer have spaces for tiny payloads, although the specifications caution that the gravity or "G" force will exceed 100, about 12 times the maximum G's felt by astronauts as they lift off from Cape Kennedy. It should be a challenge to get a bug or ant back safely under these conditions. I don't think we're ready to orbit any rockets yet, but at least we are two-for-two on the countdown, which is more than NASA can say.

Chamber manager Jesse T. George is back from a week spent in Mexico City and Acapulco. He reported a most enjoyable trip. He drew groans of envy from his board as he told of paying $24 for jet flight from Mexico City to Acapulco and a first-class hotel room for $3.30 per day. "The most expensive part of the trip," Jesse said, "was getting from here to San Antonio." Jesse just grinned when asked if he had already made reservations for another week in the coast city. His board agreed that being a bachelor did seem to have some advantages at times, but none of them wanted to be

Then they plan to spend some time in Ruidoso, N.M., before going to Hobbs, N.M., to visit their son, Ronnie Ary. From Hobbs, they will go to the Wichita Mountain Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma and will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Evans, former Muleshoe Refuge manager. In Oklahoma City they will visit Mrs. Ary's father, Jim Knight and her brothers, in Stigler, Okla., they will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evert Ary, and other friends and relatives. On their return trip they will visit his brother in Muskogee, Okla., then go to Washita Wildlife Refuge for the remainder of their vacation. They should return home July 23.

Visiting over the Fourth of July holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Cash were their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cash and children, Glenda and Buster of Fort Worth. They all visited another son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Cash of Portales, N.M., Sunday. Also visiting was a daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norwell Roberts, Jerry and Sheryl of Goodland.

Mrs. Jack Jackson and children of Clovis, N.M., spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Austry.

LETTER PERFECT

SATISFIED... because of a job well done.
The last check... reveals a well organized, carefully typed letter, and now she is ready to present it to her boss for his inspection and signature.
Each of us needs to periodically check our lives, making sure that all is in order and would stand an inspection by the Lord. Are we letter perfect? Would He be satisfied with us? It is true that none of us are perfect, but if we study God's word and strive to follow God's will,
He will be satisfied with us.

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Harrel-Wallace nuptials planned

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Harrel of Levelland, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, DeLinda Kay, to Ronnie Dee Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Wallace, Morton. The couple have set their wedding date for August 26, in the First Baptist Church of Levelland.

Miss Harrel is a graduate of Levelland High School and attended South Plains College. Mr. Wallace is a graduate of Morton High School and attended Texas Tech last fall. Both will attend Texas Tech in the fall.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cartwright over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Al Cartwright and children from Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Greener and Mr. and Mrs. Herby Greener spent the weekend in Ruidoso.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lindsey and children of Powderly, Texas, visited last week in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lindsey. Other guests were their daughter and granddaughters, Charlotte Doyle, Delana and Beverly of El Paso. They returned home Monday. Delana had spent the month of June with relatives here.

Skit highlights TOPS Club meet

At the Lighter-Later TOPS Club meeting, Friday, July 1, a skit presented as an example of the program given at the 10th Meeting in Seagraves.

The skit, entitled, "Mama and the Overton Trio" included the following cast: Mama - Mrs. Roy J. Jumbo - Mrs. M. L. Abbe, Mrs. Bobby Adams, Mrs. Elmer Gardner.

The skit is about Mama, who just couldn't keep enough food fixed for her three fat teenage daughters. The father has been gone a long time because there isn't any room left for him in the house. Mama has to buy more groceries every day and one day the grocery clerk told her that food has calories and that too many calories can make you fat.

The clerk invites Mama and her daughters to join the TOPS Club. Mama tells her daughters that if they join TOPS and lose some weight that they could catch some fillers and Papa might even come home. Two months after they have been in TOPS they have lost 10 pounds each except Dumping, who has thyroid trouble.

When she gets up to be weighed at the meeting she drops her handkerchief which is full of candy and peanuts. Mama says: "So there's your thyroid trouble!"

Fifteen pounds were lost by the club with Mrs. Hill's team losing 9 1/4 pounds. Mrs. Roy Davis lost 3 1/2 pounds to become Queen for the week.

Mrs. Elmer Gardner gave a report on the ARD meeting and encouraged each member to continue to support the local club and to attend the next area meeting.

Mrs. Roy Davis presided during the business meeting in which Mrs. Tip Windom gave a treasurer's report. Mrs. Courtney Sanders and Mrs. Roy Hill were presented with TOPS pins in recognition that they had reached their desired weight.

Refreshments served by Mrs. Neal Smith and Mrs. Vernon Blackley were enjoyed by: Mrs. Roy Davis, Mrs. M. L. Abbe, Mrs. Marion Matthews, Mrs. Phillip Sheard, Mrs. Roy Hill, Mrs. Elmer Gardner, Mrs. Courtney Sanders, Mrs. Elra Oden, Mrs. Jesse Clayton, Mrs. Tip Windom, Mrs. Ray Bridges, Mrs. Lee Sullivan, Mrs. H. B. Barker, Mrs. Kenneth Watts, and Mrs. Bobby Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilburn and son, Ricky from Almagordo, N.M., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen.
