Local government payroll above average

Large part of county economy

The number of Cochran County residents on local government payrolls appears to be relatively large.

Compared with other communities across the country, the proportion of local people so employed is above average.

This is brought out in the latest survey of public employment, conducted by the Department of Commerce and entitled "Compendium of Public Employment." Such studies are made every five years.

The figures for local areas, recently released, include all persons on the payrolls of counties, townships, municipalities, school districts and special districts. Federal and state employees are excluded.

Special interest attaches to the findings because public employment at all levels, has been playing an ever-increasing role in the economy, due to its growth and its rising cost.

The report lists a total of 275 full-time workers or their equivalent on local payrolls in Cochran County at the time the survey was made. Part-time workers were converted to their full-time equivalent to permit comparison with other communities.

In terms of population, this total amounts to 56 employees for every 1,000 local residents.

This is more, proportionately, than is reported for most parts of Several Morton youths were among the one hundred South Plains 4-H'ers from eleven of the 10 counties in Extension District 10 qualified to compete in the State

In addition to these, Wynn Crone of Morton was elected new District Secretary.

About 400 4-H boys and girls competed in the one-day event which included 27 contests. Winners received their awards in ceremonies at Texas Tech University Center.

Swisher County 4-H'ers captured the most qualifying wins of any county, with 12 senior wins. In junior competition which was held simultaneously with the senior contests, Swisher County also had 18 junior wins (first and

Storm clouds rise swiftly after Lexington, Concord

BY DR. DONALD WHISENHUNT
While the storm clouds were gathering in the aftermath of the conflict at Lexington and Concord, all eyes were on Philadelphia for it was here that the second meeting of the Continental Congress was scheduled to convene on May 10, 1775.

When the first Congress adjourned in October, 1774, it had scheduled a second meeting for May, 1775. Having no idea that war would begin, the second meeting was designed to assess the impact of the economic boycott — the Association — against British products. Now with fighting having already begun and with military forces being created in the colonies, the second meeting would be much more serious and important.

Despite the tense political and military situation, life did go on in other ways. For example, the painter Copley is said to have painted the first note of patriotism in 1775 in his painting, "Brook Watson and the Shark." This painting depicted a

Sixty-two percent of the report forms mailed to Texas residents in the 1974 Census of Agriculture have been returned so far, the Bureau of the Census says.

Bureau officials, trying to complete the gathering of census data, are mailing follow-up appeals to persons who received the forms but have not returned them. In January, 323,706 forms were sent to persons in Texas associated with farming.

Some forms may have been mailed to persons who no longer are farming or who are not actively farming such as landlords and others. These people are urged along with farmers to return the forms so that the Census Bureau can correct its mailing list. The addressee can indicate on the form that he does not have any agricultural production operations.

John W. Scott, Master of the National Grange, has this to say about the census: "The National Grange is concerned about the needs of our rural people. The

To qualify for the state contest, a team or individual must have a first or second place win in the senior division which is for 14-year-olds and older. Juniors do not compete beyond the district level. Other counties taking a large portion of senior division honors included Hale with seven qualifying wins, Gaines with six qualifying wins, Hockley with five qualifying wins and Cochran with four wins. Dawson, Terry, Scurry and Howard counties came up with two qualifying wins each.

Other counties who will be competing in the state contests include Lubbock and Lynn counties, who had one senior win each.

Hale and Howard counties captured eight junior wins each. Already, two rounds of district competition have been staged. The 4-H Food Show was in March, and judging contests were held in April. Winners from those events will join this Saturday's winners as this district's delegation to 4-H Roundup.

During the same year the first surgical textbook written in America was published by Dr. John Jones, personal physician to both Benjamin Franklin and George Washington. Titled "Remarks on the Treatment of Wounds and Fractures," it is a far cry from the sophisticated surgical techniques available today. In fact, surgery and all medical practices were in a very primitive stage of development. As is so often the case, advances in medical knowledge were to be greatly enhanced by the Revolutionary War that was just beginning. Wartime conditions usually provide more opportunities for physicians to try new methods and for experimentation because of the unusual circumstances of war. That was certainly the case during the Revolution.

In Spanish Texas conditions were somewhat different. The recommendations made by Rubi in 1767 that have been discussed here in the past few weeks were adopted by King Charles III on September 10, 1772, and were known as the "New Regulations of Presidios."

The order also provided for a new general officer, the "inspector comandante" of the interior provinces of New Spain. The major purpose was to secure a more uniform and efficient military service on the frontier. Reporting directly to the Viceroy, the inspector was to keep him informed on frontier matters, direct frontier campaigns and to supervise the presidios and their officers.

The goal of all these changes was to reform the Spanish colonial system. Whether that could be accomplished remained to be seen. Donald W. Whisenant, history professor, Eastern New Mexico University.

Nursing Home Week slated

Patients and residents of local nursing homes will be honored during Nursing Home Week, May 11-17. The observance is sponsored by Texas Nursing Home Association which is affiliated with American Health Care Association.

In joining the program Richard Snow, Administrator of the Roberts Memorial Nursing Home announced an Open House on Mother's Day, May 11. This year's theme is "VISITORS WELCOME!"

"This is an all-out effort by our profession to get the community to take time for a personal visit and a close look into the operation of today's nursing homes," said Richard Snow. "We can and do provide for every need of our residents except one — we can't show them that the community cares about them. Their feelings of remoteness from the mainstream of community life can be relieved only by new, outside visitors and this special week gives everyone a chance to show that the people in the community care about their neighbors in nursing homes."

"America is experiencing a dramatic rise in need for more and better health care facilities, and nursing homes are meeting that need with continuing expansion of services and facilities," (he) continued. "We want everyone to learn what our nursing home is really like, and the total care which is administered to our residents."

Quality control plays important roll in state food stamp program

Hattie Hall drives a lot of miles every year, asking complete strangers a lot of personal questions. It's part of her job, which she wouldn't trade for anything.

Ms. Hall is a food stamp quality control reviewer for the Texas State Department of Public Welfare. Quality control (QC) determines if a sample of food stamp recipients are truly eligible for the program, if they are receiving the correct allotment and if they are paying the correct amount.

QC is an evaluation system administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and operated by the states, in accordance with uniform national policies and procedures. Each state regularly reviews a statistically valid sample of non-public assistance households.

As a result, this sampling represents the "working poor" who participate in the program, and a portion of the nation's public assistance households which represents about 45 percent of the food stamp rolls. QC does not include pure public assistance households.

USDA's Food and Nutrition Service supervises both the QC program and the food stamp program.

In Texas, about 1,200 cases are required to be reviewed every six months by the 35-member food stamp QC staff. There are five QC field offices across the state — Fort Worth, Sulphur Springs, Houston, Pharr and San Antonio — each with a supervisor and six reviewers. Some reviewers are located in satellite offices, like Ms. Hall who is attached to the Fort Worth office but works out of Wichita Falls.

"Computers determine the sample using a systematic random method of selection," says Dave Peirce, who supervises the Texas food stamp QC program.

About 200 cases must be dropped from the sample occasionally. So the number of cases the staff reviews normally exceeds the required number. Reasons for dropped cases include an uncooperative recipient, death of the only household member and a recipient moving out of state. The Texas staff completed 1,232 reviews during the last six month period.

"We don't drop many cases," explains Peirce. "The clients are usually very cooperative and helpful."

Once the selections are made, cases are assigned to the appropriate QC field office. Each reviewer could work anywhere in the state but generally travels an assigned territory. Ms. Hall works from Fort Worth to the Panhandle, a distance of about 335 miles.

The QC reviewer must visit the certification office where the application was made to obtain as much information as possible from the original case file.

From there, the reviewer must visit the recipient's home. This could necessitate a trip to another town as many Texas certification offices serve large areas. As a rule, Texas reviewers give no prior notification to the recipient about the home visit, but applicants are told of the possibility during the certification process.

Many recipients are a little leery at first about the visit, so the reviewer must be diplomatic. Elderly people, though, generally are glad for the company.

"All elements of eligibility must be discussed during the interview," explains Ms. Hall. "Verifying each element involves looking at pay slips, receipts and check stubs. We need proof of the household's income and expenses."

These interviews can vary from 20 minutes to two hours, depending on such things as recipient cooperation and available documentary evidence.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Threadfin Fish Food
Every once in awhile you read in the newspapers that "Texas" Department of Parks and Wildlife has placed a quantity of Threadfin Shad in some nearby lake.

This doesn't mean much to many people, but to the angler that's great news.

Threadfin Shad are small fish that never reach a size which would make them too large to be used as forage food for game fish. Hence, placing Threadfin in any lake is like serving a family-sized dinner to emaciated youngsters. Hungry fish attack the shad with gusto, and grow fat and strong in a relatively short time.

To the angler, this means revival of the lake from a sleepy impoundment to a popular fishing facility—and the cycle continues. So, if you like to fish for big, healthy lunkers, keep your eye out for such news items—and plan to visit that lake real soon and real often with rod, reel and stringer in hand.

To Quick-Load A Reel
Loading a spool-type reel such as the Ambassador 5000 poses a problem for some people, especially if one tries to do a neat, smooth job by himself. Or does it?

It's generally considered that the transfer of line, from spool to reel, is performed much easier if one has a helper handy to hold the spool of line. This is accomplished by the aide inserting a pencil through the hole in the spool and letting the line run off smoothly onto the reel, pressing the fingers on each side of the spool to provide sufficient tension to keep the line taut.

But, being alone calls for a different procedure.

We've found it is actually easier to do the job single-handed. Besides that you can do it faster and smoother.

Here's how. Simply sit down in a straight-back chair and hold the spool on a pencil as the helper did, except between your knees, with the pencil held tight behind the knees. Add tension to the sides of the spool simply by squeezing the knees closer together.

This way you can add or release tension yourself, as you need it, or lock the spool firmly if you are tired of winding the reel handle and wish to rest a bit.

Try it next time. It really works!

IS THE CHURCH PART OF YOUR LIFE?

GETTING A NEW START

"I never want to move again!" I told a friend. Even before the moving van arrived, there were days of sorting, discarding and carefully packing the things we treasure. There were farewells and last minute errands.

Then early one morning, the huge truck came lumbering up the street, and the movers began loading beds, tables, chairs, dishes and books. After several hours, the last box was in the van, and our belongings were on their way to a new home.

A new home, new friends, new community—so many things with which to become acquainted.

The church is a fine place to get a new start—to make new friends and strike up a vital relationship with the Maker of us all.

GSPA urges override of presidential veto

LUBBOCK, TEX. — Telegrams to members of Congress from Grain Sorghum Producers Association have requested an override of President Ford's veto of the Emergency Farm Bill.

The president vetoed the farm bill May 1 after its earlier passage by a House vote of 248-166 and a strong voice vote in the Senate.

Elbert Harp, executive director of GSPA, expressed "some optimism" that Congress will override the veto.

GSPA's telegram to the House of Representatives and Senate stated that the Emergency Farm Bill was "imperative for price stability for farmers and consumers." The telegram, signed by Harp, urged Congress to help override the President's veto.

The emergency bill passed by Congress would have increased both target prices and loan rates on feed grains, wheat, cotton and milk for 1975 only, in an attempt to stabilize the agricultural economy.

"Farmers have not been so close to the brink of bankruptcy since the Great Depression," warned Mabry Foreman of Felt, Okla., a GSPA vice president testifying before a Congressional committee in a farm bill hearing.

GSPA has worked for passage of the emergency bill since its introduction through testimony before committees, letters to Congressmen and recently, a letter to the president.

Lubbock BBB's new name reflects regional nature

Following a near-unanimous vote by its members, the Better Business Bureau of Lubbock has changed its name to Better Business Bureau of the South Plains, Inc. According to Bureau president Jim Ed Waller, the change was made to reflect the regional scope of the Bureau, which serves 18 South Plains counties, including Lubbock. The change is consistent with the policy of the national council of BBB's. Of the 139 Bureaus nationwide, 71 have adopted area or regional names. Jim Eppler, Better Business Bureau of the South Plains, Inc. vice-president in charge of the Expansion Committee, joins Waller in expressing optimism that the new name will encourage South Plains residents to make better use of the BBB.

"In spite of vast new federal 'consumer protection' programs, more people each year use BBB's for consumer information and protection than all other consumer agencies combined," Eppler said.

"Locally, we're in the process of expanding telephone service throughout the area. We need support of the full membership in the 18 county service area to be effective.

We plan to contact every community soliciting memberships from businesses which believe in the free enterprise system, and prefer self policing agencies to governmental regulation."

Waller specified that all BBB's are private, non-profit corporations funded entirely by members.

"BBB's exist because the business community believes that it is best qualified to correct abuses in the marketplace," he said. "Legitimate business wants to provide all the help necessary for customers to get satisfaction for their money. That's just good business!"

Down Again, But Up Slightly... 24,000 During the Last Half Of May... Brucellosis Again in Spotlight... Earlier Reports.
Cattle on feed in Texas continue to be down about 50 per cent from a year ago. But maybe there is light at the end of the tunnel. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service at Austin notes that cattle on feed in Texas and the nation showed a slight upturn in April compared to a month ago.

In Texas as of April 1, there were 1,122,000 cattle on feed.

This is four per cent above the number on feed a month ago. But it is 49 per cent below the total a year ago.
Feedlot operators in the state reported intentions to market 700,000 cattle now through June 30. This would be 62 per cent of the total on feed as of April 1 and would be 37 per cent lower than marketed during the April to June 30 period last year.
Nationwide, cattle on feed in the 23 major feeding states are the lowest number for April in 12 years.

In the seven major feeding states — Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas — the number on feed is two per cent above a month ago, but is 37 per cent below those on feed a year ago.

CROP QUESTIONNAIRES will be mailed to 24,000 Texas farmers during the latter part of May.

They will be the basis for compiling information about Texas crops for 1975. Texas farmers, incidentally, have the reputation throughout the nation of being the most cooperative of any group in answering these questionnaires.

If you are one of those receiving the questionnaire, you are requested to fill it out as accurately as possible and return it promptly. Accurate returns are needed to get as true a picture of Texas agriculture as can be obtained.

BRUCELLOSIS ERADICATION EFFORTS are being speeded up throughout the state. The Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) notes that misunderstanding about the program is causing some difficulties.

"Most cattlemen are cooperating with the program, and they are to be commended for that," Dr. H.Q. Sibley, executive director of the TAHC, said.

If you have a question about the program, you can get the correct answer to it by contacting the Texas Animal Health Commission in Austin or TAHC field veterinarians.

The state-federal program was begun in 1934 on a voluntary basis to eliminate the disease. Since 1954, regulations have evolved into a system which includes testing cattle to find infection and sending infected animals to slaughter. Only about one per cent of the nation's cattle population is infected with brucellosis.

CROP REPORTS OF ACREAGES planted by farmers for most crops will be released earlier this year than in past years. The reports are usually released in July, but the Statistical Reporting Service says it will now release acres to be harvested in June.

The planted acreage and acres for harvest estimates to be released June 30 will be based on surveys as of June 1. The report will include a acreages of feed grains, food grains, oilseeds, hay, and other crops which in previous years were included in the July crop production report.

MR. AND MRS. DOYLE WEBB announce the engagement of their daughter, Malinda, to Bobby Joe Rector, USAF, Brooks AFB, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rector of Lubbock. Miss Webb is a senior student at Morton High School. The couple is planning a June 6 wedding in the First United Methodist Church in Morton. Friends and relatives are invited to attend the 7 p.m. ceremony.

Jaclyn Claye

has her say

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: Your recent tirade against communal living was largely based on ignorance. We are six families living together and sharing the work and wonders of a 900 acre farm. To dispel your belief that people who prefer to live this way are trying to avoid the realities of life, let me tell you that we are a hard working group and productive too. We pay our taxes and our mortgage and after our fourth year here, we have $30,000 in our communal kitty. So cut out the unfounded criticism. COMMUNE No. THREE.

DEAR COMMUNE No. THREE: It is really very simple. You aren't living in a commune, you are operating a cooperative. And that kind of thing has been going on in the Western states, for decades now.

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: I just don't want to be married anymore. I'm just plain tired. And it just breaks my heart not to care about the house that I have lived in for thirty years now; in which I raised my children and cleaned and scrubbed so lovingly. I walk around like a zombie. My husband doesn't really notice my attitude and when he does he just thinks I'm just in one of my moods. My life is slowly falling apart like a slow motion camera or those slow instant replays that you see on football games on television. I wonder if a lot of women feel this way. Just sign me, DEPRESSED.

DEAR DEPRESSED: Truthfully, I have never been more pleased to respond to a letter in my life. There is plenty of hope and your problem is not uncommon. You sound like a warm, sensitive person and that's the reason for my optimism. There is plenty of help available and it all starts with a visit to your family physician. Or perhaps it might be better to see a doctor whom you don't know, in order to start afresh. At any rate, see a physician, and be as honest with him as you have been with me, in this letter.

DEAR JACLYN CLAYE: I want you to print this letter because I am sure it will concern many of those families who read your column. It involves our 16 year old son whom we have tried to raise in a decent manner. However, a few weeks ago he brought humiliation to himself and his family: he was involved with the shoplifting of a simple long play record and it was from a store that chose to prosecute. He had to appear in court and the news spread throughout our neighborhood, like wildfire. Really Jaclyn, it was only a small theft and his first mistake, but the punishment that we have all taken in humiliation alone, is not equal to the crime. I really wish that the store managers will bear in mind that they are responsible for a great deal of pain when they choose to prosecute a youngster for such petty theft. Signed, JUST A MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: There is no such thing as "petty" theft. Small theft leads to large thievery. You can be pleased that your son was caught and punished, early in the game. If he has any intelligence, he will now realize that society will lash back at those who choose to threaten it. I regret your humiliation, but I congratulate the store.

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Congressman George Mahon put it well when he said curtailment of natural gas for irrigation on the High Plains "would have a devastating impact on our highly irrigated agricultural area."

The Lubbock lawmaker, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is working with Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Plains Gas Users Association and others toward restoring natural gas for irrigation purpose to a No. 2 priority.

On December 19 of last year the Federal Power Commission issued its "Opinion 697-A" which lowered irrigation natural gas to

BANANAS AND REAL VANILLA, A SWEET TEAM

Well-ripened bananas, flecked with brown, taste even sweeter when flavored with pure vanilla extract and can be used as the base of some low-sugar, and healthful desserts.

A Vanilla Banana Whip is delicious. Put 3 peeled sliced bananas of medium size in the small bowl of an electric mixer. Add 3 unbeaten egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract and beat until stiff. Fold in ½ cup heavy cream, whipped. Spoon into 6 deep sherbet glasses. If desired, each glass may be lined with 3 lady fingers.

Vanilla Ambrosia requires very little sugar and is an excellent dessert. Peel 4 thoroughly ripe bananas with brown flecks. Cut in half lengthwise, then across to make quarters. Place, cut-side down, in 11½ x 7½-inch baking pan. Top with 2 peeled and sectioned oranges and set aside. Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine and stir in 3 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar, 1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Pour over fruit and sprinkle ½ cup flaked coconut over all. Bake, uncovered, 12 minutes in a moderate oven and serve warm.

a No. 3 industrial priority behind domestic and commercial uses. In a letter to 19th Congressional District constituents, Mahon referred to the FPC action as "intolerable" and said "I have been in contact with FPC officials on numerous occasions urging them to provide information on appropriate procedures for people in our area to seek some type of relief..."

The FPC has denied formal motions for a reconsideration of the ruling but did agree to hold a hearing before an administrative examiner to investigate certain questions arising out of the decision. It has also granted requests for field hearings in Lubbock, Albuquerque and Phoenix.

Field hearings tentatively are scheduled to begin in Lubbock the week of May 12 and will be conducted for two days in each location. Specifically, the two areas to be treated in hearings are (1) whether natural gas used for irrigation purposes is a processed gas and should be appropriately placed in commercial priority No. 2 and (2) to consider petitions for extraordinary relief which would exempt from curtailment farmers drastically affected by the ruling. A large amount of testimony is expected to be presented for the hearing record in Lubbock as evidence of the "devastating impact" referred to by Mahon.

A resolution opposing the FPC opinion, passed by the PCG Board of Directors at its last meeting April 9, was sent to each member of the FPC and to members of the Texas delegation in Congress.

It urged a reversal of the FPC decision, calling attention to the 50,000 gas-powered irrigation wells in the Panhandle-South Plains area; the fact that many of the underground pipelines serving these wells were paid for by farmers; that no other fuel or fuel distribution system is available to power irrigation engines, and that it would not be economically feasible to use an alternate fuel even if available.

"The irrigation belt in the Panhandle-South Plains of Texas produces an astronomical amount of food and fiber which could not and would not be produced but for irrigation and the use of natural gas as a fuel to power irrigation engines," the resolution stated, and concluded that "it is imperative that irrigation gas be restored to a

No. 2 priority so that farmers in the area may continue to irrigate their lands."

GAIL ALBUS

Morton, Pep girls receive SPC honors

Recipient of the 1975 Presidential Award for Student of the Year at South Plains College is Gail Albus of Pep.

Gail was presented with an engraved plaque by Dr. Marvin Baker, SPC president, at the annual Student Activities Banquet Wednesday, April 30 at SPC. Gail, a secretarial science major, is a candidate for graduation May 9 from the college with an associate degree in applied science.

In addition to the Student of the Year award, she received certificates for membership in the Student Senate, as an Outstanding Student Government Leader and as a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges. Gail is the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Albus of Pep.

She is serving as president of the Office Education Association and is co-chairman of the Campus Relations and Civic Affairs Committee of student government, recorder for the Judicial Council and a member of the Yearbook and Handbook Committee. She also has been on the Dean's Honor List for three semesters and is employed in the Registrar's office under the work-study program. Gail also is a member of the Newman Club.

Becky Owens of Whiteface is president-elect of the SPC student body. She was also recognized for her work as a presidential hostess during the school year.

Decorating Ideas QUICK AND EASY

This bright and inviting party room sets up in minutes, with Cooco's colorful "Hot Seat" folding chairs and matching tables. The bold blue-yellow and green scheme is carried out with striped blinds, plant carpet and lots of fresh plants. Accommodating twelve for a sit-down dinner, served from the buffet cart, the setting clears off easily for an evening of back-gammon (or your favorite indoor game). And when the party's over, everything folds flat to store in a closet.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

Jobs for Kids?

Although the school vacation season has not yet started, there is already national concern about summer jobs for kids.

It is rather a wry commentary that many of the Congressmen who are most concerned about this summer problem also voted to raise the minimum wage despite the evidence presented by the National Federation of Independent Business that this action would reduce youth employment opportunities.

But an even greater threat to employment is raised by the plans, ideas, or whatever one wishes to call them, to reduce the use of motor fuels.

During World War II the emphasis was on war production with consumer goods held down. In addition, through restraints on credit, war bond savings plans, and other factors, at the end of the war in 1945 there was a great pent up demand for consumer goods.

In fact, this pent up demand, plus accumulated savings, did a great deal to offset the hordes of job seekers that returned from the armed forces, as well as those who had been working in the war.

Actually, before the pipelines were filled, the Korean War came along.

At the end of this conflict the emerging boom of the television industry created more employment. This, combined with the needs of the new young families started at the end of World War II kept the momentum going until around 1960, when the big recreation boom started.

Recreation, of course, depends on a mobile people who can get from place to place. It would not take too great a decrease in mobility to bring the unemployment rate up to 10 per cent.

It would be most difficult if not downright impossible, to arrive at even a ballpark estimate of how many jobs are dependent on recreation, as dishwashers, as maids, cooks, service station attendants, sporting goods sales people, auto repairmen, plus all the people who make the equipment and clothing that is used in recreation from fish hooks to outboard motors, tents, trailers, and mobile homes.

The big danger to this vast employment will be the current Congressional concern with the poor folks. But judging by recent actions, it is entirely possible that an attitude may develop that because most poor folks cannot indulge in recreation, the recreational industry should be given low priority, overlooking this industry gives the poor folks their best opportunities for jobs.
