Indians take warpath Friday

A full house is expected in Indian Stadium Friday night when the 1972 version of the "Fighting Indians" is unveiled in the season's grid opener against a highly regarded Springlake-Earth eleven.

"Experience" is the key word to success this year, according to head coach Doug Reed who is counting on five offensive and six defensive starters returning from last year. "We are also about five or six pounds bigger this year and possess a good amount of quickness," Reed states. The five two-way returnees include OHB DHB Larry Thompson; OE-DCB Ted Thomas; OC-DLB Dubbie Bryan; ORT-DLB William Grant and ORG-DE David Palmer. Jimmy Harvey, CB, is the sixth returning starter on defense.

There will be a new look in the coaching ranks as well as on the playing squad. Two of Reed's 1971 assistants, Tommy Thompson and Lester Dupler have departed the local scene of action and have been replaced by Ted Turnbow and Charles Whitt, both products of Texas Tech. Hubert Jones returns this year to round out the varsity coaching staff.

The defensive lineup should be as follows:

Gerry Corder and David Palmer at ends; Bob Greene (165) and Leslie Carter (200) at the guard positions; William Grant and Dubbie Bryan, linebackers; Ted Thomas and Jimmy Harvey at the corners; Larry Thompson and Gilbert Ramos (155) at the halfback posts and Jerry Silhan at safety.

"We are slightly ailing in the depth department, with a total squad numbering only 26 members," Reed said, but added "those are 26 quality football players and if we can avoid the injury jinx, I am confident that they will make a good account of themselves. I'm not making any predictions as to how many games we will win this year, but I and the squad are not conceding anything to any opponent. We will play them one game at a time and each game to win. We have some rough

Rain has farmers 'crying uncle'

The old song "Rain, Rain Go Away" is fast becoming number one on the hit parade of Cochran County farmers as the seemingly endless downpour became a threatening factor to a highly promising cotton crop. Grain sorghum producers have reaped nothing but benefits from the unusually heavy moisture, but with a continuation of the rain, farm officials contend that it could be detrimental to that crop also.

Principal damage of the cotton, according to Cochran County Agent Roy McClung is the lowering of the micronaire due to additional growth of fruit which will not have sufficient time to mature before the first freeze. The new bolls and additional foliage at the top of the plant will shade the lower branches and cause slower maturing in the older fruit near the ground.

The greatest threat to the grain sorghum, and to a slightly lesser degree to the cotton, is the cool, wet weather fostering the infestation of harmful insects that can do major damage to both crops. The recent weather has been very conducive to the infestation of boll worms, army worms and cotton leaf worms to the cotton and banks grass mites, fall army worms and sorghum midge to the feed grain, McClung stated. These insects pose a special threat to late planted crops, McClung stated, because they usually strike during the blooming stage in the grain sorghums.

The county agent suggested that producers check their grain crops every day for signs of infestation. He cautioned, however, that chemical spraying should not be started before a 30 percent leaf loss had been experienced in feed grain crops. He emphasized that while checking for harmful insects, to also check for beneficial insects present as well, as these in large numbers could remedy the problem and in some cases the spray could kill off the beneficials and leave the plants open to the worms.

The cotton crop looks the best right now it has since 1965, with the amount of hot, dry weather it receives and the date of the first freeze holding the balance between a bumper and a medium to poor harvest, McClung stated.

A total of 6.62 inches of rainfall was recorded in Morton in August and 2.85 inches had been measured through Monday for September, according to N. H. Steed, of fiscal recorder for this area. The temperature reached the 90 degree point on only two days in August and on none so far in September.

Steed, whose measuring devices are located in southeast Morton, advised that the rains were general in nature with some widely scattered downpours over the county which dumped several inches with in a few hours in some instances. Generally the daytime temperatures throughout August and early September have been in the middle to high eighties with several days reaching only the high seventies.

Rainfall amounts by dates in August were: 2nd, .035th, .20; 7th, .65; 9th, .14; 15th, 2.44; 22nd, .41; 23rd, .05; 26th, .24; 27th, 2.03 and 28th, .43.

Rainfall amounts so far in September include: 1st, .18; 2nd, 2.26; 3rd, .11 and 4th, .30.

Three Mortonites named outstanding young women

Three young Morton women have been selected as Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972, according to an announcement by the YM Study Club.

Mrs. Dalton Redman, Mrs. Robbie Key and Mrs. Donald Masten were nominated by the organization earlier this year on the basis of their achievements.

Now in its eighth year, the Outstanding Young Women of America Program recognizes young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions and country.

More than 6,000 young women are nominated annually as Outstanding Young Women of America by civic organizations, churches and college alumni associations throughout the country. Complete biographical sketches of all nominees are featured in the annual awards publications, "Outstanding Young Women of America."

The women included in the 1971 edition are now in competition for further state and national awards. This fall, fifty of them—one from each state will be named as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year. From the fifty state winners, the national Ten Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972 will be selected.

The Outstanding Young Women of America Program was conceived—and is today guided by leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. Serving on the program's Board of Advisors are the national presidents of women's clubs, headed by Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

In November, the 1972 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America" will be published. The volume, to be distributed nationally as a reference publication, will include special introductory messages by U. S. Rep. Martha Griffiths (D-Mich.) and Amy Vanderbilt, the nation's leading etiquette authority.

Telephone company asks dove hunters not to shoot lines

T. Hamilton, division manager of General Telephone Company of the South, which serves Morton, today issued a plea to bird hunters to refrain from damaging telephone lines.

In a prepared statement, Hamilton said: "General Telephone Company reminds hunters with dove season beginning September 1, that shooting at birds and animals on telephone poles or lines may disrupt telephone service and endanger many people who depend on their telephones in an emergency.

Damaged communication lines often more than disrupt weekend plans. In instances a heart attack victim could lose his life. In addition to carrying emergency messages, telephone lines may guide planes, serving radar tracking stations, or connecting several missile launchers. Each minute a telephone is out of service the safety of many people may be endangered, which is reason enough not to shoot birds on telephone lines or cables.

Hunters are urged to maintain and exercise caution. In addition, there are federal laws and some state laws against disrupting communications.

THEIR HANDS . . .

LARGELY LIES THE FATE of the Morton High School football season. The four coaches and three captains above form the nucleus around which the 1972 MHS gridiron program is being built. The three players, William Grant, Jimmy Harvey and Ted Thomas, all seniors and two-way performers, will provide the leadership on the field while the coaches will provide the sideline guidance. Both groups will meet their first test of the season when the Tribe takes on a highly regarded Springlake-Earth team Friday night. Coaches, from left, are Hubert Jones, Ted Turnbow, Charles Whitt and head coach Doug Reed.

Education needs are higher

How much education is enough? There was a time when parents felt a high school education would stand their children in good stead for a lifetime. There are indications now that parents want more for their offspring.

In an opinion study of Lubbock parents, Texas Tech University's Institute for Mass Communications Research found that more than 60 per cent of the parents responding want their children to finish at least four years of college.

Approximately 9 per cent think trade school is a good route for their children to take. About a fifth of the parents want their children to study beyond the bachelor's degree. Only about 4 per cent considered junior college education sufficient and close to 5 per cent said high school is enough education.

Responses were analyzed for aspirations of all parents and also for the wishes of parents in four specific socio-economic groups — blacks, chicanos, whites and affluent whites — based on exclusive residential districts.

Study results appeared to indicate that the higher the socio-economic status the higher the goals set for the children.

Although the job market for college graduates has been reported tighter than usual recently, there was no evidence from this study to suggest that parents interpret this to mean a college education is futile.

Affluent whites constituted the largest group in favor of a college education for their children. Close to 67 per cent said they want their offspring to have a bachelor's degree and 25 per cent said their children should study beyond this level.

More than 8 per cent of this group looked upon a trade school education as a suitable goal. None of the responses from affluent whites considered a high school or junior college education sufficient, and none indicated indecision by checking the "don't know" column.

Sixty-three per cent of the whites responding wanted their children to be college graduates, and 22 per cent feel education beyond college graduation important. None in this group favored a junior college degree as a satisfactory goal while small number — about 4 percent — considered high school sufficient education.

Blacks and chicanos rated college educations about equally, with 56.5 per cent of the blacks and 56.8 per cent of the chicanos favoring the bachelor's degree for their children.

A trade school education was rated highest by the chicano respondents with almost 11 per cent favoring it as a terminal goal. The same percentage indicated that a high school education is enough. Approximately 3 per cent considered a junior college degree sufficient, and 16 per cent wanted their children to study beyond the bachelor's degree.

Among the blacks, 13 percent of those responding considered a junior college degree sufficient education for their children while a like number felt their progeny should study beyond the bachelor's degree.

Four per cent said high school provided enough education, and 8.7 per cent favored trade school training for their children. Education for children as desired by ethnic groups in Lubbock:

BLACKS — High school, 4.3; Junior college, 8.7; Beyond college, 56.5; Beyond college, 21.2; Don't know, 3.7.

CHICANO — High school, 10.8; Junior college, 10.8; Beyond college, 14.2; Beyond college, 56.8; Beyond college, 14.2; Don't know, 2.7.

WHITES — High school, 3.7; Trade school, 7.4; Junior college, 0.0; College graduate, 63.0; Beyond college, 22.9; Don't know, 0.0.

AFFLUENT WHITES — High school, 1.0; Trade school, 8.34; Junior college, 0.0; College graduate, 66.7; Beyond college, 25.0; Don't know, 0.0.

Certificate of attendance sale necessary for GI Bill payment

"Mail in your certification of attendance card for your final month of training, or you can't be paid."

That is the reminder the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office is sending to 44,306 Texas veterans attending colleges and universities under the GI Bill. "It's a message VA mails to veterans each year with their next to final check for the enrollment period, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Director.

The idea is to induce the veteran to fill out the "cert" card, sign it, and return it immediately to his VA Regional Office so he won't be wondering what happened to his education allowance for his final month of training. For most schools, this means the months of May or June.

Here, specifically, is why reminders are being sent to veterans attending college: VA cannot prepare the final check for the spring 1971-72 school year until it receives the "cert" card.

If the card is not returned at the end of the current semester, the veteran not automatically be enrolled under the GI Bill for the upcoming summer semester.

It was also pointed out that students have the responsibility of informing VA of changes in the number of dependents, or education program.

College registrars also have a responsibility in insuring that veterans file their allowance checks on time. Registrars should promptly return student enrollment certification so payments start automatically when study is completed.

These amounts were recorded within the city of Morton and do not speak for other areas in the county some of which received substantially more and some which received less. A check around the county by the Tribune indicated a wide range of estimated amounts, but nowhere was there a "no rain" report for the above mentioned periods of time.

Speaking of Politics

WAYNE McDERMOTT

In the past three weeks in this column, we have tried to explain some of the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution, which we will vote on in November. One of the proposed amendments would increase the salary of the Legislature. There is another proposed amendment increasing the salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House. At present time, both officers receive $22,500 annually. The amendment, if passed by the Texas electorate, would increase the annual salary to $22,500 each.

The office of lieutenant governor is a statewide elective office. The lieutenant governor is the presiding officer of the Texas Senate and the first officer in line of succession to the Governor. The position is a full-time one and the lieutenant governor maintains an office in the capitol with a staff on a full-time basis.

representatives is elected by the members of the body over which he presides at the beginning of each regular legislative session. Until fairly recently the speaker's major role was during sessions of the legislature. But today the office has evolved into a full-time position, with the speaker serving both as the presiding officer of the house of representatives during sessions and as the leader of this body during the interims between sessions. This official also maintains an office with a full-time staff in the capitol both during legislative sessions and in legislative interims.

Opponents of the amendment increasing the salary to $22,500, contend that the proposed amendment would authorize identical salaries for both the Lt. Governor and the speaker, although the Lt. Governor serves as a state official and is elected in a statewide race, while the speaker is elected by his fellow members and his is strictly a legislative office. Compensation for these officials should not be equal unless a change is made to make both equally responsible to the Texas electorate.

A NINE percent decline in numbers of cattle and calves marketed through Texas auction markets inspected by the Texas Animal Health Commission is reported by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Cattle and calves marketed totaled 619,000, down 17 percent below a year ago. Sheep sales totaled 132,000 down 17 percent from a year ago and 39 percent under a month ago. Sales of goats at 27,000 were down 31 percent from a year ago.

Hog sales totaled 45,000 head; this is 29 percent below a year ago.

THE FINAL step toward eradication of the screwworm in Texas has been taken. An agreement between Mexico and the United States was signed recently which will result in a cooperative effort to eradicate the screwworm in Mexico.

It will involve building a sterile screw-worm fly factory off the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in Mexico. Production from this plant and from the fly factor at Mission will be used to wipe out the pest in Mexico.

Livestock producers in Texas are urged to continue to check their livestock regularly, treat wounds on livestock for screw-worm control, and continue to submit suspected samples to the fly laboratory at Mission.

Eradication officials says plans are being made now to combat the screwworm next year.

Varmint bounties losing popularity in Texas counties

Bounties on coyotes and other "varmints" are losing popularity in most Texas counties.

According to a study by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department the number of Texas counties offering bounties has decreased from 45 of the state's 254 counties in 1970 to 38 in 1972.

Coyotes accounted for 90 percent of total bounties and bobcats eight percent.

The Parks and Wildlife Department has received several letters from concerned Texans protesting the bounty system. Fears are that it destroys large numbers of animals including endangered species.

Figures from the department survey tend to discount this belief.

In 1971, an adjusted total of 5,303 coyotes and 272 bobcats were killed for bounty.

Biologists consider this to be a very small percentage of the coyote and bobcat population in Texas since some areas in the state contain as many as four coyotes and one bobcat per square mile.

It is questionable if any mountain lions were killed in 1972.

Bounties are no longer paid in counties which harbor the endangered red wolf population.

Recent action by the Federal Government has limited the use of chemical controls such as "coyote getters" and poisoned baits to kill predators.

Bounties are set by the county commissioners' courts.

The adjusted total paid out by the counties in 1971 was over $31,000.00. The average bounty per coyote was $5.36 and a little over $10.00 for a bobcat.

Minimum soil tillage? What is it, anyhow?

Minimum tillage. What is it? During the past few days, there have been numerous agricultural experts from as far away as Lubbock, Snyder and Midland to tour certain Cochran County farms to observe minimum tillage operations. Just what is minimum tillage? To the uninitiated, it's a system of farming in which cultural operations are limited to only those essential to crop production. Crops are planted directly into mulch left undisturbed from the previous crop. Competition is controlled with contact, pre-emergence or post-emergence herbicides. This system maintains a year-long cover on the soil surface.

THE PRACTICE has been used successfully in Texas on grain and forage sorghums, small grains, soy beans, cotton, corn and other crops. It is applicable to dry-land or irrigated land.

Soil conservationists list some advantages of minimum tillage as: saves time and reduces production costs by eliminating three to 10 tractor trips per crop; conserves moisture; cuts wind and water erosion reducing air and water pollution and providing other environmental benefits; increases food and cover for wildlife in that stalks and leaves and seeds left on the soil surface benefit pheasant, dove, quail, turkey and other wildlife.

Some farmers buy equipment especially designed for minimum tillage. Others adapt their on-hand equipment by mounting flex planters, coulters and packer-wheels on double or triple-tool bar arrangements. Grain drills also are used to plant row or drilled crops in residues.

Lubbock, Friday, September 1, 1972.

Planes took to the air August 30 to initiate the ninth year of insecticide applications in the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program. Field surveys, underway for the past seven weeks, indicate that over 31,000 acres in 519 fields will require treatment in the first of this season's containment efforts.

According to Ed Dean, Field Service Director for Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the organization responsible to cotton producers for the program, cotton fields below the Caprock are being sprayed this year when punctured square counts reach the 10 percent level. Cotton above the Caprock, the protection of which is the program's primary goal, will be sprayed when weevil damage approaches five percent, he said.

In previous years all cotton in a prescribed control zone was treated with insecticide on a set schedule. But it has been found more economical land just as effective to survey all fields weekly and spray only those which meet the 10 percent and five percent criteria.

"Our objective is to prevent weevils in infested fields below the Caprock and along its edge from migrating westward onto the High Plains," Dean said, "and seven years of experience in this program has convinced us that the job can be done with this spray-as-needed approach."

The Control Program was begun by PCG in 1964 when overwintering of weevils above the Caprock made it obvious that a converted effort was necessary to prevent prohibitive insecticide costs and devastating crop losses to all High Plains farmers from the Caprock to the New Mexico line and beyond.

In the 1971 program only about 10,000 acres required treatment the first of September. Program officials say mild 1971-72 winter and wet 1972 Spring, ideal weather for weevils, is responsible for the increased early infestation this year.

Early applications in the control effort are designed to break the weevil's reproductive cycle, while later treatments, up to a maximum of six, will prevent weevils that may be killed earlier from entering diapause and going into winter hibernation. Twelve ounces per acre of ultra low volume Malathion 1 sth dosage now, and this will be increased to 16 ounces later in the season.

The first application, again thanks to "unfriendly" weather, got off to a slow start with high winds halting operations the first day after only about 3,000 acres had been covered. Planes were able to fly all day on August 31, then rains came to again interrupt the schedule September 1.

"But we'll get planes back in the air as soon as possible," Dean said, "and there's no reason to believe we can't carry out another successful program this year."

Eight planes are involved in this year's opening salvo which covers cotton in Garza, Burden, Crosby, Dickens, Motley, Briscoe, Floyd, Kent, and Hall Counties. Some cotton in Dawson, Lynn and possibly along either side of Yellowhouse Canyon in Lubbock County will require spraying in subsequent applications. As acreage increases more planes will be added to assure timely treatments.

Aggregate acreage that will require insecticide this year cannot yet be determined. Last year the largest acreage sprayed in a single application was 130,250 and aggregate acres covered in 1971 totaled about 400,000. The original control zone in 1964 covered 300,000 acres of cotton and total acreage sprayed piled up to over 1 million.

Contractor for the entire 1972 spraying program is Esslinger Spraying Service of Marion, Kansas. The contract was awarded on a low bid of $1.24 per gallon of insecticide, which according to Dean is well below an average low contract awarded to three contractors last year of about $2.00 per gallon.

Cotton producers on the Plains support the program and insure themselves against a weevil invasion by per-bale contributions. Their part of the cost is paid as a part of compress receiving charges, amounting to 50 cents per bale in 1964, 40 cents for the next three years, 25 cents in 1968, 30 cents in 1969, 50 cents in 1970, 40 cents last year and back to 30 cents this year.

These funds, plus varying amounts each year from the Texas Department of Agriculture, are matched dollar for dollar by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

STATE Capital NEWS

By BILL BOYKIN

AUSTIN, TEX.—Gov. Preston Smith is convincing high state officials and legislators he is serious about calling a special legislative session on insurance reform after mid-September.

Smith himself revived speculation at a news conference last week when he said odds favor such a session sometime before the general election November 7.

The Governor told newsmen legislative leaders had indicated they will cooperate with him. He included Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes among the latter.

"I believe he is giving real serious consideration to calling a session," said Barnes. "He really wants to have one."

Smith made clear there is nothing definite yet about his plans, and he would still want to make sure a session would be productive before he summons lawmakers.

Establishment of a competitive insurance rate system for all lines of insurance would be his top objective, Smith said. He added he "probably" would seek Inurance Board reorganization but added: "If we established competitive rates, I don't know how much further you would need the Board."

Smith earlier said an opinion by Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin that the governor cannot order funds transferred from one agency to another to meet emergencies may also bring on a special session.

Smith said recent opinions would place "drastic limitations" on the governor's powers and "threaten virtually every authority of the chief executive."

VET BONDS SOLD—The last $30.7 million in state veterans land board bonds were sold in Austin last week.

If the program is to continue without interruption, land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said, a new bond authorization will have to be submitted to voters by the legislature. Four authorizations have been approved in the form of constitutional amendments during the land program's 23-year history.

Low bid of 3.6902 per cent interest was submitted by the First National Bank of Dallas and Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago and Associates.

Armstrong said he has support of House Speaker-elect Price Daniel Jr. and other lawmakers in submitting a new constitutional amendment to keep the program alive after the $30.7 million is spent. He recalled the program has been self-supporting, has required no taxes and has benefited 48,000 veterans. The Commissioner indicated an additional $50 million to $100 million in bonds will be sought.

AG OPINIONS—Attorney General Martin, in a new opinion, struck again at the governor's powers over state fiscal matters. He invalidated more than 40 appropriations riders requiring approval by the chief executive (or other officials) on expenditures of funds.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

A law which abolished the offices of county school superintendent, ex-officio county superintendent and the county school board in Caldwell County is unconstitutional.

A corporation which purchases the stock of a bankrupt motor carrier may not be eligible for legal transfer of the bankrupt firm's specialized motor carrier certificate from the Railroad Commission.

Deduction of the value of a life estate is not authorized in computing inheritance taxes when the life tenant dies within five years after receiving it.

Piercing of ears for ear-rings does not constitute practice of medicine and requires no medical license.

The Board of Nursing Home Administrators must deposit the initial license fee, which may not exceed $100 for the biennium, and the renewal license fee into the State Treasury beginning June 15.

Elected statesalaried officials such as judges may also hold non-salaried jobs as regents of state colleges and universities.

RULES COMMITTEE NAMED—The Democratic party battle over rules goes on and on, and will resume in earnest at the September 19 state convention in Houston.

A new committee to study proposed changes in the rules will meet prior to the convention to study recommendations.

Members are Gordon Wynne Jr. of Willis Point, chairman; Jane Hickey of Austin, vice chairman; Lola L. Bonner of Rockport; Charles Purnell of Dallas; Wayne Dammier of Amarillo; Mark McLaughlin of San Angelo; John Brunson of Houston; Mrs. Roland Blumberg of Seguin; Claudia Brummett of Amarillo; Bill Oliver of Beaumont; Marie Bynum of Longview; Carrin Patman of Ganado; Larry Andrews of Houston and Jesus J. Rubino of Austin.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED—Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Agriculture Commissioner John C. White emerged as co-chairmen of the Texas campaign for George McGovern and Sargent Shriver.

Both acknowledged the Democratic national nominees are starting from "away behind," but they predicted the outlook will improve within the next few weeks.

McGovern and Shriver and President Nixon will devote more time to wooing Texas voters than any other national candidates ever did before, said White.

White defended gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe for not assuming a national campaign post. He said Briscoe has active opposition and is "doing what is right and proper" in concentrating on his own race.

A statewide steering committee is expected to be named soon.

"LOST CLAIMANTS SOUGHT—One hundred and 37 "lost" claimants who have $49,500 coming to them from an anti-trust suit settlement are being sought by the attorney general's office.

If they can be located, they will get money recovered by the attorney general from five major drug manufacturers in a suit involving overcharges for the antibiotic drug tetracycline. Those who filed claims but have not received copies of the final judgement in the price-fixing suit should call the attorney general's office in Austin.

STATE PAY RAISE GRANTED—A 6.8 per cent pay raise for about 67,000 state employees effective September 1 has approval of the Federal Pay Board.

The pay boost was authorized under a special "catch-up" provision of regulations permitting increases for employee groups where the average raises over the last three years was less than seven per cent. Pay Board approval is necessary where raises are higher than the five per cent limit established as a guideline to inflation.

State employees received pay increases of 6.8 per cent in 1969, 3.4 per cent in 1970 and 6.8 per cent in 1971.

ACT TO BRING STATE $60 MILLION—Texas would get about $60 million in federal and economic development money from America. The program seeks to bring people and business to underdeveloped areas and thus ease the congestion in centers.

SHORT SNORTS

A special meeting of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee is scheduled for Arlington September 15 to talk about raising needed state revenue in the legislature next year.

Governor Smith named a nine-member executive committee of the Texas Commission headed by Scott Harris of San Antonio and Bill J. Parsley of Rock.

National Guardsmen again aided highway Patrolmen with traffic problems at the Labor Day weekend, emphasizing control of the drinking driver.

Gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe is pushing for total overhaul of the budgeting system and creation of a get Commission.

Lieutenant Governor Barnes is throwing a libel suit against the author of a book on Texas politics for statements about his personal life.

Texas waterfowl hunters get two cracks at birds this year

Texas shotguns will get two cracks at ducks, geese, brants and coots this year.

Recent action by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission established split seasons for the birds and set seasons for sandhill (little brown) cranes.

Ducks and coots in the High Plains Management Unit may be hunted Oct. 26 and Dec. 9, 1972-Jan. 24, 1973. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The High Plains Unit is defined as that portion of Texas west of a line which runs from the International Bridge at Del Rio, eastward on U. S. In some cases public good pre-empts religious freedom

At a state university, all incoming students were required to have chest X-rays. But at least one young woman found this intolerable. In a court challenge, she argued:

"Having a chest X-ray is contrary to the principles of my religion. To require it is to violate my religious freedom, which is guaranteed by the First Amendment."

However, the court overruled her objection. Noting that t-rays can reveal tuberculosis and that tuberculosis is infectious, the court said:

"The regulation is purely for the purpose of discovery. It does not say you must be treated if you are ill; it only says if you are ill and (don't) know it, you cannot spread your infection to others. Religious freedom, of course, ranks high in our constitutional system. But it does not outrank the necessities of public health. Said one judge:

"The health of the people is the first law."

Other freedoms, too, may be limited by considerations of health. In another case, a restaurant owner invoked freedom of enterprise to oppose the rules of sanitation laid down by city hall. But a court ruled that freedom of enterprise likewise must yield to the public weal.

"The danger to health," said the court, "renders the (restaurant) business a proper one for regulation."

Still, even health regulations must meet the test of reasonableness. One squeamish city council, worried about germs, passed a law flatly forbidding the sale of any second-hand clothes within the boundaries of the community.

But when this law was tested in court, it was held to be unconstitutional. The court said a total ban simply could not be justified, since lesser controls could protect the public perfectly well.

Putting the "health" label on an unreasonable law, said the court, did not make it reasonable.
